In entering judgment in a cause wherein property has been attached pending the litigation, the correct practice is to have the lien by virtue of the attachment expressly preserved in the judgment, and the property levied upon made subject to the execution to be issued thereon by express direction: Sheppard v. Guisler, 10 Wash. 41.

The lien of an attachment is continuous from the moment of a levy until sale on execution: Sheppard v. Guisler, 10 Wash. 41; Van De Vanter v. Davis, 23 Wash. 693.

The lien of an attachment of real estate is merged in that of the judgment when the latter is entered: Gullickson v. Fenlon, 48 Wash. 503.

The necessary expenses incurred by the sheriff in caring for attached property by plaintiff's direction, pending litigation, are a proper charge against plaintiff, and may be retained out of the proceeds of sale: Barnett v. O'Loughlin, 8 Wash. 260.

Where an attaching creditor in a foreign jurisdiction also files his claim with the assignee of his debtor, the amount received by means of the attachment ought to be deducted from the claim as filed with the assignee, and the balance treated as the true amount of the indebtedness: Neufelder v. North British etc. Ins. Co., 10 Wash. 393.

An attachment sale is not invalidated by a failure to give notice to a mortgagee of the property sold: Byrd v. Forbes, 3 W. T. 318.

Where an attachment has been levied upon the goods of a debtor and a sale has been made thereof under order of court, the title to the goods passes to the purchaser at such sale, although the levy made may have been excessive and the debtor may have made a sale of such goods between the time of the levy and the judicial sale: McConnell v. Kaufman, 5 Wash. 686.

Under the statutes of this state, it is unnecessary that the judgment in an attachment suit should direct a foreclosure of the lien and a sale of the property attached, where personal service was had upon the defendant: Pa. Mtg. etc. Co. v. Gilbert, 13 Wash. 684.

The proceeds of goods directed to be sold under attachment levies should be applied on the claims of attaching creditors in the order of their levy, and not pro rata: Bradley v. Gotzian, 12 Wash. 71.

Title acquired by an execution creditor under his own attachment levy and sale will not prevail over a prior unrecorded deed: Hacker v. White, 22 Wash. 415; Rohrer v. Snyder, 29 Wash. 199.

§ 668. (5371.) Collection When Property Attached Insufficient—Surplus.

If, after selling all the property attached by him remaining in his hands, and applying the proceeds, deducting his fees, to the payment of the judgment, any balance shall remain due, the sheriff shall proceed to collect such balance as upon an execution in other cases. Whenever the judgment shall have been paid, the sheriff, upon reasonable demand, shall deliver over to the defendant the attached property remaining in his hands and any proceeds of the property attached unapplied on the judgment. [L. '86, p. 44, § 26; 2 H. C., § 313.]

See references to § 647.

See note to § 659, omission of portion of section explained.

Cited in 23 Wash. 697.

§ 669. (5372.) Procedure in Case Execution Returned Unsatisfied.

If the execution be returned unsatisfied, in whole or in part, the plaintiff may proceed as in other cases upon the return of an execution. [L. '86, p. 45, § 27; 2 H. C., § 314.]

See references to § 647.

§ 670. (5373.) Judgment for Defendant, Effect of.

If the defendant recover judgment against the plaintiff, all the proceeds of sales and money collected by the sheriff, and all the property attached remaining in the sheriff's hands, shall be delivered to the defendant or his agent. The order of attachment shall be discharged, and the property released therefrom. [L. '86, p. 45, § 28; 2 H. C., § 315.]

See references to § 647.

Cited in 23 Wash. 697.

§ 671. (5374.) Discharge of Attachment on Counter Bond.

If the defendant, at any time before judgment, causes a bond to be executed to the plaintiff with sufficient sureties, to be approved by the officer having the attachment, or after the return thereof, by the clerk, to the effect that he will perform the judgment of the court, the attachment shall be discharged and restitution made of property taken or proceeds thereof. The execution of such bond shall be deemed an appearance of such defendant to the action. [L. '86, p. 45, § 29; 2 H. C., § 316.]

See references to § 647.

Cited in 1 Wash. 463; 2 Wash. 151; 37 Wash. 485, 487-489.

As to discharge of attachment on counter bond, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 309, § 42.

If defendant gives bond, and obtains a release of attached property (Laws of 1860, § 140), judgment given against him may, at the same time, be rendered against his sureties: Rodolph v. Mayer, 1 W. T. 133.

After the discharge by bond there can be no discharge for irregularity: Brady v. Onffroy, 37 Wash. 482.

It is intimated in Rohrer v. Snyder, 29 Wash. 199, that the pendency of an action to foreclose a mortgage is ground for the dissolution of an attachment for the recovery of the same debt.

§ 672. (5375.) Judgment on Bond.

Such bond shall be part of the record, and if judgment go against the defendant, the same shall be entered against him and sureties. [L. '86, p. 45, § 30; 2 H. C., § 317.]

See references to § 647.

Cited in 37 Wash. 485, 488.
Judgment against the sureties upon a forthcoming bond in an action wherein an attachment is levied is authorized by this section, without notice to him: Park v. Mighell, 3 Wash. 737. See Rodolph v. Mayer, 1 W. T. 133.

§ 673. (5376.) Motion to Discharge Attachment.

The defendant may at any time after he has appeared in the action, either before or after the release of the attached property, or before any attachment shall have been actually levied, apply on motion, upon reasonable notice to the plaintiff, to the court in which the action is brought, or to the judge thereof, that the writ of attachment be discharged on the ground that the same was improperly or irregularly issued. [L. '86, p. 45, § 31; 2 H. C., § 318.]

Quashing or vacating attachment: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 306-310, §§ 33-45.

A defendant, in order to move for a dissolution of an attachment, must appear and answer: Rodolph v. Mayer, 1 W. T. 133; Holman v. Cooper, 48 Wash. 24.

A motion to discharge is addressed to the court, and does not contemplate the interposition of a jury: Windt v. Banniza, 2 Wash. 147; Gehres v. Orłowski, 36 Wash. 156.

When the motion to discharge is made upon affidavits, the same may be opposed by counter-affidavits or oral testimony, but the defendant has no right in the first instance to introduce testimony in support of his motion other than by affidavits: Windt v. Banniza, supra; modifying Hanson v. Doherty, 1 Wash. 461.

A motion to discharge on the ground of the insufficiency of plaintiff's affidavit for the writ should point out explicitly the nature of the insufficiency: Windt v. Banniza, supra.

Compromising an attachment suit for less than was sued for is not evidence that the attachment was fraudulent as to other creditors: Alexander v. Hemrich, 4 Wash. 727; nor is an effort by the parties to prevent the issuance of an attachment becoming known evidence of fraud: Id.

As to grounds for quashing, vacating or dissolving, see Alexander v. Hemrich, 4 Wash. 727; Carter v. Davis, 6 Wash. 327; Zelinsky v. Price, 8 Wash. 256; Rohrer v. Snyder, 29 Wash. 199.

A motion to dissolve an attachment upon the ground that the property attached was exempt is not warranted under this section: Holman v. Cooper, 48 Wash. 24.

Where, prior to the rendition of final judgment in a case in which an attachment had been issued, a motion to dissolve has been made, and, after a full hearing upon affidavits, denied, it is error for the trial court to entertain another motion to dissolve the attachment: Sheppard v. Griesler, 10 Wash. 41.

A motion to dissolve an attachment should not be decided upon facts which have been made to appear in another action, without making them a part of the record in the attachment action: Id.

As to issues and questions considered, and burden of proof on motion to discharge, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 308, § 39; Bender v. Rinker, 21 Wash. 633; Sheppard v. Guisler, 10 Wash. 41; Bingham v. Keylor, 25 Wash. 156; Hanson v. Tompkins, 2 Wash. 508; Cox v. Dawson, 2 Wash. 381; Blackington v. Rumpf, 12 Wash. 279.

Under the amendment of the assignment law of March 10, 1893 (§ 1086, infra), an attachment lien is not discharged by the subsequent filing of a general assignment by the debtor: Bierer v. Blurock, 9 Wash. 63.

Under § 2022 of the Code of 1881, after the court, in insolvency cases, orders the proceedings stayed against a debtor, it has no authority to set aside the stay or allow attachment proceedings commenced: Traders' Bank v. Van Wagenen, 2 Wash. 172.

An attaching creditor, under § 1997 of the Code of 1881, may, although his attachment has been dissolved by a general assignment, intervene in an action to foreclose a mortgage upon the assigned property for the purpose of having the mortgage declared invalid as against him: Ephraim v. Kelleher, 4 Wash. 243.

Error in overruling a motion to dissolve an attachment, and continuing the lien by judgment, is harmless, if the judgment in the main action is right and the goods attached would have been subject to execution upon the judgment: Turpin v. Whitney, 6 Wash. 61. See Williams v. Miller, 1 W. T. 88.

The fact that one of several attaching creditors of an assignor in insolvency prosents his claim to the assignee does not affect the remaining attaching creditors: Neufelder v. Ger. Am. Ins. Co., 6 Wash. 336, 341.

A confession of judgment by a defendant in an attachment suit does not, under our statute, operate to discharge the attachment lien: Schloss v. State Bank, 4 Wash. 726.

Although a complaint be improperly dismissed, a writ of attachment founded thereon falls, but is restored when an appeal is perfected from the erroneous decision: Renton v. St. Louis, 1 W. T. 215. A transfer, in good faith, of attached property, during this interval, is valid: Id.

Effect of dissolution: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 309, § 44; Dixon v. Barnett, 3 Wash. 645; Ephraim v. Kelleher, 4 Wash. 243; Sloan v. Langert, 6 Wash. 26; Penna. Mtg. Inv. Co. v. Gilbert, 18 Wash. 667; Auger v. Foresman, 23 Wash. 595; Bingham v. Keylor, 25 Wash. 156; Brady v. Onffroy, 37 Wash. 482; Carstens v. Milo, 40 Wash. 335.

An order discharging an attachment held to be final and appealable, under Laws of 1873, § 189: Sufferin v. Chisholm, 1 W. T. 486; but not under Laws of 1890, pp. 333-336; Windt v. Banniza, supra.

When the appeal record shows that defendants in attachment retook possession of the attached property on a forthcoming bond, the refusal of the lower court to dissolve the attachment on their motion will not be considered by the supreme court, excepting as affecting costs, and not then when no error in that particular has been assigned: Kratz v. Dawson, 3 W. T. 100.

The fact that an order of court is made refusing to dissolve an attachment under this section does not establish the validity of such attachment as against creditors, but it may be attacked by the receiver: Compton v. Schwabacher Bros. & Co., 15 Wash. 306.

An attachment levied upon the property of an insolvent corporation by a creditor having knowledge of its condition may be set aside, although insolvency proceedings had not been instituted, under the rule in this state constituting the assets of an insolvent corporation a trust fund for the benefit of all its creditors: Id.

An attachment creditor who withholds possession from a receiver of the property of an insolvent corporation, which had been obtained by attachment levy, is not entitled to recover costs paid to the sheriff for the care and custody of the property levied on, including rent of the premises where the property had been kept, in an action instituted by the receiver to dissolve the attachment: Id.

An order dissolving an attachment against a corporation will not be disturbed on appeal when the record does not show what the evidence was before the court: Washington Liquor Co. v. Alladio Cafe Co., 28 Wash. 176.

Upon dissolution of an attachment, the court need not enter a finding that there was reasonable ground for the attachment, the same being immaterial in such action: Hendelman v. Kahan, 48 Wash. 549.

§ 674. (5377.) Hearing of Motion to Discharge—Affidavits.

If the motion be made upon affidavits upon the part of the defendant, but not otherwise, the plaintiff may oppose the same by affidavits or other evidence in addition to those on which the attachment was issued. [L. '86, p. 45, § 32; 2 H. C., § 319.]

See references to § 647.

See notes to last section.

Cited in 1 Wash. 463; 2 Wash. 151.

See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 308, § 39; Gehres v. Orlowski, 36 Wash. 156. Affidavits used on the hearing of a motion to discharge an attachment are not part of the record and can only be made so by a statement or bill of exceptions: Windt v. Banniza, 2 Wash. 147.

An attachment may be dissolved on motion and affidavit of but one of several defendants: Id.

An affidavit in attachment alleging that "defendant is about to assign, secrete and dispose of his property, with intent to delay and defraud his creditors," and an affidavit on a motion to discharge, averring that defendant "is not about to assign, secrete and dispose of his property, etc.," admits that defendant is about to do any one of the acts mentioned: Hanson v. Doherty, 1 Wash. 461.

§ 675. (5378.) Discharge of Writ.

If upon application it satisfactorily appears that the writ of attachment was improperly or irregularly issued, it must be discharged. [L. '86, p. 45, § 33; 2 H. C., § 320.]

See references to § 647.

If an attachment has been dissolved, the sheriff's right of possession ceases, and a subsequent levy will not create a lien where there is a bona fide sale prior to actual levy under a second writ: Anderson v. Land, 5 Wash. 493.

Where property was attached, but before judgment the action was dismissed by plaintiff, and a chattel mortgage taken and foreclosed thereon, the fact that certain labor claim notices under § 1206, infra, were served in the original action, will not give such claimants a cause of action against the mortgagee: Wells v. Columbia Nat. Bank, 6 Wash. 621.

An order of dissolution made after two levies have been made on the same property dissolves the lien of both, unless it clearly appears that the order of dissolution was limited to one of the writs: Pennsylvania Mtg. Inv. Co. v. Gilbert, 18 Wash. 667.

In an action for wrongful attachment, final judgment of the defendant in the attachment suit is conclusive evidence that the attachment was wrongful: McGill v. Fuller & Co., 45 Wash. 615.

§ 676. (5379.) Return of Sheriff.

The sheriff must return the writ of attachment with the summons, if issued at the same time, otherwise, within twenty days after its receipt, with a certificate of his proceedings indorsed thereon or attached thereto, and whenever an order has been made discharging or releasing an attachment upon real property, a certified copy of such order may be filed in the offices of the county auditors in which the notices of attachment have been filed, and be indexed in like manner. [L. '86, p. 45, § 34; 2 H. C., § 321.]

See references to § 647.

See supra, § 666, return of inventory.

A defective return may be amended: See notes to next section.

§ 677. (5380.) Liberal Construction—Amendments.

This chapter shall be liberally construed, and the plaintiff, at any time when objection is made thereto, shall be permitted to amend any defect in the complaint, affidavit, bond, writ, or other proceeding; and no attachment shall be quashed or dismissed, or the property attached released, if the defect in any of the proceedings has been or can be amended so as to show that a legal cause for the attachment existed at the time it was issued, and the court shall give the plaintiff a reasonable time to perfect such defective proceedings. The causes for attachment shall not be stated in the alternative. [L. '86, p. 46, § 35; 2 H. C., § 322.]

See references to § 647.

See supra, § 144, code to be liberally construed.

See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 303, § 15.

A defective affidavit for attachment is not cause for disturbing a judgment; such affidavit may be cured by a supplemental affidavit: Nesqually M. Co. v. Taylor, 1 W. T. 1. But a supplemental affidavit filed after an appeal is taken should be stricken: Brandenstein v. Way, 17 Wash. 293.

Although the sheriff's return in attachment is not accompanied by an inventory of the attached property, subsequent attaching creditors are not entitled to priority over the defective attachment; their only remedy being to compel an amendment: Fleischner v. P. P. Tel. Cable Co. (Wash.), 55 Fed. 738.

The dissolution of an attachment on one ground is not res judicata when a new affidavit sets up an entirely different ground for the writ: Bingham v. Keylor, 25 Wash. 156. See further, Brady v. Onffroy, 37 Wash. 482; Carstens v. Milo, 40 Wash. 335.

§ 678. (5381.) Power of Judge at Chambers.

The judge of any superior court shall have power to make every order which, by the provisions of this chapter, may be made by the court. [L. '86, p. 46, § 36; 2 H. C., § 323.]

§ 679. (5382.) Sheriff, Defined—Proceedings in Justices' Courts.

The word "sheriff," as used in this chapter, is meant to apply to constables, when the proceedings are in a justice's court; and when the proceedings are in a justice's court, the justice is to be regarded as the clerk of the court for all purposes herein contemplated: Provided, that nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to confer upon a justice of the peace power to issue a writ of attachment to be served out of the county in which such justice shall have his office, or to confer upon a sheriff, constable, or other officer power or authority to serve a writ of attachment issued out of justice's court beyond the limits of the county in which such justice shall have his office, except in cases provided for in section 658. And provided further, that nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed or held to authorize the attachment of real estate, or of any interest therein, under a writ of attachment issued out of any justice's court. [L. '86, p. 46, § 37; 2 H. C., § 324.]

See supra, § 44, subd. 8, jurisdiction of justices of the peace in attachments.

See supra, § 647, note.

CHAPTER II.

GARNISHMENTS.

§ 680. (5390.) Writ, Grounds for Issuance of.

The clerks of the superior courts in the various counties in the state may issue writs of garnishment returnable to their respective courts in the following cases:—

1. Where an original attachment has been issued in accordance with the statutes in relation to attachments;

2. Where the plaintiff sues for a debt and makes affidavit that such debt is just, due and unpaid, and that the garnishment applied for is not sued out to injure either the defendant or the garnishee;

3. Where the plaintiff has a judgment wholly or partially unsatisfied in the court from which he seeks to have a writ of garnishment issued. [L. '93, p. 95, § 1.]

For former laws on the subject of garnishment, see 2 Hill's Code, §§ 497, 498, and notes to §§ 647 and 659, supra.

See notes to § 578.

See supra, § 665, attachment of money in court.

See supra, § 613, proceedings supplemental to execution.

See infra, § 1807, garnishment in justice's court.

See notes to § 3720, infra.

Cited in 8 Wash. 537; 10 Wash. 162; 16 Wash. 127; 17 Wash. 369; 30 Wash. 273.

Where a fire insurance company has been garnished in another state upon its indebtedness to a citizen in this state upon its policy of insurance, such fact is a good defense to an action in this state against the corporation: Neufelder v. German etc. Ins. Co., 6 Wash. 336.

As to nature of and grounds for garnishment, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1322, §§ 1-4; Timm v. Stegman, 6 Wash. 13; Gaffney v. McGrath, 23 Wash. 476.

The requirement of § 182, Code of 1881, that the garnishee shall appear and be examined does not create an adversary proceeding, but is simply a method of probing his conscience, and unless on the hearing he admits having possession of the defendant's property, the court has no jurisdiction to compel him to turn it over: Coombs v. Davis, 2 W. T. 466; Weisbach v. Arnold, 3 W. T. 111; but if he claim a lien upon the property, he can only be required to turn it over to the sheriff until such lien is satisfied: Coombs v. Davis, supra.

A garnishment proceeding is subsidiary to and dependent upon the main suit: Kelly v. Ryan, 8 Wash. 536; Seattle Trust Co. v. Pitner, 17 Wash. 365; Title Guarantee & Trust Co. v. Seattle Theater Co., 23 Wash. 517; Tatum v. Geist, 40 Wash. 575.

Garnishment or attachment is the only remedy of creditors of a vendor of a stock of goods in bulk as against a vendee who does not comply with the statute in regard to demanding a list of vendor's creditors: Rothschild Bros. v. Trewella, 36 Wash. 679. See Kohn v. Fishbach, 36 Wash. 69; Holford v. Trewella, 36 Wash. 654.

§ 681. (5391.) Bond to be Executed, When.

In the case mentioned in subdivision two of the preceding section the plaintiff shall execute a bond with two or more good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the clerk issuing the writ, payable to the defendant in the suit, in double the amount of the debt claimed therein, conditioned that he will prosecute his suit and pay all damages and costs that may be adjudged against him for wrongfully suing out such garnishment. [L. '93, p. 95, § 2.]

§ 682. (5392.) Application for—Affidavit.

Before the issuance of the writ of garnishment the plaintiff or some one in his behalf shall make application therefor by affidavit, stating the facts authorizing the issuance of the writ, and that the plaintiff has reason to believe, and does believe, that the garnishee, stating his name and residence, is indebted to the defendant, or that he has in his possession, or under his control, personal property or effects belonging to the defendant, or that the garnishee is an incorporated or joint stock company, and that the defendant is the owner of shares in such company or has an interest therein. [L. '93, p. 95, § 3.]

Persons and property subject to garnishment: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1323, §§ 5-22; Dittenhoefer v. Coeur d'Alene Clo. Co., 4 Wash. 519; Neufelder v. German-American Ins. Co., 6 Wash. 336; State ex rel. Summerfield v. Tyler, 14 Wash. 494; Flood v. Libby, 38 Wash. 366; Drake v. Catlin, 18 Wash. 316; Hardin v. White Swan Min. & Mill. Co., 26 Wash. 583; Coombs v. Davis, 2 W. T. 466; Weisbach v. Arnold, 3 W. T. 111; Millar & Co. v. Plass, 11 Wash. 237; McAlmond v. Bevington, 23 Wash. 315; Pierce v. Commercial Inv. Co., 30 Wash. 272; Russell v. Millet, 20 Wash. 212; Smith v. Cullen, 18 Wash. 398; Merwin v. Fowler, 20 Wash. 587.

A county cannot be garnished when not liable to an action by the principal defendant, as the claim is not subject to presentation for allowance or rejection: Eureka Sandstone Co. v. Pierce County, 8 Wash. 236.

Funds deposited by public officer in bank in his individual name belong, in equity, to the municipal corporation of which he is an officer, and cannot be garnished at suit of his individual creditors: Marx v. Parker, 9 Wash. 473.

The fact that a custodian of city funds must give a bond for their proper disposition does not thereby constitute him a mere debtor to the city therefor, but he is the bailee, subject to special obligations; and such funds, when deposited in bank by him, are not subject to garnishment at suit of judgment creditor: Id.; cited in Fairchild v. Hedges, 14 Wash. 121.

Where a bank summoned as garnishee sets up in its answer that it has money deposited by the judgment defendant, but that it has been collected and deposited by defendant as city marshal, and that all sums held in defendant's name by garnishee belong to the city, it is error for the court, of its own motion, to require the city to appear therein as intervener: Marx v. Parker, supra.

School warrants issued for the salary of teachers cannot be reached by proceedings supplemental to execution, since their seizure would in effect involve a garnishment of a municipal corporation, which cannot be done: Flood v. Libby, 38 Wash. 366.

As to property in safe deposit vaults, see Trowbridge v. Spinning, 23 Wash. 48.

A draft is property and subject to garnishment within the meaning of the garnishment law: Washington Brick etc. Co. v. Traders' Nat. Bank, 46 Wash. 23.

The drawing of checks upon a general deposit in a bank, prior to garnishment of the drawer's account, does not exempt an amount equal to such checks, when the latter are not prepared until after the service of the writ in garnishment: Commercial Bank v. Chilberg, 14 Wash. 247.

The superior court has no authority in a garnishment proceeding to make an order directing that a person not regularly served shall be made a party defendant, although it may appear from the answer or examination of the garnishee that such person is a necessary party: State v. Su- perior Court, 15 Wash. 500; Moore v. Gilmore, 16 Wash. 123.

A county is not liable to garnishment unless made so by express statutory provision: State v. Tyler, 14 Wash. 495; and the fact that corporations are named by statute as among those upon whom process in garnishment may be served does not apply to municipal corporations, unless they are expressly included: Id.

A judgment against a county as garnishee defendant is void on collateral attack, when the statutes do not make a county subject to garnishee process: Id.

Money due under an insurance policy for the loss of property by fire is not exempt from garnishment, if it is not made to appear by pleading and proof that the property itself was exempt from execution: Wilson v. McLachlan, 12 Wash. 154; distinguishing P. S. D. B. & P. Co. v. Jeffs, 11 Wash. 466.

A trespasser in possession of another's goods cannot be charged as garnishee of the owner: Wooding v. Puget Sound Nat. Bank, 11 Wash. 527.

Proceedings against garnishees should be prosecuted by the creditor with reasonable diligence; and the failure of a creditor to prosecute his claim for a period of two years after service of the writ is sufficient to defeat his rights thereunder: Id.

Where a law giving a right to garnishment proceedings has been repealed subsequent to the commencement thereof, and the repealing act contains no saving clause, the effect of the repeal is to quash pending proceedings: Id.

Where a draft is deposited with a bank which has a rule that in receiving collections it acted only as agent and assumed no responsibility beyond due diligence, the depositor receiving credit for the amount of the draft, but if the draft was not paid the amount was charged back, the ownership of the draft remains in the depositor, although he was allowed to check against it, as that was simply an accommodation extended; and upon garnishee process against the bank in an action against the depositor, it is properly found that, pending collection, an accepted draft deposited by the defendant is property of the defendant in possession of the garnishee: Washington Brick Lime & Mfg. Co. v. Traders' National Bank, 46 Wash. 23.

§ 683. (5393.) Writ, When and How Issued.

When the foregoing requisites have been complied with the clerk shall docket the case in the name of the plaintiff as plaintiff and of the garnishee as defendant, and shall immediately issue a writ of garnishment directed to the garnishee, commanding him to appear before the court from which it is issued within twenty days after the service of the writ upon him, if the same be served upon him within the county in which the same is issued, or within thirty days if served in any other county in this state, and to answer on oath what, if anything, he is indebted to the defendant, and was when such writ was served, and what personal property or effects, if any, of the defendant he has in his possession or under his control, or had when such writ was served. [L. '93, p. 96, § 4.]

§ 684. (5394.) Writ Against Incorporated Companies, How Served.

Where it appears from the plaintiff's affidavit that the garnishee is an incorporated or joint stock company, in which the defendant is the owner of shares, or is interested therein, the writ of garnishment shall further require the garnishee to answer upon oath what number of shares, if any, the defendant owns in such company, or owned when such writ was served. [L. '93, p. 96, § 5.]

§ 685. (5395.) Writ, Form of.

Said writ may be substantially in the following form:—

State of Washington, to A B, Greeting:

Whereas, in the superior court of the state of Washington, in and for ——— county, in a certain cause wherein C D is plaintiff and E F is defendant, the plaintiff claiming an indebtedness against the said E F of — dollars, besides interest and cost of suit, has applied for a writ of garnishment against you:

Now, therefore, you are hereby commanded to be and appear before the said court within twenty days after the service upon you of this writ, if served within — county, and within thirty days after the service of this writ upon you if served in any other county of this state, then and there to answer upon oath what, if anything, you are indebted to the said E F, and were when this writ was served upon you, and what effects, if any, of the said E F you have in your possession or under your control, and had when this writ was served (and if the garnishee be an incorporated or joint stock company, in which the defendant is alleged to be the owner of shares, or interested therein, then the writ shall proceed; and further, to answer what number of shares, if any the said E F owns in such company, and owned when this writ was served upon you). [L. '93, p. 96, § 6.]

§ 686. (5396.*) Dating and Attestation.

The writ of garnishment shall be dated and tested [attested] in like manner as the writ of attachment and the name and office address of the plaintiff's attorney shall be indorsed thereon or in case the plaintiff has no attorney, then the name and address of the plaintiff shall be indorsed thereon and delivered by the clerk who issues it to the plaintiff or his attorney. [L. '93, p. 97, § 7; L. '03, p. 91, § 1.]

The writ of garnishment may be served by the sheriff or any constable of the county in which the garnishee lives or it may be served by any citizen of the state of Washington over the age of twenty-one years and not a party to the action in which it is issued in the same manner as a summons in an action is served. And in case such writ is served by an officer, such officer shall make his return thereon showing the time, place and manner of service and noting thereon his fees for making such service and shall sign his name to such return. In case such service is made by any person other than an officer, such person shall attach to the original writ his affidavit showing his qualifications to make such service and the time, place and manner of making service, but no fee shall be allowed for the service of such writ unless the same is served by an officer. [L. '93, p. 97, § 8; L. '03, p. 91, § 2.]

Notice of garnishment, under § 2722 of 1 Hill's Code, must be served personally upon the attorney of a foreign insurance company, but where the notice is left with a third person in the attorney's office, while he is absent from the state, his subsequent answer in the proceedings will uphold jurisdiction: Dittenhoefer v. Clothing Co., 4 Wash. 519. Where there is a void service of a writ of garnishment, the invalidity of which is subsequently cured by an appearance, and in the meanwhile other writs are served, such other writs take precedence and are a first lien: Id. Where sheriff is a party, service of the writ may be made upon him by a private party: See Russell v. Millett, 20 Wash. 212.

The court acquires jurisdiction of non-resident defendants on service of summons by publication and the garnishment of assigned claims, where the assignment was not completed by delivery and acceptance before the issuance of the garnishment: Nixon v. Hendy Machine Works, 51 Wash. 419.

§ 688. (5398.) Effect of Service.

From and after the service of such writ of garnishment, it shall not be lawful for the garnishee to pay to the defendant any debt or to deliver to him any effects, nor shall the garnishee if an incorporated or joint stock company, in which the defendant is alleged to be the owner of shares or to have an interest, permit or recognize any sale or transfer of such shares or interest; and any such payment, delivery, sale or transfer shall be void and of no effect as to so much of said debt, effects, shares, or interest as may be necessary to satisfy the plaintiff's demand. Lien of garnishment and liability of garnishee: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1327, §§ 31-36.

A garnishee cannot object that judgment was rendered against the principal defendant, who was out of the state, upon a service by publication: Holford v. Trewella, 36 Wash. 654.

The fact that a garnishment proceeding had not been properly docketed and indexed is no defense to a garnishee who pays over money after having been duly served with process: Ward v. Ward, 14 Wash. 640.

A garnishee defendant, by disposing of property in his possession after service of the writ upon him, becomes liable to the plaintiff for the amount of the judgment obtained in such proceeding: Eidemiller v. Elder, 32 Wash. 605.

As to liability of garnishee for interest, see Bellingham B. B. Co. v. Busbois, 14 Wash. 173.

Safe deposit company, as garnishee, should retain exclusive control over safe deposit box rented by defendant until discharged: See Trowbridge v. Spinney, 23 Wash. 48.

§ 689. Bond to Discharge Writ.

If the defendant in the principal action, cause a bond to be executed to the plaintiff with sufficient sureties, to be approved by the officer having the writ or garnishment, or after the return of said writ, by the clerk of the court out of which said writ was issued, to the effect that he will perform the judgment of the court: The writ of garnishment shall, upon the filing of said bond with the clerk, be immediately discharged, and all proceedings had thereunder shall be vacated: Provided, that the garnishee shall not be thereby deprived from recovering any costs in said proceeding, to which he would otherwise be entitled under this act. [L. '03, p. 282, § 1.]

§ 690. (5399.) Answer and Service of.

The answer of the garnishee shall be under oath in writing and signed by him, and shall make true answers to the several matters inquired of in the writ of garnishment, and shall be served upon the plaintiff or his attorney and filed with the clerk of the superior court. [L. '93, p. 97, § 10.]

§ 691. (5400.) Garnishee Discharged When.

Should it appear from the answer of the garnishee that he is not indebted to the defendant, and was not so indebted when the writ of garnishment was served on him, and that he has not in his possession or under his control any personal property or effects of the defendant, and had not when the writ was served; and when the garnishee is an incorporated or joint stock company in which the defendant is alleged to be the owner of shares of stock or interested therein, if it shall further appear from such answer that the defendant is not, and was not when the writ was served, the owner of any of such shares or interested in such company, and should the answer of the garnishee not be controverted as hereinafter provided, and within the time hereinafter provided, the court shall enter judgment discharging the garnishee. [L. '93, p. 98, § 11.]

An appeal duly taken from an order discharging a writ of garnishment has the effect of continuing the garnishee before the court to determine his liability: See Attle Trust Co. v. Pitner, 17 Wash. 365.

§ 692. (5401.) Judgment by Default, When.

Should the garnishee fail to make answer to the writ within the time prescribed therein, it shall be lawful for the court, and on or after the time to answer such writ has expired, to render judgment by default against such garnishee for the full amount claimed by plaintiff against the defendant, or in case plaintiff has a judgment against defendant, for the full amount of such judgment with all accruing interest and costs. [L. '93, p. 98, § 12.]

§ 693. (5402.) Judgment Against Garnishee, Enforcement of.

Should it appear from the answer of the garnishee or should it be otherwise made to appear, as hereinafter provided, that the garnishee is indebted to the defendant in any amount, or was so indebted when the writ of garnishment was served, the court shall render judgment for the plaintiff against such garnishee for the amount so admitted or found to be due to the defendant from the garnishee, unless such amount shall exceed the amount of plaintiff's claim or demand against the defendant with interest and costs, in which case it shall be for the amount of such claim or demand, interest and costs: Provided, however, if it shall appear from the answer of the garnishee and the same is not controverted, or if it shall appear from the trial hereinafter provided for, that the garnishee is indebted to the principal defendant in any sum, but that such indebtedness is not matured and is not due and payable, the court shall make an order requiring the garnishee to pay such sum into court when the same becomes due, the date when such payment is to be made to be specified in said order, and in default thereof that judgment shall be entered against the garnishee for the amount of such indebtedness so admitted or found due. In case the garnishee shall pay said sum at the time specified in said order, said payment shall operate as a discharge, otherwise judgment shall be entered against him for the amount of such indebtedness, which judgment shall have the same force and effect, and be enforced in like manner as other judgments provided for in this chapter: Provided further, that if judgment shall be rendered in favor of the principal defendant, or if any judgment rendered against him be satisfied prior to the date of payment specified in said order, the garnishee shall not be required to make the payment hereinbefore provided for, nor shall any judgment in such case be entered against him. An order requiring persons, not impleaded in an action, except as garnishees,

Rem. Wash. Code, Vol. I.—32

and having no notice, to deliver property claimed by them to another also not a party to this suit, but being the sheriff holding the attachment writ, is void for want of jurisdiction and amounts to taking of private property without due process of law: Weisback v. Arnold, 3 W. T. 111.

Notice to the debtor of an assignment of a chose in action, before the service of notice of garnishment upon him for a debt of the assignor, is not essential to the protection of the assignee; but the garnishee, upon subsequent notice of the assignment, is bound to bring it to the attention of the court; and if he fails so to do, neither a subsequent voluntary payment to his creditor or the garnishor, nor a judgment against him as garnishee, will be available as a defense to an action against him by the assignee: Bellingham Bay B. Co. v. Brisbois, 14 Wash. 173.

The fact that a garnishment proceeding has not been properly docketed and indexed is no defense to a garnishee who pays over money after having been duly served with process in the garnishment proceeding and having appeared and answered therein prior to the time of making such payment: Ward v. Ward, 14 Wash. 640.

The payment by a garnishee defendant of moneys in dispute to the clerk of the court will not discharge the garnishee from liability when the payment is made in satisfaction of a judgment against the garnishee in favor of the principal debtor, and the money is not deposited with the clerk for the purpose of disclaiming any interest therein, as provided by §§ 199 and 200, supra, when money, property or indebtedness is claimed by different parties: Id.

The deposit in court by a garnishee defendant of the amount due from it on a judgment to the principal defendant, without including the interest, entitles it to only a pro tanto discharge in the garnishment proceeding: Bellingham Bay B. Co. v. Brisbois, supra.

In garnishment proceedings plaintiff is entitled to show that the garnishee defendant, by reason of some understanding, either secret or expressed, is the trustee or holder of the property of the principal debtor in order to keep it out of the reach of creditors; and in such case the garnishee may be held by the creditor for the amount of the property, although the principal debtor may have no right to enforce a claim therefor against such garnishee: Miller & Co. v. Plass, 11 Wash. 237.

When the only issue in a garnishment proceeding is as to whether or not the garnishee has in his possession personal property belonging to the principal debtor, it is error, upon a finding against the garnishee, to enter a money judgment against him: Campbell v. Simpkins, 10 Wash. 160.

If the object of a garnishment proceeding is to ascertain the title and right of possession of personal property, instead of the recovery of money, the action is within the appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court, although the principal debt may be less than two hundred dollars: Id.

Plaintiff in garnishment may recover against garnishee where he is the maker of a note not due, but which matures before garnishee files his answer, notwithstanding that before filing answer and after maturity of note, the garnishee paid it to payee: Thompson v. Nat. Bank, 66 Tex. 156, 18 S. W. 350.

Defendant's interest in a joint debt may be reached by garnishment: See Moore v. Gilmore, 16 Wash. 123.

Where a garnishee has been misled by deceit into answering that he is indebted to the principal defendant, when in fact he is not, his remedy, if he has any, is to apply in that proceeding for relief on some one of the grounds provided for the vacation of judgments: Belond v. Rayburn, 38 Wash. 406.

Where a judgment debtor, a foreign steamship company, in order to evade the jurisdiction of the courts of this state, exacted from its ticket broker in this state a cash deposit to pay in advance for transportation to be thereafter furnished on sales by the broker, checks of the broker for $10,000, given and accepted as cash, extinguish the liability of the broker to the steamship company for transportation thereafter sold from time to time, although the broker was charged with the sales as reported and the checks were presented from time to time as reports of sales were made; accordingly, upon garnishment of the broker, the garnishee is properly found not indebted to the judgment debtor, the only liability being by reason of the checks; nor was the garnishee under obligation to stop payment of the checks after service of the writ: Larsen v. Allen Line Steamship Co., 45 Wash. 406.

Execution may be issued on the judgment against the garnishee herein provided for in like manner as upon any other judgment. The amount made upon any such execution shall be paid by the officer executing the same to the clerk of the superior court from which such execution was issued; and in cases where judgment has been rendered against the defendant the amount made on the execution shall be applied to the satisfaction of the judgment, interests and costs against the defendant. In case judgment has not been rendered against the defendant at the time execution issued against the garnishee is returned, any amount made on said execution shall be paid to the clerk of the court from which such execution issued who shall retain the same until judgment be rendered in the action between the plaintiff and defendant. In case judgment be rendered therein in favor of the plaintiff, the amount made on the execution against the garnishee shall be applied to the satisfaction of such judgment and the surplus, if any there be, shall be paid to the defendant. In case judgment be rendered in such action in favor of the defendant, the amount made on said execution against the garnishee shall be paid to the defendant. . [L. '93, p. 99, § 14.]

Under this section, upon judgment against a garnishee, and payment of the same to the clerk of the court, the judgment and payment inure to the benefit of the successful party in the principal action, and the plaintiff is not entitled to the fund in court until after recovery of judgment against the defendant: State ex rel. Tatum v. Fitzhenry, 48 Wash. 130.

§ 695. (5404.) Decree to Deliver Effects.

Should it appear from the garnishee's answer or otherwise that the garnishee has in his possession or under his control, or had when the writ was served, any personal property or effects of the defendant liable to execution, the court shall render a decree requiring the garnishee to deliver up to the sheriff on demand such personal property or effects or so much of them as may be necessary to satisfy the plaintiff's claim. In cases where a judgment has been rendered in favor of the plaintiff against the defendant, such personal property or effects may be sold in like manner as any other property is sold upon an execution issued on said judgment. In cases where judgment has not been rendered in the principal action, the sheriff shall retain said personal property or effects in his possession until the rendition of judgment therein, and in case judgment is rendered in said principal action in favor of the plaintiff, said goods or effects, or sufficient of them to satisfy such judgment, may be sold in like manner as other property is sold on execution, by virtue of an execution issuing on said judgment. In case judgment shall be rendered in said action against the plaintiff and in favor of the defendant, such effects and personal property shall be by the sheriff returned to the defendant: Provided, however, that in cases where such effects or personal property are of a perishable nature, or the interests of the parties will be subserved by making a sale thereof before judgment, the court may order a sale thereof by the sheriff in like manner as sales upon execution are made and the proceeds of such sale shall be paid to the clerk of the superior court, and like disposition shall be made of such proceeds at the termination of the action as would have been made of such personal property or effects under the provisions of this section, in case such sale had not been made. A corporation which conducts a safe deposit vault business by renting to individuals boxes in the vault which can only be opened by the use of two keys—one a master key, in the possession of the corporation, and the other a private key, in the possession of the renter of the box—is subject to garnishment under this section: See Trowbridge v. Spinning, 23 Wash. 48.

When the only issue in a garnishment proceeding is as to whether or not the garnishee has in his possession personal property belonging to the principal debtor, it is error, upon a finding by the garnishee, to enter a money judgment against him; but the goods should be ordered delivered to the sheriff: Campbell v. Simpkins, 10 Wash. 160.

§ 696. (5405.) Procedure on Failure of Garnishee to Surrender Effects.

Should the garnishee adjudged to have effects or personal property of the defendant in his possession or under his control as provided in the [last] preceding article [section], fail or refuse to deliver them to the sheriff on such demand, the officer shall immediately make return of such failure or refusal, whereupon, on motion of the plaintiff, the garnishee shall be cited to show cause why he should not be attached for contempt of court for such failure or refusal, and should the garnishee fail to show some good and sufficient excuse for such failure and refusal, he shall be fined for such contempt and imprisoned until he shall deliver such personal property or effects. § 697. (5406.) Sale of Shares of Stock, When.

Where the garnishee is an incorporated or joint stock company, and it appears by the answer or otherwise that the defendant is or was, when the writ of garnishment was served, the owner of any shares of stock in such company or any interest therein, the court shall render a decree ordering the sale under execution in favor of the plaintiff, against the defendant, of such shares or interest of the defendant in such company, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy such execution. [L. '93, p. 101, § 17.]

Shares of stock may be sold to the extent of the judgment debtor's interest:

§ 698. (5407.) Sale, How Made.

The sale so ordered shall be conducted in all respects as other sales of personal property under execution, and the sheriff making such sales shall execute a transfer of such shares or interest to the purchaser with a brief recital of the judgment of the court under which the same was sold. [L. '93, p. 101, § 18.]

§ 699. (5408.) Effect of Sale.

Such sale shall be valid and effectual to pass to the purchaser all the right, title and interest which the defendant had in such shares of stock, or in such company, and the proper officers of such company shall enter such sale and transfer on the books of the company in the same manner as if the sale had been made by the defendant himself. [L. '93, p. 101, § 19.]

§ 700. (5409.) Plaintiff may Controvert Answer.

If the plaintiff should not be satisfied with the answer of the garnishee he may controvert the same by affidavit in writing signed by him, stating that he has good reason to believe and does believe that the answer of the garnishee is incorrect, stating in what particulars he believes the same is incorrect. In garnishment proceedings, the fraudulent character of the transfer of property from principal debtor to garnishee defendant may be shown under the statutory issue provided for in this and § 702: Miller & Co. v. Plass, 11 Wash. 237.

An answer in garnishment, which admitted that the garnishee held the property of the principal defendants as a trustee for the benefit of all the creditors in the absence of demurrer or motion should be treated as amended to allege that the assignment was made at the instance of the plaintiff, thereby precluding the plaintiff from attacking the assignment as fraudulent, and raising an issue of fact: McAvoy v. Jennings, 39 Wash. 109.

If the answer is defective, the remedy is by motion or demurrer: See Green v. Moore, 24 Wash. 241.

Traverse of answer and issues thereon: See McDaniels v. Connelly Shoe Co., 30 Wash. 549.

§ 702. (5411.) Issue and Trial.

If the answer of the garnishee is controverted, as provided in the two preceding sections, an issue shall be formed, under the direction of the court, and tried as other cases: Provided, however, no pleadings shall be necessary on such issue other than the affidavit of the plaintiff, the answer of the garnishee and the reply of the plaintiff or defendant controverting such answer, unless otherwise ordered by the court. § 703. (5412.*) Exemption of Wages and Family Necessaries.

Current wages or salary to the amount of one hundred dollars ($100.00) for personal services rendered by any person having a family dependent upon him for support, shall be exempt from garnishment, and where it appears upon the trial, or by answer of the garnishee, when not controverted as hereinafter provided, that the garnishee is indebted to the defendant for such current wages or salary for an amount not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100.00), the garnishee shall be discharged as to such indebtedness: Provided, that if the garnishment be founded upon a debt for actual necessities furnished to the defendant or his family or his dependents, no exemption shall be allowed in excess of ten dollars ($10.00) out of each week's wages or salary, whether said wages or salary are paid, or to be paid, weekly, bi-weekly, monthly or at other intervals, and whether there be due the defendant wages for one week or a longer period: Provided, however, that said exemption shall in no event be allowed out of wages or salary for a longer period than four (4) consecutive weeks: And provided further, that no money due or earned as wages or salary shall be exempt from garnishment in lieu of any other property. The provisions of this section shall apply to actions in the superior court or before justice of the peace, and shall govern exemptions of wages or salary to the exclusion of all other statutes or parts of statutes. See supra, § 564, property not exempt from wages of clerks, laborers, etc.

§ 704. (5413.) Costs and Attorney's Fees.

Where the garnishee is discharged upon his answer, the costs of the proceeding, including a reasonable compensation to the garnishee for attorneys' fees, shall be taxed against the plaintiff; where the answer of the garnishee has not been controverted and the garnishee is held thereon such costs shall be taxed against the defendant and included in the judgment. Where the answer is controverted the costs shall abide the issue of such contest. [L. '93, p. 102, § 24.]

Under this section the garnishee is entitled to recover the attorney's fee and costs in all cases when discharged from liability, whether on the answer or hearing: Whitehouse v. Nelson, 43 Wash. 174.

The failure to award costs to a garnishee against whom no judgment was entered cannot be made the basis for the right to an appeal by the garnishee: Durk v. Scully, 41 Wash. 357. See Kelly v. Ryan, 8 Wash. 536.

§ 705. (5414.) Sufficiency of Answer Against Defendant.

It shall be a sufficient answer to any claim of the defendant against the garnishee founded on any indebtedness of such garnishee or on the possession by him of any personal property or effects, or where the garnishee is an incorporated or joint stock company, in which the defendant was the owner of shares of stock or other interest therein for the garnishee to show that such indebtedness was paid or such effects delivered, or such shares of stock or other interest in such company were sold under the judgment of the court in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. [L. '93, p. 102, § 25.]

§ 706. (5415.) Provisions Inapplicable to Justices of the Peace.

The provisions of this chapter shall not apply to actions and proceedings before justices of the peace, but garnishments shall be made in such actions and proceedings in the manner now provided by existing laws. [L. '93, p. 102, § 26.]

CHAPTER III.

CLAIM AND DELIVERY (REPLEVIN).

§ 707. (5418.) Plaintiff may Claim Immediate Delivery.

The plaintiff in an action to recover the possession of personal property may, at the time of issuing the summons, or at any time before answer, claim the immediate delivery of such property as herein provided. [L. '54, p. 150, § 100; L. '69, p. 35, § 140; Cd. '81, § 142; 2 H. C., § 255.]

The proceedings authorized by § 573 et seq. constitute a concurrent remedy with the action of replevin: Scott v. McGraw, 3 Wash. 675, 678; Chapin v. Bokee, 4 Wash. 15.

In replevin plaintiff must have either the actual possession, or the right of reducing the property to possession, at the time of the unlawful taking: Sires v. Newton, 1 W. T. 356.

Where plaintiff alleges ownership generally, without setting out his source of title, and introduces a bill of sale as evidence, defendant may set up in his answer that the bill of sale under which plaintiff holds is a mortgage: Kerron v. N. P. L. & M. Co., 1 Wash. 241.

As to evidence admissible under general denial or general issue, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2504, § 27; Harvey v. Ivory, 35 Wash. 397; Coey v. Low, 36 Wash. 10; Shine v. Culver, 42 Wash. 484.

The defendant in an action to recover specific personal property may, under the general denial prove ownership or the right of possession in a third person: Chamberlin v. Winn, 1 Wash. 501; same, 1 Wash. 259.

Where defendant in replevin sets himself up as owner of the chattels in controversy, necessity of demand prior to institution of action is waived: National Bank v. Meerwaldt, 8 Wash. 630; Carstens v. Earles, 26 Wash. 676.

Demand on husband for community property is sufficient: See Standard Furniture Co. v. Anderson, 38 Wash. 582.

In replevin, the person in possession of the chattel in question is the only necessary defendant, although an interest may be asserted in others: Nat. Bank v. Meerwaldt, 8 Wash. 630; affirming Scott v. McGraw, 3 Wash. 675, holding that where a sheriff is in possession he is the only necessary party defendant.

In an action to recover specific personal property, an allegation of venue in the complaint is necessary to give the court jurisdiction: Stiles v. James, 2 W. T. 194; but where the sheriff's return filed in the cause shows that property is within the jurisdiction of the court, the omission of an allegation of venue in the pleading is cured: Id.

An instruction to the jury that "the plaintiff claims that the defendant detains her property, fifty head of neat cattle. . . . The defendant denies that he detains any of said property; so, as to the cattle, the issue is clear and positive," is misleading, because it ignores the question of ownership or right of possession: Chamberlain v. Winn, supra.

If an officer, through mistake or design, seize property under execution and attachment not belonging to the defendant in the writ, or not subject to seizure, though belonging to defendant, he is a trespasser, and the goods may be recovered in replevin, or the owner may sue him in trespass or trover at his election: Scott v. McGraw, 3 Wash. 675, 677; Dawson v. Baum, 3 W. T. 464.

The vendor of goods, sold on credit, may rescind the sale for vendee's fraud and maintain replevin against the sheriff in whose custody the goods are by virtue of a valid writ of execution: Scott v. McGraw, 3 Wash. 675; Page v. Urick, 31 Wash. 601.

Where it appears from the complaint in replevin that plaintiffs have a special property in a certain hay crop, and are entitled to its possession, the complaint is not subject to a general demurrer, notwithstanding it may be alleged therein that they hold a mortgage on the crop, if, at the same time, it is made to appear that their right to possession is not dependent upon their title as mortgagees: Brookman v. State Ins. Co., 15 Wash. 29; Silsby v. Aldridge, 1 Wash. 117, distinguished.

In determining whether title has or has not passed by a contract of sale, the primary test is one of intention, and, if that is manifested clearly and unequivocally, it controls: Pacific Lounge etc. Co. v. Rudebeck, 15 Wash. 336.

Where goods have been sold to a purchaser in consideration of an antecedent debt, due him from the seller, although nothing in furtherance of the sale beyond the manifest intention of the parties to pass title has been done, replevin will lie at the instance of the purchaser against a third party, who holds the goods under a lease from the seller, which has been violated: Id.

Where, upon the breach of a conditional bill of sale of a stock of goods and fixtures, the vendor takes possession of additional stock purchased since the bill of sale, replevin lies to recover such additional stock: Hennig v. Claussen Brewing Association, 44 Wash. 116.

The right of possession under a chattel mortgage may be enforced by an action of claim and delivery: See Bancroft-Whitney Co. v. Gowan, 24 Wash. 66.

Where a dwelling-house was personal property, and was sold under a conditional contract of sale, on a breach of the conditions of sale the house could be recovered in an action of replevin: Page v. Urick, 31 Wash. 601.

Replevin will not lie for crops grown by one in adverse possession of the land: Churchill v. Ackerman, 22 Wash. 227.

Or for sawlogs severed from the land by one in adverse possession thereof under claim of right: Clarke v. Clyde, 25 Wash. 661.

Replevin will lie for property sold to one hopelessly insolvent and who had no intention of paying for same: See Kulzer v. Simonton, 41 Wash. 587.

A fixture subject to a mechanic's lien, purchased at a judicial sale and severed from the land, and afterward taken back to the land by the judgment creditor, cannot be recovered in an action of replevin by the purchaser: Second Nat. Bank of Colfax v. Hatch, 24 Wash. 421.

A tenant in common cannot maintain an independent action of replevin for the recovery of grain raised by the tenants and in the possession of third persons: Vermont L. & T. Co. v. Cardin, 19 Wash. 304.

A consignee of goods may maintain replevin against the carrier thereof without first making a tender of the amount of freight due where the consignment of goods has been delayed to such an extent as to subject the carrier to a liability for damages greater than the amount of freight due, and the claim for damages may be adjudicated in the replevin suit:

Moran Bros. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 19 Wash. 266.

In replevin to recover wheat seized by a constable under foreclosure notice on chattel mortgage, the mortgagee is estopped from asserting that the constable and not himself was in possession, when he admitted he had possession, and refused to deliver it upon demand, and gave a delivery bond therefor when seized by the sheriff: Harris v. Hayfield, 5 Wash. 230.

Plaintiff cannot recover if defendant was not in possession at time of demand or commencement of action: See Dow v. Dempsey, 21 Wash. 86.

The rule that replevin does not lie against one not in possession of the property does not obtain where the defendant had been in possession and wrongfully disposed of the property prior to the commencement of the action, without the knowledge of the plaintiff at the time: Andrews v. Hoeslich, 45 Wash. 220.

In replevin for hay claimed by virtue of ownership of land of which defendant is in possession, title may be inquired into: Laurendeau v. Fugelli, 1 Wash. 559.

One in possession of railroad land under preference right of purchase may maintain replevin for crops grown thereon against a trespasser, although the latter, subsequent to his forcible entry, may have filed a declaratory statement thereon as a part of the public domain: Laurendeau v. Fugelli, 5 Wash. 94, 632.

A mortgagee in possession, the mortgage being valid between the parties, and made in good faith, has the right of possession against all the world, and cannot be deprived thereof except on payment of the mortgage debt: Marsh v. Wade, 1 Wash. 538.

Where a mortgagee seeks to recover in replevin mortgaged property attached by creditors of the mortgagor, while in the plaintiff's possession, it is error to treat the transaction as a pledge, after excluding the mortgage for invalidity: Marsh v. Wade, supra.

If personal property has been mortgaged to plaintiffs by third parties, and afterward, but prior to the maturity of the debt, delivered by the mortgagors to defendant, it is a failure of proof, and not a mere variance, to prove the existence of the mortgage in support of the allegation of ownership: Silsby v. Aldridge, 1 Wash. 117; cited in Kerron v. N. P. etc. M. Co., 1 Wash. 244.

As to what constitutes variance, see Dow v. Dempsey, 21 Wash. 86.

Where the lessee of school lands quarries stone thereon, and subsequently assigns the lease and sells the stone to another, the latter's possession under claim of ownership will support an action in replevin against one who, without right, enters the land and removes the stone: Reynolds v. Dexter Horton & Co., 2 Wash. 185.

In an action by wife to recover possession of personal property she is not required to deraign her title thereto: Freeburger v. Caldwell, 5 Wash. 769; Hester v. Stine, 46 Wash. 469.

If plaintiff claims as owner under a bill of sale from a third party, proof that he is merely a mortgagee will defeat a recovery: Kerron v. N. P. etc. M. Co., 1 Wash. 241.

Where a debtor, in view of a general assignment, mortgages chattels in fraud of his creditors, and subsequently executes a general assignment, his assignee may replevy the goods thus fraudulently transferred: Mansfield v. Bank, 5 Wash. 665.

But where he sues to recover the proceeds of goods converted into money, as an incident to a judgment in his favor he is entitled to costs: Mansfield v. Bank, 6 Wash. 603.

Where, however, the goods in controversy have been converted into money and with the consent of the parties deposited in court, the only question for decision is as to which party is entitled to receive same from the officer, and neither party is liable for its safekeeping as against the other: Id.

Where plaintiffs have given bond in replevin and taken possession of the property in controversy, and thereafter plaintiff voluntarily dismisses the action, it is error to dismiss without also rendering judgment restoring to defendant the property or give judgment for its value: Liebmann v. McGraw, 3 Wash. 520; Harvey v. Ivory, 35 Wash. 397.

Pleading and evidence: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2503-2506, §§ 21-36.

Burden of proof to show title and right of possession: Id., p. 2509, § 29.

Where the defense in replevin gives no evidence showing greater value than as stated in claimant's affidavit, no issue thereof is to be submitted to the jury, but the value alleged binds the claimant, and it is unnecessary for an attaching creditor to show bona fides until attacked by his adversary: Peterson v. Woolery, 9 Wash. 390. See, also, Johnston v. McCart, 24 Wash. 19.

VERDICT: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2507, § 42.

In replevin, the jury should, under § 363, supra, assess the value of the property, whether their verdict be for plaintiff or defendant: Meeker v. Johnson, 3 Wash. 247; approved in Quinn v. Park & L. M. Co., 5 Wash. 279.

A verdict is defective in replevin which merely finds for the plaintiff and assesses his damages at a specific sum: Quinn v. Park & L. M. Co., 5 Wash. 276.

But when the point that the verdict is not in the alternative is not raised in the court below, the error will be disregarded: McGraw v. Franklin, 2 Wash. 17.

Judgment, form and requisites: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2508, §§ 44, 45; Dow v. Dempsey, 21 Wash. 86; Hall v. Law G. & T. Soc., 22 Wash. 305; Eidson v. Woolery, 10 Wash. 225; Bancroft-Whitney Co. v. Gowan, 24 Wash. 66; Kehoe v. McConaghy, 29 Wash. 175; Springer v. Ayer, 50 Wash. 642.

Judgment for plaintiff in replevin should be for possession of the property in controversy, or, in case a delivery cannot be had, for its value, with damages for detention: National Bank v. Meerwaldt, 8 Wash. 630.

Form and requisites of complaint: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2503-2505, § 21 et seq.; Phillippos v. Mihran, 38 Wash. 402; Standard Furniture Co. v. Anderson, 38 Wash. 582; Stiles v. James, 2 W. T. 194; Hall v. Law Guarantee & T. Soc., 22 Wash. 305; Casey v. Malidore, 19 Wash. 279.

Where the bailee, without authority to sell or pawn, is given goods to show to a proposed customer, and the bailee delivers the goods to a third person to sell or pawn, and the latter pawns same and absconds with the proceeds, the legal owner is entitled to recover the possession of the goods: Rumpf v. Barto, 10 Wash. 382.

In an action of replevin to recover stolen goods pledged to a pawnbroker, the defendant is not entitled to instructions on the theory that he had a right to rely upon the apparent title or the apparent agency of the pledgor: Id.

Where the complaint, in replevin, alleges title generally in plaintiff, without setting forth the source of title, defendant may under denial of ownership meet the plaintiff's evidence to sustain such allegation, by any competent proof that tends to show its untruth, as by proof that plaintiff's bill of sale under which he claimed title was only a mortgage: Kerron v. N. P. etc. Mfg. Co., 1 Wash. 241. See Silsby v. Aldridge, 1 Wash. 117.

Liability on bonds and undertakings: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2510, §§ 55-62.

A complaint for breach of replevin bond held, in a particular case, sufficient: Meigs v. Keach, 1 W. T. 305; but see Boyer v. Fowler, 1 W. T. 101.

There is no liability upon a replevin bond where it appears that the property was not delivered under the bond, but under the judgment of the justice: Rinear v. Skinner, 20 Wash. 541. See, also, Arthur v. Sherman, 11 Wash. 254.

Admissibility, weight and sufficiency of evidence: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 2505, §§ 31-35; Goodyear Rubber Co. v. Schreiber, 29 Wash. 94; Shine v. Culver, 42 Wash. 484; Levy v. Sheehan, 3 Wash. 420; Glass v. Buttner, 39 Wash. 296; Marsh v. Wade, 1 Wash. 538; Kehoe v. McConaghy, 29 Wash. 175; Goodyear Rubber Co. v. Schreiber, 29 Wash. 94; Dodd & Co. v. Williams-Smithson Co., 27 Wash. 89.

As to excessive damages for detention, see Doe v. Tenino Coal & Iron Co., 43 Wash. 523.

Instructions on trial: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2506, §§ 38-41; Chamberlin v. Winn, 1 Wash. 259, 501; Eicholtz v. Holmes, 8 Wash. 71; Carstens v. Earles, 26 Wash. 676; Lillie v. Shaw, 22 Wash. 234; Dow v. Dempsey, 21 Wash. 86.

Satisfaction and discharge of judgment: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2509, § 50; Standard Furniture Co. v. Van Alstine, 31 Wash. 499; High v. Emerson, 23 Wash. 103.

Appeal and error: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2509, §§ 52-54.

Appellate jurisdiction is determined by the value of property as found by court or jury and not by amount claimed: See Graves v. Thompson, 35 Wash. 282.

Where the amount in controversy in replevin is $200, the value of the goods, and $500 damages for their detention, an appeal will lie to the supreme court: Freeburger v. Caldwell, 5 Wash. 769. See further, First Nat. Bank of Aberdeen v. Carter, 10 Wash. 11; Rawson v. Ellsworth, 13 Wash. 667; Second Nat. Bank of Colfax v. Hatch, 24 Wash. 421.

§ 708. (5419.) Affidavit for Delivery.

When a delivery is claimed, an affidavit shall be made by the plaintiff, or by some one in his behalf, showing,—

1. That the plaintiff is the owner of the property claimed (particularly describing it), or is lawfully entitled to the possession thereof, by virtue of a special property therein, the facts in respect to which shall be set forth;
2. That the property is wrongfully detained by defendant;
3. That the same has not been taken for a tax, assessment, or fine pursuant to a statute, or seized under an execution or attachment against the property of the plaintiff, or if so seized, that it is by law exempt from such seizure; and

4. The actual value of the property. [Cf. L. '54, p. 150, § 101; L. '69, p. 35, § 141; Cd. '81, § 143; 2 H. C., § 256.]

Cited in 3 Wash. 678; 21 Wash. 95.

Plaintiff may elect whether to proceed under this section or under § 573 et seq., but a judgment in one action would be a bar to a recovery in the other: Scott v. McGraw, 3 Wash. 675; following Dawson v. Baum, 3 W. T. 464.

The language of the third subdivision plainly implies that in all cases, where the property has not been seized under an execution or attachment against the property of the plaintiff himself, he may recover its possession from the officer seizing it: Scott v. McGraw, supra.

If, in an action of replevin for property pawned, plaintiff is obliged to keep good his tender of the sum received on the pledge, it is sufficient if the money was paid into court and remained there before service of summons upon defendant, although not paid, as alleged, with the filing of the complaint: Andrews v. Hoeslich, 47 Wash. 220.

In an action of claim and delivery for property wrongfully sold under a chattel mortgage, the tender of the amount due on the mortgage before foreclosure sale, entitling the plaintiff to the property, need not be kept good by bringing the money into court: Thomas v. Seattle Brewing & Malting Co., 48 Wash. 560.

§ 709. (5420.) Bond—Service of Bond and Affidavit.

Upon the receipt of the affidavit, and a bond to the defendant, executed by one or more sufficient sureties, approved by the sheriff, to the effect that they are bound in double the value of the property as stated in the affidavit, for the prosecution of the action, for the return of the property to the defendant, if return thereof be adjudged, and for the payment to him of such sum as may for any cause be recovered against the plaintiff, the sheriff shall forthwith take the property described in the affidavit, if it be in the possession of the defendant or his agent, and retain it in his custody. He shall also, without delay, serve on the defendant a copy of the affidavit and bond by delivering the same to him personally, if he can be found, or his agent, from whose possession the property is taken; or if neither can be found, by leaving them at the usual place of abode of either, with some person of suitable age and discretion; or if neither have any known place of abode, by putting them in the postoffice, directed to the defendant, at the postoffice nearest his place of residence. [Cf. L. '54, p. 150, § 102; L. '69, p. 35, § 142; Cd. '81, § 144; 2 H. C., § 157.]

See notes to § 707.

Cited in 32 Wash. 553.

Where plaintiff brought suit in replevin, gave bond, and obtained possession of the property, and defendant gave bond and retook same, and thereupon plaintiff discontinued his suit, it was held that an action for damages would lie for breach of bond: Meigs v. Keach, 1 W. T. 305.

But where a replevin suit in which a bond is given is dismissed, and no judgment rendered in favor of the obligee in the bond, no action will lie by him on the bond: Boyer v. Fowler, 1 W. T. 101.

§ 710. (5421.) Objections to Bond—Justification of Sureties.

The defendant may, within three days after the service of a copy of the affidavit and bond, give notice to the sheriff that he excepts to the sufficiency of the sureties; if he fail to do so he shall be deemed to have waived all objections to them. When the defendant excepts, the sureties shall justify on notice in like manner as bail on arrest, and the sheriff shall be responsible for the sufficiency of the sureties until the objection to them is either waived as above provided, or until they shall justify, or new sureties shall be substituted and justify. If the defendant except to the sureties, he cannot reclaim the property, as provided in the next section. [Cf. L. '54, p. 150, § 103; L. '69, p. 36, § 143; Cd. '81, § 145; 2 H. C., § 258.]

See infra, § 765, qualifications of bail.

See notes to § 707.

Sureties failing to justify after objection by defendant are released from further liability: See Binear v. Skinner, 20 Wash. 541.

§ 711. (5422.) Redelivery Bond.

At any time before the delivery of the property to the plaintiff, the defendant may, if he do not except to the sureties of the plaintiff, require the return thereof, upon giving to the sheriff a bond, executed by one or more sufficient sureties, to the effect that they are bound in double the value of the property, as stated in the affidavit of the plaintiff, for the delivery thereof to the plaintiff, if such delivery be adjudged, and for the payment to him of such sum as may, for any cause, be recovered against the defendant. If a return of the property be not so required within three days after the taking and service of notice to the defendant, it shall be delivered to the plaintiff, except as provided in section 716. [Cf. L. '54, p. 151, § 104; L. '69, p. 36, § 144; Cd. '81, § 146; 2 H. C., § 259.] :

See infra, § 765, qualifications of bail.

Cited in 32 Wash. 553.

Although the names of the principals upon a redelivery bond in replevin were signed by their attorney without authority, yet the principals are bound by its conditions, when by means thereof they have obtained possession of the property: Arthur v. Sherman, 11 Wash. 254.

Under such circumstances, the sureties upon the redelivery bond are also bound, as against the obligee named therein, by signing what appeared to be the signatures of the principals, thereby estopping themselves from questioning their genuineness: Id.

The parties to such bond are not relieved from liability for nonreturn of the property, as required by the judgment, by the institution of injunction proceedings by a stranger to the action, after an opportunity had been given for the return of the property, if the judgment defendant had been in a position to make return: Id.

The fact that, upon a special execution for a return of the property held under a redelivery bond, the sheriff visited the mill where the property was in the custody of a third person, who did not allow him to do anything further toward taking possession than to check up the different articles to see that all the property described in the execution was there, does not constitute such a taking of possession by the sheriff as to excuse a return of the property in compliance with the conditions of the bond: Id.

The defendant's sureties, upon a notice to the plaintiff or his attorney of not less than two nor more than six days, shall justify in the same manner as bail upon arrest; upon such justification, the sheriff shall deliver the property to the defendant. The sheriff shall be responsible for the defendant's sureties until they justify, or until justification is completed or expressly waived, and may retain the property until that time; but if they, or others in their place, fail to justify at the time and place appointed, he shall deliver the property to the plaintiff. [Cf. L. '54, p. 151, § 105; L. '69, p. 36, § 145; Cd. '81, § 147; 2 H. C., § 260.]

See notes to § 707.

Cited in 14 Wash. 46.

The fact that the obligee in a redelivery bond elects to sue thereon in the first instance will not preclude a subsequent action by him against the sheriff for damages, when it develops that the bond which the sheriff had taken and turned over to him was not in fact a genuine one: Magnus v. Woolery, 14 Wash. 43.

Under this section, providing that unless the sureties in a redelivery bond justify or their justification is waived by the plaintiff, the sheriff shall be responsible for them, it is not necessary, in an action against the sheriff for failure to take a good bond, to plead and prove the value of the property released by him, but he is liable for the value of the property as determined in the prior proceeding in which the bond had been given: Id.

§ 713. (5424.) Qualifications of Sureties.

The qualification of sureties and their justification shall be as prescribed in respect to bail upon an order of arrest. [L. '54, p. 151, § 106; Cd. '81, § 148; 2 H. C., § 261.]

See infra, § 765, qualifications of bail.

§ 714. (5425.) Buildings may be Broken Open, When.

If the property, or any part thereof, be concealed in a building or inclosure, the sheriff shall publicly demand its delivery. If it be not delivered, he shall cause the building or inclosure to be broken open, and take the property into his possession, and if necessary, he may call to his aid the power of his county. [L. '54, p. 151, § 107; Cd. '81, § 149; 2 H. C., § 262.]

§ 715. (5426.) Sheriff must Safely Keep Property.

When the sheriff shall have taken the property as herein provided, he shall keep it in a secure place, and deliver it to the party entitled thereto, upon receiving his lawful fees for taking and his necessary expenses for keeping the same. [L. '54, p. 151, § 108; Cd. '81, § 150; 2 H. C., § 263.]

§ 716. (5427.) Proceedings upon Claim by Third Person.

If the property taken be claimed by any other person than the defendant or his agent, and such person make affidavit of his title thereto, or his right to the possession thereof, stating the grounds of such title or right, and serve the same upon the sheriff before the delivery of the property to the plaintiff, the sheriff shall not be bound to keep the property or deliver it to the plaintiff, unless the plaintiff, on demand [of him or his agent], indemnify the sheriff against such claim by a bond, executed by two sufficient sureties, accompanied by their affidavits that they are each worth double the value of the property as specified in the affidavit of plaintiff, over and above their debts and liabilities, exclusive of property exempt from execution, and freeholders or householders of the county; and no claim to such property by any other person than the defendant or his agent shall be valid against the sheriff, unless made as aforesaid; and notwithstanding such claim, when so made, he may retain the property a reasonable time to demand such indemnity. [L. '54, p. 151, § 109; Cd. '81, § 151; 2 H. C., § 264.]

The words "of him or his agent" in brackets appear to be inadvertently omitted from Code of 1881 and Hill's Code: See Laws of 1877, p. 32, § 151.

§ 717. (5428.) Return of Sheriff.

The sheriff shall file the affidavit, with the proceedings thereon, with the clerk of the court in which the action is pending within twenty days after taking the property mentioned therein. [Cf. L. '54, p. 152, § 110; Cd. '81, § 152; L. '91, p. 72, § 1; 2 H. C., § 265.]

CHAPTER IV. INJUNCTIONS.

§ 718. (5431.) By Whom Granted.

. Restraining orders and injunctions may be granted by the superior court, or by any judge thereof. [L. '54, p. 152, § 111; Cd. '81, § 153; 2 H. C., § 266.]

See supra, § 1, jurisdiction of the supreme court.

See supra, § 15, jurisdiction of the superior court.

See supra, § 471, injunction to restrain proceedings to execute judgments.

See supra, §§ 623, 624, injunctions in proceedings supplemental to execution.

See infra, § 941, injunction to restrain waste by opposing claimant to public lands.

See infra, § 1316, injunction to restrain executor, etc., pending action to establish lost or destroyed will.

Nature and grounds in general: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1495-1497, §§ 1-11.

That portion of this section as originally enacted providing for the granting of injunctions by judges of the supreme court is omitted as abrogated by § 4, article IV, of the Constitution.

The words "injunction" and "restraining order," as used in this chapter, are to be taken as substantially synonymous. The terms permit the court to put its order in the shape of a formal injunction, or it may issue simply an order restraining the acts complained of: State v. Lichtenberg, 4 Wash. 407, 409.

Although the legislature may not, by express enactment, have declared the commission of certain acts illegal, a statute empowering the courts to restrain by injunction the commission of such acts would not be unconstitutional on that ground, inasmuch as a law authorizing the enjoining of an act is equivalent to declaring that such act is illegal: Karasek v. Peier, 22 Wash. 419.

§ 719. (5432.) When Granted.

When it appears by the complaint that the plaintiff is entitled to the relief demanded, and the relief, or any part thereof, consists in restraining the commission or continuance of some act the commission or continuance of which during the litigation would produce great injury to the plaintiff; or when, during the litigation, it appears that the defendant is doing, or threatening [threatened], or is about to do, or is procuring or is suffering some act to be done, in violation of the plaintiff's rights respecting the subject of the action, tending to render the judgment ineffectual; or where such relief, or any part thereof, consists in restraining proceedings upon any final order or judgment,—an injunction may be granted to restrain such act or proceedings until the further order of the court, which may afterwards be dissolved or modified upon motion. And where it appears, in the complaint, at the commencement of the action, or during the pendency thereof, by affidavit, that the defendant threatens or is about to remove or dispose of his property with intent to defraud his creditors, a temporary injunction may be granted to restrain the removal or disposition of his property. [L. '54, p. 152, § 112; Cd. '81, § 154; 2 H. C., § 267.]

Parties plaintiff: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1503, §§ 45, 46.

Jurisdiction to issue injunctions against state officers is in the superior courts: Jones v. Reed, 3 Wash. 57.

A state officer will not be restrained from misappropriating public funds at the suit of a mere citizen and taxpayer, as the attorney general is the proper party to institute such suits: Jones v. Reed, supra. See, also, Tacoma v. Bridges, 25 Wash. 221; Birmingham v. Cheetham, 19 Wash. 657.

Where the superior court, proceeding under § 68, supra, orders the sheriff to hire rooms for the court and court officers, the remedy of the county to prevent the payment of the expenses incurred, if unauthorized, is by injunction and not by prohibition: State v. Hunter, 4 Wash. 712.

A state officer cannot be enjoined from performing a statutory duty where some other remedy exists: Wilkes v. Hunt, 4 Wash. 100.

A private citizen cannot enjoin the acts of a public official without showing a special injury, different from that sustained by the general public: Jones v. Reed, supra; Krieschel v. County Commissioners, 12 Wash. 428; Rand, McNally & Co. v. Hartranft, 29 Wash. 591.

Pleadings: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1504, § 49.

If the facts pleaded fail to show irreparable injury, but, on the contrary, disclose a plain remedy at law, beyond the general conclusions alleged, injunctive relief cannot be granted: Meeker v. Gilbert, 3 W. T. 369, 377. See Wash. Iron Works Co. v. Jensen, 3 Wash. 584, 591.

In an action to enjoin trespasses on lands, the title to which lay in dispute between plaintiffs and defendants, and in which a temporary injunction had been granted plaintiff until the determination of an action to be instituted to try the question of title to the lands, the fact that plaintiff merely tendered an issue in an action brought by defendants against plaintiff involving the same subject matter will not justify the dismissal of the injunction suit: Wilkinson Coal & Coke Co. v. Driver, 9 Wash. 177.

A complaint in an action to enjoin trespasses upon land is defective, when the trespasses are pleaded in general allegations only: Id.; Ross v. Howard, 25 Wash. 1.

A party seeking injunctive relief should allege in positive language the facts upon which he bases his right thereto: Woodcock v. Guy, 33 Wash. 234.

See, further, Spokane St. Ry. Co. v. Spokane, 5 Wash. 634; Colby v. Spokane, 12 Wash. 690.

An action for the purpose of enjoining a public nuisance, in which no damages are alleged or sought, is of an equitable nature, in which a jury trial is not demandable as of right: Smith v. Mitchell, 21 Wash. 536.

Latitude must be allowed on cross-examination to show whether the plaintiffs came into equity with clean hands: Lynn v. Waldron, 38 Wash. 82.

Right to temporary injunction and grounds for denial: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1505, §§ 55-57.

A complaint in foreclosure of a lien on shingles alleges sufficient grounds for issuance of a temporary injunction when it avers that the debt is due; that defendants are insolvent and financially irresponsible; and that the only security for plaintiff's claim was the lien upon the shingles, which defendants were threatening to and were about to remove from the state: Cady v. Case, 11 Wash. 124.

The issuance of a temporary injunction pendente lite to preserve and make efficient a lien upon shingles is warranted when neither the amount sued for, nor the right to a lien, is disputed by defendants: Id.

If it appears from the pleadings that plaintiff's case depends upon the admission of parol evidence where the law does not allow it, it is error to grant his application for a temporary injunction: Gordon v. Park & Lacy M. Co., 10 Wash. 18. See, further, Rockford Watch Co. v. Rumpf, 12 Wash. 647; Hart v. Seattle, 42 Wash. 113.

Certain allegations in a complaint for injunction held insufficient to negative the presumption that a city was proceeding in such a manner in the construction of a street improvement as not unreasonably to interfere with plaintiff's rights: Spokane St. Ry. Co. v. Spokane, 5 Wash. 634.

Where a motion to dissolve a temporary restraining order is practically a general demurrer to the complaint, and is sustained, it is proper to dismiss the action at the same time: See Noerdlinger v. Huff, 31 Wash. 360.

In an action to enjoin defendant from interfering with plaintiff's right to take gravel from defendant's land, defendant cannot counterclaim for damages committed by plaintiff to his land and growing crops, when such trespass had no connection with the taking of the gravel: Corliss v. Dunning, 8 Wash. 332.

A complaint asking for a temporary injunction verified upon belief is sufficient under § 281, supra: Cady v. Case, supra.

Defects as to parties defendant: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1503, § 47; Stallcup v. Tacoma, 13 Wash. 141; State ex rel. Reed v. Gormley, 40 Wash. 601; Savage v. Sternberg, 19 Wash. 679; State ex rel. Victor Boom Co. v. Peterson, 29 Wash. 571; Foster v. Raznik, 46 Wash. 692.

Injunction will not lie, when the threatened injuries are too remote or problematical: Tacoma v. Bridges, 25 Wash. 221; Winsor v. Hanson, 40 Wash. 423.

TAXES AND ASSESSMENTS: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1500, § 29.

The fact that a taxpayer is by statute given the right to defeat the collection of an illegal tax whenever suit for its collection is instituted will not prevent an action in the meantime to enjoin its collection and remove the apparent lien which clouds his title: Benn v. Chehalis Co., 11 Wash. 134.

The collection of the tax assessed upon the capital stock of a national bank will not be enjoined on the ground that the moneyed capital thereof is unjustly discriminated against, when the complaint fails to show that the moneyed capital of others is permitted to escape taxation: National Bank v. Chehalis Co., 6 Wash. 64. See, also, National Bank v. King Co., 9 Wash. 608.

Injunction is the proper remedy against assessors or boards of equalization, where they fraudulently, capriciously or tyrannically refuse to exercise their judgment by adopting a rule or system of tax valuation designed to operate unequally: Andrews v. King Co., 1 Wash. 46.

Or against a county treasurer threatening to seize and sell property purchased in good faith from a party who was owing delinquent taxes: See Phelan v. Smith, 22 Wash. 397, 61 Pac. 31. See, also, Coolidge v. Pierce County, 28 Wash. 96.

MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1499, § 19.

Where a city council acts within the limits of the discretion conferred on it by law such action cannot be enjoined: State v. Milligan, 3 Wash. 144. See Times Pub. Co. v. Everett, 9 Wash. 518, 522.

But if through fraud or manifest error, outside the discretion conferred upon the agents of a municipal corporation, they are proceeding to contract so as to illegally cast upon taxpayers a substantially larger burden of expense than is necessary, injunction will lie to keep them within legal bounds: Times Pub. Co. v. Everett, supra.

The fact that the plaintiff, in an action to enjoin the letting of a contract for the county printing, has ulterior motives in prosecuting the suit, beyond his direct interest as a taxpayer, will not necessarily disqualify him as plaintiff: Times Pub. Co. v. Everett, supra; Norton v. City of Roslyn, 10 Wash. 45.

Where the proposed grading of a street will materially reduce both rental and selling value of an abutting owner's property, the grading may be enjoined unless damages be ascertained and compensation made before the work is done; and such owner has the right to have the damages ascertained by a jury: Brown v. Seattle, 5 Wash. 35, 43. See Park v. Seattle, 5 Wash. 1.

Injunction is a proper remedy to prevent threatened permanent injury by the grading of a street: Brown v. Seattle, supra.

Or for taking private property for a public use, without first making just compensation therefor: State ex rel. Smith v. Superior Court, 26 Wash. 278; Seattle Transfer Co. v. Seattle, 27 Wash. 520; Swope v. Seattle, 36 Wash. 113; Olson v. Seattle, 30 Wash. 687.

A party seeking to restrain the collection of a street assessment is excused from paying or tendering the portion which he should in equity pay, when the assessment is so false and unwarranted as to furnish no data of his just proportion of the cost of the proposed improvement: Howell v. Tacoma, 3 Wash. 711; followed in Griggs v. Tacoma, 3 Wash. 785; Pierce v. Tacoma, 3 Wash. 785.

In a suit by a lot owner to restrain the city by injunction from tearing down a building erected by plaintiff, damages for prospective profit, which he might have received had the erection been permitted, are too remote, and cannot be recovered: Bingham v. Walla Walla, 3 W. T. 68.

Where plaintiff seeks to enjoin a city from interfering with his erection of a building prohibited by ordinance, and the city, by cross-complaint, seeks to enjoin the erection, to which plaintiff replies, and trial had on such issues without objection, plaintiff cannot complain of an adverse decision, because affirmative relief was given the city: Baxter v. Seattle, 3 Wash. 352.

The creation of void indebtedness by a city subsequent to the lawful voting of bonds for the purpose of borrowing money is not ground for restraining the issuance of the bonds: McBryde v. Montesano, 7 Wash. 69.

If, subsequent to a municipal election for voting bonds for purchase of water-works, but prior to issuance, a new assessment becomes operative, reducing the valuation, the city may be enjoined from issuing bonds in excess of five per cent of the existing valuation: Seymour v. Tacoma, 6 Wash. 427.

Where an ordinance adopting a system of electric lighting recited its passage in pursuance of the act of March 26, 1890, as amended by act of March 9, 1891, when in fact it was passed in pursuance of the act of February 10, 1893, which act was a mere re-enactment of the former act, with an immaterial amendment, no ground for injunction exists against issuance of bonds thereunder: Lewis v. Port Angeles, 7 Wash. 190.

If the complaint, in an action to enjoin the issuance of school bonds, alleges that their issuance will increase the indebtedness beyond one and one-half per cent of the taxable property, it will be presumed, from the fact that a portion thereof is to pay outstanding indebtedness, that the one and one-half per cent limit will not be exceeded: Luzader v. Sargeant, 4 Wash. 299.

Plaintiff seeking to enjoin a city is bound by the affirmative relief granted such city on its cross-complaint for injunction: See Baxter v. Seattle, 3 Wash. 352.

A suit to enjoin a city from applying its sewerage fund to any purpose until the claims of plaintiff for construction of the sewerage system have been adjusted and paid, is a local action under § 204, supra: North Yakima v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 655.

Payment of warrants will not be enjoined at suit of taxpayers for an improvement for which they had petitioned, even though the contract for the improvement be illegal, they having stood by and permitted the completion of the work: Travis v. Ward, 2 Wash. 30; State ex rel. Reed v. Gormley, 40 Wash. 601.

As to complaint held insufficient to enjoin the enforcement of an ordinance regulating the filing of plats, see Hillman v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 14.

In an action to enjoin the council and officers of a town from compromising and satisfying a judgment, a judgment enjoining the acts is irregular where it appears that the acts have already been performed; and the court should, on its appearing that the plaintiff is entitled to relief, give judgment setting aside the compromise and satisfaction, allowing the pleadings to be, or considering them, amended to conform to the proofs: Farnsworth v. Wilbur, 49 Wash. 416.

REMOVAL OF COUNTY SEAT: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 693, § 8.

The superior court has no jurisdiction of the subject matter of an action which seeks to enjoin the removal of a county seat on the ground of fraud in the election therefor: Parmeter v. Bourne, 8 Wash. 45; distinguished in Rickey v. Williams, 8 Wash. 479, 486, 487.

But equity will enjoin the removal of a county seat for the fraud of the board of commissioners in canvassing the votes and declaring the result of the election: Parmeter v. Bourne, supra, distinguished; or for an illegal removal, at the instance of a resident taxpayer: Krieschel v. Board of Commissioners, 12 Wash. 428.

And it will also lie at the suit of a county officer to enjoin the removal of a county seat, where the board of county commissioners had never obtained jurisdiction to order the submission of the question to a popular vote: Rickey v. Williams, 8 Wash. 479. Where it appears that the commissioners have "received and compared" the returns and have properly certified to the facts as required by the statute, their decision is conclusive and injunction will not lie to prevent the removal: Heffner v. County Commrs., 16 Wash. 273.

TIDE LANDS.—An upland owner is entitled to an injunction against mere trespassers who are attempting to occupy or interfere with the possession of his tide land frontage: West Coast Imp. Co. v. Winsor, 8 Wash. 490; distinguishing Pierce v. Kennedy, 2 Wash. 324; Morse v. O'Connell, 7 Wash. 117.

But a riparian proprietor cannot maintain an injunction against the owner of valuable improvements in actual use for commerce or trade, made on tide lands in front of his premises prior to March 26, 1890, since such owner may purchase the land improved within sixty days after appraisal: Eisenbach v. Hatfield, 2 Wash. 236.

An occupant of tide land, although possessing a preference right of purchase as an improver, cannot enjoin the occupation and use by another of tide lands in front of his improvements when his access to navigable water is not thereby materially disturbed: Morse v. O'Connell, supra.

The lessee of state tide lands may maintain an action to enjoin continuing trespasses by persons who go thereon at low tide to dig clams and destroy the clam beds, a judgment for damages not affording adequate compensation: Sequim Bay Canning Co. v. Bugge, 49 Wash. 127.

WATER RIGHTS.—The permanent diversion of the waters of a stream by a riparian owner for the purpose of supplying a neighboring town with water is unlawful, and may be enjoined by a lower riparian proprietor: Rigney v. Tacoma L. & W. Co., 9 Wash. 576.

The fact that complainant, in a suit to restrain the diversion of a stream from its natural flow, has a right of action for damages, does not afford such an adequate and effectual relief at law as to bar recourse to a court of equity, when the diversion is a continuing one: Id.

The doctrine of laches or acquiescence cannot be invoked to defeat the application of a lower riparian proprietor for an injunction against the wrongful diversion of a stream against which he had protested but had instituted no legal proceedings, although the diversion had continued nine years: Id.

A tenant of lands may enjoin the threatened diversion of the waters of a stream running over his land, where the diversion is to some other locality, and is not made for the use of the proprietor above or below him: Crook v. Hewitt, 4 Wash. 749.

In an action to enjoin defendant from interfering with plaintiff's use of water of a certain stream, the evidence showing a prior appropriation by plaintiff, and defendant's use confined to a use for drinking purposes, injunction will be sustained: Wold v. May, 10 Wash. 157.

Where an injury to land caused by the discharge of water thereon is a continually recurring one, incapable of being compensated in damages, injunction is the proper remedy: Peters v. Lewis, 28 Wash. 366.

RESTRAINING FORECLOSURE PROCEEDINGS.—In the foreclosure by a wife of a fraudulent chattel mortgage given by her husband, an attaching creditor of the husband is entitled to an injunction to protect his attachment lien: Meacham Arms Co. v. Swarts, 2 W. T. 412.

This right is accorded not only as a matter of equity jurisdiction, but also under § 1110, infra, relating to foreclosure of chattel mortgages: Id.

In an action to restrain the foreclosure sale of mortgaged personalty, the owner claiming the mortgage debt discharged in consideration of a conveyance of land to the mortgagee, evidence of the value of the land and price of subsequent sale is irrelevant: Davis v. Hinchcliffe, 7 Wash. 199.

The enforcement of a void judgment of foreclosure of a mechanic's lien may be enjoined, as, the decree being directed against specific property, a sale thereunder would constitute a cloud upon the title: Quinby v. Slipper, 7 Wash. 475.

COMMUNITY PROPERTY.—The levy of an execution upon community realty under judgment against husband on contract of suretyship may be enjoined at suit of wife: Spinning v. Allen, 10 Wash. 570.

If a judgment has been rendered against the husband alone for a community debt, the levy of an execution thereunder against the separate property of the husband or the community property cannot be enjoined: Curry v. Catlin, 9 Wash. 495.

Injunction will not lie to restrain the sale of community realty against which a decree of sale had been entered in a proceeding for the foreclosure of a mechanic's lien, to which the wife had not been made a party: Turner v. Bellingham Bay L. & M. Co., 9 Wash. 48; distinguishing Sagmeister v. Foss, 4 Wash. 320; L. & S. M. Co. v. Miller, 3 Wash. 480. It will lie to prevent the husband's interest in community lands from being sold on execution to satisfy a judgment against him for his individual debt: Stockand v. Bartlett, 4 Wash. 730.

If a husband contracts to pay a commission for the sale of community lands, without authority from his wife, the wife may enjoin a sale thereof on a judgment against the husband alone on such contract: McGlaulin v. Merriam, 7 Wash. 111.

MISCELLANEOUS CASES.—A court of equity has power, and ought to interfere by injunction to control the action of a trustee during the pendency of the trust, when his acts are prejudicial to the interests of the cestui que trust: Bingham v. Walla Walla, 3 W. T. 68.

If injustice or surprise would result from an alleged false return of the sheriff, the court may protect a party by staying proceedings pending the determination thereof: Wash. Mill Co. v. Kinnear, 1 W. T. 99.

From the time a person enters into possession of public lands in pursuance of the pre-emption laws, whether surveyed or unsurveyed, he is entitled to the protection of the court in his possession: Colwell v. Smith, 1 W. T. 92.

Injunction is authorized by § 941, infra, by one claimant to land, under the laws of the United States, against another claimant who is threatening waste which cannot be compensated in damages; the removal of trees is such an injury as is contemplated thereby: Arment v. Hensel, 5 Wash. 152.

If plaintiff, in violation of law, places and maintains his fence upon a public highway, injunction will not lie against a party destroying or threatening to destroy it: Johnson v. Maxwell, 2 Wash. 482. See, also, Smith v. Mitchell, 21 Wash. 536; Lincoln County v. Fish, 38 Wash. 105.

Injunction will not be granted to restrain the pumping of water from a lake when it is not shown that the owners of abutting property will suffer actual and material injury, but that the fear of threatened injury is theoretical merely, having little or no foundation in actual practical experiment: Wintermute v. Tacoma L. & W. Co., 3 Wash. 727.

Where a lessee of school lands made improvements thereon, which were not appraised when the lands were sold by the state, his remedy to recover their value is not by injunction to prevent a delivery of the contract of sale, but to retain possession until compensated, or sue the purchaser therefor: Wilkes v. Hunt, 4 Wash. 100.

The grant to a water company of a right of way for pipe-line becomes fixed and certain when selection is made under deed and work upon the land is begun, and the grantor cannot thereafter interfere by injunction, unless actual abandonment occur: McCue v. Bellingham Bay W. Co., 5 Wash. 156.

A plaintiff is entitled to injunctive relief where it appears that he would be compelled to part with an incident of title to one who has shown no right to obtain it: Preston-Parton Mill Co. v. Dexter Horton & Co., 22 Wash. 236.

A license to fish is a franchise which entitles the holder to maintain an action for injunction against any infraction of his rights: Walker v. Stone, 17 Wash. 578.

Injunction will not lie to restrain the conducting of a saloon adjacent to a place of business in which a number of men are employed, whose sobriety is necessary to secure beneficial results: Wilkeson Coal & Coke Co. v. Driver, 9 Wash. 177.

Nor will it lie to restrain the sale of intoxicating liquors to plaintiff's employees on the ground that some of such employees become intoxicated, and are disqualified from rendering service to their employer: N. P. Ry. Co. v. Whalen, 3 W. T. 452; affirmed in same, 149 U. S. 157.

The act of the board of county commissioners from granting license for sale of intoxicating liquors, which is exclusively within their jurisdiction, is quasi judicial; and, if erroneous, the remedy is by appeal or certiorari, and not by injunction: Id.

Where proof in replevin shows that defendant has merely a special interest in the property levied on, and does not show the amount, an erroneous judgment against plaintiff should be remedied by appeal and not by injunction: Bowman v. McGregor, 6 Wash. 118.

Prohibition will not lie to restrain courts having original jurisdiction in equity from issuing injunctions in excess of their jurisdiction, when an appeal furnishes a complete remedy from final judgments rendered therein: State v. Jones, 2 Wash. 662.

Upon a hearing after the issuance of a temporary injunction, an order that the injunction be continued pendente lite, and that "an injunction forthwith issue," as prayed for, does not require that another injunction be formally issued, as the order was intended to operate as an injunction upon the filing of the required bond, and to make the temporary order effective thereafter: Collins v. Huffman, 48 Wash. 184.

Acts punishable criminally may be enjoined at the suit of a party specially injured: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1496, § 9; Walker v. Stone, 17 Wash. 578; Ingersoll v. Rousseau, 35 Wash. 92.

As to extent, and effect, of enjoining action or proceedings in same court, see Sibson v. Hamilton & Rourke Co., 21 Wash. 362.

A citizen of this state and domiciled here can be enjoined from prosecuting an action in another state against a citizen of this state, upon a proper showing of facts: Rader v. Stubblefield, 43 Wash. 334.

The right to hold a certain municipal office, as between two contestants therefor, cannot be litigated in an equitable action seeking an injunction against carrying into effect charter amendments whereby the plaintiff was legislated out of office: Mullen v. Tacoma, 16 Wash. 82.

The superior court has jurisdiction to restrain by injunction an interference with a de facto officer's possession of office by an adverse claimant, but cannot in such action determine the title to the office: State ex rel. Fairbanks v. Superior Court, 17 Wash. 12.

Maintenance of offensive slaughterhouse, enjoined: See Wilcox v. Henry, 35 Wash. 591.

Injunction against entering opposition business refused, where sale of business contained no provision as to goodwill: MacMartin v. Stevens, 37 Wash. 616.

As to enjoining boycotts, etc., see Jensen v. Cooks' and Waiters' Union, 39 Wash. 531.

The threatened negligent use of a stream for floatage purposes may be enjoined at the suit of a riparian owner who will be damaged thereby: Mitchell v. Lea Lum. Co., 43 Wash. 195. The granting of a temporary injunction against the removal of standing timber is discretionary, where the plaintiff contends that it is necessary to save the property from waste: Seymour v. La Furgey, 47 Wash. 450. It is error to grant an injunction against the abatement by a landlord of a nuisance on leased premises, where it appears that the tenant was maintaining a nuisance by the operation of heavy, noisy machinery in a storeroom of a hotel, which jarred the building and disturbed the guests of the hotel in a manner not contemplated by the lessor, the lease giving no such right, and the burden of proof being on the plaintiff to show authority for such operation: Spokane Stamp Works v. Ridpath, 48 Wash. 370. In an action of ejectment to recover land upon which there is a growing crop, it is not error to grant an injunction pendente lite to prevent the removal of the crop, on the allegation that the defendants in possession were trespassers threatening to remove the crop, where defendants made no showing to the contrary and they were permitted to remove the crop on the execution of a bond to the plaintiff: O'Connor v. Oliver, 45 Wash. 549.

An order granting or refusing a temporary injunction was not appealable under the organic act (U. S. Rev. Stats., § 1869): Mahneke v. Tacoma, 1 Wash. 18. See § 1716, appeals.

Nor would it lie from an order granting or modifying a temporary injunction under the Code of 1881: N. P. Ry. Co. v. W. F. Co., 2 W. T. 303. An appeal cannot be taken from an order denying a temporary injunction unless the defendant is found to be insolvent: State ex rel. Young v. Superior Court, 43 Wash. 34.

An order sustaining a demurrer to a complaint for an injunction is a final order, and hence appealable, when the plaintiff refuses to plead further, though the effect of the court's ruling is the denial of a temporary injunction, since the matter determined is the sufficiency of the complaint, and not the necessity for the issuance of a restraining order: Peters v. Lewis, 28 Wash. 366.

In an injunction suit, where defendant moves to dissolve the temporary injunction granted plaintiff and also for an injunction against plaintiff, an order denying both branches of the motion without adjudicating plaintiff's prayer for a permanent injunction is not a final judgment, from which an appeal will lie: Johnstone v. Eisenbeis, 1 Wash. 259.

An order granting a temporary injunction cannot be suspended by an appeal therefrom: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1507, § 65; State v. Stallcup, 15 Wash. 263; State ex rel. Byers v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 403; State ex rel. Flaherty v. Superior Court, 35 Wash. 200; State ex rel. Gibson v. Superior Court, 39 Wash. 115.

An appeal from a judgment denying an application for an injunction to prevent a county treasurer from paying a warrant will not be dismissed because of the act of the treasurer in making payment subsequent to appeal, but, if meritorious, judgment for costs will be awarded appellant: Hartson v. Dale, 9 Wash. 379.

If there is a substantial conflict over the facts upon which a temporary injunction has been granted, the appellate court will not disturb the action of the lower court: West Coast Imp. Co. v. Winsor, 8 Wash. 490. If no objection is raised at the trial as to variance, the pleading on appeal will be treated as amended: See Olson v. Seattle, 30 Wash. 687.

The cutting off of a water supply for an electric light plant, which the water company is bound under its franchise to furnish, may be enjoined, especially when there is no other supply of water available: Jenkins v. Columbia Land etc. Co., 13 Wash. 502.

It will be presumed in aid of the jurisdiction to enjoin the cutting off of a water supply by a company having a franchise to supply water for the use of a city and its inhabitants, that no other company has such a franchise, even in the absence of an allegation to that effect: Id.

An order dissolving an injunction against the erection of a high trestle for street-car purposes upon the street in front of one's premises, on condition that the appropriator give bond to pay the owner all damages, is reviewable by writ of review: State ex rel. Smith v. Superior Court, 26 Wash. 278. Error of the court in granting and continuing a temporary injunction, dissolved on final hearing, cannot be reviewed on appeal: See Watkins v. Dorris, 24 Wash. 636.

Erroneous rulings vacating an injunction granted plaintiff and then granting defendant an injunction on the same facts will be reversed on appeal: See De Mers v. Sand Spit Fish Co., 24 Wash. 582.

The court has inherent power to suspend the effect of a perpetual injunction pending appeal by the party against whom the same was granted, and a suspension of the judgment, pending appeal, upon the filing of a bond, to recover damages, does not violate Constitution, article 1, § 16: State ex rel. Burrows v. Superior Court, 43 Wash. 225.

An application for a temporary injunction against trespassing upon plaintiff's land should be denied when his allegation of ownership in the land has been traversed by defendant, and no proof has been submitted on the issue raised: Colby v. Spokane, 12 Wash. 690.

The refusal to grant a temporary injunction restraining a trespass on land is not erroneous, when it appears that the trespass was made by a city for the purpose of excavating for a pipe-line, that proceedings were under way for the condemnation of the land, with a view to the full compensation of the owner therefor, and there is no showing that the injury would be irreparable, that the defendant is insolvent or that the injunction is necessary to prevent a multiplicity of suits: Id.

In an action to rescind a contract of sale on the ground of fraud and recover possession of certain merchandise fraudulently conveyed, or the value of so much thereof as could not be recovered, the plaintiff is not entitled to a temporary injunction against a defendant to whom the debtor had conveyed real estate, when the complaint, unsupported by affidavits, alleges merely that the deed was without consideration and executed in furtherance of a conspiracy to cheat and defraud plaintiff, and that the grantee will dispose of same unless enjoined from so doing; and there is no allegation that the grantee is insolvent or is threatening or about to dispose of said real estate or any other property, and neither the cancellation of the deed nor any other relief than the injunction is sought against the grantee: Rockford Watch Co. v. Rumpf, 12 Wash. 647.

A temporary restraining order to prevent defendant from disposing of real property should not be granted, when a statutory proceeding, such as the filing of a lis pendens, will effect the object desired: Id.; Spokane v. Amsterdamsch Trustees Kantoor, 18 Wash. 81.

Injunction will not lie where there is an adequate remedy at law: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1496; §§ 6, 7; Wilkes v. Hunt, 4 Wash. 100; Spokane v. Amsterdamsch Trustees Kantoor, 18 Wash. 81; Seattle Wharf Co. v. Callvert, 42 Wash. 390.

Equity takes jurisdiction for injunctive relief, if it is more speedy and adequate than the remedy at law: Phelan v. Smith, 22 Wash. 397; Grant v. Cole, 23 Wash. 542.

Where the injury complained of can be compensated in damages, an injunction is not the proper remedy: Lawrence v. Times Printing Co., 22 Wash. 482.

§ 720. (5433.) Injunction for Malicious Erection of Structures.

An injunction may be granted to restrain the malicious erection, by any owner or lessee of land, of any structure intended to spite, injure, or annoy an adjoining proprietor. And where any owner or lessee of land has maliciously erected such a structure with such intent, a mandatory injunction will lie to compel its abatement and removal. [L. '93, p. 44, § 1; 2 H. C., § 268.]

§ 721. (5434.) At What Time Granted.

The injunction may be granted at the time of commencing the action, or at any time afterwards, before judgment in that proceeding. [L. '54, p. 153, § 113; Cd. '81, § 155; 2 H. C., § 269.]

§ 722. (5435.) Notice—Emergency.

No injunction shall be granted until it shall appear to the court or judge granting it that some one or more of the opposite party concerned has had reasonable notice of the time and place of making application, except that in cases of emergency, to be shown in the complaint, the court may grant a restraining order until notice can be given and hearing had thereon. [L. '54, p. 153, § 114; Cd. '81, § 156; 2 H. C., § 270.]

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1506, § 59.

A restraining order issued without notice, on the ground of a temporary emergency, cannot be kept in force pending appeal, nor will delay in moving against it constitute an acquiescence in its permanency or amount to an estoppel from moving for its dissolution: Coleman v. Columbia etc. Ry. Co., 8 Wash. 227; Rockford Watch Co. v. Rumpf, 12 Wash. 647.

When a restraining order has been granted on the ground of emergency, without notice, and an order is made for the adverse party to show cause on a day certain why a temporary injunction should not be granted, but before the hearing thereof the court dismisses the case, such restraining order cannot be kept in force pending appeal from judgment of dismissal: State v. Lichtenberg, 4 Wash. 407.

An injunction granted without notice is void: State ex rel. Boardman v. Ball, 5 Wash. 387; In re Groen, 22 Wash. 53.

The fact that a temporary injunction was granted on motion of respondent, without notice to the appellant, as required by this section, cannot be urged by respondent to defeat the appeal taken from the order granting the motion: Rockford Watch Co. v. Rumpf, 12 Wash. 647. Compare State v. Lichtenberg, supra; Coleman v. Columbia etc. Ry. Co., supra.

An order granting an injunction, without notice to the defendant and without containing any provision limiting it to a day certain upon which a hearing should be had and an opportunity afforded the defendant to show cause why it should not thereafter be continued in force, is void: Larsen v. Winder, 14 Wash. 109; citing State v. Lichtenberg, supra. See, also, Hemen v. Rinehart, 45 Wash. 1; State v. Nicoll, 40 Wash. 517; Meier v. Fidelity Nat. Bank, 43 Wash. 324.

§ 723. (5436.) Affidavits on Hearing of Application.

On the hearing of an application for an injunction, each party may read affidavits. [L. '54, p. 153, § 115; Cd. '81, § 157; 2 H. C., § 271.]

§ 724. (5437.) Terms and Conditions Imposed.

Upon the granting or continuing an injunction, such terms and conditions may be imposed upon the party obtaining it as may be deemed equitable. [L. '54, p. 153, § 116; Cd. '81, § 158; 2 H. C., § 272.]

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1507, §§ 63, 64; Hathaway v. Yakima Water etc. Co., 14 Wash. 469; Everett Water Co. v. Powers, 37 Wash. 143; Davis v. Ford, 15 Wash. 107.

§ 725. (5438.) Bond for Injunction.

No injunction or restraining order shall be granted until the party asking it shall enter into a bond, in such a sum as shall be fixed by the court or judge granting the order, with surety to the satisfaction of the clerk of the superior court, to the adverse party affected thereby, conditioned to pay all damages and costs which may accrue by reason of the injunction or restraining order. The sureties shall, if required by the clerk, justify in like manner as bail upon an arrest, and until they so justify, the clerk shall be responsible for their sufficiency. [L. '54, p. 153, § 117; Cd. '81, § 159; 2 H. C., § 273.]

See infra, § 781, no bond shall fail for defect of form.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1506, § 61; p. 1509, §§ 74-80.

A receiver must, in applying for a temporary restraining order against a stranger to the action in which the receiver had been appointed, give the injunction bond required by this section: Cherry v. Western Wash. etc. Co., 11 Wash. 586; and it is error to grant a receiver an injunction without his complying with the statute. The receivership bond is not a sufficient protection to those whose acts he seeks to enjoin: Keeler v. White, 10 Wash. 420.

The fact that the owner of a mining claim sold it for a less sum after the dissolution of an injunction against his working it than he could have procured prior to the injunction does not entitle him to recover the difference, in the absence of allegation and proof that the claim was less valuable because of the injunction than it was before: Donahue v. Johnson, 9 Wash. 187.

As to measure of damages for wrongfully enjoining tenant from removing building, see Ridpath v. Merriam, 22 Wash. 311. See further, Collins v. Huffman, 48 Wash. 184.

If a prior mortgagee has been enjoined from foreclosing his chattel mortgage on certain goods and making sale thereof to satisfy his claim, and pending injunction the goods have been sold under foreclosure of a junior mortgage, the prior mortgagee may, upon dissolution of the injunction, recover as damages upon the injunction bond the full amount of his claim, if the value of the goods is equal to the amount: White v. Brooke, 11 Wash. 99.

The fact that the obligee in an injunction bond may have a remedy by action for conversion for disposing of goods upon which he has a mortgage lien, will not affect his recovery of damages when suing on the injunction bond: Id.

In an action upon such bond for damages, defendants cannot go behind the decree dissolving the injunction and assail the validity of the agreement upon which the decree was founded: Id.

In an action in which a temporary injunction had been granted, a judgment, after a hearing on the merits, that "defendant is entitled to a dissolution of the restraining order heretofore issued against him and that he go hence with costs," is final and may be offered in proof in an action upon the injunction bond: Donahue v. Johnson, 9 Wash. 187.

Attorneys' fees are not recoverable in an action on an injunction bond, where the injunction is disposed of by a trial of the principal cause on the merits: Id. Nor where the refusal to dissolve was affirmed on appeal, though plaintiff afterward voluntarily dismissed the injunction: See Thompson v. Benson, 41 Wash. 70. See further, White Pine Lum. Co. v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 42 Wash. 569.

Where a demurrer to an injunction in the federal court reached the injunction as effectively as a motion to dissolve would have done, attorney fees are recoverable for services rendered in the presentation of the demurrer: Anderson v. Provident Life and Trust Co., 26 Wash. 192.

The mere acceptance of the statutory attorney's fee upon the dissolution of an injunction is not a waiver of the right to recover attorney's fees in an action upon the injunction bond: Steel v. Gordon, 14 Wash. 521.

The amount of the attorney's fee to be allowed plaintiff in an action on an injunction bond, on account of professional services in the matter of the injunction, is to be fixed by the jury and not by the court: Id. See Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302; Cowie v. Ahrenstedt, 1 Wash. 416; Proulx v. Stetson & Post M. Co., 6 Wash. 476.

That the order appointing a receiver of a corporation did not authorize him to make sale does not prevent recovery in an action by him on an injunction bond given prior to his appointment, for loss of profits occurring after his appointment by reason of the injunction against sales, as only the corporation, its stockholders and creditors, can question his authority to make sales: Steel v. Gordon, supra.

In an action on an injunction bond, the court is warranted in directing the jury that there can be no recovery for loss on sales while the injunction was in force, where it was habitually violated and no sales were in fact prevented thereby: Id.

An order made by the trial court, without notice to plaintiff, discharging a bond which had been given by defendants to secure the vacation of a restraining order against the disposal of the property in controversy, is a nullity, and the plaintiff is entitled to an order for the reinstatement of the bond without notice to the obligors: Kleeb v. Bard, 12 Wash. 140.

§ 726. (5439.) Second Bond When First Insufficient.

When an injunction is granted upon the hearing, after a temporary restraining order, the plaintiff shall not be required to enter into a second bond, unless the former shall be deemed insufficient, but the plaintiff and his surety shall remain liable upon his original bond. § 727. (5440.) Copy of Order Sufficient Writ.

It shall not be necessary to issue a writ of injunction, but the clerk shall issue a copy of the order of injunction duly certified by him, which shall be forthwith served by delivering the same to the adverse party. [L. '54, p. 153, § 119; Cd. '81, § 161; 2 H. C., § 275.]

See infra, § 730, notice, when sufficient service.

§ 728. (5441.) Stay of Judgment—Release of Errors.

In application to stay proceedings after judgment, the plaintiff shall indorse upon his complaint a release of errors in the judgment whenever required to do so by the judge or court. [L. '54, p. 153, § 120; Cd. '81, § 162; 2 H. C., § 276.]

See supra, § 522, stay of execution.

§ 729. (5442.) Who Bound by.

An order of injunction shall bind every person and officer restrained from the time he is informed thereof. [L. '54, p. 153, § 121; Cd. '81, § 163; 2 H. C., § 277.]

An injunction restraining a corporation from doing business operates as against a receiver subsequently appointed: Steel v. Gordon, 14 Wash. 521.

A person not a party to a suit, or in privity with, or sustaining any relation to, the parties, is not bound by an injunction issued therein: Savage v. Sternberg, 19 Wash. 679; State ex rel. Victor Boom Co. v. Peterson, 29 Wash. 571.

Where a restraining order has been served upon the city officers, enjoining the holding of an election, it is their duty to stop the election: State v. Nicoll, 40 Wash. 517. See Jennings v. Mining Co., 29 Wash. 726.

§ 730. (5443.) Notice, When Sufficient Service.

When notice of the application for an injunction has been served upon the adverse party, it shall not be necessary to serve the order upon him, but he shall be bound by the injunction as soon as the bond required of the plaintiff is executed and delivered to the proper officer. [L. '54, p. 154, § 122; Cd. '81, § 164; 2 H. C., § 278.]

See supra, § 727, copy of order sufficient writ.

§ 731. (5444.) Money Collected on Enjoined Judgment to be Paid into Court.

Money collected upon a judgment afterward enjoined, remaining in the hands of the collecting officer, shall be paid to the clerk of the court granting the injunction, subject to the order of the court. [L. '54, p. 154, § 123; Cd. '81, § 165; 2 H. C., § 279.]

§ 732. (5445.) Order Disobeyed—Contempt.

Whenever it shall appear to any court granting an order of injunction, or judge thereof, by affidavit, that any person has willfully disobeyed the order after notice thereof, such court or judge shall award an attachment for contempt against the party charged, or a rule to show cause why it should not issue. The attachment or rule shall be issued by the clerk of the court, and directed to the sheriff, and shall be served by him. [L. '54, p. 154, § 124; Cd. '81, § 166; 2 H. C., § 280.]

See infra, title 33, chapter 3, contempts and their punishment.

See notes to § 719, supra, and §§ 1716, 1722-1724, appeals.

§ 733. (5446.) Arrest and Indemnity.

The attachment for contempt shall be immediately served by arresting the party charged, and bringing him into court, if in session, to be dealt with as in other cases of contempt; and the court shall also take all necessary measures to secure and indemnify the plaintiff against damages in the premises. [L. '54, p. 154, § 125; Cd. '81, § 167; 2 H. C., § 281.]

§ 734. (5447.) Bond for Appearance.

If the court is not in session the officer making the arrest shall cause the person to enter into a bond, with surety, to be approved by the officer, conditioned that he personally appear in open court whenever his appearance shall be required, to answer such contempt, and that he will pay to the plaintiff all his damages and costs occasioned by the breach of the order; and in default thereof, he shall be committed to the jail of the county until he shall enter into such bond with surety, or be otherwise legally discharged. [Cf. L. '54, p. 154, § 126; Cd. '81, § 168; L. '91, p. 97, § 1; 2 H. C., § 282.]

§ 735. (5448.) Motion to Vacate or Modify.

Motions to dissolve or modify injunctions may be made in open court, or before a judge of the superior court, at any time after reasonable notice to the adverse party. [L. '54, p. 154, § 127; Cd. '81, § 169; L. '91, p. 74, § 1; 2 H. C., § 283.]

§ 736. (5449.) Damages upon Dissolution of Injunction to Stay Proceedings.

When an injunction to stay proceedings after judgment for debt or damages shall be dissolved, the court shall award such damages, not exceeding ten per cent, on the judgment, as the court may deem right, against the party in whose favor the injunction issued. [L. '54, p. 154, § 128; Cd. '81, § 170; 2 H. C., § 284.]

§ 737. (5450.) Damages for Waste and Rents, When.

If an injunction to stay proceedings after verdict or judgment in an action for the recovery of real estate, or the possession thereof, be dissolved, the damages assessed against the party obtaining the injunction shall include the reasonable rents and profits of the lands recovered, and all waste committed after granting injunction. [L. '54, p. 154, § 129; Cd. '81, § 171; 2 H. C., § 285.]

See supra, § 725, and notes, bond for injunction.

§ 738. (5451.) Motion to Reinstate.

Upon an order being made dissolving or modifying an order of injunction, the plaintiff may move the court to reinstate the order, and the court may, in its discretion, allow the motion, and appoint a time for hearing the same before the court, or a time and place for hearing before some judge thereof, and upon the hearing, the parties may produce such additional affidavits or depositions as the court shall direct, and the order of injunction shall be dissolved, modified, or reinstated, as the court or judge may deem right. Until the hearing of the motion to reinstate the order of injunction, the order to dissolve or modify it shall be suspended. [L. '54, p. 154, § 130; Cd. '81, § 172; 2 H. C., § 286.]

See supra, § 719, notes, in what case injunction granted.

§ 739. (5452.) Power of Judge or Court.

The judge of the superior court shall have power to make every order which, by the provisions of this chapter, may be made by the court. [L. '69, p. 41, § 171; Cd. '81, § 173; 2 H. C., § 287.]

See supra, § 718, and notes, who shall grant injunction.

CHAPTER V.

RECEIVERS.

§ 740. (5455.) Receiver, Defined.

A receiver is a person appointed by a court or judicial officer to take charge of property during the pending of a civil action or proceeding, or upon a judgment, decree, or order therein, and to manage and dispose of it as the court or officer may direct. [L. '91, p. 90, § 1; 2 H. C., § 325.]

Cited in 15 Wash. 151; 22 Wash. 376; 47 Wash. 184.

A receiver of a shingle company cannot be required to account for profits made by another corporation in a foreign market upon shingles sold by him to such corporation, although himself a stockholder therein, when, as receiver, he had not sufficient funds to enable him to ship his shingles to another market, but sold them for cash to his own corporation at the highest market price in the locality: Chandler v. Cushing-Young Shingle Co., 13 Wash. 89.

Where the court by which a receiver was appointed has fixed his compensation, after the hearing of testimony, and the allowance made is warranted by the testimony adduced, and appears to be reasonable, the exercise of the court's discretion will not be interfered with by the appellate court: Id.

Under this section, any person appointed by the court to take charge of mortgaged chattels during the pendency of foreclosure proceedings is a receiver: Libert v. Unfried, 47 Wash. 182.

§ 741. (5456.) In What Cases Appointed.

A receiver may be appointed by the court in the following cases:—

1. In an action by a vendor to vacate a fraudulent purchase of property, or by a creditor to subject any property or fund to his claim;
2. In an action between partners, or other persons jointly interested in any property or fund;

3. In all actions where it is shown that the property, fund, or rents and profits in controversy are in danger of being lost, removed, or materially injured;

4. In an action by a mortgagee for the foreclosure of a mortgage and the sale of the mortgaged property, when it appears that such property is in danger of being lost, removed, or materially injured; [or when such property is insufficient to discharge the debt, to secure the application of the rents and profits accruing, before a sale can be had;]

5. When a corporation has been dissolved or is insolvent, or is in imminent danger of insolvency, or has forfeited its corporate rights;

6. And in such other cases as may be provided for by law, or when, in the discretion of the court, it may be necessary to secure ample justice to the parties: Provided, that no party or attorney or other person interested in an action shall be appointed receiver therein. [L. '54, p. 162, §§ 171, 172; Cd. '81, § 193; 2 H. C., § 326.]

The last part of subdivision 4 in brackets held to be superseded by § 804, infra: Norfor v. Busby, 19 Wash. 450.

Nature and purpose of remedy: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2462, § 1.

The right to appoint receivers should only be exercised when it is clearly shown to be necessary to prevent the defeat of justice: Roberts v. Washington Nat. Bank, 9 Wash. 12, 15; Whitehouse v. P. D. T. & E. Ry. Co., 9 Wash. 558, 561.

In order to secure the appointment of a receiver, the plaintiff must clearly establish by the proofs that a receiver is necessary to prevent fraud, protect the property from injury or preserve it from destruction, mere allegations of such facts being insufficient: Brundage v. Home etc. Assn., 11 Wash. 277; Wales v. Dennis, 9 Wash. 308; Sengfelder v. Hill, 16 Wash. 355; Spokane v. Amsterdamsch Trustees Kantoor, 18 Wash. 81; Ridpath v. Sans Poil etc. Transp. Co., 26 Wash. 427.

Actions and proceedings in which receiver may be appointed: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2463, § 2; Lammon v. Giles, 3 W. T. 117; Ewing v. Van Wageningen, 6 Wash. 39; P. S. Nat. Bank v. Levy, 10 Wash. 499; Sengfelder v. Hill, 16 Wash. 355; Norfor v. Busby, 19 Wash. 450; Balfour-Guthrie Ins. Co. v. Geiger, 20 Wash. 579.

DISCRETION OF COURT: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2463, § 3; Ridpath v. Sans Poil etc. Ins. Co., 26 Wash. 427; Cameron v. Groveland Imp. Co., 20 Wash. 169; Union Boom Co. v. Samish Boom Co., 33 Wash. 144.

Receiver appointed upon suit of a simple contract creditor: See Davis v. Edwards, 41 Wash. 480.

Property which may be subject of receivership: See Cole v. Pain, 22 Wash. 18.

APPOINTMENT, QUALIFICATION AND TENURE: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2466-2469, §§ 14-30.

Jurisdiction and authority of court or judge: State ex rel. Baum v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 324; State ex rel. Amsterdamsch v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 668; State ex rel. Strohl v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 668.

Subdivisions 3 and 6 of this section give the court power to appoint receivers in cases at law without the supplemental aid of any proceeding in equity: Wash. Iron Works Co. v. Jensen, 3 Wash. 584, 589.

Courts of equity have no jurisdiction of actions to collect a tax or to appoint a receiver for that purpose: Pierce County v. Merrill, 19 Wash. 175.

In the absence of special provisions regulating proceedings in foreclosure of liens on vessels, the court, under its chancery powers, may appoint a receiver to take charge of the property pending proceedings: Wash. Iron Works Co. v. Jensen, 3 Wash. 584. See Lammon v. Giles, 3 W. T. 117. See, also, Davis v. Edwards, 41 Wash. 484.

FORM AND REQUISITES OF APPLICATION.—A complaint by a judgment creditor asking the appointment of a receiver for an insolvent corporation is not open to the objection that it fails to allege that the judgment debtor has no other property out of which plaintiff could satisfy his judgment, when it states that defendant is in failing circumstances, and that it has more judgments already rendered against it than it can pay: Whitehouse v. P. D. T. & E. Ry. Co., 9 Wash. 558. It is error to appoint a receiver pending the litigation in an action for dissolution and accounting of a partnership, when the complaint does not allege the defendant's insolvency, and the answer shows solvency: Wales v. Dennis, 9 Wash. 308.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION.—An order appointing a receiver, made without notice to the adverse party, is void: Larsen v. Winder, 14 Wash. 109; citing Brundage v. Home etc. Assn., 11 Wash. 278; Roberts v. Wash. Nat. Bank, 9 Wash. 12.

As to appointment of temporary receiver without notice, see Cole v. Price, 22 Wash. 18. See further, Haggard v. Sanglin, 31 Wash. 165.

An ex parte appointment of a receiver has no force after the day fixed for the hearing and a continuance or failure to appoint at that time has the effect of a discharge: State ex rel. Washington Match Co. v. Superior Court, 34 Wash. 123.

Upon an application for the appointment of a receiver, the moving party has no right to read affidavits upon the hearing, which have not first been served upon the adverse party: Brundage v. Home etc. Assn., 11 Wash. 277.

When application for appointment is made before defendant has filed his answer, defendant has the right to be heard upon affidavits by way of defense to the application: Whitehouse v. P. D. T. & E. Ry. Co., 9 Wash. 558.

Scope of inquiry and questions considered on application: See Roberts v. Washington Nat. Bank, 9 Wash. 12; Smith v. Hopkins, 10 Wash. 77; Seattle Brew. & Malt. Co. v. Jensen, 36 Wash. 462. The appointment of a receiver based upon a judgment entered without jurisdiction is also without jurisdiction: French v. Ajax Oil & Development Co., 44 Wash. 305.

Collateral attack on appointment: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2468, § 29; Elderkin v. Peterson, 8 Wash. 674; Smith v. Hopkins, 10 Wash. 77; Carroll v. Pac. Nat. Bank, 19 Wash. 639; Jones v. N. P. Fish & Oil Co., 42 Wash. 332.

GROUND FOR APPOINTMENT: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2463-2465, §§ 6-13.

Right or interest requiring protection: See Union Boom Co. v. Samish Boom Co., 33 Wash. 144.

A receiver is properly appointed at the suit of a partner where his copartner, conspiring with others, wrongfully excludes the plaintiff from participating in the partnership business: Whipple v. Lee, 46 Wash. 266.

FRAUD.—The transfer of notes held by one bank to another as collateral security for a loan is not such a fraud as to justify the appointment of a receiver for the bank securing the note: Roberts v. Wash. Nat. Bank, 9 Wash. 12.

A receiver is properly appointed for an insolvent corporation, at the suit of creditors, and the complaint states a cause of action, where it appears that it was, from its inception, a fraudulent scheme on the part of its promoter, that it fraudulently assumed to make sales of property to the plaintiffs without having any title, and that it was without any assets and had conveyed to its promoter and chief stockholder all its property with intent to defraud its creditors: Kelso v. American Investment & Improvement Co., 50 Wash. 381.

Where judgments are rendered against a vendor of a railway without notice to the purchaser, the latter may litigate their validity on the ground of fraud, but the judgment creditor cannot obtain a receiver for the purchasing corporation: Whitehouse v. P. D. T. & E. Ry. Co., 9 Wash. 558.

PRESERVATION OF PROPERTY PENDING LITIGATION.—The fact that a mortgagee in possession of premises is committing waste will not authorize the appointment of a receiver in the absence of proof of the mortgagee's insolvency: Brundage v. Home etc. Assn., 11 Wash. 277. See Spokane v. Amsterdamsch K. T., 18 Wash. 81; Euphrat v. Morrison, 39 Wash. 311.

Where the mortgagee has secured possession of the mortgaged premises without fraud, and there is an indebtedness due under the terms of the mortgage, the mortgagee cannot be deprived of its possession by the appointment of a receiver: Brundage v. Home etc. Assn., 11 Wash. 277.

The appointment of a receiver prior to the sale of real estate under levy of execution, but subsequent to the entry of judgment and the acquisition of a lien thereunder, will not affect the right of the judgment creditor to proceed to make his debt by execution, levy and sale of the debtor's property: Cherry v. Western Washington etc. Co., 11 Wash. 586.

A receiver may be appointed in insolvency proceedings at the instance of the insolvent, with power to take possession of property mortgaged by the latter, and, in a proper case, he will be entitled to fees out of the property in his custody, but he should not be appointed where the property is insufficient to pay the debt secured upon it: Lammon v. Giles, 3 W. T. 117; Ewing v. Van Wagenen, 6 Wash. 39, 47.

Insolvency or misconduct of party: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2464, § 9; Wales v. Dennis, 9 Wash. 308; Clay v. Selah Valley Irr. Co., 14 Wash. 543; Spokane v. Amsterdamsch T. K., 18 Wash. 81; Sibson v. Hamilton & Rourke Co., 21 Wash.

Under subdivision 5 of this section the purpose of placing insolvent corporations in the possession of the court can only be that their assets may be ratably distributed to creditors: Thompson v. Huron L. Co., 4 Wash. 600, 605.

A receiver appointed for an insolvent corporation is a trustee for the corporation and all its creditors, and a bona fide creditor to whom an illegal preference was attempted to be made is entitled to share in the funds on the same basis with other creditors: Thompson v. Huron L. Co., 4 Wash. 600.

The appointment of a receiver in a suit between alleged partners in the publication of a book, upon the allegation that defendant denies the partnership and refuses to recognize the plaintiff or to account to him, is not warranted where it is not shown that the defendant was insolvent, and it appears that the book is not yet completed and cannot be without additional funds, that the partnership is without funds, and that the receivership would only result in failing to complete the book and realizing anything on the venture; since clear necessity must be shown for the appointment: Smith v. Brown, 50 Wash. 240.

Where it does not appear that the concern is insolvent, an action by a receiver of a corporation must be viewed as brought by the corporation, and a defense valid against the corporation is good against the receiver: Shuey v. Holmes, 20 Wash. 13.

APPEAL: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 206, § 380.

After appeal has been perfected from an order appointing a receiver, the lower court has no authority to take any steps or make any order in regard to the receivership: Brundage v. Home etc. Assn., 11 Wash. 278.

No appeal lies from an order removing one receiver and appointing another in his stead: Tilton v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 74.

On an appeal from an order appointing a receiver, full examination is authorized into the law and facts as to whether the trial court abused its discretion: Roberts v. Wash. Nat. Bank, 9 Wash. 12. See further, Davis v. Edwards, 41 Wash. 180; Seattle Brewing & Malting Co. v. Jensen, 36 Wash. 462.

Error in appointment of a receiver at the instance of attaching creditors cannot be urged on appeal by a party who is not a judgment creditor: Puget Sound Nat. Bank v. Levy, 10 Wash. 499.

The making of a general assignment of its property for the benefit of creditors by an insolvent corporation can have no effect upon the power of a court, under this section, to appoint a receiver at the instance of a creditor of the corporation: Oleson v. Bank of Tacoma, 15 Wash. 148.

A deed of assignment by an insolvent corporation can be set aside by the court, upon the subsequent appointment of a receiver at the suit of a creditor of the corporation: Id.

A receiver having been appointed for an insolvent corporation, he is entitled to the possession of all of the assets of the corporation, as against an assignee holding under a prior voluntary assignment executed by the corporation while insolvent: Id. See further, Radebaugh v. Tacoma & Puyallup R. Co., 8 Wash. 570; Jones v. N. P. Fish Co., 42 Wash. 332; Belding v. Wash. Cornice Co., 36 Wash. 549.

Invalid or irregular appointments, etc.: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2463, §§ 25-30.

Where the superior court of one county has appointed a receiver, it is error for such court of another county to appoint either the same or another receiver: See Fernald v. Spokane & B. C. Tel. Co., 31 Wash. 219.

Creditors who have acquiesced in the appointment of a receiver are estopped from attacking the appointment as fraudulent: Manhattan Trust Co. v. Seattle Coal & Iron Co., 16 Wash. 499.

As to removal of receiver and vacation of orders, see Balfour-Guthrie Inv. Co. v. Geiger, 20 Wash. 579; Wooding v. Wooding & Co., 10 Wash. 531.

§ 742. (5457.) Oath and Bond.

Before entering upon his duties, the receiver must be sworn to perform them faithfully, and, with one or more sureties approved by the court, execute a bond to such person as the court may direct, conditioned that he will faithfully discharge the duties of receiver in the action, and obey the orders of the court therein. [L. '54, p. 162, § 173; Cd. '81, § 194; 2 II. C., § 327.]

§ 743. (5458.) Powers of Receiver.

The receiver shall have power, under control of the court, to bring and defend actions, to take and keep possession of the property, to receive rents, collect debts, and generally to do such acts respecting the property as the court may authorize. [L. '54, p. 163, § 177; Cd. '81, § 198; 2 H. C., § 331.]

See supra, § 741, and notes, in what cases appointed.

Cited in 15 Wash. 653; 22 Wash. 377.

POSSESSION: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2469-2472, §§ 31-45. A receiver of an insolvent corporation takes no title to property in the actual custody of the sheriff under attachment lien when sheriff and lienor have not been made parties to the action in which the receiver was appointed: State ex rel. Hunt v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 210; State ex rel. Rice v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 659; State v. Graham, 9 Wash. 528. The fact that a party applying for a writ of assistance does so in his capacity as a receiver would not entitle him to the writ, if any other citizen, under the same circumstances, could not legally obtain it: State ex rel. Baruch v. More, 21 Wash. 628. See, also, Kidder v. Beavers, 33 Wash. 635.

The appointment of a receiver of a railroad corporation has the same effect in law as though the creditors had taken possession of the property under legal process, and the right of a mortgagee to possession thereof does not give him any priority over creditors when the right accrues subsequent to the receiver's appointment: Radebaugh v. T. & P. Ry. Co., 8 Wash. 570.

An attaching creditor, whose application to intervene in a proceeding for the appointment of a receiver has no remedy by appeal, but may resort to prohibition to prevent the receiver from taking possession of the property attached: State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 77.

When the appointment of a receiver is unwarranted, his possession is wrongful, and he is not entitled to compensation for his personal services out of the trust funds in his hands, but he should be allowed the amount of his necessary and proper disbursements while in charge of the property, including reasonable compensation for attorney employed: Brundage v. Home etc. Assn., 11 Wash. 288.

Prohibition will not lie to prevent the carrying into effect of an order of the superior court restraining the sale of the property of an insolvent corporation upon the execution levy of a judgment creditor and ordering the transfer of the property to the hands of the receiver, when such judgment creditor has been made a party to the injunction suit, and the order therein fully preserves and protects its rights: State v. Superior Court, 11 Wash. 63.

It is within the discretion of the court to permit claims against a receiver to be determined by petition in the original action in which he was appointed, or by an independent suit: Blake v. State Sav. Bank, 12 Wash. 619.

Property vesting in receiver: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2469, §§ 32-34; Watterson v. Masterson, 15 Wash. 511; Degginger v. Seattle Brew & Malt Co., 41 Wash. 385; Griffith v. Burlingame, 18 Wash. 429.

Rights of action: Cole v. Sastop R. Co., 9 Wash. 487; Whitman v. Mast-Buford etc. Co., 11 Wash. 318.

Title or right acquired by receiver and time of vesting: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2470, §§ 36, 37; Puget Sound Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Levy, 10 Wash. 499; Willamette Casket Co. v. Cross Undertaking Co., 12 Wash. 190; Woodward v. Winehill, 14 Wash. 394; Steel v. Gordon, 14 Wash. 521; State ex rel. Kirsch v. Superior Court, 36 Wash. 91.

After the appointment and qualification of a receiver in a state court, the appointment of a trustee in bankruptcy by the federal court does not deprive the state court of jurisdiction or the receiver of the right to possession of the property: Springer v. Ayer, 50 Wash. 642.

Failure to obey order to turn over property to receiver: See State v. Denham, 30 Wash. 643.

Supervision and instructions of court: See Cannon v. Snipes, 24 Wash. 166.

Sale and conveyance of property: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2474, §§ 56-61; State ex rel. Sanglin v. Superior Court, 30 Wash. 232; Nisbet v. Great Northern Clay Co., 41 Wash. 107; Bidwell v. Rice, 19 Wash. 146.

Confirmation of sale and receiver's certificates, see Nisbet v. Great Northern Clay Co., 41 Wash. 107.

Allowance and payment of claims: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2475, §§ 62-70; Wash. Mill Co. v. Sprague Lumber Co., 19 Wash. 165; Cannon v. Snipes, 24 Wash. 166; Thompson v. Huron Lum. Co., 4 Wash. 600; Biddle Purchasing Co. v. Port Townsend Steel etc. Co., 16 Wash. 681.

Priorities: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2475, § 66; Bellingham Bay Imp. Co. v. Fairhaven etc. R. Co., 17 Wash. 371; Davis v. Foster, 29 Wash. 363; Manhattan Trust Co. v. Seattle Coal & Iron Co., 19 Wash. 493; Baker v. King County, 17 Wash. 622; Hewitt v. Traders' Bank, 18 Wash. 326; Bartlett v. Reichenecker, 11 Wash. 692.

ACTIONS: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2478, §§ 78-84.

An application for permission to sue a receiver is addressed to the sound discretion of the court, and an order denying the application will be upheld unless this discretion has been abused: Meeker v. Sprague, 5 Wash. 242.

A receiver cannot be sued without leave of the court appointing him. Leave to sue is jurisdictional, and cannot be waived, and the question may be raised at any stage of the proceedings: Brown v. Rauch, 1 Wash. 497. Distinguished in Kidder v. Beaver, 33 Wash. 641.

It is unnecessary to serve a receiver appointed in an action with notice of application to settle a statement of facts: Tompson v. Huron L. Co., 5 Wash. 527.

The objection that leave to sue a receiver was not obtained by plaintiff is waived if not raised in the court below: Sligh v. Shelton Southwestern R. Co., 20 Wash. 16; Payson v. Jacobs, 38 Wash. 203. See, also, Bennett v. Northern Pac. R. R. Co., 17 Wash. 534. Leave of the court appointing a receiver to sue is not necessary before instituting suits in matters connected with his trust: Compton v. Schwabacher Bros. & Co., 15 Wash. 306; following Hardin v. Sweeney, 14 Wash. 129.

A receiver may sue in his own name upon causes of action existing in favor of the person or corporation for which he has been appointed. And failure to allege in his complaint that he is authorized to bring the action does not render the complaint obnoxious on general demurrer: Hardin v. Sweeney, 14 Wash. 129; Allen v. Baxter, 42 Wash. 434.

A receiver of an insolvent corporation may, in behalf of creditors, disaffirm acts of the corporation and maintain action to set aside transfers and conveyances of the corporate property made in fraud of their rights: Washington Mill Co. v. Sprague Lum. Co., 19 Wash. 165.

The receiver of an insolvent corporation appointed in a proceeding prosecuted by creditors possesses the rights of the creditors and may maintain an action to enforce stock subscriptions: Cole v. Satsop Ry. Co., 9 Wash. 487, 43 Am. St. Rep. 858; Elderkin v. Peterson, 8 Wash. 674.

And in such an action the defendant cannot question the regularity of his appointment, nor the judgment of the court as to the necessity for the action: Elderkin v. Peterson, supra. See, also, Titlow v. Cascade Oat Meal Co., 15 Wash. 652.

Setoffs and counterclaims against receiver: See Sheafe v. Hastie, 16 Wash. 563.

As to right of action against receiver, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2477, §§ 75, 87; Flynn v. Furth, 25 Wash. 105; Vasele v. Grant St. Elec. R. Co., 16 Wash. 602; Casey v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 15 Wash. 450; Casey v. Oakes, 17 Wash. 409; Meeker v. Sprague, 5 Wash. 242; Blake v. State Bank, 12 Wash. 619; Denny v. Cole, 22 Wash. 372.

Joinder or intervention of receiver in actions by others: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2479, § 840; Denton v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 18 Wash. 387; Muhlenberg v. Tacoma, 25 Wash. 36; Childs v. Blethen, 40 Wash. 340. Where an action is brought against the receiver of an insolvent, to recover property of the insolvent, and the receiver defends for the benefit of creditors, a complaint in intervention on behalf of certain creditors is demurrable as showing no right to intervene, where it sets up the same claims made on their behalf by the receiver in an answer filed in their interest and in the interest of all creditors who file their claims, since the receiver represents the creditors: Springer v. Ayer, 50 Wash. 642.

Garnishment of property in hands of receiver: Russell v. Millett, 20 Wash. 212.

One partner cannot, subsequent to the appointment of a receiver in a suit for dissolution, by cross-complaint, bring in other parties alleged to be conspiring to defraud the partnership. The proper practice is for the receiver to institute the suit: Capecci v. Alladio, 8 Wash. 637.

The action of the court in placing an insolvent corporation in a receiver's hands, even if erroneous, cannot be attacked in an action by the receiver to recover certain property of the company, to the possession of which he, as receiver, was entitled: Smith v. Hopkins, 10 Wash. 77.

A judgment creditor, who is not a party, by intervention or otherwise, to an action in which a receiver for his debtor was appointed, cannot appear therein without leave and move to vacate the order of appointment: Wooding v. Wooding, 10 Wash. 531.

An order appointing a receiver pending suit is interlocutory and may be vacated: See Balfour-Guthrie Inv. Co. v. Geiger, 20 Wash. 579.

The fact that, subsequent to the commencement of a suit by a receiver to restrain an execution sale of the trust property, a judgment creditor acquires an attachment lien does not suffice to give such creditor priority over the receiver: State v. Superior Court, 11 Wash. 63; distinguished in State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 77; State v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 210.

Collection of assets by receiver: See Barto v. Nix, 15 Wash. 563; Childs v. Blethen, 40 Wash. 340.

Distribution of pro rata share to creditor not res judicata where he was surety for insolvent corporation: See Johnson v. Shuey, 40 Wash. 22.

POWERS, ETC.: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2472, §§ 46 et seq. and §§ 71 et seq.

A receiver must, in applying for a temporary restraining order against a stranger to the action in which the receiver has been appointed, give the injunction bond required by § 725, supra: Cherry v. Western Wash. etc. Co., 11 Wash. 586.

A receiver cannot, by petition in the receivership proceedings, make a stranger a party thereto for the purpose of determining his rights to property in dispute between them, when there is no allegation in the petition that the stranger had taken the property from the possession of the receiver or hindered him in the discharge of his duties: Id.

A receiver who, without securing a modification of the decree which was inconsistent with the findings and conclusions of the court, has followed the court's conclusions and made payments of funds accordingly, can be compelled to pay a claimant a sum of money in excess of what is remaining in his hands, when this sum is due according to the decree as actually rendered: Bartlett v. Reicheneker, 11 Wash. 692.

The fact that a creditor of an insolvent corporation is a director and stockholder thereof does not prevent his participating in the funds in the receiver's hands: Tompson v. Huron L. Co., 4 Wash. 600.

An order directing the distribution of funds paid into the registry of the court by a receiver is appealable: State v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 696.

A deed from a corporation to a receiver for the creditors thereof can in no way affect the rights of a prior mortgagee of the corporate property: Meeker v. Sprague, 5 Wash. 242.

A receiver who sells the assets of the business for cash at their full value, to a firm of which he is manager, will not be called on to account for profits made by the latter firm, when it appears that the state was benefited thereby and the circumstances justified the sale: Chandler v. Cushing-Young etc. Co., 13 Wash. 89.

But a sale by a receiver of the trust property to a corporation in which he is a stockholder, is voidable at the election of the beneficiaries, but a claim by the beneficiaries to the proceeds of the sale is a ratification of the sale: Chandler v. Cushing-Young etc. Co., supra.

The receiver of a corporation may refuse to carry out a contract of the corporation, without being liable for its breach, as otherwise the liability of a corporation on executory contracts would constitute a preferred claim: Scott v. Rainier Power etc. Co., 13 Wash. 108.

A receiver is not personally liable for loss resulting from the operation of the business, unless it resulted from some act of his which he was not authorized to perform: Chandler v. Cushing-Young etc. Co., supra.

A final order confirming and approving the final account of a receiver is appealable: Id.

A sale by the receiver to himself of the trust property is not per se void, but voidable merely at the election of the cestui que trust, and where the beneficiary claims the proceeds he must be held as ratifying the sale: Id.

Payment of wages of employees of receiver: See Oudin & Bergman Fire Clay Min. Co. v. Cole, 35 Wash. 647.

A receiver appointed to conduct the business of a corporation pending an action is not liable as such receiver in an action for damages for his refusal to perform an executory contract of the corporation: Scott v. Rainier Power & Ry. Co., 13 Wash. 108. And does not ratify a void lease by accepting rent when he is ignorant of the material facts: See Groveland Imp. Co. v. Farmers' Supply Co., 25 Wash. 344.

The provisions of 24 U. S. Stats. at Large, 554, §§ 2, 3, providing that a receiver appointed to conduct the business of a corporation pending an action in a United States court shall manage the property according to the requirements of the valid laws of the state in which the property is situated, in the same manner as the owner would be bound to do, applies only to things occurring while the receiver is in possession, and does not make him responsible for liabilities growing out of contracts entered into before his appointment: Id.

A receiver who, without securing a modification of a decree which is inconsistent with the findings and conclusions of the court, has followed the court's conclusions and made payment of funds accordingly, can be compelled to pay a claimant a sum of money in excess of what is remaining in his hands, where this sum is due according to the decree as actually rendered: Bartlett v. Reicheneker, 11 Wash. 692.

In an action by a receiver, failure to introduce in evidence the order appointing him will not entitle defendant to a nonsuit, when the plaintiff testifies without objection that he is such receiver, and the action is instituted in the court which had appointed him receiver, and there is no showing of want of authority to bring suit: Titlow v. Cascade Oat Meal Co., 15 Wash. 652.

FEES.—An allowance of $100 to a receiver as compensation for attorneys employed to institute a suit for the collection of $360 due for rent is excessive: Brundage v. Home etc. Assn., 11 Wash. 288. See Oudin & Bergman Fire Clay Min. Co. v. Cole, 35 Wash. 647.

Although allowance of compensation to receivers rests largely in the court's discretion, yet such orders are generally subject to review: Tompson v. Huron L. Co., 5 Wash. 527; but see Chandler v. Cushing-Young etc. Co., 13 Wash. 89; Hewitt v. Traders' Bank, 18 Wash. 326; Van Brocklin v. Queen City Print. Co., 21 Wash. 447.

In determining the amount of compensation to be allowed a receiver, the responsibility assumed, skill and labor expended, should be considered, and the remuneration fixed upon charges usually paid for similar services, in view of the facts of the particular case: Tompson v. Huron L. Co., supra; cited in note to Heffron v. Rice, 41 Am. St. Rep. 277.

Liabilities of parties, property, or funds for compensation and expenses: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2481, § 95; Lammon v. Giles, 3 W. T. 117; Cannon v.

Snipes, 24 Wash. 166; Cannon v. Snipes, 32 Wash. 243.

§ 744. (5459.) Order When Part of Claim Admitted.

When the answer of the defendant admits part of the plaintiff's claim to be just, the court, on motion, may order the defendant to satisfy that part of the claim, and may enforce the order by execution or attachment. [L. '54, p. 153, § 178; Cd. '81, § 199; 2 H. C., § 332.]

CHAPTER VI.

DEPOSITS IN COURTS.

§ 745. (5460.) Deposits in Court.

When it is admitted by the pleading or examination of a party that he has in his possession, or under his control, any money, or other thing capable of delivery, which, being the subject of the litigation, is held by him as trustee for another party, or which belongs or is due to another party, the court may order the same to be deposited in court, or delivered to such party, with or without security, subject to the further direction of the court. [L. '54, p. 163, § 174; Cd. '81, § 195; 2 H. C., § 328.]

Cited in 28 Wash. 406; 31 Wash. 103.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 628, 629, §§ 1-3; State ex rel. Schwabacher Bros. v. Superior Court, 13 Wash. 638; Mansfield v. First Nat. Bank, 6 Wash. 603; Munroe v. Sedro Lbr. etc. Co., 16 Wash. 694; State ex rel. Grass v. White, 40 Wash. 560.

This section is inapplicable to property held by an officer by virtue of his office, such as money, books, and insignia of office, which are held by a tenure different from that of a mere trustee: State ex rel. Byers v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 403.

§ 746. (5461.) Manner of Enforcing Order.

Whenever, in the exercise of its authority, a court shall have ordered the deposit or delivery of money or other thing, and the order is disobeyed, the court, besides punishing the disobedience as for contempt, may make an order requiring the sheriff to take the money or thing, and deposit or deliver it, in conformity with the direction of the court. [L. '54, p. 163, § 175; Cd. '81, § 196; 2 H. C., § 329.]

See infra, § 1049 et seq., contempts and their punishment.

§ 747. (5462.) Custody of Money Deposited.

Money deposited or paid into a court in an action shall not be loaned out, unless with the consent of all parties having an interest in or making claim to the same. [L. '54, p. 163, § 176; Cd. '81, § 197; 2 H. C., § 330.]

CHAPTER VII.

ARREST AND BAIL.

§ 748. (5463.) No Arrest Except as Provided by Statute.

No person shall be arrested or held to bail in any civil action except upon the order of the court where the action is brought, or a judge of the supreme court. [L. '54, p. 145, § 73; Cd. '81, § 115; 2 H. C., § 228.]

The organization of the courts of the state, as effected by the constitution (Art. IV), and the prohibition of imprisonment for debt (Art. I, § 17), make it questionable whether this statute is in harmony with the constitution.

See notes to next section.

Arrest in civil actions: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 268, 269, §§ 1-5.

Payment of costs adjudged against a complaining witness in a suit maliciously instituted by him may be enforced by imprisonment: See Colby v. Backus, 19 Wash. 347.

A decree for alimony may be enforced by imprisonment without infringing Constitution, Article I, § 17: See In re Cave, 26 Wash. 213.

§ 749. (5464.) Defendant, When Subject to Arrest.

The defendant may be arrested in the following cases:—

1. In an action for the recovery of damages, on a cause of action not arising out of contract, where the defendant is a nonresident of the state, or is about to remove therefrom, or where the action is for an injury to person or character, or for injuring, or for wrongfully taking, detaining, or converting property;

2. In an action for a fine or penalty, or on a promise to marry, or for money received, or property embezzled, or fraudulently misapplied, or converted to his own use, by a public officer, or by an attorney, or by an officer or agent of a corporation in the course of his employment as such, or by any factor, agent, broker, or other person in a fiduciary capacity, or for any misconduct or neglect in office or in a professional employment;

3. In an action to recover the possession of personal property unjustly detained, when the property, or any part thereof, has been concealed, removed, or disposed of, so that it cannot be found or taken by the sheriff, and with intent that it should not be so found or taken, or with the intent to deprive the plaintiff of the benefit thereof;

4. When the defendant has been guilty of a fraud in contracting the debt, or incurring the obligation for which the action is brought, or in concealing or disposing of the property, for the taking, detention, or conversion of which the action is brought;

5. When the defendant has removed or disposed of his property, or is about to do so, with intent to defraud his creditors;

6. When the action is to prevent threatened injury to or destruction of property, in which the party bringing the action has some right, interest, or title, which will be impaired or destroyed by such injury or destruction, and the danger is imminent that such property will be destroyed or its value impaired, to the injury of the plaintiff;

7. On the final judgment or order of any court in this state, while the same remains in force, when the defendant, having no property subject to execution, or not sufficient to satisfy such judgment, has money which he ought to apply in payment upon such judgment, which he refuses to apply, with intent to defraud the plaintiff, or when he refuses to comply with a legal order of the court, with intent to defraud the plaintiff; or when any one or more of the causes exist for which an arrest is allowed in the first class of cases mentioned in this section. [L. '54, p. 145, § 74; Cd. '81, § 116; 2 H. C., § 229.]

Cited in 3 Wash. 136.

If a defendant has been arrested and held to bail in a civil action, but the final judgment in the cause is for a money judgment alone, and does not carry forward the provisional remedy of arrest in any manner, the case stands as if the court below had vacated the order of arrest, and defendant is discharged of any claim to take his body in execution: Bur- richter v. Cline, 3 Wash. 135; compare Cline v. Burrichter, 2 Wash. 165.

It seems that, under article I, § 17, of the Constitution, abolishing imprisonment for debt, except in case of absconding debtors, §§ 116, 117, Code of 1881 (§§ 749, 750 of this volume), have been rendered inoperative, and an arrest thereunder is illegal: Burrichter v. Cline, supra.

And to set forth in an affidavit that a defendant is about to depart from the state with intent to defraud his creditors, with other allegations of like conclusions, is not stating any fact upon which a court can be legally satisfied that an order of arrest should be made: Id.

§ 750. (5465.) Proof Required to Obtain Order.

The court or judge making the order of arrest shall first be satisfied, by the affidavit of the party, or his agent or attorney, and other proof under oath, exclusive of the complaint, that the case is one in which an arrest is provided for in section 749, and that one or more of the prescribed causes exist, which proof shall be in writing, and, together with the order, be filed with the clerk before he shall issue any warrant for the arrest. [Cf. L. '54, p. 145, § 75; Cd. '81, § 117; L. '88, p. 31, § 1; 2 H. C., § 230.]

An order of arrest in a civil action is not a special proceeding, but is a provisional remedy, merely ancillary to the action and consequently not appealable: Cline v. Harmon, 2 Wash. 155; Cline v. Tacoma Stove Co., 2 Wash. 164; Cline v. Burrichter, 2 Wash. 165.

§ 751. (5466.) Court or Judge must Fix Bail.

The court or judge making the order shall, in all cases, specify therein the amount in which the defendant shall be held to bail, which shall, in no case, exceed the demand of the plaintiff, and one hundred dollars in addition thereto, which amount the clerk shall indorse upon the writ, and the court shall also, in the order, fix the amount of the bond to be given by the plaintiff, as provided in the next succeeding section, which amount shall in no case be less than one hundred dollars. [L. '54, p. 146, § 76; Cd. '81, § 118; 2 H. C., § 231.]

§ 752. (5467.) Bond Required of Plaintiff.

Before any clerk shall issue a warrant for the arrest of the defendant, he shall require the plaintiff to place on file in his office a copy of the order granting the warrant, unless the same was made in open court, and appears in the minutes, the original affidavit and proofs upon which the order was made, and a bond, on behalf of the plaintiff, in such an amount as the court or judge may have fixed in the order, with sureties to the satisfaction of the clerk, conditioned to pay to the defendant all damages which he shall suffer and all expenses he shall incur by reason of such arrest or imprisonment, if the order shall be vacated in the manner provided for in the next succeeding section, or if the plaintiff fail to recover in his action. [L. '54, p. 146, § 77; Cd. '81, § 119; 2 H. C., § 232.]

§ 753. (5468.) Defendant may Move to Vacate Order—Proceedings Thereon.

The defendant may, on motion, apply to the court to vacate the order of arrest, on the ground of insufficiency of the proof, or he may show that the facts alleged upon which the order issued are untrue, or he may apply to have the amount of bail reduced. If the court, upon any such motion, shall vacate the order, the defendant shall be discharged from the arrest, and any bond he may have given shall be canceled, but the action, unless dismissed for other cause, shall be conducted in the same manner as in cases where complaint and notice were duly served and filed. [L. '54, p. 146, § 78; Cd. '81, § 120; 2 H. C., § 233.]

COMPLAINT AND DAMAGES FOR MALICIOUS ARREST.—In the complaint for such an arrest in civil cases, it must be averred or shown that the proceedings in which the arrest was made had terminated favorably for the defendant: Ferguson v. Tobey, 1 W. T. 275. And the plaintiff cannot be asked, in an action for damages for malicious arrest and prosecution, to state the amount of damages he sustained by the alleged tort; the witness must state facts, and let the jury estimate the damages. In mitigation of damages for imprisonment, it may be shown that defendant refused to accept bail: Id.

Municipality not liable for arrest under void ordinance: See Simpson v. Whatcom, 33 Wash. 392.

§ 754. (5469.) Warrant must not Issue Till Complaint is Filed.

When an order of arrest is granted prior to the filing of the complaint, the warrant shall not issue until the complaint is filed with the clerk, and a copy of said complaint shall be served on the defendant with the warrant; but an order of arrest may be granted at any time after the action is commenced, and before judgment is satisfied, when the party seeking the order shall comply with the preceding provisions in regard to arrests. [L. '54, p. 146, § 79; Cd. '81, § 121; 2 H. C., § 234.]

§ 755. (5470.) Warrant must State Cause of Arrest.

The warrant shall, in all cases, contain a short statement of the alleged causes for which the order was granted, and also the amount for which bail is required. [L. '54, p. 146, § 83; Cd. '81, § 125; 2 H. C., § 235.]

§ 756. (5471.) Defendant Entitled to Copy of Warrant.

The warrant must be delivered to the sheriff, who, upon arresting the defendant, must deliver to him a copy thereof. [L. '54, p. 146, § 80; Cd. '81, § 122; 2 H. C., § 236.]

§ 757. (5472.) How Warrant Executed—Fees of Sheriff.

The sheriff shall execute the warrant by arresting the defendant, and keeping him in custody until discharged by law. And the plaintiff, in the first instance, shall be liable for the sheriff's fees, for the food and maintenance of any person under arrest, which, if required by the sheriff, shall be paid weekly in advance. And such fees so paid shall be added to the costs taxed or accruing in the case, and be collected as other costs. And if the plaintiff shall neglect to pay such fees for three days after a demand, in writing, upon the plaintiff or his attorney for payment, the sheriff may discharge defendant out of custody. [L. '54, p. 146, § 81; Cd. '81, § 123; 2 H. C., § 237.]

§ 758. (5473.) Conditions of Bail Bond.

The defendant may give bail by causing a bond to be executed by two or more sufficient sureties, stating their places of residence and occupations, conditioned that the defendant shall at all times render himself amenable to the process of the court during the pendency of the action, and to such as may be issued to enforce the judgment rendered therein; or if he be arrested for the cause mentioned in the third subdivision of section 749, it shall be further conditioned that the specific article of property, or instrument of writing which is the subject matter of the writ, shall be forthcoming, to abide any order which shall be made therein; or if he be arrested for the cause mentioned in the sixth subdivision of said section, it shall be further conditioned that he will not commit the injury or destruction alleged to be threatened in the affidavit or proofs on which the arrest is ordered. [L. '54, p. 147, § 82; Cd. '81, § 124; 2 H. C., § 238.]

§ 759. (5474.) Surrender of Defendant.

At any time before a failure to comply with their bonds, the bail may surrender the defendant in their exoneration, or he may surrender himself to the sheriff of the county where he was arrested, in the following manner:—

1. A certified copy of the bail bond shall be delivered to the sheriff, who shall retain the defendant in his custody thereon as upon an order of arrest, and by a certificate in writing, acknowledge the surrender;

2. Upon the production of a copy of the bail bond and sheriff's certificate a judge of the superior court may, upon a notice to the plaintiff of eight days, with a copy of the certificate, order that the bail be exonerated, and on filing the order and the papers used on such application, they shall be exonerated accordingly. But this section does not apply to an arrest for the cause mentioned in the sixth subdivision of section 749. [L. '54, p. 147, § 84; Cd. '81, § 126; 2 H. C., § 239.]

§ 760. (5475.) Bail may Arrest Defendant, When.

For the purpose of surrendering the defendant, the bail, at any time or place before they are finally discharged, may themselves arrest him, or, by written authority indorsed upon a certified copy of the bond, may empower any person of suitable age and discretion to do so. [L. '54, p. 147, § 85; Cd. '81, § 127; 2 H. C., § 240.]

§ 761. (5476.) Proceeding Against Bail.

In case of failure to comply with the condition of the bond, the bail can be proceeded against by action only. [L. '54, p. 147, § 86; Cd. '81, § 128; 2 H. C., § 241.]

§ 762. (5477.) Exoneration of Bail.

The bail may be exonerated either by the death of the defendant, or his imprisonment in the penitentiary, or by his legal discharge from the obligation to render himself amenable to the process, or by his surrender to the sheriff of the county where he was arrested, in exoneration thereof, within twenty days after commencement of the action against the bail, or within such further time as may be granted by the court. [L. '54, p. 148, § 87; Cd. '81, § 129; 2 H. C., § 242.]

§ 763. (5478.) Return of Sheriff—Exceptions to Bail.

Within the time limited for that purpose, the sheriff must deliver the order of arrest to the clerk, with his return indorsed thereon, and the bond of the bail, or a copy thereof. The plaintiff, within ten days thereafter, may serve upon the sheriff a notice that he does not accept the bail, or he must be deemed to have accepted it, and the sheriff shall be exonerated from liability. [L. '54, p. 148, § 88; Cd. '81, § 130; 2 H. C., § 243.]

§ 764. (5479.) Notice of Justification.

On the receipt of notice, the sheriff or defendant may, within ten days thereafter, give to the plaintiff or his attorney notice of the justification of the same, or their bail (specifying the places of residences and occupations of the latter), before judgment [the judge] of the court or justice of the peace, at a specified time and place, the time to be not less than five days nor more than ten thereafter. In case other bail be given, there must be a new bond in the form prescribed in section 758. [L. '54, p. 148, § 89; Cd. '81, § 131; 2 H. C., § 244.]

§ 765. (5480.) Qualifications of Bail.

The qualifications of the bail shall be as follows:—

1. Each of them shall be a resident of the state; but no counselor or attorney at law, sheriff, clerk of the superior court, or other officer of such court, shall be permitted to become bail in any action;

2. Each of the bail shall be worth the amount specified in the order of arrest, or the amount to which the order may be reduced, as provided in this chapter, over and above all debts and liabilities, and exclusive of property exempt from execution; but the judge or justice, on justification, may allow more than two sureties to justify, severally, in amounts less than that expressed in the order, if the whole justification be equivalent to that of two sufficient bail. [L. '54, p. 138, § 90; Cd. '81, § 132; 2 H. C., § 245.]

§ 766. (5481.) Justification, How Made.

For the purpose of justification, each of the bail must attend before the judge or justice of the peace at the time and place mentioned in the notice, and may be examined on oath on the part of the plaintiff touching his sufficiency, in such manner as the judge or justice of the peace, in his discretion, may think proper. The examination must be reduced to writing and subscribed by the bail, if required by the plaintiff. [L. '54, p. 148, § 91; Cd. '81, § 133; 2 H. C., § 246.]

§ 767. (5482.) Order When Bail Found Sufficient.

If the judge or justice find the bail sufficient, he shall indorse his allowance thereof on the bond, and cause it to be filed with the clerk, and the sheriff shall thereupon be exonerated from liability. [L. '54, p. 148, § 92; Cd. '81, § 134; 2 H. C., § 247.]

§ 768. (5483.) Deposit of Money Instead of Bail.

The defendant may at the time of his arrest, instead of giving bail, deposit with the sheriff the amount mentioned in the order. The sheriff must thereupon give the defendant a certificate of deposit, and the defendant shall be discharged from custody. [L. '54, p. 148, § 93; Cd. '81, § 135; 2 H. C., § 248.]

§ 769. (5484.) Sheriff must Pay Bail Money into Court.

The sheriff shall, within ten days after the deposit, pay the same into court, and take from the officer receiving the same two certificates of such payment, the one of which he must deliver to the plaintiff and the other to the defendant. For any default in making such payment, the same proceeding may be had on the official bond of the sheriff to collect the sum deposited, as in case of delinquency. [L. '54, p. 149, § 94; Cd. '81, § 136; 2 H. C., § 249.]

§ 770. (5485.) Bail may be Substituted for Money.

If the money be deposited, as provided in the last two sections, bail may be given and justified, upon notice as hereinbefore provided, at any time before judgment; and thereupon the judge before whom justification is had shall direct in the order of allowance that the money deposited be refunded by the sheriff or clerk to the defendant, and it shall be refunded accordingly. [L. '54, p. 149, § 95; Cd. '81, § 137; 2 H. C., § 250.]

§ 771. (5486.) Disposition of Bail Money After Judgment.

When money shall have been so deposited, if it remain on deposit at the time of an order or judgment for the payment of money to the plaintiff, the clerk shall, under the direction of the court, apply the same in the satisfaction thereof, and after satisfying judgment, refund the surplus, if any, to the defendant. If the judgment be in favor of the defendant, the clerk shall refund to him the whole sum deposited and remaining unapplied. [L. '54, p. 149, § 96; Cd. '81, § 138; 2 H. C., § 251.]

§ 772. (5487.) Liability of Sheriff for Escape.

If, after being arrested, the defendant escapes or be rescued, the sheriff himself shall be liable as bail; but he may discharge himself from such liability by giving bail at any time before judgment. [L. '54, p. 149, § 97; Cd. '81, § 139; 2 H. C., § 252.]

§ 773. (5488.) Judgment—Sheriff as Bail.

If the judgment be recovered against the sheriff upon his liability as bail, and an execution thereon be returned unsatisfied, the same proceedings may be had on the official bond of the sheriff to collect the deficiency as in other cases of delinquency. [L. '54, p. 149, § 98; Cd. '81, § 140; 2 H. C., § 253.]

§ 774. (5489.) Bail Liable to Sheriff, When.

The bail taken on arrest shall, unless they justify, or other bail be given or justified, be liable to the sheriff, by action, for the damages which he may sustain by reason of such omission. [L. '54, p. 149, § 99; Cd. '81, § 141; 2 H. C., § 254.]

§ 775. (5490.) Officer Authorized to Take Bail may Examine Surety.

Every court and officer authorized to take any bail or surety shall have power to examine on oath the person offering to become such bail or surety concerning his property and sufficiency as such bail or surety. [L. '54, p. 219, § 488; Cd. '81, § 748; 2 H. C., § 799.]

See infra, § 1077, writ of habeas corpus for purpose of bail.

§ 776. (5491.) Money may be Deposited for Bail.

Any person required to give bail may deposit with the clerk the amount of money for which he is required to give bail, and thereupon be discharged from arrest. [L. '54, p. 220, § 493; Cd. '81, § 750; 2 H. C., § 801.]

See supra, § 768, deposit of bail.

§ 777. (5492.) Bonds are not to Fail for Want of Form.

No bond required by law, and intended as such bond, shall be void for want of form or substance, recital, or condition; nor shall the principal or surety on such account be discharged, but all the parties thereto shall be held and bound to the full extent contemplated by the law requiring the same, to the amount specified in such bond. In all actions on such defective bond, the plaintiff may state its legal effect in the same manner as though it were a perfect bond. [L. '54, p. 219, § 489; Cd. '81, § 749; 2 H. C., § 800.]

CHAPTER VIII.

NE EXEAT.

§ 778. (5493.) Affidavit for Writ.

Action may be commenced upon any agreement in writing before the time for the performance of the contract expires, when the plaintiff or his agent shall make and file an affidavit with the clerk of the proper court that the defendant is about to leave the state without performing or making provisions for the performance of the contract, taking with him property, moneys, credits, or effects subject to execution, with intent to defraud plaintiff. [L. '54, p. 209, § 418; Cd. '81, § 636; 2 H. C., § 747.]

See Const., Art. I, § 17.

See supra, § 748, notes.

§ 779. (5494.) Complaint—Bond—Order of Arrest.

At the time of filing the affidavit the plaintiff shall also file his complaint in the action, and thenceforth the action shall proceed as other actions at law, except as otherwise provided in this chapter. Upon such affidavit and complaint being filed, the clerk shall issue an order of arrest and bail, directed to the sheriff, which shall be issued, served, and returned in all respects as such orders in other cases; before such order shall issue, the plaintiff shall file in the office of the clerk a bond, with sufficient surety, to be approved by the clerk, conditioned that the plaintiff will pay the defendant such damages and costs as he shall wrongfully sustain by reason of the action, which sureties shall justify as bail upon an arrest. [Cf. L. '54, p. 209, § 419; Cd. '81, § 637; L. '91, p. 81, §§ 1, 2; 2 H. C., §§ 748, 749.]

§ 780. (5495.) Recognizance—Commitment—Discharge.

The sheriff shall require the defendant to enter into a bond, with sufficient surety, personally to appear within the time allowed by law for answering the complaint, and to abide the order of the court; and in default thereof the defendant shall be committed to prison until discharged in due course of law; such special bail shall be liable for the principal, and shall have a right to arrest and deliver him up, as in other cases, and the defendant may give other bail. Instead of giving special bail, as above provided, the defendant shall be entitled to his discharge from custody if he will secure the performance of the contract to the satisfaction of the plaintiff. [Cf. L. '54, pp. 209, 210, §§ 420, 421; Cd. '81, §§ 638, 639; L. '91, p. 81, § 3; 2 H. C., §§ 750, 751.]

§ 781. (5496.) Who may have Writ.

This proceeding may be had in favor of any surety or other person jointly bound with the defendant. It may also be prosecuted by the person in whose favor the contract exists, against any one or more of the persons bound thereby, upon filing such affidavit, when the co-contractors are nonresidents or probably insolvent, or at the request of any of them when they are residents and solvent. [L. '54, p. 210, § 422; Cd. '81, § 640; 2 H. C., § 752.]

A writ of ne exeat preventing an appellant in a divorce case from leaving the state pending the appeal will not be granted, in the absence of a sufficient showing that he is about to do so, and where he has given a supersedeas bond on appeal, and much of the property involved is real estate which cannot be conveyed without consent of the wife: Holcomb v. Holcomb, 49 Wash. 498.

§ 782. (5497.) Habeas Corpus.

The defendant may have the same remedy by writ of habeas corpus as in other cases of arrest and bail. [L. '54, p. 210, § 423; Cd. '81, § 641; 2 H. C., § 753.]

§ 783. (5498.) Before Justices.

The proceedings provided for in this chapter may be had before justices of the peace in all cases within their jurisdiction. [Cf. L. '54, p. 210, § 424; Cd. '81, § 642; L. '91, p. 82, § 4; 2 H. C., § 754.]

As to use of term "proceedings," see State v. Gordon, 8 Wash. 488, 490; Windt v. Banniza, 2 Wash. 147.

§ 784. (5499.) Venue.

The affidavit and bond may be filed and proceedings had in any county where the defendants may be found. [L. '54, p. 210, § 425; Cd. '81, § 643; 2 H. C., § 755.]

CHAPTER I.

ACTIONS FOR POSSESSION OF AND QUIETING TITLE TO REAL PROPERTY.

§ 785. (5500.) Who may Maintain.

Any person having a valid subsisting interest in real property, and a right to the possession thereof, may recover the same by action in the superior court of the proper county, to be brought against the tenant in possession; if there is no such tenant, then against the person claiming the title or some interest therein, and may have judgment in such action quieting or removing a cloud from plaintiff's title; and in all actions, under this section, to quiet or remove a cloud from the title to real property, if the defendant be absent or a nonresident of this state, or cannot, after due diligence, be found within the state, or conceals himself to avoid the service of summons, service may be made upon such defendant by publication of summons as provided by law; and the court may appoint a trustee for such absent or nonresident defendant, to make or cancel any deed or conveyance of whatsoever nature, or do any other act to carry into effect the judgment or the decree of the court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 205, § 398; L. '79, p. 134, § 1; Cd. '81, § 536; L. '90, p. 72, § 1; 2 H. C., § 529.]

See supra, § 156, statute of limitations.

See supra, § 605 et seq., commissioners to convey real estate.

See infra, § 792, substitution of landlord for tenant.

See infra, § 804, mortgagee cannot maintain.

See infra, §§ 808, 809, rule of decision, etc., between adverse claimants.

See infra, § 1535, actions by administrator.

EJECTMENT, REMEDY BY: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 992, § 1 et seq.

The action contemplated in this and the following sections is the common-law action of ejectment, with the added incident of determining the paramount legal or equitable title, and with the departure of permitting it to be brought against one claiming title or interest in land and not in possession thereof: Smith v. Wingard, 3 W. T. 291.

The primary object of this statute is to determine the question of title to lands: Id.

In such action every question affecting title and right of possession may be determined and possession thereof recovered by the owner with damages: Green v. Tacoma, 51 Fed. 622, 623.

The determination of title in this action is res adjudicata: Smith v. Wingard, supra, 298.

The action is not one to try merely the abstract legal fee to the soil, but to determine who is entitled to the possession and, therefore, the holder of the naked fee may not recover if by his acts the equitable title be in the adverse party: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 995, § 16; Burmeister v. Howard, 1 W. T. 207.

As to other equitable defenses, see Ryan v. Ferguson, 3 Wash. 356; Peterson v. Philadelphia Mtg. etc. Co., 33 Wash. 464; Moore v. Brownsfield, 10 Wash. 439; Riverside Land Co. v. Pietsch, 35 Wash. 210.

The owner of land entitled to the immediate possession thereof has a right of action against any person in possession holding the same against his will, or claiming title thereto, or an interest in, said land adversely to him: Green v. Tacoma, 51 Fed. 622.

The action cannot be maintained by one in possession against one not in possession but who claims title to or interests therein: Smith v. Wingard, supra, 297.

Laches as a defense: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 996, § 20; Scott v. McNeal, 5 Wash. 309 (overruled in Id., 154 U. S. 34); Hoffmeister v. Renton Coal Co., 40 Wash. 48.

In an action to recover the possession of premises for the breach of a condition subsequent, it is not necessary to make a demand or entry, in view of this section: Lewiston Water etc. Co. v. Brown, 42 Wash. 555.

If plaintiff is not, and defendant is, in possession of land claimed by the former, the proper form of remedy is ejectment: Catholic Bishop v. Gibbon, 1 Wash. 592.

The holder of a final receipt for entry upon lands, in force and uncanceled, may maintain ejectment to protect his possession: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 993, § 8; Pierce v. Frace, 2 Wash. 81; Hays v. Parker, 2 W. T. 198, distinguished; followed in Orchard v. Alexander, 2 Wash. 108. See Pierce v. Frace, 157 U. S. 372; Orchard v. Alexander, 157 U. S. 372, affirmed on writ of error.

A railroad company being out of possession, and claiming title under act of Congress of July 2, 1864, to the odd-numbered sections within certain limits and upon certain conditions, may maintain ejectment against a subsequent patentee from the government: Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Miller, 20 Wash. 21.

The littoral proprietor of land bordering on tide waters cannot maintain ejectment against persons in possession of, erecting buildings on and occupying tide lands in front thereof within the corporate limits of a city, and when he has acquired no right thereto by lease from the state: Pierce v. Kennedy, 2 Wash. 324.

A devisee of lands under a foreign will, admitted to probate in the county where the lands are situated, cannot maintain ejectment therefor, since under § 1449, infra, the legal representative is alone entitled to possession pending administration: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 994, § 10; Dunn v. Peterson, 4 Wash. 170. But see § 1366, infra.

A city may maintain an action of ejectment to recover possession of a portion of a public street, under the statute giving it the control thereof: Port Townsend v. Lewis, 34 Wash. 413.

From the time a person enters into possession of public lands, under the pre-emption laws of the United States, whether surveyed or not, he is entitled to the protection of the courts in his possession. In such case his possessory right may be protected from waste or irreparable injury by injunction: Colwell v. Smith, 1 W. T. 92; Ward v. Moorey, 1 W. T. 104. See §§ 808, 809, infra.

One in possession of land under color of title, residing thereon in good faith, is entitled on being ejected therefrom to recover taxes and local assessments paid by him, when the owner stood by and received the benefits without asserting his title, and under § 796, infra, may set off the value of improvements against the rental value: McInerney v. Beck, 10 Wash. 515.

A tenant in common is, as against any person but his cotenant, entitled to every part of the common land, and may recover possession thereof in ejectment against a stranger to the common title: Allen v. Higgins, 9 Wash. 446, 43 Am. St. Rep. 847.

And a tenant in common can maintain ejectment against a cotenant in possession who disputes his right: Mable v. Whitaker, 10 Wash. 656.

Where a city appropriates private lands for a public use without the consent or acquiescence of the owner, ejectment may be maintained for the recovery thereof: Green v. Tacoma, 51 Fed. 622.

Ejectment will lie to recover tide lands patented by the United States prior to the admission of the state into the Union: Scurry v. Jones, 4 Wash. 468.

Or to recover possession of a railroad right of way in use where proceedings are stayed and the only effect of the judgment is to compel the company to make compensation for the property taken: Slaght v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 39 Wash. 576. Also upon condemnation without making a known owner a party: Owen v. St. Paul & M. R. Co., 12 Wash. 313.

Ejectment may be maintained by the grantee of the patentee of land acquired under the United States homestead laws which have been sold under execution for a debt of the patentee antedating his patent, although he was not occupying the same at the time of the execution sale: Jean v. Dee, 5 Wash. 580.

Where land is conveyed upon condition that the grantee will construct and perpetually maintain a ditch for drainage of adjoining land of the grantor, which condition is "made a part of the consideration of the transfer," the failure of the grantee to perform the contract will not warrant an action for damages, but the remedy is in ejectment to recover the land and for a forfeiture of the estate granted:

Mills v. Seattle etc. Ry. Co., 10 Wash. 520.

In an action of ejectment defendant may, under a general denial, introduce any equitable as well as legal defense when the complaint fails to set out the source of plaintiff's title: Parker v. Dacres, 1 Wash. 190; Riverside Land Co. v. Pietsch, 35 Wash. 210.

Title to support action: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 992, § 6; Balch v. Smith, 4 Wash. 497; Lawrence v. B. B. & B. C. R. Co., 4 Wash. 664; Bracka v. Fish, 23 Wash. 646; State v. Johansen, 26 Wash. 668; Helm v. Johnson, 40 Wash. 420; Brummett v. Campbell, 32 Wash. 358; Harris v. Halversen, 23 Wash. 779.

In an action to recover the possession of real property, the plaintiff cannot recover upon the weakness of defendant's title, and if without title himself the action fails: Hughes v. South Bay School District, 32 Wash. 678; George v. Columbia & Puget S. R. Co., 38 Wash. 480; Helm v. Johnson, 40 Wash. 420; Humphries v. Sorenson, 33 Wash. 563; Wright v. Jessup, 44 Wash. 618; Bryant Lumber & Shingle Mill Co. v. Pacific Iron & Steel Works, 48 Wash. 574.

Equitable title to support action: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 993, § 9; Johnston v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524; State v. Johansen, 20 Wash. 668; Sengfelder v. Hill, 21 Wash. 371; Snyder v. Parker, 19 Wash. 276; Carlsen v. Curren, 48 Wash. 249.

In an action of ejectment, where neither party had title, the plaintiff does not make out a case of prima facie title by prior possession by showing that defendants obtained permission of the plaintiff to continue an occupancy, when it appears that defendants had possession prior to the making of an unwarranted claim to the land by the plaintiff, who never had any possession: Bryant Lumber & Shingle Mill Co. v. Pacific Iron & Steel Works, 48 Wash. 574.

QUIETING TITLE: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2417 et seq.

Under this section an action will lie to recover possession of realty and at the same time to remove a cloud from its title: Reichenbach v. Washington etc. Ry. Co., 10 Wash. 357; Krutz v. Isaacs, 25 Wash. 566; Povah v. Lee, 29 Wash. 108.

And the same is the proper remedy to attack a government patent, issued to other parties after the grant to plaintiff: Nor. Pac. R. Co. v. Miller, 20 Wash. 21.

A lis pendens notice against realty of a person who has no interest therein is no cloud on the title of the actual owner, and violates no covenant of his deed that the same is free from liens and encumbrances: Kley v. Geiger, 4 Wash. 484. But see Washington Dredging & Imp. Co. v. Kinnear, 24 Wash. 405; King v. Brancheid, 32 Wash. 634.

An action to quiet title against a fraudulent conveyance of land is not an action for relief on the ground of fraud, and does not subject it to the statutory limitation imposed by § 159, subdivision 4, or by § 165: Wagner v. Law, 3 Wash. 500.

Where copartners dissolved partnership and formed a corporation, agreeing to convey all their real estate to it in consideration of stock, but in the conveyance a certain tract was omitted because of pending negotiations for its sale or trade to a third party, which however was never consummated, the corporation is entitled to have its title quieted as against such third person and a retiring partner who had made a quitclaim deed thereof to such third party with full knowledge of the facts; and the fact that the copartners, upon dissolving partnership and transferring the interest of one to the other, had agreed upon stipulated damages for breach of the terms of their dissolution agreement, would have no effect upon the corporation's right to relief: Thompson-Spencer Co. v. Thompson, 49 Wash. 170.

Title of plaintiff, necessity: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2419, § 10.

An action to quiet title may be maintained by persons having merely an equitable title to lands: Jackson v. Tatebo, 3 Wash. 456; Bloomingdale v. Weil, 29 Wash. 611.

And by a purchaser at a mortgage foreclosure sale, upon receiving a certificate of sale: See McManus v. Morgan, 38 Wash. 528.

Or by a principal as against the wife of a deceased agent: See Pansing v. Warner, 43 Wash. 531.

An execution plaintiff who levies upon and purchases real property which his debtor had previously conveyed by an absolute deed, intended as security, but with power of sale, acquires no greater right than his debtor had; viz., the right of redemption or the right to the surplus after a sale; and therefore an innocent purchaser for value, from the party holding the record title, may maintain an action to quiet his title as against such an execution sale, under this section: White v. McSorley, 47 Wash. 18.

In a particular action to quiet title, action dismissed on the ground of estoppel as to all heirs who had elected to take under the will: Lewis v. Lichty, 3 Wash. 213.

As to necessity of title of plaintiff, see Hazelton v. Bogardus, 8 Wash. 102; Shelton Log. Co. v. Gosser, 26 Wash. 126; Bird v. Winyer, 24 Wash. 269.

Necessity of possession by plaintiff: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2419, § 11.

An action to quiet title should be dismissed for want of equity when there is no proof that plaintiff is in possession of the land or that it is unoccupied: Spithill v. Jones, 3 Wash. 290.

There is no presumption that because land was at a former time unoccupied that it remains the same: Id.

The rule that an action to quiet title cannot be maintained by one out of possession applies only where plaintiff has a complete remedy at law: Dolan v. Jones, 37 Wash. 176.

Waiver of objection that plaintiff is not in possession: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2421, § 13; Bates v. Drake, 28 Wash. 447; McKinley v. Morgan, 36 Wash. 561; Moran & Co. v. Palmer, 36 Wash. 684; Weatherwax Lum. Co. v. Ray, 38 Wash. 545; Schmidt v. Olympia Light etc. Co., 40 Wash. 131.

In an action to quiet title to lands purchased at execution sale, proof of the sale made by the sheriff under a valid judgment and execution and the confirmation thereof, will establish the prima facie presumption that the sale was regularly made: Tacoma Grocery Co. v. Draham, 8 Wash. 263.

A distribution in probate proceedings of the property of the deceased to his heirs is some evidence of title, without deraignment of title from the government, and sufficient to support a judgment removing the cloud of tax foreclosure proceedings against land assessed to the deceased, as to parties claiming through the same source: Preston v. Cox, 50 Wash. 451.

In an action to cancel a deed, fraudulently procured, plaintiff is not bound to prove title in his grantor where defendants claim title from the same source. A warranty deed may also be canceled, although conveying nothing because of defective description: Jackson v. Tatebo, 3 Wash. 456.

In such an action, where the evidence shows that plaintiff is an ignorant Indian, with limited knowledge of the English language, and ignorant of legal transactions, the burden of proof is shifted to plaintiff to show that the import of the deed was understood by plaintiff at the time of its execution: Id.

Admissibility, weight, and sufficiency of evidence: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2425, §§ 30, 31.

As to admissibility, see Kalb v. German Sav. & L. Soc., 25 Wash. 349; Lilly v. Eklund, 37 Wash. 532; Lambert v. Gillette, 24 Wash. 726; Bigelow v. Brewer, 29 Wash. 670; Turner v. Ladd, 42 Wash. 274; Clapp v. Ervay, 46 Wash. 290.

Trial and hearing: See Rohrer v. Snyder, 29 Wash. 199; Maggs v. Morgan, 30 Wash. 604.

In an action to quiet title, the plaintiffs are not entitled to any decree where they fail to show any actual conflict between their claims and those of the defendants: Mason v. Long, 49 Wash. 18.

A judgment creditor may bring an action to quiet title to lands purchased by him at execution sale, which have been fraudulently conveyed by his debtor, and may also set aside such fraudulent conveyance: Wagner v. Law, 3 Wash. 500.

A trustee under a will, charged with the duty of administering the estate until the majority of minor heirs, may maintain the action as to the interest of a devisee sold under execution against him: See Christofferson v. Pfennig, 16 Wash. 491.

An action to quiet title cannot be maintained by an heir until after the close of the administration upon his ancestor's estate: Hazelton v. Bogardus, 8 Wash. 102; see Dunn v. Peterson, 4 Wash. 170; Balsh v. Smith, 4 Wash. 497; Tucker v. Brown, 9 Wash. 357.

But where no necessity for administration exists, the rule is to the contrary: Tucker v. Brown, 9 Wash. 357; Balsh v. Smith, 4 Wash. 497; Hill v. Young, 7 Wash. 33.

A vendee cannot maintain an action to quiet title against the community claim of the vendor's wife without tendering the balance of the unpaid purchase money: Littlejohn v. Miller, 5 Wash. 399.

But tender is not necessary where the claim causing the cloud is barred by the statute of limitation: See Kinsman v. Spokane, 20 Wash. 118.

Where city assessments have been declared barred by the statute of limitations, the owners of the property are entitled to have their title quieted by a decree requiring the city officers to enter cancellation of the liens on the records of the city, not as though paid, but as canceled by order of the court: Cushing v. Spokane, 45 Wash. 193.

A complaint in an action to quiet title alleging "that plaintiff and its grantors have been in the actual, open possession of the property in controversy, continuously since the twenty-eighth day of March, 1862, under color and claim of title; that neither the defendant, nor his ancestors, or predecessors have been seised of the premises in question, or any part or parcel thereof, within more than ten years before the date of the commencement of this suit," is sufficient to admit testimony tending to prove adverse possession: Bellingham Bay L. Co. v. Dibble, 4 Wash. 764.

Sufficiency: See Wagner v. Law, 3 Wash. 500; Damon v. Leque, 14 Wash. 253; Krutz v. Isaacs, 25 Wash. 568; Long v. Eisenbeis, 23 Wash. 556; Maggs v. Morgan, 30 Wash. 604; Boyer v. Robison, 43 Wash. 97.

Allegations as to title and possession: See Spithill v. Jones, 3 Wash. 290; Jackson v. Tatebo, 3 Wash. 456; Lemon v. Waterman, 2 W. T. 485; Wagner v. Law, 3 Wash. 500; Watson v. Glover, 21 Wash. 677; Kalb v. Ger. Sav. & Loan Soc., 25 Wash. 349; Miller v. Lake Irr. Co., 27 Wash. 447; Davies v. Cheadle, 31 Wash. 168; McKinley v. Morgan, 36 Wash. 561.

The failure of the plaintiff in an action to quiet title to prove that he was in possession or that the land was vacant and unoccupied, is not ground for dismissing the action: Vietzen v. Otis, 46 Wash. 402.

An objection that an action to quiet title could not be maintained by one out of possession who failed to allege that the land was vacant and unoccupied, is waived by trial of the issue as to title, raised by answer asking that the title be quieted in the defendants, although a demurrer o tenuis was interposed at the trial: Brown v. Baldwin, 46 Wash. 106.

Amended and supplemental pleadings: See Newman v. Buzard, 24 Wash. 225; Lemon v. Waterman, 2 W. T. 485.

Proof of title acquired by adverse possession under color of title is admissible under an allegation of ownership in fee, in an action to quiet title: Rogers v. Miller, 13 Wash. 82.

In an action to quiet title, a finding by the court that the premises had been sold under execution upon a judgment in an action in which jurisdiction of the person of the defendant had been duly acquired, is sufficient to warrant a decree in favor of the grantees of the purchaser at such execution sale, when such finding had not been excepted to, although in fact the record in the original action does not disclose jurisdiction: Irwin v. Olympia Water Works, 12 Wash. 112.

In such an action a finding of adverse possession for the full period for the acquisition of title by prescription in the defendants and their grantors is sufficient to warrant a decree in their favor, although there may be no evidence of such facts, when no exceptions have been taken to the findings of the lower court in that regard: Id.

Where land has been platted into lots by actually staking it out on the face of the earth, a deed purporting to convey certain of the lots is sufficient to constitute color of title for a bona fide entry, although the recorded plat of the lands may not include such lots within the bounds of the platted tract as described therein: Flint v. Long, 12 Wash. 342.

The fact that an entry has been made upon city lots under color of title, the land cleared, fenced and planted to shrubbery, and a house built thereon which had been occupied by the claimant and his tenants is sufficient to constitute adverse possession: Id.

Limitations and laches: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2422, § 22. See Chezum v. McBride, 21 Wash. 558; Jones v. Her- rick, 35 Wash. 434; Ferrell v. Lord, 43 Wash. 667; Brodack v. Morsbach, 38 Wash. 72; Krutz v. Isaacs, 25 Wash. 566; May- nard v. P. S. Nat. Bank, 24 Wash. 455; Vietzen v. Otis, 46 Wash. 102.

Parties to the action: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2422, § 23; Utterback v. Meeker, 16 Wash. 185; Larson v. Allen, 34 Wash. 113; McNamara v. Crystal Min. Co., 23 Wash. 26; James v. James, 35 Wash. 655; Carlsen v. Curren, 48 Wash. 249.

Under this section, authorizing any person having a valid subsisting interest in real property to maintain an action to quiet title thereto, the action may be maintained by any or all of the tenants in common: Hannegan v. Roth, 12 Wash. 695.

The fact that the mortgagee goes into possession of mortgaged premises under an agreement with the mortgagor which the mortgagee failed to sign, but which it recognized and acted under and placed upon record, makes it a binding and valid agreement on both parties: Brundage v. Home etc. Assn., 11 Wash. 277.

A mortgagee in possession cannot be dispossessed by an action in ejectment, so long as there is any question whether the mortgage debt has been paid in full: Id.

Where a party to a contract has acted under it and received benefits from it, he is estopped from denying its existence and force: Id.

Although an action may be termed a suit to remove a cloud and under allegations of fraud in obtaining a deed, equity will grant relief and cancel the deed in a proper case: Jackson v. Tatebo, supra.

But the court cannot quiet a title obtained under a void judicial sale: See Bjmerland v. Eley, 15 Wash. 101.

§ 786. (5501.) Limitation for Bringing Actions, Seven Years.

All actions brought for the recovery of any lands, tenements or hereditaments of which any person may be possessed by actual, open and notorious possession for seven successive years, having a connected title in law or equity deducible of record from this state or the United States, or from any public officer, or other person authorized by the laws of this state to sell such land for the nonpayment of taxes, or from any sheriff, marshal or other person authorized to sell such land on execution or under any order, judgment or decree of any court of record, shall be brought within seven years next after possession being taken as aforesaid, but when the possessor shall acquire title after taking such possession, the limitation shall begin to run from the time of acquiring title. [L. '93, p. 20, § 1.]

Cited in 25 Wash. 571, 572; 43 Wash. 672; 49 Wash. 337; 50 Wash. 336, 337.

This section operates to bar an action by minors to recover an interest in property sold under mortgage foreclosure execution, although the minors were necessary parties to the foreclosure and were not joined, and the foreclosure did not affect their interests, and the purchaser was only their tenant in common, where the purchaser understood he was buying the entire property and maintained adverse possession for seven years for his own exclusive benefit; since the sale was "authorized" if directed by a judgment, whether the judgment was subject to attack or not: Schlarb v. Castaing, 50 Wash. 331.

§ 787. (5502.) Rights of Heirs, etc.

The heirs, devisees and assigns of the person having such title and possession shall have the same benefit of the preceding section as the person from whom the possession is derived. [L. '93, p. 20, § 2.]

§ 788. (5503.) Legal Owner, Defined.

Every person in actual, open and notorious possession of lands or tenements under claim and color of title, made in good faith, and who shall for seven successive years continue in possession and shall also during said time pay all taxes legally assessed on such lands or tenements, shall be held and adjudged to be the legal owner of said lands or tenements, to the extent and according to the purport of his or her paper title. All persons holding under such possession, by purchase, devise or descent, before said seven years shall have expired, and who shall continue such possession and continue to pay the taxes as aforesaid, so as to complete the possession and payment of taxes for the term aforesaid, shall be entitled to the benefit of this section. [L. '93, p. 20, § 3.]

Necessity of good faith: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 53, § 34; Biggart v. Evans, 36 Wash. 212; Brodack v. Morsbach, 38 Wash. 72; Lohse v. Burch, 42 Wash. 156; Hesser v. Siepmann, 35 Wash. 14; Miller v. O'Leary, 44 Wash. 172.

Duration and continuity of payment of taxes: See Philadelphia Mtg. etc. Co. v. Palmer, 32 Wash. 455.

Under this section, the prerequisites to obtain title by adverse possession and payment of taxes are, (1) claim and color of title made in good faith, (2) actual notorious possession for seven successive years, and (3) payment of all taxes assessed during that time: Lara v. Sandell, 52 Wash. 53.

This section does not require the lapse of seven years after the first payment of taxes, but only the payment of all taxes assessed during the period of adverse possession: Id.

§ 789. (5504.) Vacant and Unoccupied Lands.

Every person having color of title made in good faith to vacant and unoccupied land, who shall pay all taxes legally assessed thereon for seven successive years, he or she shall be deemed and adjudged to be the legal owner of said vacant and unoccupied land to the extent and according to the purport of his or her paper title. All persons holding under such taxpayer, by purchase, devise or descent, before said seven years shall have expired, and who shall continue to pay the taxes as aforesaid, so as to complete the payment of said taxes for the term aforesaid, shall be entitled to the benefit of this section: Provided, however, if any person having a better paper title to said vacant and unoccupied land shall, during the said term of seven years, pay the taxes as assessed on said land for any one or more years of said term of seven years, then and in that case such taxpayer, his heirs or assigns, shall not be entitled to the benefit of this section. [L. '93, p. 21, § 4.]

This and the preceding section are not applicable unless payment of taxes is supported by actual paper title: See Hesser v. Siepmann, 35 Wash. 14.

This section requires that seven years shall elapse between the date of the first payment of taxes and the commencement of the suit; and one who in 1902 redeems a tax certificate for previous years, since 1897, and pays subsequent taxes covering eight years in all, cannot maintain the action in 1906, four years after his first payment, if his redemption can be considered a payment of taxes: Tremmel v. Mess, 46 Wash. 137.

In an action to quiet title, the payment by defendant of seven years' taxes on the property is not a defense, when the last payment was made a few days prior to the commencement of the action: Vietzen v. Otis, 46 Wash. 402. See, also, Johnson v. Conner, 48 Wash. 431.

§ 790. (5505.) Public Lands and Adverse Title in Infants, etc.—Except.

The two preceding sections shall not extend to lands or tenements owned by the United States or this state, nor to school lands, nor to lands held for any public purpose. Nor shall they extend to lands or tenements when there shall be an adverse title to such lands or tenements, and the holder of such adverse title is an infant or person under legal age, or insane: Provided, such persons as aforesaid shall commence an action to recover such lands or tenements so possessed as aforesaid, within three years after the several disabilities herein enumerated shall cease to exist, and shall prosecute such action to judgment, or in case of vacant and unoccupied land shall, within the time last aforesaid, pay to the person or persons who have paid the same for his or her betterments, and the taxes, with interest on said taxes at the legal rate per annum that have been paid on said vacant and unimproved land. [L. '93, p. 21, § 5.]

Adverse possession of the bed or shores of a navigable lake below the line of high water does not run against the state, in view of the fact that, after the state's constitutional assertion of title thereto, the legislature passed laws uniformly recognizing the rights of the many persons in possession of such shore lands at the time of the adoption of the constitution, giving them the preference right to purchase the same when the land shall be put on the market, or requiring the purchaser to pay for the value of the improvement thereon; since the possession thereby became permissive: Brace & Hergert Mill Co v. State, 49 Wash. 326.

The provisions of sections 786, 787, 788, 789 and 790 shall be liberally construed for the purposes set forth therein. [L. '93, p. 21, § 6.]

§ 792. (5507.) Substitution of Landlord in Action Against Tenant.

A defendant who is in actual possession may, for answer, plead that he is in possession only as a tenant of another, naming him and his place of residence, and thereupon the landlord, if he apply therefor, shall be made defendant in place of the tenant, and the action shall proceed in all respects as if originally commenced against him. If the landlord do not apply to be made defendant within the time the tenant is allowed to answer, thereafter he shall not be allowed to, but he shall be made defendant if the plaintiff require it. If the landlord be made defendant on motion of the plaintiff, he shall be required to appear and answer within ten days from notice of the pendency of the action and the order making him defendant, or such further notice as the court, or judge thereof, may prescribe. [L. '69, p. 128, § 489; Cd. '81, § 537; 2 H. C., § 530.]

See infra, § 794, judgment against landlord.

This section provides how a landlord may be brought into the action; it is the only one we have which changes the common-law rule requiring only defendant in possession to be made defendant: Raymond v. Morrison, 9 Wash. 156.

§ 793. (5508.) Pleadings—Superior Title Prevails.

The plaintiff in such action shall set forth in his complaint the nature of his estate, claim, or title to the property, and the defendant may set up a legal or equitable defense to plaintiff's claims; and the superior title whether legal or equitable, shall prevail. The property shall be described with such certainty as to enable the possession thereof to be delivered if a recovery be had. [Cf. L. '69, p. 128, § 490; L. '79, p. 134, § 2; Cd. '81, § 538; 2 H. C., § 531.]

PARTIES: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 996, §§ 21-23; and 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2422, § 23. See notes to § 785, supra.

It is not error to refuse to try the rights of property of strangers to the suit: Ward v. Moorey, 1 W. T. 104.

A tenant in possession is the only necessary party defendant in an action of ejectment; and plaintiff cannot be compelled to bring in tenants in common with him, although he may set up that there are such and ask that they be made parties: Raymond v. Morrison, 9 Wash. 156.

Joinder of parties plaintiff: See Snyder v. Harding, 34 Wash. 286.

This section as regards parties is a statutory exception to the rule prescribed in § 189, supra: Id.

The wife is a proper party defendant in ejectment by vendor of land the possession of which the vendee and his wife had entered into under contract of sale, which vendor had since declared forfeited: Reddish v. Smith, 10 Wash. 178.

Nonresident heirs whose consent cannot be procured are proper but not necessary defendants: See Johnston v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524.

Plaintiff should so frame his complaint as to compel defendant to fully disclose his defense in his answer: Parker v. Dacres, 1 Wash. 190, 194.

In an action for the recovery of real estate under this section, an allegation in the complaint that plaintiffs are the owners and entitled to the possession of the premises is sufficient without deraigning their title: Shannon v. Grindstaff, 11 Wash. 536.

A complaint to quiet title by the cancellation of a sheriff's deed cannot be sustained as a claim of title by adverse possession on the simple allegation that plaintiffs entered into and had since held possession, where it is not alleged to have been adverse, open or notorious: Carroll v. Hill Tract Improvement Co., 44 Wash. 569.

That the complaint in an action to quiet title does not show that the plaintiff was in possession or that the land was unoccupied is not ground for objection, if it states facts entitling the plaintiff to any relief: Dueber v. Wolfe, 47 Wash. 634.

A complaint to quiet title is sufficient which shows that plaintiff has a valid interest in the land, without alleging the same specifically, or his right to the possession thereof: Wagner v. Law, 3 Wash. 500.

But a complaint to quiet title to lands purchased by plaintiff at execution sale, after an alleged fraudulent conveyance thereof by the judgment debtor, is insufficient which omits to allege that there was no other property of the judgment debtor at the time of conveyance out of which the creditor could satisfy his judgment: Wagner v. Law, supra; Scott v. McNeal, 5 Wash. 309, overruled in 154 U. S. 34.

An allegation in a complaint in ejectment that plaintiff's ancestor died seised and possessed of the property is a sufficient allegation of plaintiff's possession, since seisin once shown will be presumed to continue until proof of adverse possession in another: Balch v. Smith, 4 Wash. 497.

But the intervention of the probate court and an adjudication thereunder is essential to pass title of a decedent to his heirs: Id. See supra, § 785, and notes on this point.

A city need not allege ownership as to a street where it is alleged that it is a public street: See Port Townsend v. Lewis, 34 Wash. 413.

Plaintiff need not anticipate an issue as to a transaction presumed to be in good faith: See Malloy v. Benway, 34 Wash. 315.

A complaint averring that defendant has put a division fence upon plaintiff's land and withholds the portion inclosed by such fence, and thereby obstructs plaintiff in reaching other portions of his farm, states a cause of action: Meeker v. Gilbert, 3 W. T. 369.

In an action to recover possession of real estate, a complaint alleging possession in the defendant, and asking possessory relief, admits that such possession was adverse: Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Spokane, 45 Wash. 229.

In an action of ejectment the complaint states a sufficient cause of action when it alleges that the plaintiff is the owner of the land described therein, subject to the right of redemption of the defendant, setting forth that plaintiff became such owner by virtue of a sale under execution, describing the court, and alleging that the execution was for the purpose of satisfying a valid judgment entered in the cause, properly describing and setting forth a copy of the sheriff's certificate of sale, together with an allegation that the sale had been confirmed: Belles v. Miller, 10 Wash. 259.

The purchaser of premises sold under execution is not required, under this section, to plead all the proceedings authorizing the sale: Belles v. Miller, supra.

One in possession of a mortgage cannot acquire an outstanding tax title and set up the same as against the title of the mortgagor: Shepard v. Vincent, 38 Wash. 493.

Necessity and requisites of replication or reply: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 998, § 29 et seq.; Raymond v. Morrison, 9 Wash. 156; Kline v. Stein, 38 Wash. 124.

It is not error to allow plaintiff upon the trial to amend his complaint so as to show that the land in controversy is community property: Owen v. St. Paul etc. Ry. Co., 12 Wash. 313.

As against a mortgagee lawfully in possession it is not error to refuse to allow an amendment setting up the statute of limitations as a defense to the mortgage: See Peterson v. Philadelphia Mtg. etc. Co., 33 Wash. 464.

Where a plaintiff has brought an action of ejectment based upon his right of possession under a sheriff's sale, and during its pendency his title ripens into a better title by reason of the expiration of the time of redemption, it is not error to allow him to file a supplemental complaint demanding additional relief that he be adjudged the owner of the fee, as the nature of the action is not thereby changed so as to constitute a different cause of action: Belles v. Miller, 10 Wash. 260.

If the complaint is insufficient in ejectment under this statute, but states a case in equity, an order overruling a demurrer thereto will be sustained, although the parties and counsel may insist that the action is one at law: Smith v. Wingard, 3 W. T. 291.

DEFENSES: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 994, §§ 13-18.

See notes to § 785, supra.

In an action of ejectment defendant may, under a general denial, introduce evidence of equitable estoppel, where the complaint fails to state the source of plaintiff's title: Parker v. Dacres, 1 Wash. 190; see Isham v. Parker, 3 Wash. 761.

Under the reform procedure an equitable estoppel may be pleaded as a defense to an action of ejectment: Moore v. Brownfield, 10 Wash. 439; Riverside Land Co. v. Pietsch, 35 Wash. 210.

If plaintiff in ejectment fails to require an election by defendant, when he has pleaded an affirmative defense inconsistent with his denials, the defect cannot be taken advantage of by way of an instruction to the effect that the burden of proof was upon the defendant to show want of title in plaintiff: Lynch v. Richter, 10 Wash. 486.

In ejectment, a decree in condemnation proceedings awarding the land to defendant for right of way is no defense when it appears that plaintiff was the owner of the land and had not been made a party to the condemnation proceedings: Owen v. St. Paul etc. Ry. Co., 12 Wash. 313.

In an action of ejectment for certain land which plaintiffs claimed belonged to them by reliction, a defense that the land was an island, public domain of the United States, upon which defendant had settled, although the facts setting up the same are combined in the answer with the defense of estoppel pleaded therein, will warrant the introduction of proofs establishing such facts, and where such proof has not been contradicted it is error to direct a verdict in plaintiffs' favor: Moore v. Brownfield, 10 Wash. 439.

Insufficiency of defendants' answer immaterial if plaintiff not entitled to recover: See George v. Columbia R. Co., 38 Wash. 480.

As to defense of adverse possession, see Phinney v. Campbell, 16 Wash. 203; Northern Pacific Railway Co. v. Ely, 25 Wash. 384; Olson v. Howard, 38 Wash. 15.

Equitable defenses: See Burmeister v. Howard, 1 W. T. 207; Ryan v. Fergusson, 3 Wash. 356; Peterson v. Phila. Mtg. Co., 33 Wash. 464.

EVIDENCE IN EJECTMENT: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 998, §§ 32-40; Id., p. 54, §§ 37-41.

Issues, proof and variance: See Snyder v. Harding, 34 Wash. 286; Moore v. Brownfield, 10 Wash. 439; Riverside Land Co. v. Pietsch, 35 Wash. 10; Rogers v. Miller, 13 Wash. 82; Chrast v. O'Connor, 41 Wash. 360; Northern Counties Investment Trust Co. v. Enyard, 24 Wash. 366; Wasmund v. Harm, 36 Wash. 170.

Presumptions and burden of proof: See Lynch v. Richter, 10 Wash. 486; Bracka v. Fish, 23 Wash. 646.

Admissibility—Identity and description of property: See Phinney v. Campbell, 16 Wash. 203; Murray v. Briggs, 29 Wash. 245; Simmons v. Jamieson, 32 Wash. 619.

Title and right to possession: See Smith v. Taylor, 2 Wash. 422; Murray v. Briggs, 29 Wash. 245; Kline v. Stein, 30 Wash. 189.

Weight and sufficiency of evidence: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1000, §§ 39, 40; Id., p. 54, § 41; Russell v. Gay, 33 Wash. 83; Horr v. Hollis, 20 Wash. 424; Wood v. Earles, 39 Wash. 21; Johnson v. Brown, 33 Wash. 588; George v. Columbia & Puget S. R. Co., 38 Wash. 480; Erickson v. Murlin, 39 Wash. 43; Wasmund v. Harm, 36 Wash. 170; Lohse v. Burch, 42 Wash. 156; White v. McSorley, 47 Wash. 18.

Evidence as to color of title: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 51-54.

Although defendant has been allowed to open and close the proofs, in an action of ejectment, without objection on plaintiff's part, plaintiff is not entitled to an instruction that the burden of proof is upon the defendant to show want of title in plaintiff: Lynch v. Richter, 10 Wash. 486.

An equitable title in lands is sufficient to sustain a defense to the action of ejectment: Ryan v. Ferguson, 3 Wash. 356.

One in possession of public lands at the sufferance of the government has a superior title as against a mere intruder: Roberts v. Lucas, 1 W. T. 205.

Proof by plaintiff in ejectment showing title in her husband, that he was dead, that she was his wife, that he had no surviving heirs, and that there were no unpaid debts, is sufficient to establish title in herself: McInerney v. Beck, 10 Wash. 515.

A void tax deed under which the grantee has entered and held possession of the land in controversy constitutes such color of title as will sustain the bar of the statute of limitations provided for actions relating to tax deeds: Ward v. Huggins, 7 Wash. 617.

If the grantor has title, a quitclaim deed is as effective as a warranty deed in conveying it: McInerney v. Beck, 10 Wash. 515.

But a tax deed executed to a decedent's estate is void for want of a grantee: Id.

Adverse possession cannot be established by general understanding in the community that the property was reputed to belong to claimant or to his grantors, in the absence of testimony showing that claimant had ever exercised acts of ownership over it: McInerney v. Beck, 10 Wash. 516.

It is not necessary that there should be actual residence or actual inclosure: Dennis v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 20 Wash. 320.

The possession must be known to the owner: Bowers v. Ledgerwood, 25 Wash. 14.

In an action to quiet title, testimony on the part of plaintiff tending to prove adverse possession is admissible under an allegation that "the plaintiff and its grantors have been in actual, open and notorious possession of the said property continuously since the twenty-eighth day of March, 1862, under color and claim of title; that neither defendant nor his ancestors or predecessors have been seised or possessed of the same for any part or parcel thereof within ten years prior to commencement of suit": Bellingham B. L. Co. v. Dibble, 4 Wash. 764.

The facts of this case held sufficient to show that possession adverse to plaintiff was established: Id.

If during the trial in ejectment it appears that at the time of the commencement of the action the claims of the parties to the land in dispute were pending in the interior department undetermined, the action should be dismissed at plaintiff's cost: Hays v. Parker, 2 W. T. 198.

Distinct and exclusive possession: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 48, § 10½; Ferrell v. Lord, 43 Wash. 667; Lohse v. Burch, 42 Wash. 156; Wasmund v. Harm, 36 Wash. 170; Columbia etc. R. Co. v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 513; Northern Counties Investment Trust v. Enyard, 24 Wash. 366. But see Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Hasse, 28 Wash. 353; Miller v. O'Leary, 44 Wash. 172.

Duration and continuity of possession: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 49, §§ 13-21; McAuliff v. Parker, 10 Wash. 141; Thornley v. Andrews, 40 Wash. 580; Port Townsend v. Lewis, 34 Wash. 413; Turner v. Ladd, 42 Wash. 274; George v. Columbia etc. R. Co., 38 Wash. 480; Columbia etc. R. Co. v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 513; Shell v. Poulson, 23 Wash. 535; Shepard v. Vincent, 38 Wash. 493; Johnson v. Brown, 33 Wash. 588; Noyes v. Douglas, 39 Wash. 314.

Hostile character of possession: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 50, § 22 et seq.; Hesser v. Siepmann, 35 Wash. 14; Blake v. Shriver, 27 Wash. 593; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Ely, 25 Wash. 384; Yesler's Estate v. Holmes, 39 Wash. 34; Thornely v. Andrews, 45 Wash. 413; Phinney v. Campbell, 16 Wash. 203; Bowers v. Ledgerwood, 25 Wash. 14; Wilcox v. Smith, 38 Wash. 585; Lechman v. Mills, 46 Wash. 624; Morgan v. Nor. Pac. R. Co., 50 Wash. 480.

ESTOPPEL.—One who in good faith induces another to settle on his land, believing and representing it to be government land, when in fact the title is in himself, is, nevertheless, estopped from asserting title against the person relying upon such representations, who has gone into possession thereof and improved it: Moore v. Brownfield, 10 Wash. 439.

The owners are estopped in ejectment from denying the validity of a power of attorney purporting to be executed by the owners to their son, when they fail to disavow the act when it becomes known to them, but allow the grantee thereunder to remain in possession for several years and making valuable improvements: Lynch v. Richter, 10 Wash. 486.

As to evidence necessary to establish defense of equitable estoppel: See Riverside Land Co. v. Pietsch, 35 Wash. 10.

Dismissal as to part of defendants not estoppel as to others where they could have been sued separately: See Johnston v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524.

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS.—In an action at law to recover possession of land sold for taxes, after the purchaser's title has, by the statute of limitations, become indefeasible, plaintiff cannot invoke equity on the ground that he offered to pay all back taxes and redeem the land at the beginning of the controversy: Ward v. Huggins, 7 Wash. 617.

Adverse possession from August, 1878, to April, 1890, will not bar an action to quiet title, whether under the Law of 1863 imposing a twenty-year limitation, or under the Code of 1881, reducing the time from twenty to ten years: Baer v. Choir, 7 Wash. 631.

Section 760 of the Code of 1881, providing that no right accrued is affected by the provisions thereof, cannot be interpreted as preserving the right to bring actions for the possession of lands to a period of twenty years after the right of action accrues, as was provided prior to the enactment of the code when it reduced the limitation from twenty to ten years: Raymond v. Morrison, 9 Wash. 156.

If, before the statute bar has become complete, the statutory period is changed, and no mention is made of existing claims, it is generally held that the old law is not modified by the new, so as to give both statutes a proportional effect; but that the time past is effaced and the new law governs: Packscher v. Fuller, 6 Wash. 534, 537.

Instructions as to possession for statutory period: See Kline v. Stein, 30 Wash. 189.

Upon an issue as to the adverse possession of land along a boundary line, it is not an invasion of the province of the jury to instruct that one acquires no title by laying his fence by mistake if he makes no claim to the lands up to the fence, but only to the true boundary as it may be subsequently established: Stangair v. Roads, 46 Wash. 613.

As to adverse possession of railroad right of way: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 246, §§ 4, 5; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Ely, 25 Wash. 384; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Hasse, 28 Wash. 353; Slaughter v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 39 Wash. 576; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Spokane, 45 Wash. 229.

The statute does not run against a city: See West Seattle v. West Seattle Land etc. Co., 38 Wash. 359; Rapp v. Stratton, 41 Wash. 263.

Under this and the next section, the offer in evidence at the trial of a deed not pleaded, nor recorded when the suit was commenced, comes too late, and the court may refuse to allow an amendment; and judgment quieting title has the effect to vacate the deed recorded after action brought: Garvey v. Garvey, 52 Wash. 516.

§ 794. (5509.) Defendant must Plead Title—Judgment Against Landlord.

The defendant shall not be allowed to give in evidence any estate in himself or another in the property, or any license or right to the possession thereof, unless the same be pleaded in his answer. If so pleaded, the nature and duration of such estate or license or right to the possession shall be set forth with the certainty and particularity required in a complaint. If the defendant does not defend for the whole of the property, he shall specify for what particular part he does defend. In an action against a tenant, the judgment shall be conclusive against a landlord who has been made defendant in place of the tenant, to the same extent as if the action had been originally commenced against him. [L. '69, p. 129, § 491; Cd. '81, § 539; 2 H. C., § 532.]

See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 997, §§ 26-28; Id., p. 2425, § 26.

When plaintiff pleads title by virtue of a certificate of purchase from United States receiver, the defendant may plead by way of inducement a state of facts by reason of which the commissioner of the general land office caused such certificate to be canceled: Hays v. Parker, 2 W. T. 198.

Under the requirement that the defendant must plead the estate or license whereby he holds possession, a general denial will raise no issue; and where plaintiff in such action pleads and proves any legal right to the premises he thereby establishes a prima facie case: Allen v. Higgins, 9 Wash. 446.

An answer setting up title, praying that defendant's title be adjudicated, waives the objection that the plaintiffs are not in possession where they have not alleged possession in their complaint: Bates v. Drake, 28 Wash. 447.

The fact that defendants in a suit to quiet title by one out of possession plead their own title as required by this section, would not constitute a waiver of their right to object that plaintiff had mistaken her remedy, when they do not ask for any affirmative relief in their answer: Povah v. Lee, 29 Wash. 108.

An answer, in an action to quiet title, pleading title by adverse possession, is not demurrable for failure to allege "color of title," where it is averred that defendant held under a warranty deed from the owner: Jones v. Herrick, 35 Wash. 434. See, also, Carkeek v. National Bank, 16 Wash. 399.

The jury by their verdict shall find as follows:—

1. If the verdict be for the plaintiff, that he is entitled to the possession of the property described in the complaint, or some part thereof, or some undivided share or interest in either, and the nature and duration of his estate in such property, part thereof, or undivided share or interest in either, as the case may be;

2. If the verdict be for the defendant, that the plaintiff is not entitled to the possession of the property described in the complaint, or to such part thereof as the defendant defends for, and the estate in such property, or part thereof, or license, or right to the possession of either, established on the trial by the defendant, if any, in effect as the same is required to be pleaded. General verdict for defendant proper where he denies that he is in possession and admits plaintiff is the owner: See Simmons v. Jamieson, 32 Wash. 619.

§ 796. (5511.) Damages—Limitation—Use of Improvements.

The plaintiff shall only be entitled to recover damages for withholding the property for the term of six years next preceding the commencement of the action, and for any period that may elapse from such commencement to the time of giving a verdict therein, exclusive of the use of permanent improvements made by the defendant. [L. '69, p. 129, § 493; Cd. '81, § 541; 2 H. C., § 534.]

The last part of this section is omitted as included in the next section.

A mere intruder, having had the use of property held by plaintiff under color of title, is liable to plaintiff for such use; the fact that plaintiff's title is defective is no defense: Blumberg v. McNear, 1 W. T. 141; Meeker v. Gardella, 1 Wash. 139.

Although an action for the recovery of damages for the detention of premises may be in form one for trespass, rental value is provable as an element of damages, since, under § 296 and this section, such an action is treated as if it were one of contract: Columbia etc. Ry. Co. v. Histogenetic etc. Co., 14 Wash. 475.

§ 797. Betterments—Counterclaim for—Taxes and Improvements.

In an action for the recovery of real property upon which permanent improvements have been made or general or special taxes or local assessments have been paid by a defendant, or those under whom he claims, holding in good faith under color or claim of title adversely to the claim of plaintiff, the value of such improvements and the amount of such taxes or assessments with interest thereon from date of payment must be allowed as a counterclaim to the defendant. [L. '03, p. 262, § 1; see historical references to last section.]

This and the two following sections have no retrospective effect: See Investment Co. v. Hambach, 37 Wash. 628; Barton v. Wickizer, 41 Wash. 293; Monk v. Duell, 41 Wash. 403. See further, Ball v. Clothier, 34 Wash. 299.

In ejectment the judgment as to improvements made and taxes paid by the defendant must conform to this section: Bullock v. Wallace, 47 Wash. 690.

§ 798. Pleading, Issue, and Trial on Counterclaim.

The counterclaim shall set forth the value of the land apart from the improvements, and the nature and value of the improvements apart from the land and the amount of said taxes and assessment so paid, and the date of payment. Issues shall be joined and tried as in other actions, and the value of the land and the amount of said taxes and assessments apart from the improvements, and the value of the improvements apart from the land must be specifically found by the verdict of the jury, report of the referee, or findings of the court as the case may be. [L. '03, p. 262, § 2.]

§ 799. Judgment on Counterclaim—Payment.

If the judgment be in favor of the plaintiff for the recovery of the realty, and of the defendant upon the counterclaim, the plaintiff shall be entitled to recover such damages as he may be found to have suffered through the withholding of the premises and waste committed thereupon by the defendant or those under whom he claims, but against this recovery shall be offset pro tanto the value of the permanent improvements and the amount of said taxes and assessments with interest found as above provided. Should the value of improvements or taxes or assessments with interest exceed the recovery for damages, the plaintiff, shall, within two months, pay to the defendant the difference between the two sums and upon proof, after notice, to the defendant, that this has been done, the court shall make an order declaring that fact, and that title to the improvements is vested in him. Should the plaintiff fail to make such payment, the defendant may at any time within two months after the time limited for such payment to be made, pay to the plaintiff the value of the land apart from the improvements, and the amount of the damages awarded against him, and he thereupon shall be vested with title to the land, and, after notice to the plaintiff, the court shall make an order reciting the fact and adjudging title to be in him. Should neither party make the payment above provided, within the specified time, they shall be deemed to be tenants in common of the premises, including the improvements, each holding an interest proportionate to the value of his property determined in the manner specified in section 798; Provided, that the interest of the owner of the improvements shall be the difference between the value of the improvements and the amount of damages recovered against him by the plaintiff. [L. '03, p. 262, § 3.]

§ 800. (5512.) Verdict When Right of Possession has Expired.

If the right of the plaintiff to the possession of the property expire after the commencement of the action, and before the trial, the verdict shall be given according to the fact, and judgment shall be given only for the damages. [L. '69, p. 130, § 494; Cd. '81, § 542; 2 H. C., § 535.]

§ 801. (5513.) Order for Survey.

The court, or judge thereof, on motion, and after notice to the adverse party, may, for cause shown, grant an order allowing the party applying therefor to enter upon the property in controversy and make survey and admeasurement thereof for the purposes of the action. [L. '69, p. 130, § 495; Cd. '81, § 543; 2 H. C., § 536.]

§ 802. (5514.) Contents, Service, and Effect of Order.

The order shall describe the property, and a copy thereof shall be served upon the defendant, and thereupon the party may enter upon the property and make such survey and admeasurement; but if any unnecessary injury be done to the premises, he shall be liable therefor. [L. '69, p. 130, § 496; Cd. '81, § 544; 2 H. C., § 537.]

§ 803. (5515.) Alienation Pendente Lite.

An action for the recovery of the possession of real property against a person in possession cannot be prejudiced by any alienation made by such person either before or after the commencement of the action; but if such alienation be made after the commencement of the action, and the defendant do not satisfy the judgment recovered for damages for withholding the possession, such damages may be recovered by action against the purchaser. [L. '69, p. 130, § 497; Cd. '81, § 545; 2 H. C., § 538.]

§ 804. (5516.) Mortgagee cannot Maintain Ejectment.

A mortgage of real property shall not be deemed a conveyance so as to enable the owner of the mortgage to recover possession of the real property, without a foreclosure and sale according to law. [L. '69, p. 130, § 498; Cd. '81, § 546; 2 H. C., § 539.]

Deed absolute on its face will be treated as a mortgage when it is clearly shown that such was the intention of the parties: Miller v. Ausenig, 2 W. T. 22. A mortgage of real estate is only a lien: Parker v. Dacres, 2 W. T. 439; Stevens v. Ferry, 48 Fed. 7, 9.

A mortgagee in possession cannot be dispossessed by an action in ejectment so long as there is any question whether the mortgage debt has been paid in full: Brundage v. Home etc. Assn., 11 Wash. 277. See Norfor v. Busby, 19 Wash. 450.

This section, repealing § 741, supra, in so far as it authorizes the appointment of a receiver for mortgaged property for insufficiency of the security, does not repeal by implication the other provisions for the appointment of a receiver to save waste: Collins v. Gross, 51 Wash. 516.

§ 805. (5517.) Actions Between Cotenants.

In an action by a tenant in common or a joint tenant of real property against his cotenant, the plaintiff must show, in addition to his evidence of right, that the defendant either denied the plaintiff's right or did some act amounting to such denial. [L. '69, p. 130, § 499; Cd. '81, § 547; 2 H. C., § 504.]

There is no sufficient evidence of a holding of real estate by a husband adversely to his divorced wife, so as to make the same separate instead of community property, where it appears that in his action for a divorce no mention was made of the property, the wife having at that time on file her community property claim to the same, to the knowledge of the husband; since the decree of divorce left them tenants in common, and possession and receipt of rents and payment of taxes by him thereafter for ten years, without communication with his cotenant, will not constitute adverse possession: Graves v. Graves, 48 Wash. 664.

§ 806. (5518.*) Judgment, Conclusiveness of.

In an action to recover possession of real property, the judgment rendered therein shall be conclusive as to the estate in such property and the right of possession thereof, so far as the same is thereby determined, upon all persons claiming by, through, or under the party against whom the judgment is rendered, by title or interest passing after the commencement of the action, if the party in whose favor the judgment is rendered shall have filed a notice of the pendency of the action as required by section 243, supra. When service of the notice is made by publication, and judgment is given for failure to answer, at any time within two years from the entry thereof, the defendant or his successor in interest as to the whole or any part of the property, shall, upon application to the court or judge thereof, be entitled to an order, vacating the judgment and granting him a new trial, upon the payment of the costs of the action. [L. '09, p. 55, § 1. Cf. L. '69, p. 131, § 501; Cd. '81, § 549; 2 H. C., § 541.]

Judgment in former action to quiet title, held res judicata: See Lauman v. Hooper, 37 Wash. 382.

This section has no application to a judgment in an action to set aside conveyances for fraud and subject land to the lien of judgments: Jordan v. Hutchinson, 39 Wash. 373.

An action to have a lost corner established by survey is not an action for the recovery of real property, within the meaning of this section: Strunz v. Hood, 44 Wash. 99.

§ 807. (5519.) Possession not Affected by Vacating Judgment.

If the plaintiff has taken possession of the property before the judgment is set aside and a new trial granted, as provided in the preceding section, such possession shall not be thereby affected in any way; and if judgment be given for defendant in the new trial, he shall be entitled to restitution by execution in the same manner as if he were plaintiff. [L. '69, p. 131, § 502; Cd. '81, § 550; 2 H. C., § 542.]

§ 808. (5520.) Conflicting Claimants Under Donation Law.

In an action at law for the recovery of the possession of real property, if either party claim the property as a donee of the United States, and under the act of Congress approved September twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and fifty, commonly called the donation law, or the acts amendatory thereof, such party, from the date of his settlement thereon, as provided in said act, shall be deemed to have a legal estate in fee in such property, to continue upon condition that he perform the conditions required by such acts, which estate is unconditional and indefeasible after the performance of such conditions. In such action, if both plaintiff and defendant claim title to the same real property, by virtue of settlement, under such acts, such settlement and performance of the subsequent condition shall be prima facie presumed in favor of the party having or claiming under the elder certificate or patent, as the case may be, unless it appears upon the face of such certificate or patent that the same is absolutely void. [Cf. L. '69, p. 132, § 504; L. '77, p. 116, § 556; Cd. '81, § 551; 2 H. C., § 543.]

Cited in 10 Wash. 360; 25 Wash. 358.

Possession of donation claim under what purports to be a quitclaim deed, but executed before the expiration of necessary four years' residence required by the act, is possession under a contract prohibited by law, and gives no color of title: Bullene v. Garrison, 1 W. T. 587.

When selection, residence upon, and cultivation of land under the donation law are completed, the transaction is closed; nothing remains except for donee to furnish proof of these acts, and for government to furnish proof of title; these acts complied with, affect the transfer of title, and not the patent; the latter only evidences title and relates back to the acts: Brazee v. Schofield et al., 2 W. T. 209.

Title to land under donation law was acquired by compliance with the requirements of the act on the part of claimant; and the residence upon and cultivation of claim under that act by a man after having been legally divorced was that of a single man only; the divorced wife can make no claim for one-half: Maynard et al. v. Hill et al., 2 W. T. 321; reaffirming Maynard v. Valentine, 2 W. T. 3; Bullene v. Garrison, 1 W. T. 587.

§ 809. (5521.) Conflicting Claims to Real Property Generally.

Any person in possession, by himself or his tenant, of real property, and any private or municipal corporation in possession, by itself or its tenant, of any real property, or when such real property is not in the actual possession of any one, any person, or private or municipal corporation, claiming title to any real property under a patent from the United States, or during his or its claim of title to such real property under a patent from the United States for such real estate, may maintain a civil action against any person or persons, corporations or associations, claiming an interest in said real property, or any part thereof, or any right thereto, adverse to him, them, or it, for the purpose of determining such claim, estate, or interest; and where several persons, or private or municipal corporations, are in possession of, or claim as aforesaid, separate parcels of real property, and an adverse interest is claimed, or claim made in or to any such parcels, by any other person, persons, corporations, or associations, arising out of a question, conveyance, statute, grant, or other matter common to all such parcels of real estate, all or any portion of such persons or corporations so in possession or claiming such parcel of real property may unite as plaintiffs in such suit to determine such adverse claim or interest against all persons, corporations, or associations claiming such adverse interest. [L. '77, p. 116, § 556; Cd. '81, § 551; 2 H. C., § 544.]

Hostile assertion of title to a parcel of land, formerly an alley which had been vacated, by the former owner of abutting lots, constitutes a cloud on the title which may be quieted under this section: Norton v. Gross, 52 Wash. 341.

CHAPTER II.

FORCIBLE ENTRY AND DETAINER.

§ 810. (5525.) Forcible Entry, Defined.

Every person is guilty of a forcible entry who either,—

1. By breaking open windows, doors, or other parts of a house, or by fraud, intimidation, or stealth, or by any kind of violence or circumstances of terror, enters upon or into any real property; or

2. Who, after entering peaceably upon real property, turns out by force, threats, or menacing conduct the party in actual possession. [Cf. L. '90, p. 73, § 1; L. '91, p. 179, § 1; 2 H. C., § 547.]

See infra, § 2821 et seq., offense of forcible entry and detainer.

§ 811. (5526.) Forcible Detainer, Defined.

Every person is guilty of a forcible detainer who either,—

1. By force, or by menaces and threats of violence, unlawfully holds and keeps the possession of any real property, whether the same was acquired peaceably or otherwise; or

2. Who in the night-time, or during the absence of the occupant of any real property [unlawfully] enters thereon, and who, after demand made for the surrender thereof, refuses for the period of three days to surrender the same to such former occupant. The occupant of real property within the meaning of this subdivision is one who, for the five days next preceding such unlawful entry, was in the peaceable and undisturbed possession of such real property. [Cf. L. '90, p. 73, § 2; L. '91, p. 179, § 2; 2 H. C., § 548.]

See notes to § 810.

Cited in 33 Wash. 336; 42 Wash. 562, 563; 44 Wash. 590, 591; 45 Wash. 453.

A landlord cannot maintain the action against one who wrongfully enters upon lands occupied by a tenant, although the tenant refuses to prosecute and surrenders up his lease to the landlord: Chezum v. Campbell, 42 Wash. 560.

Under this section, a complaint in forcible entry and detainer is sufficient when it states that, while plaintiff was in actual possession of the premises, the defendants broke open the inclosures during plaintiff's absence, and by force and violence continue to occupy and refuse to surrender the same: Gore v. Altice, 33 Wash. 335.

§ 812. (5527.*) Unlawful Detainer, Defined.

A tenant of real property for a term less than life is guilty of unlawful detainer either,—

(1) When he holds over or continues in possession, in person or by subtenant, of the property or any part thereof after the expiration of the term for which it is let to him. In all cases where real property is leased for a specified term or period by express or implied contract, whether written or by parol, the tenancy shall be terminated without notice at the expiration of such specified term or period; or

(2) When he having leased real property for an indefinite time, with monthly or other periodic rent reserved continues in possession thereof, in person or by subtenant, after the end of any such month or period, in cases where the landlord, more than twenty days prior to the end of such month or period, shall have served notice (in manner in this act provided), requiring him to quit the premises at the expiration of such month or period.

(3) When he continues in possession in person or by subtenant after a default in the payment of any rent, and after notice in writing requiring in the alternative the payment of the rent or the surrender of the detained premises, served (in manner hereafter in this act provided) in behalf of the person entitled to the rent upon the person owning the same, shall have remained uncomplied with for the period of three days after service thereof. Such notice may be served at any time after the rent becomes due; or

(4) When he continues in possession in person or by subtenant after a neglect or failure to keep or perform any other condition or covenant of the lease or agreement under which the property is held, including any covenant not to assign or sublet, than one for the payment of rent, and after notice in writing requiring in the alternative the performance of such condition or covenant or the surrender of the property, served (in the manner provided in this act) upon him, and if there be a subtenant in actual possession of the premises, also upon such subtenant, shall remain uncomplied with for ten days after service thereof. Within ten days after the service of such notice the tenant, or any subtenant in actual occupation of the premises, or any mortgagee of the term, or other person interested in its continuance, may perform such condition or covenant and thereby save the lease from such forfeiture; or

(5) When he commits or permits waste upon the demised premises, or when he sets up or carries on therein or thereon any unlawful business, or when he erects, suffers, permits or maintains on or about said premises any nuisance, and remains in possession after service (in manner in this act provided) of three days notice to quit upon him.

(6) Any person who shall, without the permission of the owner and without having any color of title thereto, enter upon the land of another and who shall fail or refuse to remove therefrom after three days notice, in writing, to be served in the manner provided in this act. [L. '05, p. 173, § 1. Cf. L. '91, p. 180, § 3; 2 H. C., § 549; see L. '90, p. 73, § 3.]

See L. '69, p. 130, § 500, and Code of '81, § 548, query as to whether the same is repealed in toto.

Section 2056, Code of 1881, is omitted as superseded by this section.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.—The relation of landlord and tenant is established where the owner of premises permits another to go into possession thereof for any determinate period: McLennan v. Grant, 8 Wash. 603.

Neither tenants in possession nor their assigns, under a contract of lease, can repudiate it because of uncertainty of description: Id.

Where a tenant enters into community lands under a lease executed by a husband alone, without knowledge of their community character, he cannot avoid performance on his part without first demanding a valid lease, and surrendering possession in case of refusal to give him one: Isaacs v. Holland, 4 Wash. 54; Colcord v. Leddy, 4 Wash. 791; Hunt v. Stearns, 5 Wash. 167; Dietz v. Winehill, 6 Wash. 109; Tyron v. Davis, 8 Wash. 106.

If a tenant remains in possession and pays rent, he cannot claim that acts of the landlord interfering with his enjoyment of the premises during occupancy amount to eviction: Ralph v. Lomer, 3 Wash. 401.

The lessees of tide lands from one in possession thereof cannot, in unlawful detainer, dispute the title of their landlord on the ground that, under the tide land act of 1890, page 431, they are "improvers," and, title never having been in the landlord, they are not bound or estopped by the terms of the lease: Hall & P. F. Co. v. Wilbur, 4 Wash. 644; followed in Collins v. Hall, 5 Wash. 367; Columbia etc. Ry. Co. v. Braillard, 5 Wash. 492; Clancy v. Reis, 5 Wash. 372; Seattle Operating Co. v. Cavanaugh, 6 Wash. 326.

The occupant of premises under a lease from a corporation cannot question the authority or power of the corporation to execute it: Hall & P. F. Co. v. Wilbur, supra.

In an action brought under § 785, supra, to recover real property, there being no evidence tending to show relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties, defendant is not entitled to a nonsuit on the ground that there is no proof of services of notice to quit: Shannon v. Grindstaff, 11 Wash. 536.

The summary action of unlawful detainer, authorized by this and the following sections, for the recovery of the possession of leased premises, cannot be maintained unless the conventional relation of landlord and tenant exists between the parties: Meyer v. Beyer, 43 Wash. 368.

Holding over after termination of tenancy: See Yesler's Estate v. Orth, 24 Wash. 483.

As to defenses and grounds of opposition: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1692, § 104; Carmack v. Drum, 27 Wash. 382; Morris v. Healy Lumber Co., 33 Wash. 451; Bond v. Chapman, 34 Wash. 606; Teater v. King, 35 Wash. 138; Tipton v. Roberts, 48 Wash. 391.

As to setoff and counterclaim: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1692, § 105; Phillips v. Pt. Townsend Lodge, 8 Wash. 529; Owens v. Swanton, 25 Wash. 112; Ralph v. Lomer, 3 Wash. 401.

ASSIGNMENT OF LEASE—SUBTENANTS: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1677, §§ 23-29.

There is a marked distinction between an assignment of a lease and a sublease. By an assignment the lessor parts with his whole interest in the estate, whereas by a sublease he grants an interest less than his own, reserving to himself a reversion: Shannon v. Grindstaff, 11 Wash. 536, 539.

The assignee of a lease may rid himself of liability thereon by a reassignment thereof to another, and without notice to the lessor: Tibbals v. Island, 10 Wash. 451.

The statute does not require the recording of assignments of leases: Id.

A married man may make a valid assignment of a lease without his wife's consent: Id.

If a lessee sublet the premises for a shorter term than that for which they are to him granted, or if he sublet a part only of the premises, the original lessor cannot maintain an action for rent against the sublessee: Shannon v. Grindstaff, 11 Wash. 536, 539.

The land, however, is not discharged by such subletting from the claims of the original lessor: Id.

Any conveyance by a lessee of his whole interest in demised premises, leaving no reversionary interest in himself, operates as an assignment regardless of the form of the instrument of transfer; and a purchaser entering under such conveyance becomes a tenant of the lessor, although he may have had no notice that his grantor had merely a leasehold interest: McLennan v. Grant, supra.

A subtenant cannot defeat the owner's right of possession by assertion of a contract between himself and the tenant, when the rights of the tenant have been terminated by the terms of the lease under which he held: Shannon v. Grindstaff, supra.

An assignment of a lease is ineffectual when made without consideration and without the knowledge or consent of the assignee: Frye v. Hill, 14 Wash. 83.

As to what constitutes breach of covenants and conditions as to assignments or subletting: See Spencer v. Commercial Co., 30 Wash. 520; Cuschner v. Westlake, 43 Wash. 690.

NOTICE TO QUIT.—Under subdivision 3 of this section a notice to quit, signed by a joint owner of premises in his own name, and as one of the executors and as attorney in fact of the other executor of the estate, which holds the remaining interest, is sufficient: Gilmore v. The H. W. Baker Co., 12 Wash. 468, 470.

The lessor does not waive his right to forfeit a lease for nonpayment of rent by collecting rents subsequent to notice to quit, which fell due prior to the one upon which forfeiture is claimed: Carraher v. Bell, 7 Wash. 81.

A tenant under a lease, reserving a monthly rental payable in advance on the first of the month, is entitled to the second day of the month to make payment, where the first day falls on Sunday: Byers v. Rothschild, 11 Wash. 296.

The act of March 7, 1891, imposing certain penalties upon any tenant who wrongfully continues in possession of premises after a violation on his part of the terms of a lease, is applicable to contracts entered into before its passage, although the penalties are increased by the later law, as it comes under the rule that a change in the remedy incident to existing contracts may be made without affecting rights thereunder: Woodward v. Winehill, 14 Wash. 394.

The fact that a receiver had been appointed in a suit brought to foreclose a mortgage against the lessee would not deprive the lessor of the right to obtain possession of the premises by a proceeding under the forcible entry and detainer act, even if the lessor had been made a party to the foreclosure suit: Id.

Notice to a receiver for the lessee of premises to surrender possession is unnecessary when notice was served upon the lessee prior to the appointment of the receiver: Id.

The appointment of a receiver in a foreclosure suit for the purpose of looking after the rights of the lessee of premises and his creditors does not authorize such receiver to represent the rights of the lessor: Id.

A lease of a water lot with the appurtenances, containing a provision that all docks, wharves, buildings and improvements whatsoever which shall be erected by the lessee shall become the property of the lessor at the expiration of the lease, will cover a wharf erected by the lessee in connection with the lot, so that at the expiration of the lease the wharf and buildings will revert to the lessor, although the wharf extends beyond the limits of the lessor's lot and upon tide lands not owned by him: Brown v. Carkeek, 14 Wash. 443.

Under § 2056, Code of 1881, a notice informing the tenant that certain rent is due, and unless paid within ten days from date of service thereof the tenancy will be forfeited, as provided by statute, is sufficient, though not in the statutory language and not specifying the exact amount due: Ralph v. Lomer, 3 Wash. 401.

Necessity and sufficiency of notice to quit and demand of possession: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1693, §§ 106, 107; Woodward v. Winehill, 14 Wash. 394; Stanford Land Co. v. Steidle, 28 Wash. 72; Mounts v. Goranson, 29 Wash. 261; Morris v. Healy Lumber Co., 33 Wash. 451; Bond v. Chapman, 34 Wash. 606; Byrkett v. Gardner, 35 Wash. 668; McLennan v. Grant, 8 Wash. 603.

As to time of service, and waiver of notice: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1694, §§ 108, 109; Harris v. Halverson, 23 Wash. 779; Ferguson v. Hashi, 25 Wash. 664; McGinnis v. Genns, 25 Wash. 490; Mounts v. Goranson, 29 Wash. 261; Teater v. King, 35 Wash. 138; Yesler's Estate v. Orth, 24 Wash. 483; Lowman v. West, 8 Wash. 355; Mitchell v. Matheson, 23 Wash. 723.

Parties—Who may maintain action: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1694, § 111; Roderick v. Swanson, 6 Wash. 222; Capital Brewing Co. v. Crosbie, 22 Wash. 269; Harris v. Halverson, 23 Wash. 779; Schreiner v. Stanton, 26 Wash. 563.

As to general construction and operation of this section, see Columbia & P. S. R. Co. v. Moss, 44 Wash. 589.

Under subdivision 6 of this section, the action may be maintained by a lessee entitled to possession against one who was in possession as a subtenant of such lessee from month to month, and who paid rent to such lessee; the word "owner" not being restricted to the record or title owner of the land: Stahl Brewing & Malting Co. v. Van Buren, 45 Wash. 451.

Under this section, an action of unlawful detainer for nonpayment of rent may be maintained against the original lessee where his subtenant was in possession and in default: Agen v. Nelson, 51 Wash. 431.

In all cases of tenancy upon agricultural lands, where the tenant has held over and retained possession for more than sixty days after the expiration of his term, without any demand or notice to quit by his landlord or the successor in estate of his landlord, if any there be, he shall be deemed to be holding by permission of his landlord or the successor in estate of his landlord, if any there be, and shall be entitled to hold under the terms of the lease for another full year, and shall not be guilty of an unlawful detainer during said year, and such holding over for the period aforesaid shall be taken and construed as a consent on the part of a tenant to hold for another year. [Cf. L. '90, p. 74, § 3; L. '91, p. 181, § 4; 2 H. C., § 550.]

§ 814. (5529.*) Service of Notice.

Any notice provided for in this act shall be served either (1) by delivering a copy personally to the person entitled thereto; or (2) if he be absent from the premises unlawfully held, by leaving there a copy, with some person of suitable age and discretion, and sending a copy through the mail addressed to the person entitled thereto at his place of residence; or (3) if the person to be notified be a tenant, or an unlawful holder of premises, and his place of residence is not known, or if a person of suitable age and discretion there cannot be found then by affixing a copy of the notice in a conspicuous place on the premises unlawfully held, and also delivering a copy to a person there residing, if such a person can be found, and also sending a copy through the mail addressed to the tenant, or unlawful occupant, at the place where the premises unlawfully held are situated. Service upon a subtenant may be made in the same manner: Provided, that in cases where the tenant, or unlawful occupant, shall be conducting a hotel, inn, lodging-house, boarding-house, or shall be renting rooms while still retaining control of the premises as a whole, that the guest, lodgers, boarders or persons renting such rooms shall not be considered as subtenants within the meaning of this act, but all such persons may be served by affixing a copy of the notice to be served on two conspicuous places upon the premises unlawfully held; and such persons shall not be necessary parties defendant in an action to recover possession of said premises. Service of any notice provided for in this act may be had upon a corporation by delivering a copy thereof to any officer, agent or person having charge of the business of such corporation, at the premises unlawfully held, and in case no such officer, agent or person can be found upon such premises, then service may be had by affixing a copy of such notice in a conspicuous place upon said premises and by sending a copy through the mail addressed to such corporation at the place where said premises are situated. Proof of any service under this section may be made by the affidavit of the person making the same in like manner and with like effect as the proof of service of summons in civil actions. [L. '05, p. 174, § 2. Cf. L. '90, p. 75, § 4; L. '91, p. 181, § 5; 2 H. C., § 551.]

See note to § 812.

§ 815. (5530.) Venue.

The superior court of the county in which the property or some part of it is situated shall have jurisdiction of proceedings under this chapter. [L. '90, p. 75, § 5; L. '91, p. 182, § 6; 2 H. C., § 552.]

§ 816. (5531.) Parties Defendant—Judgment.

No person other than the tenant of the premises, and subtenant, if there be one, in the actual occupation of the premises when the complaint is filed, need be made parties defendant in any proceeding under this chapter, nor shall any proceeding abate, nor the plaintiff be nonsuited, for the nonjoinder of any person who might have been made party defendant; but when it appears that any of the parties served with process, or appearing in the proceeding, are guilty of the offense charged, judgment must be rendered against him. In case a person has become a subtenant of the premises in controversy after the service of any notice in this chapter provided for, the fact that such notice was not served on such subtenant shall constitute no defense to the action. All persons who enter the premises under the tenant, after the commencement of the action hereunder, shall be bound by the judgment the same as if they had been made parties to the action. [L. '90, p. 75, § 6; L. '91, p. 182, § 7; 2 H. C., § 553.]

See supra, § 189, parties to actions.

§ 817. (5532.) Complaint—When Summons must Issue.

The plaintiff in his complaint, which shall be in writing, must set forth the facts on which he seeks to recover, and describe the premises with reasonable certainty, and may set forth therein any circumstances of fraud, force, or violence, which may have accompanied the said forcible entry, or forcible or unlawful detainer, and claim damages therefor, or compensation for the occupation of the premises, or both; in case the unlawful detainer charged be after default in the payment of rent, the complaint must state the amount of such rent. Upon filing the complaint a summons must be issued thereon as in other cases, returnable at a day designated therein, which shall not be less than six nor more than twelve days from its date, except in cases where the publication of summons is necessary, in which case the court or judge thereof may order that the summons be made returnable at such time as may be deemed proper, and the summons shall specify the return day so fixed. [Cf. L. '90, p. 76, § 7; L. '91, p. 182, § 8; 2 H. C., § 554.]

See infra, §§ 823, 825, and notes, pleadings and proof.

This chapter, providing a summary remedy for the possession of land wrongfully held, being a special act, the provisions therein that defendant shall answer on a designated day, not less than six nor more than twelve days from date of summons, is not affected by the practice act of 1893, supra, chapter 6, title 28, providing for twenty days in which to answer: State v. Parker, 12 Wash. 685; but a summons in forcible entry and detainer must be issued in the manner prescribed by the practice act at the time it is issued; the special act referring to the general law in this particular: Id.; Security Savings & Trust Co. v. Hackett, 27 Wash. 247; McGrew v. Lamb, 31 Wash. 485.

An action of unlawful detainer is a special and summary proceeding, in which the power of the court to render an affirmative judgment depends upon the existence of certain statutory facts: Lowman v. West, 8 Wash. 355.

Conclusions of law have a less appropriate place in a complaint of this kind than anywhere under civil pleading: Id.

A complaint in unlawful detainer which alleges mere conclusions of law is not in compliance with the provisions of this section requiring plaintiff to "set forth the facts on which he seeks to recover": Id.

A complaint in unlawful detainer which sets out a written lease and acceptance of it by the lessees and entry under it is sufficient without alleging plaintiff's title: Hall & P. F. Co. v. Wilbur, 4 Wash. 644; followed in Collins v. Hall, 5 Wash. 367; Clancy v. Reis, 5 Wash. 372; Columbia etc. Ry. Co. v. Braillard, 5 Wash. 492; Seattle Operating Co. v. Cavanaugh, 6 Wash. 326.

Where it appears in the complaint that plaintiff, by an instrument in writing not witnessed or acknowledged, leased premises to defendant for at least one year and probably for a longer period, and that defendant went into possession; that plaintiff had the option of terminating the tenancy at the end of the year on one month's notice; that such notice was given, but that defendant refused to vacate, the complaint is sufficient without the formal averment that the premises are withheld by force: Chambers v. Hoover, 3 W. T. 107.

The fact that defendants by answer in effect dispute their landlord's title will not forfeit their right to notice to surrender the premises, nor excuse the plaintiff pleading and proving its service: Lowman v. West, 8 Wash. 355.

In an action of unlawful detainer a finding of the court, that the defendants became the successors and assignees of the original lessee "previous to the facts complained of in this action," is sufficient under an allegation in the complaint that the defendants "have at all times mentioned in this complaint after the first day of January, 1893, and for a long time previous thereto, been entitled to and subject to all the right, interest, title and conditions arising from said lease and contract as such party of the second part thereto": Gaffney v. Megrath, 11 Wash. 456.

In an action for damages for the detention of property to which plaintiff claimed the right of possession under the terms of a lease, the complaint is sufficient when it gives a specific description of the property, showing the state and county where situated and alleging that the building on the property is the one covered by the lease set out in the complaint, possession of which had been taken under such lease, although the lease itself gives no indication of the county in which the property is located, other than the name of the town, of whose location the court would take judicial notice, and the file-mark for record of the lease, which shows that it had been recorded in a certain county: Squires v. Zumwalt, 12 Wash. 241.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1695, 1696, §§ 113-116.

As to the complaint, see further, Chambers v. Hoover, 3 W. T. 107; Stanford Land Co. v. Steidle, 28 Wash. 72; Quandt v. Smith, 28 Wash. 664; State v. Pittenger, 37 Wash. 384; Harris v. Halverson, 23 Wash. 779.

§ 818. (5533.) Summons, Form and Service.

The summons must state the names of the parties to the proceeding, the court in which the same is brought, the nature of the action, in concise terms, and the relief sought, and also the return day; and must notify the defendant to appear and answer within the time designated or that the relief sought will be taken against him. The summons must be directed to the defendant, and in case of summons by publication, be served at least five days before the return day designated therein. The summons must be served and returned in the same manner as summons in other actions is served and returned. Upon the return of any summons issued under this chapter, when the same has not for any reason been served, or has not been served in time, the plaintiff may have a new summons issued the same as if no previous summons had been issued. [Cf. L. '90, p. 76, § 8; L. '91, p. 183, § 9; 2 H. C., § 555.]

See notes to § 812.

§ 819. (5534.) Writ of Restitution.

The plaintiff, at the time of commencing an action of forcible entry or forcible detainer or unlawful detainer, or at any time afterwards, may apply to the judge of the court in which the action is pending for a writ of restitution restoring to the plaintiff the property in the complaint described, and the judge shall order a writ of restitution to issue. The writ shall be issued by the clerk of the superior court in which the action is pending, and be returnable in twenty days after its date; but before any writ shall issue prior to judgment the plaintiff shall execute to the defendant and file in court a bond in such a sum as the court or judge may order, with two or more sureties, to be approved by the clerk, conditioned that the plaintiff will prosecute his action without delay, and will pay all costs that may be adjudged to the defendant, and all damages which he may sustain by reason of the writ of restitution having been issued, should the same be wrongfully sued out. [Cf. L. '90, p. 77, § 9; L. '91, p. 183, § 10; 2 H. C., § 556.]

Cited in 18 Wash. 235; 19 Wash. 337; 49 Wash. 205.

The provisions of this section authorizing restitution of realty on giving bond is not unconstitutional: See State ex rel. German Saving & Loan Society v. Baker, 19 Wash. 336; Morris v. Healy Lumber Co., 33 Wash. 451.

§ 820. (5535.*) Service of Writ—Bond.

The sheriff shall, upon receiving the writ of restitution, forthwith serve a copy thereof upon the defendant, his agent or attorney, or a person in possession of the premises, and shall not execute the same for three days thereafter, within which time the defendant, or those in possession of the premises, may execute to the plaintiff a bond to be filed with and approved by the clerk of the court in such sum as may be fixed by the judge, with two or more sureties to be approved by the clerk of said court, conditioned that they will pay to the plaintiff such sum as the plaintiff may recover for the use and occupation of the said premises, or any rent found due, together with all damages the plaintiff may sustain by reason of the defendant occupying or keeping possession of said premises, and also all the costs of the action. The plaintiff, his agent or attorneys, shall have notice of the time and place where the court or judge thereof shall fix the amount of the defendant's bond, and shall have notice and a reasonable opportunity to examine into the qualification and sufficiency of the sureties upon said bond before said bond shall be approved by the clerk. The writ may be served by the sheriff, in the event he shall be unable to find the defendant, an agent or attorney, or a person in possession of the demised premises, by affixing a copy of said writ in a conspicuous place upon the demised premises. [L. '05, p. 175, § 3. Cf. L. '90, p. 77, § 10; L. '91, p. 183, § 11; 2 H. C., § 551.]

Cited in 18 Wash. 235; 44 Wash. 591; 45 Wash. 458.

If, in order to stay a writ of restitution, defendant gives bond with sureties, conditioned to pay plaintiff such sum of money as he may recover for use and occupation of the premises, and all damages plaintiff may sustain by reason thereof, and all costs, the sureties are not discharged by reason of a stipulation between their principal and the obligee, providing that trial be deferred pending appeal of another action involving the same questions, and should be determined by the decision rendered on such appeal: Hall & P. F. Co. v. Schmidt, 7 Wash. 606. See Lowman v. West, 18 Wash. 233.

§ 821. (5536.*) Modification of Amount of Bond.

The plaintiff or defendant at any time, upon two days' notice to the adverse party, may apply to the court or any judge thereof for an order raising or lowering the amount of any bond in this act provided for. Either party may, upon like notice, apply to the court or any judge thereof for an order requiring additional or other surety or sureties upon any such bond. Upon the hearing or [of] any application made under the provisions of this section evidence may be given. The judge after hearing any such application shall make such an order as shall be just in the premises. The bondsmen may be required to be present at such hearing if so required in the notice thereof, and shall answer under oath all questions that may be asked them touching their qualifications as bondsmen, and in the event the bondsmen shall fail or refuse to appear at such hearing and so answer such questions the bond shall be stricken. In the event the court shall order a new or additional bond to be furnished by defendant, and the same shall not be given within twenty-four hours, the court shall order the sheriff to forthwith execute the writ. In the event the defendant shall file a second or additional bond and it shall also be found insufficient after hearing, as above provided, the right to retain the premises by bond shall be lost and the sheriff shall forthwith put the plaintiff in possession of the premises. [L. '05, p. 176, § 4. Cf. L. '90, p. 78, § 11; L. '91, p. 184, § 12; 2 H. C., § 558.]

See notes to § 812.

Cited in 18 Wash. 238; 25 Wash. 116. See Lowman v. West, 18 Wash. 233.

§ 822. (5537.) Judgment by Default.

If at the time appointed in the summons the defendant do not appear and defend, the court must render judgment in favor of the plaintiff as prayed for in the complaint. [Cf. L. '90, p. 78, § 13; L. '91, p. 184, § 13; 2 H. C., § 559.]

§ 823. (5538.) Pleading by Defendant.

On or before the day fixed for his appearance the defendant may appear and answer or demur. [L. '90, p. 78, § 14; L. '91, p. 184, § 14; 2 H. C., § 560.]

See supra, §§ 812, 817, and notes, definition of unlawful detainer.

See infra, § 834, and notes, proof.

Cited in 27 Wash. 385.

See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1260, § 7;
2 Id., p. 1696, § 116.

The defendant cannot in unlawful detainer set up a counterclaim for damages for loss of business, depreciation in value of furniture, and for repairs, alleged as the result of the landlord's acts: Ralph v. Lomer, 3 Wash. 401.

An answer in unlawful detainer setting up a counterclaim on account of repairs made by defendant which it was the duty of the landlord to make is demurrable since counterclaims and offsets are not available in such proceedings: Phillips v. Port Townsend Lodge, 8 Wash. 529.

An answer alleging that it was conceded by the parties that the lease was void, that defendants surrendered the premises to plaintiff, that a new agreement was made for occupancy at a fair and reasonable rental, and that defendant re-entered thereunder, is sufficient, against a demurrer, but the frivolous, redundant and uncertain matter therein can only be reached by motions: Isaacs v. Holland, 4 Wash. 54. But where the answer of defendant in such case fails to allege (when community lease void for want of wife's signature) a demand for a lease executed by both spouses, it is insufficient: Tryon v. Davis, 8 Wash. 106.

It seems that defendant cannot interpose an answer alleging that in drawing up a lease certain terms were omitted by mutual mistake, and asking a reformation of the lease to express the contract of the parties: Phillips v. Port Townsend Lodge, 8 Wash. 529.

An answer alleging that defendant had been in quiet possession of the premises for more than one year preceding the filing of complaint, but which fails to allege that defendant's estate in the premises had not ended, held, insufficient under the provisions of § 1836 of the Code of 1881, Justice Practice Act: Bellingham Bay etc. Ry. Co. v. Strand, 1 Wash. 133.

In an action for breach of covenant of a lease against making alterations without lessor's consent, it is error to strike from the answer allegations that plaintiff had full knowledge of the alteration when made, and thereafter received accruing rentals without objection to the alterations: Pettygrove v. Rothchild, 2 Wash. 6.

A plea of tender for rent due by defendant is insufficient, under § 548, Code of 1881, unless it alleges that defendant offered to pay interest on the rent in arrears, with interest and costs of action: Ralph v. Lomer, 3 Wash. 401.

In unlawful detainer, when defendant sets up a defense that he had parted with his interest in the premises, the refusal of the court to make a distinct finding on that issue is not error, when such issue is determined by a finding that the defendants "are now in possession of the said premises": Gaffney v. Megrath, 11 Wash. 456.

In an action of unlawful detainer, the admission, by defendant, in his answer, of the issuance of a United States patent to plaintiff's grantor, but pleading that such patent was null and void, is not a plea of confession and avoidance: Roberts v. Center, 26 Wash. 435.

§ 824. (5539.) Trial by Jury.

Whenever an issue of fact is presented by the pleadings it must be tried by a jury, unless such a jury be waived as in other cases. The jury shall be formed in the same manner as other trial juries in the court in which the action is pending, and in all cases actions under this chapter shall take precedence of all other civil actions. [Cf. L. '90, p. 78, § 15; L. '91, p. 184, § 15; 2 H. C., § 561.]

See supra, § 316, waiver of trial by jury.

Cited in 19 Wash. 340.

§ 825. (5540.) Proof Required by Plaintiff.

On the trial of any proceeding for any forcible entry or forcible detainer, the plaintiff shall only be required to show, in addition to a forcible entry complained of, that he was peaceably in the actual possession at the time of the forcible entry; or in addition to a forcible detainer complained of, that he was entitled to the possession at the time of the forcible detainer. [Cf. L. '90, p. 78, § 16; L. '91, p. 184, § 16; 2 H. C., § 562.]

See supra, § 812, and notes, definition of unlawful detainer.

See supra, § 817, complaint and summons.

See supra, § 823, pleadings.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1696, § 118; 1 Id., p. 1261, §§ 9-11.

In an action to recover rent plaintiff's allegation of possession is prima facie established by the introduction of the lease, and the burden of alleging and proving his want of possession at the time of its execution is upon defendant: Collins v. Hall, 5 Wash. 366. See, also, Hall & P. F. Co. v. Wilbur, 4 Wash. 644; Clancy v. Williams, 5 Wash. 492; Clancy v. Reis, 5 Wash. 371.

If parties to an action for rent rely on an express contract, evidence as to the reasonable rental value of the premises is inadmissible: Gilmore v. The H. W. Baker Co., 12 Wash. 468, 473.

Where plaintiff proved his quiet and lawful possession for a long time prior to and up to the time of the alleged forcible entry, and defendant offered no evidence of right to possession, and none in contravention of plaintiff's proof, while its answer admitted that it was in possession of the premises at the commencement of the action, a verdict in favor of plaintiff will be sustained: Bellingham Bay etc. Ry. Co. v. Strand, 1 Wash. 133.

If no question of title is involved, it is not error to exclude evidence that defendant had paid taxes on the premises in controversy for two years last past, no other proof of possession or right thereto being offered: Id.

Evidence "that during the two years last past, defendant had been in the actual, open and notorious possession of large portions of the said tract of several hundred acres of land which originally included the land in controversy": Held, irrelevant to the issue: Id.; Gore v. Altice, 33 Wash. 335.

Proof required on behalf of plaintiff:

See Schreiner v. Stanton, 26 Wash. 563.

The title to property cannot be tried in an action of forcible entry and detainer: Meyer v. Beyer, 43 Wash. 368.

Allegation of ownership is not supported by the admission of deeds where deed to plaintiff's grantor was in fact a mortgage: See McGrew v. Lamb, 31 Wash. 485.

Weight and sufficiency of the evidence: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1696, § 118; Seattle Operating Co. v. Cavanaugh, 6 Wash. 325; Teater v. King, 35 Wash. 138; Stahl Brewing and Malting Co. v. Van Buren, 45 Wash. 151.

Admissibility of evidence: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1696, § 117; Harris v. Halverson, 23 Wash. 779; Owens v. Stanton, 25 Wash. 112; Roberts v. Center, 26 Wash. 435; McMillan v. Walker, 48 Wash. 342.

In an action of unlawful detainer against the assignee of a tenant, it is error to admit proof that plaintiff made no claim to the premises while defendants were in possession prior to the expiration of the term: McLennan v. Grant, 8 Wash. 603.

If both parties requested the court to order the jury to view the premises, and the court, on refusing, states that he cannot prevent them from viewing the premises if they so desire, to which no exception is taken, error cannot be urged on the ground that two jurors viewing the premises of their own accord have an advantage over the others: Gilmore v. The H. W. Baker Co., 12 Wash. 468.

An instruction that subtenants were not entitled to notice to quit, held harmless error, when the admissions of defendants show that a written demand for possession was served upon the husband at the house of defendants on the premises, which they refused to surrender unless paid a certain sum for so doing, although served upon the husband alone, which notice was not signed and did not fully describe the premises: Shannon v. Grindstaff, 11 Wash. 530.

An instruction to find for plaintiff if the notice to quit served was such "as the law required, as the court has indicated to you," and was not complied with, will not be held reversible error, if the notice was in fact legal: Gilmore v. The H. W. Baker Co., 12 Wash. 474.

Under the liberal provisions relating to the construction of pleadings, § 285, supra, a complaint in a particular case, held sufficient without a formal averment to the effect that defendant withholds the premises by force: Chambers v. Hoover, 3 W. T. 107.

Plaintiff cannot by amendment change the character of his action from one in ejectment to one of unlawful detainer: Roderick v. Swanson, 6 Wash. 222, 224.

In an action for use and occupation the measure of damages where defendant holds under color of title adverse to plaintiff is the fair rental value of the premises, together with interest thereon to the time of trial, and it is error to admit evidence of the highest market value of the produce of a farm during the year for that purpose: Meeker v. Gardella, 1 Wash. 139.

§ 826. (5541.) Amendment of Complaint—Continuance.

When upon the trial of any proceeding under this chapter it appears from the evidence that the defendant has been guilty of either a forcible entry or a forcible or unlawful detainer, in respect of the premises described in the complaint, and other than the offense charged in the complaint, the judge must order that such complaint be forthwith amended to conform to such proofs; such amendment must be made without any imposition of terms. No continuance shall be permitted on account of such amendment unless the defendant shows to the satisfaction of the court good cause therefor. [Cf. L. '90, p. 78, § 17; L. '91, p. 185, § 17; 2 H. C., § 653.]

§ 827. (5542.) Verdict and Judgment.

If upon the trial the verdict of the jury, or if the case be tried without a jury the finding of the court, be in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant, judgment shall be entered for the restitution of the premises; and if the proceeding be for unlawful detainer after neglect or failure to perform any condition or covenant of a lease or agreement under which the property is held, or after default in the payment of rent, the judgment shall also declare the forfeiture of the lease, agreement, or tenancy. The jury, or the court if the proceedings be tried without a jury, shall also assess the damages occasioned to the plaintiff by any forcible entry, or by any forcible or unlawful detainer, alleged in the complaint and proved on the trial, and if the alleged unlawful detainer be after default in the payment of rent, find the amount of any rent due, and the judgment shall be rendered against the defendant guilty of the forcible entry, forcible detainer, or unlawful detainer for twice the amount of damages thus assessed and of the rent, if any, found due. When the proceeding is for an unlawful detainer after default in the payment of rent, and the lease or agreement under which the rent is payable has not by its terms expired, execution upon the judgment shall not be issued until the expiration of five days after the entry of the judgment, within which time the tenant or any subtenant, or any mortgagee of the term or other party interested in its continuance, may pay into court for the landlord the amount of the judgment and costs, and thereupon the judgment shall be satisfied and the tenant restored to his estate; but if payment, as herein provided, be not made within five days, the judgment may be enforced for its full amount and for the possession of the premises. In all other cases the judgment may be enforced immediately. If the writ of restitution shall have been executed prior to judgment, no further writ or execution for the premises shall be required. [Cf. L. '90, p. 79, § 18; L. '91, p. 185, § 18; 2 H. C., § 564.]

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1696, §§ 119-121.

The verdict of a jury for defendant will not be disturbed where the relation of landlord and tenant is not clearly established by the evidence: Seattle Operating Co. v. Cavanaugh, 6 Wash. 325.

A mere intruder, having had the use of property held by plaintiff under color of title, is liable to plaintiff for such use. The fact that plaintiff's title is defective is no defense: Blumberg v. McNear, 1 W. T. 141.

In unlawful detainer the plaintiff is not entitled to double damages, unless he specifically claims the same in his complaint: Gaffney v. Megrath, 11 Wash. 456. If the prayer of the complaint in unlawful detainer is for the stipulated rent due it is error to give judgment for twice that sum; the statute authorizing such judgment is directory merely: Hall & P. F. Co. v. Wilbur, 4 Wash. 644.

As to double damages, see, also, Hart v. Pratt, 19 Wash. 560; Quandt v. Smith, 28 Wash. 664; Bond v. Chapman, 34 Wash. 606; Hinckley v. Casey, 45 Wash. 430.

The fact that judgment in an action brought under the forcible entry and detainer act declares a forfeiture of the lease is harmless error, since the lessee could, under that act, by performance of the conditions of the judgment, be restored to his rights under the lease, whether or not a forfeiture had been adjudged: Woodward v. Winehill, 14 Wash. 394.

Sufficiency of findings in unlawful detainer: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1697, § 121; Mitchell v. Matheson, 23 Wash. 723; Teater v. King, 41 Wash. 134; Fowler v. Ohuick, 45 Wash. 44; Brown Nat. Bank v. So. Ins. Co., 22 Wash. 379.

Damages and amount of recovery: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1696, § 119; Cutler v. Co-operative Brotherhood, 31 Wash. 680; State v. Pittenger, 37 Wash. 384; Stevens v. Jones, 40 Wash. 484.

§ 828. (5543.) Amendments Allowed, When.

Amendments may be allowed by the court at any time before final judgment, upon such terms as to the court may appear just, in the same cases and manner and to the same extent as in civil actions. [Cf. L. '90, p. 80, § 20; L. '91, p. 186, § 19; 2 H. C., § 565.]

See supra, § 826, amendment of complaint.

§ 829. (5544.) Practice—General Provisions Applicable.

Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, the provisions of the laws of this state with reference to practice in civil actions are applicable to and constitute the rules of practice in the proceedings mentioned in this chapter; and the provisions of such laws relative to new trials and appeals, except so far as they are inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter, shall be held to apply to the proceedings mentioned in this chapter. [Cf. L. '90, p. 80; § 21; L. '91, p. 186, § 20; 2 H. C., § 566.]

§ 830. (5545.) Forfeiture, Relief Against.

The court may relieve a tenant against a forfeiture of a lease and restore him to his former estate, as in other cases provided by law, where application for such relief is made within thirty days after the forfeiture is declared by the judgment of the court, as provided in this chapter. The application may be made by a tenant or subtenant, or a mortgagee of the term, or any person interested in the continuance of the term. It must be made upon petition, setting forth the facts upon which the relief is sought, and be verified by the applicant. Notice of the application, with a copy of the petition, must be served on the plaintiff in the judgment, who may appear and contest the application. In no case shall the application be granted except on condition that full payment of rent due, or full performance of conditions of covenants stipulated, so far as the same is practicable, be first made. [Cf. L. '90, p. 80, § 22; L. '91, p. 186, § 21; 2 H. C., § 567.]

§ 831. (5546.) Appeal—Bond.

If either party feels aggrieved by the judgment he may appeal to the supreme court, as in other civil actions: Provided, that if the defendant appealing desires a stay of proceedings pending such appeal, he shall execute and file a bond, with two or more sufficient sureties to be approved by the judge, conditioned to abide the order of the court on such appeal, and to pay all rents and other damages justly accruing to the plaintiff during the pendency of the appeal. [Cf. L. '90, p. 80, § 23; L. '91, p. 187, § 22; 2 H. C., § 568.]

§ 832. (5547.) Stay of Proceedings Pending Appeal.

When the defendant shall appeal, and shall file a bond as provided in the preceding section, all further proceedings in the case shall be stayed until the determination of said appeal, and the same has been remanded to the superior court for further proceedings therein. [Cf. L. '90, p. 80, § 24; L. '91, p. 187, § 23; 2 H. C., § 569.]

The bond given by defendants in an action of unlawful detainer, for the purpose of staying the execution of a provisional writ of restitution against them, is not superseded and rendered nugatory by a subsequent supersedeas bond given by defendants on appeal from a judgment against them: Lowman v. West, 18 Wash. 233.

§ 833. (5548.) Appeal Suspends Writ of Restitution.

If a writ of restitution has been issued previous to the taking of an appeal by the defendant, and said defendant shall execute and file a bond as provided in this chapter, the clerk of the court, under the direction of the judge, shall forthwith give the appellant a certificate of the allowance of such appeal; and upon the service of such certificate upon the officer having such writ of restitution the said officer shall forthwith cease all further proceedings by virtue of such writ; and if such writ has been completely executed, the defendant shall be restored to the possession of the premises, and shall remain in possession thereof until the appeal is determined. [Cf. L. '90, p. 81, § 25; L. '91, p. 187, § 24; 2 H. C., § 570.]

By § 25 of the act of March 3, 1891, all previous acts on the subject except criminal statutes are repealed, but express provision is made saving vested rights and guarding abatement of actions commenced under previous acts.

§ 834. (5549.) Unlawful Detainer of Certain Lands—What Constitutes.

Any person who shall, without the permission of the owner and without having any color of title thereto, enter upon the lands of another, and shall refuse to remove therefrom after three days' notice, shall be deemed guilty of unlawful detainer and may be removed from such lands. [L. '91, p. 212, § 1; 2 H. C., § 571.]

§ 835. (5550.) Complaint and Answer.

The complaint in all cases under the provisions of the last section shall be upon oath, and then [there] shall be embodied therein or amended [appended] thereto an abstract of the plaintiff's title, and the defendant shall, in his answer, state whether he makes any claim of title to the lands described in the complaint, and if he makes no claim to the legal title, but does claim a right to the possession of such lands, he shall state upon what grounds he claims a right to such possession. [L. '91, p. 212, § 2; 2 H. C., § 572.]

Cited in 44 Wash. 592.

In an action under §§ 834-836, a reply is unnecessary to affirmative matter in the answer: Fife v. Olson, 5 Wash. 789. And where the stipulated facts upon which the cause is tried admit title in plaintiff, his failure to reply to defendant's allegations of title and color of title is immaterial: Id.

A complaint alleging entrance without right and by force is insufficient where it fails to embody an abstract of plaintiff's title: See McGrew v. Lamb, 31 Wash. 485.

In an action for unlawful detainer, under §§ 834-836, where plaintiff's title is in issue, plaintiff should be nonsuited where his only evidence is a sheriff's deed, and a certified abstract of title: Roberts v. Center, 26 Wash. 435.

§ 836. (5551.) Proof Required by Plaintiff—Trial.

It shall not be necessary for the plaintiff, in proceedings under sections 834-837, to allege or prove that the said lands were, at any time, actually occupied prior to the defendant's entry thereupon, but it shall be sufficient to allege that he is the legal owner and entitled to the immediate possession thereof: Provided, that if the defendant shall, by his answer, deny such ownership, and shall state facts showing that he has a lawful claim to the possession thereof, the cause shall thereupon be entered for trial upon the docket of the court in all respects as if the action were brought under the provisions of chapter XLVI of the code of eighteen hundred and eighty-one [chapter I, of this title]. [L. '91, p. 212, § 3; 2 H. C., § 573.]

§ 837. (5552.) Proof—Parties Defendant—Trial of Separate Issues.

All persons in actual possession of any portion of the several subdivisions of any section of land, according to the government surveys thereof, may be made defendants in one action: Provided, that they may, in their discretion, make separate answers to the complaint, and if separate issues are joined thereupon, the same shall nevertheless be tried as one action, but the verdict, if tried by jury, shall find separately upon the issues so joined, and judgment shall be rendered according thereto. [L. '91, p. 213, § 4; 2 H. C., § 574.]

CHAPTER III.

PARTITION.

§ 838. (5557.) Who may Bring Actions for.

When several persons hold and are in possession of real property as tenants in common, in which one or more of them have an estate of inheritance, or for life or years, an action may be maintained by one or more of such persons for a partition thereof, according to the respective rights of the persons interested therein, and for sale of such property, or a part of it, if it appear that a partition cannot be made without great prejudice to the owners. [L. '69, p. 133, § 505; Cd. '81, § 552; 2 H. C., § 577.]

See infra, § 1579, partition of estates of decedents.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2208, § 5 et seq.

A tenant in common, under this chapter, against cotenant in possession under adverse claim of title may maintain a suit for partition, without the institution of a prior action at law for the trial of title: Hill v. Young, 7 Wash. 33; affirmed in Chapman v. Allen, 11 Wash. 627, 630.

Where it was within the contemplation of the joint owners of land that the lots would be sold within a reasonable time and plaintiffs thereby receive reimbursement for moneys advanced, and there having been no sales of the lots for a long time, plaintiffs were entitled to partition thereof, and also to a lien against defendant's share of the land after partition for the purpose of reimbursement of advances made: Griggs v. Gower, 29 Wash. 80.

A parol partition, consummated by possession and dominion in severalty, confirmed by long-continued acquiescence and changes of title, will not be disturbed in equity: Brazee v. Schofield, 2 W. T. 209; affirmed in Brazee v. Schofield, 124 U. S. 495.

When two parties enter into a written agreement for the acquisition of lands, one of the parties furnishing the purchase money and taking title in his name, the lands to be sold and the profits to be equally divided, partition thereof cannot be maintained unless the party holding the legal title had so acted toward the other or to the property as to show his abandonment of the contract or a denial of the rights of the other party in relation thereto: Houghton v. Callahan, 3 Wash. 158.

An action for the partition of real estate cannot be maintained where it appears that neither plaintiff nor his ancestor, predecessor, or grantor was seised or possessed of the premises at any time within ten years prior to the commencement of the action: Hyde v. Britton, 41 Wash. 277.

Certain facts held not to show laches, in bringing suit for partition: McGowan v. Smith, 22 Wash. 625.

An action by a divorced wife for partition of community property, in possession of the husband as a tenant in common, is not barred by laches, where the husband had collected rents and paid taxes for thirteen years, and there had been no accounting and no improvements made since the divorce: Graves v. Graves, 48 Wash. 664.

A cotenant who has in good faith, under the belief that she was the owner of the entire title, placed improvements on the land, is entitled on partition to be allotted the land upon which such improvements were placed, if capable of such partition without any diminution of the proportionate shares of the other cotenants, and in case of sale, the value of the improvements in such case should be awarded out of the proceeds to the cotenant making them: Leake v. Hayes, 13 Wash. 213.

A tenant in common who enters upon the common estate which yields no profits, and so improves it as to make it productive, is entitled to all the profits produced by means of such improvements, and no allowance should be made against him for the increase in value of the land occasioned by such improvements: Id.

A tenant in common in exclusive possession cannot be rendered liable for use and occupation, or rents and profits, until after demand therefor by his cotenant: Id.

A tenant in common in possession of property under a claim of ownership is entitled on partition to recover such portion of the taxes paid by her as inured to the benefit of the other owners: Id., citing McInerney v. Beck, 10 Wash. 515.

Husband when not necessary party plaintiff: Sawyer v. Vermont L. & T. Co., 41 Wash. 524.

Improvements placed by a husband upon property of which his wife was a cotenant, under such circumstances that, if made by her, she would be entitled upon partition to an allowance therefor, inure to her benefit: Leake v. Hayes, supra.

The rule in ejectment, under § 796, supra, limiting the recovery for improvements made by one in possession of the land of another to the value of the rents and profits accruing during such occupancy, does not apply to actions for partition: Id.

§ 839. (5558.) All Known Interests must be Stated in Complaint.

The interest of all persons in the property shall be set forth in the complaint specifically and particularly, as far as known to the plaintiff, and if one or more of the parties, or the share or quantity of interest of any of the parties be unknown to the plaintiff, or be uncertain or contingent, or the ownership of the inheritance depend upon an executory devise, or the remainder be a contingent remainder, so that such parties cannot be named, that fact shall be set forth in the complaint. [L. '69, p. 133, § 506; Cd. '81, § 553; 2 H. C., § 578.]

Cited in 10 Wash. 640; 11 Wash. 630.

Where plaintiff alleges the extent of his interest in the property, and that of defendants as he understands it, and shows that the parties are tenants in common, he states every fact required to give the court jurisdiction: Kromer v. Friday, 10 Wash. 621.

In suit for partition by an alleged tenant in common, who has been excluded from possession, under an adverse claim of title, his complaint is insufficient when he alleges the legal title in defendant and fails to set forth any facts tending to show an equitable title in himself: Chapman v. Allen, 11 Wash. 627.

If an action is for the sole purpose of procuring a partition, relief will not be granted on the mere ground that plaintiff is entitled to a conveyance, but he must first establish his right to such conveyance: Id.

Persons against whom action may be brought: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2209, § 10; Legg v. Legg, 34 Wash. 132; Sawyer v. Vermont L. & T. Co., 41 Wash. 524.

§ 840. (5559.) Lien Creditors may be Made Parties—Liens Adjusted.

The plaintiff may, at his option, make creditors having a lien upon the property, or any portion thereof, other than by a judgment or decree, defendants in the suit. When the lien is upon an undivided interest or estate of any of the parties, such lien, if a partition be made, is thenceforth a lien only on the share assigned to such party; but such share shall be first charged with its just proportion of the costs of the partition, in preference to such lien. [L. '69, p. 133, § 507; Cd. '81, § 554; 2 H. C., § 579.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 374.

When a mortgage has been given upon the mortgagor's undivided interest in certain lands, upon the subsequent partition thereof, either by decree or by the voluntary act of the cotenant, the mortgage lien attaches to the share set off to the mortgagor in lieu of his undivided interest: Port v. Parfit, 4 Wash. 369.

§ 841. (5560.) Notice.

The notice shall be directed by name to all the tenants in common who are known, and in the same manner to all lien creditors who are made parties to the suit, and generally to all persons unknown having or claiming an interest or estate in the property. [L. '69, p. 133, § 508; Cd. '81, § 555; 2 H. C., § 581.]

§ 842. (5561.) Service by Publication.

If a party having a share or interest in or lien upon the property be unknown, or either of the known parties reside out of the state, or cannot be found therein, and such fact be made to appear by affidavit, the notice may be served by publication, as in ordinary cases. When service is made by publication, the notice must contain a brief description of the property which is the subject of the suit. [L. '69, p. 134, § 509; Cd. '81, § 556; 2 H. C., § 580.]

See supra, §§ 228, 233, service by publication generally.

§ 843. (5562.) Answer, Contents of.

The defendant shall set forth in his answer the nature and extent of his interest in the property, and if he be a lien creditor, how such lien was created, the amount of the debt secured thereby and remaining due, and whether such debt is secured in any other way, and if so, the nature of such other security. [L. '69, p. 134, § 510; Cd. '81, § 557; 2 H. C., § 582.]

Cited in 13 Wash. 218.

A defendant in partition may set off moneys paid out at plaintiff's request in defending the title to the land: Blackwell v. McLean, 9 Wash. 301.

And may also set off improvements made by him on the land, provided his claim is confined to their value as a part of the land, regardless of their cost: Id.

The refusal of the court to permit defendant in partition to withdraw an answer setting up the entire title in herself and file an amended answer setting up a tenancy in common with others is not erroneous, since partition must of necessity be made under the statute according to the interest of the respective owners of the land sought to be divided: Leake v. Hayes, 13 Wash. 213.

§ 844. (5563.) Issues to be Tried.

The rights of the several parties, plaintiffs as well as defendants, may be put in issue, tried, and determined in such suit, and where a defendant fails to answer, or where a sale of the property is necessary, the title shall be ascertained by proof, to the satisfaction of the court, before the decree for partition or sale is given. [L. '69, p. 134, § 511; Cd. '81, § 558; 2 H. C., § 583.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 555; 7 Wash. 37; 10 Wash. 639, 647.

Where title is put in issue in an action for partition, the same may be tried in such suit, and the calling of a jury to try it is within the discretion of the court as in other equity causes: State v. Lichtenberg, 4 Wash. 553.

Partition proceedings may be used as a form of action to try title to land, and the determination of that fact, by the court, is conclusive upon all the parties thereto: Kromer v. Friday, 10 Wash. 621; Hill v. Young, 7 Wash. 33.

§ 845. (5564.) Order of Sale—Partial Partition.

If it be alleged in the complaint and established by evidence, or if it appear by the evidence without such allegation in the complaint, to the satisfaction of the court, that the property, or any part of it, is so situated that partition cannot be made without great prejudice to the owners, the court may order a sale thereof, and for that purpose may appoint one or more referees. Otherwise, upon the requisite proofs being made, it shall decree a partition according to the respective rights of the parties as ascertained by the court, and appoint three referees therefor, and shall designate the portion to remain undivided for the owners whose interest remain unknown or are not ascertained. [L. '69, p. 134, § 512; Cd. '81, § 559; 2 H. C., § 584.]

Cited in 7 Wash. 37, 39; 9 Wash. 304.

If it appears from the evidence that partition of lands cannot be made without great prejudice to the owners, a sale may be ordered under this section, though the necessity therefor has not been alleged in the complaint: Hill v. Young, 7 Wash. 33.

A decree in partition is not erroneous because it designates the person appointed to take charge of the land and sell the same as a "trustee" instead of "referee," as required in this section: Blackwell v. McLean, 9 Wash. 301.

§ 846. (5565.) Partition, How Made—Referees.

In making the partition, the referees shall divide the property, and allot the several portions thereof to the respective parties, quality and quantity relatively considered, according to the respective rights of the parties as determined by the court, designating the several portions by proper landmarks, and may employ a surveyor, with the necessary assistants, to aid them therein. The referees shall make a report of their proceedings, specifying therein the manner of executing their trust, describing the property divided and the shares allotted to each party, with a particular description of each share. [L. '69, p. 134, § 513; Cd. '81, § 560; 2 H. C., § 585.]

§ 847. (5566.) Report of Referees—Confirmation—Decree.

The court may confirm or set aside the report in whole or in part, and if necessary, appoint new referees. Upon the report being confirmed, a decree shall be entered that such partition be effectual forever, which decree shall be binding and conclusive,—

1. On all parties named therein, and their legal representatives, who have at the time any interest in the property divided, or any part thereof, as owners in fee, or as tenants for life or for years, or as entitled to the reversion, remainder, or inheritance of such property, or any part thereof, after the termination of a particular estate therein, or who by any contingency may be entitled to a beneficial interest in the property, or who have an interest in any undivided share thereof, as tenants for years or for life;

2. On all persons interested in the property, to whom notice shall have been given by publication;

3. On all other persons claiming from or through such parties or persons, or either of them. [L. '69, p. 135, § 514; Cd. '81, § 561; 2 H. C., § 586.]

Error in failing to vacate a decree of partition is not prejudicial, where the interests of all the parties were, subsequent to the partition, sold under mortgage foreclosures and there was nothing to authorize the vacation of the foreclosures: Wilson v. Hubbard, 39 Wash. 671.

§ 848. (5567.) Decree, Rights Affected by.

Such decree and partition shall not affect any tenants for years or for life of the whole of the property which is the subject of partition, nor shall such decree and partition preclude any persons, except such as are specified in the last section, from claiming title to the property in question, or from controverting the title of the parties between whom the partition shall have been made. [L. '69, p. 135, § 515; Cd. '81, § 562; 2 H. C., § 587.]

§ 849. (5568.) Expenses Taxed as Costs.

The expenses of the referees, including those of a surveyor and his assistants, when employed, shall be ascertained and allowed by the court, and the amount thereof, together with the fees allowed by law to the referees, shall be paid by the plaintiff, and may be allowed as costs. [L. '69, p. 135, § 516; Cd. '81, § 563; 2 H. C., § 588.]

§ 850. (5569.) Decree of Sale on Referee's Report.

If the referees report to the court that the property of which partition shall have been decreed, or any separate portion thereof, is so situated that a partition thereof cannot be made without great prejudice to the owners, and the court is satisfied that such report is correct, it may thereupon, by an order, direct the referees to sell the property, or separate portion thereof. [L. '69, p. 135, § 517; Cd. '81, § 564; 2 H. C., § 589.]

§ 851. (5570.) Estate for Life, How Set Off.

When a part of the property only is ordered to be sold, if there be an estate for life or years in an undivided share of the property, the whole of such estate may be set off in any part of the property not ordered sold. [L. '69, p. 136, § 518; Cd. '81, § 565; 2 H. C., § 590.]

§ 852. (5571.) Lien Creditors not Parties, How Brought in.

Before making an order of sale, if lien creditors, other than those by judgment or decree, have not been made parties, the court, on motion of either party, shall order the plaintiff to file a supplemental complaint, making such creditors defendants. [L. '69, p. 136, § 519; Cd. '81, § 566; 2 H. C., § 591.]

§ 853. (5572.) Unsatisfied Liens—Reference.

If an order of sale be made before the distribution of the proceeds thereof, the plaintiff shall produce to the court the certificate of the auditor of the county [and county clerk] where the property is situated, showing the liens remaining unsatisfied, if any, by judgment or decree upon the property, or any portion thereof, and unless he do so, the court shall order a reference to ascertain them. [L. '69, p. 136, § 520; Cd. '81, § 567; 2 H. C., § 592.]

See supra, § 444, judgment liens.

§ 854. (5573.) Ascertainment of Liens and Their Priority.

If it appear by such certificate, or reference in case the certificate is not produced, that any such liens exist, the court shall appoint a referee to ascertain what amount remains due thereon or secured thereby respectively, and the order of priority in which they are entitled to be paid out of the property. [L. '69, p. 136, § 521; Cd. '81, § 568; 2 H. C., § 593.]

§ 855. (5574.) Notice to Lienholders.

The plaintiff must cause a notice to be served at least twenty days before the time for appearance on each person having such lien by judgment or decree, to appear before the referee at a specified time and place, to make proof, by his own affidavit or otherwise, of the true amount due or to become due, contingently or absolutely, on his judgment or decree. [L. '69, p. 136, § 522; Cd. '81, § 569; 2 H. C., § 594.]

§ 856. (5575.) Proceedings of Referee on Ascertaining Liens.

The referee shall receive the evidence, and report the names of the creditors whose liens are established, the amounts due thereon, or secured thereby, and their priority respectively, and whether contingent or absolute. He shall attach to his report the proof of service of the notices and the evidence before him. [L. '69, p. 136, § 523; Cd. '81, § 570; 2 H. C., § 595.]

§ 857. (5576.) Report of Referee.

The report of the referee may be excepted to by either party to the suit, or to the proceedings before the referee, in like manner and with like effect as in ordinary cases. If a lien creditor be absent from the state, or his residence therein be unknown, and that fact appear by affidavit, the court, or judge thereof, may by order direct that service of the notice may be made upon his agent or attorney of record, or by publication thereof, for such time and in such manner as the order may prescribe. [L. '69, p. 137, § 524; Cd. '81, § 571; 2 H. C., § 596.]

§ 858. (5577.) Confirmation of Report.

If the report of the referee be confirmed, the order of confirmation is binding and conclusive upon all parties to the suit, and upon the lien creditors who have been duly served with the notice to appear before the referee, as provided in section 855. [L. '69, p. 137, § 525; Cd. '81, § 572; 2 H. C., § 297.]

See supra, § 591, confirmation in general.

A sale by virtue of partition proceedings brought by the purchaser of the wife's community interest is not subject to the deceased husband's will providing for the retention of the land until his children arrive at their majority: Kromer v. Friday, 10 Wash. 621.

sale is given before the signing of the decree is merely an irregularity, when the finding of the court had been made in fact prior to the publication, and, if unappealed from, would not affect the jurisdiction of the court to order and confirm the sale: Id.

The fact that publication of notice of § 859. (5578.) Distribution of Proceeds of Sale.

The proceeds of the sale of the encumbered property shall be distributed by the decree of the court, as follows:—

1. To pay its just proportion of the general costs of the suit;
2. To pay the costs of the reference;
3. To satisfy the several liens in their order of priority, by payment of the sums due and to become due, according to the decree;
4. The residue among the owners of the property sold, according to their respective shares. [L. '69, p. 137, § 526; Cd. '81, § 573; 2 H. C., § 598.]

§ 860. (5579.) Other Securities to be First Exhausted.

Whenever any party to the suit, who holds a lien upon the property, or any part thereof, has other securities for the payment of the amount of such lien, the court may, in its discretion, order such sureties to be exhausted before a distribution of the proceeds of sale, or may order a just deduction to be made from the amount of the lien on the property on account thereof. [L. '69, p. 137, § 527; Cd. '81, § 574; 2 H. C., § 599.]

§ 861. (5580.) Proceedings to Ascertain and Adjust Liens do not Delay Sale.

The proceedings to ascertain the amount of the liens, and to determine their priority, as above provided, or those hereinafter authorized to determine the right of parties to funds paid into court, shall not delay the sale, nor affect any other party whose rights are not involved in such proceedings. [L. '69, p. 137, § 528; Cd. '81, § 575; 2 H. C., § 600.]

§ 862. (5581.) Proceeds of Sale, Disposition of.

The proceeds of sale, and the securities taken by the referees, or any part thereof, shall be distributed by them to the persons entitled thereto, whenever the court so directs. But if no such direction be given, all such proceeds and securities shall be paid into court, or deposited as directed by the court. [L. '69, p. 138, § 529; Cd. '81, § 576; 2 H. C., § 601.]

§ 863. (5582.) Continuance of Action to Determine Rights of Parties.

When the proceeds of sale of any shares or parcel belonging to persons who are parties to the suit, and who are known, are paid into court, the suit may be continued, as between such parties, for the determination of their respective claims thereto, which shall be ascertained and adjudged by the court. Further testimony may be taken in court, or by a referee, at the discretion of the court, and the court may, if necessary, require such parties to present the facts or law in controversy by pleadings, as in an original suit. [L. '69, p. 138, § 530; Cd. '81, § 577; 2 H. C., § 602.]

§ 864. (5583.) Sales by Referees may be Made by Auction.

All sales of real property made by the referees shall be made by public auction, to the highest bidder, in the manner required for the sale of real property on execution. The notice shall state the terms of sale, and if the property, or any part of it, is to be sold subject to a prior estate, charge, or lien, that shall be stated in the notice. [L. '69, p. 138, § 531; Cd. '81, § 578; 2 H. C., § 603.]

Cited in 9 Wash. 304; 52 Wash. 58.

Under this section a decree authorizing the sale to be made at public or private sale is irregular: Blackwell v. McLean, 9 Wash. 301.

But the decree is not erroneous because it designates the person, appointed to take charge of the lands and sell the same, as a "trustee" instead of "referee" as required by § 845: Id.

§ 865. (5584.) Terms of Sale may be Directed by Court.

The court shall, in the order of sale, direct the terms of credit which may be allowed for the purchase money of any portion of the premises, of which it may direct a sale on credit; and for that portion of which the purchase money is required by the provisions hereinafter contained, to be invested for the benefit of unknown owners, infants, or parties out of the state. [L. '69, p. 138, § 532; Cd. '81, § 579; 2 H. C., § 604.]

§ 866. (5585.) Securities to be Taken by Referee.

The referees may take separate mortgages and other securities for the whole or convenient portions of the purchase money of such parts of the property as are directed by the court to be sold on credit, in the name of the clerk of the court and his successors in office; and for the shares of any known owner of full age, in the name of such owner. [L. '69, p. 138, § 533; Cd. '81, § 580; 2 H. C., § 605.]

§ 867. (5586.) When Estate of Tenant for Life or for Years may be Sold.

When the estate of any tenant for life or years in any undivided part of the property in question shall have been admitted by the parties or ascertained by the court to be existing at the time of the order of sale, and the person entitled to such estate shall have been made a party to the suit, such estate may be first set off out of any part of the property, and a sale made of such parcel, subject to the prior unsold estate of such tenant therein; but if, in the judgment of the court, a due regard to the interest of all the parties require that such estate be also sold, the sale may be so ordered. [L. '69, p. 138, § 534; Cd. '81, § 581; 2 H. C., § 606.]

§ 868. (5587.) Tenant for Life or Years Entitled to Gross Sum.

Any person entitled to an estate for life or years in any undivided part of the property, whose estate shall have been sold, shall be entitled to receive such sum in gross as may be deemed a reasonable satisfaction for such estate, and which the person so entitled shall consent to accept instead thereof, by an instrument duly acknowledged and filed with the clerk. [L. '69, p. 139, § 535; Cd. '81, § 582; 2 H. C., § 607.]

§ 869. (5588.) Court to Determine Sum, if Consent not Given.

If such consent be not given, as provided in the last section, before the report of sale, the court shall ascertain and determine what proportion of the proceeds of the sale, after deducting expenses, will be a just and reasonable sum to be invested for the benefit of the person entitled to such estate for life or years, and shall order the same to be deposited in court for that purpose. [L. '69, p. 139, § 536; Cd. '81, § 583; 2 H. C., § 608.]

§ 870. (5589.) Protection of Unknown Tenant.

If the persons entitled to such estate for life or years be unknown, the court shall provide for the protection of their rights in the same manner, as far as may be, as if they were known and had appeared. [L. '69, p. 139, § 538; Cd. '81, § 584; 2 H. C., § 609.]

§ 871. (5590.) Inchoate and Contingent Interests.

In all cases of sales in partition, when it appears that any person has a vested or contingent future right or estate therein, the court shall ascertain and settle the proportionate value of such contingent or vested right or estate, and shall direct such proportion of the proceeds of sale to be invested, secured, or paid over in such manner as to protect the rights and interests of the parties. [L. '69, p. 140, § 539; Cd. '81, § 585; 2 H. C., § 610.]

§ 872. (5591.) Terms of Sale must be Made Known.

In all cases of sales of property, the terms shall be made known at the time, and if the premises consist of distinct farms or lots, they shall be sold separately, or otherwise, if the court so directs. [L. '69, p. 140, § 540; Cd. '81, § 586; 2 H. C., § 611.]

§ 873. (5592.) Referees or Guardians not to be Interested in Purchase.

Neither of the referees, nor any person for the benefit of either of them, shall be interested in any purchase, nor shall the guardian of an infant be an interested party in the purchase of any real property being the subject of the suit, except for the benefit of the infant. All sales contrary to the provisions of this section shall be void. [L. '69, p. 140, § 541; Cd. '81, § 587; 2 H. C., § 612.]

§ 874. (5593.) Report of Sale—Contents of.

After completing the sale, the referees shall report the same to the court, with a description of the different parcels of land sold to each purchaser, the name of the purchaser, the price paid or secured, the terms and conditions of the sale, and the securities, if any, taken. The report shall be filed with the clerk. [L. '69, p. 140, § 542; Cd. '81, § 588; 2 H. C., § 613.]

§ 875. (5594.) Exceptions to Report—Confirmation—Conveyance.

The report of sale may be excepted to in writing by any party entitled to a share of the proceeds. If the sale be confirmed, the order of confirmation shall direct the referees to execute conveyances and take securities pursuant to such sale. [L. '69, p. 140, § 543; Cd. '81, § 589; 2 H. C., § 614.]

The fact that publication of the notice of sale is given before signing of the decree therefor, in partition proceedings, is merely an irregularity, when the finding of the court had in fact been made prior to the publication, and, if unappealed from, would not affect the jurisdiction of the court to order and confirm the sale: Kromer v. Friday, 10 Wash. 621.

§ 876. (5595.) Receipt of Proceeds.

When a party entitled to a share of the property, or an encumbrancer entitled to have his lien paid out of the sale, becomes a purchaser, the referees may take his receipt for so much of the proceeds of the sale as belong to him. [L. '69, p. 140, § 544; Cd. '81, § 590; 2 H. C., § 615.]

§ 877. (5596.) Investment of Proceeds of Unknown Owner.

When there are proceeds of sale belonging to an unknown owner, or to a person without the state who has no legal representative within it, or when there are proceeds arising from the sale of an estate subject to the prior estate of a tenant for life or years, which are paid into the court or otherwise deposited by order of the court, the same shall be invested in securities on interest for the benefit of the persons entitled thereto. [L. '69, p. 140, § 545; Cd. '81, § 591; 2 H. C., § 616.]

§ 878. (5597.) Investment in Name of Clerk.

When the security for the proceeds of sale is taken, or when an investment of any such proceeds is made, it shall be done, except as herein otherwise provided, in the name of the clerk of the court and his successors in office, who shall hold the same for the use and benefit of the parties interested, subject to the order of the court. [L. '69, p. 141, § 546; Cd. '81, § 592; 2 H. C., § 617.]

§ 879. (5598.) Securities to be Taken in Name of Parties, When.

When security is taken by the referees on a sale, and the parties interested in such security by an instrument in writing under their hands, delivered to the referees, agree upon the share and proportions to which they are respectively entitled, or when shares and proportions have been previously adjudged by the court, such securities shall be taken in the names of and payable to the parties respectively entitled thereto, and shall be delivered to such parties upon their receipt therefor. Such agreement and receipt shall be returned and filed with the clerk. [L. '69, p. 141, § 547; Cd. '81, § 593; 2 H. C., § 618.]

§ 880. (5599.) Duties of Clerk Making Investments.

The clerk in whose name a security is taken, or by whom an investment is made, and his successors in office, shall receive the interest and principal as it becomes due, and apply and invest the same as the court may direct, and shall file in his office all securities taken, and keep an account in a book provided and kept for that purpose in the clerk's office, free for inspection by all persons, of investments and moneys received by him thereon, and the disposition thereof. [L. '69, p. 141, § 548; Cd. '81, § 594; 2 H. C., § 619.]

§ 881. (5600.) Unequal Partition—Compensation Adjudged.

When it appears that partition cannot be made equal between the parties according to their respective rights, without prejudice to the rights and interests of some of them, the court may adjudge compensation to be made by one party to another on account of the inequality of partition; but such compensation shall not be required to be made to others by owners unknown, nor by infants, unless in case of an infant it appear that he has personal property sufficient for that purpose, and that his interest will be promoted thereby. [L. '69, p. 141, § 549; Cd. '81, § 595; 2 H. C., § 620.]

§ 882. (5601.) Share of Infant may be Paid to Guardian.

When the share of an infant is sold, the proceeds of the sale may be paid by the referees making the sale, to his general guardian, or the special guardian appointed for him in the suit, upon giving the security required by law, or directed by order of the court. [L. '69, p. 142, § 550; Cd. '81, § 596; 2 H. C., § 621.]

§ 883. (5602.) Guardian of Insane, etc., may Receive.

The guardian who may be entitled to the custody and management of the estate of an insane person, or other person adjudged incapable of conducting his own affairs, whose interest in real property shall have been sold, may receive in behalf of such person his share of the proceeds of such real property from the referees, on executing a bond, with sufficient sureties, approved by the judge of the court, conditioned that he faithfully discharge the trust reposed in him, and will render a true and just account to the person entitled, or to his legal representative. [L. '69, p. 142, § 551; Cd. '81, § 597; 2 H. C., § 622.]

§ 884. (5603.) Guardian may Consent to Partition.

The general guardian of an infant, and the guardian entitled to the custody and management of the estate of an insane person, or other person adjudged incapable of conducting his own affairs, who is interested in real estate held in common or in any other manner, so as to authorize his being made a party to an action for the partition thereof, may consent to a partition without suit, and agree upon the share to be set off to such infant or other person entitled, and may execute a release in his behalf to the owners of the shares or parts to which they may respectively be entitled, and upon an order of the court. [L. '69, p. 142, § 552; Cd. '81, § 598; 2 H. C., § 623.]

The statute expressly provides that partition may be maintained against infant cotenants, the provision being broad enough to reach all interests and parties and expressly make confirmation conclusive against all parties to the suit: Kromer v. Friday, 10 Wash. 621, 641.

A guardian may consent to a partition without suit under the supervision of the court: Kromer v. Friday, supra, 641.

In the absence of fraud or collusion, minors properly represented are bound as fully as if they had been adults and personally cited: Kromer v. Friday, supra, 641.

Guardians of infant heirs may, when acting in good faith, admit in their pleading that certain land sought to be partitioned is the community property of the parents of their wards, although the admission may be prejudicial to formerly asserted claims: Id. 621.

§ 885. (5604.) Costs, How Apportioned.

The costs of partition, including fees of referees and other disbursements, shall be paid by the parties respectively entitled to share in the lands divided, in proportion to their respective interests therein, and may be included and specified in the decree. In that case there shall be a lien on the several shares, and the decree may be enforced by execution against the parties separately. When, however, a litigation arises between some of the parties only, the court may require the expense of such litigation to be paid by the parties thereto, or any of them. [L. '69, p. 142, § 553; Cd. '81, § 599; 2 H. C., § 624.]

Only statutory attorney's fees can be taxed as part of the costs: Legg v. Legg, 34 Wash. 132.

CHAPTER IV.

ACTIONS AGAINST THE STATE.

§ 886. (5608.) Manner of Collecting Claims Against the State—Bond.

Any person or corporation having any claim against the state of Washington shall have the right to begin an action against the state in the superior court of Thurston county. Such action shall be begun against the state of Washington by filing a complaint in such superior court, setting forth the nature of such claim, and containing a direction to the defendant to appear within twenty days after service of the complaint exclusive of the day of service, and defend the action, and a notice that in case of failure so to do, judgment will be rendered against the state according to the prayer of the complaint. The plaintiff in such action shall, at the time of filing his complaint, file a bond or undertaking with two or more sureties to be approved by the clerk of the court to the effect that such party will indemnify the state against all costs that may accrue in such action, and will pay to the clerk of said court all costs in case the plaintiff shall fail to prosecute his action or to obtain a judgment against the state. [L. '95, p. 188, § 1.]

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2606, §§ 33-36.

The word "claim" construed to mean "cause of action": See Northwestern & Pac. Hypotheek Bank v. State, 18 Wash. 73.

A statute permitting suits to be brought against a state does not of itself subject the state to a liability that did not exist before, but is merely a waiver of the state's immunity from suit: Billings v. State, 27 Wash. 288.

The state auditor cannot plead an offset in favor of the state against a county, when mandamus at the suit of the county to issue warrants for the amount duly apportioned by the state superintendent to the county as its share of public school funds: State ex rel. Tanner v. Cheetham, 23 Wash. 666.

§ 887. (5609.) Service, How Made.

Service of the complaint shall be made by the sheriff of the county in which such action is brought, or by any of his deputies, by delivering an attested copy thereof to the attorney general, or by leaving such copy in his office, and by delivering another like copy to the secretary of state, or by leaving such copy in his office. [L. '95, p. 188, § 2.]

§ 888. (5610.) Attorney General Counsel for State—Procedure.

The attorney general or his assistant shall appear and act as counsel for the state. The action shall proceed in all respects as other actions. Appeals may be taken to the supreme court of the state as in other actions or proceedings, but in case an appeal shall be taken on behalf of the state, no bond shall be required of the appellant. [L. '95, p. 188, § 3.]

§ 889. (5611.) Judgment, How Satisfied.

No execution shall issue against the state on any judgment, but whenever a final judgment against the state shall have been obtained in any such action, the clerk shall make and furnish to the auditor of state a duly certified transcript of such judgment; and the auditor of state shall thereupon audit the amount of damages and costs therein awarded, and the same shall be paid out of the state treasury. [L. '95, p. 188, § 4.]

See supra, § 454, satisfaction of judgments in general.

§ 890. (5612.) Limitations.

All provisions of law relating to the limitations of personal actions shall apply to claims against the state, but the computation of time thereunder shall not begin until this chapter shall have become a law. [L. '95, p. 189, § 5.]

See supra, §§ 155-178, limitations of actions.

CHAPTER V.

EMINENT DOMAIN.

§ 891. (5616.) Appropriation of Property by the State, Requisites of Petition.

Whenever the legislature of this state shall deem it necessary for the public uses of the state to acquire or appropriate land, real estate, premises, or other property, and shall by act set forth and describe such land, real estate, premises, or other property, it shall be the duty of the attorney general to present to the superior court of the county in which said land, real estate, premises, or other property so sought to be acquired or appropriated shall be situated, a petition in which the land, real estate, premises, or other property, sought to be appropriated shall be described with reasonable certainty, and setting forth the name of each and every owner, encumbrancer, or other person or party interested in the same, or any part thereof, so far as the same can be ascertained from the public records, the object for which the land is sought to be appropriated, and praying that a jury be impaneled to ascertain and determine the compensation to be made in money to such owner or owners, respectively, and to all tenants, encumbrancers, and others interested, for taking such lands, real estate, premises, or other property, or in case a jury be waived, as in other civil cases in courts of record, in the manner prescribed by law, then that the compensation to be made as aforesaid be ascertained and determined by the court or judge thereof. [L. '91, p. 138, § 1; 2 H. C., § 638.]

See Const., Art. I, § 16.

The right to prepayment guaranteed by the constitution, for land appropriated for public use, is a personal privilege which the owner may waive: Lewis v. Seattle, 5 Wash. 741; but it was held that in exercising the right of eminent domain payment must be made in advance in all cases: Brown v. Seattle, 5 Wash. 35.

The word "damaged," in the provision of the constitution that no private property shall be taken or damaged, etc., does not mean the same thing as "taken": Brown v. Seattle, supra, 40.

But was not intended to give a right of action for injuries damnum absque in- juria: Smith v. St. Paul etc. R. Co., 39 Wash. 355.

Construction of slopes on abutting property to grade of street is not a taking, but a damaging only: See Compton v. Seattle, 38 Wash. 514.

The exercise of the power of eminent domain requires not only legislative action conferring the power but the method by which it is to be exercised must be prescribed: Tacoma v. State, 4 Wash. 64, 66; Long v. Billings, 7 Wash. 269.

The building by the state or its grantees of wharves upon shores of navigable waters is neither a taking nor damaging of private property for public use: Eisenbach v. Hatfield, 2 Wash. 236; West Coast Imp. Co. v. Winsor, 8 Wash. 492, 493.

§ 892. (5617.) Notice—Contents of—Service.

A notice stating briefly the objects of the petition, and containing a description of the land, real estate, premises, or property sought to be acquired and appropriated, and stating the time and place when and where the same will be presented to the court or the judge thereof, shall be served on each and every person named therein as owner, encumbrancer, tenant, or otherwise interested therein at least ten days previous to the time designated in such notice for the presentation of such petition. Such service shall be made by delivering a copy of such notice to each of the persons or parties so named therein, if a resident of the state; or in case of the absence of such person or party from his or her usual place of abode, by leaving a copy of such notice at his or her usual place of abode; or in case of a foreign corporation, at its principal place of business in this state, with some person of more than sixteen years of age. In case of domestic corporations, such service shall be made upon the president, secretary, or other director or trustee of such corporation. In case of minors, on their guardians, or in case no guardian shall have been appointed, then on the person who has the care and custody of such minor; in case of idiots, lunatics, or distracted persons, on their guardians, or in case no guardian shall have been appointed, then on the person in whose care or charge they are found. In case the land, real estate, premises, or other property sought to be appropriated is school or county land, the notice shall be served on the auditor of the county in which the land, real estate, premises, or other property sought to be acquired and appropriated is situated. In all cases where the owner or person claiming an interest in such real estate or other property is a nonresident of this state, or where the residence of such owner or person is unknown, and an affidavit of the attorney general shall be filed that such owner or person is a nonresident of this state, or that after diligent inquiry his residence is unknown or cannot be ascertained, service may be made by publication thereof in any newspaper published in the county where such lands are situated, once a week for two successive weeks; and in case no newspaper is published in said county, then such publication may be had in a newspaper published in the county nearest the county in which lies the land sought to be acquired and appropriated. And such publication shall be deemed service upon each of such nonresident person or persons whose residence is unknown. Such notice shall be signed by the attorney general of the state of Washington. Such notice may be served by any competent person over twenty-one years of age. Due proof of the service of such notice by affidavit of the person serving the same, or by the printer's affidavit of publication, shall be filed with the clerk of such superior court before or at the time of the presentation of such petition. Want of service of such notice shall render the subsequent proceedings void as to the person not served, but all persons or parties having been served with notice as herein provided, either by publication or otherwise, shall be bound by the subsequent proceedings. In all other cases not otherwise provided for, service of notices, order, and other papers in the proceedings authorized by this act, may be made as the superior court or judge thereof may direct. [L. '91, p. 139, § 2; 2 H. C., § 639.]

§ 893. (5618.) Adjournment of Proceedings—Notice.

The court or judge may, upon application of the said attorney general or any owner or party interested, for reasonable cause, adjourn the proceedings from time to time, and may order new or further notice to be given to any part whose interest may be affected. [L. '91, p. 140, § 3; 2 H. C., § 640.]

§ 894. (5619.) Hearing of Petition—Jury.

At the time and place appointed for hearing said petition, or to which the same may have been adjourned, if the court or judge thereof shall have satisfactory proof that all parties interested in the land, real estate, premises, or other property described in said petition have been duly served with said notice as above prescribed, and shall be further satisfied by competent proof that the contemplated use for which the land, real estate, premises or other property sought to be appropriated is really necessary for the public use of the state of Washington, the court or judge thereof may make an order, to be recorded in the minutes of said court, directing the sheriff to summons from the citizens of the county in which such land, real estate, premises, or other property sought to be acquired or appropriated shall be situated, as many qualified persons as may be necessary in order to form a jury of twelve persons, unless the parties to the proceedings consent to a less number (such number to be not less than three), and such consent shall be entered by the clerk in the minutes of the trial. If necessary to complete the jury, the sheriff, under the direction of the court or judge thereof, shall summon as many qualified persons as may be required to complete the jury from the bystanders, citizens of the county where the land, real estate, premises, or other property is situated. [L. '91, p. 140, § 4; 2 H. C., § 641.]

§ 895. (5620.) Trial—Damages—Judgment.

A judge of the superior court shall preside at the trial, which shall be held at such time as the court or the judge thereof may direct, at the courthouse in the county where the land, real estate, premises, or other property sought to be appropriated or acquired is situated, and the jurors at such trial shall make in each case a separate assessment of damages which shall result to any person, corporation, or company, or to any county, by reason of the appropriation and use of such land, real estate, premises, or other property, and shall ascertain, determine, and award the amount of damage to be paid said owner or owners respectively, and to all tenants, encumbrancers, and others interested for taking such land, real estate, premises, or other property so taken. Upon the trial, witnesses may be examined in behalf of either party to the proceedings as in civil actions; and a witness served with a subpoena in such proceedings shall be punished for failure to appear at such trial, or for perjury, as upon a trial of a civil action. Upon the verdict of the jury, judgment shall be entered for the amount of the damages awarded to such owner or owners, respectively, and to all tenants, encumbrancers, and others interested, for taking such land, real estate, or premises. In case a jury is waived, as in civil cases in courts of record, in the manner prescribed by law, the compensation to be paid for the property sought to be appropriated shall be ascertained and determined by the court or judge thereof, and the proceedings shall be the same as in trials of an issue of fact by the court. [L. '91, p. 141, § 5; 2 H. C., § 642.]

See supra, § 316, waiver of jury.

§ 836. (5621.) Judgment—Filing and Recording of.

At the time of rendering judgment for damages, whether upon default or trial, the court or judge thereof shall also enter a judgment or decree of appropriation of the land, real estate, or premises sought to be appropriated, thereby vesting the legal title to the same in the state of Washington. Whenever said judgment or decree of appropriation is made, a certified copy of such judgment or decree of appropriation may be filed for record in the office of the auditor of the county where the said land, real estate, or other premises are situated, and shall be recorded by said auditor like a deed of real estate, and with like effect. [L. '91, p. 142, § 6; 2 H. C., § 643.]

§ 897. (5622.) Payment of Damages, Effects of—Appeal.

Upon the entry of judgment upon the verdict of the jury or the decision of the court or judge thereof, awarding damages as hereinbefore prescribed, the state of Washington may make payment of the damages assessed to the parties entitled to the same, and of the costs of the proceedings, by depositing the same with the clerk of said superior court, to be paid out under the direction of the court or the judge thereof; and upon making such payment into the court of the damages assessed and allowed, and of the costs to any land, real estate, premises or other property mentioned in said petition, said state of Washington shall be released and discharged from any and all further liability therefor, unless upon appeal the owner or party interested shall recover a greater amount of damages; and in that case only for the amount in excess of the sum paid into said court and the costs of appeal: Provided, that in case of an appeal to the supreme court of the state by any party to the proceedings, the money so paid into the superior court by the state as aforesaid shall remain in the custody of said court until the final determination of the proceedings by the said supreme court. [L. '91, p. 142, § 7; 2 H. C., § 644.]

§ 898. (5623.) Claimants, How Paid — Conflicting Claims, How Determined.

Any person, corporation, or county claiming to be entitled to any money paid into court, as provided in this act, may apply to the court therefor, and upon furnishing evidence satisfactory to the court that he or it is entitled to the same, the court shall make an order directing the payment to such claimant the portion of such money as he or it shall be found entitled to; but if, upon application, the court or judge thereof should decide that the title to the land, real estate, or premises specified in the application of such claimant was in such condition as to require that an action be commenced to determine the conflicting claims thereto, he shall refuse such order until such action is commenced, and the conflicting claims to such land, real estate, or premises be determined according to law. [L. '91, p. 143, § 8; 2 H. C., § 645.]

"Act" refers to §§ 891-900.

Either party may appeal from the judgment for damages entered in the superior court to the supreme court of the state, within thirty days after the entry of judgment as aforesaid, and such appeal shall bring before the supreme court the propriety and justness of the amount of damage in respect to the parties to the appeal: Provided, however, that upon such appeal no bond shall be required: And provided further, that, if the owner of land, the real estate, or premises accepts the sum awarded by the jury, the court, or the judge thereof, he shall be deemed thereby to have waived conclusively an appeal to the supreme court, and final judgment by default may be rendered in the superior court as in other cases: Provided further, that no appeal shall operate so as to prevent the said state of Washington from taking possession of such property pending such appeal, after the amount of said award shall have been paid into court. [L. '91, p. 143, § 9; 2 H. C., § 646.]

§ 900. (5625.) Payment of Award and Costs.

Whenever the attorney general shall file with the auditor of this state a certificate setting forth the amount of any award found against the state of Washington under the provisions of this act, together with the costs of said proceeding, and a description of the lands and premises sought to be appropriated and acquired, and the title of the action or proceeding in which said award is rendered, it shall be the duty of the state auditor to forthwith issue a warrant upon the state treasury to the order of the attorney general in a sum sufficient to make payment in money of said award and the costs of said proceeding, and thereupon it shall be the duty of said attorney general to forthwith pay to the clerk of said court in money the amount of said award and costs. [L. '91, p. 143, § 10; 2 H. C., § 647.]

"Act" refers to §§ 891-900.

§ 901. (5629.) Counties may appropriate Lands for Public Use.

Every county in this state is hereby, for the purposes of this and the four following sections, declared to be a body corporate and is authorized and empowered by and through its board of county commissioners whenever said board shall judge it to be clearly for the general welfare and benefit of the people of the county, and so far as shall be in harmony with the constitution of this state and the provisions of this article, to condemn and appropriate as hereinafter in this act provided and to dispose of for public use such lands, properties, rights and interests as are hereinafter in this act mentioned, whenever the government of the United States or of this state is intending or proposing the construction, operation or maintenance of any public work situated or to be situated wholly or partly within such county, or the expenditure of money or labor for the construction, operation or maintenance of any such work, and such condemnation or appropriation will enable the county to aid, promote, facilitate or prepare for any such construction, operation, maintenance or expenditure by either or both such governments, or to fulfill or dispose of any condition upon which such construction, operation, maintenance or expenditure is by law or from any cause contingent, and no property shall be exempt from such condemnation, appropriation or disposition by reason of the same having been or being dedicated, appropriated or otherwise reduced or held to public use. [L. '95, p. 3, § 1.]

See Const., Art. I, § 16.

"Act" refers to §§ 901-905.

• See notes to § 921, infra.

See infra, § 5623 et seq., and notes, appropriation of lands for county roads, etc.

The act embraced in this chapter contains but one subject matter, which is fairly embraced within the scope of its title: Lancey v. King Co., 15 Wash. 9.

It is not necessary that the public at large be benefited, but only that part of the public affected by the improvement to be made: Lewis County v. Gordon, 20 Wash. 80.

§ 902. (5630.) Tax Levy to Pay Cost of Condemnation.

The board of county commissioners is hereby authorized and empowered in aid of the powers granted or prescribed in the foregoing section to levy, annually, a tax as large as may be necessary, but not exceeding the rate of one mill on the dollar, upon all the taxable property in the county, such tax to be assessed, levied and collected at the same time and in the same manner as taxes for general county purposes, but the proceeds of said taxes, when collected, shall constitute and be a special fund, applicable solely to the cost of such condemnation, appropriation or disposition, as is mentioned in the foregoing section, and the expenses incident thereto. [L. '95, p. 4, § 2.]

§ 903. (5631.) Eminent Domain Extended to Counties.

The right of eminent domain for the purposes intended in this act is hereby extended to all counties in this state and every such county for any purpose of condemnation, appropriation or disposition such as is mentioned in section 901, supra, is hereby authorized and empowered to condemn and appropriate all necessary lands and all rights, properties and interests in or appurtenant to land under the same procedure as is or shall be provided by the laws of this state for the case of any similar condemnation or appropriation by other corporations. [L. '95, p. 4, § 3.]

"Act" refers to §§ 901-905.

§ 904. (5632.) Indebtedness Contracted, General County Purpose.

Any county purpose mentioned in this act shall be deemed and held to be a general county purpose and any indebtedness contracted or to be contracted therefor shall be deemed and held to be an indebtedness for general county purposes, and all the provisions of law of this state relative to indebtedness for general county purposes or the contracting of such indebtedness or the bonds for funding the same shall be deemed applicable to any indebtedness contracted or to be contracted or any bonds issued by any county under this act, but the accounts of the county with respect to the receipts and disbursements of all moneys received or disbursed by the county under the provisions of this act shall, for each condemnation, appropriation and disposition, be so kept as to clearly and fully exhibit such accounts separate and apart from the other accounts of the county. [L. '95, p. 5, § 4.]

"Act" refers to §§ 901-905.

§ 905. (5633.) County Purpose, Defined.

Any condemnation, appropriation or disposition intended in this act shall be deemed and held to be for a county purpose and public use within the meaning of this act when it is directly or indirectly, approximately or remotely for the general benefit or welfare of the county or of the inhabitants thereof, or when it is otherwise within the meaning of the phrase "for a county purpose" as occurring in the constitution of this state. [L. '95, p. 5, § 5.]

"Act" refers to §§ 901-905.

This act authorizing counties to condemn land for a right of way for a ship canal projected by the general government, is not a violation of Article VIII, § 7, of the Constitution, which forbids counties giving any money or property, etc., to or in aid of any individual, association, company or corporation, etc., as neither the state nor the United States can be brought within the meaning of the section: Lancy v. King Co., 15 Wash. 9.

Such undertaking is not open to the objection that it is in violation of Article VIII, § 6, of the Constitution, which prohibits a county from incurring debt for any other than strictly county purposes, as it is entirely within the limits of the county, and for the purpose of connecting two large local water-ways with the Pacific Ocean: Id.

The fact that an act authorizes the exercise of the state's eminent domain for the purpose of constructing a ship canal which shall be under the control of the general government, but for the use and benefit of the public generally, will not render the act unconstitutional, when there is no express constitutional provision prohibiting it: Id.

§ 906. School Districts may Appropriate Land.

Whenever any school district shall select any real estate as a site for a schoolhouse, or as additional grounds to an existing schoolhouse site, within the district, and the board of school directors of such district and the owner or owners of the site or any part thereof, or addition thereto so selected, shall be unable to agree upon the compensation to be paid by such school district to the owner or owners thereof, such school district shall have the right to take and acquire title to such real estate for use as a schoolhouse site or additional site, upon first paying to the owner or owners thereof therefor the value thereof, to be ascertained in the manner hereinafter provided. [L. '03, p. 193, § 1; L. '09, p. 372, § 1.]

This and the following sections were re-enacted without change as part of the School Code of 1909, so that it is immaterial whether or not they are within the title of that act.

§ 907. Petition to Superior Court.

The board of directors of the school district shall present to the superior court of the state of Washington in and for the county wherein is situated the real estate desired to be acquired for schoolhouse site purposes, a petition, reciting that the board of directors of such school district have selected certain real estate, describing it, as a schoolhouse site, or as additional grounds to an existing site, for such school district; that the site so selected, or some part thereof, describing it, belongs to a person or persons, naming him or them, that such school district has offered to give the owner or owners thereof therefor dollars, and that the owner of such real estate has refused to accept the same therefor; that the board of school directors of such school district and the said owner or owners of such real estate are unable to agree upon the compensation to be paid by such school district to the owner or owners of such real estate therefor, and praying that a jury be impaneled to ascertain and determine the compensation to be made in money by such school district to such owner or owners for the taking of such real estate for the use as a schoolhouse site for such school district; or in case a jury be waived in the manner provided by law in other civil actions in courts of record, then that the compensation to be made as aforesaid, be ascertained and determined by the court, or judge thereof. [L. '03, p. 194, § 2; L. '09, p. 372, § 2.]

§ 908. Notice of Petition—Service.

A notice, stating the time and place when and where such petition will be presented to the court, or the judge thereof, together with a copy of such petition, shall be served on each and every person named therein as owner, or otherwise interested therein, at least ten days previous to the time designated in such notice for the presentation of such petition. Such notice shall be signed by the prosecuting attorney of the county wherein the real estate sought to be taken is situated, and may be served in the same manner as summons in a civil action in such superior court is authorized by law to be served. [L. '03, p. 194, § 3; L. '09, p. 373, § 3.]

§ 909. Adjournment of Proceedings.

The court may, upon application of the petitioner or of any owner of said real estate, or any person interested therein, for reasonable cause, adjourn the proceedings from time to time, and may order new or further notice to be given to any party whose interests may be affected by such proceedings. [L. '03, p. 194, § 4; L. '09, p. 373, § 4.]

§ 910. Findings of Necessity—Setting Trial.

At the time and place appointed for the hearing of such petition, or to which the same may have been adjourned, if the court shall find that all parties interested in such real estate sought to be taken have been duly served with notice and a copy of the petition as above prescribed, and shall further find that such real estate sought to be taken is required and necessary for the purposes of a schoolhouse site, or as a part of or as an addition to a schoolhouse site, for such school district, the court shall make an order reciting such findings, and shall thereupon set the hearing of such petition down for trial by a jury, as other civil actions are tried, unless a jury is waived in the manner provided by law in other civil actions. [L. '03, p. 195, § 5; L. '09, p. 373, § 5.]

§ 911. Jury Trial.

The jury impaneled to hear the evidence and determine the compensation to be paid to the owner or owners of such real estate desired for such schoolhouse site purpose shall consist of twelve persons unless a less number be agreed upon, and shall be selected, impaneled and sworn in the same manner that juries in other civil actions are selected, impaneled and sworn, provided a juror may be challenged for cause on the ground that he is a taxpayer of the district seeking the condemnation of any real estate. [L. '03, p. 195, § 6; L. '09, p. 373, § 6.]

§ 912. Trial—View by Jury.

A judge of the superior court shall preside at the trial and witnesses may be examined in behalf of either party to the proceedings, as in other civil actions, and upon the request of the parties interested in such proceedings the court shall cause the jury impaneled to hear the same, to view the premises sought to be taken, and upon the request of any less number of the persons interested in the proceedings, the court may cause the jury to view the premises, pending the hearing of the same. [L. '03, p. 195, § 7; L. '09, p. 374, § 7.]

§ 913. Verdict for Full Value of Property.

Upon the close of the evidence, and the argument of counsel, the court shall instruct the jury as to the matters submitted to them, and the law pertaining thereto, whereupon the jury shall retire and deliberate and determine upon the amount of compensation in money that shall be paid to the owner or owners of the real estate sought to be taken for such schoolhouse site purposes therefor, which shall be the amount found by the jury to be the fair and full value of such premises; and when the jury shall have determined upon their verdict, they shall return the same to the court as in other civil actions. [L. '03, p. 195, § 8; L. '09, p. 374, § 8.]

§ 914. Verdict by Ten Jurors.

When ten of the jurors agree upon a verdict, the verdict so agreed upon shall be signed by the foreman, and the verdict so agreed upon shall be and stand as the verdict of the jury. [L. '03, p. 196, § 9; L. '09, p. 374, § 9.]

§ 915. Waiver of Jury.

In case a jury is waived, the compensation that shall be paid for the premises taken shall be determined by the court and the proceedings shall be the same as in the trial of issues of fact by the court in other civil actions. [L. '03, p. 196, § 10; L. '09, p. 374, § 10.]

See supra, § 316, waiver of jury.

§ 916. Judgment—Effect.

Upon the verdict of the jury, or upon the determination by the court of the compensation to be paid for the property sought to be taken as herein provided, judgment shall be entered against such school district in favor of the owner or owners of the real estate sought to be taken, for the amount found as compensation therefor, and upon the payment of such amount by such school district to the clerk of such court for the use of the owner or owners of, and the persons interested in the premises sought to be taken, the court shall enter a decree of appropriation of the real estate sought to be taken, thereby vesting the title to the same in such school district; and a certified copy of such decree of appropriation may be filed in the office of the county auditor of the county wherein the real estate taken is situated, and shall be recorded by such auditor like a deed of real estate, and with like effect. The money so paid to the clerk of the court shall be by him paid to the person or persons entitled thereto, upon the order of the court. [L. '03, p. 196, § 11; L. '09, p. 374, § 11.]

All the costs of such proceedings in the superior court shall be paid by the school district initiating such proceedings. [L. '03, p. 196, § 12; L. '09, p. 375, § 12.]

§ 918. Appeal to Supreme Court.

Either party may appeal from the judgment for compensation awarded for the property taken, entered in the superior court, to the supreme court of the state within sixty days after the entry of the judgment, and such appeal shall bring before the supreme court the justness of the compensation awarded for the property taken, and any error occurring on the hearing of such matter, prejudicial to the party appealing, and no bond shall be required of either party appealing from such judgment: Provided, however, that if the owner or owners of the land taken accepts the sum awarded by the jury or court, he or they shall be deemed thereby to have waived their

§ 919. Possession of Premises.

An appeal from such judgment by the owner or owners of the land sought to be taken, shall not have the effect to preclude the school district from taking possession of the premises sought, pending the appeal, provided the amount of the judgment against the school district shall have been paid in to the clerk of the court, as hereinbefore provided. [L. '03, p. 197, § 14; L. '09, p. 375, § 14.]

§ 920. Parties—Designation—Fees of Clerk.

In all proceedings under this act the school district seeking to acquire title to real estate for a schoolhouse site, shall be denominated plaintiff, and all other persons interested therein shall be denominated defendants; and in all such proceedings the clerk of the superior court wherein any such proceedings is brought shall charge nothing for his services, except in taking an appeal from the judgment entered in the superior court. [L. '03, p. 197, § 15; L. '09, p. 375, § 15.]

§ 921. (5637.) Eminent Domain by Corporations—Petition, Requisites of.

Any corporation authorized by law to appropriate land, real estate, premises, or other property for right of way or any other corporate purposes, may present to the superior court of the county in which any land, real estate, or premises, or other property sought to be appropriated shall be situated, or to the judge of such superior court in any county where he has jurisdiction or is holding court, a petition in which the land, real estate, premises, or other property sought to be appropriated shall be described with reasonable certainty, and setting forth the name of each and every owner, encumbrancer, or other person or party interested in the same, or any part thereof, so far as the same can be ascertained from the public records, the object for which the land is sought to be appropriated, and praying that a jury be impaneled to ascertain and determine the compensation to be made in money, irrespective of any benefit from any improvement proposed by such corporation, to such owner or owners, respectively, and to all tenants, encumbrancers, and others interested, for the taking or injuriously affecting such lands, real estate, premises, or other property, or in case a jury be waived, as in other civil cases in courts of record in the manner prescribed by law, then that the compensation to be made, as aforesaid, be ascertained and determined by the court, or judge thereof. Delegation of power—Necessity, construction and operation of legislative acts: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1027, §§ 6-9.

The Constitution, Article I, § 16, authorizing the taking of private lands for "private ways of necessity" is not self-executing, but before such right can arise, the legislature must define what they are, authorize application therefor, and provide the procedure: Long v. Billings, 7 Wash. 267; Tacoma v. State, 4 Wash. 64.

The constitutional inhibition against ownership of lands by corporations, the majority of whose stock is held by aliens, applies to the acquisition of land under the condemnation laws of this state: State ex rel. Morrell v. Superior Court, 33 Wash. 542.

The authority to take private property for a public use is one of the recognized powers of sovereignty, and is inherent in the state: Samish River Boom Co. v. Union Boom Co., 32 Wash. 586.

The taking of land by eminent domain proceedings is an action in rem: In re Smith's Petition, 9 Wash. 85, 88.

The proceedings authorized by this chapter are not exclusive of all other remedies: Downs v. S. & M. Ry. Co., 5 Wash. 778; Bellingham Bay etc. Ry. Co. v. Loose, 2 Wash. 500.

Statutes authorizing condemnation proceedings are strictly construed and will not be extended beyond the plain provisions of the law: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1027, §§ 6-9; Spokane v. Colby, 16 Wash. 610; Seattle v. Fidelity Trust Co., 22 Wash. 154; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Superior Court, 36 Wash. 381.

Petitioner need not show that it has obtained all its franchises: See State ex rel. Harlan v. Centralia etc. Co., 42 Wash. 632.

As to sufficiency of stock subscription, to enable corporations to exercise power of eminent domain: See State ex rel. Biddle v. Superior Court, 44 Wash. 108. See, also, State ex rel. Columbia Valley R. Co. v. Superior Court, 45 Wash. 316.

When lands have been appropriated before the institution of condemnation proceedings as provided for in this chapter, the land owner may maintain the common-law action of trespass: Downs v. S. & M. Ry. Co., 5 Wash. 778.

A railroad incorporated under a special act of the legislature may, at its election, proceed to condemn land under the general act relating to corporations: Cascade Ry. Co. v. Sohns, 1 W. T. 557.

One railroad company having leased its line to another may still condemn: State ex rel. Trimble v. Superior Court, 31 Wash. 445.

A railroad not yet in operation may exercise the power of eminent domain: Spokane Falls & N. R. Co. v. Superior Court, 40 Wash. 389.

Boom companies are quasi-public corporations: North River Boom Co. v. Smith, 15 Wash. 138; Samish River Boom Co. v. Union Boom Co., 32 Wash. 586.

The proceeding to condemn private property for corporate use is begun by the party seeking to appropriate the land, by a petition describing the premises, and setting forth the owner's name, and the object sought, and praying a jury to ascertain damages to be awarded: Seattle etc. Ry. Co. v. Murphine, 4 Wash. 448.

Notice is given to the owner and interested parties of the time and place when such petition will be presented (see next section); Id.

Where a railroad company at the time of instituting proceedings for the appropriation of a right of way over certain lands has actual notice that a certain parcel thereof is in possession of a certain person under claim of ownership, such person should be made a party to the proceedings in order to be bound, although in fact the record title to such land may stand in the name of another at the time of the filing of a lis pendens notice of the condemnation proceedings, and the deed transferring title may not have been recorded until after the date of the filing of such notice: Owen v. St. Paul etc. Ry. Co., 12 Wash. 314.

Where possession of land has been taken upon the institution of proceedings for its condemnation under the right of eminent domain, the proceedings cannot be afterward dismissed, at any stage of the proceedings, by the one seeking the appropriation, unless at the same time an abandonment of possession is also tendered: Bellingham Bay etc. Co. v. Strand, 14 Wash. 144.

Where the petitioner has not taken possession of the land, it may elect to abandon the proceedings and it is not liable for the damages awarded: Port Angeles Pac. R. Co. v. Cooke, 38 Wash. 184.

As to sufficiency of petition: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1046, § 92; Lewis County v. Schobey, 31 Wash. 357; Chelan County v. Navarre, 38 Wash. 684; State ex rel. O. R. & N. Co. v. Superior Court, 45 Wash. 321.

Condemnation of land to develop power for street-car and electric lighting purposes cannot be objected to as being for a merely temporary purpose, from the fact that in six years more power would probably be required, where no intention is § 922. (5638.) Notice, Contents of and Service.

A notice, stating briefly the objects of the petition, and containing a description of the land, real estate, premises or property sought to be appropriated, and stating the time and place when and where the same will be presented to the court, or the judge thereof, shall be served on each and every person named therein as owner, encumbrancer, tenant, or otherwise interested therein, at least ten days previous to the time designated in such notice for the presentation of such petition. Such service shall be made by delivering a copy of such notice to each of the persons or parties so named therein, if a resident of the state; or in case of the absence of such person or party from his or her usual place of abode, by leaving a copy of such notice at his or her usual place of abode; or in case of a foreign corporation, at its principal place of business in this state, with some person of more than sixteen years of age. In case of domestic corporations, such service shall be made upon the president, secretary, or other directors or trustee of such corporation. In case of minors or [on] their guardians, or in case no guardian shall have been appointed, then on the person who has the care and custody of such minor. In case of idiots, lunatics, or distracted persons, on their guardian; or in case no guardian shall have been appointed, then on the person in whose care or charge they are found. In case the land, real estate, premises, or other property sought to be appropriated is [state, school,] or county land, the notice shall be served on the auditor of the county in which the land, real estate, premises, or other property sought to be appropriated is situated. In all cases where the owner or person claiming an interest in such real or other property is a nonresident of this state, or where the residence of such owner or person is unknown, and an affidavit of the agent or attorney of the corporation shall be filed that such owner or person is a nonresident of this state, or that, after diligent inquiry, his residence is unknown, or cannot be ascertained by such deponent, service may be made by publication thereof in any newspaper published in the county where such lands are situated, once a week for two successive weeks; and in case no newspaper is published in said county, then such publication may be had in a newspaper published in the county nearest to the county in which lies the land sought to be appropriated. And such publication shall be deemed service upon each of such nonresident person or persons whose residence is unknown. Such notice shall be signed by the president, manager, secretary, or attorney of the corporation; and in case the proceedings provided for in this article are instituted by the owner or any other person or party interested in the land, real estate, or other property sought to be appropriated, then such notice shall be signed by such owner, person, or party interested, or his, her, or its attorney. Such notice may be served by any competent person over twenty-one years of age. Due proof of the service of such notice, by affidavit of the person serving the same, or by the printer's affidavit of publication, shall be filed with the clerk of such superior court before or at the time of the presentation of such petition. Want of service of such notice shall render the subsequent proceedings void as to the person not served; but all persons or parties having been served with notice as herein provided, either by publication or otherwise, shall be bound by the subsequent proceedings. In all other cases not otherwise provided for, service of notices, order, and other papers in the proceedings authorized by this article may be made as the superior court, or the judge thereof, may direct. In an action for damages to abutting property for the construction and operation of a railroad in a street, an answer which is, in effect, a plea of license from the city cannot be stricken out as irrelevant and immaterial: Hatch v. Tacoma etc. R. Co., 6 Wash. 1; but where the answer alleges that the right to enter upon the street and change the grade thereof was authorized by ordinance, it is demurrable, when the city charter provides that "No railway tracks can thus be laid down until the injury to property abutting, etc., has been ascertained and compensated": Id.

party plaintiff with the husband: Park v. Seattle, 8 Wash. 78; see Brotian v. Langert, 1 Wash. 73.

§ 925. (5640.) Court to Adjudicate Necessity for Appropriation—Calling Jury.

At the time and place appointed for hearing said petition, or to which the same may have been adjourned, if the court or judge thereof shall have satisfactory proof that all parties interested in the land, real estate, premises or other property described in said petition, have been duly served with said notice as above prescribed, and shall be further satisfied by competent proof that the contemplated use for which the land, real estate, premises or other property sought to be appropriated is really a public use, or is for a private use for a private way of necessity, and that the public interest requires the prosecution of such enterprise, or the private use is for a private way of necessity, and that the land, real estate, premises or other property sought to be appropriated are required and necessary for the purposes of such enterprise, the court or judge thereof may make an order, to be recorded in the minutes of said court, directing the sheriff to summon a jury. [Cf. L. '88, p. 60, § 4; L. '90, p. 297, § 4; 2 H. C., § 651; L. '97, p. 63, § 1.]

An intersecting railroad cannot determine for itself the point and manner of its crossing another road, under § 8736, infra, and this section, but the necessity must be adjudicated by the court: Seattle etc. Ry. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 152; and it should attempt to agree with the road to be intersected as to the point and manner of intersection and the compensation therefor, before instituting condemnation proceedings: Id.

§ 926. (5641.) Trial, How Conducted.

A judge of the superior court shall preside at the trial, which shall be held at such time as the court, or the judge thereof, may direct, at the courthouse in the county where the land, real estate, premises, or other property sought to be appropriated is situated, and the jurors at such trial shall make in each case a separate assessment of damages which shall result to any person, corporation, or company, or to the state, or to any county, by reason of the appropriation and use of such land, real estate, premises, or other property by such corporation, as aforesaid, for any and all corporate purposes, and shall ascertain, determine, and award the amount of damages to be paid to said owner or owners respectively, and to all tenants, encumbrancers, and others interested, for the taking or injuriously affecting such land, real estate, premises, or other property, for the purpose of such enterprise, irrespective of any benefit from any improvement proposed by such corporation. Upon the trial, witnesses may be examined in behalf of either party to the proceedings, as in civil actions; and a witness served with a subpoena in such proceedings shall be punished for failure to appear at such trial, or for perjury, as upon a trial of a civil action. Upon the verdict of the jury, judgment shall be entered for the amount of the damages awarded to such owner or owners respectively, and to all tenants, encumbrancers, and others interested, for the taking or injuriously affecting such land, real estate, premises, or other property. In case a jury is waived as in civil cases in courts of record in the manner prescribed by law, the compensation to be paid for the property sought to be appropriated shall be ascertained and determined by the court, or the judge thereof, and the proceedings shall be the same as in trials of an issue of fact by the court. [L. '90, p. 297, § 5; 2 H. C., § 652.]

Section 16, Article I, of the Constitution should be construed as requiring payment to be first made in all cases, and giving to the second clause the effect of laying down the rule of damages as to the appropriation of a right of way by corporations other than municipal: Lewis v. Seattle, 5 Wash. 741, 754; criticised, In re Smith, 9 Wash. 93.

Necessity of payment before taking: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1035, § 40; Askham v. King County, 9 Wash. 1; Smith v. Superior Court, 26 Wash. 278; *Seattle Transfer Co. v. As to construction, validity and sufficiency of statutory provisions for compensation: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1034, §§ 37-39.

The measure of damages, where land is appropriated for railway right of way, is the fair market value of the land taken at the time of the appropriation, together with the amount of depreciation, if any, in the value of the land not taken, to be ascertained without regard to any benefit resulting from the construction, or proposed construction of the railroad (overruling N. P. etc. Ry. Co. v. Coleman, 3 Wash. 234): Enoch v. Spokane Falls etc. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 393; Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 244.

A county is a municipal corporation within Constitution, Article I, § 16: Lincoln County v. Brook, 37 Wash. 14; King County v. Melker, 50 Wash. 29.

Municipal corporation may set off benefits: See Jones v. Seattle, 23 Wash. 753; Lincoln County v. Brock, 37 Wash. 14.

— Prevention of access to navigable waters: S. W. & P. Co. v. Weyerhaeuser Timber Co., 31 Wash. 588.

— Occupation or use of street or alteration of grade: Hatch v. Tacoma etc. R. Co., 6 Wash. 1; S. & M. R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150; Schwede v. Hemrich Bros. etc. Co., 29 Wash. 21; Patton v. Olympia Door etc. Co., 15 Wash. 210; Brown v. Seattle, 5 Wash. 35; Parke v. Seattle, 5 Wash. 1.

The right of ingress or egress as to lots abutting on a street is property, and interference therewith by building a railroad in the street is damage, within the meaning of the constitution requiring that compensation be first made before taking or damaging property: Lund v. Idaho & Washington Northern R., 50 Wash. 574.

Measure and amount of damages—Taking entire tract: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1039, §§ 57-63.

Value of land: See S. & M. R. Co. v. Gilchrist, 4 Wash. 509; Kaufman v. Tacoma etc. Co., 11 Wash. 632; S. & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 244; Swope v. Seattle, 36 Wash. 113; State ex rel. Biddle v. Superior Court, 44 Wash. 108.

— Improvements made by appropriator: B. B. etc. R. Co. v. Strand, 14 Wash. 144; Lake Whatcom Logging Co. v. Callvert, 33 Wash. 126; S. & M. R. Co. v. Corbett, 22 Wash. 189.

— Value for special use: S. & M. R. Co. v. Murphine, 4 Wash. 448; S. & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 244.

Taking part of tract or property: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1040, §§ 64-71.

— Injuries to part not taken to be added to value of that taken: Enoch v. Spokane Falls etc. Co., 6 Wash. 393; S. & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 244; S. & M. R. Co. v. Gilchrist, 4 Wash. 509; Sultan W. & P. Co. v. Weyerhaeuser etc. Co., 31 Wash. 558.

Benefits to part not taken may not be set off, except by municipal corporations: Enoch v. Spokane Falls etc. R. Co., 6 Wash. 393; S. & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 244; Kaufman v. Tacoma etc. R. Co., 11 Wash. 632.

— Opening or improving streets and setoff of the benefits thereof: Lewis v. Seattle, 5 Wash. 741; Jones v. Seattle, 23 Wash. 753; Lincoln County v. Brock, 37 Wash. 14.

The proceeding is not one to recover damages for land actually taken, but to ascertain what is a full compensation for the taking or injuriously affecting the land; and before the land can be taken at all, petitioner must proceed affirmatively and have the compensation "ascertained and determined," according to law, or fail in the appropriation: Seattle etc. Ry. Co. v. Murphine, 4 Wash. 448, 452.

This is true whether the defendant appears or not: Weed v. Goodwin, 36 Wash. 31.

If lands held under a leasehold interest are appropriated by a railway company for right of way, the tenant's measure of damages is the difference between the value of the leasehold at the time of the appropriation and its diminished value due thereto: Seattle etc. Ry. Co. v. Scheike, 3 Wash. 625.

In such case, the tenant cannot recover for injuries to land, buildings, etc., thereon at the time of his entry under the lease, but may recover the value of growing crops destroyed, and the value of buildings erected by him for his use as tenant, or, in case of removal of such buildings the cost thereof: Id.

When fencing is necessary by reason of appropriation no specific sum should be allowed for fences or crossings as distinct items of damages, but the allowances should be made only to the extent of deprivation of market value of the land, and the burden of constructing such fence taken into consideration only so far as it affects such market value: Seattle etc. Ry. Co. v. Murphine, supra; followed in Seattle & M. Ry. Co. v. Gilchrist, 4 Wash. 509, 514.

This act sufficiently provides for the assessment of damages for condemnation of right of way: Weed v. Goodwin, 36 Wash. 31.

Persons entitled to payment: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1042, §§ 72-76; Olson v. Seattle, 36 Wash. 31; Commercial Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Johnson, 16 Wash. 536; Yakima Water etc. Co. v. Hathaway, 18 Wash. 377; Seattle, In re, 26 Wash. 602; Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Scheike, 3 Wash. 625; Legg v. Legg, 34 Wash. 132.

A railroad is liable for damages to a pre-emption entryman where it appropriates public lands upon which he has made entry prior to the filing of the profile of the road in the office of the Secretary of the Interior: Enoch v. Spokane Falls etc. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 393.

Proof of specific damages is inadmissible where no allegation of such damages is made in the pleadings: Kaufman v. Tacoma etc. Ry. Co., 11 Wash. 632.

When a city has power and authorizes a railroad company to construct tracks on certain streets, the latter assumes all liability to damages to property owners, but the benefits may be set off against such damage the same as if the city had made the improvement itself: Id.

Although a railroad company authorized by city ordinance to use, plank, alter and tunnel a street may offset benefits against damages to abutting owner, it is not entitled to offset benefits against the damages to such owner occasioned by the running of trains upon or under such streets: Id.

A railroad company is liable to abutting property owners arising from a change of grade of a street when no provision is otherwise made in the ordinance granting the use of the street in that way; the city being not a necessary party, the railway company being the party ultimately liable: Id.

Upon assessment of damages for the condemnation of lands abutting on a public highway, it is immaterial whether the owner's rights in the use of the roadway are based upon establishment of the highway by prescriptive use or by dedication: Portland and Seattle R. Co. v. Clarke County, 48 Wash. 509.

Where land has been appropriated prior to the rendition of judgment the proper judgment in condemnation proceedings is one for the damages found and an award of execution for its collection: Bellingham Bay etc. Co. v. Strand, 14 Wash. 144.

In condemnation proceedings, when no issue as to title has been raised, and the only question before the jury is as to the amount of the damages, the petitioner in the condemnation proceedings is estopped from raising the question of title in the appellate court, although the question may have been raised upon the cross-examination of a witness: Id.

Where possession has been taken of land under condemnation proceedings, the owner is entitled to interest upon the amount of damages awarded him from the date of the taking: Id.

The appropriation of land under condemnation proceedings will not entitle the owner, in the award of damages subsequently made, to a judgment including the value of houses erected on the land by the appropriator prior to the rendition of judgment in the condemnation proceedings: Id.

No formal pleadings or issues are contemplated or required by the statute, and the amount to be paid is to be determined upon the petition alone: Seattle etc. Ry. Co. v. Murphine, 4 Wash. 448, 452.

The filing by the land owner of what purports to be an answer, though none was required by law alleging facts which could be proved without it does not shift the burden of proof to the defendant: Id.

And it is not error to strike an answer: See Pike Street, In re, 42 Wash. 551.

Abandonment and dismissal of proceedings for laches: See Seattle v. Fidelity Trust Co., 22 Wash. 154.

It is not error to refuse to dismiss a condemnation proceeding as to one party upon its appearing that he was not interested in any of the lands in his own right, where he came into the action on his own initiative alleging that he owned a portion of the lands: Fulton v. Methow Trading Co., 45 Wash. 136.

An order of default against owners appearing specially to object to condemnation proceedings for a county road is without prejudice where they were permitted to appear and be heard on the question of damages: King County v. Melker, 50 Wash. 29.

Evidence as to compensation: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1047, §§ 95-98; Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Murphine, 4 Wash. 448; Weed v. Goodwin, 36 Wash. 31; Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Scheike, 3 Wash. 625;

McKinley, 48 Wash. 675; Port Townsend S. R. Co. v. Barbare, 46 Wash. 275.

Upon condemnation of lands to be overflowed by the erection of a dam, which would deprive the owner of a swift current through his land valuable as a water power, the current is an appurtenant to the lands actually taken, for which damages are to be assessed with the land, and is not an appurtenant to other land not taken where the power had not been developed and made appurtenant to such other lands: Inland Empire R. Co. v. McKinley, 48 Wash. 675.

Evidence of recent increase in value of the land through which the railroad runs is irrelevant and immaterial, when not shown that such increase results directly from the proposed construction: Seattle etc. Ry. Co. v. Gilchrist, 4 Wash. 509.

It is competent for a witness to testify as to how much land lying on one side of the railroad will be diminished in value by reason of drainage being obstructed, when the character of the land and the direction of the drainage has been shown, and it appears that the proposed road would naturally obstruct the drainage: Id.

Where, in a condemnation proceeding, the defendants expressly raise the point that the tract across which condemnation is sought is only part of an entire farm used as one tract, they are entitled to have the entire tract considered as a basis for estimating their damages: State ex rel. Biddle v. Superior Court, 44 Wash. 108.

An appropriator may limit by stipulation the rights or easements sought in condemnation proceedings: State ex rel. Kent Lumber Co. v. Superior Court, 46 Wash. 516.

In an action against a city for damages for wrongful appropriation of land, evidence of the price the owner had been offered is competent for purpose of proving value: Parke v. Seattle, 8 Wash. 78.

If a witness states that he does not know the market value of land in the vicinity of land sought to be appropriated, he is not competent to give an opinion: Id.

In determining the market value of a particular tract it is competent to allow proof of the sale of similar property in the vicinity at or near the time of the appropriation: Id.

It is competent for a witness to testify as to how much, in his opinion, defendant's land would be depreciated in value on account of the appropriation of a right of way and construction of a railway: Id.

In condemnation proceedings the desire or unwillingness of the defendant to sell the land cannot be shown upon the question of its market value: Port Townsend Southern R. Co. v. Barbare, 46 Wash. 275; or the price paid by the condemning party for similar property: Id.

On the question of the value of land condemned, it is inadmissible to show what price similar land near by is held at by another owner, or to introduce evidence of offers that had been made for the land: Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul R. Co. v. Alexander, 47 Wash. 131.

As to expert evidence, see Id.

In assessing the amount of damages to property appropriated for right of way it is admissible in establishing its market value to show its value for any use for which it is adapted, and not merely the use to which it may have been put by the owner: Seattle etc. Ry. Co. v. Murphine, 4 Wash. 448; Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 244.

Where a defendant, in attempting to exercise its right of eminent domain, had surveyed and located its road over plaintiff's land, but that plaintiff offered to donate a right of way at another place, and relying on such promise said location was changed and the road constructed thereon at increased expense to defendant, held, that plaintiff was estopped from recovering damages for right of way: Oregon Nav. Co. v. Owsley, 3 W. T. 38.

In condemnation proceedings evidence offered to show that defendant proposed, in its construction of its road across certain irrigating ditches, to place them in the same condition as before and thereafter maintain them at defendant's expense, is admissible on the question of damages: Id.

A condemnation of land for the purpose of developing a water power is not objectionable on the ground that it will damage other lands by diverting water therefrom, where it is only proposed to divert water during the freshets and high water: State ex rel. Harris v. Olympia Light and Power Co., 46 Wash. 511.

It is error, in awarding damages, to allow witnesses to include in their estimate the value of certain prospective rights to lands below high tide: Bellingham Bay etc. Ry. Co. v. Strand, 4 Wash. 311.

Where it is necessary to have the damages assessed by a jury, the railway company is entitled to open and close, both in production of proof and argument to the jury, as the burden is on the company, not only to show the necessity for the taking, but the reasonable value of the land appropriated: Bellingham Bay etc. Ry. Co. v. Strand, supra; Seattle etc. Ry. Co. v.

Murphine, supra; Seattle etc. Ry. Co. v. Gilchrist, supra.

In proceedings of this kind it is discretionary with the court whether to permit the jury to view the premises: Bellingham Bay etc. Ry. Co. v. Strand, supra.

Where there is a conflict in the testimony, it is not error to charge the jury that they may resort to the evidence of their senses on the view to determine the truth: Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 244.

Where, under an agreement between a mill owner and a railroad company, a railroad switch has been constructed by the mill owner, from the railroad to a mill for the purpose of running cars over same for the benefit of the mill, the mill owner cannot escape liability for damages occasioned by the necessary operation of the switch in the customary manner, although the trains may be run and operated by the railroad company: Patton v. Olympia Door etc. Co., 15 Wash. 210.

If the owner of a lot has been damaged in a manner different from that of the public generally by the appropriation of a street for railroad purposes, he is entitled to compensation: Id.; following Hatch v. Tacoma etc. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 1.

There is proof of damages peculiar to plaintiff in the construction and operation of a railroad track in the street in front of his dwelling-house, when it appears that the track runs so close to the sidewalk that a team cannot stand between them clear of the track, and that the dwelling-house is damaged and rendered of less value by the running of trains over the track: Id.

The law of 1888 (Laws 1888, p. 58) on this subject repealed by implication the provisions of the city charter of Spokane Falls (Laws 1886, p. 304, § 11) giving jurisdiction to justices of the peace in eminent domain: N. P. Ry. Co. v. Haas, 2 Wash. 376.

Inadequate or excessive compensation, see Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 244; East Spring Street, In re, 41 Wash. 366.

A verdict for $15,000 damages for land taken for a railroad right of way will not be set aside on appeal as inadequate, where there was much conflict in the evidence, the jury and judge viewed the premises, and the trial court denied a motion for a new trial, and the verdict appears to do substantial justice: Portland and Seattle R. Co. v. Clarke County, 48 Wash. 509.

Waiver of jury in condemnation proceedings: Chelan County v. Navarre, 38 Wash. 684.

A challenge to a juror, in condemnation proceedings by a city, because he had worked for the city, is properly denied: Swope v. Seattle, 36 Wash. 113.

Verdict and findings: See Lincoln County v. Brock, 37 Wash. 14; Quirk v. Seattle, 38 Wash. 25.

In a condemnation proceeding an award of nominal damages is a sufficient verdict: King County v. Melker, 50 Wash. 29.

§ 927. (5642.) Judgment and Decree of Appropriation.

At the time of rendering judgment for damages, whether upon default or trial, if the damages awarded be then paid, or upon their payment, if not paid at the time of rendering such judgment, the court, or judge thereof, shall also enter a judgment or decree of appropriation of the land, real estate, premises, right of way, or other property sought to be appropriated, thereby vesting the legal title to the same in the corporation seeking to appropriate such land, real estate, premises, right of way, or other property for corporate purposes. Whenever said judgment or decree of appropriation shall affect lands, real estate, or other premises, a certified copy of such judgment or decree of appropriation may be filed for record in the office of the auditor of the county where the said land, real estate, or other premises are situated, and shall be recorded by said auditor like a deed of real estate, and with like effect. If the title to said land, real estate, premises, or other property attempted to be acquired is found to be defective from any cause, the corporation may again institute proceedings to acquire the same, as in this article provided. [Cf. L. '90, p. 298, § 6; L. '91, p. 84, § 1; 2 H. C., § 653.]

Cited in 18 Wash. 382; 38 Wash. 188; 46 Wash. 279.

If the judgment of appropriation is irregular and erroneous on its face, because it does not conform to the verdict and the statute in relation to the interest acquired by petitioner, the court may correct it upon motion or petition: Seattle etc. Ry. Co. v. Johnson, 7 Wash. 97.

A decree in condemnation proceedings appropriating certain lands for right of way purposes is not binding on the owner when not a party thereto, nor is he estopped from setting up the invalidity of the proceedings from the fact that he was present at the hearing and gave testimony therein, when it was conceded on the hearing that no claim for damages in regard to that particular lot was involved: Owen v. St. Paul etc. Ry. Co., 12 Wash. 314.

In an action of ejectment a decree in condemnation proceedings awarding the land to defendant for right of way is no defense, where it appears that plaintiff was the owner of the land and had not been made a party to the condemnation proceedings: Id.

As to remedies of owners of property sought to be appropriated, see notes to § 921. Also, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1055, § 126 et seq.

Ejectment may be maintained to recover possession of a railroad right of way used and occupied by a railroad company for its roadbed for public purposes, where proceedings are stayed and the effect of the judgment is to compel the company to make compensation for the property taken: Slaght v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 39 Wash. 576.

Upon granting an injunction to restrain the operation of a railroad until damages to abutting property be first paid, the injunction should be held in abeyance for thirty days to allow condemnation proceedings to be commenced: Lund v. Idaho & Washington Northern R., 50 Wash. 574.

Where a railroad company obtained an assignment of a contract by which the owner agreed to convey a right of way to another road, in consideration of its construction between certain points: Held, that the right of the owner to compensation accrued when the company entered the land; and that having entered without reference to the agreement in question the company could not claim any right thereunder to have the land conveyed, which it had already appropriated under the power of eminent domain: O. R. & N. Co. v. Day, 3 W. T. 252; and the land owner is likewise estopped from claiming compensation under the contract, as the company did not act upon the faith of it: Id.

Under an agreement between the owner and a railway company whereby a right of way was to be conveyed in consideration of one dollar and expenses incident to execution of deed, if the company should construct and operate its road thereon within two years, the substantial consideration is the construction and operation of the road, and upon performance of this condition the equitable title passes to the company, although the money consideration may not have been paid: Matson v. Pt. Townsend S. Ry. Co., 9 Wash. 449.

COSTS: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1055, § 125.

Under Code of 1881, § 2475, in a particular action for damages for appropriation of land by a railway company: Held, that plaintiff was entitled to costs and disbursements, including fifteen dollars attorney's fees: Owsley v. O. R. & N. Co., 1 Wash. 491.

Costs cannot be taxed against a non-consenting owner who recovers no more than is tendered: See Adams County v. Dobschlag, 19 Wash. 356.

Where the proceedings are instituted in the name of a county, but in reality for the benefit of a ditch district, the district and not the county would be liable for the costs: Lewis County v. Schobey, 31 Wash. 357.

As to conclusiveness and effect of award or judgment, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1051, § 112; Seavey v. Seattle, 17 Wash. 361; Compton v. Seattle, 38 Wash. 514; Jones v. Seattle, 23 Wash. 753.

Title or rights acquired by petitioner: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1058, §§ 141-144; Yakima Water etc. Co. v. Hathaway, 18 Wash. 377; State ex rel. Morrell v. Superior Court, 33 Wash. 542; Kakeldy v. Columbia & P. S. R. Co., 37 Wash. 675.

Reversion for nonuser of lands condemned for booming purposes: Nicomen Boom Co. v. North Shore etc. Co., 40 Wash. 315.

Where mortgaged premises are taken for public uses, the damages awarded become a substitute therefor, and the mortgage is a specific lien upon the fund: Commercial Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Johnson, 16 Wash. 536.

Interest on award or judgment: See State ex rel. Donofrio v. Humes, 34 Wash. 347.

§ 928. Decree Against State Lands—Filing with Commissioner—Effect.

When a decree is entered appropriating lands owned by the state, or in which the state has an interest, before any such decree shall be effective, the plaintiff shall cause to be filed in the office of the commissioner of public lands a certified copy of such decree, together with a plat of the lands appropriated and contiguous thereto, in form and substance as prescribed and required by the board of state land commissioners, showing in detail the lands appropriated, together with the amount of damages fixed and awarded in the decree. Upon receipt of such decree, plat and damages, the commissioner of public lands shall examine the same, and if he shall find that the final decree and proceedings comply with the original petition and notice and any amendment duly authorized, and that no additional interest of the state has been taken or appropriated through error or mistake, he shall cause notations thereof to be made upon the abstracts, records and tract books of his office, and shall issue to the plaintiff his certificate, reciting compliance, in substance, with the requirements of this act, particularly describing the lands appropriated, and thereupon the appropriation shall become effective and the commissioner of public lands shall forthwith transmit the amount received as damages to the state treasurer, as in case of the sale of land, and the subdivision of land through which such right of way is appropriated shall thereafter be sold or leased subject to the right of way. [L. '07, p. 507, § 2; L. '09, p. 625, § 1.]

See supra, § 923, service in case of state lands.

§ 929. (5643.) Payment to Petitioner—On Appeal Money to Remain in Court.

Upon the entry of judgment upon the verdict of the jury, or the decision of the court, or judge thereof, awarding damages, as hereinbefore prescribed, the petitioner, or any officer of or other person duly appointed by said corporation, may make payment of the damages assessed to the parties entitled to the same, and of the costs of the proceedings, by depositing the same with the clerk of said superior court, to be paid out under the direction of the court, or judge thereof; and upon making such payment into the court of the damages assessed and allowed, and of the costs to any land, real estate, premises, or other property mentioned in said petition, such corporation shall be released and discharged from any and all further liability therefor, unless upon appeal the owner, or other person or party interested, shall recover a greater amount of damages; and in that case, only for the amount in excess of the sum paid into said court, and the costs of appeal; Provided, that in case of an appeal to the supreme court of the state by any party to the proceedings, the money so paid into the superior court by such corporation as aforesaid shall remain in the custody of said court until the final determination of the proceedings by the said supreme court. [L. '90, p. 299, § 7; 2 H. C., § 654.]

Cited in 22 Wash. 160; 52 Wash. 52.

A special proceeding to appropriate a "private way of necessity," not being an equitable proceeding, but legal, the record on appeal may be brought up as in ordinary civil actions: Long v. Billings, 7 Wash. 267. See, also, Seavey v. Seattle, 17 Wash. 361.

Enforcement of award or judgment: See Skagit County v. McLean, 20 Wash. 92.

In condemnation proceedings, after an assessment of damages by the jury, judgment cannot be entered for the amount of the award before the relator's election to take the property, nor can the relator be required to make the election at once, but the same may be made within a reasonable time after the decree of appropriation: Port Townsend Southern R. Co. v. Barbare, 46 Wash. 275.

Where proceedings to condemn a street across railroad rights of way and tracks resulted in an award of $12,000 in favor of the defendants, and the city elected to abandon the proceeding and repealed the ordinance therefor, the judgment is a bar to a subsequent proceeding brought shortly after to condemn a street across the rights of way six inches south of the former location, where the same was brought for the purpose of evading the prior award, and in the hope of getting a lower verdict: Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Georgetown, 50 Wash. 580.

Objection to a decree in condemnation proceedings in that it failed to fix the time within which the petitioner shall pay the award is immaterial where, by a supplemental transcript, it appears that the award has been paid into court: Fulton v. Methow Trading Co., 45 Wash. 136.

Where the record on an appeal does not contain the pleadings of the defendants, in a proceeding to condemn property for widening a street, under Laws of 1905, page 84, and it appears that twelve parties were represented by counsel at the trial, claiming interest in the property, the court may refuse to require the jury to assess the compensation to be paid each person; and in aid of a judgment it will be presumed that there was a doubt or contest as to the ownership of the property condemned authorizing such refusal within the meaning of § 13 of the act: Seattle v. Park, 42 Wash. 151.

§ 930. (5644.) Disposition of Money—Conflicting Claims.

Any person, corporation, state, or county claiming to be entitled to any money paid into court, as provided in this article may apply to the court therefor, and upon furnishing evidence satisfactory to the court that he or it is entitled to the same, the court shall make an order directing the payment to such claimant the portion of such money as he or it shall be found entitled to; but if, upon application, the court, or judge thereof, shall decide that the title to the land, real estate, premises, or other property specified in the application of such claimant was in such condition as to require that an action be commenced to determine the conflicting claims thereto, he shall refuse such order until such action is commenced, and the conflicting claims to such land, real estate, premises, or other property be determined according to law. [Cf. L. '88, p. 61, § 8; L. '90, p. 299, § 8; 2 H. C., § 655.]

See Commercial Nat. Bank v. Johnson, 16 Wash. 536.

§ 931. (5645.) Appeal.

Either party may appeal from the judgment for damages entered in the superior court to the supreme court of the state within thirty days after the entry of judgment as aforesaid, and such appeal shall bring before the supreme court the propriety and justness of the amount of damages in respect to the parties to the appeal; Provided, however, that no bond shall be required of any person interested in the property sought to be appropriated by such corporation, but in case the corporation appropriating such land, real estate, premises, or other property is appellant, it shall give a bond like that prescribed in the next following section, to be executed, filed, and approved in the same manner: And provided further, that if the owner of the land, real estate, premises, or other property accepts the sum awarded by the jury, the court, or the judge thereof, he shall be deemed thereby to have waived conclusively an appeal to the supreme court, and final judgment by default may be rendered in the superior court as in other cases. [Cf. L. '88, p. 61, § 9; L. '90, p. 300, § 9.]

Taking and perfecting appeal: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1052, § 120.

The provision that either party "may" appeal from the judgment for damages, etc., must be construed to mean that the appeal "must" be prosecuted within the time limited: Seattle etc. Ry. Co. v. O'Meara, 4 Wash. 17.

This provision being a special enactment is not repealed by the general act of 1891, limiting the time for taking appeals: Id.

For effect of appeal under §§ 2977, 2978, Code 1881, see Pearson v. Island Co., 3 Wash. 497.

The statute upon the subject of condemnation proceedings being a complete act and containing a special enactment upon the subject of appeals, the general law regulating appeals is inapplicable: Western American Co. v. St. Ann Co., 22

Wash. 158; Tacoma v. Birmingham Co., 50 Wash. 683.

When appeal bond necessary: Port Angeles Pac. R. Co. v. Cooke, 38 Wash. 184.

As to matters that may be reviewed on appeal, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1053, § 122; Bellingham B. & B. C. R. Co. v. Strand, 14 Wash. 144; *Western American Co. v. Laws 1901, page 213, § 1, attempting to amend this section, was void for defect in the title: State ex rel. Seattle Elec. Co. v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 317.

§ 932. (5646.) Prosecution of Work Pending Appeal.

The construction of any railway surface tramway, elevated cable tramway, or canal, or the prosecution of any works or improvements by any corporation as aforesaid shall not be hindered, delayed or prevented by the prosecution of the appeal of any party to the proceedings: Provided, the corporation aforesaid shall execute and file with the clerk of the court in which the appeal is pending a bond to be approved by said clerk, with sufficient sureties, conditioned that the persons executing the same shall pay whatever amount may be required by the judgment of the court therein, and abide any rule or order of the court in relation to the matter in controversy. [Cf. L. '88, p. 62, § 10; L. '90, p. 300, § 10; 2 H. C., § 657; L. '97, p. 64, § 2.]

Upon an appeal from an award of damages in condemnation proceedings, where there was no decree of appropriation, the appeal bond under this section is necessary to perfect the appeal, and does not assume that the petitioner desires to proceed with the condemnation, nor preclude the abandonment thereof: Port Angeles Pac. R. Co. v. Cooke, 38 Wash. 184.

§ 933. (5647.) Appropriation of Right of Way Through Defiles, etc.

Any railroad company whose right of way passes through any canyon, pass, or defile shall not prevent any other railroad company from the use and occupancy of said canyon, pass, or defile for the purpose of its road in common with the road first located or the crossing of other railroads at grade, and any railroad company authorized by law to appropriate land, real estate, premises, or other property for right of way, or any other corporate purpose, may present a petition in the manner and form hereinbefore provided for the appropriation of a right of way through any canyon, pass, or defile for the purpose of its road, where right of way has already been located, condemned, or occupied by some other railroad company through such canyon, pass, or defile for the purpose of its road, and thereupon like proceedings shall be had upon such petition as herein provided in other cases; and at the time of rendering judgment for damages, whether upon default or trial, the court, or judge thereof, shall enter a judgment or decree authorizing said railroad company to occupy and use said right of way, roadbed, and track, if necessary, in common with the railroad company or companies already occupying or owning the same, and defining the terms and conditions upon which the same shall be so occupied and used in common. [L. '90, p. 301, § 12; 2 H. C., § 658.]

This section provides for cases where it is necessary for railroad to go through a canyon, pass, or defile already occupied by an earlier road: Seattle etc. Ry. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 164.

As to construction, operation and effect of this section, see North Coast R. Co. v. North. Pac. R. Co., 48 Wash. 529.

§ 934. (5648.) Appropriation by Electric Power Companies, etc.

The right of eminent domain is hereby extended to all corporations incorporated or that may hereafter be incorporated under the laws of this state or any state or territory of the United States, and doing business in this state, for the purpose of transmitting electric power by wire, cable or by any other means: Provided, however, that said right of eminent domain shall not be exercised in respect to any residence or business structure or structures. [L. '95, p. 80, § 1.]

§ 935. (5649.) Right to Enter Lands for Survey, etc.

Every corporation incorporated or that may hereafter be incorporated under the laws of this state or any state or territory of the United States, and doing business in this state, for the purpose of transmitting electric power by wire, cable or any other means, shall have the right to enter upon any land between the termini of the proposed lines for the purpose of examining, locating and surveying such lines, doing no unnecessary damage thereby. [L. '95, p. 80, § 2.]

§ 936. (5650.) Procedure as in Other Cases.

Every such corporation shall have the right, subject to the proviso contained in the last preceding section, to appropriate real estate or other property for right of way or for any corporate purposes in the same manner and under the same procedure as now is or may be hereafter provided by the law in the case of other corporations authorized by the laws of this state to exercise the right of eminent domain. [L. '95, p. 80, § 3.]

CHAPTER VI.

WASTE, TRESPASS AND NUISANCE.

§ 937. (5654.) Waste Actionable.

Wrongs heretofore remediable by action of waste shall be subjects of actions, as other wrongs. [Cf. L. '54, p. 206, § 403; L. '69, p. 143, § 554; Cd. '81, § 600; 2 H. C., § 659.]

See supra, § 159, limitation of actions for.

See infra, §§ 1536, 1537, action by administrator for waste, trespass, etc.

§ 938. (5655.) Action Against Guardian or Tenant—Damages—Forfeiture—Eviction.

If a guardian, tenant in severalty or in common, for life or for years, of real property, commit waste thereon, any person injured thereby may maintain an action at law for damages therefor against such guardian or tenant; in which action there may be judgment for treble damages, forfeiture of the estate of the party committing or permitting the waste, and of eviction from the property. But judgment of forfeiture and eviction shall only be given in favor of the person entitled to the reversion against the tenant in possession, when the injury to the estate in reversion is determined in the action to be equal to the value of the tenant's estate or unexpired term, or to have been done or suffered in malice. [Cf. L. '54, p. 206, § 403; L. '69, p. 143, § 555; Cd. '81, § 601; 2 H. C., § 660.]

See supra, § 217, venue in actions affecting real property.

Cited in 2 Wash. 120.

Injuries to lands formerly cognizable in the technical action of waste were assembled in this section, while those in which a stranger to the land was the wrongdoer, and which had been cognizable in the action of trespass, were collected and provided for in the two following sections: McLeod v. Ellis, 2 Wash. 117, 120.

The common-law remedies embraced in these sections are continued as before, though they are now to be known as actions for injuries to real property instead of waste in one case and trespass in the other: Id.

The fact that a mortgagee in possession of premises is committing waste will not authorize the appointment of a receiver in the absence of proof of the mortgagee's insolvency: Brundage v. Home Savings & Loan Assn., 11 Wash. 277.

§ 939. (5656.) Trespass for Cutting Trees, etc.—Damage.

Whenever any person shall cut down, girdle, or otherwise injure or carry off any tree, timber, or shrub on the land of another person, or on the street or highway in front of any person's house, village, town, or city lot, or cultivated ground, or on the common or public grounds of any village, town, or city, or on the street or highway in front thereof, without lawful authority, in an action by such person, village, town or city, against the person committing such trespasses, or any of them, if judgment be given for the plaintiff, it shall be given for treble the amount of damages claimed or assessed therefor, as the case may be. [L. '69, p. 143, § 556; Cd. '81, § 602; 2 H. C., § 661.]

See infra, §§ 2822, 2823, offense of trespass on inclosed and uninclosed lands.

Cited in 2 Wash. 120, 122, 123; 27 Wash. 66, 358; 40 Wash. 45, 47.

TRESPASS: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2728, §§ 1, 2.

A person, though the owner, has no right to invade forcibly the actual and peaceful occupancy of land by another, even if the latter holds the same without right. By so doing he becomes a trespasser: White v. Territory, 3 W. T. 397.

The owners of lands upon which a railroad company has entered without notice of an intention to appropriate the same under the statute, and without setting apart the lands to be taken, may maintain trespass for injuries to their property: Bellingham Bay etc. Ry. Co. v. Loose, 2 Wash. 500; Downs v. Seattle etc. Ry. Co., 5 Wash. 781; Olson v. Seattle, 30 Wash. 687.

A person entering upon inclosed and improved lands occupied and claimed under a certificate of purchase from a railroad company is a naked trespasser: Laurendeau v. Fugelli, 1 Wash. 559.

A lessee's possession of stone quarried from his leasehold estate is sufficient to support replevin against a trespasser who removes the same: Reynolds v. Dexter Horton & Co., 2 Wash. 185.

Although the act of quarrying may be waste by the tenant, his possession or that of his assignee is good as against a mere wrongdoer: Id.

Sufficiency of title or right of possession to support action: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2729, §§ 5, 6; Colwell v. Smith, 1 W. T. 92; Wendel v. Spokane County, 27 Wash. 121; Olson v. Seattle, 30 Wash. 687; Nickelson v. Cameron Lumber Co., 39 Wash. 569.

As to defenses: See United States v. Kelly, 3 W. T. 41; Anderson v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 19 Wash. 340.

Trespass does not lie for consequential damages: Suter v. Wenatchee Water Power Co., 35 Wash. 1.

In an action for the wrongful conversion of trees, not commenced or tried in the county where the lands were situated, a paragraph of the complaint relating to trespass thereon based upon this section of the code may be rejected as surplusage, and the action treated merely as one of conversion in order to sustain the jurisdiction of the court: McLeod v. Ellis, 2 Wash. 117.

In an action to enjoin the commission of trespass upon lands the complaint is defective where the trespasses are alleged in general terms only: Wilkeson C. & C. Co. v. Driver, 9 Wash. 177.

Sufficiency of allegations as to title and possession: See Maggs v. Morgan, 30 Wash. 604.

A brought suit against B for damage to his crops by cattle of B. Upon trial, it being disclosed that C had an interest in the crops, the court summarily dismissed the action, because of the non-joinder of C: Held, error in so doing; that the interest of C might be consistent with the right of A to recover for the trespass and at most could only operate as a partial failure of proof: Washburn v. Case, 1 W. T. 253.

In an action of trespass to real property, parol proof of plaintiff's undisputed possession is sufficient to show title in himself, when no better title is alleged to be in defendant or some other person: Spurlock v. Pt. Townsend So. Ry. Co., 13 Wash. 29.

In an action of trespass by a lessee to recover damages for the tearing down of a leased building and the removal of the lessee's effects therefrom, evidence of the market value of the building and contents is inadmissible: Froelich v. Morse, 15 Wash. 636.

As to burden of proof to show malicious and wanton damage, when charged in complaint: See Rice Fisheries Co. v. Pacific Realty Co., 35 Wash. 535.

Damages—Actions for treble damages, recovery, etc.: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2730, §§ 12-18; Tacoma Mill Co. v. Perry, 40 Wash. 44; Rice Fisheries Co. v. Pac. Realty Co., 35 Wash. 535; Gardner v. Lovegren, 27 Wash. 356; Chappel v. Puget Sound Reduction Co., 27 Wash. 63.

DAMAGES.—An instruction that the jury could themselves assess treble damages is erroneous, as it is for the court to treble the damages in its judgment after the jury have assessed actual damages: McLeod v. Ellis, 2 Wash. 117.

In an action to enjoin defendant from interfering with plaintiff's right to take gravel from defendant's land, defendant cannot counterclaim damages committed by plaintiff to the land and growing wheat when such trespass has no connection with the taking of the gravel: Corliss v. Dunning, 8 Wash. 332.

Proof of damages subsequent to commencement of an action is inadmissible under an answer which states, "that for the period of one year prior to the commencement of said cause plaintiff has wrongfully and oppressively torn down defendant's fences, etc.": Id.

Action for continuing trespass: See Doran v. Seattle, 24 Wash. 182.

This section was not intended to apply to cases in which the trespass was committed through an innocent mistake as to the boundary or location of a tract of land claimed by the defendant: See the next section.

A finding that a trespass was not casual or involuntary is supported where defendants cut trees without having made an effort to locate section lines, which were easily located after the trespass: Nethery v. Nelson, 51 Wash. 624.

§ 940. (5657.) Casual or Involuntary Trespass—Damages.

If upon trial of such action it shall appear that the trespass was casual or involuntary, or that the defendant had probable cause to believe that the land on which such trespass was committed was his own, or that of the person in whose service or by whose direction the act was done, or that such tree or timber was taken from uninclosed woodlands, for the purpose of repairing any public highway or bridge upon the land, or adjoining it, judgment shall only be given for single damages. [L. '69, p. 143, § 557; Cd. '81, § 603; 2 H. C., § 662.]

Cited in 2 Wash. 120; 27 Wash. 66, 358; 40 Wash. 45, 47.

Where a boundary line between two quarter section corners is in dispute, a land owner who adopts a line run on the magnetic variation called for in the field-notes, without resorting to a proper method for determining the true line, is guilty of voluntary and not a casual or involuntary trespass, if he cuts timber on the adjoining tract: Heybrook v. Index Lumber Co., 49 Wash. 378.

§ 941. (5658.) Injunction to Prevent Waste.

When any two or more persons are opposing claimants under the laws of the United States to any land in this state, and one is threatening to commit upon such land waste which tends materially to lessen the value of the inheritance, and which cannot be compensated by damages, and there is imminent danger that unless restrained such waste will be committed, the party, on filing his complaint and satisfying the court or judge of the existence of the facts, may have an injunction to restrain the adverse party. In all cases he shall give notice and bond as is provided in other cases where injunction is granted, and the injunction when granted shall be set aside or modified as is provided generally for injunction and restraining orders. [L. '54, p 206, § 404; Cd. '81, § 604; 2 H. C., § 663.]

Cited in 5 Wash. 153, 155, 156.

Actions for waste: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2852, § 1; Brundage v. Home Savings & L. Assn., 11 Wash. 277.

The statute assumes that there will be instances where money will be inadequate to compensate for damages to lands: Arment v. Hensel, 5 Wash. 152, 154.

Cutting down trees on public land is waste within the meaning of this section, and an injunction will lie by a claimant thereof to restrain an opposing claimant from committing waste thereon: Id. See, also, Colwell v. Smith, 1 W. T. 92.

The provisions of this section are not applicable in a case in which the state is one of the claimants, because the word "person," when used in the statute, does not include the state: McBride v. Board of Commrs. (Wash.), 44 Fed. 17.

A bill for an injunction to prevent waste, showing that plaintiff is an applicant to purchase the premises from the United States as mineral land; that his right is under contest in the land office; that defendant claims title adversely to him, does not state a case within the exception to the rule, that equity will not interfere to prevent waste when complainant's title is in dispute: Id.

§ 942. (5659.) Action by Occupant of Unsurveyed Land.

Any person now occupying and settled upon, or who may hereafter occupy or settle upon, any of the unsurveyed public lands, not to exceed one hundred and sixty acres, in this state, for the purpose of holding and cultivating the same, may commence and maintain any action, in any court of competent jurisdiction, for interference with or injuries done to his or her possessions of said lands, against any person or persons so interfering with or injuring such lands or possession: Provided always, that if any of the aforesaid class of settlers are absent from their claims continuously for a period of six months in any one year, the said person or persons shall be deemed to have forfeited all rights under this section. [L. '83, p. 70, § 1; 2 H. C., § 545.]

"Section" substituted for "act," being identical as to the provisions referred to.

A settler on unsurveyed lands cannot recover damages for the cutting and removal of timber therefrom: See Nicholson v. Cameron Lumber Co., 39 Wash. 569.

§ 943. (5660.) Actionable Nuisances, Defined.

The obstruction of any highway, or the closing of the channel of any stream used for boating or rafting logs, lumber, or timber, or whatever is injurious to health, or indecent, or offensive to the senses, or an obstruction to the free use of property, so as to essentially interfere with the comfortable enjoyment of the life and property, is a nuisance, and the subject of an action for damages and other and further relief. [Cf. L. '54, p. 207, § 405; L. '69, p. 144, § 559; Cd. '81, § 605; 2 H. C., § 664.]

See infra, § 8307 et seq., public nuisances.

See infra, § 8310, private nuisance defined.

As to matters constituting a public nuisance, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2164, §§ 11-14; State v. Bruce, 23 Wash. 777; Graetz v. McKenzie, 9 Wash. 696; Wilcox v. Henry, 35 Wash. 591; Tilden v. Gordon & Co., 34 Wash. 92; Dempsie v.

Darling, 39 Wash. 125; Ingersoll v. Rousseau, 35 Wash. 92.

A court of equity will not grant injunctive relief against parties destroying or threatening to destroy a fence placed and maintained upon a public highway in violation of law: Johnson v. Maxwell, 2 Wash. 482.

The obstruction of a public road by building a fence therein is a nuisance which may be abated by any person injuriously affected thereby, provided it be done without committing a breach of the peace or doing unnecessary injury: Id.; Smith v. Mitchell, 21 Wash. 536.

Temporary closing of a street by a railroad company under authority of city in order to build a bridge, not a nuisance: See Lund v. St. Paul M. & M. R. Co., 31 Wash. 286.

Acts or conduct constituting a private nuisance: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2162, §§ 1, 2; Doran v. Seattle, 24 Wash. 182; Sterrett v. Northport Min. etc. Co., 30 Wash. 164; Woodard v. West Side Mill Co., 43 Wash. 308.

§ 944. (5661.) Who may Maintain.

Such action may be brought by any person whose property is injuriously affected or whose personal enjoyment is lessened by the nuisance. If the judgment be given for the plaintiff in such action, he may, in addition to the execution to enforce the same, on motion, have an order allowing a warrant to issue to the sheriff to abate such nuisance. Such motion shall be allowed, of course, unless it appear on the hearing that the nuisance has ceased, or that such remedy is inadequate to abate or prevent the continuance of the nuisance, in which latter case the plaintiff may have the defendant enjoined. [Cf. L. '54, p. 207, § 406; L. '69, p. 144, § 560; Cd. '81, § 606; L. '91, p. 89, § 1; 2 H. C., § 665.]

An injunction will not lie to restrain the sale of intoxicating liquors to plaintiff's employees on the ground that some of such employees become intoxicated and become disqualified from rendering service to their employer: N. P. Ry. Co. v. Whalen, 3 W. T. 452.

A complaint by a railroad company alleging that there are a number of saloons and gambling-houses along the line of its road, and that they are public and private nuisances, but failing to name any particular houses, or designate wherein it is disorderly or a nuisance, is insufficient: Id.

Riding on a bicycle on a public highway is not a nuisance requiring special police surveillance: State v. Bruce, 23 Wash. 777.

A city, proceeding to abate a nuisance in one of its streets, is clothed with the attributes of sovereignty, and may prosecute its suit in the first instance by a bill in equity: Moore v. Walla Walla, 2 W. T. 184.

Resort to a judicial tribunal should precede destruction of property, where there is any doubt as to existing rights of the person whose property is sought to be destroyed: Spokane St. Ry. Co. v. Spokane Falls, 6 Wash. 521, 527.

Although a street railway track constructed without authority may be technically a nuisance, yet where there is no general law of the city declaring such railway a nuisance and authorizing its abatement, the city is not authorized, under a charter provision empowering it "to cause any nuisance to be abated," to tear up the same: Id.

A public nuisance can be abated only by a public officer, except where the party who desires to abate it has some special interest in the abatement which is different from and greater than the interest of the community: Griffith v. Holman, 23 Wash. 347.

Public nuisances—Actions for abatement or injunction: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2165, §§ 18-28; Id., p. 2068, §§ 310-312; Ingersoll v. Rousseau, 35 Wash. 92; Dempsie v. Darling, 39 Wash. 125; Wilcox v. Henry, 35 Wash. 591; Winsor v. Hanson, 40 Wash. 423; Grantham v. Gilson, 41 Wash. 125; Wilson v. West & Slade Mill Co., 28 Wash. 312; West Seattle v. West Seattle Land etc. Co., 38 Wash. 359; Lund v. St. Paul M. & M. R. Co., 31 Wash. 286.

The fact that the remedy provided by § 943 and this section for the abatement of a nuisance is an action at law will not preclude the court from granting equitable relief, in a proceeding therefor, when a suit at law for the abatement of the nuisance would prove entirely inadequate: Carl v. West Aberdeen Land etc. Co., 13 Wash. 616.

Although the obstruction of a navigable stream may be a public nuisance, yet a private action may be maintained for its removal, when plaintiffs have a special interest in having the obstruction removed so that they can float their logs down the stream: Id.

The fact that the court mistakenly admitted evidence competent only in a suit at law for the abatement of a nuisance, will not deprive plaintiffs of a right to equitable relief, where the pleadings and proofs are sufficient to warrant the granting of such relief: Id.

Boom companies organized under § 7119 et seq. have no right to interfere with the navigation or use of the streams upon which they have constructed booms: Id.

A decree granting equitable relief in a petition for a mandatory injunction against a nuisance, which impliedly goes further and adjudges the abatement of the nuisance, should be interpreted in the light of the finding made by the court, in which it has decided that it is not within its province, in the action brought, to determine whether or not an obstruction should be abated as a nuisance: Id.

A proprietor is not justified in entering upon adjoining lands to abate a nuisance by the removal of a boom placed across the stream, where it has caused him no injury, and merely because of a probability that it will create a nuisance in the future: Winsor v. Hanson, 40 Wash. 423.

A private action will not lie to abate a nuisance common to the entire public: Jones v. St. Paul etc. R. Co., 16 Wash. 25.

Private nuisances—Abatement, injunction and actions for damages: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2163, §§ 4-10; Winsor v. Hanson, 40 Wash. 423; Doran v. Seattle, 24 Wash. 182; Sterrett v. Northport Min. etc. Co., 30 Wash. 164; Rowe v. Northport Smelt. etc. Co., 35 Wash. 101.

The evidence is sufficient to show a nuisance in maintaining a fish market in an improper and obnoxious manner, where the evidence of many witnesses from the immediate vicinity was to the effect that offensive fumes and odors from shellfish, boiled or stored in an improper manner, permeated the atmosphere, and the same was not disputed except by negative testimony of persons occasionally in the market; and it was error to dismiss an action to abate the same: Asia v. Pool, 47 Wash. 515.

Sufficiency of evidence of damage: See Id.

The evidence is sufficient to show that the operation of a stamp-mill in a leased storeroom, on the ground floor of a hotel building, is a nuisance which the landlord has a right to have abated by termination of the lease, and it is error to grant a nonsuit in his action of forcible entry and detainer, where it appeared that the operation of the machinery severely shook and jarred the building to such an extent as to greatly annoy the guests everywhere in the hotel, and prevent the leasing of certain rooms: Ridpath v. Spokane Stamp Works, 48 Wash. 320.

Public nuisances—Criminal prosecutions: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2168, §§ 29-33; State v. Schaffer, 31 Wash. 305; State v. Brown, 7 Wash. 10; State v. Paggett, 8 Wash. 579; State v. Horlacher, 16 Wash. 325.

§ 945. (5662.) Warrant for Abatement of Nuisance.

If the order be made, the clerk shall thereafter, at any time within six months, when requested by the plaintiff, issue such warrant directed to the sheriff, requiring him forthwith to abate the nuisance at the expense of the defendant, and return the warrant as soon thereafter as may be, with his proceedings indorsed thereon. The expenses of abating the nuisance may be levied by the sheriff on the property of the defendant, and in this respect the warrant is to be deemed an execution against property. [Cf. L. '54, p. 207, § 407; L. '69, p. 145, § 561; Cd. '81, § 607; 2 H. C., § 666.]

§ 946. (5663.) Stay of Warrant.

At any time before the order is made or the warrant issues, the defendant may, on motion to the court, or judge thereof, have an order to stay the issue of such warrant for such period as may be necessary, not exceeding six months, to allow the defendant to abate the nuisance himself, upon his giving bond to the plaintiff, in a sufficient amount, with one or more sureties, to the satisfaction of the court, or judge thereof, that he will abate it within the time and in the manner specified in such order. The sureties shall justify as bail upon arrest. If the defendant fails to abate such nuisance within the time specified, the warrant for the abatement of the nuisance may issue as if the same had not been stayed. [L. '69, p. 145, § 562; Cd. '81, § 608; 2 H. C., § 667.]

See supra, § 765, qualifications of bail on arrest.

See infra, § 8322, stay in cases of public nuisance.

CHAPTER VII.

ESTABLISHMENT OF BOUNDARIES OF LANDS.

§ 947. (5667.) Establishment of Lost or Uncertain Boundary Lines.

Whenever the boundaries of lands between two or more adjoining proprietors shall have been lost, or by time, accident, or any other cause shall have become obscure or uncertain, and the adjoining proprietors cannot agree to establish the same, one or more of said adjoining proprietors may bring his civil action in equity, in the superior court for the county in which such lands, or part of them, are situated, and such superior court, as a court of equity, may, upon such complaint, order such lost or uncertain boundaries to be erected and established and properly marked. [L. '86, p. 104, § 1; 2 H. C., § 668.]

See infra, § 3984, establishment of lines and corners by county surveyor.

Cited in 9 Wash. 185; 44 Wash. 101; 47 Wash. 403.

As to the description of boundaries, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 392, §§ 1-9; Owen v. Henderson, 16 Wash. 39; Hutchcraft v. Lutwig, 13 Wash. 240; Odson v. Knox, 8 Wash. 642; Shelton Logging Co. v. Gosser, 26 Wash. 126; Maynard v. Puget Sound Nat. Bank, 24 Wash. 455; Thayer v. Spokane County, 36 Wash. 63; Pachscher v. Fuller, 6 Wash. 534; McIrwin v. Charlebois, 38 Wash. 151; Waring v. Loomis, 35 Wash. 85; Stangair v. Roads, 41 Wash. 583.

The true corner for a donation claim is where the United States surveyor established it, notwithstanding its location may not be such as is designated on the plat or field-notes; but proof of such actual establishment at a place other than that indicated by the field-notes must be clear and convincing: Cadeau v. Elliott, 7 Wash. 205; Greer v. Squire, 9 Wash. 359; see Squire v. Greer, 2 Wash. 209.

Where neither course, distance, nor computed contents agree with the monuments, yet the monument controls when it is definitely ascertained: Cadeau v. Elliott, supra.

The law establishes an obliterated corner where the surveyor actually located it, and not where it ought to be located by a correct survey: Inmon v. Pearson, 47 Wash. 402.

If a deed describes the land conveyed as commencing at a point west of the northeast corner of a certain section, the presumption is that the point is due west, although the north line of the section is not the true meridian; but such presumption may be rebutted by extraneous testimony: Reed v. Tacoma Bldg. & Sav. Assn., 2 Wash. 198.

Reference to a plat or map in a deed of conveyance makes it a part thereof; and when thus incorporated all the lines thereof have the same effect as monuments in controlling courses and distances therein set out: State v. Tide Land Appraisers, 5 Wash. 425, 426.

One who purchases with reference to monuments marking the boundaries acquires title regardless of the lines shown by a recorded plat: Olson v. Seattle, 30 Wash. 687.

In a proceeding to re-establish a lost corner by a survey, if the actual location of the monuments can be ascertained, it is the duty of the surveyor to relocate the lost corner by following the government field-notes, proceeding from conceded monuments and corners: Strunz v. Hood, 44 Wash. 99.

The government meander line of a navigable lake marks the boundary of a grant made prior to the adoption of the constitution only where the same is below high-water mark, and if the meander is above high-water mark, the owner took title to the land to high-water mark: Van Sielen v. Muir, 46 Wash. 38.

Presumptions and burden of proof, admissibility, weight and sufficiency of evidence in actions for the establishment of boundaries: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 395, §§ 11-13; Moore v. Brownfield, 7 Wash. 23; Blair v. Brown, 17 Wash. 570; Simmons v. Jamieson, 32 Wash. 619; Stangair v. Roads, 41 Wash. 583; Thayer v. Spokane County, 36 Wash. 63.

Where the custom of surveyors in laying out plats and in running lines is to make them conform to the nearest lines of the government survey, if such lines vary from the true line upon which they should have been run, the boundary lines given in a deed of conveyance as running north and south and east and west will be construed as conforming with the variations in the nearest lines of the government survey: Tacoma Bldg. etc. Assn. v. Clark, 8 Wash. 289.

Where a corner post placed upon the original government survey cannot be more definitely located than as being somewhere within a space covered by a circle whose radius is fifty feet or more, it must be held to be a lost corner within the rule for the relocation of such corners: Wilkerson Coal & Coke Co. v. Driver, 13 Wash. 610.

The relocation of a lost quarter post is without effect unless there is proof that, in relocating it, the rules prescribed by the United States statutes and the regulations adopted thereunder have been complied with: Id.

The original location of a government corner marks the boundary line if it has been preserved; but if it is lost, it is properly established according to government rules for the relocation of lost corners: King v. Carmichael, 45 Wash. 127.

Evidence of one purchasing a lot according to the recorded plat, that she saw a stake at one corner of the block, is not sufficient to show a corner at variance with the plat, where the stake was not identified in any way: La Bounty v. Seattle, 46 Wash. 141.

Hearsay or general reputation is admissible to establish the location of a lost or obliterated boundary line or corner: Inmon v. Pearson, 47 Wash. 402.

The grantees in a deed conveying land in a block by metes and bounds, which description would be coincident with the south half of lot number 11, in case all the lots were sixty feet in width as stated on the plat, are not entitled to have their title quieted as against owners of the adjoining lot number 10, upon the mere claim that there was a shortage in the length of the block which, if evenly distributed among all the lots, would make the metes and bounds description cover part of lot 10, where there was no definite proof as to the location of the shortage or as to the lots affected thereby: Mason v. Long, 49 Wash. 18.

That the true high-water mark of a navigable lake was rendered difficult of ascertainment by the acts of one in possession, does not entitle the state to have the same established at the government meander line, where the meander was admittedly many feet distant from the original high-water mark; and therefore the state cannot complain of the adoption of a conventional line which is approximately correct: Brace & Hergert Mill Co. v. State, 49 Wash. 326.

Where the quarter section corners on the north and south sides of a section are in place, the dividing line between the east and west halves is a straight line between the said corners, and not an adopted line run on the magnetic variation given by the government surveyor's field-notes: Heybrook v. Index Lumber Co., 49 Wash. 378.

Where a quarter corner is lost, it must be located halfway between the section corners: Heybrook v. Index Lumber Co., Id.

Where a description first calls for the north boundary of the tract as at the center of a street, and runs thence south a certain number of feet to a railroad right of way for the south boundary, the first call prevails over the last call in determining the location of the north boundary, where there is a shortage between the two boundaries: Stokes v. Curtis, 49 Wash. 235.

There is sufficient evidence of the location of a disputed boundary line, the starting point of which was given as the center of F. street in a town plat, 823.5 feet north of a certain government corner, where it appears that the center of F. street is 823.5 feet north of the center of S. street, as given by the plat, the accuracy of the plat not being disputed, and that the government stake originally stood in the center of S. street, although it has long since disappeared: Stokes v. Curtis, 49 Wash. 235.

Agreements between parties as to lines, estoppel, and adverse possession: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 396, §§ 14-16; Lindley v. Johnston, 42 Wash. 257; Denny v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 19 Wash. 298; Phinney v. Campbell, 16 Wash. 203; Erickson v. Murlin, 39 Wash. 43.

An agreement for the re-establishment of a lost corner does not estop the party from objections to its location pursuant to the agreement when all the conditions of the agreement had not been carried out: Inmon v. Pearson, 47 Wash. 402.

§ 948. (5668.) Commissioners Appointed—Duties of.

Said court may, in its discretion, appoint commissioners, not exceeding three competent and disinterested persons, one or more of whom shall be practical surveyors, residents of the state, which commissioners shall be, before entering upon their duties, duly sworn to perform their said duties faithfully, and the said commissioners shall thereupon survey, erect, establish, and properly mark said boundaries, and return to the court a plat of said survey, and the field-notes thereof, together with their report. Said report shall be advisory, and either party may except thereto, in the same manner as to a report of referees. [L. '86, p. 105, § 2; 2 H. C., § 669.]

The appointment of commissioners under this section rests in the discretion of the trial court, and is not subject to review on appeal: Stangair v. Roads, 41 Wash. 583.

In a proceeding to re-establish a lost corner by a survey, it is not error, upon receiving the report of the commissioner appointed to make the survey, to refuse to admit additional evidence as to whether the monuments were lost, and contradicting the report in that particular, where that issue had been previously determined before the appointment of the commissioner: Strunz v. Hood, 44 Wash. 99.

§ 949. (5669.) Proceedings, How Conducted—Decree.

The proceedings shall be conducted as other civil actions, and the court, on final decree, shall apportion the costs of the proceedings equitably, and the costs so apportioned shall be a lien upon the said lands, severally, as against any transfer or encumbrance made of or attaching to said lands, from the time of the filing of the complaint: Provided, a notice of lis pendens is filed in the auditor's office of the proper county, in accordance with law. [L. '86, p. 105, § 3; 2 H. C., § 670.]

CHAPTER VIII.

ACTIONS BY AND AGAINST PUBLIC CORPORATIONS.

§ 950. (5673.) Actions by Public Corporations.

An action at law may be maintained by any county, incorporated town, school district, or other public corporation of like character in this state, in its corporate name, and upon a cause of action accruing to it, in its corporate character, and not otherwise, in either of the following cases:—

1. Upon a contract made with such public corporation;
2. Upon a liability prescribed by law in favor of such public corporation;
3. To recover a penalty or forfeiture given to such public corporation;
4. To recover damages for an injury to the corporate rights or property of such public corporation. [L. '69, p. 154, § 601; Cd. '81, § 661; 2 H. C., § 671.]

See supra, § 886, actions against the state.

See infra, § 3822, capacity of counties to sue and be sued.

See infra, § 3823, actions to be brought in corporate name.

See infra, § 4483, power and liability of school districts.

See infra, § 7518, power of cities of first class to sue and be sued.

See infra, § 7671, power of cities of third class to sue and be sued.

See §§ 7939-7951, actions by and against townships.

Cited in 38 Wash. 106; 48 Wash. 88.

Municipal corporations are subject to suit only in the county in which they are situated: North Yakima v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 655.

A county is not liable for personal injuries caused by a defective sidewalk under its control: Clark v. Lincoln Co., 1 Wash. 518. Contra: Kirtly v. Snohomish County, 20 Wash. 111.

A school district is liable under this and the next section for the negligent act and omissions of its officers or agents whereby a bucket of hot water, used in connection with the heating apparatus of a schoolroom, is overturned and a pupil burned or scalded: Redfield v. School District No. 3, 48 Wash. 85.

§ 951. (5674.) Actions Against Public Corporations.

An action may be maintained against a county, or other of the public corporations mentioned or described in the preceding section, either upon a contract made by such county or other public corporation in its corporate character, and within the scope of its authority, or for an injury to the rights of the plaintiff arising from some act or omission of such county or other public corporation. [L. '69, p. 154, § 602; Cd. '81, § 662; 2 H. C., § 672.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 658; 20 Wash. 113; 21 Wash. 648; 48 Wash. 88.

§ 952. (5675.) Verification of Pleadings by Public Corporations.

In such actions, the pleadings of the public corporation shall be verified by any of the officers representing it in its corporate capacity, in the same manner as if such officer was a defendant in the action, or by the agent or attorney thereof, as in ordinary actions. [L. '69, p. 154, § 603; Cd. '81, § 663; 2 H. C., § 673.]

§ 953. (5676.) Manner of Enforcing Judgments.

If judgment be given for the recovery of money or damages against such county or other public corporation, no execution shall issue thereon for the collection of such money or damages, but such judgment in such respect shall be satisfied as follows:—

1. The party in whose favor such judgment is given may, at any time thereafter, when execution might issue on a like judgment against a private person, present a certified transcript of the docket thereof to the officer of such county or other public corporation who is authorized to draw orders on the treasury thereof;

2. On the presentation of such transcript, such officer shall draw an order on such treasurer for the amount of the judgment, in favor of the party for whom the same was given. Thereafter such order shall be presented for payment and paid with like effect and in like manner as other orders upon the treasurer of such county or other public corporation;

3. The certified transcript herein provided for shall not be furnished by the clerk, unless at the time an execution might issue on such judgment if the same were against a private person, nor until satisfaction of the same judgment in respect to such money or damages be acknowledged as in ordinary cases. The clerk shall include in the transcript the memorandum of such acknowledgment of satisfaction and the entry thereof. Unless the transcript contain such memorandum, no order upon the treasurer shall issue thereon. [L. '69, p. 154, § 604; Cd. '81, § 664; 2 H. C., § 674.]

See infra, § 3947, municipal warrants, action on. See notes.

Cited in 9 Wash. 400; 14 Wash. 223; 16 Wash. 458; 18 Wash. 37, 227; 20 Wash. 398; 31 Wash. 539; 34 Wash. 352, 641; 45 Wash. 53; 50 Wash. 103.

This section did not contemplate the issue of warrants in satisfaction of judgments except against existing funds, but a general practice has grown out of issuing them like other warrants and paying them as the treasurer is able, with interest at the legal rate from time of presentation until paid: Seymour v. Spokane, 6 Wash. 362, 364.

An action cannot be maintained upon a city warrant, but the holder's remedy, in case of refusal of the treasurer to make payment in the order of presentation, is by mandamus, and questions affecting the legality of the warrant can be tried therein: Cloud v. Town of Sumas, 9 Wash. 399; Union Savings Bank v. Gelbach, 8 Wash. 497.

All that a judgment creditor of a city can obtain is a warrant for the payment of his claim according to the provisions of this section. No execution can be issued thereon, against the town: Cloud v. Town of Sumas, supra; see La France Fire Engine Co. v. Mt. Vernon, 9 Wash. 142, 145; La France Fire Engine Co. v. Davis, 9 Wash. 600; Eidemiller v. Tacoma, 14 Wash. 376, 387.

As to execution and enforcement of judgment against municipal corporations, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2118, § 475; Lorence v. Bean, 18 Wash. 36; Smith v. Ormsby, 20 Wash. 396; Chapin v. Port Angeles, 31 Wash. 535; State ex rel. Lane v. Ballinger, 41 Wash. 23; State ex rel. Donofrio v. Humes, 34 Wash. 347.

This section does not preclude supplemental proceedings to enforce a judgment against the state dental board, which under section 8423 handles its funds and satisfies its claims the same as any individual or corporation: Stern v. State Board of Dental Examiners, 50 Wash. 100.

§ 954. (5677.) Officer Refusing to Satisfy Judgment may be Attached.

Should the proper officer of said corporation fail or refuse to satisfy said judgment, as in the preceding section provided, an attachment may be issued to compel his performance of said duty. [L. '69, p. 155, § 605; Cd. '81, § 665; 2 H. C., § 675.]

Cited in 14 Wash. 223; 31 Wash. 541.

§ 955. (5678.) Tender Condition Precedent to Action to Enjoin Tax Collection.

Hereafter no action or proceeding shall be commenced or instituted in any court of this state to enjoin the sale of any property for taxes, or to enjoin the collection of any taxes, or for the recovery of any property sold for taxes, unless the person or corporation desiring to commence or institute such action or proceeding shall first pay, or cause to be paid, or shall tender to the officer entitled under the law to receive the same, all taxes, penalties, interest, and costs justly due and unpaid from such person or corporation on the property sought to be sold or recovered. [L. '88, p. 43, § 1; 2 H. C., § 676.]

See supra, §§ 718, 719, injunctions.

§ 956. (5679.) What Complaint must State.

In all actions to enjoin the sale of any property for taxes, in all actions to enjoin the collection of any tax, and in all actions for the recovery of any property sold for taxes, the complainant must state and set forth specially in his complaint the tax that is justly due, with penalties, interest, and costs, the tax alleged to be illegal, and point out the illegality thereof; that the taxes for that and previous years have been paid; and when the action is for the recovery of lands or other property sold for taxes against the person or corporation in possession thereof, that all taxes, penalties, interest, and costs paid by the purchaser at tax sale, his assignees or grantees, have been fully paid or tendered, and payment refused. [L. '88, p. 44, § 2; 2 H. C., § 677.]

As to sufficiency of the complaint: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2704, § 169; Id., p. 2707, § 182; Puget Sound Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Seattle, 9 Wash. 608; Lewiston W. & P. Co. v. Asotin County, 24 Wash. 371; Miller v. Pierce County, 28 Wash. 110; Morrison v. Berlin, 37 Wash. 600; Kahn v. Thorpe, 43 Wash. 463.

This section does not apply to an ordinary action of ejectment, where the plaintiff was ousted by one claiming under a void tax title which, under the Law of 1897, was subject to collateral attack from the fact that the tax had already been paid: Bullock v. Wallace, 47 Wash. 690.

Under §§ 955-957, a suit to recover possession of lands sold to satisfy a tax cannot be commenced without first paying or tendering to the person in possession claiming under the tax title the amount of the tax with interest, penalties and costs for which the land was sold; and the fact that the judgment had been irregularly vacated and the taxes were thereupon paid to the county treasurer does not alter the case: Ryno v. Snider, 49 Wash. 421.

An action to set aside a tax deed and quiet title is properly nonsuited where it is not alleged or proved that the plaintiff tendered to the defendant holders of the tax title all taxes, penalties, interest, and costs, paid by them at the tax sale, the same being made a condition precedent to action by this section: Nunn v. Stewart, 52 Wash. 513.

§ 957. (5680.) Construction.

The provisions of sections 955 and 956 shall be construed as imposing additional conditions upon the power of the court or judge in granting injunctions to those already imposed, and of imposing additional conditions upon the complainant in actions for the recovery of property sold for taxes. [L. '88, p. 44, § 3; 2 H. C., § 678.]

CHAPTER IX.

ACTIONS ON OFFICIAL BONDS, FINES AND FORFEITURES.

§ 958. (5684.) Official Bonds, to Whom Deemed Security.

The official bond of a public officer to the state, or to any county, city, town, or other municipal or public corporation of like character therein, shall be deemed a security to the state, or to such county, city, town, or other municipal or public corporation, as the case may be, and also to all persons severally, for the official delinquencies against which it is intended to provide. [L. '69, p. 152, § 592; Cd. '81, § 652; 2 H. C., § 694.]

See supra, § 777, bonds not to fail for want of form.

See infra, § 974 et seq., actions for protection to sureties, and notes.

See infra, § 1159, action on contractor's bond to indemnify public corporations.

See infra, §§ 8326, 8327, actions on official bonds.

See infra, § 8336 et seq., provisions for release of sureties on official bonds.

Liabilities on official bonds: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2183, §§ 53-63; Spokane v. Allen, 9 Wash. 229; Ballard v. Thompson, 21 Wash. 669; Snohomish County v. Ruff, 15 Wash. 637; Kittitas County v. Travers, 16 Wash. 528.

An action may be maintained on the official bond of a treasurer of the board of regents of the agricultural college for the failure to turn over funds in his hands to his successor appointed by the board: State v. Smith, 9 Wash. 195.

The fact that a custodian of city funds is required by law to give a bond for the proper disposition of moneys coming into his hands does not thereby constitute him a mere debtor to the city, to the extent that the funds can be garnisheed by his judgment creditors: Marx v. Parker, 9 Wash. 473.

In an action on the official bond of the county treasurer for moneys unaccounted for, held, in a particular case, that the findings of the referee justify the conclusion of law that plaintiff was entitled to judgment for the sum not accounted for: Ferry v. King Co., 2 Wash. 337.

Settlements made by the county commissioners with an officer have not the force of a judicial decision, and are not binding on the county: Ferry v. King Co., supra; Dillon v. Spokane Co., 3 W. T. 498.

If the legislature has extended the term of an officer beyond the limit fixed by law at the time of his election and qualification, the sureties upon his bond cannot be held liable for his official acts during such extended term: King Co. v. Ferry, 5 Wash. 536.

Sureties on official bond of a chief of police cannot be held liable for his acts in receiving and detaining in a city prison persons arrested without process by police officers of the city, as such acts are not done virtute officii but colore officii: Marquis v. Willard, 12 Wash. 528.

DEFECTS — ALTERATIONS: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2183, § 54; Tumwater v. Hardt, 28 Wash. 684; State v. Bokien, 14 Wash. 403.

An official bond with no penal sum named in it, but left in blank where the penalty should be inserted, is a nullity: Walla Walla Co. v. Ping, 1 W. T. 339. And when the penal sum is not written in it until after it has been signed and sealed by the sureties and passed from their control, for delivery, the sureties are not estopped from denying their liability, although the bond has been accepted without knowledge of the alteration: Walla Walla Co. v. Ping, supra; criticised in King Co. v. Ferry, supra.

Although there has been an alteration made in an official bond of a county treasurer before delivery, by erasure in the body of the bond of the name of a person proposed as surety, and the substitution of another name without the knowledge or consent of the sureties signing the same, yet where the bond is regular on its face and erasures incapable of easy detection, and the commissioners have no notice thereof, the sureties must be held liable thereon: King Co. v. Ferry, supra.

It is not a fatal defect in a bond to secure laborers and materialmen under § 1159, infra, to name the board of school directors as obligees, instead of the state of Washington: Ihrig v. Scott, 5 Wash. 584; Wadsworth v. School District, 7 Wash. 485.

Where an official bond has been altered after execution by erasing the name of one surety and substituting that of another person, the sureties who do not consent thereto are thereby discharged: Fairhaven v. Cowgill, 8 Wash. 686; compare King Co. v. Ferry, supra.

The contract which embodies the obligation of an official bond, like any other contract, must be construed to give effect to the intention of the parties, and that intention is to be gathered from the language employed and the circumstances surrounding its execution: King Co. v. Ferry, 5 Wash. 536, 550.

A bond is valid under § 777, supra, if it appear therefrom that it was executed and accepted with the intention on the part of all parties to provide the security required by said statute, although it may not be in strict statutory form: Ihrig v. Scott, 5 Wash. 584.

Although an official bond is executed, charging the sureties with separate and limited liabilities in accordance with § 8335, infra, yet such fact does not alter the rule that sureties who do not consent to the release or withdrawal of the co-sureties are entitled to discharge from liability on the bond: Fairhaven v. Cowgill, 8 Wash. 686. The fact that sureties on an official bond, immediately after discovery of defalcation by their principal, unite with a cosurety, who had been substituted without their knowledge in place of another surety, in an endeavor to hold the money of the principal upon deposit in bank, does not amount to a ratification of the altered bond: Id.

EVIDENCE.—In an action on an official bond, the bond may be introduced in evidence without first explaining an evident alteration in a material part of the instrument: Fairhaven v. Cowgill, supra. And under plea of general denial, evidence is admissible to show an alteration therein after its execution: Id.

Failure to produce a bond or a copy before trial, where the same is material, will not preclude proof of loss and contents, where a sufficient excuse is made for a failure to produce the same: Spears v. Lawrence, 10 Wash. 368.

§ 959. (5685.) Injured Party may Maintain Action.

When a public officer by official misconduct or neglect of duty shall forfeit his official bond, or render his sureties therein liable upon such bond, any person injured by such misconduct or neglect, or who is by law entitled to the benefit of the security, may maintain an action at law thereon in his own name against the officer and his sureties to recover the amount to which he may by reason thereof be entitled. [L. '69, p. 152, § 593; Cd. '81, § 653; 2 H. C., § 695.]

§ 960. (5686.) Leave to Commence Action.

Before an action can be commenced by a plaintiff, other than the state, or the municipal or public corporation named in the bond, leave shall be obtained of the court, or judge thereof, where the action is triable. Such leave shall be granted upon the production of a certified copy of the bond, and an affidavit of the plaintiff, or some person in his behalf, showing the delinquency. But if the matter set forth in his affidavit be such that, if true, the party applying would clearly not be entitled to recover in the action, the leave shall not be granted. If it does not appear from the complaint that the leave herein provided for has been granted, the defendant, on motion, shall be entitled to judgment of nonsuit; if it does, the defendant may controvert the allegation, and if the issue be found in his favor, judgment shall be given accordingly. [L. '69, p. 152, § 594; Cd. '81, § 654; 2 H. C., § 696.]

See infra § 8326, who may maintain action on official bond.

Cited in 4 Wash. 633; 19 Wash. 75, 424.

This section does not apply to suits against administrators, as they are not public officers within the meaning of this chapter: Bartels v. Gove, 4 Wash. 632.

Leave of court to sue is not necessary in an action upon an official bond by the agents of the state where the action is solely for the benefit of the state: Nye v. Kelly, 19 Wash. 73. See Spokane County v. Prescott, 19 Wash. 418.

§ 961. (5687.) Judgment for Delinquency No Bar to Another Action.

A judgment in favor of a party for one delinquency shall not preclude the same or another party from maintaining another action on the same bond for another delinquency. [L. '69, p. 153, § 595; Cd. '81, § 655; 2 H. C., § 697.]

§ 962. (5688.) Amount of Judgment.

In an action upon an official bond, if judgments have been recovered against the surety therein other than by confession, equal in the aggregate to the penalty, or any part thereof, of such bond, and if such recovery be established on the trial, judgment shall not be given against such surety for an amount exceeding such penalty, or such portion thereof as is not already recovered against him. [L. '69, p. 153, § 596; Cd. '81, § 656; 2 H. C., § 698.]

§ 963. (5689.) Actions for Fines and Forfeitures.

Fines and forfeitures may be recovered by an action at law in the name of the officer or person to whom they are by law given, or in the name of the officer or person who by law is authorized to prosecute for them. [L. '69, p. 153, § 597; Cd. '81, § 657; 2 H. C., § 699.]

See supra, § 159, limitations of actions for.

§ 964. (5690.) Amount of Recovery.

When an action shall be commenced for a penalty which by law is not to exceed a certain amount, the action may be commenced for that amount, and if judgment be given for the plaintiff, it may be for such amount or less, in the discretion of the court, in proportion to the offense. [L. '69, p. 153, § 598; Cd. '81, § 658; 2 H. C., § 700.]

§ 965. (5691.) Collusive Judgment No Bar.

A recovery of a judgment for a penalty or forfeiture by collusion between the plaintiff and defendant, with intent to save the defendant wholly or partially from the consequences contemplated by law, in case when the penalty or forfeiture is given wholly or partly to the person who prosecutes, shall not bar the recovery of the same by another person. [L. '69, p. 153, § 599; Cd. '81, § 659; 2 H. C., § 701.]

§ 966. (5692.) Disposition of Fines and Forfeitures—Venue.

Fines and forfeitures not specially granted or otherwise appropriated by law, when recovered, shall be paid into the school fund of the proper county. Whenever, by the provisions of law, any property, real or personal, shall be forfeited to the state, or to any officer for its use, the action for the recovery of such property may be commenced in any county where the defendant may be found, or where such property may be. [L. '69, p. 153, § 600; Cd. '81, § 660; 2 H. C., § 702.]

See infra, § 2189, and notes, disposition of fines.

CHAPTER X.

ACTIONS BY AND AGAINST EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.

§ 967. (5695.) What Actions Survive.

All other causes of action [than those enumerated in section 183 supra] by one person against another, whether arising on contract or otherwise, survive to the personal representatives of the former and against the personal representatives of the latter. Where the cause of action survives, as herein provided, the executors or administrators may maintain an action at law thereon against the party against whom the cause of action accrued, or after his death, against his personal representatives. [L. '69, p. 165, § 659; Cd. '81, § 718; 2 H. C., § 704.]

See Laws of 1869, p. 166, § 665; Laws of 1877, p. 147, § 728, omitted from Code of 1881, limitation of actions on claims against estates.

Section 703 of 2 Hill's Code, which preceded this section, is omitted as repealed by § 183, supra: See cases cited in § 183.

See supra, § 155, limitations of actions.

See supra, § 156, limitations of actions on real property.

See supra, § 161, limitation of actions by heirs, etc., against executor or administrator for malfeasance, etc.

See infra, § 1432, limitations against sureties.

See infra, § 1472, limitations of claims against estates.

See infra, § 1477 et seq., limitations of actions on claims against estates; see, also, on same subject, § 164, supra.

See infra, §§ 1534-1542, actions by and against executors and administrators in certain cases.

See infra, § 1540, limitations of action against fraudulent conveyance.

Cited in 4 Wash. 787; 5 Wash. 262; 15 Wash. 294; 35 Wash. 501.

Survival of action on death of party: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 7, §§ 18-26; Jones v. Miller, 35 Wash. 499; Dwyer v. Nolan, 40 Wash. 459; Ralph v. Lomer, 3 Wash. 401; Donnerberg v. Oppenheimer, 15 Wash. 290; Baker v. Northwest Bldg. etc. Co., 33 Wash. 677; Megrath v. Gilmore, 15 Wash. 558; Overlock v. Shinn, 28 Wash. 20; Power v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318; Strong v. Eldridge, 8 Wash. 595.

Mere personal torts which die with a party and do not survive to his personal representatives are not assignable: Slau-son v. Schwabacher Bros. & Co., 4 Wash. 783.

The legislature did not intend to declare by this section what causes of action should survive, but were legislating merely with reference to causes which already survive: Id.

In an action by an administrator against the son of the deceased for the appropriation of property and the collection of debts belonging to the deceased, it was error to exclude a brother of defendant from testifying, because such person was not interested adversely to the estate: McCoy v. Ayers, 2 W. T. 307.

A suit in equity may be maintained against the person collecting money without authority from a debtor, if it be shown that the debtor to the estate is insolvent: Id.

If an unauthorized person collects debts belonging to an estate, an action at law cannot be maintained against him, for the recovery of the money by the administrator, because the original debtor is still liable to the estate. The rule is otherwise as to specific property, subject to identification in the hands of one unauthorized to receive it: Id.

Negotiable notes collected by an administrator in Oregon and accounted for by him relieves the administrator from liability therefor at the suit of an administrator in this territory, although the notes were secured by mortgage on property therein: Id.

Sufficiency of a complaint considered and the powers of an executor under the will discussed in Miller v. Borst, 11 Wash. 260.

Upon the death of an appellant pending an appeal from an order granting a new trial, after a final judgment in appellant's favor, the action does not abate, and the administrator of the estate of the deceased is entitled to be substituted as party plaintiff to prosecute such appeal, since the cause of action is merged in the judgment, which descends to the estate as property, the order granting a new trial being suspended pending the appeal therefrom: Wright v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 45 Wash. 432.

§ 968. (5696.) Several Representatives Regarded as One.

In an action against several executors or administrators, they shall all be considered as one person representing their testator or intestate, and judgment may be given and execution issued against all of them who are defendants in the action, although the notice be served only on part of them, in the same manner and with like effect as if served on all, except as provided in the next section. [L. '69, p. 165, § 660; Cd. '81, § 719; 2 H. C., § 705.]

See Strong v. Eldridge, 8 Wash. 595.

Service need not be made upon the devisees: See Hill v. Lowman, 15 Wash. 503.

§ 969. (5697.) Judgment by Default—Not Evidence of Assets, When.

When a judgment is given against an executor or administrator for want of answer, such judgment is not to be deemed evidence of assets in his hands, unless it appear that the complaint alleged assets, and that the notice was served upon him. [L. '69, p. 166, § 661; Cd. '81, § 720; 2 H. C., § 706.]

Where the executors are liable in their representative capacity, the judgment must provide for payment in due course of administration and not by execution: See Collins v. Denny Clay Co., 41 Wash. 136.

§ 970. (5698.) Inventory may be Contradicted, When.

In an action against executors and administrators, in which the fact of their having administered the estate of their testator or intestate, or any part thereof, is put in issue, and the inventory of the property of the deceased returned by them is given in evidence, the same may be contradicted or avoided by evidence,—

1. That any property has been omitted in such inventory, or was not returned therein at its full value, or that since the return thereof such property has increased in value;

2. That such property has perished or been lost without the fault of such executors or administrators, or that it has been fairly and duly sold by them at a less price than the value so returned, or that since the return of the inventory such property has deteriorated in value. In such action the defendants cannot be charged for any things in action specified in their inventory, unless it appear that they have been collected, or with due diligence might have been. [L. '69, p. 166, § 662; Cd. '81, § 721; 2 H. C., § 707.]

§ 971. (5699.) No Liability as Executor de Son Tort.

No person is liable to an action as executor of his own wrong for having taken, received, or interfered with the property of a deceased person, but is responsible to the executors or administrators of such deceased person for the value of all property so taken or received, and for all injury caused by his interference with the estate of the deceased. [L. '69, p. 166, § 663; Cd. '81, § 722; 2 H. C., § 708.]

Cited in 6 Wash. 203.

If a husband acts as executor of a deceased wife's will, but, at the time of his death, has not completed administration upon her estate, and the executors of his own will take possession and administer upon all the property the husband held, including the separate and community estate of the deceased wife, such administration is merely irregular and not void, nor do the ordinary rules relating to liability of executors de son tort apply thereto: In re Hill's Estate, 6 Wash. 285.

§ 972. (5700.) Executor of Executor—Limit of Powers of.

An executor of an executor has no authority as such to commence or maintain an action or proceeding relating to the estate of the testator of the first executor, or to take any charge or control thereof. [L. '69, p. 166, § 664; Cd. '81, § 723; 2 H. C., § 709.]

§ 973. (5701.) Provisional Remedies, When Authorized.

In an action against an executor or administrator as such, the remedies of arrest and attachment shall not be allowed on account of the acts of his testator or intestate; but for his own acts as such executor or administrator, such remedies shall be allowed for the same causes in the manner and with like effect as in actions at law generally. [L. '69, p. 167, § 666; Cd. '81, § 724; 2 H. C., § 710.]

CHAPTER XI.

PROTECTION OF SURETIES.

§ 974. (5705.) Notice to Creditor to Institute Action.

Any person bound as surety upon any contract in writing for the payment of money or the performance of any act, when the right of action has accrued, may require, by notice in writing, the creditor or obligee forthwith to institute an action upon the contract. [L. '54, p. 210, § 426; Cd. '81, § 644; 2 H. C., § 756.]

See supra, § 958, and notes, sureties on official bonds.

See supra, § 962, aggregate judgment against sureties on official bonds.

See infra, § 978, subrogation.

See infra, § 979, contribution among sureties.

See infra, § 8333 et seq., sureties on official bonds, number, justification and extent of liability.

See infra, § 8336 et seq., provisions for the release of sureties on official bonds.

Neglect of creditor to proceed against principal—Notice by surety: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2349, § 42; Kittridge v. Stegmier, 11 Wash. 3.

This section has no application to a case where the principals on the bond are non-residents, and it is not made to appear that they have property in the state liable to attachment: Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 304.

The leaning of the law being in favor of sureties, their contracts are strictly construed: Walla Walla v. Ping, 1 W. T. 339.

If two persons have signed a promissory note jointly, but nothing to show which was principal and which was surety, it is competent to show by extrinsic evidence these facts and that the payee had knowledge of the same: Harman v. Hale, 1 W.

T. 422, 34 Am. Dec. 816; see Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537. And such showing may be made in an action at law under our code: Harman v. Hale, supra.

The statute permitting sureties, in an action against them and their principals, to have the question of suretyship adjudicated is not a limitation of their rights as existing before its enactment, but is intended as an additional and more complete remedy than existed under the common law: Denny v. Sayward, 10 Wash. 422.

Where a judgment has been rendered against sureties without fault on their part and after defense made in good faith by them, such judgment will be conclusive in an action by them to recover money which they paid on account thereof, if the principal had knowledge of the action, even though he was not served with process therein: Id.

The doctrine of res adjudicata does not apply to an action brought by a surety to recover from his principal such portion as has been paid upon a judgment obtained against them in a former action, in which the principal was a defendant, but in which no judgment had been taken against him for the reason that he was a nonresident of the state and did not appear in the action: Id.

Unreasonable delay in suing the principal at the request of a surety is not shown where notice to sue was given some time in February and a waiver of the notice was given on the 3d of the next month: Rotting v. Cleman, 20 Wash. 116.

Sureties cannot escape liability because of the failure of the obligee to inform them of the existence of a judgment held by him against the principal, nor because of a representation by the obligee that their responsibility as sureties would be merely nominal: Oregon Nat. Bank v. Gardner, 13 Wash. 154.

NOTICE TO SUE.—If the payee forbear suing after request in writing by surety, as provided in this section, such delay will operate to discharge the liability: Harman v. Hale, supra. A verbal request is insufficient: Id. Fraudulent conduct by payee which lulls the surety into groundless confidence and prevents him from obtaining indemnity is sufficient to discharge him: Id.

EXTENSION OF TIME.—If, after maturity of note, the holder thereof takes from the principals thereon a new note extending the time of payment of the debt, without the knowledge of the sureties, the latter are discharged: First Nat. Bank v. Harris, 7 Wash. 139.

If a contract for the extension of time of payment of a promissory note executed by two principal makers and their sureties is made with one of the principals only, such contract is valid, and, if not assented to by the sureties, will result in their discharge: Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537.

The request of a surety upon a promissory note that further time be granted him for payment will not estop him from claiming a discharge, when a contract for extension has been entered into with his principal without his knowledge or consent: Id.

If a payee, at the time of extending the time of payment of a promissory note, reserves his rights against sureties thereon, the extension will not operate as a discharge, although the sureties may not have been notified: National Bank v. Jose, 10 Wash. 185.

A mere oral request upon the part of the surety to sue, and a promise upon the part of the creditor to comply, will not constitute a waiver of the notice in writing required by this section, when it appears that the demand for suit had been made some ten months before suit was actually brought by the creditor: Kittridge v. Slegmier, 11 Wash. 3.

If, after a surety has notified the creditor to bring suit, he subsequently consents to the dismissal of the suit brought pursuant to such notice, he will remain bound without any new promise: Id.

§ 975. (5706.) Surety Discharged, When.

If the creditor or obligee shall not proceed within a reasonable time to bring his action upon such contract, and prosecute the same to judgment and execution, the surety shall be discharged from all liability thereon. [L. '54, p. 210, § 427; Cd. '81, § 645; 2 H. C., § 757.]

Cited in 13 Wash. 332; 16 Wash. 551.

§ 976. (5707.) Trial of Suretyship.

When any action is brought against two or more defendants upon a contract, any one or more of the defendants being surety for the others, the surety may, upon a written complaint to the court, cause the question of suretyship to be tried and determined upon the issues made by the parties at the trial of the cause, or at any time before or after the trial, but such proceedings shall not affect the proceedings of the plaintiff. [L. '54, p. 210, § 428; Cd. '81, § 646; 2 H. C., § 758.]

Sayward, 10 Wash. 422; McKee v. Whitworth, 15 Wash. 536; Kirkland Land etc. Co. v. Jones, 18 Wash. 407.

§ 977. (5708.) Order to Exhaust Principal's Property.

If the finding upon such issue be in favor of the surety, the court shall make an order directing the sheriff to levy the execution upon and first exhaust the property of the principal before a levy shall be made upon the property of the surety, and the clerk shall indorse a memorandum of the order upon the execution. [L. '54, p. 211, § 429; Cd. '81, § 647; 2 H. C., § 759.]

Cited in 13 Wash. 332.

§ 978. (5709.) Subrogation of Surety.

When any defendant surety in a judgment or special bail or replevin [bail], or surety in a delivery bond or replevin bond, or any person being surety in any bond whatever, has been or shall be compelled to pay any judgment, or any part thereof, or shall make any payment which is applied upon such judgment by reason of such suretyship, or when any sheriff or other officer or other surety upon his official bond shall be compelled to pay any judgment, or any part thereof, by reason of any default of such officer, except for failing to pay over money collected, or for wasting property levied upon, the judgment shall not be discharged by such payment, but shall remain in force for the use of the bail, surety, officer, or other person making such payment, and after the plaintiff is paid, so much of the judgment as remains unsatisfied may be prosecuted to execution for his use. [L. '54, p. 211, § 430; Cd. '81, § 648; 2 H. C., § 760.]

See supra, § 974, notes, notice to institute action.

Cited in 5 Wash. 696; 28 Wash. 34.

This section preserves to the surety not only the judgment, but also the benefit of any levy made on the judgment debtor's property under an execution issued on the judgment: Murray v. Meade, 5 Wash. 693, 696.

If, after levy of an execution upon the property of the judgment debtor sufficient to satisfy the judgment against him, the judgment and costs are paid by a surety of the judgment debtor, who takes an assignment of all rights of plaintiff under such judgment and execution, the surety does not stand in the position of a volunteer, but is subrogated to plaintiff's rights: Murray v. Meade, supra.

See, also, 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2650, § 1; Perkins v. North End Bank, 17 Wash. 100; Blewett v. Bash, 22 Wash. 536; Dowling v. Seattle, 22 Wash. 592.

§ 979. (5710.) Contribution Among Sureties.

Any one of several judgment defendants, and any one of several replevin bail having paid and satisfied the plaintiff, shall have the remedy provided in the last section against the codefendants and cosureties to collect of them the ratable proportion each is equitably bound to pay. [L. '54, p. 211, § 431; Cd. '81, § 649; 2 H. C., § 761.]

See supra, § 454, satisfaction of judgments.

The surety in a judgment who pays the same is not relegated to the position of a simple creditor of the principal debtor: Catheart v. Bryant, 28 Wash. 31.

As to right of surety to contribution from cosurety, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2354, §§ 63, 64; Belond v. Guy, 20 Wash. 160; Shoemake v. Stimson, 16 Wash. 1.

§ 980. (5711.) Surety Shall not Suffer Judgment, When.

No surety or his representative shall confess judgment or suffer judgment by default in any case where he is notified that there is a valid defense, if the principal will enter himself defendant to the action and tender to the surety or his representatives good security to indemnify him, to be approved by the court. [L. '54, p. 211, § 432; Cd. '81, § 650; 2 H. C., § 762.]

§ 981. (5712.) Provisions Extended to Heirs of Sureties.

The foregoing provisions of this chapter shall extend to heirs, executors, and administrators of deceased persons, but the provisions of section 975, shall not operate against persons under legal disabilities. [L. '54, p. 211, § 433; Cd. '81, § 651; 2 H. C., § 763.]

CHAPTER XII.

DIVORCE AND ALIMONY.

§ 982. (5716.) Grounds for Divorce.

Divorces may be granted by the superior court on application of the party injured, for the following causes:—

1. When the consent to the marriage of the party applying for the divorce was obtained by force or fraud, and there has been no subsequent voluntary cohabitation;

2. For adultery on the part of the wife or of the husband, when unforgiven, and application is made within one year after it shall come to the knowledge of the party applying for divorce;

3. Impotency;

4. Abandonment for one year;

5. Cruel treatment of either party by the other, or personal indignities rendering life burdensome;

6. Habitual drunkenness of either party, or the neglect or refusal of the husband to make suitable provisions for his family;

7. The imprisonment of either party in the penitentiary, if complaint is filed during the term of such imprisonment;

And a divorce may be granted upon application of either party for any other cause deemed by the court sufficient, and the court shall be satisfied that the parties can no longer live together;

8. In case of incurable chronic mania or dementia of either party, having existed for ten years or more, the court may, in its discretion, grant a divorce. [Cf. L. '54, p. 405, § 1; Cd. '81, § 2000; L. '86, p. 120, § 1; L. '91, p. 42, § 1; 2 H. C., § 764.]

See Const., Art. II, § 24: The legislature has no power to grant divorces.

See supra, § 228, service by publication.

See infra, § 5915 et seq., property rights of husband and wife.

See infra, § 5926 et seq., provisions relating to husband and wife.

See infra, § 7150 et seq., marriage, how contracted.

Cited in 7 Wash. 534; 15 Wash. 493; 24 Wash. 140, 465; 32 Wash. 403; 38 Wash. 492; 45 Wash. 186; 46 Wash. 672.

THE MARRIAGE RELATION is a status rather than a contract, and can be annulled by public authority, without impairing vested rights: Maynard v. Hill, 2 W. T. 321; affirmed in Maynard v. Hill, 125 U. S. 190.

A legislative divorce granted by the territory of Oregon, held not obnoxious to the provision of the federal constitution forbidding laws to be passed impairing the obligation of contracts: Maynard v. Valentine, 2 W. T. 3.

Paragraph 8 of this section, relating to incurable chronic mania or dementia, is constitutional and not void as against public policy: Hickman v. Hickman, 1 Wash. 257.

Grounds for divorce: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 956-958, §§ 4-10; Stanley v. Stanley, 24 Wash. 460; Page v. Page, 43 Wash. 293; McAllister v. McAllister, 28 Wash. 613; Branscheid v. Branscheid, 27 Wash. 368; Wheeler v. Wheeler, 38 Wash. 491; Jackson v. Jackson, 17 Wash. 687; Kimble v. Kimble, 17 Wash. 75; Clemans v. Western, 39 Wash. 290; Lamere v. Lamere, 41 Wash. 475; Buell v. Buell, 42 Wash. 277; Colvin v. Colvin, 15 Wash. 490; Poler v. Poler, 32 Wash. 400.

Where the husband, in an action for a divorce, establishes that his wife, without cause, abandoned him and went to another state, where she continued to live for ten years, refusing to live with him in this state, the court, as a matter of law, must grant a divorce on the statutory ground of abandonment for more than one year, notwithstanding the fact that the husband made no effort to have her return: Patterson v. Patterson, 45 Wash. 296.

Nonsupport by an able-bodied husband, earning good wages, which were spent for liquor, without any excuse for the neglect, constitutes statutory ground for a divorce: Seigmund v. Seigmund, 46 Wash. 572.

PLEADINGS.—No binding order can be made upon a person in no manner made a party to a divorce suit: Madison v. Madison, 1 W. T. 60.

Service by publication: See Goore v. Goore, 24 Wash. 139.

It is not an improper joinder of causes of action in a suit for divorce and alimony to seek to set aside at the same time certain fraudulent conveyances on which the award of alimony would be dependent: Prouty v. Prouty, 4 Wash. 174.

Refusal to strike allegations in defendant's answer setting forth the physical condition of the defendant and the present and prospective financial condition of the parties, although not constituting a defense to the action, is not prejudicial error: Lee v. Lee, 3 Wash. 236, 239.

Although the court may have erred in denying the defendant's motion to dismiss an action for divorce at close of plaintiff's testimony, it is cured by the defendant thereafter proceeding with the case: Scoland v. Scoland, 4 Wash. 118.

A decree of divorce granted the wife on her cross-complaint will not be set aside after three years, for want of jurisdiction, on the ground of her nonresidence, as her appearance estopped her from denying jurisdiction: Ferry v. Ferry, 9 Wash. 239.

While new and separate items of complaint, sufficient in themselves as grounds for divorce, cannot be proved unless pleaded, minor circumstances and general conduct which disclose the animus of defendant in the commission of the acts charged may be shown: Lee v. Lee, supra.

In an action for divorce, where the answer alleges that plaintiff had since contracted marriage with another man, a reply thereto is not demurrable where it admits such subsequent marriage but excuses the same by showing that plaintiff was misled thereto by information that the defendant was a married man at the time he married the plaintiff, and that plaintiff was informed and then believed that no divorce from defendant was necessary: Potter v. Potter, 45 Wash. 401.

CRUELTY: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 957, § 7. Acts of cruelty occurring subsequent to the action for divorce should be alleged by supplemental complaint: Scoland v. Scoland, supra.

In an action by a wife for divorce on the ground of her husband's cruelty in publicly accusing her of unchastity, where the evidence is conflicting, and it appears that his conduct was stimulated by jealousy, for which the act of the wife gave some occasion, the findings of the trial court against the plaintiff will not be disturbed: Blurock v. Blurock, 4 Wash. 495.

If the evidence in an action on the ground of cruelty shows that the husband was often violent in the treatment of his wife, forcibly laying hands upon and striking her at times, called her vile and abusive names in the presence of their minor children, a decree granting a divorce will be sustained: Dennison v. Dennison, 4 Wash. 705.

In an action for divorce on the grounds of the husband's cruelty in maliciously and publicly charging the wife with adultery, a decree in her favor will not be reversed, although her indiscreet conduct in receiving visits of a man to whom her husband made objections was the direct cause of his accusations: Scoland v. Scoland, supra.

If the uncontradicted testimony shows frequent intoxication of husband, and at such times he is abusive, and is guilty of insulting conduct toward her, frequent threats of violence, and sometimes violently assaulting her, accusing her of infidelity, etc., she is entitled to a decree of divorce on the ground of cruelty: Lee v. Lee, supra.

Personal violence is not necessary to constitute cruel treatment as a ground for divorce, and the evidence is sufficient to warrant a decree where it appears that the husband for seven years refused to speak to his wife or children except when absolutely necessary, made unjust charges of improper conduct, insulted and humiliated her guests, and made himself so disagreeable that the wife's life was rendered miserable and the legitimate ends and objects of matrimony had ceased to exist: Sullivan v. Sullivan, 52 Wash. 160.

That the parties lived in a constant state of turmoil, and that the husband repeatedly, in the presence of strangers, accused the wife of infidelity without any justification, warrants a divorce on the ground of cruelty and personal indignities rendering life burdensome: Markowski v. Markowski, 44 Wash. 594.

The statutory ground of "personal indignities rendering life burdensome" authorizes a divorce, although the conduct does not fall within the accepted definition of cruel treatment: Sullivan v. Sullivan, 52 Wash. 160.

ADULTERY.—In charging adultery, it is necessary to allege time and place of the act, and make proof with some particularity of circumstances going to show its commission: Dennison v. Dennison, supra.

Cohabitation will not be presumed where the wife, after bringing suit, continues to reside in the home of herself and defendant, but testifies that she slept separate and apart from him and no longer lived with him as his wife: Id., 708.

A complaint for divorce on the ground of adultery which fails to allege that the last act was committed within one year before the commencement of the action and was unforgiven, is insufficient; but such defect is cured by judgment, where proof showing such fact has been admitted without objection: Burdick v. Burdick, 7 Wash. 533.

Where condonation of acts of adultery was conditional, a breach of the condition works a revival of the offense: Cozard v. Cozard, 48 Wash. 124.

PROOF.—A divorce will not be denied because the evidence is conflicting as to the misconduct of the wife being the cause of the husband's jealousy and mistreatment of her: Dennison v. Dennison, supra.

A decree should not be granted when the evidence discloses no other ground for divorce than that the parties will not live together as husband and wife: McDougall v. McDougall, 5 Wash. 802.

It is proper to reject proof as to a matter not alleged, or not in issue: See Branscheid v. Branscheid, 27 Wash. 368; Poler v. Poler, 32 Wash. 400.

A wife can be a witness in her own behalf in an action for divorce, and is not required to prove every material fact alleged in her complaint by testimony in addition to her own: Lee v. Lee, supra.

This section, subdivision 7, lodges a discretionary power in the court which must be exercised in a sound and legal manner so as to conduce to domestic harmony and the peace and morality of society: Colvin v. Colvin, 15 Wash. 490.

A court is warranted in refusing a divorce, although finding that the parties cannot live peaceably together, when such failure is due to their own obstinacy and stubbornness, and both parties are equally in fault: Id.

Plaintiff is not entitled to a divorce upon the ground of abuse, when the only evidence to support the action is proof, in the most general terms, of abusive language on the part of defendant, and plaintiff's own testimony shows that he was alike culpable: Luce v. Luce, 15 Wash. 608.

Weight and sufficiency of evidence to establish cause for divorce: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 962, §§ 32-39; Van Alstine v. Van Alstine, 23 Wash. 310; Summerville v. Summerville, 31 Wash. 411; O'Sullivan v. O'Sullivan, 35 Wash. 481; Richardson v. Richardson, 36 Wash. 272; Page v. Page, 43 Wash. 293; Stanley v. Stanley, 24 Wash. 460; Long v. Long, 38 Wash. 18.

It is error to deny the wife a divorce on the ground of cruelty, where it appears from the testimony of disinterested witnesses that the husband habitually accused her of infidelity, that he struck her in the face and kicked her until she was black and blue, and he admitted that he slapped her and administered corporal punishment when he considered it merited: Guerin v. Guerin, 45 Wash. 486.

Where, in an action for a divorce, the evidence shows an absolute abandonment for more than one year, and failure to provide any support for wife or children, by a man of capacity and well able so to do, bringing the case completely within the terms of the statute, there is no discretion, and it is error to refuse a divorce on the ground that the wife had not demanded support, or urged his return, and appeared indifferent as to his maintaining or living with her: Swain v. Swain, 45 Wash. 184.

When there is any doubt as to the facts rendering a marriage void, either party may apply for, and on proof obtain, a decree of nullity of marriage. [Cf. L. '54, p. 406, § 2; Cd. '81, § 2001; L. '91, p. 42, § 2; 2 H. C., § 765.]

See infra, § 7151 et seq., marriage, how contracted.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1800, § 11; Arey v. Arey, 22 Wash. 61.

The statute providing for summons by publication against nonresidents in actions for divorce authorizes such summons in actions for annulment of the marriage, the legislature having invariably treated the two actions as belonging to one subject and established the same practice in both; and a legislative act treating of the same together does not embrace more than one subject, annulment being germane to a title which referred only to divorce: Piper v. Piper, 46 Wash. 671.

Where it appears that a woman entered into a contract of marriage in good faith without knowledge that the man was incompetent by reason of having another wife, the court has power to annul the marriage without regard to the form of action commenced by her for redress: Buckley v. Buckley, 50 Wash. 213.

§ 984. (5718.) Resident may Apply, When.

Any person who has been a resident of the state for one year may file his or her complaint for a divorce or decree of nullity of marriage, under oath, in the superior court of the county where he or she may reside, and like proceedings shall be had thereon as in civil cases. [L. '54, p. 406, § 3; Cd. '81, § 2002; 2 H. C., § 766.]

See supra, § 281, verification of pleadings.

Cited in 7 Wash. 534; 14 Wash. 116; 23 Wash. 311; 30 Wash. 640; 46 Wash. 672; 50 Wash. 216.

Sufficiency of residence or domicile of parties to give jurisdiction: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 959, § 16; Dormitzer v. German Sav. & Loan Soc., 23 Wash. 132; Van Alstine v. Van Alstine, 23 Wash. 310; Kane v. Kane, 35 Wash. 517.

If the husband has been domiciled in the state for one year, the wife may maintain an action for divorce, though she did not come to the state until some months after her husband, as her residence dates from the commencement of his: Prouty v. Prouty, 4 Wash. 174.

In an action for divorce plaintiff must affirmatively plead, and satisfactorily prove, prior residence in the state for the period of a year or more: Luce v. Luce, 15 Wash. 608.

The fact that plaintiff left his home in the East and came to the state of Washington in search of a location, afterward going to the state of California in pursuit of the same object, and then returning to the state of Washington, where he settled and went into business, is not sufficient to establish his residence here before his return from California, in the absence of proof of any intention to make a definite location in this state prior to his actual settlement: Id.

As to venue: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 960, § 17; Bachelor v. Bachelor, 30 Wash. 639; State ex rel. Clark v. Neal, 19 Wash. 642; Kane v. Kane, 35 Wash. 517.

This section requiring an action for divorce to be commenced in the county in which the plaintiff resides, the defendant is not entitled, under § 207, supra, to have the cause removed for trial to another county, in which he maintains his residence: Pfueller v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 115.

A verification of a complaint for divorce to the effect that plaintiff believes its contents to be true is a sufficient compliance with the requirements of this section, that it be made "under oath": Burdick v. Burdick, 7 Wash. 533.

An action for divorce is purely personal, and abates upon the death of either party: Dwyer v. Nolan, 40 Wash. 459.

An allegation of plaintiff's residence in this state for one year, and in the county at the time suit is brought, is essential to jurisdiction in an action for divorce: Ramsdell v. Ramsdell, 47 Wash. 444.

§ 985. (5719.) Proof Required.

When the defendant does not answer, or, answering, admits the allegations in the complaint, the court shall require proof before granting a divorce or a decree of nullity. [L. '54, p. 406, § 4; Cd. '81, § 2003; 2 H. C., § 767.]

See notes to § 982, supra.

§ 986. (5720.) Defendant may File Cross-complaint.

The defendant may, in addition to his or her answer, file [a] cross-complaint for divorce, and the court may, in such case, grant a divorce, if any, in favor of either party, or as an [on] application of both. [L. '54, p. 406, § 5; Cd. '81, § 2004; 2 H. C., § 768.]

Cited in 23 Wash. 312; 34 Wash. 646.

§ 987. (5721.) Both Parties Deemed Applying.

Both parties shall be considered as applying for a divorce when the complaints of both are filed in the same action, and when the defendant, by his or her cross-complaint, also applies for divorce. [Cf. L. '54, p. 406, § 6; Cd. '81, § 2005; L. '91, p. 42, § 3; 2 H. C., § 769.]

Rem. Wash. Code, Vol. I.—40

§ 988. (5722.) Interlocutory Orders.

Pending the action for divorce the court, or judge thereof, may make, and by attachment enforce, such orders for the disposition of the persons, property and children of the parties as may be deemed right and proper, and such orders relative to the expenses of such action as will insure to the wife an efficient preparation of her case, and a fair and impartial trial thereof; and on decreeing or refusing to decree a divorce, the court may, in its discretion, require the husband to pay all reasonable expenses of the wife in the prosecution or defense of the action, when such divorce has been granted or refused, and give judgment therefor. [Cf. L. '54, p. 406, § 7; Cd. '81, § 2006; L. '91, p. 43, § 4; 2 H. C., § 770.]

Alimony and allowances pendente lite: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 968, §§ 62-68; Bachelor v. Bachelor, 30 Wash. 639; Trumble v. Trumble, 26 Wash. 132; Kane v. Kane, 35 Wash. 517; Arey v. Arey, 22 Wash. 261; In re Cave, 26 Wash. 213; State ex rel. Clark v. Neal, 19 Wash. 642; Willey v. Willey, 22 Wash. 115.

If the wife has been decreed a monthly allowance for support of herself and children, and the same made a lien on husband's real estate, upon failure of husband to make the payments, the lien may be foreclosed and the monthly payments converted into a gross sum: King v. Miller, 10 Wash. 274; and the decree may direct such gross sum to be paid the wife without restriction as to its disposition: Id.

The supreme court will not review the action of the trial court in refusing to order the defendant husband to pay as costs the fees of officers and of all witnesses of plaintiff, and a sufficient amount to enable her to prosecute her appeal: Lee v. Lee, 3 Wash. 236.

If a decree of divorce adjudges the wife a certain sum of money, upon which her attorneys file a lien for their fees, the court may summon the attorneys before it to determine what liens they have, and what would be a reasonable fee for their services: State ex rel. Trumbull v. Sachs, 3 Wash. 371.

An action does not lie in this state to recover temporary alimony upon an order therefor made in an action of divorce in another state, although appealable as a final order under the laws of such state; since it is subject at all times to modification in the foreign court: Van Horn v. Van Horn, 48 Wash. 388.

Counsel fees are a part of the costs in divorce proceedings and the court may allow them as such, and may also allow other reasonable expenses incurred by the wife in preparing for trial: Thorndyke v. Thorndyke, 1 W. T. 175.

Expenses contemplated by this chapter may be allowed by the court in any disposition it may make of the case: Id.; and when the action has been dismissed without trial, the appellate court will sometimes reduce the counsel fees allowed, but will not reduce other allowances of costs peculiarly within the knowledge of the lower court: Id.

A judgment for attorneys' fees against defendants charged, in an action for divorce, with conspiring with the husband to prevent plaintiff from obtaining alimony is unwarranted; the statute only authorizes an attorney's fee as against the husband: Prouty v. Prouty, 4 Wash. 174.

The allowance by the court of three hundred dollars as counsel fees to the wife, in refusing the husband's petition for divorce, is not an abuse of the discretion reposed in the court in such matters, even though it may appear that a division of property had been made between the parties and that the wife was amply able to bear the expenses attending the action: Colvin v. Colvin, 15 Wash. 490.

Wife's traveling expenses and disbursements may be allowed: Thorndyke v. Thorndyke, supra. See Madison v. Madison, 1 W. T. 60.

A proper case for the allowance of suit money and alimony pending appeal is shown where the wife secured a judgment of divorce, with alimony, which was superseded on the husband's appeal from the allowance of alimony, and the wife was without means of support for herself and child: Holcomb v. Holcomb, 49 Wash. 498.

In fixing suit money and attorney's fees pending appeal in a divorce case, the supreme court will grant only a fair amount for necessary expenses, leaving the ultimate amount of the attorney's fees to the final adjudication of the case: Id.

A sufficient showing is made for the allowance of alimony and suit money to a wife, pending the husband's appeal from a judgment disposing of community property, where he has control of a substantial amount of property and the wife is without means of support for herself and minor children, or for legal services: Sullivan v. Sullivan, 49 Wash. 508.

What are sufficient allowances for suit money and temporary alimony: See Id.

CUSTODY AND SUPPORT OF CHILDREN: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 975-977, §§ 96-107; Goore v. Goore, 24 Wash. 139; Gibson v. Gibson, 18 Wash. 489; Ditmar v. Ditmar, 27 Wash. 13; Richardson v. Richardson, 36 Wash. 272; Kane v. Miller, 40 Wash. 125; State v. Rhoades, 29 Wash. 61; Fickett v. Fickett, 39 Wash. 38; Smith v. Smith, 18 Wash. 158; Koontz v. Koontz, 25 Wash. 336; Irving v. Irving, 26 Wash. 122; In re Neff, 20 Wash. 652.

An order of the district court awarding the custody and fixing the allowance for the support of a child is merely interlocutory and not subject to review: Tierney v. Tierney, 1 W. T. 568.

A decree awarding the custody of the children to the wife, although her conduct may not be entirely blameless, will be upheld where it is shown that the husband is dissipated and has treated his wife harshly and cruelly: Fields v. Fields, 2 Wash. 441.

Where, after rendition of decree of divorce awarding the minor children to the mother, a stipulation for modification of the decree so as to award custody to the father has been executed between the parents and possession of the children given the father thereunder, he is rightfully entitled to the children, although in fact the modification of decree has never been secured: Ackley v. Burchard, 11 Wash. 128.

A child of the parties is a ward of the court: Tierney v. Tierney, supra; and the welfare of the children is the only thing to be considered in their disposition by the court: Kentzler v. Kentzler, 3 Wash. 166, 170.

In an action of habeas corpus for the possession of minor children brought by the mother against the father, based upon an alleged decree of divorce in another state awarding her the custody of the children, where it appears that the father is better suited and able to care for them and that the mother is unsuited morally and is financially unable to care for them, a decree awarding her the custody is erroneous: Id.

The care and custody of children of tender years should be awarded to the mother upon the granting of a divorce, when it is not made to appear that the mother is not a proper person to have the care and control of her children: Smith v. Smith, 15 Wash. 237.

Upon application of a mother for modification of a decree of divorce awarding the custody of a child to a stranger, to which she had consented owing to her then poor health, proof that she is now able to provide for the child authorizes the court to award her its custody without any showing that the welfare of the child demands the change: Curtis v. Curtis, 46 Wash. 664.

Specific acts which occurred long before her marriage, and then known to her husband, are not sufficient to show her unfitness to have custody of the child: Id.

A stipulation in a divorce case as to the custody of a child amounts to no more than evidence, and does not estop the party from subsequently moving for a modification of the decree: Id.

An order of the trial court refusing to change the custody of a child awarded to plaintiff by a decree of divorce, but modifying the same to permit visits, will not be disturbed on appeal where it does not clearly appear that the best interests of the child were not served by such modification: Chappell v. Chappell, 45 Wash. 652.

In granting a divorce on the ground of adultery of the wife, a decree granting the custody of the children to the husband is warranted where the wife's conduct showed that she was not a proper person to have their custody: Cozard v. Cozard, 48 Wash. 124.

Order or decree to support children: See Fickett v. Fickett, 39 Wash. 38.

In an action brought by a wife for a divorce, the custody of a minor child, with permanent alimony for its support, should be awarded to the mother, where it affirmatively appears from the father's testimony that he is not qualified to have control of the child, and affidavits for a new trial show the mother to be a fit person, and there is no showing to the contrary: Guerin v. Guerin, 45 Wash. 486.

A wife, divorced upon the ground of adultery, cannot complain that the court had no power to award one-half of the community property to four minor children, whose custody was awarded to the husband, since the court could have awarded it to the husband for their support: Cozard v. Cozard, 48 Wash. 124.

The husband is not liable upon the contract of his wife to pay attorney's fees for the prosecution of a divorce, the same not being "necessaries" in view of the liberal provisions of this section: Zent v. Sullivan, 47 Wash. 315.

§ 989. (5723.) Decree—Disposition of Property.

In granting a divorce, the court shall also make such disposition of the property of the parties as shall appear just and equitable, having regard to the respective merits of the parties, and to the condition in which they will be left by such divorce, and to the party through whom the property was acquired, and to the burdens imposed upon it for the benefit of the children, and shall make provision for the guardianship, custody, and support and education of the minor children of such marriage. [Cf. L. '54, p. 406, § 8; Cd. '81, § 2007; L. '91, p. 43, § 5; 2 H. C., § 771.]

Disposition of property: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 971, §§ 78-83; Richardson v. Richardson, 36 Wash. 272; O'Sullivan v. O'Sullivan, 35 Wash. 481; Goore v. Goore, 24 Wash. 139; Cave, In re, 26 Wash. 213; Adams v. Abbott, 21 Wash. 29; Carney v. Simpson, 15 Wash. 277; Van Brocklin v. Wood, 38 Wash. 384; Mitchell v. Mitchell, 39 Wash. 431; Miller v. Miller, 38 Wash. 605; Clemans v. Western, 39 Wash. 290; Budlong v. Budlong, 43 Wash. 359; State ex rel. Brown v. Brown, 31 Wash. 397.

In decreeing a divorce, the court has power, under this section, to make such division of the joint and separate property of husband or wife as shall, in its discretion, appear just and equitable: Webster v. Webster, 2 Wash. 417; followed in Fields v. Fields, 2 Wash. 443; Morgan v. Morgan, 10 Wash. 118.

In order to obtain a division of the property of the spouses the parties must bring into court all their property, and property not so brought in cannot be distributed: Webster v. Webster, supra, 420; Philbrick v. Andrews, 8 Wash. 8.

A decree can make no disposition of the property of the spouses where it is not brought before the court, and failure to do so renders community property the common property of the divorced parties, and waives the right to which the parties might be entitled on considering the merits in the divorce action: Ambrose v. Moore, 46 Wash. 463.

The law does not require an equal division of the property, but that it be "just and equitable": Webster v. Webster, supra.

If the property of the husband has not been brought into the case, a decree of divorce in the wife's favor for alimony creates no specific lien on the property; and the husband's right to homestead exemption is paramount to the lien created by an execution levy thereunder: Philbrick v. Andrews, 8 Wash. 7.

The separate property of the spouses is simply a circumstance for the court to take into consideration in making the division: Webster v. Webster, supra, 420.

The court has power to divide all the property, whether it be community or separate property, and it will consider through whom it was acquired merely as a circumstance to aid it in making an equitable division: Fields v. Fields, 2 Wash. 441.

Where the only property of the husband within the jurisdiction of the court is land which he has fraudulently conveyed, the same may be adjudged to plaintiff on decree of divorce: Prouty v. Prouty, 4 Wash. 174.

Injunction against disposition of property: See Groen, In re, 22 Wash. 53.

Upon awarding a divorce to a husband on the ground of abandonment, the husband is liberally provided for in the division of the property, having regard to the respective merits of the parties, their condition, and the party through whom the property was acquired, as required by this section, where it appears that at the time of their marriage, he was a young man in good health, able to work and worth $2,000, while the wife was considerably older and possessed of an estate worth $70,000; that she provided all his living expenses for five years, while he did nothing but look after investments, and the parties having separated, the husband was awarded an estate valued at $23,000 and the wife an estate valued at $92,000: Kolbe v. Kolbe, 50 Wash. 298.

Where the courts of a sister state grant a divorce to a wife domiciled there without disposing of the property of the husband situated in this state, where the husband resides, the courts of this state may thereafter, in any appropriate action, divide the property as authorized by this section, in the case of a divorce granted here; and the wife cannot claim an absolute right to one-half thereof as between tenants in common: Buckley v. Buckley, 50 Wash. 213.

A decree of divorce procured by the wife, which includes a division of property, will not be set aside on the ground of fraud in that the division was based upon the valuation thereof represented by the husband as true, while in fact it was but one-fifth of the actual value, when the wife was fully acquainted with the various parcels and could have readily discovered their value by inquiry: Ferry v. Ferry, 9 Wash. 239.

Although a decree of divorce may conclude property rights between the parties, a proceeding may be subsequently brought to obtain an allowance or provision for the support of minor children: King v. Miller, 10 Wash. 274.

The conveyance by the husband to his brother prior to an action for divorce of all his real and personal property, including his home, without sufficient consideration, is fraudulent as against the wife: Fields v. Fields, 2 Wash. 441, 444.

The court below in the disposition of the property may require the husband to pay the wife's counsel fees, and decree that a certain sum of money shall be put in the hands of a trustee, the interest to be paid her at intervals, during her life, and at her death the principal to revert to the husband: Madison v. Madison, 1 W. T. 60, 62.

The right of a wife under § 4 of the donation act is merely inchoate, and a divorce prior to a compliance with the requirements of the act dispossesses her of any interest in the property: Maynard v. Valentine, 2 W. T. 3; see McSorley v. Hill, 2 Wash. 638; Maynard v. Hill, 125 U. S. 216.

Upon granting a divorce to the wife, the court may award all the community property, of the value of $1,150, to the wife, where such provision is necessary for her support: Markowski v. Markowski, 44 Wash. 594.

Upon granting a wife a divorce, the court may award all the property, community and separate, to the wife: Ramsdell v. Ramsdell, 47 Wash. 444.

Upon granting a divorce to the wife, who is awarded the custody of a minor child, the court may, although there is no property, give judgment for monthly alimony for the support of both wife and child, under this section: Claiborne v. Claiborne, 47 Wash. 200.

Upon granting a divorce to a husband and awarding him the custody of four children, it is not an abuse of discretion to award to him one-half of the community property, valued at $2,500, and one-half to the children, he to pay the wife $250: Cozard v. Cozard, 48 Wash. 124.

Modification, vacating or setting aside of decree: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 971, §§ 75, 76; Trumble v. Trumble, 26 Wash. 133; Mahncke v. Mahncke, 43 Wash. 425.

Where a decree of divorce awards all the community personal property in the state to the wife, the jurisdiction over all of the property so awarded must be presumed in the absence of a showing to the contrary, and replevin by the husband will not lie to recover a portion of such personal property sold by the wife to a third party: Carney v. Simpson, 15 Wash. 227.

Where the wife has sold community personal property before the entry of a decree of divorce awarding it to her, and the husband has begun an action to recover same pending the divorce proceedings, he is merely entitled to a judgment for the costs of his action and for damages for detention of the property, when the decree in the divorce proceedings awards the property to the wife: Id.

The statutes for the allowance of alimony in an action for divorce are not exclusive: Kimble v. Kimble, 17 Wash. 75.

Enforcement of order or decree: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 973, §§ 85-91; State ex rel. Smith v. Smith, 17 Wash. 430; State ex rel. Smith v. McClinton, 17 Wash. 45; State ex rel. Ditmar v. Ditmar, 19 Wash. 324; In re Cave, 26 Wash. 213; In re Van Alstine, 21 Wash. 194; State ex rel. Geiger v. Geiger, 20 Wash. 181; Metler v. Metler, 32 Wash. 494; Trumble v. Trumble, 26 Wash. 133.

In an action for the annulment of a marriage entered into in good faith by the woman without knowledge that the defendant had another wife, the court has jurisdiction to dispose of the property as in the case of a divorce, under this section, awarding the plaintiff such proportion as would be just and equitable, where she materially helped to acquire and save it: Buckley v. Buckley, 50 Wash. 213.

An oral announcement for a decree of divorce and disposition of property, followed by the clerk's minutes thereof, which did not state the grounds for the divorce or the disposition of the property, cannot be regarded as a decree, where written findings and a decree were prepared but not signed by the judge or entered because the parties had made up their differences and resumed their marriage relations: State ex rel. Tufton v. Superior Court, 46 Wash. 395.

Permanent alimony: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 969, §§ 68-74; In re Cave, 26 Wash. 213; Turner v. Turner, 33 Wash. 118; Timm v. Timm, 34 Wash. 228; Richardson v. Richardson, 36 Wash. 272; Adams v. Abbott, 21 Wash. 29; Trumble v. Trumble, 26 Wash. 132; Kane v. Kane, 35 Wash. 517.

As to opening or setting aside default decree, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 965, §§ 45-49; McCord v. McCord, 24 Wash. 529; Metler v. Metler, 32 Wash. 494; McDonald v. McDonald, 34 Wash. 292; State ex rel. Weidert v. Superior Court, 36 Wash. 81; Peyton v. Peyton, 28 Wash. 278; Turner v. Turner, 33 Wash. 118; Winstone v. Winstone, 40 Wash. 272; Dwyer v. Nolan, 40 Wash. 459.

A plaintiff in a divorce case, who, after oral announcement of a decree in her favor, settled her differences with her husband and requested that the decree be not entered, and three years later secured another decree of divorce making a different disposition of the property, is not entitled to have a nunc pro tunc order for the entry of the first decree; since such an order to correct a record is discretionary, and since she abandoned her right thereto, and third persons have acquired interests under the subsequent decree which would be injuriously affected: State ex rel. Tufton v. Superior Court, 46 Wash. 395.

§ 990. (5724.) Divorce Dissolves Marriage as to Both Parties.

Whenever judgment of divorce from the bonds of matrimony is granted by the courts in this state, the court shall order a full and complete dissolution of the marriage as to both parties. [Cf. L. '54, p. 407, § 9; Cd. '81, § 2008; L. '91, p. 43, § 6; 2 H. C., § 772.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 703, 705; 22 Wash. 116.

As to effect given foreign divorces, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 978, § 110; Dormitzer v. German Sav. & Loan Soc., 23 Wash. 132; Trowbridge v. Spinning, 23 Wash. 48.

Where, upon service of summons by publication, a divorce is secured in a sister state, which was the domicile of the marital relation and the actual bona fide home of the plaintiff, the decree is entitled to recognition in every other state, under the full faith and credit clause of the constitution, or at least will be accorded credit in this state as a matter of comity: Buckley v. Buckley, 50 Wash. 213.

§ 991. (5725.) Remarriage Pending Appeal Unlawful.

Whenever a judgment or decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony is granted by the courts in this state, neither party thereto shall be capable of contracting marriage with a third person until the period in which an appeal may be taken has expired; and in case an appeal is taken then neither party shall intermarry with a third person until the cause has been fully determined; and it shall be unlawful for any divorced person to intermarry with any third person within six months from the date of the entry of the judgment or decree granting the divorce, or in case an appeal is taken it shall be unlawful to contract such marriage until judgment be rendered on said appeal in the supreme court. All marriages contracted in violation of the provisions of this section, whether contracted within or without this state, shall be void. [L. '93, p. 225, § 1.]

Compare 1 Hill's Code, § 772, "proviso."
See notes to next section.

§ 992. (5726.) Decree to Prohibit Remarriage Within Six Months.

Whenever judgment or decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony is granted by any court in this state, such judgment or decree shall expressly prohibit the plaintiff and defendant named therein from contracting any marriage with third parties within the period of six months from the date of the entry of such judgment or decree, and in case either party to said decree shall remarry within said period, he or she shall be deemed guilty of contempt of the court granting such judgment or decree, and shall be proceeded against and punished in like manner as in other cases of contempt of court. [L. '93, p. 226, § 2.]

If a divorce has been granted and the parties have caused a marriage between them to be solemnized within six months thereafter, they are not husband and wife, although living together as such after the period within which they could lawfully contract marriage: In re Smith, 4 Wash. 702.

But the statute has no extraterritorial effect: See Willey v. Willey, 22 Wash. 115.

The preceding section prohibiting divorced parties from remarrying within six months after the decree, either within or without the state, renders a remarriage during such period void, if contracted in this state, or if contracted in a foreign country by persons domiciled in this state with the purpose of evading the laws of this state; but if the parties were, at the time of the remarriage, domiciled in the foreign country, the marriage would be valid here if valid in such country, our statute having no extraterritorial force as to marriage by nonresidents: State v. Fenn, 47 Wash. 561.

§ 993. (5727.) Prosecuting Attorney to Prosecute for Contempt.

It shall be the duty of the prosecuting attorney of each county to prosecute for contempt any person violating the provisions of any decree mentioned in the last section rendered by any superior court of his county. [L. '93, p. 226, § 3.]

See notes to § 989, supra.

§ 994. (5728.) Name of Wife Changed.

In all actions for a divorce, if a divorce be granted, the court may, for just and reasonable cause, change the name of the female, who shall thereafter be known and called by such name as the court shall in its order or decree appoint. [Cf. L. '54, p. 407, § 9; Cd. '81, § 2009; L. '91, p. 43, § 7; 2 H. C., § 773.]

See infra, § 998, change of name.

§ 995. (5729.) Prosecuting Attorney to Resist Undefended Actions.

Whenever a complaint for divorce remains undefended, it shall be the duty of the prosecuting attorney to resist such complaint; but no prosecuting attorney shall be employed in or allowed to conduct any action for a divorce on the part of the plaintiff or applicant in the courts of this state; nor shall any prosecuting attorney be allowed to resist a complaint for divorce in those cases where the defendant does not appear, or appearing admits the allegations of the complaint, if the attorney for the applicant is a partner of such prosecuting attorney in the practice of law, or keeps his office with such prosecuting attorney; but in all such cases the court or judge before whom the case is to be heard shall appoint an attorney to resist the complaint, who shall be entitled to the compensation allowed by law to prosecuting attorneys in such cases. [Cf. L. '54, p. 407, § 10; L. '79, p. 94, § 10; Cd. '81, § 2010; L. '85, p. 62, § 10; L. '91, p. 43, § 8; 2 H. C., § 774.]

Compare § 229, 1 Hill's Code, omitted as superseded by the above section.

§ 996. (5730.) Trial—Appeal—Proceedings.

In all instances where the superior court shall grant a divorce, it shall be for cause distinctly stated in the complaint, and proved, and found by the court, and the court shall state the facts found upon which the decree is rendered; and when either party shall signify a desire to appeal from any of the orders of the court, in the disposition of the property or of the children, the court shall certify the evidence adduced on the trial, and the supreme court shall be possessed of the whole case as fully as the superior court was, and may reverse, modify, or affirm said judgment, according to the real merits of the case. [L. '60, p. 320, § 12; Cd. '81, § 2011; 2 H. C., § 775.]

See supra, § 982, notes.

Cited in 23 Wash. 312; 46 Wash. 398; 49 Wash. 500.

An action for divorce is a proceeding at law; the findings of the lower court stand as the verdict of the jury, not to be set aside unless manifestly contrary to the evidence: Tierney v. Tierney, 1 W. T. 568.

The divorce act of 1863, forbidding the reversal of any final order of the district court in divorce, is to such extent in violation of § 9 of the organic act and void: Id.

The question of former alleged marriage of wife cannot be reviewed on appeal in a divorce case where the husband bases his motion for a new trial upon an affidavit of newly discovered evidence which does not show how or by whom he expects to prove such facts: Id.

Appeal: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 966, §§ 51-54; McDonald v. McDonald, 34 Wash. 293; McCord v. McCord, 24 Wash. 529; Lee v. Lee, 19 Wash. 355; Poler v. Poler, 32 Wash. 400; Bounds v. Bounds, 23 Wash. 593; Swift v. Swift, 39 Wash. 600; Wainwright v. Wainwright, 40 Wash. 117; Mitchell v. Mitchell, 39 Wash. 431; Miller v. Miller, 38 Wash. 605.

Appeal from decree as to disposition of property or payment of alimony: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 974, § 93; McAllister v. McAllister, 28 Wash. 613; In re Cave, 26 Wash. 213; Mahncke v. Mahncke, 43 Wash. 425.

Where, upon appeal in an action for divorce, the supreme court remanded the case with directions to take further evidence as to the value of the property, and either make division thereof or award the wife a money judgment for her share, it is error to decree the division of a tract of land, the value of which was dependent upon an irrigating ditch carrying an insufficient supply of water, which it would be impractical to use jointly for separate portions of the tract, as such division would be detrimental to the interests of both parties; and a proper money judgment should be awarded to the wife in lieu of a share in such real estate: Richardson v. Richardson, 44 Wash. 431.

Upon appeal from that portion of a decree of divorce awarding alimony and directing the surrender of property, the appellant has a statutory right to a supersedeas pending appeal; and mandamus will lie to compel the superior court to fix the amount of the supersedeas bond: State ex rel. Holcomb v. Yakey, 48 Wash. 419.

§ 997. (5731.) Practice—Trial Without Jury.

The practice in civil actions shall govern all proceedings in the trial of actions for divorce, except that trial by jury is dispensed with. [L. '60, p. 320, § 13; Cd. '81, § 2012; L. '91, p. 44, § 9; 2 H. C., § 776.]

Trial or hearing: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 964, §§ 40-42.

Under the provision of the statute dispensing with trial by jury in divorce cases, fraudulent vendees of the husband are not entitled to have the charge of their conspiracy with him to defraud his wife tried by a jury: Prouty v. Prouty, 4 Wash. 174.

The requirement in the practice act of 1854, that in case of waiver of a jury the trial court shall render its decision in writing, stating conclusions of law and facts separately, does not apply in divorce cases: Madison v. Madison, 1 W. T. 60; neither party can demand a jury in a divorce case: Id. 61.

CHAPTER XIII.

CHANGE OF NAME.

§ 998. (5733.) Name may be Changed upon Petition.

Any person desiring a change of his name or that of his child or ward may apply therefor to the superior court of the county in which he resides, by petition setting forth the reasons for such change; thereupon such court, in its discretion, may order a change of the name, and thenceforth the new name shall be in place of the former. [L. '77, p. 132, § 638; Cd. '81, § 635; 2 H. C., § 777.]

See supra, § 994, change of name in divorce.

CHAPTER I.

CERTIORARI, MANDAMUS AND PROHIBITION.

§ 999. (5738.) Parties, How Designated.

The party prosecuting a special proceeding may be known as the plaintiff and the adverse party as the defendant. [L. '95, p. 114, § 1.]

Cited in 15 Wash. 92; 16 Wash. 353; 21 Wash. 454; 24 Wash. 546; 50 Wash. 96.

As to statutory use of the term "proceeding," see State v. Gordon, 8 Wash. 488, 490.

Under this section, it is not error to refuse to quash a proceeding commenced in the name of the real party in interest, instead of in the name of the state on his relation according to sanctioned practice, especially where the plaintiff was required to amend the complaint to cure the objection made: State ex rel. Cicoria v. Corgiat, 50 Wash. 95.

§ 1000. (5739.) Judgment and Order in a Special Proceeding, Defined.

A judgment in a special proceeding is the final determination of the rights of the parties therein. The definitions of a motion and an order in a civil action are applicable to similar acts in a special proceeding. [L. '95, p. 115, § 2.]

See supra, § 405, motions and orders defined.

Cited in 21 Wash. 255, 261.

§ 1001. (5740.) Certiorari, Defined.

The writ of certiorari may be denominated the writ of review. [L. '95, p. 115, § 3.]

Cited in 21 Wash. 149; 28 Wash. 51.

§ 1002. (5741.) When and by What Courts Granted.

A writ of review shall be granted by any court, except a police or justice court, when an inferior tribunal, board or officer, exercising judicial functions, has exceeded the jurisdiction of such tribunal, board or officer, or one acting illegally, or to correct any erroneous or void proceeding, or a proceeding not according to the course of the common law, and there is no appeal, nor in the judgment of the court, any plain, speedy and adequate remedy at law. [L. '95, p. 115, § 4.]

Cited in 18 Wash. 510; 19 Wash. 315; 26 Wash. 281; 32 Wash. 695; 34 Wash. 249; 35 Wash. 36, 126; 46 Wash. 304; 47 Wash. 509; 50 Wash. 655.

Nature and scope of remedy: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 464, §§ 1, 2; Wilson v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 543; State ex rel. Spokane Terminal Co. v. Superior Court, 40 Wash. 453; State ex rel. Grady v. Lockhart, 18 Wash. 531; Gregory v. Dixon, 7 Wash. 27.

Assailing a judgment by certiorari is not a collateral attack upon it: State v. Superior Court, 6 Wash. 352, 357.

Time of making application for writ: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 469, § 16; State ex rel. Lowary v. Superior Court, 41 Wash. 450; State ex rel. Alexander v. Superior Court, 42 Wash. 684.

The writ of certiorari, being in the nature of an appeal, should be applied for within a reasonable time after the act complained of has been done, though the statute does not fix the time within which it must be applied for, and two years is not a reasonable time: Spooner v. Seattle, 6 Wash. 370, 371.

Under §§ 1621, 1630, 2 Hill's Code, certiorari and appeal from justices' courts were concurrent remedies either of which could be resorted to by any person who conceived himself injured by error in any proceeds, proceeding or judgment of a justice of the peace: Woodbury v. Henningsen, 11 Wash. 12; for extent of authority of superior court in such proceedings, see McEneaney v. Dart, 9 Wash. 682; but this article supersedes the provisions of the old code relating to certiorari in justices' courts.

WHEN WRIT WILL LIE.—Where there is no adequate remedy by appeal: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 465, § 6; Gabriel v. Seattle & M. R. Co., 7 Wash. 515; State ex rel. Pacific Coast S. S. Co. v. Superior Court, 12 Wash. 548; Lewis v. Bishop, 19 Wash. 312; State ex rel. Smith v. Superior Court, 26 Wash. 278; State ex rel. Cann v. Moore, 23 Wash. 276; State ex rel. Meredith v. Tallman, 24 Wash. 426; Parker v. Superior Court, 25 Wash. 544; State ex rel. Sprague v. Superior Court, 32 Wash. 693; Sullivan's Estate, In re, 36 Wash. 217; State ex rel. Oudin v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 584; State ex rel. Carran v. Superior Court, 30 Wash. 700; State ex rel. Nelson v. Superior Court, 31 Wash. 32; State ex rel. Young v. Denney, 34 Wash. 56.

Expense and delay does not affect adequacy of remedy by appeal: See State ex rel. Oudin v. Superior Court, 28 Wash.

584; State ex rel. Carran v. Superior Court, 30 Wash. 700; State ex rel. Nelson v. Superior Court, 31 Wash. 32; State ex rel. Young v. Denney, 34 Wash. 56.

There is no adequate remedy by appeal, and certiorari lies, where an administrator with the will annexed has been authorized to pay out $500 per month to the widow of the deceased, and during six months has paid out over $3,500 in costs of administration and other larger sums for other purposes: State ex rel. Speckart v. Superior Court, 48 Wash. 141.

Jurisdictional amount affecting the right: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 466, § 8; State ex rel. Hamilton v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 271; Warner v. Cowie, 15 Wash. 696; State ex rel. Corbin v. Superior Court, 35 Wash. 201; State ex rel. Gillette v. Superior Court, 22 Wash. 496.

The jurisdiction of the supreme court to issue writs of certiorari does not depend upon the amount in controversy, as questions of jurisdiction, illegality, and those concerning the existence of an appeal, or other plain, speedy, and adequate remedy at law are generally the only ones considered: State v. Superior Court, 6 Wash. 352 [but see later cases, supra]; and while it may issue the writ in aid of its appellate jurisdiction, it may also award it in a proper case, where its appellate power is called into exercise: Id.; see Wilson v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 543. The writ will be awarded to reverse a judgment of the superior court rendered without service of summons: Id.; and it was held that it would lie for the removal of criminal actions from a justice of the peace to a superior court under § 1621 of 2 Hill's Code: State v. White, 8 Wash. 230; and from the judgment of municipal courts: Seattle v. Pearson, 15 Wash. 575; Falsetto v. Seattle, 18 Wash. 509; State ex rel. Weymouth v. Lockhart, 28 Wash. 460; and it is the proper remedy to review the action of the court in fixing the amount of a supersedeas bond in a sum other than that required by statute: State v. Superior Court, 11 Wash. 366; distinguished in State v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 365, 366.

WHEN WRIT WILL NOT LIE.—It will not lie to review street assessment proceedings, where the only method of collecting is by foreclosure suit: Spooner v. Seattle, 6 Wash. 370; nor to review the proceedings of inferior courts or officers, where a remedy by appeal, writ of error, or other mode of review is given by statute: Gregory v. Dixon, 7 Wash. 27, 28; nor to review the action of the trial court in granting a new trial: State v. Superior Court, 6 Wash. 201; nor to review a judgment, when the remedy by appeal was available and fully adequate to protect defendant's rights: Lewis v. Gilbert, 5 Wash. 534; nor to review a judgment, though the time limited for appeal thereof had expired before motion to vacate judgment was decided: Id.; nor will it lie to review the action of the superior court in denying plaintiff's motion for judgment after a finding in his favor upon a plea in abatement and granting defendant leave to further plead: State v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 366; nor to review the action of the superior court when the original amount in controversy does not exceed two hundred dollars, and the action does not involve the legality of a tax, impost, assessment, toll, municipal fine, or the validity of a statute, there being no appeal under § 4, Article 4, of the Constitution: State v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 271; nor to review the action of the superior court in adjudging the proposed appropriation of certain rights of way a public use: Seattle etc. Ry. Co. v. State, 5 Wash. 807; nor to review the proceedings of the county school superintendent in establishing a new school district, where the party aggrieved has failed to appeal as provided in § 784, 1 Hill's Code (§ 4427, infra); Gregory v. Dixon, 7 Wash. 27; nor will the writ lie to a justice of the peace where the application shows that the justice had lost jurisdiction over the person of a defendant by a continuance without notice to defendant: Taylor v. Ringer, 3 W. T. 539; nor to set aside an order vacating a judgment of a justice and affirming it as originally rendered, so as to cut off the other party from a trial on the merits: McEneaney v. Dart, 9 Wash. 682; nor to determine the sufficiency of a supersedeas bond: State v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 365.

Certiorari does not lie where there is a remedy by appeal: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 464, § 5; Falsetto v. Seattle, 18 Wash. 509; State ex rel. Richardson v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 677; State ex rel. Weymouth v. Lockhart, 28 Wash. 460; State ex rel. Smith v. Superior Court, 30 Wash. 219; State ex rel. Sprague v. Superior Court, 32 Wash. 693; Sweeney v. County Commissioners, 43 Wash. 138; Parker v. Superior Court, 25 Wash. 544.

There is an adequate remedy by appeal and therefore certiorari will not lie to review an order in an action of unlawful detainer, quashing a writ of restitution for insufficiency of the notice set out in the complaint; since the plaintiff may stand upon the notice and forthwith appeal from the final judgment, securing a supersedeas and review of the order; or may amend the complaint and secure another writ: State ex rel. Wilkeson Coal & Coke Co. v. Superior Court, 49 Wash. 203.

Particular proceedings in civil actions—Special proceedings: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 467, §§ 11, 12; State ex rel. Harris v. Superior Court, 34 Wash. 248; State ex rel. Young v. Superior Court, 43 Wash. 34; State ex rel. Reser v. Superior Court, 13 Wash. 25; Falsetto v. Seattle, 18 Wash. 509; State ex rel. Richardson v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 677; State ex rel. Young v. Denney, 34 Wash. 56; State ex rel. Oudin v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 584; State ex rel. Norris Safe etc. Co. v. Superior Court, 30 Wash. 177; State ex rel. Whitehouse v. Superior Court, 38 Wash. 23.

As to acts of public officers, proceedings of boards, etc.: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 468, § 13; Browne v. Gear, 21 Wash. 147; Wilsey v. Cornwall, 40 Wash. 250; Lewis v. Bishop, 19 Wash. 312; State ex rel. Schroeder v. Superior Court, 29 Wash. 1.

In certiorari proceedings for the review of an assessment of the cost of a local improvement, the city is a proper party in interest, no matter what its ultimate responsibility may be, since it is primarily responsible for the collection of assessment: Frederick v. Seattle, 13 Wash. 428.

An ordinance of a city council granting a franchise for the use of a street is a legislative act, and is not subject to review by writ of certiorari: Tenny v. Seattle Electric Co., 48 Wash. 150.

Certiorari will lie for the purpose of reviewing the action of a municipal court in a proceeding brought therein for the purpose of securing the conviction and punishment of one guilty of violating a city ordinance: Seattle v. Pearson, 15 Wash. 575; following Woodbury v. Henningsen, 11 Wash. 12.

Certiorari does not lie to review the denial of a motion to dismiss an action upon stipulation, under this section: State ex rel. Smith v. Superior Court, 47 Wash. 508.

Certiorari to review an order respecting a commission to take testimony in a pending cause will be dismissed, where, before the hearing in the supreme court, the action has been dismissed: State ex rel. Clifford v. Superior Court, 47 Wash. 35.

§ 1003. (5742.) Application for, How Made.

The application must be made on affidavit by the party beneficially interested, and the court may require a notice of the application to be given to the adverse party, or may grant an order to show cause why it should not be allowed, or may grant the writ without notice. [L. '95, p. 115, § 5.]

Application, parties, form, issuance, etc.:
See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 468, 469,

ex rel. Casedy v. Inter-State etc. Co., 36
Wash. 80; State ex rel. Grady v. Lockhart, 18 Wash. 531; Corbett v. Civil Service Com., 33 Wash. 190; State ex rel.
Cann v. Moore, 23 Wash. 276.

§ 1004. (5743.) Writ, How Directed.

The writ may be directed to the inferior tribunal, board or officer, or to any other person having the custody of the record or proceedings to be certified. When directed to a tribunal the clerk, if there be one, must return the writ with the transcript required. [L. '95, p. 115, § 6.]

§ 1005. (5744.) Contents of Writ.

The writ of review must command the party to whom it is directed to certify fully to the court issuing the writ, at a specified time and place, a transcript of the record and proceedings (describing or referring to them with convenient certainty), that the same may be reviewed by the court, and requiring the party, in the meantime, to desist from further proceedings in the matter to be reviewed. [L. '95, p. 115, § 7.]

Cited in 23 Wash. 282; 46 Wash. 171.

Under this section, a writ is sufficient without containing a recital of the errors to be reviewed, when they are stated in the affidavit: State ex rel. Cann v. Moore, 23 Wash. 276.

Certiorari to review a judgment of the superior court, will be dismissed for want of due diligence in prosecution, where the record was not certified for more than two months after the time fixed therefor in the writ, no application for an extension was asked until nearly one month after the time had expired, and no appearance was made at the date set for considering the extension of time, but a return made sixteen days thereafter without leave; since the return is necessary to confer jurisdiction, and this section provides that the court shall fix the time, which thereupon becomes the law of the case: State ex rel. North Shore Boom and Driving Co. v. Superior Court, 46 Wash. 169.

§ 1006. (5745.) Stay of Proceedings.

If a stay of proceedings be not intended, the words requiring the stay must be omitted from the writ. These words may be inserted or omitted, in the sound discretion of the court, but if omitted the power of the inferior court or office is not suspended or the proceedings stayed. [L. '95, p. 115, § 8.]

§ 1007. (5746.) Bill of Exceptions—Judgment on.

Questions of fact not apparent of record may be presented by bill of exception, and the court shall review the same, and, in case there is error, shall render such judgment in the case as of right ought to be entered, or reverse and remand the cause for further proceedings. [L. '95, p. 115, § 9.]

Sufficient bill of exceptions: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 470, § 22; Corbett v. Civil Service Com., 33 Wash. 190.

§ 1008. (5747.) Service of Writ.

The writ may be served as follows, except where different directions respecting the mode of service thereof are given by the court granting it:—

1. Where it is directed to a person or persons by name or by his or her official title or titles, or to a municipal corporation, it must be served upon each officer or other person to whom it is directed, or upon the corporation, in the same manner as a summons;

2. Where it is directed to a court, or to the judges of a court, having a clerk appointed pursuant to law, service upon the court or the judges thereof may be made by filing the writ with the clerk. [L. '95, p. 116, § 10.]

§ 1009. (5748.) Defective Return—How Perfected—Hearing, Judgment.

If the return of the writ be defective, the court may order a further return to be made. When a full return has been made, the court must hear the parties, or such of them as may attend for that purpose, and may thereupon give judgment, either affirming or annulling or modifying the proceedings below. [L. '95, p. 116, § 11.]

Return and record, quashing or dismissal: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 469, § 21; Swope v. Seattle, 35 Wash. 69; State ex rel. Cann v. Moore, 23 Wash. 276.

If the writ is directed to the judge of the superior court, requiring him to certify to the supreme court a transcript of the record in a certain action, the judge must make the return, and if made by the clerk it is insufficient: State v. Sachs, 3 Wash. 496.

Where a superior judge neglects or refuses obedience to a writ of certiorari from the supreme court directing him to certify a transcript of record in a certain action, a rule will issue requiring him to show cause why he should not be punished for a contempt: Id.

Although a writ of certiorari may have been issued, it may be dismissed without a hearing when, in the opinion of the court, it was improvidently issued: Gregory v. Dixon, 7 Wash. 27.

Defendant, before compliance with the directions of the writ, may move to quash it, and his motion may be amended or supplemented by the allegation of additional grounds before the matter is finally disposed of: Spooner v. Seattle, 6 Wash. 370.

§ 1010. (5749.) Questions Involving Merits—What are.

The questions involving the merits to be determined by the court upon the hearing are,—

1. Whether the body or officer had jurisdiction of the subject matter of the determination under review;

2. Whether the authority, conferred upon the body or officer in relation to that subject matter, has been pursued in the mode required by law, in order to authorize it or him to make the determination;

3. Whether, in making the determination, any rule of law affecting the rights of the parties thereto has been violated to the prejudice of the relator;

4. Whether there was any competent proof of all the facts necessary to be proved, in order to authorize the making of the determination;

5. If there was such proof, whether there was, upon all the evidence, such a preponderance of proof, against the existence thereof, rendered in an action in a court, triable by a jury, would be set aside by the court, as against the weight of evidence. [L. '95, p. 116, § 12.]

§ 1011. (5750.) Copy of Judgment Transmitted to Inferior Tribunal.

A copy of the judgment signed by the clerk, must be transmitted to the inferior tribunal, board or officer having the custody of the record or proceeding certified up. [L. '95, p. 117, § 13.]

§ 1012. (5751.) Judgment-roll.

A copy of the judgment signed by the clerk, entered upon or attached to the writ and return, constitute the judgment-roll. [L. '95, p. 117, § 14.]

Statutory attorney's fees may be taxed: See State ex rel. Spokane Terminal Co. v. Superior Court, 40 Wash. 453.

§ 1013. (5754.) Mandamus, Defined.

The writ of mandamus may be denominated a writ of mandate. [L. '95, p. 117, § 15.]

§ 1014. (5755.) When and by What Court Issued.

It may be issued by any court, except a justice's or a police court, to any inferior tribunal, corporation, board or person, to compel the performance of an act which the law especially enjoins as a duty resulting from an office, trust or station, or to compel the admission of a party to the use and enjoyment of a right or office to which he is entitled, and from which he is unlawfully precluded by such inferior tribunal, corporation, board or person. [L. '95, p. 117, § 16.]

The provisions of the old code of procedure covered by §§ 734-746, 2 Hill's Code, were superseded by this chapter; hence the citations here given are in part adjudications under the old law.

Mandamus: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1775, 1796, §§ 1-90.

Our statutes have rendered the technical learning of the old writs of mandamus and prohibitions mainly obsolete: County of Clark v. Brazee, 1 W. T. 199.

The writ of mandamus goes from the supreme court only in aid of its appellate jurisdiction, and while not properly a step in the main cause before the latter has reached this court, yet it bears sufficient relation to it to permit a showing to be considered therein when the latter has reached us by the intervention of the appellee: Norager v. Norwald, 3 W. T. 246, 247.

Irregularity in the preliminary proceedings in respect to writ of mandate is sometimes cured by appearance of defendant, and his failure to object to the regularity of the proceedings: Clark County v. Brazee, supra.

Noncompliance with the mandate of the supreme court is corrigible by further mandate, upon application of any party aggrieved, as in a case whereof this court has still jurisdiction: Waterman & Katz v. Lemon, 3 W. T. 15.

The public being interested, a mandamus proceeding is properly instituted in the name of the state upon the relation of the town: N. P. Ry. Co. v. Territory, 3 W. T. 303. See State ex rel. Grinsfelder v. Spokane St. R. Co., 19 Wash. 518.

The prosecuting attorney is a proper relator in prohibition or mandamus where the public is interested: State v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 30.

Pending applications for a writ of mandate to compel a trial judge to settle a statement of facts, a motion to affirm judgment for failure to file transcript will be held over: Norager v. Norwald, 3 W. T. 246.

Jurisdiction: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1791, §§ 69-71; State ex rel. Shannon v. Hunter, 3 Wash. 92, 27 Wash. 1076; State ex rel. McIntyre v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 108; State ex rel. Grinsfelder v. Spokane St. R. Co., 19 Wash. 518; State ex rel. Romano v. Yakey, 43 Wash. 15; State ex rel. Evers v. Byrne, 32 Wash. 264.

Two persons who have been elected to a town council may join as plaintiffs in a proceeding to compel the canvass of the election returns: State ex rel. Howe v. Kendall, 44 Wash. 542.

Parties defendant or respondents: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1792, §§ 76, 77; Espy Estate Co. v. Pacific County, 40 Wash. 67; State ex rel. Hill v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 327; State ex rel. Witherop v. Brown, 19 Wash. 383; State ex rel. Race v. Cranney, 30 Wash. 594; Savage v. Sternberg, 19 Wash. 679.

In a proceeding to compel the canvass of election returns by the town board of canvassers, there is no defect of parties defendant, where the writ runs against the council and the mayor, who is a member of the board, and was served on him and on a majority of the council, although members of the council not recognized were not joined or served: State ex rel. Howe v. Kendall, 44 Wash. 542.

Existence of other adequate remedy: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1776, 1777, §§ 2-4; Quaker City Nat. Bank v. Tacoma, 27 Wash. 259; *State ex rel. Krutz v. Washington Irr. MANDATE WILL LIE: To require a superior judge to whom has been apportioned the equity business to proceed to hear and determine a suit in partition:

State v. Lichtenberg, 4 Wash. 553; or to compel a court to take jurisdiction of a case which it has wrongfully dismissed, and to proceed to hear it on its merits: State v. Hunter, 3 Wash. 92; followed in State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 224; or to compel the vacation of an order suspending an attorney when the order of suspension is void: State v. Sachs, 2 Wash. 373, 26 Am. St. Rep. 857; or to compel a judge of the superior court to settle and certify a proper statement of facts on appeal: State v. Allen, 2 Wash. 470; In re Rosner, 5 Wash. 488; or to correct or amend his certificate to a statement of facts to conform to law: State v. Arthur, 7 Wash. 358; or to compel the superior court to entertain jurisdiction of an appeal from a justice's court which is properly taken: State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 223; State v. Hunter, 3 Wash. 92; but see State v. Superior Court, 12 Wash. 548; or to compel the clerk of the superior court to file a transcript on appeal from a justice's court without tendering the fee required for the institution of an original action: State v. Gordon, 8 Wash. 488; or to compel the clerk to send up a transcript on appeal which he withholds on the ground that the appeal bond is defective: State v. Armstrong, 5 Wash. 123; or to the clerk of the lower court on behalf of a person convicted of murder to send up the transcript on appeal at public expense on a showing that defendant is unable to pay for same: State v. Fenimore, 2 Wash. 370; or to compel the attorney general to approve the bond of a state land commissioner: State v. Jones, 6 Wash. 452; or against the state auditor to compel the issuance of warrants for the payment of salaries and expenses of the state board of land commissioners: State v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 191; or to compel the issuance by the state auditor of a warrant against the permanent school fund in favor of a school district to pay the purchase price of school district bonds: State v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 270; or against the board of state land commissioners to compel the issuance of a certificate of purchase to tide lands, where the formalities of law have been complied with: State v. Forrest, 8 Wash. 610; or to compel the sheriff to make return of an order of sale under foreclosure, without tendering sheriff's commission when the property has been bought in by the judgment creditor: State v. Prince, 9 Wash. 107; State v. Pugh, 9 Wash. 694; or to compel the county auditor to give notice of an election as provided by law: State v. Twichell, 4 Wash. 715; or to compel a canvassing board to declare the result of an election: State v. Denny, 4 Wash. 135; and to compel a canvassing board to make a proper canvass and issue the necessary certificates, although certificates have been issued to persons other than those entitled: State v. Trimbell, 12 Wash. 440; to compel the city treasurer to pay a municipal warrant in its order and questions affecting the legality of the warrant can be tried therein: Cloud v. Town of Sumas, 9 Wash. 399; and when a claim against a city has been allowed and an irregular warrant issued therefor, which the treasurer refuses to pay, the claimant cannot sue upon the original contract, but must first move the ministerial officers, by mandamus, to issue proper warrants: Abernathy v. Town of Medical Lake, 9 Wash. 112.

MANDAMUS WILL NOT LIE, WHEN.

Section 4, Article 4, of the Constitution confers upon the supreme court original jurisdiction in mandamus as to all state officers; but a member of the board of regents of the agricultural college is not a "state officer" within the meaning of this section: State v. Smith, 6 Wash. 496.

Mandamus will not lie to compel a judge to enter a judgment when it appears from the application that he will proceed to hear and determine the action at the next session of the court: State v. Hunter, 4 Wash. 651; nor will the writ be granted where the application fails to show that such proof had been offered before the court as to authorize an entry of judgment: State v. Hunter, supra; nor will it lie to compel a superior court to take cognizance of an appeal from a judgment by default entered by a justice of the peace upon a complaint and notice personally served upon defendant, to which he had failed to plead: State v. Superior Court, 12 Wash. 548; nor under the act of 1893 to compel the trial judge to certify that a statement of facts "contains what the parties have agreed and accepted to be all the material facts, etc.," when in fact only a part of the testimony has been incorporated therein: State v. Parker, 9 Wash. 653; see In re Rosner, 5 Wash. 488.

Mandamus to compel a judge to proceed with the trial of a cause does not lie where he refused to proceed for supposed want of jurisdiction, and did not refuse to enter an order of dismissal of the action, since there was an adequate remedy by appeal from the order of dismissal: State ex rel. Piper v. Superior Court, 45 Wash. 196.

A writ of mandate to compel a superior court to entertain an appeal from a justice of the peace will not issue, where application for relief by mandamus was not made until after a lapse of four months from the date the ruling complained of was made: State v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 314; nor to compel the lower court to enter a judgment not authorized by the supreme court: Mansfield v. First Nat. Bank, 6 Wash. 603; nor to compel the superior court to fix the amount of a supersedeas bond on appeal from an order which is not appealable: State v. Parker, 6 Wash. 411; nor to a judge of a superior court whose term of office has expired to compel him to certify and settle a statement of facts on appeal under the act of January 21, 1893: State v. Allen, 7 Wash. 285; nor to compel two of the three judges of the superior court of a county to perform certain acts, because if it takes all of the judges to do the act, all must be necessary parties, while if one could do it, that one whose duty it was to act should have been proceeded against alone: State v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 327; nor to compel the lower court to set aside a judgment and reinstate a cause and proceed with its trial where plaintiff has appealed from a judgment dismissing his action: State v. Lichtenberg, 4 Wash. 653; nor to compel action on the part of an inferior court until it is made clearly to appear that such court has been regularly and properly moved to take the required action, and has unwarrantably refused to act: State v. Hunter, 4 Wash. 651; nor to compel the state treasurer to pay warrants drawn by the auditor on funds which have been exhausted: State v. Lindsley, 3 Wash. 125; nor against the state auditor to compel the issuance of a warrant for payment of a voucher for services rendered where the appropriation cannot be disbursed without further legislation: Parrish v. Reed, 2 Wash. 491.

Where a mandamus is sought to compel the state auditor to allow certain items contained in a cost bill in a criminal case, the rejection of a portion of the items carries with it a denial of the writ, as the application cannot be refused in part and granted as to the rest: State v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 445, 449.

It will not lie against the secretary of state to certify to the proper officers the nominee of a political party of one county for an office, where the nomination can only be made by the joint action of all the counties: State v. Weir, 5 Wash. 82; nor to compel the commissioner of public lands to issue a certificate of purchase to an applicant for tide land, when the petition for the writ fails to show any erroneous application by the commissioner of the law to the facts before him for determination: State v. Forrest, 11 Wash. 158; nor to compel a mayor to sign bonds which purport to make the city liable for indebtedness in excess of its power to create: Chalk v. White, 4 Wash. 156; nor against the mayor and clerk of a city to pay an attorney's lien filed on a judgment for a client against the city, where no judicial proceedings have been had to determine the amount or validity of the lien: Chamber v. Territory, 3 W. T. 280; nor to compel levy of special tax by city where it has already levied taxes to the authorized limit: Portland Sav. Bank v. Montezano, 14 Wash. 570.

Nor to recover moneys misapplied by public officers, as the public has another different and exclusive remedy: Elder v. Territory, 3 W. T. 438; nor to compel a municipal corporation to enter into a contract with one who shows himself to have been the lowest bidder in response to a call for a bid for city advertising: Times Pub. Co. v. Everett, 9 Wash. 518, 43 Am. St. Rep. 865; distinguishing Baum v. Sweeney, 5 Wash. 712; State v. Milligan, 3 Wash. 144; nor to compel the county commissioners to make an award for county printing, since an appeal from their order furnishes an adequate remedy: State v. Allen, 8 Wash. 168; nor to compel appraisers to survey and appraise tide lands of the third class before the harbor lines of the county have been established: State v. Sharpstein, 4 Wash. 68; nor to compel the canvassing board to canvass the returns of an election upon a proposition to remove the county seat, as the county commissioners are charged with that duty: Swerdfiger v. Whitney, 12 Wash. 420; nor to compel the county auditor to draw a warrant for expenses incurred by sheriff in providing and furnishing rooms for the superior court and officers on the court's order, where at the time the county commissioners were making suitable provision therefor: Barnett v. Ashmore, 5 Wash. 163.

Mandamus will not be issued where not necessary: See State ex rel. Bauer v. Sunset Tel. & Tel. Co., 30 Wash. 676.

Mandamus will not be granted to secure a supersedeas on appeal from an order denying an intervenor leave to appear and defend a foreclosure action, as no further action can be taken thereon to enforce the order and there is nothing to supersede: Hindman v. Colvin, 46 Wash. 317.

Under the rule that mandamus will lie only at the instance of parties in interest, the writ will not issue at the suit of two directors of a school district against the third director to compel him to sign warrants for the payment of the salaries of certain teachers: State v. James, 14 Wash. 82.

Mandamus will not lie to compel a county treasurer to pay over moneys collected by his predecessor and which have never come into his possession: State v. Mish, 13 Wash. 302.

A certified return by a county treasurer of moneys collected as penalty and interest upon taxes levied for the benefit of a city will not be enforced by mandamus, where it appears that such return would be incidental merely to the principal relief, which can be righted only by an action against the county rather than against the officer: Id.

Mandamus to compel a judge to settle a statement of facts will not lie, when he has not refused to settle same, but has continued the matter until he could have an opportunity to examine the statement and the objections thereto: State v. Superior Court, 13 Wash. 514.

Mandamus does not lie to control the exercise of discretion by a trial judge in refusing to proceed with the trial of an action for damages upon an injunction bond, until after a second action between the same parties to determine the rights of the parties in and to the property damaged is first brought to an issue and tried, or the two actions tried together, where the business of the court so requires or would be facilitated thereby: State ex rel. McDonald v. Steiner, 44 Wash. 150.

Mandamus will not lie to compel the board of school examiners of a county to issue a teacher's certificate to an applicant entitled thereto, a remedy in such cases being provided by §§ 4542, 4547, authorizing appeal to the superintendent of public instruction: State v. Hitt, 13 Wash. 547.

Mandamus will not lie to compel the court to enter a nunc pro tunc order substituting one attorney for another in a pending action; but the litigant is entitled to such order only as of the date when application is made: State v. Langley, 13 Wash. 636.

The supreme court has jurisdiction by means of a writ of mandate, to compel the superior court to proceed to final determination of a cause properly before it, to the end that the right of appeal from such determination may be made effective: State v. Parker, 12 Wash. 685; following State v. Hunter, 3 Wash. 92.

A writ of mandate will not lie for the refusal of the commissioner of public lands to issue a certificate of purchase to an applicant for tide lands, when the petition for the writ fails to show any erroneous application by the commissioner of the law to the facts before him for determination: State v. Forrest, 11 Wash. 158.

If the defendant in mandamus demands a jury the court is warranted in issuing a special venire: State v. Trimbell, 12 Wash. 440.

Mandamus will not lie to compel a street railway company to resume the operation of a line which it has discontinued, without any prior demand for the performance of its duty to the public in that respect: State ex rel. Grinsfelder v. Spokane St. R. Co., 19 Wash. 518.

And will not issue where the case has been determined on appeal, or where the subject matter of the suit is destroyed before the hearing: See State ex rel. Oudin etc. Co. v. Superior Court, 37 Wash. 30; State ex rel. Wheeler v. Irwin, 40 Wash. 413.

The discretion of a court cannot be controlled by mandamus: State ex rel. Romano v. Yakey, 43 Wash. 15.

Mandamus will not lie to compel a sheriff to return an execution, when: See State ex rel. Commercial Inv. Co. v. Hartman, 26 Wash. 524.

Nor to compel the secretary of state to do clerical work not imposed by law: State ex rel. Rogers v. Jenkins, 21 Wash. 364. Nor to file insufficient articles: State ex rel. Osborne etc. Co. v. Nichols, 38 Wash. 309.

Mandamus does not lie to compel a general course of official conduct: State ex rel. Hawes v. Brewer, 39 Wash. 65.

It will not lie to control discretion of ministerial officers: See Morris & Whitehead v. Williams, 23 Wash. 459; State ex rel. Bussell v. Callvert, 33 Wash. 380; State ex rel. Brown v. Board of Dental Examiners, 38 Wash. 325; State ex rel. Atkinson v. Dunlap, 49 Wash. 385.

Mandamus is not the proper remedy when the title to an office is in controversy: Lynde v. Dibble, 19 Wash. 328.

Nor where legality of removal from office is disputed: See Kimball v. Olmsted, 20 Wash. 629.

Mandamus does not lie on the demand of a private citizen for general inspection of public books and records: See State ex rel. Cook v. Reed, 36 Wash. 638.

Mandamus will not lie to compel a city to levy a special tax for the payment of a judgment in tort against the city: See Lorence v. Bean, 18 Wash. 37.

Mandamus to courts: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1781, §§ 22-24; Mansfield v. First Nat. Bank, 6 Wash. 603; State ex rel. Stratton v. Tallman, 25 Wash. 295; State ex rel. Jefferson County v. Hatch, 36 Wash. 164; State ex rel. Commercial Inv. Co. v. Hartman, 26 Wash. 524; State v. Creech, 18 Wash. 186; State ex rel. Hill v. Gardner, 32 Wash. 550; American Paper Co. v. Sullivan, 34 Wash. 391; State ex rel. Denham v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 590.

Preparation and transmission of record, etc., on appeal: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1782, § 27; State ex rel. Klein v. Superior Court, 36 Wash. 44; State ex rel. Richardson v. Superior Court, 41 Wash. 439; Scott v. Bourn, 13 Wash. 471.

Acts and proceedings of public officers: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1783, 1791, §§ 30-68.

Official character of acts or proceedings: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1783, §§ 31-33; State v. Snohomish County, 18 Wash. 160; State ex rel. Porter v. Headlee, 18 Wash. 220; State ex rel. Porter v. Headlee, 19 Wash. 477; Townsend Gas & Elec. Light Co. v. Hill, 24 Wash. 469; Chapin v. Port Angeles, 31 Wash. 535; Hester v. Thomson, 35 Wash. 119.

As to ministerial acts and matters of discretion: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1784, §§ 34, 35; State ex rel. Rogers v. Jenkins, 20 Wash. 78; American Bridge Co. v. Wheeler, 35 Wash. 40; Morris & Whitehead v. Williams, 23 Wash. 459; State ex rel. Hawes v. Brewer, 39 Wash. 65; Bussell v. Calvert, 33 Wash. 380.

Under the code, it is immaterial whether mandamus to a state officer is sought to review the exercise of judgment and discretion or acts done in a purely ministerial capacity, as the proceeding is a form of civil action in which any appropriate relief may be awarded: State ex rel. Gillette v. Clausen, 44 Wash. 437.

Elections and proceedings relating thereto: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1784, §§ 38-40; State ex rel. King v. Trimbell, 12 Wash. 440; State ex rel. Cann v. Moore, 23 Wash. 115.

Mandamus is the proper remedy to secure a canvass of the returns of a town election, where the canvassing board refuses to act, whether the act is ministerial or there is a refusal to exercise a discretion in a quasi-judicial capacity: State ex rel. Howe v. Kendall, 44 Wash. 542.

Public improvements—Levy and collection of assessments, issuance of warrants, etc.: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1786, §§ 47-52; Waldron v. Snohomish, 41 Wash. 566; Hawes v. Brewer, 39 Wash. 65; State ex rel. Hellar v. Young, 18 Wash. 21; State ex rel. Barber Asphalt Co. v. Seattle, 42 Wash. 370; American Bridge Co. v. Wheeler, 35 Wash. 40; German-Am. Sav. Headlee, 18 Wash. 220; State v. Neal, 25 Wash. 264; State ex rel. Hellar v. Young, 21 Wash. 391.

Mandamus is the proper remedy to secure the issuance by drainage commissioners of warrants in payment of services, although the right thereto is denied and plaintiff might proceed by ordinary action for breach of contract; since, under the code, mandamus is but a form of civil action wherein appropriate relief may be given, and is specially authorized by this section and by § 4179: State ex rel. Barto v. Board of Drainage Commrs., 46 Wash. 474.

Mandamus lies in favor of the holder of warrants, issued in part payment for the construction of a ditch, to compel the county commissioners to borrow money or levy a special assessment to establish a fund to pay the principal and interest due on the warrants, where the commissioners had abandoned the project and refuse or fail to take any steps to complete the ditch or levy the assessment: State ex rel. Ames v. Lewis County, 45 Wash. 423.

Demand and default: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1779, § 15; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Territory, 3 W. T. 303; State ex rel. Witherop v. Brown, 19 Wash. 383; State ex rel. Evers v. Byrne, 32 Wash. 264; State ex rel. Grinsfelder v. Spokane St. Ry. Co., 19 Wash. 518.

Subjects and purposes of relief: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1779-1783, §§ 18-29; State ex rel. Townsend Gas etc. Co. v. Superior Court, 20 Wash. 502; *State ex rel. Barbo v. Compelling county commissioners to levy assessment for interest on bonds of irrigation district: See State ex rel. Witherop v. Brown, 19 Wash. 383.

Compelling assessment of taxes wrongfully omitted from the tax-rolls: See State ex rel. Evers v. Byrne, 32 Wash. 264.

Sufficient tender of taxes to compel treasurer to issue redemption certificate: See State ex rel. McClaine v. Reed, 29 Wash. 383.

A county auditor required to issue warrants for the payment of county funds is authorized to inquire whether a law requiring such payment is valid, and to attack the same for invalidity in mandamus proceedings brought against him to compel issuance of a warrant: State ex rel. Egbert v. Blumberg, 46 Wash. 270.

If judgment against the state dental board may be enforced by mandamus proceedings, under this section, it is no more than a concurrent remedy, and does not exclude proceedings supplementary to the judgment: Stern v. State Board of Dental Examiners, 50 Wash. 100.

§ 1015. (5756.) Writ, When and upon What Issued.

The writ must be issued in all cases where there is not a plain, speedy and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law. It must be issued upon affidavit on the application of the party beneficially interested. [L. '95, p. 117, § 17.]

See supra, §§ 179, 180, party beneficially interested.

Cited in 20 Wash. 44, 397; 32 Wash. 552; 36 Wash. 168; 39 Wash. 409.

A mandamus proceeding may be commenced by the filing and service of a summons and complaint, rather than by motion and affidavit: State ex rel. Cicoria v. Corgiat, 50 Wash. 95.

Petition or complaint, or other application: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1793, § 78; Chapin v. Port Angeles, 31 Wash. 535; State ex rel. Evers v. Byrne, 32 Wash. 264; Smith v. Ormsby, 20 Wash. 396.

§ 1016. (5757.) Writ, Alternative or Peremptory.

The writ may be either alternative or peremptory. The alternative writ must state generally the allegation against the party to whom it is directed, and command such party, immediately after the receipt of the writ, or at some other specified time, to do the act required to be performed, or to show cause before the court at a specified time and place, why he has not done so. The peremptory writ must be in some similar form, except the words requiring the party to show cause why he has not done as commanded must be omitted and a return inserted. [L. '95, p. 117, § 18.]

See notes to § 1014.

Cited in 31 Wash. 539.

In an application for mandamus, no alternative writ will be issued, unless the allegations in the petition therefor make out a prima facie case for the issuing of a peremptory writ: Parrish v. Reed, 2 Wash. 291.

It seems that under our statute (2 Hill's Code, § 734 et seq.), it is unnecessary in an alternative writ to recite any of the facts relied upon by the plaintiff, if the affidavit upon which it is founded is referred to therein and served therewith: King v. Trimbell, 12 Wash. 440.

The writ of mandamus must contain the allegations, or refer to the affidavit to be served with the writ: Chapin v. Port Angeles, 31 Wash. 535.

A complaint for mandamus and for injunction not separating the causes of action is sufficient against a demurrer for misjoinder where it states a good cause of action for injunction, although deficient in its allegations for mandamus: Times Pub. Co. v. Everett, 9 Wash. 518.

When the alternative writ has been quashed, a second writ may issue in the original proceedings, if defendants are served with the alias writ: King v. Trimbell, supra.

An objection that an alternative writ of mandate does not show upon its face that the petitioner therefor is entitled to any relief is waived, when the respondents, without demurring thereto, answer and take issue upon the matters alleged in the petition: State v. Moss, 13 Wash. 42.

Demurrer proper to writ against city to compel payment of judgment: See Chapin v. Port Angeles, 31 Wash. 535.

§ 1017. (5758.) Notice.

When the application to the court is made without notice to the party, and the writ be allowed, the alternative must be first issued; and if the application be upon due notice and the writ be allowed, the peremptory writ may be issued in the first instance. The notice of the application, when given, must be at least ten days. The writ cannot be granted by default. The case must be heard by the court, whether the adverse party appear or not. [L. '95, p. 117, § 19.]

§ 1018. (5759.) Return of Writ—Answer.

On the return of the alternative, or the day on which the application for the writ is noticed, the party on whom the writ or notice has been served may show cause by answer, under oath, made in the same manner as an answer to a complaint in a civil action. [L. '95, p. 118, § 20.]

§ 1019. (5760.) Question of Fact, How Determined.

If an answer be made which raises a question as to a matter of fact essential to the determination of the motion, and affecting the substantial rights of the parties, and upon the supposed truth of the allegation of which the application for the writ is based, the court may, in its discretion, order the question to be tried before a jury, and postpone the argument until such trial can be had, and the verdict certified to the court. The question to be tried must be distinctly stated in the order for trial, and the county must be designated in which the same shall be had. The order may also direct the jury to assess any damages which the appellant [applicant] may have sustained, in case they find for him. [L. '95, p. 118, § 21.]

Demurrer to answer should be interposed before cause assigned for trial by jury: See Wilson v. Aberdeen, 25 Wash. 614.

§ 1020. (5761.) Applicant may Demur to Answer or Countervail It by Proof.

On the trial the applicant is not precluded by the answer from any valid objections to its sufficiency, and may countervail it by proof, either in direct denial or by way of avoidance. [L. '95, p. 118, § 22.]

Cited in 25 Wash. 618.

It is not necessary to reply to a return or answer: See 2 Remington's Digest, p.

1795, § 87; State ex rel. Brown v. McQuade, 36 Wash. 579.

§ 1021. (5762.) Motion for New Trial, Where Made.

The motion for new trial must be made in the court in which the issue of fact is tried. [L. '95, p. 118, § 23.]

§ 1022. (5763.) Certification of Verdict—Hearing.

If no notice of a motion for a new trial be given, or if given, the motion be denied, the clerk, within five days after rendition of the verdict or denial of the motion, must transmit to the court in which the application for the writ is pending, a certified copy of the verdict attached to the order of trial, after which either party may bring on the argument of the application, upon reasonable notice to the adverse party. [L. '95, p. 118, § 24.]

§ 1023. (5764.) Court to Proceed to Hearing, When—Answer.

If no answer be made, the case must be heard on the papers of the applicant. If the answer raises only questions of law, or puts in issue immaterial statements not affecting the substantial rights of the party, the court must proceed to hear or fix a day for hearing the argument of the case. [L. '95, p. 118, § 25.]

Cited in 14 Wash. 205.

Affidavits submitted by respondent upon the return of an alternative writ of prohibition cannot be considered where the respondent has not answered in the manner required by statute, as, under this section, the cause must be heard on the papers of the applicant if no answer be made: State v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 203.

§ 1024. (5765.) Damages Awarded, When—Peremptory Mandate.

If judgment be given for the applicant he may recover the damages which he has sustained, as found by the jury or as may be determined by the court or referee, upon a reference to be ordered, together with costs; and for such damages and costs an execution may issue, and a peremptory mandate must also be awarded without delay. [L. '95, p. 118, § 26.]

Cited in 21 Wash. 321.

Where a writ of prohibition is granted against the superior court to prevent its trying a cause for want of jurisdiction, costs should be taxed against the plaintiff in the lower court, as the real party in interest: State v. Superior Court, 5 Wash. 518. See, Achey v. Creech, 21 Wash. 320; State v. Reid, 17 Wash. 267.

Mandamus is subject to review by writ of error or appeal, as in other cases: State ex rel. Nooksack River Boom Co. v. Superior Court, 2 Wash. 9; State ex rel. Dudley v. Daggett, 28 Wash. 1.

Mandamus is a civil remedy in which the costs may be awarded against the defendants: State ex rel. Howe v. Kendall, 44 Wash. 542.

§ 1025. (5766.) Service of Writ.

The writ must be served in the same manner as a summons in a civil action, except when otherwise expressly directed by order of the court. Service upon a majority of the members of any board or body is service upon the board or body, whether at the time of the service the board or body was in session or not. [L. '95, p. 119, § 27.]

See supra, § 220 et seq., service of summons in civil actions.

§ 1026. (5767.) Penalty for Disobeying Writ.

When a temporary mandate has been issued and directed to any inferior tribunal, corporation, board or person upon whom the writ has been personally served, has, without just excuse, refused or neglected to obey the same, the court may, upon motion, impose a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars. In case of persistence in a refusal or disobedience, the court may order the party to be imprisoned until the writ is obeyed, and may make any orders necessary and proper for the complete enforcement of the writ. [L. '95, p. 119, § 28.]

§ 1027. (5769.) Prohibition, Defined.

The writ of prohibition is the counterpart of the writ of mandate. It arrests the proceedings of any tribunal, corporation, board or person, when such proceedings are without or in excess of the jurisdiction of such tribunal, corporation, board or person. [L. '95, p. 119, § 29.]

§ 1028. (5770.) Where and When Issued.

It may be issued by any court, except police or justices' courts, to an inferior tribunal, or to a corporation, board or person, in all cases where there is not a plain, speedy and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law. It is issued upon affidavit, on the application of the person beneficially interested. [L. '95, p. 119, § 30.]

Prohibition: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2368-2378, §§ 1-41.

NATURE OF REMEDY.—Prohibition is the converse of mandamus, but the same degree of strictness as to parties is not maintained: State v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 30, 35.

The prosecuting attorney of a county is the proper relator in an application for a writ of prohibition to prevent a court enforcing payment of stenographer's fees against a county in a civil case: State v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 30.

The object of the writ is to restrain inferior courts from acting without or in excess of jurisdiction in cases where such action will result in injury to the party complaining: State v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 705, 708. It should only be granted in a clear case, and when no other remedy is available: Harbor Line Commr. v. State, 2 Wash. 530, 536; State v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 705; State ex rel. Townsend Gas etc. Co. v. Superior Court, 20 Wash. 502. It is only to be resorted to in cases where the usual and ordinary forms of remedy are insufficient to afford redress. It will not be allowed to take the place of an appeal or writ of error: State v. Jones, 2 Wash. 662, 665, 26 Am. St. Rep. 897. It will not lie unless it appears from the petition therefor that there is some threatened injury for which the petition has no other adequate remedy: Harris v. Brooker, 8 Wash. 138; State ex rel. West Seattle v. Superior Court, 36 Wash. 566.

Although an appeal may lie from the action of the lower court, yet, upon an application for a writ of prohibition, the court will look into the record presented, and if the action threatened is apparently an unwarranted interference with a judgment of the supreme court, the writ will be granted: State v. Superior Court, 10 Wash. 168; State v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 591.

The fact that no appeal can be taken from the judgment of the superior court because of the amount involved, affords no ground for relief by prohibition: State v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 705.

To justify the issuance of a writ of prohibition from a superior to an inferior court it must clearly appear that the inferior court is about to take jurisdiction of a matter of which by law it has no jurisdiction; that there is still something which the inferior court is about to do under its claim of jurisdiction; that an application has been made to the inferior court that it has not jurisdiction thereof, and refused; and that there is no other proper remedy: State v. Superior Court, 2 Wash. 9, 14; State v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 36.

The objection to the jurisdiction of a court must be raised in that court before it can be subjected to a writ of prohibition on the ground of want of jurisdiction: Harris v. Brooker, 8 Wash. 138; State v. Superior Court, 2 Wash. 9.

The supreme court has power, under Article 4, § 4, of the Constitution, in aid of its appellate jurisdiction, to issue a writ of prohibition against a lower court, where it threatens to act in excess of its jurisdiction in a matter affecting all parties' right of appeal, and there is no other speedy and adequate remedy at law: State v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 696; distinguished in State v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 702, 703.

Injunction and not prohibition is the proper remedy to prevent the drawing of a warrant by order of the superior court in favor of the sheriff to pay expenses incurred for court and court officers: State v. Hunter, 4 Wash. 712.

Jurisdiction: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2376, §§ 30-32; State ex rel. McLeod v. Superior Court, 24 Wash. 725; State ex rel. Foster v. Superior Court, 30 Wash. 156; State ex rel. Fuller v. Superior Court, 31 Wash. 96; State ex rel. White v. Board of State Land Commrs., 23 Wash. 700; Winsor v. Bridges, 24 Wash. 540; State ex rel. Pelton v. Ross, 39 Wash. 399; State ex rel. Alladio v. Superior Court, 17 Wash. 54.

PROHIBITION WILL LIE, WHEN.—

A peremptory writ will issue from the supreme court to prevent the superior court from trying and determining an action of which it has no jurisdiction: State v. Superior Court, 5 Wash. 639, 641.

And a writ will issue to prevent a court enforcing orders in a proceeding wherein it is without jurisdiction: State v. Langhorn, 12 Wash. 588; and where a cause has been appealed and judgment rendered by the appellate court, interference therewith will be prohibited: State v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 591.

And the writ will issue to restrain the lower court from modifying a judgment of the supreme court in an equity cause: State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 234; or from further trying an issue disposed of by the verdict: See State ex rel. Holgate v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 33; or to prevent a superior court from setting aside a sale of real estate in the administration of a decedent's estate, when the proceedings have been set up in an action of ejectment by the purchaser, as the basis of his title, and an appeal from the judgment in ejectment is pending in the supreme court: State v. Superior Court, 10 Wash. 168.

It will lie to restrain the superior court in appointing a receiver in excess of its jurisdiction: State v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 668.

PROHIBITION WILL NOT LIE to prevent the discretionary action of the lower court in allowing amendments to pleadings on appeals from a justice of the peace where it has jurisdiction of the subject matter: State v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 705; nor for the purpose of controlling the exercise of the court's discretion in the matter of the dismissal of an appeal from a justice of the peace for failure to file transcript as prescribed by law: State v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 307; State v. Campbell, 5 Wash. 517; nor to restrain courts of original jurisdiction in equity from issuing injunction in excess of their jurisdiction, when there is a complete remedy by appeal: State v. Jones, 2 Wash. 662, 26 Am. St. Rep. 897; State ex rel. Fisher v. Kennan, 35 Wash. 52; nor to restrain an order on the clerk of the court which has no binding force: State v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 702; nor to restrain the superior court from further proceedings in mandamus, where the superior court has already exercised jurisdiction and issued the writ, and no further application is made at the hearing before the lower court to test its jurisdiction: State v. Superior Court, 2 Wash. 9; nor to prevent the restraining of a sale under execution against an insolvent corporation, when the judgment creditor has been made a party in the injunction suit and the order therein protects and preserves its rights: State v. Superior Court, 11 Wash. 63; nor to correct errors of the superior court which should be corrected on appeal: State v. Superior Court, 11 Wash. 111; nor at the instance of an attaching creditor to prevent a receiver, whose appointment is void, from taking possession of property other than that held under the attachment levy, and which the creditor is seeking to have seized under his attachment: State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 77; nor to restrain a court from summoning before it attorneys who have filed a lien on a judgment for their fees, to determine what lien they may have, and what would be a reasonable fee: State v. Sachs, 3 Wash. 371; nor to prevent harbor line commission from defining harbor lines: Harbor Line Commrs. v. State, 2 Wash. 530; State v. Harbor Line Commrs., 4 Wash. 7, 11, 816; nor to prevent further proceedings in the prosecution of a defendant charged with a felony who has been discharged for want of a speedy trial: State v. Caldwell, 9 Wash. 336.

Existence and adequacy of other remedy: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2368-2371, §§ 2-12; State ex rel. Hibbard & Co. v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 631; State ex rel. Lewis v. Hogg, 22 Wash. 646; State ex rel. Sligh v. Superior Court, 19 Wash. 118; State ex rel. Zent v. Neal, 30 Wash. 702; State ex rel. Cann v. Moore, 23 Wash. 115; State ex rel. Port Orchard Irr. Co. v. A writ of prohibition will not issue to restrain the superior court and county officers from summoning and impaneling a jury for the trial of criminal cases, although the county is beyond its constitutional limit of indebtedness, and the expenses of such jury would still further increase its legal indebtedness: Clifford v.

Parker, 13 Wash. 518; following State v. Superior Court, 2 Wash. 9; Harbor Line Commrs. v. State, 2 Wash. 530.

A writ of prohibition will lie to restrain a court from making an order depleting a fund in the hands of the clerk, which is claimed by a receiver and by creditors who had obtained possession thereof prior to his appointment by means of execution and attachment levies, when the court has made one order authorizing a certain amount to be paid out of such fund, and has stated, upon a motion pending asking for another order, that if the circumstances are the same as disclosed on the former application it will grant the order; it further appearing that, at the time of granting the first order for the depletion of the fund, it had denied the relator's request for three hours' time to perfect an appeal and give a supersedeas bond, before such order should be carried into effect: State v. Superior Court, 13 Wash. 639.

Upon the issuance of a writ of prohibition restraining action on the part of the superior court, the costs should be taxed against the party in the original action at whose instance the court was proceeding unlawfully: State v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 500.

Grounds for relief: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2372, 2376, §§ 18-29; State ex rel. White v. Board of State Land Commrs., 23 Wash. 700; State ex rel. Foster v. Superior Court, 20 Wash. 502; State ex rel. Reed v. Jones, 2 Wash. 662; State ex rel. Vincent v. Benson, 21 Wash. 571; State ex rel. Hibbard & Co. v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 631; State ex rel. Lewis v. Hogg, 22 Wash. 646; State ex rel. Cann v. Moore, 23 Wash. 115; State ex rel. Carrau v. Superior Court, 30 Wash. 700; State ex rel. Superior Court, 32 Wash. 498; State ex rel. Twigg v. Superior Court, 34 Wash. 643; State ex rel. West Seattle v. Superior Court, 36 Wash. 566; State ex rel. Miller v. Superior Court, 30 Wash. 197; In re Sullivan's Estate, 36 Wash. 217; Parker v. Superior Court, 25 Wash. 544.

Prohibition will not lie if ineffectual: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 2375, § 28; State ex rel. Hart Lum. Co. v. Superior Court, 16 Wash. 347; State ex rel. Gordon

v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 702; State ex rel. Cleek v. Tallman, 38 Wash. 132.

Where an application for a change of venue is addressed to the discretion of the court an order denying the motion will not be restrained by prohibition where such discretion has not been abused: State v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 673.

The giving of a supersedeas bond on appeal from an order removing one receiver and appointing another will not authorize the issuance of a writ of prohibition to prevent the carrying of such an order into effect: State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 74.

Upon an application for a writ of prohibition to restrain proceedings by a court of general jurisdiction, it will be presumed, where the subject matter of the litigation was within the jurisdiction of the court, that the particular facts which authorized it to assert its jurisdiction existed, unless a contrary showing is made: State v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 203; citing Munch v. McLaren, 9 Wash. 676; Rogers v. Miller, 13 Wash. 82.

Prohibition issues only in cases of extreme necessity and when there is a clear case of want of jurisdiction in the court whose action it is sought to prohibit, and should never be granted until the aggrieved party has applied in vain to the inferior tribunal for relief: State v. Superior Court, 13 Wash. 226.

Prohibition will not lie to prevent a private person from acting under a judgment or invoking legal proceeding: State v. Superior Court, 13 Wash. 226.

Prohibition will not issue as to a matter within the discretion of the court below: See State ex rel. Burrows v. Superior Court, 43 Wash. 225.

The writ of prohibition will not issue to prevent the superior court from proceeding to enforce the collection of a judgment against sureties on a bond for the stay of execution, when notice of appeal has been given and supersedeas bond filed by the sureties: State v. Superior Court, 6 Wash. 112; also where it is proceeding in the appointment of a receiver, when an appeal had been taken from such order, and a sufficient stay bond filed by appellant: State v. Superior Court, 12 Wash. 677; or to stay proceedings where the relator in mandamus has appealed from the judgment rendered and presented a proper bond: State v. Hunter, 4 Wash. 637; or to prevent a trial by the court before whom a proper application has been made for a change of venue: State v. Superior Court, 5 Wash. 518; North Yakima v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 655; State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 306; State v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 668; State ex rel. Miller v. Superior Court, 40 Wash. 555; State ex rel. Wyman etc. Co. v. Superior Court, 40 Wash. 443; or assuming jurisdiction of the subject matter of an action which should be tried in another county: State v. Superior Court, 5 Wash.

639; or against a court which threatens to enforce by contempt proceedings the issuance of a county warrant in payment of stenographers' fees which are not a proper charge against the county: State v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 30.

An alternative writ against a superior judge will be made perpetual to prevent his carrying into effect a void judgment of contempt where he has refused to set aside the judgment, although the returns to the alternative writ may recite that the court has no intention of proceeding further in the matter: State v. Langhorn, 8 Wash. 447.

The writ will issue to prevent a receiver of an insolvent corporation from taking possession, under a general order, of property upon which other creditors had previously acquired an attachment lien: State

v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 210; see State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 77; State v. Graham, 9 Wash. 528.

The remedy by appeal is inadequate, and prohibition lies to prevent the superior court from proceeding to review the action of a city council on certiorari from the revocation of a liquor license, where it appears that the license would expire before the case could be heard on appeal: State ex rel. Puyallup v. Superior Court, 50 Wash. 650.

Where the remedy by appeal is inadequate because the right would expire before an appeal could be heard, prohibition lies notwithstanding a remedy by certiorari where the result would be the same whether determined on certiorari or prohibition: Id.

§ 1029. (5771.) Writ may be Alternative or Peremptory.

The writ must be either alternative or peremptory. The alternative writ must state generally the allegations against the party to whom it is directed, and command such party to desist or refrain from further proceedings in the action or matter specified therein until the further order of the court from which it is issued, and to show cause before such court, at a specified time and place, why such party should not be absolutely restrained from any further proceedings in such action or matter. The peremptory writ must be in a similar form, except that the words requiring the party to show cause why he should not be absolutely restrained, etc., must be omitted and a return day inserted. [L. '95, p. 119, § 31.]

§ 1030. (5772.) Provisions Relating to Mandate Applicable.

The provisions of sections 1013 to 1026, relating to writ of mandate, apply to this proceeding. [L. '95, p. 120, § 32.]

The fact that the affidavit for a writ of prohibition was made by the attorney for petitioner does not render the application insufficient: See State ex rel. Alladio v. Superior Court, 17 Wash. 54.

§ 1031. (5774.) Writs of Review, Mandate and Prohibition Made Returnable, When.

Writs of review, mandate, and prohibition issued by the supreme court, or by a superior court, may, in the discretion of the court issuing the writ, be made returnable, and a hearing thereon be had at any time. [L. '95, p. 120, § 33.]

§ 1032. (5775.) Rules of Practice and Proceedings.

Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, the provisions of the Code of Procedure concerning civil actions are applicable to and constitute the rules of practice in the proceedings in this chapter. [L. '95, p. 120, § 34.]

Cited in 15 Wash. 93; 21 Wash. 454; 25 Wash. 618; 30 Wash. 599.

§ 1033. (5776.) Appeals.

From a final judgment in the superior court, in any such proceeding, an appeal shall lie to the supreme court. [L. '95, p. 120, § 35.]

See infra, §§ 1716-1754, appeals.

On an appeal from a judgment directing the issuance of a writ of mandate, it is error to deny defendant's motion for a supersedeas of the writ pending appeal, and to fix the amount of the bond therefor: State v. Superior Court, 2 Wash. 9; State v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 696.

CHAPTER II.

INFORMATION IN THE NATURE OF QUO WARRANTO.

§ 1034. (5780.) Against Whom Filed.

An information may be filed against any person or corporation in the following cases:—

1. When any person shall usurp, intrude upon [into], or unlawfully hold or exercise any public office or franchise within the state, or any office in any corporation created by the authority of the state;

2. When any public officer shall have done or suffered any act, which, by the provisions of law, shall work a forfeiture of his office;

3. When several persons claim to be entitled to the same office or franchise, one information may be filed against any or all such persons in order to try their respective rights to the office or franchise;

4. When any association or number of persons shall act within this state as a corporation, without being legally incorporated;

5. Or where any corporation do or omit acts which amount to a surrender or a forfeiture of their rights and privileges as a corporation, or where they exercise powers not conferred by law. [Cf. L. '54, p. 216, §§ 468, 477; L. '77, p. 143, § 706; Cd. '81, § 702; 2 H. C., § 679.]

See supra, § 146, word "person" defined.

See Const., Art. IV, §§ 4, 6, jurisdiction of supreme and superior courts.

See supra, §§ 1, 15, jurisdiction of supreme and superior courts.

NATURE AND GROUNDS OF WRIT: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2428, §§ 1-8; State ex rel. Attorney-General v. Seattle Gas etc., 28 Wash. 488; Kimball v. Olmstead, 20 Wash. 629; Standard Gold Min. Co. v. Byers, 31 Wash. 100; State ex rel. Pros. Atty. v. South Park, 34 Wash. 162; State ex rel. Hyland v. Peters, 21 Wash. 243.

NATURE AND HISTORY OF WRIT discussed in Mills v. State, 2 Wash. 566.

Quo warranto, and not certiorari, is the proper remedy for reviewing the legality of proceedings before the mayor of the city removing an appointive officer: State v. Van Brocklin, 8 Wash. 557; State v. Kirkwood, 15 Wash. 298.

If the dispute is as to the validity of an election, the election laws provide the means of redress: State v. Van Brocklin, supra, 559; in such an action judgment for damages against the defendant is unwarranted, where there is no showing that he had collected any of the salary of the office: Id.

An information in the name of the territory is the proper method of ousting a United States army officer unlawfully holding a civil office under the laws of the territory: Hill v. Territory, 2 W. T. 147.

Quo warranto will not lie to oust one illegally holding office under a corporation: State ex rel. Mitchell v. Horan, 22 Wash. 197.

IT WILL LIE to oust municipal officers from office and to dissolve the corporation: Territory v. Stewart, 1 Wash. 98; State v. New Whatcom, 3 Wash. 7; to determine the right of possession of an office: State v. Smith, 4 Wash. 651; State v. Cronin, 5 Wash. 398.

Quo warranto will not lie to oust a duly elected and qualified road overseer because of the fact that the county commissioners have so changed his road district as to leave his residence outside thereof: State v. Nelson, 7 Wash. 114.

The health officer appointed by the board of health for the collection district of Puget Sound has no prescribed tenure of office, and his appointment and removal is at the pleasure of the board, although by law required to file a bond and take an oath of office: State v. Seavey, 7 Wash. 562.

An appointee of the governor to fill a vacancy caused by the removal of a state capitol commissioner, without a hearing on the charges for removal, may qualify and hold the office: State v. Burke, 8 Wash. 412.

A prosecuting attorney of a county being a county officer, a person appointed by the governor to fill a vacancy therein cannot oust the appointee of the board of county commissioners, as the appointing power resides in the latter: State v. Whitney, 9 Wash. 377.

The failure of a person elected to office to qualify within fifteen days after notice of election as required by § 3916, infra, does not work an absolute forfeiture of the office, under Bal. Code, § 1543, relating to vacancies, as the right to the office under our statute is dependent upon the election, and not upon the qualification: State v. Ruff, 4 Wash. 234.

The failure to qualify is merely a ground of forfeiture authorizing the proper authorities to declare a vacancy and fill the same: Id.

The right of a justice of the peace who rendered a judgment to hold his office cannot be questioned by a motion for a new trial, and an attempted accompanying quo warranto proceeding, in an action for damages and wrongful execution of the justice's judgment: Eaid v. Connolly, 48 Wash. 584.

Although charges preferred against a public officer by the mayor of a city may be somewhat indefinite, objection thereto on that ground cannot be raised in the superior court, when the person removed from office had gone to trial on them before the mayor without objection and without any motion to make more specific and certain: State v. Kirkwood, 15 Wash. 298.

The jurisdiction to entertain quo warranto to determine who is entitled to the office of councilman of a city, under Article 4, § 6 of the Constitution, providing that the superior court shall have original jurisdiction of all proceedings in which jurisdiction shall not have been by law vested exclusively in some other court, is not ousted by Bal. Code, § 1031, providing that the city council shall judge of the qualifications of its members and of all election returns, as the latter statute affords merely a cumulative remedy: State v. Morris, 14 Wash. 262.

A dissolution of a corporation is authorized under this and §§ 1043, 1044, infra, where it appears that the owner of one-half of the stock assumed to represent the corporation without authority, destroyed its business through negligence, is conducting a rival business, and refuses to elect or help elect a trustee, by reason whereof no business can be legally transacted: State ex rel. Conlan v. Oudin & Bergman Fire Clay Mining etc. Co., 48 Wash. 196.

§ 1035. (5781.) By Whom Filed.

The information may be filed by the prosecuting attorney in the superior court of the proper county, upon his own relation, whenever he shall deem it his duty to do so, or shall be directed by the court or other competent authority, or by any other person on his own relation, whenever he claims an interest in the office, franchise, or corporation which is the subject of the information. [L. '54, p. 216, § 469; Cd. '81, § 703; 2 H. C., § 680.]

Cited in 2 Wash. 572; 22 Wash. 198; 28 Wash. 494, 503; 42 Wash. 412; 52 Wash. 640.

Parties plaintiff or petitioners: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2429, §§ 10-13; State ex rel. White v. Point Roberts etc. Co., 42 Wash. 409; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Seattle Gas etc. Co., 28 Wash. 488;

State ex rel. Mitchell v. Horan, 22 Wash. 197.

The mayor of the city as such has not sufficient interest in the office of councilman to entitle him to appear as relator in quo warranto proceedings to oust an alleged usurper from that office: Mills v. State, 2 Wash. 566.

§ 1036. (5782.) Information, Contents of.

The information shall consist of a plain statement of the facts which constitute the grounds of the proceedings, addressed to the court. [L. '54, p. 216, § 470; Cd. '81, § 704; 2 H. C., § 681.]

Cited in 8 Wash. 558.

Pleading—Information or petition: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2430, § 14; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Seattle Gas etc. Co., 28 Wash. 488.

SUFFICIENCY OF INFORMATION.—The information under the code is a plain statement of facts like that in a complaint in any other cause of action, and the only difference between this proceeding and an ordinary civil action is the formal requirement that it be filed on the relation of some one: State v. Van Brocklin, 8 Wash. 557.

An information for the purpose of ousting an officer for malfeasance must state the fact upon which the action is based as definitely as in an information in a criminal action: State v. Friars, 10 Wash. 348.

An information to obtain possession of the office of town marshal and to oust the prior incumbent thereof, is sufficient when it alleges the latter's appointment by the common council to hold office at its pleasure, his due removal for cause deemed sufficient, the due appointment by the relator to fill the vacancy, his acceptance of the office and due qualification therefor in accordance with law: State v. McQuade, 12 Wash. 554.

§ 1037. (5783.) What Information shall State.

Whenever an information shall be filed against a person for usurping an office by the prosecuting attorney, he shall also set forth therein the name of the person rightfully entitled to the office, with an averment of his right thereto; and when filed by any other person, he shall show his interest in the matter, and he may claim the damages he has sustained. [L. '54, p. 216, § 471; Cd. '81, § 705; 2 H. C., § 682.]

Cited in 2 Wash. 572; 52 Wash. 640.

§ 1038. (5784.) Summons, Pleadings, Proceedings.

Whenever an information is filed, a notice signed by the relator shall be served and returned, as in other actions. The defendant shall appear and answer, or suffer default, and subsequent proceeding be had as in other cases. [L. '54, p. 217, § 472; Cd. '81, § 706; 2 H. C., § 683.]

Cited in 2 Wash. 571; 52 Wash. 640.

§ 1039. (5785.) Judgment and Damages.

In every case wherein the right to an office is contested, judgment shall be rendered upon the rights of the parties, and for the damages the relator may show himself entitled to, if any, at the time of the judgment. [L. '54, p. 217, § 473; Cd. '81, § 707; 2 H. C., § 684.]

Cited in 2 Wash. 573; 43 Wash. 606; 52 Wash. 640.

Trial or hearing, and enforcement, operation and effect of judgment: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2431, §§ 16-19; State ex rel. Mullen v. Doherty, 16 Wash. 382; State ex rel. Orr v. Fawcett, 17 Wash. 188.

On appeal from judgment of ouster appellant is entitled to file a bond staying proceedings: State v. Sachs, 3 Wash. 96; distinguished in Fawcett v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 342, 348.

The fact that plaintiff in an action of quo warranto has been removed from office to which he seeks possession cannot be urged on appeal, when the matters establishing that fact do not appear in the record: State v. McQuade, 12 Wash. 554.

A judgment of ouster in a proceeding in the nature of quo warranto divests the person ousted of all official authority whatever, and fully and completely excludes him from the office as long as the judgment remains in force: Fawcett v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 342.

A judgment in favor of a relator in a proceeding by information to try the title to a public office is, from its very nature, self-executing, and, without the aid of process or further action of the court, it accomplishes the object sought to be attained, so that there is nothing upon which a stay bond can operate, except an execution for costs: Id.

Where one excluded from office by judgment of ouster refuses to yield possession on the ground that he has appealed from the judgment and filed a stay bond, and proceedings for contempt are instituted against him, he is not entitled to a writ of prohibition to restrain the court from further proceeding to punish him for contempt, inasmuch as he has a remedy by appeal from any judgment of conviction that may be rendered against him, and such proceeding for contempt is not for the purpose of enforcing the judgment of ouster, but is an independent proceeding to compel obedience to a lawful order of the superior court: Id.

A de jure officer who has recovered judgment against a de facto officer for the salary paid to him, under this section and § 1042, infra, has elected his remedy and cannot recover the same from the town on failure to collect the judgment: Samuels v. Harrington, 43 Wash. 603.

A municipality which pays the salary of a de facto officer while he is in possession of the office is not liable to the de jure officer for such salary, on his establishing his right to the office: Id.

A judgment of ouster is not so suspended by an appeal therefrom as to entitle appellant to the possession of the office during the pendency of the appeal: State v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 376.

After an appeal has been perfected from a judgment of ouster, the superior court has no jurisdiction in that proceeding, on any ground, to order plaintiff, who had been placed in possession of the office, to surrender possession to defendant: Id.

§ 1040. (5786.) Judgment for Relator.

If judgment be rendered in favor of the relator, he shall proceed to exercise the functions of the office, after he has been qualified as required by law, and the court shall order the defendant to deliver over all books and papers in his custody or within his power, belonging to the office from which he has been ousted. [L. '54, p. 217, § 474; Cd. '81, § 708; 2 H. C., § 685.]

Cited in 2 Wash. 573; 15 Wash. 346; 22 Wash. 199; 52 Wash. 640.

§ 1041. (5787.) Order, How Enforced.

If the defendant shall refuse or neglect to deliver over the books and papers pursuant to the order, the court, or judge thereof, shall enforce the order by attachment and imprisonment. [L. '54, p. 217, § 475; Cd. '81, § 709; 2 H. C., § 686.]

Cited in 52 Wash. 640.

§ 1042. (5788.) Action for Damages—Limitation.

When judgment is rendered in favor of the plaintiff, he may, if he has not claimed his damages in the information, have his action for the damages at any time within one year after the judgment. [L. '54, p. 217, § 476; Cd. '81, § 710; 2 H. C., § 687.]

§ 1043. (5789.) Judgment of Ouster or Forfeiture.

Whenever any defendant shall be found guilty of any usurpation of or intrusion into or unlawfully exercising any office or franchise within this state, or any office in any corporation created by the authority of this state, or when any public officer thus charged shall be found guilty of having done or suffered any act which by the provisions of the law shall work a forfeiture of his office, or when any association or number of persons shall be found guilty of having acted as a corporation without having been legally incorporated, the court shall give judgment of ouster against the defendant or defendants, and exclude him or them from the office, franchise, or corporate rights, and in case of corporations, the same shall be dissolved, and the court shall adjudge costs in favor of the plaintiff. [L. '54, p. 217, § 478; Cd. '81, § 711; 2 H. C., § 688.]

See notes to § 1039, supra.

Dissolution of a corporation is authorized under this section and §§ 1034 and 1044, when: State ex rel. Conlan v. Oudin etc.
Co., 48 Wash. 196.

§ 1044. (5790.) Judgment Against Corporation.

If judgment be rendered against any corporation, or against any persons claiming to be a corporation, the court may cause the costs to be collected by executions against the persons claiming to be a corporation, or by attachment against the directors or other officers of the corporation, and shall restrain the corporation, appoint a receiver of its property and effects, take an account and make a distribution thereof among the creditors. The prosecuting attorney shall immediately institute proceedings for that purpose. [L. '54, p. 217, § 479; Cd. '81, § 712; 2 H. C., § 689.]

See note to last section.

Cited in 15 Wash. 675; 48 Wash. 198;
49 Wash. 242.

The superior court has no power to appoint a receiver for a corporation, upon the institution by the state of quo warranto proceedings seeking to oust it from the exercise of corporate powers, since, under the provisions of this section authority to appoint receivers in such cases is specially provided in event of judgment against the corporation: State v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 668.

Whether the corporation is one de jure or merely de facto, it is entitled to the possession of its property until deprived thereof by the judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction, and the question of corporate existence cannot properly be raised in a prohibition proceeding, which seeks to restrain the action of the superior court in appointing a receiver in excess of its jurisdiction: Id.

The last sentence of this section is only directory, and does not preclude the institution of proceedings by an interested party: Conlan v. Oudin, 49 Wash. 240.

Under this section, a receiver may be appointed upon the involuntary dissolution of a corporation without a showing as to any necessity therefor: Id.

§ 1045. (5791.) Action to Recover Escheated or Forfeited Property.

Whenever any property shall [escheat or] be forfeited to the state for its use, the legal title shall be deemed to be in the state from the time of the [escheat or] forfeiture, and an information may be filed by the prosecuting attorney in the superior court for the recovery of the property, alleging the ground on which the recovery is claimed, and like proceedings and judgment shall be had as in civil action for the recovery of the property. [L. '54, p. 218, § 480; Cd. '81, § 713; 2 H. C., § 690.]

The first enactment of this section contained the words in brackets, "escheated or," which were omitted from the Code of 1881.

§ 1046. (5792.) Costs.

When an information is filed by the prosecuting attorney, he shall not be liable for the costs, but when it is filed upon the relation of a private person such person shall be liable for costs unless the same are adjudged against the defendant. [L. '54, p. 218, § 481; Cd. '81, § 714; 2 H. C., § 691.]

§ 1047. (5793.) Information to Annul Patent, etc.

An information may be prosecuted for the purpose of annulling or vacating any letters patent, certificate, or deed granted by the proper authorities of this state, when there is reason to believe that the same were obtained by fraud, or through mistake or ignorance of a material fact, or when the patentee or those claiming under him have done or omitted an act in violation of the terms on which the letters, deeds, or certificates were granted, or have by any other means forfeited the interests acquired under the same. [L. '54, p. 218, § 482; Cd. '81, § 715; 2 H. C., § 692.]

§ 1048. (5794.) Proceedings to Annul.

In such cases, the information may be filed by the prosecuting attorney upon his relation, or by any private person upon his relation, showing his interest in the subject matter; and the subsequent proceedings, judgment of the court, and awarding of costs shall conform to the above provisions, and such letters patent, deed, or certificate shall be annulled or sustained, according to the right of the case. [L. '54, p. 218, § 483; Cd. '81, § 716; 2 H. C., § 693.]

CHAPTER III.

CONTEMPTS AND THEIR PUNISHMENT.

§ 1049. (5798.) Contempts, Defined.

The following acts or omissions, in respect to a court of justice or proceedings therein, are deemed to be contempts of court:—

1. Disorderly, contemptuous, or insolent behavior toward the judge while holding the court, tending to impair its authority, or to interrupt the due course of a trial or other judicial proceedings;

2. A breach of the peace, boisterous conduct, or violent disturbance tending to interrupt the due course of a trial or other judicial proceeding;

3. Misbehavior in office, or other willful neglect or violation of duty by an attorney, clerk, sheriff, or other person appointed or selected to perform a judicial or ministerial service;

4. Deceit, abuse of the process, or proceedings of the court by a party to an action, suit, or special proceeding;

5. Disobedience of any lawful judgment, decree, order, or process of the court;

6. Assuming to be an attorney or other officer of the court, and acting as such without authority in a particular instance;

7. Rescuing any person or property in the lawful custody of an officer, held by such officer under an order or process of such court;

8. Unlawfully detaining a witness or party to an action, suit, or proceeding while going to, remaining at, or returning from the court where the same is for trial;

9. Any other unlawful interference with the process or proceedings of a court;

10. Disobedience of a subpoena duly served, or refusing to be sworn or answer as a witness;

11. When summoned as a juror in a court, improperly conversing with a party to an action, suit, or proceeding to be tried at such court, or with any other person in relation to the merits of such action, suit, or proceeding, or receiving a communication from a party or other person in respect to it, without immediately disclosing the same to the court;

12. Disobedience by an inferior tribunal, magistrate, or officer of the lawful judgment, decree, order, or process of a superior court, or proceeding in an action, suit, or proceeding contrary to law, after such action, suit, or proceeding shall have been removed from the jurisdiction of such inferior tribunal, magistrate, or officer. [L. '69, p. 167, § 667; Cd. '81, § 725; 2 H. C., § 778.]

If the superior court has fined an attorney for contempt and ordered his suspension from practice, until such contempt is purged by apology, the supreme court may intervene by mandamus to compel the vacation of the order of suspension: State v. Sachs, 2 Wash. 373.

If the inferior court is directed by certiorari to certify to the supreme court a transcript of the records in a certain action a return to the writ must be made in any event, and, on failure so to do, a rule will issue to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt: State v. Sachs, 3 Wash. 496.

If a court is without jurisdiction of the subject matter of an action, its order imposing a fine for contempt is void: State v. Milligan, 3 Wash. 144.

The disobedience of a void order of court is not punishable as for a contempt: State v. Ball, 5 Wash. 387; State v. Winder, 14 Wash. 144; Barnett v. Ashmore, 5 Wash. 163, 166.

Where, in a proceeding supplemental to execution, a person residing in another county has been summoned and has refused to obey the summons, he cannot be guilty of a contempt of court, until it has been made to appear that his residence is within twenty miles of such court: State v. Trounce, 5 Wash. 804.

Prohibition will lie against a court which threatens to enforce by contempt proceedings the issuance of a county warrant in payment of stenographer's fees which are not a proper county charge: State v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 31.

An alternative writ of prohibition against a superior judge will be made perpetual to prevent his carrying into effect a void judgment of contempt where he has refused to set aside the judgment, although the return to the alternative writ may recite that the court has no intention of proceeding further in the matter: State v. Langhorn, 8 Wash. 447.

The discharge of the defendant will cast the costs upon the county where the proceeding is brought in the name of the state on the relation of parties in interest in a suit out of which the contempt arose, as such proceedings are of a criminal nature: State v. Milligan, 4 Wash. 29.

§ 1050. (5799.) Punishment for.

Every court of justice and every judicial officer has power to punish contempt by fine or imprisonment, or both. But such fine shall not exceed three hundred dollars, nor the imprisonment six months; and when the contempt is not [one] of those mentioned in subdivisions one and two of the last section, it must appear that the right or remedy of a party to an action, suit, or proceeding was defeated or prejudiced thereby, before the contempt can be punished otherwise than by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars. § 1051. (5800.) Contempts in Presence of Court, How Punished.

When a contempt is committed in the immediate view and presence of the court or officer, it may be punished summarily, for which an order must be made reciting the facts as occurring in such immediate view and presence, determining that the person proceeded against is thereby guilty of contempt, and that he be punished as therein prescribed. § 1052. (5801.) Procedure in Other Cases.

In cases other than those mentioned in the preceding section, before any proceedings can be taken therein, the facts constituting the contempt must be shown by an affidavit presented to the court or judicial officer, and thereupon such court or officer may either make an order upon the person charged to show cause why he should not be arrested to answer, or issue a warrant of arrest to bring such person to answer in the first instance. § 1053. (5802.) Defendant may be Produced if in Custody.

If the party charged be in custody of an officer by virtue of a legal order or process, civil or criminal, except upon a sentence for a felony, an order may be made for the production of such person by the officer having him in custody that he may answer, and he shall thereupon be produced and held until an order be made for his disposal. [L. '69, p. 169, § 671; Cd. '81, § 729; 2 H. C., § 782.]

§ 1054. (5803.) How Prosecuted.

In the proceeding for a contempt, the state is the plaintiff. In all cases of public interest, the proceeding may be prosecuted by the prosecuting attorney on behalf of the state, and in all cases where the proceeding is commenced upon the relation of a private party, such party shall be deemed a coplaintiff with the state. § 1055. (5804.) Warrant, How Executed.

Whenever a warrant of arrest is issued pursuant to this chapter, the court or judicial officer shall direct therein whether the person charged may be let to bail for his appearance upon the warrant, or detained in custody without bail, and if he may be bailed, the amount in which he may be let to bail. Upon executing the warrant of arrest, the sheriff must keep the person in actual custody, bring him before the court or judicial officer, and detain him until an order be made in the premises, unless the person arrested execute and deliver to the sheriff, at any time before the return day of the warrant, a bond, with two sufficient sureties, to the effect that he will appear on such return day and abide the order or judgment of the court or officer thereupon. [L. '69, p. 169, § 673; Cd. '81, § 731; 2 H. C., § 784.]

Attachment is not necessary where defendant voluntarily appears: State ex rel. Ditmar v. Ditmar, 19 Wash. 324.

§ 1056. (5805.) Return of Warrant—Investigation.

The sheriff shall return the warrant of arrest and the bond, if any, given him by the defendant, by the return day therein specified. When the defendant has been brought up or appeared, the court or judicial officer shall proceed to investigate the charge by examining such defendant and witnesses for or against him, for which an adjournment may be had from time to time, if necessary. Upon a contempt proceeding for violating an order as to the obstruction of a highway the question as to whether the § 1058. (5807.) Indemnity to Injured Party.

If any loss or injury to a party in an action, suit, or proceeding, prejudicial to his rights therein, have been caused by the contempt, the court or judicial officer, in addition to the punishment imposed for the contempt, may give judgment that the party aggrieved recover of the defendant a sum of money sufficient to indemnify him, and to satisfy his costs and disbursements, which judgment, and the acceptance of the amount thereof, is a bar to any action, suit, or proceeding by the aggrieved party for such loss or injury. [L. '69, p. 170, § 676; Cd. '81, § 734; 2 H. C., § 787.]

for contempt without being cited therefor, when he is personally before the court and it appears that he has money in his possession and under his control with which to pay the same: In re Cave, 26 Wash. 213.

§ 1060. (5809.) Offender Liable to Indictment, When.

Persons proceeded against according to the provisions of this chapter are also liable to indictment [or information] for the same misconduct, if it be an indictable offense, but the court before which a conviction is had on the indictment [or information] in passing sentence shall take into consideration the punishment before inflicted. If the bond be prosecuted and the aggrieved party join in the action, and the sum specified therein be recovered, so much thereof as will compensate such party for the loss or injury sustained by reason of the misconduct for which the warrant was issued shall be deemed to be recovered for such party exclusively. [L. '69, p. 170, § 679; Cd. '81, § 737; 2 H. C., § 790.]

Either party to a judgment in a proceeding for a contempt may appeal therefrom in like manner and with like effect as from judgment in an action, but such appeal shall not have the effect to stay the proceedings in any other action, suit, or proceeding, or upon any judgment, decree, or order therein, concerning which or wherein such contempt was committed. Contempts of justices' courts are punishable in the manner specially provided for in the chapter relating to justices of the peace and to their practice and jurisdiction. [L. '69, p. 171, § 680; Cd. '81, § 738; 2 H. C., § 791.]

CHAPTER IV.HABEAS CORPUS.*§ 1063. (5814.) Who may Prosecute Writ.

Every person restrained of his liberty, under any pretense whatever, may prosecute a writ of habeas corpus to inquire into the cause of the restraint, and shall be delivered therefrom when illegal. [L. '54, p. 212, § 434; Cd. '81, § 666; 2 H. C., § 711.]

See supra, § 988, in divorce.

Privilege of, not suspended except in cases of rebellion or invasion: Const. Wash., Art. I, § 13; Const. U. S., Art. I, § 9.

Nature of remedy: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1346, § 1.

The supreme court has original jurisdiction in habeas, in all cases, and the provisions of § 4, Article 4, of the Constitution, do not confine its jurisdiction to state officers: In re Rafferty, 1 Wash. 382; In re Graham, 7 Wash. 237; In re Lybarger, 2 Wash. 131.

Under the authority of the supreme court to issue writs of habeas corpus, the court, or one of its judges, can grant an order nisi to show cause why the writ should not issue. In such case the writ should be issued by the clerk: In re Rafferty, supra.

The provision of the constitution giving the supreme court original jurisdiction is self-executing; and in the absence of legislation it has authority to establish rules defining the course to be pursued in issuing the writ: Id.

The provisions of this chapter are applicable to the supreme court: Id. 384.

Where the writ is made returnable by the supreme court before a superior court or judge, the subsequent proceedings should be had in such court: Id. 385.

The supreme court cannot, upon an application for habeas corpus, pass upon the question of former jeopardy of petitioner, but such plea must be raised and tried in the lower court; nor can jurisdiction to determine such question be conferred upon the supreme court by stipulation accompanying the petition: Steiner v. Nerton, 6 Wash. 23.

Grounds of remedy and proceedings reviewable: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1347, §§ 2-10; In re Nolan, 21 Wash. 395; In re Casey, 27 Wash. 686; State ex rel. Zenner v. Graham, 34 Wash. 81; In re Van Alstine, 21 Wash. 194; In re Coulter, 25 Wash. 526; In re Cave, 26 Wash. 213; Packenham v. Reed, 37 Wash. 258.

Habeas corpus will not lie to secure the release of a prisoner on the ground that he has been committed under the judgment of the supreme court, until a certain fine and costs are paid, and the judgment for costs is in fact in favor of the territory and not of the state, when the commitment does not require the payment of such costs as a prerequisite for the prisoner's discharge: Way v. Woolery, 6 Wash. 157.

Habeas corpus will lie to release a child unlawfully detained in a reform school: In re Mason, 3 Wash. 609; or in behalf of a defendant transported to the penitentiary pending an appeal from a judgment of conviction to restore him to the custody of the sheriff of the county in which convicted: Ex parte Jones, 2 Wash. 551; or to release a prisoner held under a judgment of court which had no jurisdiction: In re Permstick, 3 Wash. 672, 674.

And under § 2120, infra, a person charged with a crime is entitled to discharge where the only reason for failure to try him is that no term of court for which a jury had been called had been in session since the filing of the information: State v. Brodie, 7 Wash. 442. This provision, however, does not apply to a new trial: In re Murphy, 7 Wash. 257; nor does § 2125, infra, providing that such discharge shall not bar further prosecution, violate the constitutional guaranty of a speedy public trial: State v. Caldwell, 9 Wash. 336.

Where a defendant convicted in a criminal prosecution applies to the federal court for a writ of habeas corpus, and also appeals from the judgment of the superior court, the settlements of a statement of facts at his request is not a "proceeding against the person," etc., within the provisions of § 766, Rev. Stats. U. S., so as to render the acts of the court in settling the statement null and void: State v. Humason, 4 Wash. 413.

Scope of inquiry and powers of court: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1349, §§ 15-18; In re Barbee, 19 Wash. 306; In re Nolan, 21 Wash. 395; Smith v. Sullivan, 33 Wash. 30.

Determination of particular issues or questions: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1349, §§ 19-22; In re Russell, 40 Wash. 244; In re Coulter, 25 Wash. 526; In re Van Alstine, 21 Wash. 194.

CUSTODY OF CHILD: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1349, § 19; In re Clifford, 37 Wash. 460. If a person or corporation has no legal right to the custody of a minor child, it cannot uphold its custody as against the parents, on the ground that they are not proper and competent to have its care and custody: Lovell v. House of Good Shepherd, 9 Wash. 419.

The mere fact that the mother is coarse, vulgar, passionate and pugnacious, and that the father excessively uses intoxicants, is not sufficient grounds for depriving them of the society and comfort of their child: Id.

Although the mother may have placed her child in the hands of another for care and education, and deserted it, under a promise that it remain there until eighteen years old, such act will not estop her from afterward claiming control and custody of it before the expiration of such period: Id.

In an action for the possession of minor children brought by the mother against the father, based upon an alleged decree of divorce in another state awarding the custody of the children to her, where it appears from the evidence that the father is the more suitable person to have the care and custody of the children, being better prepared to care for and educate them, and that the mother is unsuited morally to have the control of the children, and is financially unable to care for them, a decree giving the mother the custody of the children is erroneous: Kentzler v. Kentzler, 3 Wash. 166.

The assumption of custody of a minor child, under order of the superior court in a habeas corpus proceeding, will not constitute false imprisonment, although the appellate court on a review of the habeas corpus proceedings may reverse the judgment of the superior court as erroneous: Lovell v. House of Good Shepherd, 14 Wash. 211.

A party who successfully brings an action for the custody of a child in habeas corpus proceedings cannot subsequently bring another action to recover the expenses incident to the first case: Id.

Where, after the rendition of a decree of divorce in which the custody of the minor children has been awarded to the mother, a stipulation for the modification of the decree so as to award custody to the father has been entered into by the father and mother, and possession of the children given to the father under such stipulation, the father is rightfully entitled to the children, although in fact the modification of the decree has never been secured: Ackley v. Burchard, 11 Wash. 128.

Determination of questions in extradition: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1350, § 20; In re Foy, 21 Wash. 250; Armstrong v. Van De Vanter, 21 Wash. 682; In re Sylvester, 21 Wash. 263; Poor v. Cudihee, 37 Wash. 609; In re Gillis, 38 Wash. 156; In re Baker, 21 Wash. 259; In re Lillis, 38 Wash. 366; In re Maney, 20 Wash. 509.

§ 1064. (5815.) Parents, etc., may have Writ.

Writs of habeas corpus shall be granted in favor of parents, guardians, masters, and husbands, and to enforce the rights and for the protection of infants and insane persons; and the proceedings shall in all cases conform to the provisions of this chapter. [L. '54, p. 214, § 456; Cd. '81, § 688; 2 H. C., § 733.]

See notes to last section.

In an application for a writ of habeas corpus by a father to recover the custody of children who had been surrendered by the mother to defendant for the purpose of having him provide homes for them, an order of the court directing defendant to make application under the provisions of the statute for the disposition of said children, being advisory merely, is not an appealable order: St. Clair v. Williams, 23 Wash. 552.

§ 1065. (5816.) Application for, How Made.

Application for the writ shall be made by petition, signed and verified either by the plaintiff or by some person in his behalf, and shall specify,—

1. By whom the petitioner is restrained of his liberty, and the place where (naming the parties if they are known, or describing them if they are not known);

2. The cause or pretense of the restraint, according to the best of the knowledge and belief of the applicant;

3. If the restraint be alleged to be illegal, in what the illegality consists. [L. '54, p. 212, § 422; Cd. '81, § 667; 2 H. C., § 712.]

§ 1066. (5817.) By Whom Granted.

Writs of habeas corpus may be granted by the supreme court or superior court, or by any judge of either court, and upon application the writ shall be granted without delay. [L. '54, p. 212, § 436; Cd. '81, § 668; 2 H. C., § 713.]

See Const., Art. IV, §§ 4, 6, jurisdiction of supreme and superior courts.

See supra, §§ 1, 15, jurisdiction of courts to issue.

See § 1063, and notes, who may prosecute writ.

Cited in 37 Wash. 260.

The supreme court will not take original jurisdiction of an application of a writ after the denial of the matter by the superior court: In re Graham, 7 Wash. 237.

The object in giving every judge original jurisdiction was to place the remedy within easy reach, and insure speedy relief, but not to give a multiplicity of trials: Id. 238.

§ 1067. (5818.) To Whom Directed—Contents of.

The writ shall be directed to the officer or party having the person under restraint, commanding him to have such person before the court or judge at such time and place as the court or judge shall direct to do and receive what shall be ordered concerning him, and have then and there the writ. [L. '54, p. 212, § 437; Cd. '81, § 669; 2 H. C., § 714.]

§ 1068. (5819.) Delivery of Writ to Sheriff—Service.

If the writ be directed to the sheriff, it shall be delivered by the clerk to him without delay. [L. '54, p. 212, § 438; Cd. '81, § 670; 2 H. C., § 715.]

§ 1069. (5820.) Service of Writ Directed to Person Other than Sheriff.

If the writ be directed to any other person, it shall be delivered to the sheriff, and shall be by him served by delivering the same to such person without delay. [L. '54, p. 212, § 439; Cd. '81, § 671; 2 H. C., § 716.]

§ 1070. (5821.) Service When Person not Found.

If the person to whom such writ is directed cannot be found or shall refuse admittance to the sheriff, the same may be served by leaving it at the residence of the person to whom it is directed, or by posting the same on [in] some conspicuous place, either on his dwelling-house or where the party is confined or under restraint. [L. '54, p. 212, § 440; Cd. '81, § 672; 2 H. C., § 717.]

§ 1071. (5822.) Return—Attachment for Refusal.

The sheriff or other person to whom the writ is directed shall make immediate return thereof, and if he refuses after due service to make return, the court shall enforce obedience by attachment. [L. '54, p. 213, § 441; Cd. '81, § 673; 2 H. C., § 718.]

§ 1072. (5823.) Substance and Form of Return.

The return must be signed and verified by the person making it, who shall state,—

1. The authority or cause of the restraint of the party in his custody;
2. If the authority shall be in writing, he shall return a copy and produce the original on the hearing;
3. If he has had the party in his custody, or under his restraint, and has transferred him to another, he shall state to whom, the time, place, and cause of the transfer. He shall produce the party at the hearing, unless prevented by sickness or infirmity, which must be shown in the return. [L. '54, p. 213, § 442; Cd. '81, § 674; 2 H. C., § 719.]

§ 1073. (5824.) Proceedings—Pleadings.

The court or judge, if satisfied of the truth of the allegation of sickness or infirmity, may proceed to decide on the return, or the hearing may be adjourned until the party can be produced, or for other good cause. The plaintiff may except to the sufficiency of or controvert the return, or any part thereof, or allege any new matter in evidence. The new matter shall be verified, except in cases of commitment on a criminal charge. The return and pleadings may be amended without causing a [any] delay. [L. '54, p. 213, § 443; Cd. '81, § 675; 2 H. C., § 720.]

§ 1074. (5825.) Hearing and Determination.

The court or judge shall thereupon proceed in a summary way to hear and determine the cause, and if no legal cause be shown for the restraint or for the continuation thereof, shall discharge the party. [L. '54, p. 213, § 444; Cd. '81, § 676; 2 H. C., § 721.]

If a prisoner, rearrested after a release on a conditional pardon, is entitled to trial in habeas corpus proceedings to determine whether he has violated the conditions of the pardon, he cannot complain if he is awarded a trial before the court and the burden of proof is placed on the state: Spencer v. Kees, 47 Wash. 276.

§ 1075. (5826.) Restrictions upon Inquiry.

No court or judge shall inquire into the legality of any judgment or process whereby the party is in custody, or discharge him when the term of commitment has not expired, in either of the cases following:—

1. Upon any process issued on any final judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction;

2. For any contempt of any court, officer or body having authority in the premises to commit; but an order of commitment, as for a contempt upon proceedings to enforce the remedy of a party, is not included in any of the foregoing specifications;

3. Upon a warrant issued from the superior court upon an indictment or information. [L. '54, p. 213, § 445; Cd. '81, § 677; L. '91, p. 82, § 1; 2 H. C., § 722.]

Under this section, defendant is restricted to his remedy by appeal touching the legality of any commitment issued on a final judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction; and the writ will only lie where the court has no jurisdiction in the premises: In re Rafferty, 1 Wash. 382; distinguished in In re Permstick, 3 Wash. 674.

The provisions of this section precludes the supreme court, in habeas corpus proceedings, from questioning the judgment of a court of general jurisdiction fair upon its face: In re Lybarger, 2 Wash. 131; such statute does not transgress the constitutional provision securing the right to the writ: Id.

The fact that a party can appeal from a judgment against him in a criminal action does not estop him from maintaining an application for the writ where the court rendering the judgment had no jurisdiction over the subject matter: In re Permstick,

The trial of a case by a court of competent jurisdiction is not reviewable on this writ: Ex parte Williams, 1 W. T. 240. The remedy is by appeal: In re Rafferty, 1 Wash. 388.

A prisoner is entitled to his discharge upon proceedings in habeas corpus, when it appears that he was imprisoned under a regularly certified judgment and commitment for the term of one year, which had expired, although another judgment by the same court on the same day ordered his commitment for a term of five years, which was the proper penalty for the offense of which he had been convicted: Davis v. Catron, 22 Wash. 183.

§ 1076. (5827.) Admission to Bail Instead of Discharge.

No person shall be discharged from an order of commitment issued by any judicial or peace officer for want of bail, or in cases not bailable on account of any defect in the charge or process, or for alleged want of probable cause; but in all cases the court or judge shall summon the prosecuting witnesses, investigate the criminal charge, and discharge, admit to bail, or recommit the prisoner, as may be just and legal, and recognize witnesses when proper. corpus proceedings, and the order granting a supersedeas and admitting to bail will be vacated by the supreme court on motion: In re Foye, 21 Wash. 250.

§ 1078. (5829.) Compelling Attendance of Witnesses.

The court or judge shall have power to require and compel the attendance of witnesses, and to do all other acts necessary to determine the case. [L. '54, p. 214, § 448; Cd. '81, § 680; 2 H. C., § 725.]

§ 1080. (5831.) Warrant to Prevent Removal.

Whenever it shall appear by affidavit that anyone is illegally held in custody or restraint, and that there is good reason to believe that such person will be carried out of the jurisdiction of the court or judge before whom the application is made, or will suffer some irreparable injury before compliance with the writ can be enforced, such court or judge may cause a warrant to be issued reciting the facts, and directed to the sheriff or any constable of the county, commanding him to take the person thus held in custody or restraint, and forthwith bring him before the court or judge, to be dealt with according to the law. § 1081. (5832.) What Warrant may Include.

particular time for such return. And no writ or other process shall be disregarded for any defect therein, if enough is shown to notify the officer or person of the purport of the process. CHAPTER V.

ASSIGNMENTS FOR THE BENEFIT OF CREDITORS.

§ 1086. (5841.) Must be General—Effect of.

No general assignment of property by an insolvent, or in contemplation of insolvency, for the benefit of creditors, shall be valid unless it be made for the benefit of all his creditors in proportion to the amount of their respective claims; and after the payment of the costs and disbursements thereof, including the attorney fees allowed by law in case of judgment, out of the estate of the insolvent, such claim or claims shall be deemed as presented, and shall share pro rata with other claims as hereinafter provided. [Cf. L. '90, p. 83, § 1; 1 H. C., § 2741; L. '93, p. 247, § 1.]

See notes to § 741, receivers in case of.

See notes to § 1104, leave to foreclose mortgage covered by assignment.

See notes to § 1104, priority, delivery, etc.

For former provisions see §§ 2014-2051, Code of 1881.

Requisites and validity of assignment: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 286-288, §§ 1-11; Degginger v. Seattle Brewing & Malt-ing Co., 41 Wash. 385; Smith v. Cullen, 18 Wash. 398; Bloomingdale v. Weil, 29 Wash. 611.

The assignment law of 1881 was repealed in all its provisions by the act covered by this chapter: Mansfield v. First Nat. Bank, 5 Wash. 665.

The state insolvency act is not suspended or superseded by the federal bankruptcy law when no bankruptcy proceedings are instituted: Jensen-King-Byrd Co. v. Williams, 35 Wash. 161.

WHO MAY HAVE BENEFIT OF.—This statute governing assignments for benefit of creditors has no application to insolvent corporations: McKay v. Elwood, 12 Wash. 579, 582; following Nyman v. Berry, 3 Wash. 734. Compare Schloss & Co. v. Wallace, 14 Wash. 249. But an insolvent corporation may make a common-law deed of assignment of all of its property to a trustee for the benefit of all of its creditors unless restrained by statute or by charter: Nyman v. Berry, 3 Wash. 734; cited in McKay v. Elwood, 12 Wash. 583.

Foreign assignments and extraterritorial effect of assignments: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 289, § 16; Bloomingdale v. Weil, 29 Wash. 611; Happy v. Prickett, 24 Wash. 290.

An assignment in Minnesota for the benefit of creditors of all debtor's property is a voluntary assignment and will pass title to property in this state: Whitman v. Mast, 11 Wash. 318; and a receiver subsequently appointed in the insolvency proceedings succeeds to all the rights and title of the original assignee and may maintain action in this state for debts due him as trustee of the insolvent estate: Id.

A husband may make a valid assignment, which operates to transfer community real and personal property, although the wife fails to join therein: Thygesen v. Neufelder, 9 Wash. 455.

Administration of assigned estate: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 289, 291, §§ 17-27; Boston Nat. Bank v. Hammond, 21 Wash. 158; Thompson v. Sines, 18 Wash. 359; Moore v. Terry, 17 Wash. 185; Bloomingdale v. Weil, 29 Wash. 611; Happy v. Prickett, 24 Wash. 690.

Property in possession of an assignee is in custodia legis, and cannot be seized under a writ of attachment, although the assignment may be alleged to be fraudulent: Hamilton Brown Shoe Co. v. Adams, 5 Wash. 333.

Where goods in the hands of an assignee for the benefit of creditors have been attached by a creditor of the assignor, the proper practice is for the assignee to bring his proceeding for possession in the matter of assignment, instead of intervening in the attachment suit: Sabin v. Adams, 5 Wash. 768.

Where a debtor in failing circumstances, contemplating assignment, makes a chattel mortgage in fraud of his creditors, and subsequently makes an assignment for their benefit, his assignee is entitled to and may recover possession of the goods thus fraudulently transferred: Mansfield v. First

Nat. Bank, 5 Wash. 665; Mansfield v. First Nat. Bank, 6 Wash. 603; Sabin v. Adams, 5 Wash. 769.

If an insolvent debtor makes a general assignment, the assignee cannot maintain an action against an attaching creditor and sheriff for injuries resulting from alleged malicious levy of attachment prior to assignment: Slauson v. Schwabacher, 4 Wash. 783.

When an assignment for the benefit of creditors has been made, a creditor cannot, during the pendency of the insolvent proceedings, maintain another form of action against the assignor: Cosh-Murray Co. v. Bothell, 10 Wash. 314.

Nor can a mechanic's lien be enforced against property in the hands of an assignee for benefit of creditors; the claim must be presented in the insolvency proceedings: Quinby v. Slipper, 7 Wash. 475.

EFFECT OF ASSIGNMENT: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 288, §§ 12-15; Jensen-King-Byrd Co. v. Williams, 35 Wash. 161; Thompson v. Sines, 18 Wash. 359; Bloomington v. Weil, 29 Wash. 611. The assigned estate is in the possession of the court for pro rata distribution, and no one can interfere with it except at his peril: Sabin v. Adams, 5 Wash. 768.

The discharge in insolvency proceedings from the lien of a judgment by the same court which rendered it is without effect on a judgment creditor, when the court had no jurisdiction over him in the insolvency proceedings: Weber v. Yancy, 7 Wash. 84.

A party appearing and accepting a dividend cannot impeach the discharge of the debtors years thereafter, when no objection was made at the time: Boston Nat. Bank v. Hammond, 21 Wash. 158.

If proceedings in insolvency were begun under the provisions of the Code of 1881, and a receiver appointed to take charge of the estate, the repeal by act of March 6, 1890, while the proceedings were pending, will not affect the title of an assignee appointed subsequent to the repeal: Ewing v. Van Wagoner, 6 Wash. 39.

The lien of an attachment is not discharged under the amendment of March 10, 1893, by the subsequent filing of an assignment: Bierer v. Blurock, 9 Wash. 63; cited in State v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 329.

The assignee of an insolvent debtor is not entitled to the possession of his assignor's property, which was in the possession of the sheriff by virtue of a valid attachment levied prior to the assignment: State v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 324.

PREFERENCES: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 287, §§ 9-11. If a chattel mortgage and an assignment for the benefit of creditors are assailed as one transaction and are construed together to prevent an equal distribution among creditors, they must stand or fall together: Benham v. Ham, 5 Wash. 128, 132.

A debtor in failing circumstances may dispose of his entire property to pay or secure bona fide debts to a portion of his creditors and leave other creditors unsatisfied: Turner v. Iowa Nat. Bank, 2 Wash. 192; Samuel v. Kittenger, 6 Wash. 261; Furth v. Snell, 6 Wash. 542, 546; Ephriam v. Kelleher, 4 Wash. 243; Benham v. Ham, 5 Wash. 128, 34 Am. St. Rep. 851; First Nat. Bank v. Carter, 6 Wash. 494, 496; and the fact of such distribution does not work an assignment for the benefit of creditors: Furth v. Snell, 6 Wash. 542; Puget Sound Nat Bank v. Levy, 10 Wash. 499; Victor v. Glover, 17 Wash. 37.

While an assignment transfers all of the property of an insolvent debtor to the jurisdiction of the court, it passes such property subject to all valid liens existing against it: Gilbert Hunt Mfg. Co. v. Wheeler, 15 Wash. 594; following Bierer v. Blurock, 9 Wash. 63.

If an insolvent debtor confesses judgment to certain creditors, who have knowledge of his condition, at the time contemplating an assignment, and follows the confession with an assignment, the judgment liens are voidable and the assignee, or the court's receiver may take possession of all the property for the benefit of all the creditors: Hyman v. Barmon, 6 Wash. 516; but where the preferred creditor has no knowledge of an intended assignment by his debtor his preference will be held valid, although the debtor may make an assignment of the remainder of his property within three days thereafter: Benham v. Ham, 5 Wash. 128.

Although by the law of this state an assignment for the benefit of creditors would operate to dissolve a prior attachment, yet, in case of the levy of attachment in a foreign state upon the property of a citizen of this state, the levy, if valid where made, would not be affected by the subsequent assignment of the debtor here: Neufelder v. No. British etc. Ins. Co., 10 Wash. 393; citing Id., 6 Wash. 336.

After the institution of insolvency proceedings, all questions relating to fraud of debtor should be tried therein: Traders' Bank v. Van Wagenen, 2 Wash. 172.

§ 1087. (5842.) Assent Presumed.

In case of an assignment for the benefit of all the creditors of the assignor, the assent of the creditors shall be presumed. [L. '90, p. 83, § 2; 1 H. C., § 2742.]

§ 1088. (5843.) How Made, Procedure Thereafter.

The debtor shall annex to such assignment an inventory, under oath, of all his estate, real and personal, according to the best of his knowledge, and also a list of his creditors, with their postoffice address[es], and a list of the amount of their respective demands, but such inventory shall not be conclusive as to the amount of the debtor's estate. Every assignment shall be in writing, and duly acknowledged, in the same manner as conveyances of real estate, and recorded in the record of deeds of the county where the person making the same resides, or where the business in respect to which the same is made has been carried on. Upon the application of two or more creditors of said debtor therefor, by petition to the judge of the superior court of the county in which such assignment is or should be recorded, at any time within thirty days from the making or recording of such assignment, it shall be the duty of said superior judge to direct the clerk of said superior court to order a meeting of the creditors of said debtor to choose an assignee of the estate of said debtor in lieu of the assignee named by the debtor in his assignment; and thereupon the clerk of said court shall forthwith give notice to all the creditors of said debtor to meet at his office at a time stated, not to exceed fifteen days from the date of such notice, to select one or more assignees in the place of the assignee named by the debtor in his assignment. Such creditors may appear in person or by proxy, and a majority in number and value of said creditors attending such meeting shall select one or more assignees; and in the event that no one shall receive a majority vote of said creditors, who represent at least one-half in amount of all claims represented at such meeting, then, and in that event, said clerk shall certify that fact to the judge of the superior court aforesaid, and thereupon said superior judge shall select and appoint an assignee. When such assignee shall have been selected by such creditors, or appointed by the superior judge, as herein provided, then the assignee named in the debtor's assignment shall forthwith make to the assignee elected by the creditors, or appointed by the superior judge, an assignment and conveyance of all the estate, real and personal, that has been assigned or conveyed to him by said debtor; and such assignee so elected by the creditors or appointed by the superior judge, upon giving the bond required of an assignee by this chapter, shall possess all the powers and be subject to all the duties imposed by this chapter, as fully, to all intents and purposes, as though named in the debtor's assignment. From the time of the pending of an application to elect an assignee by the creditors, and until the time shall be terminated by an election or appointment as herein provided, no property of the debtor, except perishable property, shall be sold or disposed of by any assignee; but the same shall be safely and securely kept until the election or appointment of an assignee, as herein provided. No creditor shall be entitled to vote at any such meeting called for the purpose of electing an assignee, until he shall have presented to the clerk of the superior court, who shall preside at such meeting, a verified statement of his claim against the debtor. [L. '90, p. 83, § 3; 1 H. C., § 2743.]

See notes to § 1086, supra.

Where an assignment for the benefit of creditors has been made and the assignee has failed to comply with the law, a petition to the court by one alleging himself to be a creditor, asking the appointment of an assignee to administer the insolvent's estate, cannot be dismissed upon the mere affidavit of the insolvent that such petitioner is not a creditor: In re Heuse, 13 Wash. 614.

Where an assignment for the benefit of creditors has been made by a corporation, the court in which the insolvency proceedings are pending has authority to make an order requiring payment of unpaid stock subscriptions: McKay v. Elwood, 12 Wash. 579.

A person not a party to insolvency proceedings has no right to appear in the action by petition and ask to have a judgment which had been rendered therein set aside, and the filing of a petition under such circumstances will not give the court jurisdiction either of the subject matter or of the person of the defendant: State v. Langhorn, 12 Wash. 588.

In such case the proceedings of the court being without jurisdiction, prohibition will lie to prevent the court enforcing its orders therein: Id.

An unexpired municipal license to sell liquor is assignable and passes to receiver: See Degginger v. Seattle Brewing and Malt- ing Co., 41 Wash. 385.

Irregularities, void provisions, or lack of acknowledgment do not invalidate an as- signment: Smith v. Cullen, 18 Wash. 398.

§ 1089. (5844.) Inventory and Valuation—Bond.

The assignee shall also forthwith file with the clerk of the superior court of the county where such assignment will be recorded a true and full inven- tory and valuation of said estate, under oath, as far as the same has come to his knowledge, and shall then and there enter into bonds to the state of Washington, for the use of the creditors, in double the amount of the inven- tory and valuation, with two or more sufficient sureties, to be approved by said clerk, for the faithful performance of said trust; and the assignee may thereupon proceed to perform any duties necessary to carry into effect the intention of said assignment. [L. '90, p. 85, § 4; 1 H. C., § 2744.]

§ 1090. (5845.) Notice of Assignment.

The assignee shall forthwith give notice of such assignment, by publica- tion in some newspaper in the county, if any, and if none, then in the nearest county thereto, which publication shall be continued at least six weeks; and shall forthwith send a notice by mail to each creditor of whom he shall be informed, directed to their usual place of residence, and notifying the credi- tors to present their claims, under oath, to him within three months there- after. [L. '90, p. 85, § 5; 1 H. C., § 2745.]

Cited in 10 Wash. 315.

Jurisdiction is acquired by the assignment and statutory notice: Cosh-Murray Co. v.

Bothell, 10 Wash. 314; Boston Nat. Bank v. Hammond, 21 Wash. 158.

§ 1091. (5846.) List of Creditors.

At the expiration of three months from the time of first publishing no- tice, the assignee shall report and file with the clerk of the court a true and full list, under oath, of all such creditors of the assignor as shall have claims to be such, with a statement of their claims, and also an affidavit of publica- tion of notice, and a list of the creditors, with their places of residence, to whom notice has been sent by mail, and the date of mailing, duly verified. [L. '90, p. 85, § 6; 1 H. C., § 2746.]

§ 1092. (5847.) Exceptions to Claims.

Any person interested may appear within three months after filing such report, and file with said clerk any exceptions to the claim or demand of any creditor, and the clerk shall forthwith cause notice thereof to be given to the creditor, which shall be served [and returned] as in case of summons; and the court shall proceed to hear the proof and allegation of the parties in the premises, and shall render such judgment therein as shall be just, and may allow a trial by jury thereon. [L. '90, p. 85, § 7; 1 H. C., § 2747.]

Section altered to conform to present organization of courts.

Under the Insolvency Law of 1890, when an assignment for the benefit of creditors has been made by a debtor, a creditor cannot, during the pendency of the insolvency proceeding, maintain another form of action against the assigning debtor: Cosh-Murray Co. v. Bothell, 10 Wash. 314.

§ 1093. (5848.) Dividends, Accounts, Compensation.

If no exception be made to the claim of any creditor, or if the same has been adjudicated, the court shall order the assignee to make from time to time fair and equal dividends among the creditors of the assets in his hands, in proportion to their claims, and as soon as may be to render a final account of said trust to said court, which may allow such commissions to said assignee in the final settlement as may be considered right and just, not exceeding, however, the fees and compensation allowed by law to administrators and executors. [Cf. L. '90, p. 86; § 8; 1 H. C., § 2748; L. '93, p. 39, § 1.]

The filing by a creditor of his claim with the assignee does not waive his right under a prior attachment levied in a foreign state; but he becomes thereby a party to the insolvency proceedings and will be bound thereby: Neufelder v. North B. etc. Ins. Co., 10 Wash. 393; but the amount received by means of the attachment ought to be deducted from the claim as filed with the assignee, and the balance treated as the true amount of the indebtedness: Id.

If an assignment has been made for the benefit of creditors, a secured creditor is entitled to share pro rata only on the balance of his claim remaining after exhausting and applying the proceeds of his security to the diminution of his claim: In re Frasch, 5 Wash. 345.

Where a creditor accepts a dividend under an assignment for the benefit of creditors, he will not afterward be allowed to impeach the assignment in order to render the assets covered thereby liable to execution for his debt: Cerf, Schloss & Co. v. Wallace, 14 Wash. 249.

A creditor of an insolvent does not lose his right to a distributive share in the assets in the hands of an assignee by attaching a portion of the property which passed to the assignee, under a bona fide belief that it was property of a firm of which the insolvent was a member, where such belief had sufficient foundation to induce the lower court to decide in accordance therewith, although its judgment was reversed: Anderson v. Risdon-Cahn Co., 13 Wash. 494.

An assignee of an insolvent estate cannot, for the purpose of distribution, be required to treat as cash assets an uncollected judgment against a creditor of the insolvent, or against any other person: Id.

§ 1094. (5849.) Assignee Subject to Control of Court.

The assignee shall at all times be subject to the order of the court or judge and the said court or judge may, by citation and attachment, compel the assignee, from time to time, to file reports of his proceedings, and of the situation and condition of the trust, and to proceed in the faithful execution of the duties required by this chapter. [L. '90, p. 86, § 9; 1 H. C. § 2749.]

Cited in 5 Wash. 339.

§ 1095. (5850.) Not Void, When—Citation to Debtor.

No assignment shall be declared fraudulent or void for want of any list or inventory as provided in this chapter. The court or judge may, upon application of the assignee, or any creditor, compel the appearance in person of the debtor before such court or judge forthwith, to answer under oath such matters as may then and there be inquired of him; and such debtor may then and there be fully examined under oath as to the amount and situation of his estate, and the names of the creditors, and amounts due to each, with their places of residence, and the court may compel the delivery to the assignee of any property or estate embraced in the assignment. [L. '90, p. 86, § 10; 1 H. C., § 2750.]

Estoppel to attack assignment: See Boston Nat. Bank v. Hammond, 21 Wash. 158.
An assignment is not vitiated by a provision which authorizes sales on credit: Smith v. Cullen, 18 Wash. 398.

§ 1096. (5851.) Additional Inventory.

The assignee shall, from time to time, file with the clerk of the court an inventory and valuation of any additional property which may come into his hands, under such assignment, after the filing of the first inventory, and the clerk may thereupon require him to give additional security. [L. '90, p. 86, § 11; 1 H. C., § 2751.]

Cited in 5 Wash. 341.

§ 1097. (5852.) Claims not Due, Limitation.

Any creditor may claim debts to become due, as well as debts due, but on debts not due, a reasonable abatement shall be made when the same are not drawing interest; and all creditors who shall not exhibit their claims within the term of three months from the publication of notice as aforesaid, shall not participate in the dividends until after payment in full of all claims presented within said term and allowed by the court. [L. '90, p. 86, § 12; 1 H. C., § 2752.]

§ 1098. (5853.) Authority of Assignee—Sales.

Any assignee as aforesaid shall have as full power and authority to dispose of all estate, real and personal, assigned, as the debtor had at the time of the assignment, and to sue for and recover, in the name of such assignee, everything belonging or appertaining to said estate, and generally to do whatever the debtor might have done in the premises; but no sale of real estate belonging to said trust shall be made without notice published, as in case of sale of real estate on execution, unless the court shall order and direct otherwise. [L. '90, p. 87, § 13; 1 H. C., § 2753.]

See notes to § 1093, supra.

From the time of the assignment by an insolvent corporation the obligation of each stockholder on unpaid subscriptions sufficient to satisfy the indebtedness of the corporation is a debt presently due and may be enforced by the assignee: McKay v. Elwood, 12 Wash. 579, 585.

The purchaser of land at an assignee's sale is entitled to a perfect title, and cannot be compelled to take land which he has bid for, when he would thereby be put to expense to clear the title: In re Box's Assignment, 11 Wash. 90.

Where the assignee of an insolvent estate, after making sale of land belonging thereto, reports to the court that he returns the property unsold for the reason that the purchaser will not consummate the sale, and asks permission to dispose of the same at private sale, he is estopped, after the lapse of eight months from enforcing payment from the purchaser: Id.

§ 1099. (5854.) Proceedings upon Death or Failure of Assignee to Act.

In case any assignee shall die before closing of his trust, or in case any assignee shall fail or neglect, for the period of thirty days after the making of any assignment, to file an inventory and valuation and give bonds as required by this chapter, the superior court or judge thereof of the county where such assignment may be recorded, on the application of any person interested, shall appoint some person to execute the trust embraced in such assignment; and such person, on giving the bond with sureties, as required of the assignee, shall possess all the power conferred on such assignee, and shall be subject to all the duties hereby imposed as fully as though named in the assignment; and in case any surety shall be discovered insufficient, or, on complaint before the court or judge, it should be made to appear that any assignee is guilty of wasting or misapplying the trust estate, said court or judge may direct and require additional security, and may remove such assignee, and may appoint others instead; and such person so appointed, on giving bond, shall have full power to execute such duties, and to demand and sue for all estate in the hands of the person removed, and to demand and recover the amount and value of all moneys and property or estate so wasted and misapplied which he may neglect or refuse to make satisfaction for from such person and his sureties. [L. '90, p. 87, § 14; 1 H. C., § 2754.]

§ 1100. (5855.) Discharge of Assignor, When.

Whenever it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court or judge thereof when the assignment is pending upon the final reports of the assignee chosen by the creditors or otherwise that the assignor has been guilty of no fraud in making an assignment or concealment or diversion of the property or any part thereof, in order to keep the same beyond the reach of creditors, and has acted justly and fairly in all respects; that the estate has been made to realize the fullest amount possible and that the expenses of the assignment have been paid. The judge of the court having jurisdiction of the matter shall, upon the allowance of the final account of the assignee, make an order discharging the assignor or assignors as the case may be from any further liability on account of any indebtedness existing prior to the making of such assignment, and thereafter such assignor shall be freed from any liability on account of any unsatisfied portion of the indebtedness existing prior to the making of the assignment. [Cf. L. '90, p. 88, § 15; 1 H. C., § 2755; L. '95, p. 378, § 1.]

Discharge: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 292, § 35; Weber v. Yancey, 7 Wash. 84; Boston Nat. Bank v. Hammond, 21 Wash. 158.

When a judgment debtor failed to apply to court to limit plaintiff's recovery in foreclosure proceedings to the property mortgaged, the discharge in insolvency will not prevent a deficiency judgment for balance due after sale of the mortgaged property: Leisure v. Kneeland, 2 Wash. 537.

After institution of insolvency proceedings all questions relating to the fraud of the debtor should be tried therein, and if the debtor is convicted of fraud he cannot obtain his discharge, nor the return of his estate, as that has become vested in the assignee for the benefit of his creditors: Traders' Bank v. Van Wagenen, 2 Wash. 172.

An assignment for the benefit of creditors, not objected to, discharges the debtor, and may be set up to defeat supplemental proceedings upon a judgment obtained by a creditor pending the insolvency proceedings: Jensen-King-Byrd Co. v. Williams, 35 Wash. 161.

Accounting, settlement, etc.: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 293, §§ 36-38; Thompson v. Sines, 18 Wash. 359; Slater v. Stevens County Bank, 12 Wash. 488; Rochford v. Doty, 37 Wash. 232.

§ 1101. (5856.) Sheriff not to be Receiver or Assignee.

It shall be unlawful for the judge of any court of record or the creditors of an insolvent debtor to appoint the sheriff of the county receiver or assignee in any case of insolvency or assignment. [L. '93, p. 462, § 1.]

See § 1173, logger's lien.

§ 1102. (5857.) Right of Exemption.

Hereafter any person making a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, under any statute of this state, shall have the right to claim, and have set aside to him, as exempt from the operation of such assignment, all real and personal property which is, at the time of such assignment, exempt from levy by execution or attachment, under the laws of this state. [L. '97, p. 6, § 1.]

See supra, § 528 et seq., exemptions.

§ 1103. (5858.) How Claimed—Objections.

Such assignor shall, if he desires to claim the benefit of the last preceding section, state in such assignment, or in the inventory annexed thereto, what property he claims as exempt, giving a description thereof sufficient for identification. Any creditor of such assignor who believes any of the property so claimed as exempt is not so in fact shall have the right to make objection to such exemption claim at any time prior to the expiration of the time for presentment of claims against such assignor to his assignee. Such objection shall be made by delivering to the assignor and the assignee, and filing with the clerk of the court having jurisdiction of the assignment, a notice in writing, clearly pointing out the part or parts of such exemption claim objected to, and the ground of such objection. When the time above provided for the service and filing of objections has expired, the assignor, upon application to said court, shall have a right to the summary hearing of the said objections, and at such hearing the court shall determine and adjudge to the assignor his lawful exemptions. If any part of the exemptions claimed by the assignor shall be denied, the court shall direct the assignee to pay, out of the funds in his hands, the costs of the hearing, if any, as a part of the expenses of the assignment proceedings. The court may, at its discretion, if it find any claim made for exemption to be fraudulent and made in bad faith, deny such exemption. If no objection to the said exemption claim is served and filed prior to the expiration of the time for presentment of claims to the assignee, the assignor shall be entitled as of course to an order setting aside to him the exemptions claimed by him as aforesaid, and it shall be the duty of the assignee forthwith to deliver the same to him. [L. '97, p. 6, § 2.]

CHAPTER I.

THE FORECLOSURE OF CHATTEL MORTGAGES.

§ 1104. (5870.) Chattel Mortgage—How Foreclosed.

Any mortgage of personal property, when the debt to secure which the mortgage was given is due, may be foreclosed by notice and sale as herein provided; or it may be foreclosed by action in the superior court having jurisdiction in the county in which the property is situated. [Cf. L. '75, p. 46, § 18; L. '79, p. 105, § 6; Cd. '81, § 1991; 1 H. C., § 1650.]

See supra, § 1086, and notes, assignment for benefit of creditors.

See infra, §§ 1113, 1114, notes, procedure as in foreclosure of real estate mortgages.

See infra, § 1115, sale of mortgagor's interest under process.

See infra, § 1116 et seq., foreclosure of real estate mortgage.

See infra, § 3659 et seq., and notes, statutes relating to chattel mortgages; validity, etc.

Cited in 16 Wash. 109; 27 Wash. 286; 33 Wash. 640; 48 Wash. 562; 50 Wash. 122.

FORECLOSURE: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 488-493, §§ 61-81. Pleading and evidence: See Id., p. 491, §§ 71, 72. A written instrument constituting both a note and mortgage may, at the holder's option, be sued on as a promissory note or foreclosed as a mortgage: Frank v. Pickle, 2 W. T. 55.

The mortgagor is not a necessary party in foreclosure, when he has parted with all his interest in the property: Weir v. Rathbun, 12 Wash. 84; Harrington v. Miller, 4 Wash. 808. And a decree for the sale of mortgaged chattels is sufficient without the rendition of a personal money judgment, when mortgagor has parted with his interest and has not been made a party: Weir v. Rathbun, supra.

A mortgagee of chattels who stands by at the execution sale of a third person of such chattels and makes no objection to the representations of sheriff to the purchaser, that the property will be applied in satisfaction of the mortgage, is not estopped from subsequently enforcing his lien, when the proceeds were not so applied: Hamilton v. Carter, 12 Wash. 510.

In an action to foreclose a chattel mortgage executed in the name of a partnership, to which one partner sets up the defense that the firm was a nontrading partnership, and the note and mortgage had been executed by one partner without the knowledge and consent of his copartner, and contrary to articles of copartnership, plaintiff cannot introduce proof to show that the property mortgaged belonged to the partner who executed the mortgage: Snively v. Mathe-son, 12 Wash. 88.

One who, after having sold certain property, accepts a mortgage thereon is estopped in a foreclosure proceeding from setting up a claim of ownership thereof by virtue of a provision in the contract of sale that the title should remain in the seller until payment, when there is no pretense that any of the parties to the foreclosure had notice of such condition: Hinchman v. Point Defiance Ry. Co., 14 Wash. 349.

The owner of abstract records who so far treats them as valuable property as to secure a loan by the execution of a chattel mortgage thereon is estopped from setting up as a defense to foreclosure proceedings that the records would be of no value in the hands of any but the compiler: Wash. Bank v. Fidelity etc. Co., 15 Wash. 487.

In an action to foreclose a chattel mortgage given without consideration and for the purpose of hindering and defrauding creditors, the court is warranted in finding that the parties are not in pari delicto, and that the mortgagor is entitled to a cancellation of the mortgage in consideration of the facts stated in the case: Melbye v. Melbye, 15 Wash. 648.

The refusal of a mortgagee of chattels to accept a tender of the balance due, made before the bringing of action to foreclose, will destroy the lien of the mortgage: Helphrey v. Strobach, 13 Wash. 128.

Where leave to foreclose a chattel mortgage has been granted by the court, upon the petition of the mortgagee subsequent to an assignment for the benefit of creditors, made by the mortgagor, it is error for the court to dismiss same on the motion of the assignee on the ground of the pendency of said assignment: Gilbert Hunt Mfg. Co. v. Wheeler, 15 Wash. 594; affirmed in Penn. Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Fife, 15 Wash. 605.

Pending foreclosure, the court, upon a proper application showing threatened impairment of plaintiff's security, may restrain the destruction of the property by a temporary injunction: Schoonover v. Condon, 12 Wash. 475.

A mortgagee of chattels may intervene in a suit in which the mortgaged property has been attached in order to have the mortgage lien declared prior to that of the attachment, and the property subjected to the payment of the mortgage debt: Langert v. Brown, 3 W. T. 102.

The right to foreclose is not lost by the delay of a mortgagee in possession, if the statute of limitations has not run: Brockway v. Abbott, 37 Wash. 263.

Where a horse trainer entitled to a lien or services under § 1197, infra, accepts a bill of sale of chattel mortgage on the horse he loses his priority over a mortgagee whose lien accrued subsequent to the rendition of service: Murray v. Guse, 10 Wash. 25.

POSSESSION.—The holder of a chattel mortgage, who has not reduced the property to possession, cannot maintain an action for possession thereof, when it has been levied on as the property of another: Sayward v. Nunan, 6 Wash. 87; Silsby v. Aldridge, 1 Wash. 117; Kerron v. N. P. etc. Co., 1 Wash. 241; see Reed v. Bank of Commerce, 8 Wash. 539.

Taking possession: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 491, § 73; McClellan v. Gaston, 18 Wash. 472; Bancroft-Whitney Co. v. Gowan, 24 Wash. 66.

In replevin, where the personalty has been mortgaged to plaintiffs by third parties, and afterward, but prior to the maturity of the debt, delivered by the mortgagors to a defendant, it is a failure of proof to prove the existence of the mortgage in support of plaintiff's ownership: Silsby v. Aldridge, 1 Wash. 117.

And in replevin, where plaintiff claims as owner under a bill of sale from a third party, and the proof shows that he is merely a mortgagee, he cannot recover: Kerron v. N. P. etc. Co., 1 Wash. 241.

IN AN ACTION FOR DAMAGES FOR CONVERSION of the mortgaged chattels plaintiff can only recover the value of the goods converted: Brotton v. Langert, 1

Wash. 227; Sheehan v. Levy, 1 Wash. 149.

A complaint in an action for damages by a mortgagee of chattels against a subsequent mortgagee for conversion is insufficient, when it contains no allegation of actual possession by plaintiff at the time of the alleged conversion, nor of his right to possession, nor demand for possession: Binnian v. Baker, 6 Wash. 50.

§ 1105. (5871.) Notice, Contents of.

The notice must contain a full description of the property mortgaged, together with time and place of sale, also a statement of the amount due, and must be signed by the mortgagee or his attorney. [L. '75, p. 46, § 19; L. '79, p. 106, § 7; Cd. '81, § 1992; 1 H. C., § 1651.]

Cited in 21 Wash. 475; 26 Wash. 179; 50 Wash. 120, 122.

A notice of foreclosure on a growing crop sufficiently describes the property, when it refers to the mortgage and shows that it is upon a certain quantity of wheat grown upon a certain place, described in the mortgage as so many acres of wheat, and in the notice a certain number of sacks: Harker v. Woolery, 10 Wash. 484.

A mortgage on growing crops is authorized: Tipton v. Martzell, 21 Wash. 273.

A charge to the jury that the statute requires that three copies of the notice of a foreclosure sale of chattels be posted in the most public places in the county—the statute simply requiring notice to be posted in three public places—is harmless error when there is no contention at the trial over that matter and the uncontradicted testimony shows they were regularly posted: Rawson v. Ellsworth, 13 Wash. 668.

A sale of chattels upon foreclosure of mortgage thereon is invalid unless notice has been served upon one in possession of the chattels claiming as owner thereof: Id.

§ 1106. (5872.) Service of Notice, How Made.

Such notice shall be placed in the hands of the sheriff or other proper officer, and shall be personally served in the same manner as is provided by law for the service of a summons: Provided, that if the mortgagor cannot be found in the county where the mortgage is being foreclosed, it shall [not] be necessary to advertise the notice or affidavit in a newspaper; but the general publication directed in the next section shall be sufficient service upon all the parties interested, and such notice shall be sufficient authority for the officer to take such property into his immediate possession. [Cf. L. '75, p. 47, §§ 20, 21; L. '79, p. 106, § 8; Cd. '81, § 1993; 1 H. C., § 1652.]

Cited in 21 Wash. 475; 26 Wash. 179; 50 Wash. 122.

WANT OF NOTICE, EFFECT OF.—Where the holder of a chattel mortgage requests the sheriff to take possession of the mortgaged goods which are surrendered to him by the mortgagor, and he posts notices of sale under the mortgage, but no notice is given as provided for by the above section, his possession is not such a possession as will prevent a levy of the same goods being made on a writ of attachment by a deputy sheriff, nor does such possession avoid the necessity of the actual levy by the sheriff of a writ of attachment placed in his own hands: Meacham Arms Co. v. Strong, 3 W. T. 61.

Leave of court is not necessary to foreclose on mortgaged property in the hands of a third person, and never in the possession of the receiver of an insolvent corporation, owner of the property: See Kidder v. Beavers, 33 Wash. 635.

Under this section a sheriff is not guilty of conversion in seizing the mortgaged property under a proper notice and proceedings complying with the statute, although against the protests and objections of the mortgagors, where the mortgagors did not contest the amount due or take any steps to secure a transfer of the foreclosure to the superior court, pursuant to § 1110: Mack v. Doak, 50 Wash. 119.

A constable cannot act under this section: Pickle v. Smalley, 21 Wash. 473; Jacobson v. Aberdeen Packing Co., 25 Wash. 175.

§ 1107. (5873.) Publication—Sale, How Conducted.

After notice has been served upon the mortgagor, it must be published in the same manner and for the same length of time as required in cases of the sale of like property on execution, and the sale shall be conducted in the same manner. [Cf. L. '75, p. 47, § 22; L. '79, p. 106, § 9; Cd. '81, § 1994; 1 H. C., § 1653.]

§ 1108. (5874.) Purchaser's Title.

The purchaser shall take all interest which the mortgagor had in the said mortgaged property upon which the said mortgage operated. [Cf. L. '75, p. 47, § 23; L. '79, p. 106, § 10; Cd. '81, § 1995; 1 H. C., § 1654.]

Title and rights of purchaser: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 492, § 78; First Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Woolery, 6 Wash. 215; Lawrence v. Times Printing Co., 22 Wash. 482.

A purchaser, at execution sale, of personal property subject to a chattel mortgage of which he had notice acquires no title prejudicial to the mortgagee: Hamilton v. Carter, 12 Wash. 510.

A purchaser of chattels subject to a mortgage cannot avail himself, as against the mortgagee, of a mistake of one holding the mortgage as collateral security as to the amount due thereon: Weir v. Rathbun, 12 Wash. 84.

§ 1109. (5875.) Officer's Bill of Sale, Effect of.

The officer conducting the sale shall execute to the purchaser a bill of sale of the property, which bill of sale shall be effectual to carry the whole title and interest purchased, and if any balance of the purchase price remain, it shall be disposed of in the same manner as surplus proceeds of sales are on execution. [Cf. L. '75, p. 47, § 24; L. '79, p. 106, § 11; Cd. '81, § 1996; 1 H. C., § 1665.]

A sale of "franchises" under a foreclosure of a mortgage on a newspaper, its plant, franchises, circulation and goodwill, is not a sufficiently definite description of property to pass any title to any rights which existed under a contract between the mortgagor and the Associated Press for news service: Lawrence v. Times Printing Co., 22 Wash. 482.

Proceeds and surplus of sale: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 492, § 79; First Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Woolery, 6 Wash. 215; Hamilton v. Carter, 12 Wash. 510; Hinchman v. Pt. Defiance R. Co., 14 Wash. 349; Dubuque v. Stich, 16 Wash. 641.

§ 1110. (5876.) Foreclosure Contested—Injunction.

The right of the mortgagee to foreclose, as well as the amount claimed to be due, may be contested by any person interested in so doing, and the proceedings may be transferred to the superior court, for which purpose an injunction may issue if necessary. [Cf. L. '75, p. 47, § 28; L. '79, p. 106, § 12; Cd. '81, § 1997; 1 H. C., § 1656.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 259; 13 Wash. 257; 33 Wash. 640, 643; 50 Wash. 121, 122.

Defenses to foreclosure: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 490, § 69; Snively v. Matheson, 12 Wash. 88; Hinchman v. Pt. Defiance R. Co., 14 Wash. 349; Washington Bank of Walla Walla v. Fidelity Abstract etc. Co., 15 Wash. 487; Mahoney v. Crockett, 37 Wash. 252; Kidder v. Beavers, 33 Wash. 635; Hotaling Co. v. Clancy, 21 Wash. 1.

Evidence: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 491, § 72; Collins v. Denny Clay Co., 41 Wash. 136; Slyfield v. Willard, 43 Wash. 179.

An attaching creditor may, under this section, although his attachment has been dissolved by general assignment, intervene in the foreclosure of a mortgage upon the property assigned in order to have the mortgage declared invalid as against him: Ephraim v. Kelleher, 4 Wash. 243.

In the case of the foreclosure by a wife of a fraudulent chattel mortgage, given her by her husband, an attaching creditor of the husband is entitled to an injunction to restrain the foreclosure in order to protect his lien: Meacham Arms Co. v. Swarts, 2 W. T. 412; this right is not only accorded as a matter of equity jurisdiction, but is also authorized under this section: Id.

If a prior mortgagee has been enjoined from foreclosing his chattel mortgage, and pending injunction the goods have been sold under a foreclosure of the junior mortgage, the prior mortgagee may, upon dissolution of the injunction, recover upon the injunction bond the full amount of his claim, if the value of the goods was of that amount: White v. Brooke, 11 Wash. 99. And the fact that the obligee on the injunction bond may have an action for conversion will not affect his recovery of damages when he pursues his remedy by an action upon the injunction bond: Id.

A complaint in an action by a creditor of a chattel mortgagor, under this section to transfer proceedings for the foreclosure of the mortgage to the superior court, in order to contest the mortgage on the ground that it was fraudulent as to creditors, is demurrable when it does not appear from the complaint that plaintiff was a creditor at the time of the execution of the mortgage: West Coast Gro. Co. v. Stinson, 13 Wash. 255.

The fact that a creditor, although secured, takes additional security from his debtor, does not constitute a fraud as against other creditors: Id.

One partner possesses the right to execute a chattel mortgage in the firm name for the purpose of securing partnership debts; and this is true, though the notes to be secured were signed by the individual members and not in the firm name: Id.

A chattel mortgage which is fair on its face cannot be impeached for fraud, unless the facts relied on to constitute fraud are pleaded, a mere general averment of fraud being insufficient: Id.

In order to entitle a creditor to the transfer of proceedings for the foreclosure of a chattel mortgage to the superior court, he must show that a defense exists, either in whole or in part, and that he has such an interest in the subject matter as entitles him to resist the foreclosure or assail the mortgage: Id.

In an action by a second mortgagee of chattels to charge the first mortgagee, a banker, with sums received from the mortgagor which should have been applied to discharge the first mortgage, because (as alleged) proceeds of the mortgaged property, evidence on the part of the defendant is admissible to show that the sums received from the mortgagor were deposits derived in part from other sources than the mortgaged property, all made in one account, against which the mortgagor checked as a depositor: Presby v. Melgard, 48 Wash. 689.

A banker, holding a first mortgage on a flock of sheep, their increase, and the clip of wool, upon which there is a second mortgage upon the sheep only, is not required to see that the proceeds of the wool, deposited in the bank by the mortgagor, are applied to discharge the first mortgage, where the mortgagor and second mortgagee had been partners, were both present when the mortgagor made the deposit and checked against the same, paying part of the proceeds to each mortgagee and part to a third person, the second mortgagee making no objection at the time, and where at the time of the deposit, the first mortgagee had sold an interest in, and was only part owner of, the bank: Id.

Where a chattel mortgage contained no provision requiring the mortgagors to keep the property insured, and there was no collateral agreement to that effect, a tender of the amount due the mortgagee need not include the expense of insurance procured by him: Hidden v. German Savings etc. Soc., 48 Wash. 384.

A tender of the amount due on a chattel mortgage, with costs, made before sale, discharges the lien of the mortgage, pending foreclosure, rendering a sale thereunder void: Thomas v. Seattle Brewing & Malt- ing Co., 48 Wash. 560.

A tender of the amount due on a chattel mortgage before sale, made by one to whom the mortgagor had sold the property, will be held sufficient where the amount was concededly correct and the jury found upon proper instructions that the rights of the party making the tender were disclosed to the officer or mortgagee: Id.

§ 1111. (5877.) Action Before Maturity of Debt, When.

Where the debt is not due for which the mortgage is given, and the mortgagee has reasonable cause to believe that the mortgage property will be destroyed, lost, or removed, he shall have the right to an immediate action in the superior court of the county having jurisdiction where the property is situated, for the recovery of his debt, and the court may make any order it may deem fit, in order to secure said property so as to make the same available for the satisfaction of said debt. [L. '79, p. 106, § 13; Cd. '81, § 1998; 1 H. C., § 1657.]

Cited in 47 Wash. 184, 186.

A loan is sufficiently insecure to warrant the commencement of an action before maturity to foreclose a chattel mortgage upon a leasehold and the furnishings of a lodging-house, where the mortgagors were behind in their rent and about to be ejected by their landlord: Slyfield v. Willard, 43 Wash. 179.

§ 1112. (5878.) Mortgagee may Take Possession, When—Sale.

A mortgage[e] of personal property, where a debt for the security of which the mortgage has been given has become due, or if the debt is not yet due, and the mortgagee has reasonable ground to believe that his debt is insecure, and that by allowing the property longer to remain in the hands of the mortgagor he would be in danger of losing his debt or security, may have the property taken from the possession of the mortgagor, and sold in the manner provided in this chapter. [L. '79, p. 105, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1989; 1 H. C., § 1658.]

See supra, § 1104, notes, manner of foreclosure of chattel mortgage.

REMEDY OF MORTGAGEE WHEN SECURITY THREATENED: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 491, § 74; Schoonover v. Conbon, 12 Wash. 475; Euphrat v. Morrison, 39 Wash. 311.

Where property covered by a chattel mortgage was left in the possession of the mortgagors and one of them delivered it to a third party, no title passed. While the mortgage was not foreclosed, the mortgagors could have recovered the possession; or if the possession of such third party endangered the security of the mortgagee, they could have the property taken into possession, and held for disposal, as prescribed by the above section: Silsby v. Aldridge, 1 Wash. 117, 119; Kerron v. N. P. Co., 1 Wash. 241.

If possession of the mortgaged goods is delivered to the mortgagee with power to sell at private sale, the mortgagee is, in the absence of fraud, entitled to the undisturbed possession for that purpose, subject to a strict accounting, although the mortgage may not be in the statutory form: Sheehan v. Levy, 1 Wash. 149; see Levy v. Sheehan, 3 Wash. 421; and where the sheriff seizes and disposes of the goods, with knowledge of such fact, the mortgagee, in the absence of allegation of special damage may recover of the sheriff the amount of his debt and interest not exceeding the value of the goods at the time of taking: Sheehan v. Levy, 1 Wash. 149.

If a mortgagee of chattels has taken possession thereof for alleged breach of the condition providing for payment, he is entitled to retain possession as against a subsequent assignment by mortgagor for the benefit of creditors, until it is determined by legal proceedings that the assignee has the superior right thereto: Sanders v. Main, 9 Wash. 46; following Marsh v. Wade, 1 Wash. 538; State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 77; State v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 210.

If a chattel mortgage on a stock of goods provides for payment out of sales of the goods and the mortgagee takes possession, his lien will apply to goods after acquired mingled with the stock, although not in terms covered by the mortgage: Armstrong v. Ford, 10 Wash. 64.

The mortgagee will be presumed to have been in possession under a mortgage reciting that he is given possession, where the testimony is conflicting: Id.

Where the possession of goods is taken under a chattel mortgage the fact that it contains no affidavit of good faith will not affect the mortgagee's right: Reed v. Bank of Commerce, 8 Wash. 539. See Sligh v. Shelton etc. R. Co., 20 Wash. 16.

A power of sale in a chattel mortgage, authorizing the mortgagee to sell at retail, does not authorize a sale in bulk of stock remaining after a partial sale at retail: Richter v. Buchanan, 48 Wash. 32.

A mortgagee in possession of chattels, who was empowered by the mortgage to sell the goods at retail, is guilty of a conversion in selling in bulk; and is liable in damages to the mortgagor for the value of the property over and above the mortgage debt: Id.

Where one chattel mortgage is given to secure three notes to different parties, and the holder of one of them has the entire property sold under the power of sale contained in the mortgage without bringing in the other parties, the title passes to the purchaser, and all the mortgagees will share pro rata in the proceeds: First Nat. Bank v. Woolery, 6 Wash. 215; and the other holders may maintain an action to enforce a pro rata distribution: Id.

If some of the mortgaged goods have been sold for cash and some for credit, under a power to sell for the benefit of the mortgagee, he must be charged with the amount whether received or not: Warren v. Creditors, 3 Wash. 48.

§ 1113. (5879.) Foreclosure of Chattel Mortgages—Application of Chapter Two.

The provisions contained in chapter two of this title, so far as the same shall be applicable, shall govern in actions for the foreclosure of chattel mortgages or bills of sale creating liens on personal property. [Cf. L. '69, p. 147, § 572; Cd. '81, § 618; 2 H. C., § 636.]

See supra, § 1104, and notes, manner of foreclosure.

Cited in 1 Wash. 546; 4 Wash. 249; 47 Wash. 163.

Upon an accounting in an action to redeem a mortgage of stock held as security, the burden of proof is upon the mortgagee to show the amount of dividends received by it on the stock to be credited on the debt: Collins v. Denny Clay Co., 41 Wash. 136.

§ 1114. (5880.) Remedies of Mortgagee—Decree—Sale—Deficiency.

The mortgagee or holder of the lien may proceed upon his mortgage or lien, [or] if there be a separate obligation in writing to pay the same secured by said mortgage or lien, he may bring suit upon such separate promise. When he proceeds on the mortgage, if there be a specific agreement therein contained for the payment of a certain sum, or there is a separate obligation for the said sum, in addition to a decree of sale of mortgaged property, judgment shall be rendered for the amount due upon said mortgage or other instrument, the payment of which is thereby secured. The decree shall direct the sale of the mortgaged property, and if the proceeds of said sale be insufficient under the execution, the sheriff is authorized to levy upon and sell other property of the mortgage debtor, not exempt from execution, for the sum remaining unsatisfied. [Cf. L. '69, p. 147, § 572; Cd. '81, § 619; 2 H. C., § 637.]

See supra, § 1104, notes, manner of foreclosure.

See infra, § 1119 et seq., deficiency judgments.

CHATTEL MORTGAGES.—This section and that immediately preceding it provide for the foreclosure of chattel mortgages, and assimilate such foreclosure to that of mortgages on real property: Byrd v. Forbes, 3 W. T. 318.

ELECTION OF REMEDY—RESIDUE. The payee may, at his option, recover either a money judgment or proceed to foreclose upon a written instrument constituting not only a mortgage, but also a note and mortgage: Frank v. Pickle, 2 W. T. 55. When judgment is not satisfied by a sale of mortgaged premises under a decree of foreclosure, it is the duty of the sheriff to proceed at once to make the residue by levy upon and sale of other property: Hays v. Miller, 1 W. T. 143.

A first mortgage lien is not in any way affected by a sale of the mortgaged property under a second mortgage: Binnian v. Baker, 6 Wash. 50, 51.

The withholding of an order of sale upon a decree of foreclosure of a chattel mortgage for five months does not constitute laches: Hamilton v. Carter, 12 Wash. 510.

When a mortgagee takes possession and sells without foreclosing, he is not entitled to recover for a deficiency: Mitchell, Lewis etc. Co. v. O'Neil, 16 Wash. 108.

In an action to foreclose a mortgage securing a contract, against a party to the contract and one claiming an interest in the property, a joint personal judgment cannot be entered against both defendants: Hopkins v. Crane, 50 Wash. 636.

A decree of foreclosure cannot be collaterally attacked on the ground that property was not a proper subject of chattel mortgage, and of foreclosure sale: Dubuque v. Stich, 16 Wash. 641.

In an action to foreclose a mortgage given to secure the plaintiff against loss by breach of a contract, it is not necessary that damages from the breach be ascertained before suit brought, jurisdiction to foreclosure necessarily including the determination of the amount for which foreclosure be awarded: Hopkins v. Crane, 50 Wash. 636.

§ 1115. (5881.) Sale of Mortgagor's Interest Under Process—Notice.

The interest of the mortgagor, subject, however, to the lien of the mortgagee, may be sold under any process of law issuing out of any superior or justice of the peace court in this state: Provided, however, that if the party who has said mortgage resides in this state, or has an agent herein, and the same is known to the officer executing such process, he shall serve upon him or his agent personally, or by mailing to him or to his agent, if their postoffice is known, a notification of the intended sale at the time such mortgaged property is seized under said process, or within five days thereafter. Said property shall not be sold within less than thirty days after its seizure, and the officer executing such process must post in three public places, near the place where the said property is to be sold, a notice of the time and place of such sale, at the time he seizes said property under said process. [L. '79, p. 105, § 5; Cd. '81, § 1990; 1 H. C., § 1659.]

Cited in 1 Wash. 547; 12 Wash. 515; 13 Wash. 257.

SALE OF MORTGAGOR'S INTEREST UNDER PROCESS OF LAW.—A mortgagor's interest in goods may be taken in execution, and the provisions of the above section are inconsistent with the idea that after levy by the sheriff, the mortgagee can demand and take possession: Byrd v. Forbes, 3 W. T. 318, 324. Mortgaged property in the hands of the mortgagor can be taken possession of by process of attachment, and the property can be taken into actual custody by the sheriff: Marsh v. Wade, 1 Wash. 538, 547. Any interest that the mortgagor may have in the mortgaged property in the hands of the mortgagee can also be reached by process of garnishment; that is to say, the mortgagee can be garnished for any interest that may exist after his mortgage is satisfied, but the possession of the honest mortgagee cannot be disturbed: Marsh v. Wade, 1 Wash. 538, 547. An unforeclosed mortgage is a mortgage still, regardless of where the possession lies: Id.

NOTICE TO MORTGAGEE.—The provisions of the above section concerning the sheriff's notice to the mortgagee are mandatory, but do not affect the validity of the sale: Byrd v. Forbes, 1 W. T. 318, 325. A sheriff is not liable for noncompliance with the above section, where it did not appear that, being well informed of the mortgagee's address, he failed to notify him of a levy upon mortgaged chattels, and where it did not appear that the mortgagee lost his security or suffered damage from the sheriff's acts: Byrd v. Forbes, 3 W. T. 318.

CHAPTER II.

FORECLOSURE OF MORTGAGES ON REAL ESTATE.

§ 1116. (5885.) Foreclosure—Venue.

When default is made in the performance of any condition contained in a mortgage, the mortgagee or his assigns may proceed in the superior court of the county where the land, or some part thereof, lies, to foreclose the equity of redemption contained in the mortgage. [L. '54, p. 207, § 408; Cd. '81, § 609; 2 H. C., § 625.]

See § 190, and note, where parties are numerous, proceedings.

See supra, § 594 et seq., redemption.

See supra, § 804, mortgagee cannot maintain ejectment.

See notes to § 812, supra, as to leased premises.

See supra, § 1086, and notes, assignments for benefit of creditors.

See supra, § 1104 et seq., foreclosure of chattel mortgages.

See §§ 1528-1530, infra, mortgages on estates of deceased persons.

See infra, § 8750 et seq., provisions as to form and execution of mortgages.

Nature of mortgage in general: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1917, 1918, §§ 1-3; Spokane County v. Prescott, 19 Wash. 418; George v. Butler, 26 Wash. 456; Dane v. Daniel, 23 Wash. 379; Norfor v. Busby, 19 Wash. 450; Fischer v. Woodruff, 25 Wash. 67; Reed v. Parker, 33 Wash. 107.

Our statute relating to mortgages is taken from Indiana, and differs from that of California and New York: Hays v. Miller, 1 W. T. 143.

A mortgage of lands in this state simply creates a lien upon it to be enforced by foreclosure proceedings. There is no equity of redemption in the mortgagor because the legal title has not passed from him: Parker v. Daeres, 2 W. T. 439; Parker v. Daeres, 130 U. S. 43; but see § 585; see notes to § 1104, supra.

The mortgagee is entitled to have the premises mortgaged subjected to sale for the satisfaction of the debt and there can be no proceeding for strict foreclosure: Stevens v. Ferry (Wash.), 48 Fed. 7.

A homestead settler on public lands may make a valid mortgage thereof after receiving his certificate of entry, notwithstanding the provision of § 2296 of Rev. Stats. U. S.: Boggan v. Reid, 1 Wash. 514.

Machinery built into an industrial plant subsequent to a mortgage on the premises is brought under the mortgage as a part of the realty, although the vendor and purchaser of such machinery treat it under the contract of sale as personalty: Wade v. Donau Brewing Co., 10 Wash. 284.

If a mortgage has been given upon the mortgagor's undivided interest in certain lands, upon subsequent partition of such lands, either by decree or by the voluntary interchange of deeds between the cotenants, the lien of the mortgage attaches to the share assigned the mortgagor in lieu of his undivided interest: Port v. Parfit, 4 Wash. 369.

The fact that bonds were executed as of a certain date, and a mortgage to secure their payment given to a trustee for the bondholders, will not give a legal existence to the mortgage until the date of the sale and delivery of the bonds: Wade v. Donau Brewing Co., supra.

A person who has assumed and agreed to pay a mortgage cannot, upon making the payment, be subrogated to the rights of the mortgagee: Isensee v. Austin, 15 Wash. 352.

A condition in a policy of fire insurance limiting the right of action to a period of twelve months after date of loss is applicable to the mortgagee as well as to the assured: Am. etc. Assn. v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 11 Wash. 619.

Where one employed to procure a mortgage loan, under an agreement for a certain commission, himself makes the loan and takes the note and mortgage therefor, and retains the stipulated commission under the direction of the mortgagor, he is entitled to a lien on the premises for such sum as if it had actually been paid to the mortgagor: Watson v. Sawyer, 12 Wash. 35.

A note and mortgage executed and made payable in another state by bona fide residents of such state is a contract of such state, and is not usurious if valid in such state: Bank v. Doherty, 42 Wash. 317.

Debts or liabilities which may be secured, conditions imposed, and parties: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1919, §§ 7-12; Board of Church Erec. Fund etc. v. First Presbyterian Church, 19 Wash. 455; Home Sav. & L. Assn. v. Burton, 20 Wash. 688; Stetson-Post Mill Co. v. Brown, 21 Wash. 619; Huttig Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Denny Hotel Co., 6 Wash. 122; Goon Gan v. Richardson, 16 Wash. 373.

Interest on taxes paid by mortgagee: See Sloane v. Lucas, 37 Wash. 348; Shepard v. Vincent, 38 Wash. 493.

Property mortgaged—Description, extension to or substitution of other property:

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1926, 1928, §§ 43-48; National Bank of Commerce v. Lock, 17 Wash. 528; Book v. West, 29 Wash. 70; Land Mortgage Bank v. Nicholson, 24 Wash. 258; Osborne v. Prescott, 19 Wash. 418; George v. Butler, 26 Wash. 456; Dane v. Daniel, 23 Wash. 379; Fischer v. Woodruff, 25 Wash. 67; Hitchcock v. Nixon, 16 Wash. 281; Smith v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 22 Wash. 500; Brummett v. Campbell, 32 Wash. 358; Snyder v. Parker, 19 Wash. 276; Wiss v. Stewart, 16 Wash. 376; Ross v. Howard, 25 Wash. 1; Fuhrman v. Power, 43 Wash. 533; Shepard v. Vincent, 38 Wash. 493.

Where a mortgagor deeds the mortgaged property to the mortgagee, who surrendered the notes, canceled the mortgage, took possession of the property, giving back an agreement to reconvey to the mortgagor for a certain sum at any time within two years, leaving it optional with the mortgagor to repurchase the same, the deed is absolute and not a mortgage, as the relation of debtor and creditor ceases to exist; and the agreement to convey is an option that expires at the time fixed, and not a conditional sale, although alluded to as such, and time was not made of its essence: Neeson v. Smith, 47 Wash. 386.

Rights and liabilities of parties, as to possession, control, rents and profits, taxes, insurance, improvements, etc.: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1934-1936, §§ 75-81; State ex rel. Montgomery v. Meyer, 22 Wash. 277; Frew v. Clark, 34 Wash. 561; Hinchman v. Anderson, 32 Wash. 198.

Liability of purchaser or grantee for mortgage debt: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1940, §§ 101-107.

Hastings, 20 Wash. 433; Fitch v. Applegate, 24 Wash. 25; Purdin v. Washington etc. Assn., 41 Wash. 395; Corbet v. Waller, 27 Wash. 242.

The exception of a mortgage from the covenant of warranty in a deed conveying the mortgaged property does not estop the grantee from pleading the statute of limitations as against the holder of the mortgage: Boyer v. Price, 45 Wash. 667.

Revival of mortgage lien: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1942, § 113; Nommenson v. Angle, 17 Wash. 394; Damon v. Leque, 17 Wash. 573; Raymond v. Bales, 26 Wash. 493; Hanna v. Kasson, 26 Wash. 568; De Voe v. Rundle, 33 Wash. 604; Woodhurst v. Cramer, 29 Wash. 40.

Rundle, 33 Wash. 604; Wilson v.

FORECLOSURE: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1945-1971, §§ 127-251.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—A suit for a decree of foreclosure is a proceeding in rem as well as in personam, and therefore must be brought in the court having local jurisdiction over the premises: Stevens v. Ferry (Wash.), 48 Fed. 7; Wood v. Mastick, 2 W. T. 64; McLeod v. Ellis, 2 Wash. 117, 121; see supra, § 204.

Two mortgages securing the same debt, but covering land in different counties, may properly be foreclosed in either county, as they should be regarded as one instrument: Commercial Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Johnson, 16 Wash. 536.

A trustee named in the mortgage to secure payment of certain notes is the proper party to foreclose the same, whether he has the legal title to any of the notes or not: Thompson v. Huron L. Co., 4 Wash. 600.

Foreclosure after assignment in blank: See Fidelity Ins. etc. Co. v. Nelson, 30 Wash. 340.

Where one has been made a party to an action under the general allegation that he claims some interest in the property, but has not appeared except for the purpose of disclaiming interest in the subject matter, he is not a necessary party to an appeal and need not be served with notice: Watson v. Sawyer, 12 Wash. 35.

Process: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1953, §§ 172, 173; Tilton v. O'Shea, 31 Wash. 513; Fuhrman v. Power, 43 Wash. 533; Gravelle v. Canadian etc. Mtg. & T. Co., 42 Wash. 457; Payson v. Jacobs, 38 Wash. 203; Hyde v. Heaton, 43 Wash. 433.

Failure to serve defendants with a copy of complaint does not render foreclosure proceedings void, but at most is only erroneous, and cannot on that ground be attacked collaterally: Munch v. McLaren, 9 Wash. 676.

A mortgagor not served with summons in a suit to foreclose a mortgage may set aside the decree rendered therein although guilty of laches for failure to pay the debt or taxes for a period of five years or exercise acts of ownership over it, though residing in its vicinity and able to pay: McEchern v. Brackett, 8 Wash. 652.

The cause and general nature of a foreclosure proceeding is sufficiently stated in the publication of summons if it specifies with particularity the note sued on and that the action is to foreclose a mortgage securing same: De Corvet v. Dolan, 7 Wash. 365.

Pleading and evidence: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1954, 1956, §§ 174-185; Seattle Trust Co. v. Kerry, 19 Wash. 389; Brown v. Elwell, 17 Wash. 442; Rogers v. Turner, 19 Wash. 399; Kizer v. Caulfield, 17 Wash. 417; De Roberts v. Stiles, 24 Wash. 611; Interstate Sav. & L. Assn. v. Knapp, 20 Wash. 225; Wilson v. Hubbard, 39 Wash.

671; Gleason v. Hawkins, 32 Wash. 464; Biddle Pur. Co. v. Pt. Townsend Steel etc. Co., 16 Wash. 681; Goon Gan v. Richardson, 16 Wash. 373; Van Dusen v. Kelleher, 25 Wash. 315; Butler v. Carvin, 33 Wash. 621.

In an action to foreclose a mortgage the allegation that a party, who is made a co-defendant with the mortgagor, has, or claims some interest in, or claim upon, the mortgaged premises, is sufficient without averring the character of the interest: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Long, 2 Wash. 435.

In an action to foreclose a mortgage on real estate, a complaint is sufficient which states the title of the cause, name of court, name of county in which the action is brought, names of parties, and also a plain and concise statement of the execution of the promissory note for the amount claimed and of a mortgage to secure same, time of maturity, nonpayment, and that plaintiffs are the owners and holders of the note: Bethel v. Robinson, 4 Wash. 446.

An allegation that a codefendant has, or claims to have, some interest in, or claim upon, the mortgaged premises, is sufficient without averring the character of his interest: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Long, supra.

An allegation in the complaint that the will authorized and directed said executor to administer upon said estate without the order or advice of any court, and to execute all its terms and provisions, held sufficient to infer that the power to execute a note and mortgage was within the powers conferred by the will: Miller v. Borst, 11 Wash. 260.

An answer in foreclosure alleging non-delivery by the mortgagor and want of consideration for the execution of the mortgage states good defenses: Ault v. Blackman, 8 Wash. 624.

Trial or hearing: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1957, 1958, §§ 191-193; Commercial Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Johnson, 16 Wash. 536; Jenkins v. Jenkins University, 17 Wash. 160; Land Mort. Bank v. Nicholson, 24 Wash. 258; Graham v. Smart, 42 Wash. 205; Stubblefield v. McAuliff, 20 Wash. 442; Johnson v. Irwin, 16 Wash. 652; Kizer v. Caufield, 17 Wash. 417; Oates v. Shuey, 25 Wash. 597; Coolidge v. Schering, 32 Wash. 557; Graham v. Smart, 42 Wash. 205.

Right to foreclose and defenses: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1946-1950, §§ 131-154.

Existence of or resort to other remedy: See Id., p. 1947, § 139; Nason v. Northwestern Mil. & P. Co., 17 Wash. 142; Hanna v. Kason, 26 Wash. 568; Hinchman v. Anderson, 32 Wash. 198.

A mortgagee, to whom other securities are given in addition to the mortgage, is not compelled to exhaust them before relying upon the mortgage. He may waive the securities and rely solely on the mortgage: Hersner v. Martin, 8 Wash. 698.

A mortgage of real estate, executed by husband alone, may be foreclosed where the instrument declares the maker to be unmarried, and the mortgagee had no knowledge or information at the time of its execution as to whether the mortgagor was married or single: Schwabacher v. Van Reypen, 6 Wash. 154.

The defective record of a mortgage is immaterial when the mortgagee at once enters into and remains in possession of the property: Vincent v. Snoqualmie Mill Co., 7 Wash. 566.

Where a deed was executed by a husband and wife as security for a note, and the husband subsequently paid the note in full, but agreed that the deed should be held as security for another note then given by him, the deed was void as security for such note without some act equivalent to legal execution thereof by the wife for such purpose: Mantle v. Dabney, 44 Wash. 193.

A claim of title adverse to that of the mortgagor, and acquired prior to his execution of the mortgage, cannot be litigated in a suit for the foreclosure of the mortgage: California Safe etc. Co. v. Electric Light etc. Co., 12 Wash. 138. See Pennsylvania Mtg. Inv. Co. v. Gilbert, 13 Wash. 684; Johnson v. Irwin, 16 Wash. 652.

An agreement in a note and mortgage securing it, that in case of default in the payment of any installment of interest, insurance premium taxes, or the principal, the mortgagor will pay an increased rate of interest, is in the nature of a penalty, and is unenforceable in foreclosure proceedings: Krutz v. Robbins, 12 Wash. 7.

A stipulation in mortgage notes providing for an increased rate of interest after maturity is valid: Sloane v. Lucas, 37 Wash. 348.

Setoff and counterclaim: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1950, § 151; Peterson v. Johnson, 20 Wash. 497; First Nat. Bank of Snohomish v. Parker, 28 Wash. 234.

In the foreclosure of a purchase money mortgage in which grantor covenanted to own the land in fee simple, but had neither a legal nor equitable title thereto, moneys paid in defending and compromising a suit in ejectment showing a good cause of action involving the title to the said land may be set off by the mortgagor as constructive eviction: Potwin v. Blasher, 9 Wash. 460.

The surrender by the mortgagor of the mortgaged premises to the mortgagee, under a power of sale therein, is no defense to an action on the note by an assignee of the note and mortgage, when the mortgagee is without authority to act as agent for the assignee: Dewing v. Crueger, 7 Wash. 590; Gordan v. Decker, 19 Wash. 188.

Successive foreclosures: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1947, § 140; Dane v. Daniel, 28 Wash. 155; Sloane v. Lucas, 37 Wash. 348; Investment Securities Co. v. Adams, 37 Wash. 211.

The death of the mortgagee does not suspend the right of action on the mortgage: Frew v. Clark, 34 Wash. 561; Gleason v. Hawkins, 32 Wash. 464; Fuhrman v. Power, 43 Wash. 533.

Limitations and laches: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1951, §§ 156, 157; Gleason v. Hawkins, 32 Wash. 464; Fuhrman v. Power, 43 Wash. 533; Mann v. Provident Life & T. Co., 42 Wash. 581; Spokane County v. Prescott, 19 Wash. 418; Krutz v. Gardner, 25 Wash. 396; Hanna v. Kasson, 26 Wash. 568; Frew v. Clark, 34 Wash. 561; Investment Securities Co. v. Adams, 37 Wash. 211.

Necessary party defendants: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1952, 1953, §§ 161-170; Dane v. Daniel, 23 Wash. 379; Dane v. Daniel, 28 Wash. 155; Sloane v. Lucas, 37 Wash. 348; Johnson v. Irwin, 16 Wash. 652; Krutz v. Gardner, 25 Wash. 396; Anrud v. Scandinavian-Am. Bank, 27 Wash. 16; Gleason v. Hawkins, 32 Wash. 464; Sawyer v. Vermont Loan etc. Co., 41 Wash. 524; Bisbee v. Carey, 17 Wash. 224; Oates v. Shuey, 25 Wash. 597; Burrows v. McCalley, 17 Wash. 269; Thompson v. Price, 37 Wash. 394; Denny v. Cole, 22 Wash. 372; State v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 469.

Minor heirs of a deceased mortgagor of community property are necessary parties defendant to an action to foreclose the mortgage: Schlarb v. Castaing, 50 Wash. 331.

Intervention: See Stewart v. Eaton, 20 Wash. 378.

EVIDENCE: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1956; Goon Gan v. Richardson, 16 Wash. 373; Van Dusen v. Kelleher, 25 Wash. 315; Allen v. Swerdfiger, 14 Wash. 461; Corbet v. Waller, 27 Wash. 242.

A certified copy of the record of the mortgage is admissible in evidence, and a sufficient proof of its execution, when the certificate of acknowledgment thereon is regular in form and states its due execution by the mortgagor: Howard v. Gemming, 10 Wash. 30; Gardner v. Port Blakely Mill Co., 8 Wash. 1.

The original mortgage filed for record with the auditor's certificate of filing and recording thereon is competent evidence of the record: Peters v. Gay, 9 Wash. 383.

DEED, ETC., CONSTRUED AS A MORTGAGE: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1920-1922, §§ 14-23; Thorne v. Joy, 15 Wash. 83; Plummer v. Ilse, 41 Wash. 5; Conner v. Clapp, 37 Wash. 299; Snyder v. Parker, 19 Wash. 276; Reynolds v. Reynolds, 42 Wash. 107; Baker v. Sinclair, 22 Wash. 462; Reed v. Parker, 33 Wash. 107; Hos-sack v. Graham, 20 Wash. 184; Dabney v. Smith, 38 Wash. 40; Hesser v. Brown, 40 Wash. 688; Goon Gan v. Richardson, 16 Wash. 373; Ross v. Howard, 31 Wash. 393; Borrow v. Borrow, 34 Wash. 684; Collins v. Denny Clay Co., 41 Wash. 136.

A deed absolute on its face will be treated as a mortgage where such is shown to be the intention of the parties: Miller v. Ausenig, 2 W. T. 22; Wood v. Mastick, 2 W. T. 64.

In a particular case held that a deed absolute on its face could not be construed as a mortgage, although a separate writing was executed at the same time by the grantee for a reconveyance on certain conditions: Dignan v. Moore, 8 Wash. 312; see Butts v. Robson, 5 Wash. 268.

A bond for a deed is simply security different in form from a sale and mortgage back for security. The object of such instrument, however, is the same, and in equity the parties thereto stand relatively in exactly the same position: St. Paul T. L. Co. v. Bolton, 5 Wash. 763, 766.

If the issue is as to whether a bill of sale absolute upon its face is or is not a mortgage, the fact that it was intended only as a security should be established by more than a fair preponderance of the evidence: Voorhies v. Hennessy, 7 Wash. 243.

A contract, a conditional sale of land upon its face, providing for forfeiture of payment in case of default, cannot be shown by parol to be an equitable mortgage: Pease v. Baxter, 12 Wash. 565.

The fact that a conveyance of property by deed and an agreement for its reconveyance by lease for the same consideration were made upon the same day will not raise a conclusive presumption that the transaction amounts to a mortgage, but the character of the transaction as being one of loan or of sale may be shown by evidence upon the trial: Mears v. Starbach, 12 Wash. 61; Dignan v. Moore, 8 Wash. 312.

When a mortgagor to avoid foreclosure and in satisfaction of debt conveys mortgaged premises to mortgagee by instrument in form a warranty deed, providing therein for redemption within one year on conditions, the instrument will be construed as a deed absolute and not a mortgage: Swarm v. Boggs, 12 Wash. 246.

A conveyance intended as a mortgage to secure an existing debt is not void as to creditors, when the value of the land is not greatly in excess of indebtedness to be secured: Samuel v. Kittenger, 6 Wash. 261.

In an action to reform a deed of a one-half interest in land, claimed by plaintiff to be a mortgage to secure $100, inadequacy of such sum as a purchase price is not shown where it appears that the whole property was subject to a mortgage for $1,500, which was at least two-thirds of its value; that previously, but subsequent to the mortgage, the grantor had conveyed a one-half interest in the property by warranty deed, which might throw the whole burden of the mortgage on the half interest in question; and where, after the giving of the deed in question, the other half interest was sold for $300, there having meantime been an increase in values: Sahlin v. Gregson, 46 Wash. 452.

In an action to quiet title to land, held under a deed claimed by defendant to be a mortgage, findings in favor of the plaintiff are supported by evidence to the effect that defendant sought to secure a loan on the property, for the purchase of which he held a contract then in arrears, that the plaintiffs refused to make the loan, but took an assignment of the contract for purchase and secured title, paying the defendant the difference between the sums paid out and $12,000, and gave the defendant an option to purchase the property within two years for $12,000, interest and taxes, and that defendant made no payments or any claim to the property during the following years of depression, or for fourteen years, except to file his option agreement for record with an affidavit claiming that the transaction was a loan, and that the plaintiffs had paid taxes on the land, which was unoccupied, during all said time, in ignorance of defendant's claim: Hinchman v. Cook, 45 Wash. 490.

An absolute deed is not shown, by clear and satisfactory evidence, to be a mortgage, where only the grantor testified to that effect and he was contradicted by three witnesses, part of whom were disinterested, and where the grantor took the precaution to reserve a gravel bed embracing but a small proportion of the land, which would probably not have been excepted had the transaction been a loan: Sahlin v. Gregson, 46 Wash. 452.

An absolute deed, executed by one of two joint makers of promissory notes, in consideration of a written release from all liability on the notes and the surrender of an individual note against him, is not shown to have been intended as a mortgage by the grantor, who claimed to be only a surety on the notes, where there is no evidence that he signed the notes as surety, and where the evidence shows that the lands were held by the grantee in trust for the other maker of the note, who assumed all liability thereon, and went into possession of the property, paid the taxes thereon, and redeemed the property by payment of the notes: Osborne v. Osborne, 46 Wash. 294.

The complaint in an action against parties in possession to reform an absolute deed as a mortgage need not allege tender of the debt due, where the defendants obtained possession by fraud, and under the terms of the mortgage deed, the plaintiffs were given the right to possession: Gustin v. Crockett, 44 Wash. 536.

ALLOWANCE OF ATTORNEY'S FEES: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1969, 1970, §§ 242-246; Commercial Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Johnson, 16 Wash. 536; Vermont Loan & Trust Co. v. Greer, 19 Wash. 611; Gordon v. Decker, 19 Wash. 188; Dennis v. Moses, 18 Wash. 537; Scholey v. De Mattos, 18 Wash. 504.

Counsel fees will not be allowed in foreclosure, where before answer defendant pays into court principal, interest and costs, although the mortgage authorizes ten per cent attorney's fees found due by the decree: Lammon v. Austin, 6 Wash. 199; distinguished in Watson v. Sawyer, 12 Wash. 35.

A note and a mortgage securing the same constitute but one transaction, and it is error to allow an attorney's fee in excess of the five per cent stipulated in the mortgage, although the note provides for "such sum as the court may adjudge reasonable as attorney's fees": Potwin v. Blasher, 9 Wash. 460.

In an action to foreclose a mortgage which provided in case settlement is made after suit $250 should be included as attorney's fees and taxed as costs, the fact that the defendant before judgment paid into court the principal and interest, sheriff's and clerk's costs, which sum plaintiff receipted for, does not entitle defendant to dismissal: Hoyt v. Smith, 4 Wash. 640.

In a complaint in foreclosure alleging $250 to be a reasonable attorney's fee, and the answer denying that any greater sum than $100 is a reasonable attorney's fee, in the absence of testimony, the finding should be that $100 is a reasonable fee: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Long, 2 Wash. 435.

Upon the mortgagee's electing to declare the whole debt due after default in the payment of interest or installments, there should be allowed an attorney's fee based upon a recovery of the entire debt: Bartlett Estate Co. v. Fairhaven Land Co., 49 Wash. 58.

PRESENTATION TO ADMINISTRATOR, ETC.—The failure to present a claim against a decedent's estate secured by a mortgage on his land within one year after notice to creditors will not bar mortgagee's rights under the mortgage, but will prevent a judgment for deficiency after the mortgaged property is exhausted: Scammon v. Ward, 1 Wash. 179; Reed v. Miller, 1 Wash. 426.

If a mortgagor dies pending foreclosure suit, it is not necessary, in order to recover costs and attorney's fees, to have presented the claim to the administrator within one year after notice to creditors: Reed v. Miller, 1 Wash. 426.

A debt secured by mortgage may be allowed as a claim against an estate irrespective of foreclosure of the mortgage: Gleason v. Hawkins, 32 Wash. 464; Frew v. Clark, 34 Wash. 561.

RECEIVER OVER: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1957, §§ 186-190; Spokane v. Amsterdamsch Trustees Kantoor, 18 Wash. 81; Norfor v. Busby, 19 Wash. 450; Balfour-Guthrie Ins. Co. v. Geiger, 20 Wash. 579; Woodward v. Winehill, 14 Wash. 394; Sibson v. Hamilton & Rourke Co., 21 Wash. 362.

A receiver may be appointed in insolvency proceedings, at the instance of the insolvent, with power to take possession of the mortgaged property, but he cannot be allowed fees out of the fund or property to the prejudice of the mortgagee, unless he joins in the appointment: Lammon v. Giles, 3 W. T. 117.

The fact that a mortgagee in possession of premises is committing waste will not authorize the appointment of a receiver in the absence of proof of the mortgagee's insolvency: Brundage v. Home etc. Ins. Assn., 11 Wash. 277.

Where a mortgagee has secured possession of the mortgaged premises without fraud, and there is any indebtedness due under the terms of the mortgage, the mortgagee cannot be deprived of its possession by the appointment of a receiver: Id.

LIEN AND PRIORITIES: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1929-1934, §§ 54-74.

Priority of liens: See infra, § 1132.

Where two notes executed at the same time, but payable at different dates, are secured by mortgage upon real estate, the assignment of the notes to different parties does not give the assignee of the note first maturing a priority in proceeds, but they are entitled to share pro rata therein: First Nat. Bank v. Andrews, 7 Wash. 261.

Where the holder of two notes sells one of them and at the same time transfers the mortgage to the purchaser, the purchaser is given a priority in the security; the assignment thereafter of the other note to third parties gives them no greater rights than those held by their assignor: Miller v. Savings Bank, supra.

Assignments of mortgages are not within the operation of the recording acts of this state, and cannot affect priorities: Howard v. Shaw, 10 Wash. 151; Fischer v. Woodruff, 25 Wash. 67.

One who loans money to an individual partner, taking a mortgage back on partnership lands of which such partner holds the legal title, has a priority over a receiver of the partnership, if the mortgagee was without notice of partnership equities: Richmond v. Voorhies, 10 Wash. 316.

A proceeding in foreclosure which seeks to determine priorities between mortgagees, but which is a sham and a fraud upon the court and a prior mortgagee, is against public policy and will not amount to a judicial determination of the rights of the parties: Connolly v. Cunningham, 2 W. T. 242.

A mortgagee who has taken a mortgage upon lands with knowledge that they had been omitted by mistake from a prior mortgage is entitled to priority when the understanding was that the first mortgagee should relinquish his equitable claim upon conditions which were fully performed: Packard v. Delfel, 9 Wash. 562.

A subsequent mortgagee cannot impair the security of a prior mortgagee by creating liens upon the mortgaged property, and the payment of costs incurred in the foreclosure of the subsequent mortgage is subject to the complete satisfaction of the prior mortgage out of the mortgaged property: Howard v. Gemming, 10 Wash. 1.

Although a promissory note and mortgage securing the same have been diverted by the payee from the purpose designed by the maker when executed, no consideration having passed to him, and the same assigned by the payee before maturity, to a bona fide purchaser for value, such purchaser has priority over maker and subsequent mortgagees who take with notice of the record of the prior mortgage: Peters v. Gay, 9 Wash. 383.

The bare recital in a mortgage that it is subject to a prior mortgage will not estop the mortgagee from questioning the consideration or validity of such prior mortgage when the mortgagor is assailing it on the same grounds: Ault v. Blackman, 8 Wash. 624. See, also, Bisbee v. Carey, 17 Wash. 224; Keene Guaranty Sav. Bank v. Lawrence, 32 Wash. 572.

Where a lien claimant's rights accrue subsequent to a mortgage foreclosure suit on the premises, and he has actual knowledge of such suit, and does not protect his rights by intervention or otherwise, he is bound by the decree of foreclosure: Pacific Mfg. Co. v. Brown, 8 Wash. 347.

In a suit to enforce a materialman's lien with others having co-ordinate rights of lien subject to a certain mortgage, and where one party by stipulation with mortgagee took priority, the one holding the stipulation had his claim deducted from the mortgage, and the mortgagee was subrogated to the rights of the one holding the stipulation: Potwin v. Denny Hotel Co., 9 Wash. 316.

Lien, duration, waiver or loss of: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1929, §§ 54, 55; Smith v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 22 Wash. 500; Mason v. McLean, 6 Wash. 31; Commercial Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Johnson, 16 Wash. 536; Hanna v. Reeves, 22 Wash. 6.

Priorities between mortgages, or between mortgages and other claims: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1930, §§ 57, 58; Fischer v. Woodruff, 25 Wash. 67; Kelso v. Russell & Co., 33 Wash. 474; Manhattan Trust Co. v. Seattle Coal & Iron Co., 16 Wash. 499; Bellingham Bay Imp. Co. v. Fairhaven etc. R. Co., 17 Wash. 371; Seattle v. Hill, 14 Wash. 487; Krutz v. Gardner, 18 Wash. 332; Graham v. Smart, 42 Wash. 205.

The release by a mortgagee of a portion of mortgaged premises sufficient to satisfy the mortgage debt, after notice of the liens of judgment creditors of the mortgagor upon the balance of the mortgaged property, discharges the mortgage as to all the property: Schaad v. Robinson, 50 Wash. 283.

An allegation in an answer that a mortgagee had full and actual knowledge of subsequent liens upon part of the mortgaged premises at the time he released other portions of the property from the mortgage is a sufficient allegation of notice operating to release pro tanto the balance of the property: Id.

Mortgagees as bona fide purchasers: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1931, §§ 59-61; Dane v. Daniel, 23 Wash. 379; Dormitzer v. German Sav. & L. Soc., 23 Wash. 132; Schmidt v. Olympia Light etc. Co., 40 Wash. 131; Attebery v. O'Neil, 42 Wash. 487; Fischer v. Woodruff, 25 Wash. 67.

Priority of mortgage for purchase money: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1922, § 62; Bisbee v. Carey, 17 Wash. 224; Skeel v. Christenson, 17 Wash. 649.

Priority of record—Notice—Failure to record: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1932, 1933. §§ 64-69; Goetzinger v. Rosenfeld, 16 Wash. 392; Bank v. Doherty, 42 Wash. 317; Sengfelder v. Hill, 21 Wash. 371; Attebery v. O'Neil, 42 Wash. 487; Congregational Church Bldg. Soc. v. Scandinavian Free Church, 24 Wash. 433; Coolidge v. Schering, 32 Wash. 557; Dawson v. McCarty, 21 Wash. 314.

Transactions subsequent to mortgage affecting priority: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1933, 1934, §§ 70-74; Hanna v. Kasson, 26 Wash. 568; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318; De Voe v. Rundle, 33 Wash. 604; Eastham v. Landon, 17 Wash. 48; Manhattan Trust Co. v. Seattle Coal & Iron Co., 19 Wash. 493.

VALID OR FRAUDULENT.—If a corporation, although heavily indebted, gives a mortgage in order to put itself in better shape for continuing the business, such mortgage will not be treated as that of an insolvent corporation for the purpose of hindering, delaying and defrauding the creditors: Vincent v. Snoqualmie Mill Co., 7 Wash. 566.

A mortgage by an insolvent corporation to a trustee to secure certain notes, providing that the mortgagor should remain in possession and conduct the business as before, paying expenses and applying the surplus to the debt secured, and further providing that renewals and extensions of the note are to be secured; and none construed as payments, is voidable as to creditors as being a device to indefinitely perpetuate the corporate life of an insolvent corporation: Thompson v. Huron L. Co., 4 Wash. 600.

A mortgage executed by one corporation to another is not to be deemed fraudulent solely because of the fact that the same individual is president of both corporations: Roy & Co. v. Scott, Hartley & Co., 11 Wash. 399.

If the authorization of the trustees of a corporation for the giving of a mortgage does not prescribe the condition to be inserted, the fact that provisions were inserted to keep the property insured, and authorizing the mortgagees to take possession and to foreclose in case of attachments, would not render the mortgage void: Vincent v. Snoqualmie Mill Co., supra.

Where all the stockholders acquiesce in the execution of a mortgage upon its property they are estopped from setting up its invalidity: Roy & Co. v. Scott, Hartley & Co., supra.

If a mortgage by a corporation, executed by its officers, was not authorized by the trustees, the corporation will be deemed to have ratified it by receiving the benefits thereof: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Long, 2 Wash. 435.

Validity: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1924, §§ 32, 33; Friday v. Parkhurst, 13 Wash. 439; Manhattan Trust Co. v. Seattle Coal & Iron Co., 19 Wash. 493.

A mortgage by a party of his alleged interest of land in a syndicate who had falsely represented that he had paid his proportional interest therein, when in fact he had caused his associates, by his false representations, to pay the whole price, is void and cannot be foreclosed where the legal title is in a trustee for the benefit of the syndicate: Shroufe v. Griffiths, 4 Wash. 161.

Knowledge by the mortgagee's attorney at the time of taking the mortgage, that it was given to hinder and defraud the mortgagor's creditors, although the mortgagee himself be ignorant of such purpose, renders the mortgage void as to such creditors: Wells v. McMahon, 3 W. T. 532.

A mortgage cannot be avoided on the ground of mental incapacity if a party voluntarily executes it fully comprehending its terms and provisions, and where honest dealing requires its execution, although his mind was somewhat impaired at the time: Hodgdon v. Crosby, 1 W. T. 578.

An agreement in a mortgage to pay interest semi-annually at the rate of one and one-half per cent per month, which, if not so paid, is to be added to principal and draw like interest, and for ten per cent attorney's fees upon principal and interest, in case of foreclosure, is valid under the laws of this state: Reed v. Miller, 1 Wash. 426. See, also, Sloane v. Lucas, 37 Wash. 348.

In the particular case held that the charge of fraud in the procurement of a mortgage was not sustained by the evidence: Hersner v. Martin, 8 Wash. 698.

In a suit for foreclosure of a mortgage, plaintiff is entitled to a trial of an issue raised as to whether the title to the premises asserted by a defendant other than the mortgagor was acquired prior or subsequent to the execution of the mortgage: Penn. Mtg. etc. Co. v. Gilbert, 13 Wash. 684; Cal. Safe Dep. etc. Co. v. Cheeney Elec. L. Co., 12 Wash. 138, distinguished.

Where one employed to procure a mortgage loan, under an agreement for a certain commission, himself makes the loan and takes a note and mortgage therefor, and retains the stipulated commission under the direction of the mortgagor, he is entitled to a lien on the premises for such sum as if it had actually been paid to the mortgagor: Watson v. Sawyer, 12 Wash. 35; affirmed in Hill v. Sawyer, 12 Wash. 658.

In the foreclosure of a mortgage to a corporation, the admission of other than record proof as to the change of name of the corporation from that stated in the mortgage to the one under which the action was prosecuted is not prejudicial error, when the record also shows a finding, without an exception to it, that "the plaintiff company was and now is the owner and holder of said mortgage": U. S. etc. Loan Co. v. Cade, 15 Wash. 38.

In the foreclosure of a mortgage by a loan and building company the certificate of stock issued by it to defendant, with his assignment of the same to the company, is admissible in evidence, when reference thereto is made in the note and mortgage: Id.

Where a note and mortgage given to a loan and building company provide that in case the maker fails to pay any installment of interest or make any monthly payment on certain stock in the company, which had been issued to him and assigned to the company as further security, for the period of three months after the same shall become due, then the whole sum with interest shall upon the election of the company become due and payable, the default does not become fixed for the purposes of the adjustment of the account between the parties, until the company elects to declare the entire amount due and payable, but until such time the contract continues in force entitling the company to accruing interest and payments upon the certificates of stock assigned to it: Id. See further, Interstate Savings & Loan Assn. v. Knapp, 20 Wash. 225.

A decree of foreclosure against the executor of an estate is binding on devisees, although not parties to the action: Hill v. Lowman, 15 Wash. 503; see Hyde v. Heller, 10 Wash. 586.

A finding by the court in a foreclosure proceeding that a mortgage had become due prior to the date of its maturity is warranted, when the mortgage provides that the mortgagee has an option to declare the whole sum due for failure to pay any installment of interest, and there is evidence sufficient to show such election: Ames v. Bigelow, 15 Wash. 532.

The fact that bonds were executed as of a certain date, and a mortgage to secure their payment given to a trustee for the bondholders, will not give a legal existence to the mortgage until the date of the sale and delivery of the bonds: Wade v. Donau Brewing Co., 10 Wash. 284.

The fact that the complaint, in an action for the reformation of a mortgage, does not in express terms aver that the mortgage was erroneously executed through "mutual mistake" will not render it insufficient, if it sets up facts from which such a conclusion is inevitable: Murdoch v. Leonard, 15 Wash. 142.

In an action to reform and foreclose a mortgage upon premises erroneously described, the mortgagors' ownership of the premises intended to be mortgaged is sufficiently proved prima facie by evidence showing that the defendants were in possession of the property, exercising acts of ownership, renting and receiving rent therefor, insuring same in their own right as owners, and that they offered to convey the property to the mortgagee in consideration of a release of the mortgage and the payment of a small sum of money: Id.

One whose title is adverse to and paramount to the mortgagor is not a necessary nor proper party to a foreclosure of the mortgage: Id.

In an action to reform and foreclose a mortgage upon premises misdescribed therein, the plaintiff is not entitled to a decree when he has, in consideration of a release of the mortgage, received a deed conveying the premises as erroneously described in the mortgage, and has failed to surrender the deed or to tender a reconveyance of the premises, as misdescribed therein: Id.

Where an assignment of a mortgage held by a mortgage company has been executed by one of its vice-presidents, under the seal of the corporation, and it is shown that it had been the custom of this officer for a considerable period of time prior thereto to assign like securities, the corporation is estopped to afterward question his authority in that respect: Atlantic Trust Co. v. Behrend, 15 Wash. 467.

If an assignment of a mortgage is sufficient to estop the mortgagee from disputing it, the mortgagor cannot raise any question as to the validity of the assignment in an action of foreclosure instituted by the assignee: Id.

In an action to foreclose a mortgage on certain real estate, to which one of the defendants interposes the defense that he has a paramount interest by reason of a judgment lien against a leasehold interest in the land, evidence is admissible to show that the actual interest of the judgment debtor in the lands is less than it is made to appear by the county records: Book v. Willey, 8 Wash. 267.

One who executes a mortgage representing himself to be a single man is estopped from denying its validity on the ground of his marriage and the failure of his wife to join therein: Canadian etc. Trust Co. v. Bloomer, 14 Wash. 491; Sadler v. Niesz, 5 Wash. 182.

An innocent mortgagee of land is not subject to the claim of a wife of the mortgagor, who for more than thirty years had lived apart from him in another state, while he represented himself, and was understood in the locality where he resided, to be a single man: Canadian etc. Trust Co. v. Bloomer, supra; Sadler v. Niesz, supra.

The written notice contemplated by a provision of a trust deed, that upon default in payment of interest the bonds secured shall, at the election of the trustee, become immediately due upon the giving of such written notice, may be dispensed with and the election made by the bondholders, where the corporation deceived them as to the amount due on a mortgage to the trustee and conspired with the trustee to dispose of the property contrary to the provisions of the deed: Clay v. Selah Valley Irrigation Co., 14 Wash. 543.

The appointment of a receiver on the application of bondholders, upon the foreclosure of a trust deed, is warranted when it is shown that the trustee is insolvent, occupies an adverse position to the bondholders, and has been guilty of fraud: Id.

A receiver may be appointed pending foreclosure of a real estate mortgage, where it appears that the mortgagors had abandoned the property and left for foreign lands and that a receiver is necessary to care for and protect the property and rent the same during the pendency of the action: Collins v. Gross, 51 Wash. 516.

That portion of mortgaged premises conveyed at the instance of the mortgagor by a grantee of the mortgaged premises in a deed absolute on its face, but in reality intended as security, to a corporation chargeable with notice of the nature of the title, is to be sold in satisfaction of the prior mortgage before the remaining portion, under the rule requiring sales to be made in inverse order of alienation: Stalb v. Ainslie, 14 Wash. 567.

Although an assignment for the benefit of creditors has been made by a mortgagor, it is a matter within the discretion of the court to grant leave to the mortgagee to institute a separate suit for foreclosure: Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Fife, 15 Wash. 605; Gilbert Hunt Mfg. Co. v. Wheeler, 15 Wash. 594.

The action of the court in assignment proceedings in granting leave to a mortgagee of the assignor to bring a separate suit for foreclosure cannot be collaterally attacked in the foreclosure proceeding: Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Fife, supra.

Where a mortgagee, who has assigned the principal and coupon notes secured by the mortgage, with a guaranty of their payment, subsequently brings suit for foreclosure upon default in payment of some of the coupon notes, under a provision of the mortgage allowing foreclosure in case of default in payment of any part of principal or interest, the assignee of the notes is a party in interest and a necessary party to the action: Bacon v. O'Keefe, 13 Wash. 655.

Defenses to foreclosure: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1948-1950, §§ 143-149; Frye v. Meyer, 22 Wash. 277; Brown v. Elwell, 17 Wash. 442; Washington L. & T. Co. v. Ritz, 37 Wash. 642; Security Sav. Soc. v. Cohalan, 31 Wash. 266; Interstate Sav. & L. Assn. v. Cairns, 16 Wash. 215; Eastham v. Landon, 17 Wash. 48; Hanna v. Reeves, 22 Wash. 6; Perkins v. Bailey, 38 Wash. 46; Gordon v. Decker, 19 Wash. 188; Friday v. Parkhurst, 13 Wash. 439.

An answer states a good defense to the foreclosure of a mortgage, where it alleges that the same is paid and satisfied and that the satisfaction was being withheld and the foreclosure is being prosecuted as a fraudulent conspiracy to eliminate defendants' liens against part of the property: Schaad v. Robinson, 50 Wash. 283.

§ 1117. (5886.) Remedy Confined to Mortgaged Property, When.

When there is no express agreement in the mortgage, nor any separate instrument given for the payment of the sum secured thereby, the remedy of the mortgagee shall be confined to the property mortgaged. [L. '54, p. 207, § 409; Cd. '81, § 610; 2 H. C., § 626.]

See § 1119, judgment for deficiency.

Cited in 14 Wash. 283.

§ 1118. (5887.) Judgment—Order of Sale—Satisfaction of.

In rendering judgment of foreclosure, the court shall order the mortgaged premises, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be sold to satisfy the mortgage and costs of the action. The payment of the mortgage debt, with interest and costs, at any time before sale, shall satisfy the judgment. [L. '54, p. 207, § 410; Cd. '81, § 611; 2 H. C., § 627.]

Cited in 11 Wash. 616, 687.

Under this section the mortgagor has the right to redeem the property at any time prior to the sale by paying the mortgage debt with interest and costs: Stevens v. Ferry (Wash.), 48 Fed. 7, 11.

And unless he avail himself of the right given by law, or the grace extended him by order of court, his right to redeem and his interest in the property is extinguished, and the purchaser's right to a valid deed becomes absolute: Stevens v. Ferry, supra. See Parker v. Daeres, 2 W. T. 439. But see videns § 585, redemption.

JUDGMENT OR DECREE.—Scope and extent of relief—Opening or vacating: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1958, 1959, §§ 194-

Seattle Coal etc. Co.*, 19 Wash. 493; McGee v. Wincholt, 23 Wash. 748; Clark v. Eltinge, 38 Wash. 376; Fuller & Co. v. Hall, 19 Wash. 400.

§ 1119. (5888.) Judgment for Deficiency, When.

When there is an express agreement for the payment of the sum of money secured contained in the mortgage or any separate instrument, the court shall direct in the decree of foreclosure [or order of sale] that the balance due on the mortgage, and costs, which may remain unsatisfied after the sale of the mortgaged premises, shall be satisfied from any property of the mortgage debtor. [L. '54, p. 208, § 211; Cd. '81, § 612; 2 H. C., § 628.]

This section was not repealed by Laws 1899, page 85, § 2, since that section was void as not included in the title of the act: Bradley Engineering etc. Co. v. Muzzy, 54 Wash. —, decided July 17, 1909.

Laws 1897, page 98, § 1 [Bal. Code, § 5888a], limiting the mortgagee to the mortgaged property, was held void in Dennis v. Moses, 18 Wash. 537.

Deficiency and personal liability: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1966, §§ 226-232; Rogers v. Turner, 19 Wash. 399; State ex rel. Twigg v. Superior Court, 34 Wash. 643; Fuller & Co. v. Hull, 19 Wash. 400; Harding v. Atlantic Trust Co., 26 Wash. 536; Twigg v. James, 37 Wash. 434; Clark v. Eltinge, 29 Wash. 215.

This section was enacted for the express purpose of making a distinction between the power of the court where there was an express agreement to pay in a separate instrument and when there was no such agreement: Shumway v. Orchard, 12 Wash. 104, 106.

Under this section and § 1121 the court is authorized, upon decreeing foreclosure, to also direct the entry of a deficiency judgment, upon which execution may be levied against other property of the mortgagor for any balance due, when there is an express agreement to pay the sum of money secured by the mortgage: Id. 104; contra, Hays v. Miller, 1 W. T. 143.

In foreclosure where there is no answer plaintiff is not entitled to a decree for a deficiency when not prayed for in the complaint: Bank of California v. Dyer, 14 Wash. 279, 282.

Where no personal judgment is sought or obtained, but a decree of foreclosure merely, plaintiff's remedy against the debtor is exhausted: Id. 283.

In case of foreclosure, no lien can be obtained on property not mentioned in the mortgage until, by sale of the mortgaged premises, a deficiency has been ascertained: Hays v. Miller, 1 W. T. 143.

Although the form of a deficiency judgment may be objectionable, yet where it clearly appears therefrom that it was the intent of the court to have the mortgaged property first sold, and, if the proceeds were insufficient, that execution over should be had for the remainder, the decree cannot be attacked collaterally for the want of form: Munch v. McLaren, 9 Wash. 676.

A simple decree for sale of mortgaged premises does not constitute a lien on property outside the mortgage, and cannot be amended nunc pro tunc so as to prejudice a prior mortgage or encumbrance on other property of the mortgagor: Hays v. Miller, supra.

Judgment of foreclosure without personal service upon mortgagor, when the full amount of indebtedness is not realized from sale of mortgaged property, will not prevent the maintaining of a personal action to recover the balance due: Howard v. McNaught, 9 Wash. 355.

Evidence of value of land, in such case, in absence of an allegation of fraud in the sale, is immaterial: Id.

Personal judgment against the wife is unwarranted in a foreclosure suit upon a mortgage executed by the husband and wife to secure payment on an overdue note executed by the husband, although the mortgage provided that the mortgagors would pay the note when the same should become due: Exchange Nat. Bank v. Wolverton, 11 Wash. 109.

In foreclosure suit on mortgage securing note and interest coupons the plaintiff is not entitled to judgment for the interest note not due, although the note in terms provides that in case of default in interest when due, the principal note and interest coupons shall mature and become payable at once at the option of the holder: Cloud v. Rivord, 6 Wash. 555.

Where a foreclosure decree is rendered against a debtor subsequent to his discharge in insolvency, but before the order therefor had been entered, and the debtor failed to ask that plaintiff's recovery in foreclosure be limited to the property mortgaged, the discharge will not prevent a recovery for the deficiency remaining, after the sale of the mortgaged premises: Leisure v. Kneeland, 2 Wash. 527.

§ 1120. (5889.) Judgments for Deficiency, Form of.

Judgments over for any deficiency remaining unsatisfied after application of the proceeds of sale of mortgaged property, either real or personal, shall be similar in all respects to other judgments for the recovery of money, and may be made a lien upon the property of a judgment debtor, as other judgments, and the collections thereof enforced in the same manner. [Cf. L. '54, p. 208, § 411; L. '69, p. 148, § 575; Cd. '81, § 622; 2 H. C., § 629.]

§ 1121. (5890.*) Execution to Enforce Decree.

A decree of foreclosure of mortgage or other lien may be enforced by execution as an ordinary judgment or decree for the payment of money. The execution shall contain a description of the property described in the decree. The sheriff shall indorse upon the execution the time when he receives it, and he shall thereupon forthwith proceed to sell such property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the judgment, interest and costs upon giving the notice prescribed in section 582. [L. '99, p. 85, § 1; L. '54, p. 208, § 412; L. '69, p. 146, § 567; Cd. '81, § 613; 2 H. C., § 630.]

For former law repealed hereby, see L. '97, pp. 70-76, which repealed 2 Hill's Code, 511-521.

Section 2 of this act is omitted as not included in the title: See note to § 1119. For § 3, of this act, see § 582, supra.

See supra, § 578, sales on execution.

See supra, § 591, confirmation of sales.

The provision of Ballinger's Code, § 5890, requiring the sheriff forthwith to levy upon other property, etc., precludes the idea of a return to the court and obtaining judgment for deficiency based thereon. The execution here referred to is the execution which the sheriff already has in his hands: Shumway v. Orchard, 12 Wash. 104, 106.

Where by sale of the mortgaged property the judgment is unsatisfied, under the order of sale, it is the duty of the sheriff to proceed at once to make such further levy and sale of the debtor's property subject to execution sufficient to satisfy the judgment: Hays v. Miller, 1 W. T. 143.

When the whole amount of the debt secured by the mortgage is due, judgment may be rendered therefor, to have the effect of a lien as in money judgments, differing only in the manner of satisfaction; but according to Hewitt, C. J., this lien cannot attach until the deficiency is ascertained by a sale of the mortgaged property: Id.

A sale under a mortgage foreclosure is not void because not made subject to redemption, as provided by statute relating to sales of real estate under execution, nor by reason of nonconformity to the provisions of the statute in other particulars on the part of the sheriff in executing and returning process: Stevens v. Ferry (Wash.), 48 Fed. 7, 11.

Upon foreclosure of a mortgage upon land a portion of which had been conveyed away subsequent to the mortgage, it is the duty of the court to direct the remaining portion to be first sold, providing it can be done without impairing the security of the mortgage: Solicitors etc. Co. v. Washington etc. Ry. Co., 11 Wash. 684.

Real property can be sold under execution in a foreclosure case only in the county in which it is situated and by the sheriff of that county, under Constitution, Article IV, § 6, providing that process of the superior courts shall extend to all parts of the state, Ballinger's Code, § 5890, providing that decrees of foreclosure shall be enforced by execution, and § 513, supra, providing that the writ shall issue to the sheriff of the county in which the property is situated, and for notice and sale in such county; and an execution sale in one county, of lands situated in two counties foreclosed in one action, is void: Vietzen v. Otis, 46 Wash. 402.

SALE.—Statutory provisions, appraisal, time, notice, bids, parcels, etc.: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1961, 1962, §§ 204-210; Swinburne v. Mills, 17 Wash. 611; State ex rel. Purves v. Barthrop, 40 Wash. 191; Moody v. Northwestern etc. Bank, 20 Wash. 413.

Opening or vacating judgment or decree: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1959, § 198; Brooks v. Lewis, 22 Wash. 192; Terry v. Furth, 40 Wash. 493; Land Mtg. Bank v. Nicholson, 24 Wash. 258.

A decree of foreclosure will not be vacated on the ground of fraud because a certain portion of the land ordered sold had been released by the mortgagee: State v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 591.

A purchaser under a foreclosure sale, who takes possession and leases to another, cannot be compelled to account at the suit of the mortgagor for rents and profits arising from the use and occupation for the period between sale and redemption: Hardy v. Herriott, 11 Wash. 460.

Under § 519, 2 H. C., the purchaser under foreclosure sale is entitled to the possession or rental, where there is a tenant, of the property from the day of sale: Debenture Corporation v. Warren, 9 Wash. 312.

If the decree in foreclosure provides that the proceeds shall be divided proportionately between certain parties, the issuance of execution at the instance of one of them and sale thereunder will not bar an appeal therefrom to determine questions of priority: Miller v. Savings Bank, 5 Wash. 200.

Plaintiff in foreclosure is the proper party to proceed by writ of assistance where the purchaser at foreclosure sale is entitled to possession during period of redemption, and the mortgagor refuses to surrender: Debenture Corporation v. Warren, supra.

Sale—Confirmation of, opening or vacating: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1963, §§ 213-216; Snipes v. Kelleher, 31 Wash. 386; State ex rel. Steele v. Northwestern & Pac. Hypotheek Bank, 18 Wash. 118; Terry v. Furth, 40 Wash. 493; Hyde v. Heaton, 43 Wash. 433; Brooks v. Lewis, 22 Wash. 192.

A mortgage foreclosure sale of land situated in a county other than the one in which the sale was had is not cured by a direction in the decree that the sale be so made, or by confirmation of the sale: Vietzen v. Otis, 46 Wash. 402.

Confirmation of sale under decree of foreclosure concludes inquiry as to mere irregularities, provided they are not of such a nature as to oust the court of jurisdiction: Parker v. Dacres, 1 Wash. 190.

A sheriff, under Ballinger's Code, § 1609, was not entitled to commissions upon the sale of mortgaged premises under decree of foreclosure if the property is bid in by plaintiff for the mortgaged debt, and no moneys pass through the sheriff's hands: State v. Prince, 9 Wash. 107; Soderberg v. King County, 15 Wash. 194; Spinning v. Pierce County, 20 Wash. 126.

Certificate of sale is color of title: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1963, § 214; Philadelphia Mtg. & T. Co. v. Palmer, 32 Wash. 455; Olson v. Howard, 38 Wash. 15.

§ 1123. (5891.) Levy upon and Sale of Other Property.

In all actions of foreclosure where there is a decree for the sale of the mortgaged premises or property, and a judgment over for any deficiency remaining unsatisfied after applying the proceeds of the sale of mortgaged property, further levy and sales upon other property of the judgment debtor may be made under the same execution. [Cf. L. '69, p. 148, § 573; L. '73, p. 151, § 571; L. '77, p. 129, § 623; Cd. '81, § 620 in part, last part in following section.]

§ 1124. (5892.) Publication of Notice.

When sales of other property not embraced in the mortgage or decree of sale are made under the execution to satisfy any deficiency remaining due upon judgment, two weeks' publication of notice of such sale shall be sufficient. Such notice shall be published in a newspaper printed in the county where the property is situated, and if there be no newspaper published therein, then in the most convenient newspaper having a circulation in said county. [Cf. L. '69, p. 148, § 574; Cd. '81, § 621; 2 H. C., § 631.]

§ 1125. (5893.) Concurrent Actions not Maintainable.

The plaintiff shall not proceed to foreclose his mortgage while he is prosecuting any other action for the same debt or matter which is secured by the mortgage, or while he is seeking to obtain execution of any judgment in such other action; nor shall he prosecute any other action for the same matter while he is foreclosing his mortgage or prosecuting a judgment of foreclosure. [L. '54, p. 208, § 413; Cd. '81, § 614; 2 H. C., § 632.]

If a written instrument constitutes both a promissory note and a mortgage, the holder, at his option, may recover a money judgment upon it, or foreclose: Frank v. Pickle, 2 W. T. 55. See, also, Frye v. Meyer, 22 Wash. 277.

Only a single suit can be maintained at one time to foreclose a mortgage upon land in this state, and collect the debt secured thereby, notwithstanding several distinct tracts included in the mortgage are situated in different counties: Stevens v. Ferry (Wash.), 48 Fed. 7. See Hays v. Miller, 1 W. T. 143.

This statute, preventing a concurrent action for the recovery of the mortgaged debt, pending foreclosure suit, is in derogation of the common law, and to be strictly construed, so far as it restricts the remedy; its object was to avoid a multiplicity of suits and save expense and to accomplish in one action what formerly could only be attained by two suits: Hays v. Miller, 1 W. T. 143. See Hinchman v. Anderson, 32 Wash. 198.

An attachment suit by mortgagee is not ground for a collateral attack on foreclosure: Rohrer v. Snyder, 29 Wash. 199.

Foreclosure of security is not a prerequisite to an action in this state upon a note made in Montana, secured on property in California, under the statutes of Montana requiring foreclosure of a mortgage before any resort to the note secured thereby: Mantle v. Dabney, 50 Wash. 394.

§ 1126. (5894.) Installments not Due—Proceedings.

Whenever a complaint is filed for the foreclosure of a mortgage upon which there shall be due any interest or installment of the principal, and there are other installments not due, if the defendant pay into the court the principal and interest due, with costs, at any time before the final judgment, proceedings thereon shall be stayed, subject to be enforced upon a subsequent default in the payment of any installment of the principal or interest thereafter becoming due. In the final judgment, the court shall direct at what time and upon what default any subsequent execution shall issue. [Cf. L. '54, p. 208, § 414; L. '69, p. 147, § 569; Cd. '81, § 615; 2 H. C., § 633.]

Right to foreclose for default or breach of condition—Waiver of right: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1946, §§ 131-138; George v. Butler, 26 Wash. 456; White v. Krutz, 37 Wash. 34; Bank v. Doherty, 29 Wash. 233; Johnson v. Irwin, 16 Wash. 652; Board of Election Fund v. First Presbyterian Church, 19 Wash. 455; First Nat. Bank of Snohomish v. Parker, 28 Wash. 234; White v. Krutz, 37 Wash. 34; Bank v. Doherty, 29 Wash. 233.

An assignee of a mortgage giving to the mortgagor the option to declare the whole sum due upon default in the payment of interest or principal has the right to exercise the option, although the mortgage omits words of inheritance or of succession: Bartlett Estate Co. v. Fairhaven Land Co., 49 Wash. 58.

A release agreement providing that portions of the mortgaged premises shall be released upon the making of partial payments "prior to maturity," requires that such payments be made before the mortgagee has elected to declare the whole debt due for default in the payment of interest or installments of the principal; and evidence of sales, since the commencement of the action, of portions of the premises sufficient to pay the amount of the debt in arrears, is inadmissible: Id.

§ 1127. (5895.) Sale in Parcels—Order.

In such cases, after final judgment, the court shall ascertain whether the property can be sold in parcels, and if it can be done without injury to the interests of the parties, the court shall direct so much only of the premises to be sold as will be sufficient to pay the amount then due on the mortgage, with costs, and the judgment shall remain and be enforced upon any subsequent default, unless the amount due shall be paid before execution of the judgment is perfected. [L. '54, p. 208, § 415; Cd. '81, § 616; 2 H. C., § 634.]

Cited in 11 Wash. 689.

§ 1128. (5896.) Sale of Whole—Application of Proceeds.

If the mortgaged premises cannot be sold in parcels, the court shall order the whole to be sold, and the proceeds of the sale shall be applied first to the payment of the principal due, interest, and costs, and then to the residue secured by the mortgage and not due; and if the residue do not bear interest, a deduction shall be made therefrom by discounting the legal interest; and in all cases where the proceeds of the sale shall be more than sufficient to pay the amount due and costs, the surplus shall be paid to the mortgage debtor, his heirs and assigns. [L. '54, p. 208, § 416; Cd. '81, § 617; 2 H. C., § 635.]

CHAPTER III.LIENS OF MECHANICS AND MATERIALMEN.§ 1129. (5900.) Who may have Lien.

Every person performing labor upon or furnishing material to be used in the construction, alteration or repair of any mining claim, building, wharf, bridge, ditch, dyke, flume, tunnel, well, fence, machinery, railroad, street-railway, wagon road, aqueduct to create hydraulic power or any other structure or who performs labor in any mine or mining claim or stone quarry, has a lien upon the same for the labor performed or material furnished by each, respectively, whether performed or furnished at the instance of the owner of the property subject to the lien or his agent; and every contractor, subcontractor, architect, builder or person having charge, of the construction, alteration or repair of any property subject to the lien as aforesaid, shall be held to be the agent of the owner for the purposes of the establishment of the lien created by this chapter: Provided, that whenever any railroad company shall contract with any person for the construction of its road, or any part thereof, such railroad company shall take from the person with whom such contract is made a good and sufficient bond, conditioned that such person shall pay all laborers, mechanics, and materialmen, and persons who supply such contractors with provisions, all just dues to such persons or to any person to whom any part of such work is given, incurred in carrying on such work, which bond shall be filed by such railroad company in the office of the county auditor in each county in which any part of such work is situated. And if any such railroad company shall fail to take such bond, such railroad company shall be liable to the persons herein mentioned to the full extent of all such debts so contracted by such contractor. [L. '93, p. 32, § 1; L. '05, p. 229, § 1.]

A mechanic's lien is a creature of the statute and its validity must in all cases be determined by the statute creating it: Johnston v. Harrington, 5 Wash. 73, 80.

"Materials," as used in the lien law, does not include "provisions" furnished to a railroad contractor: See Armour & Co. v. Western Const. Co., 36 Wash. 529.

A statute giving a lien to materialmen or laborers, notwithstanding payment to the main contractor, is constitutional as to future transactions: Spokane etc. L. Co. v. McChesney, 1 Wash. 609.

Under this section no lien can be established unless it is made to appear that the materials were actually used or delivered on the premises for use in the construction of the building: Fuller & Co. v. Ryan, 44 Wash. 385.

Property, estates, and rights, subject to lien: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1871-1873, §§ 5-15; Stetson Post Mill Co. v. Brown, 21 Wash. 620; Sly v. Palo Alto Gold Min. Co., 28 Wash. 485; Potvin v. Denny Hotel Co., 37 Wash. 323; Sheehan v. Winehill, 18 Wash. 447; Second Nat. Bank of Colfax v. Hatch, 24 Wash. 421; Merritt v. Corey, 22 Wash. 462; Baker v. Sinclair, 22 Wash. 462; Laidlow v. Portland etc. R. Co., 42 Wash. 292.

Under our statute a mechanic's lien cannot be maintained upon a building separate from any interest in the land upon which it is situate: Kellogg v. Littell etc. Mfg. Co., 1 Wash. 407; but see infra, § 1146. It cannot be enforced against a part of a building: Wright v. Cowie, 5 Wash. 341; nor upon personal property not attached to a building so as to become a part thereof: Vendome Turkish Bath Co. v. Schettler, 2 Wash. 457; following Kellogg v. Littell etc. Mfg. Co., supra.

A mechanic's lien cannot be enforced against an irrigating company, under § 1663, 1 H. C., for construction of its ditches, unless it appeared that the company owned or had an interest in the land through which the ditch is constructed: Nelson v. Clerf, 4 Wash. 405; and it was also held that a laborer could have no lien upon a street railway, unless the person causing the railway to be constructed had some estate in the land over which it was laid: Front St. etc. Ry. Co. v. Johnson, 2 Wash. 112; following Kellogg v. Littell etc. Mfg. Co., supra; see, also, Vincent v. Snoqualmie Mill Co., 7 Wash. 566.

Laborers' liens may be enforced for the full amount against the output of a shingle mill, notwithstanding it was run successively by two different concerns, without segregating the claims against each, when it appears that the labor contract was a continuing one and the business a joint undertaking: Howey v. Bingham, 14 Wash. 450.

Where permanent repairs upon leased premises are permitted and made with the knowledge of the owner of the fee, his interest is subject to a mechanic's lien therefor unless he expressly limited his liability by notifying the lien claimant, and such limitation is not made by merely sending the claimant to the lessee in an endeavor to get the lessee to pay for part of the repairs: Housekeeper v. Livingstone, 48 Wash. 209.

Services rendered and materials furnished See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1873, 1874, §§ 16-20; Spaulding v. Burke, 33 Wash. 679; Childs Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Page, 28 Wash. 128.

If materials have been furnished contractors generally for use in several buildings, without intention to supply them for any particular building, the materialman cannot claim a lien therefor: Eisenbeis v. Wakeman, 3 Wash. 534; Whittier v. Puget Sound etc. Co., 4 Wash. 666.

One who performs labor upon and about a mill is entitled to the benefit of the lien law: Vincent v. Snoqualmie Mill Co., 7 Wash. 566; and a mechanic's lien may be claimed for the erection of a dwelling-house, although the premises are at the time intended to be claimed as a homestead: Parsons v. Pearson, 9 Wash. 48.

Agreement or consent of owner: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1874-1876, §§ 21-30; Bell v. Swalwell Land etc. Co., 20 Wash. 602; Kremer v. Walton, 16 Wash.

139; Sheehan v. Winehill, 18 Wash. 447; Cattell v. Fergusson, 3 Wash. 541; Stetson & Post Mill Co. v. Brown, 21 Wash. 619; Northwest Bridge Co. v. Tacoma Shipbuilding Co., 36 Wash. 333; Griffith v. Maxwell, 20 Wash. 403; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 319; Seattle Lum. Co. v. Sweeney, 43 Wash. 1.

Under § 5918, infra, giving the husband the management and control of community real property, and providing that it shall be subject to mechanics' liens, etc., the husband is empowered to contract for the erection of buildings on the community lands and subject it to mechanics' liens: Littell etc. Mfg. Co. v. Miller, 3 Wash. 480.

The wife is estopped to dispute the validity of a mechanic's lien when she had full knowledge of the erection of a building on her separate property, and was in and around it during erection and assisted in the selection of the colors of paints for it: Spears v. Lawrence, 10 Wash. 368.

Where labor is performed in erecting a building upon lands at the instance of a person holding a contract of sale thereon, a mechanic's lien can attach only upon the interest of the contracting party and not against the owner of the legal title: Iliff v. Forssell, 7 Wash. 225; Mentzer v. Peters, 6 Wash. 540; St. Paul etc. L. Co. v. Bolton, 5 Wash. 763.

Liens of mechanics and materialmen for repairs to a building at the instance of a lessee thereof attach only to the leasehold interest and do not bind the owner in the absence of authority to lessee to act as owner's agent: Miles Co. v. Gordon, 8 Wash. 442.

If a building has been erected by a lessee under agreement that the lessor would repay the costs thereof by allowing the retention of the rent by the lessee, the interest of the owner as well as the lessee's is subject to liens for work and materials furnished for the building: Kremer v. Walton, 11 Wash. 120; see Miles Co. v. Gordon, supra.

The purchase by the owner of improvements made by a lessee after the forfeiture of the lease and the taking possession by the owner is not such a merger by the leasehold interest into the fee simple title as to make the lien of a materialman against the leasehold a valid one against the fee: Masow v. Fife, 10 Wash. 528; and one falsely representing himself as lessee contracting and procuring materials cannot bind the owner in mechanic's lien: Id.; and the fact that the owner of the fee stated to the parties furnishing materials that he would see that the alleged lessee paid therefor, will not subject the property to a lien: Id.

The interest of the obligor in a bond for deed is not subject to liens arising from construction of a building on the land at the instance of the obligee: St. Paul etc. L. Co. v. Bolton, 5 Wash. 763; and one who signs as surety a contractor's bond securing the owner of a building from the enforcement of any liens cannot himself file and enforce a lien thereon: Morse v. Mansfield, 10 Wash. 373; nor can a surety in an indemnifying bond, given by a contractor to protect the owner of a building against liens, enforce a lien thereon, although the owner may at the time be indebted to the contractor: Spears v. Lawrence, supra. See, also, Kent Lum. Co. v. Ward, 37 Wash. 60.

One who guarantees a surety company upon a building contractor's bond against loss by reason of failure to perform the contract cannot claim a mechanic's lien on the building, under a subcontract subsequently entered into with the contractor: Todd v. Fransvog, 44 Wash. 520.

Persons entitled in general: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1876. §§ 31-36; Huetter v. Redhead, 31 Wash. 320; Cochran v. Yoho, 34 Wash. 238; Washington Bridge Co. v. The Land & R. Imp. Co., 12 Wash. 272; Sweatt v. Hunt, 42 Wash. 96; Windham v. Independent Tel. Co., 35 Wash. 166; Seattle Lumber Co. v. Sweeney, 43 Wash. 1; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318.

CONSTITUTIONALITY AND CONSTRUCTION OF MECHANICS' LIEN LAW.—Under the various sections of this chapter materialmen and laborers have a lien for labor done or materials furnished, notwithstanding the fact that the main contractor has been paid by the owner. And such a statute is constitutional as to all transactions occurring after it is passed, for the reason that it does not impair the obligations of existing contracts, but merely declares the effect of future contracts. The owner can escape liability in one way only, and that is posting a notice on the premises according to the requirements of § 1671. 1 Hill's Code: Spokane Mfg. etc. Co. v. McChesney, 1 Wash. 609. Decisions of another state construing a statute contrary to its plain import will not be followed in construing a similar statute subsequently enacted here, especially where such statute has been adopted in other states, and has been there construed according to its terms, before its adoption here: Id.

§ 1130. (5901.*) Land, Subject to.

The lot, tract or parcel of land upon which the improvement is made or the property is situated, subject to the lien created by section 1129, supra, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the lien and the judgment thereon, to be determined by the court on rendering judgment in a foreclosure of the lien, is also subject to the lien to the extent of the interest of the person or company, who in his or its own behalf, or who, through any of the persons designated in section 1129 to be agent of the owner or owners caused the performance of the labor, or the construction, alteration or repair of the property. [L. '93, p. 33, § 2; L. '05, p. 230, § 2.]

§ 1131. (5902.) Improvements at Request of Owner.

Any person who, at the request of the owner of any real property, his agent, contractor or subcontractor, clears, grades, fills in or otherwise improves the same, or any street or road in front of, or adjoining the same, has a lien upon such real property for the labor performed, or the materials furnished for such purposes. [L. '93, p. 33, § 3.]

See infra, § 1149, laborer's liens.

Cited in 23 Wash. 570; 26 Wash. 15; 29 Wash. 527; 51 Wash. 296.

See Stringham v. Davis, 23 Wash. 568; Young v. Borzone, 26 Wash. 4.

In an action to foreclose a lien for labor in clearing land, a counterclaim for damages by reason of failure to complete the work in time for the crop of 1906 is demurrable, when the contract did not require the work to be done within that time: Owen v. Casey, 48 Wash. 673.

A lien for labor in clearing land attaches against a leasehold estate: Id.

§ 1132. (5903.) Priority Over Subsequent Encumbrances.

The liens created by this chapter are preferred to any lien, mortgage or other encumbrance which may attach subsequently to the time of the commencement of the performance of the labor, or the furnishing of the materials for which the right of lien is given by this chapter, and are also preferred to any lien, mortgage or other encumbrance which may have attached previously to that time, and which was not filed or recorded so as to create constructive notice of the same prior to that time, and of which the lien claimant had no notice. [L. '93, p. 33, § 4.]

Cited in 17 Wash. 146; 20 Wash. 606; 22 Wash. 466; 27 Wash. 338; 51 Wash. 34.

A mechanic's lien will not date, for the purpose of priority over a mortgage and other liens, from the time claimant began preparation of materials in another state: Huttig Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Denny Hotel Co., 6 Wash. 122.

A materialman can claim a lien under the statute only from the time he commenced to furnish materials for the building, and if such time is subsequent to the creation of a mortgage lien, of which he had notice, his lien is subject thereto: Id.

Priorities: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1887, 1888, §§ 69-72; Home Savings & L. Assn. v. Burton, 20 Wash. 688; Nason v. Northwestern Mill & P. Co., 17 Wash. 142; Stetson & Post Mill Co. v. Brown, 21 Wash. 619; Potvin v. Denny Hotel Co., 9 Wash. 316; Fitch v. Applegate, 24 Wash. 25; Bell v. Swalwell Land etc. Co., 20 Wash. 602; Baker v. Sinclair, 22 Wash. 462; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318.

§ 1133. Prerequisites—Duplicate Statements to be Furnished.

Every person furnishing material or supplies to be used in the construction, alteration or repair of any mining claim, building, wharf, steamer, vessel, boat, bridge, ditch, dyke, flume, tunnel, well, fence, machinery, railroad, street-railway, wagon road, aqueduct to create hydraulic power, or any other structure or mining claim or stone quarry, shall, at the time such material or supplies are delivered to any person or contractor, deliver or mail to the owner, or reputed owner, of the property, on, upon or about which said materials or supplies are to be used, a duplicate statement of all such materials or supplies delivered to any contractor or person to whom any such materials or supplies have been sold or delivered, and no materialmen's lien shall be filed or enforced unless the provisions of this act have been complied with.

Laws 1909, Ex. Ses., p. 71, § 5, repealed this section, after enacting a new law on this subject. The governor, however, vetoed the act, except the emergency and repealing clauses, which he undertook to approve. It is believed that the repealing section, which is not included in the title, is dependent upon the vetoed provisions. This section is therefore retained.

§ 1134. (5904.) Requisites of Claim, Form, Time of Filing.

No lien created by this chapter shall exist, and no action to enforce the same shall be maintained, unless within ninety days from the date of the cessation of the performance of such labor or of the furnishing of such materials, a claim for such lien shall be filed for record as hereinafter provided, in the office of the county auditor of the county in which the property, or some part thereof to be affected thereby, is situated. Such claim shall state, as nearly as may be, the time of the commencement and cessation of performing the labor, or furnishing the material, the name of the person who performed the labor, or furnished the material, the name of the person by whom the laborer was employed (if known) or to whom the material was furnished, a description of the property to be charged with the lien sufficient for identification, the name of the owner, or reputed owner if known, and if not known, that fact shall be mentioned, the amount for which the lien is claimed, and shall be signed by the claimant, or by some person in his behalf, and be verified by the oath of the claimant, or some person in his behalf, to the effect that the affiant believes the claim to be just; in case the claim shall have been assigned the name of the assignee shall be stated; and such claim of lien may be amended in case of action brought to foreclose the same, by order of the court, as pleadings may be, in so far as the interests of third parties shall not be affected by such amendment. A claim for lien substantially in the following form shall be sufficient:—

—, claimant, vs. —

Notice is hereby given that on the — day (date of commencement of performing labor or furnishing material) — at the request of — commenced to perform labor (or to furnish material to be used) upon — (here describe property subject to the lien) of which property the owner, or reputed owner, is — (or if the owner or reputed owner is not known, insert the word “unknown”), the performance of which labor (or the furnishing of which material) ceased on the — day of —; that said labor performed (or material furnished) was of the value of — dollars, for which labor (or material) the undersigned claims a lien upon the property herein described for the sum of — dollars. (In case the claim has been assigned, add the words “and — is assignee of said claim,” or claims, if several are united.)

—, Claimant.

State of Washington, County of —, ss.

—, being sworn, says: I am the claimant (or attorney of the claimant) above named; I have heard the foregoing claim read and know the contents thereof, and believe the same to be just.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this — day of —

Any number of claimants may join in the same claim for the purpose of filing the same and enforcing their liens, but in such case the amount claimed by each original lienor, respectively, shall be stated: Provided, it shall not be necessary to insert in the notice of claim of lien provided for by this chapter any itemized statement or bill of particulars of such claim. [L. '93, p. 34, § 5.]

See supra, § 1129, notes, who may have lien.

NOTICE OR CLAIM OF LIEN.—A number of claimants may join, under this section, in the same claim of lien for labor and materials furnished for the same structure: Hopkins v. Jamieson-Dixon Mill Co., 11 Wash. 308, 316.

As to name of claimant, see Littell v. Saulsberry, 40 Wash. 550.

WHEN TO BE FILED: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1879, § 43; Seattle Lum. Co. v. Sweeney, 33 Wash. 691; Ellsworth v. Layton, 37 Wash. 340. If labor and material have been put upon a structure by the contractor subsequent to the furnishing of a certificate of final completion, the time within which a claim of lien should be filed will begin to run from the date of performing such labor and furnishing such material, and not from the date of final certificate: Wash. Bridge Co. v. Improvement Co., 12 Wash. 272.

Where a materialman refuses to furnish materials for a building under his contract with the contractor, but makes a new contract with another party for furnishing materials for the completion of the building, his claim of lien for material under the old contract must be filed within ninety days after ceasing to furnish materials thereunder: Pacific Mfg. Co. v. Brown, 8 Wash. 347.

If a notice of lien is filed before last of materials are furnished, claimant may file a second notice after delivery thereof: Huttig Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Denny Hotel Co., 6 Wash. 122.

Defective lien notice will be considered as amended on appeal, the same as a defective pleading: See Olson v. Snake River Valley R. Co., 22 Wash. 139; Greene v. Finnell, 22 Wash. 186.

In an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien, leave to amend a complaint which set forth an indefinite notice of lien does not authorize the filing of an amended notice of lien, under this section, and a notice filed without leave is properly treated as an original notice, and is insufficient if not filed in time: Brown v. Trimble, 48 Wash. 270.

STATEMENT OF OWNER'S NAME—AGENCY: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1880, § 47; Id., 1883, §§ 53, 54; Seattle Lum. Co. v. Sweeney, 43 Wash. 1; Kremer v. Walton, 16 Wash. 139; Northwest

Bridge Co. v. Tacoma Shipbuilding Co., 36 Wash. 333. A claim of lien which alleges the name of the owner and reputed owner of the premises at the time of the filing of the notice is a sufficient compliance with § 1667, 1 Hill's Code: Collins v. Snoke, 9 Wash. 566; see Warren v. Quade, 3 Wash. 750.

A claim of lien stating the real owner has but an equitable interest in the premises, and mistakenly attributing the legal ownership to another, does not thereby invalidate the lien: McHugh v. Slack, 11 Wash. 370.

A notice of the lien alleging "the name of the owner and reputed owner of such premises is and at all times herein was Jamieson-Dixon Mill Co., and that one John Smith is the owner of the ground on which said plant is located," and setting forth a leasehold interest of said mill company, is sufficient: Hopkins v. Jamieson-Dixon Mill Co., 11 Wash. 308.

An allegation in the notice is sufficient when it states "that the name of the person at whose request claimants performed labor and furnished materials was John McMaster, and he was at the time thereof the foreman or superintendent of said Jamieson-Dixon Mill Co., or person having charge of said work": Id.

Under this section a claim of lien stating that "at the special instance and request of the Jamieson-Dixon Mill Co., acting therein by Andrew Jamieson, its president, it furnished and delivered to said Jamieson-Dixon Mill Co." certain merchandise, sufficiently names the person by whom it was employed and to whom it furnished materials: Id.

The contractual relation between owner and agent is sufficiently alleged in a lien notice by the recital that a certain person, as agent of the owner named, contracted for the materials for which lien is claimed: Fairhaven Land Co. v. Jordan, 5 Wash. 729; distinguishing Warren v. Quade, 3 Wash. 750.

Under § 1667, 1 Hill's Code, requiring the notice of claim of lien to contain "a statement of his (claimant's) demand," etc., a notice is defective which shows that the materials, etc., were furnished to a firm named in the notice, and not to or for the owner directly, without showing a relation between the firm and owner which would bind the owner under the lien law: Warren v. Quade, 3 Wash. 750.

Where property was leased to a partnership, which assigned the lease to a corporation of the same name formed for the purpose, a subcontractor claiming a mechanic's lien against the leasehold is not excused from making the corporation a party by reason of the fact that there was no apparent change in the management or possession where the corporation had taken possession more than a year before the work was done, was in possession at the time, made the original contract, and there was no concealment or fraud: Rees v. Wilson, 50 Wash. 339.

A claim of lien and notice in a particular case held sufficient as establishing relations of principal and agent between owner and contractor: Collins v. Snoke, 9 Wash. 566; Warren v. Quade, supra.

A claim of lien which states that the claimant was employed by two persons, as contractors on the building, when in fact one was but a subcontractor, will not invalidate the lien, especially when both had informed the claimant that they were contractors on the building: McHugh v. Slack, supra.

A lien notice will be construed as a whole, and when it states that certain persons were the contractors for the erection of a building for the owner of certain premises, and that materials had been furnished to said contractors for such purpose, it is sufficient: Saulter v. McDonald, 12 Wash. 27.

STATEMENT AS TO TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF CONTRACT: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1883, §§ 55, 56; Greene v. Finnell, 22 Wash. 186; Seattle Lumber Co. v. Sweeney, 33 Wash. 691.

Under the lien act of 1893 the notice of claim does not require the incorporation of the terms of the contract; and the fact that other employees of the mechanic worked upon the materials furnished will not defeat his claim of lien: Hopkins v. Jamieson-Dixon Mill Co., supra; hence the adjudications on this point as found below under the old law are not applicable to the present statute.

Under § 1961, Code 1881, providing for contents of notice of lien, a notice is defective which states that the work was performed and materials furnished under a subcontract, but omits a statement of the terms and conditions of the contract: Gates v. Brown, 1 Wash. 470.

A lien notice which makes reference to a bill of items setting forth in detail all the materials furnished under the contract, together with the reasonable value thereof, contains a sufficient statement of the terms of the contract: Washington R. P. Co. v. Johnson, 10 Wash. 445. See Mras v. Duff, 11 Wash. 36.

A contractual relation is sufficiently alleged by stating, after naming owner, and that she caused a building to be erected, that certain persons named are the contractors for its construction: Sautter v.

McDonald, 12 Wash. 27; Collins v. Snoke, 9 Wash. 566.

The fact that the contract was made with the owner instead of the contractor will not excuse a lien claimant from fully stating the terms and conditions of the contract in the lien notice: Savings L. & B. Co. v. Jones, 9 Wash. 435.

A claim of lien sufficiently sets forth the terms and conditions of the contract under which materials were furnished when it states that certain described materials were delivered to the owner of the premises upon which the lien was claimed, upon his promise to pay a certain price therefor as soon as the materials should be delivered, and the failure of the claimant to deliver within a specified time is matter of defense, not affecting the contract set up by the claimant, until established by defendant: Washington Mill Co. v. Craig, 7 Wash. 556.

The terms and conditions of the contract set forth in a claim of lien should include a sufficient description of the materials furnished or work done to enable the owner to intelligently determine as to the bona fides of such contract and the reasonableness thereof (affirming Eisenbeis v. Wakeman, 3 Wash. 534): Warren v. Quade, 3 Wash. 750; affirmed in Tacoma L. & M. Co. v. Wilson, 3 Wash. 786.

A lien claim is defective in which the only statement of the terms and conditions of the contract is that the claimant agreed to furnish the contractors certain windows, doors, etc., for inside finish, and that said material was to be furnished at the time and in the manner requested by said contractor: Tacoma L. & Mfg. Co. v. Wolff, 5 Wash. 264; distinguished in Bolster v. Stocks, 13 Wash. 460, 464.

A lien notice held invalid on the ground that it contained no sufficient statement of the terms and conditions of the contract: Savings L. & B. Co. v. Jones, 9 Wash. 435; and a notice claiming both for labor and material without describing quality or segregating the two is defective: Id.

A lien notice of subcontractor held sufficient in the particular case in the absence of a showing that it was made fraudulently or improvidently: Spears v. Lawrence, 10 Wash. 368; and unnecessary to set out separate amounts for material and labor under the terms of a contract when: Id.

The fact that the law implies an agreement to pay upon delivery does not render a statement of such legal rule essential in a lien notice as a term or condition required to be recited: Fairhaven Land Co. v. Jordan, 5 Wash. 729.

Statement of amount due, credits and material—Inclusion of nonlienable materials: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1885, 1886, §§ 58-64; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318; Robinson v. Brooks, 31 Wash. 60. A lien notice is sufficient as indicating the character of the material furnished reciting: "Bought of the Fairhaven Land Co., manufacturer and dealer in rough and dressed lumber, sash, doors, shingles and blinds," "1890, Aug. 14, to mdse., $93.90": Fairhaven Land Co. v. Jordan, supra.

If the lien claim shows either in the notice or exhibit the quantity of materials and when furnished, and between what dates used in construction, it is a sufficient statement of when claimant ceased to furnish materials for the building: Johnston v. Harrington, 5 Wash. 73.

The inclusion in a claim of lien a charge for a door which was not furnished by the claimant will not vitiate his lien where no fraud was intended thereby: Peterman v. Milwaukee Brewing Co., 11 Wash. 199.

A notice of lien which fails to state the kinds of materials furnished, or the character or number of buildings in which the materials were used, is insufficient: Tacoma L. & Mfg. Co. v. Kennedy, 4 Wash. 305; Warren v. Quade, 3 Wash. 750.

If an exhibit or itemized statement, made a part of a lien notice, contains a statement of the amount due after deducting all just credits and offsets, it is a sufficient compliance with the statute: Johnston v. Harrington, 5 Wash. 73.

An expression in a notice of lien containing a statement of the demand in the words "after deducting all just credits and effects there is due," is a sufficient compliance with the statute: Merchant v. Humeston, 2 W. T. 433.

A claim of lien for a balance of account upon materials furnished is insufficient: Fairhaven Land Co. v. Jordan, supra.

DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1879, § 46; Griffith v. Maxwell, 20 Wash. 403. A claim of lien is sufficient if it fairly shows that the materials were furnished to be used in the building or structure designated: Johnston v. Harrington, supra.

Under § 1667, 1 Hill's Code, requiring a claim of lien to contain a description of the property, a notice claiming a lien on certain lots for labor is insufficient if it fails to allege that the building on which the work was done was situated on said lot: Warren v. Quade, supra.

It is not necessary for the notice to name a particular building where a number of buildings are constructed upon contiguous lots under one contract, the materials being used in all, indiscriminately, and there being no intervening rights of third parties: Wheeler v. Ralph, 4 Wash. 617.

It sufficiently appears from a lien notice that the materials were furnished to be used in a certain building when the preamble alleges that the subcontractor furnished materials actually used therein and a subsequent portion of the notice alleges that the contract was for materials for the building: Fairhaven Land Co. v. Jordan, supra.

Where a mistake is made in claiming materials used in a building jointly constructed by different parties, the mistake may be rectified by remitting the excessive claim: Whittier v. Stetson etc. Mill Co., 6 Wash. 190.

A lien claim describing the property as "one three-story frame building, situated on a two-acre tract, in section 6, township 20, range N. 3 E., in school district 13, and bounded as follows: Beginning at the northeast corner of the southeast $\frac{1}{4}$ of Willamette meridian; running then W. 20 rods; then S. 16 rods, then E. 20 rods, then N. 16 rods to place of beginning," is insufficient: Young v. Howell, 5 Wash. 239; Warren v. Quade, 3 Wash. 750; see, also Mt. Tacoma Mfg. Co. v. Cultum, 5 Wash. 294.

A lien notice describing the property as "all of lot five in block 9 . . . except the west 20 feet of said lot; and that said building is known as the Brodek-Schlessinger building, and is on the N. W. corner of Third and Washington Sts., in said City," is insufficient: Whittier v. Stetson etc. Mill Co., supra.

A notice describing the land as "being 70 feet on Pike St., and on the southerly line thereof, by 75 feet front on Fourth St., and on the westerly line thereof, excepting a space of 22 feet more or less wide on Pike St. by about 75 feet deep," is so indefinite and uncertain as to the tract excepted that a decree of foreclosure cannot be based thereon: Kellogg v. Littell etc. Mfg. Co., 1 Wash. 407.

Where the claim of lien is upon the whole of a lot sixty feet wide, and the proof showed that it was only on a part of it thirty-six feet wide and nearer the center than either side of the lot, it is not sufficiently definite and certain to sustain a judgment, even though the judgment adds the name of the building: Cowie v. Ahrenstadt, 1 Wash. 416. A description in a lien notice and foreclosure must be in substance so complete and certain that an officer charged with a sale of the property would not be in doubt as to what he is called upon to sell: Id.

A notice of lien which describes the building as one of seven distinct buildings, situated on two certain lots, and sets forth that the demand is for one-seventh of the aggregate of labor done and materials furnished in the erection of the seven buildings, is void for uncertainty: Merchant v. Humeston, 2 W. T. 434.

A notice of lien claimed "upon that certain building or structure now upon those certain lots and parcel of land (description), that S. is the name of the owner of said premises and caused said building or structure to be built and erected," is sufficient: Collins v. Snoke, 9 Wash. 566.

A lien notice which states that a lien is claimed "upon that certain wooden frame building situated upon the S. E. corner of North Tenth and J. Sts., upon lot 12 in block 4016, city of Tacoma," will not sus-tain an action to foreclose a lien for materials used in construction of a dwelling-house on lots 1 and 2 in block 3919: Mt. Tacoma Mfg. Co. v. Cultum, 5 Wash. 294.

A claim of lien describing certain property in the city of Everett, although somewhat indefinite, held sufficient for purposes of identification: McHugh v. Slack, 11 Wash. 370.

Under this section, a lien notice and complaint to foreclose the same can be amended to correct an erroneous description of the property, after answer by the defendant disclosing the error in the notice: Malfa v. Crisp, 52 Wash. 509.

VERIFICATION: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1886, §§ 61-65. If the body of a lien notice shows that a certain amount is due after deducting all just credits and offsets, a verification that "said statement is true, as he verily believes," is sufficient: Fairhaven Land Co. v. Jordan, supra. See, also, Cornelius v. Washington Steam Laundry, 52 Wash. 272.

Verification of claim of lien reciting that claimant "knows the contents thereof, that said claim is just and correct," is sufficient: Johnston v. Harrington, supra.

A verification of a claim of lien to the effect that the affiant believes the same to be true is equivalent to alleging that he believes it to be just: Sautter v. McDonald, 12 Wash. 27; and the employment of the term "lien," instead of "claim of lien" will not render the verification insufficient: Id.

Under § 1667, 1 Hill's Code, an attorney verifying a lien notice for a foreign corporation need not be specially authorized by appointment and appointment filed with secretary of state: Huttig Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Denny Hotel Co., 6 Wash. 122.

The omission of the notarial seal to the jurat in lien notice renders the lien notice invalid, and it cannot be cured by proof that the notice had in fact been sworn to: Stetson etc. Mill Co. v. McDonald, 5 Wash. 496; such notice is not within the exception provided by § 8299, infra: Gates v. Brown, 1 Wash. 470; Sullivan v. Treen, 13 Wash. 261, 263. See Griffith v. Maxwell, 20 Wash. 403, as to facts implying that notary's seal was on original notice of lien.

Mechanic's lien notices claiming separate liens upon each of three houses situated upon a single lot is not insufficient because they describe each of the houses as being upon the lot, and do not specify any particular portion thereof upon which each house is situated, when no particular portion of the lot has been set apart by the owner as necessary to be used in connection with each house: Sullivan v. Treen, 13 Wash. 261.

Under this chapter, a claim of mechanic's lien upon several houses upon a single lot is sufficient, when the notice indicates an intention to claim a lien upon the entire lot and the buildings thereon for all labor done and materials furnished for all the houses: Id.

The provision of this section authorizing an amendment of lien notices when the interests of third parties will not be affected thereby has reference only to such third parties as acquire some interest subsequent to the filing of the lien notice: Id.

Proof of the filing within the time required by law for record in the office of the county auditor of a notice of lien is sufficient, without proof that it was actually recorded within such period: Bolster v. Stocks, 13 Wash. 460.

A claim of lien setting forth, in its statement of the terms of the contract, that the claimant was to "furnish the hardware and other like material" for a certain building, is sufficiently definite in that particular: Id.

Failure to include the name of the wife as one of the reputed owners of premises upon which a lien is claimed is not a ground of objection thereto, when it does not appear upon the face of the notice that the claimant had knowledge at that time of her interest therein: Id.

A statement in a claim of lien of the terms of the contract as to materials furnished is too indefinite, when it alleges merely that claimants "furnished certain goods, wares and merchandise, being iron, iron work, galvanized iron, nails, paints, glass and other building material": Id.; following Tacoma L. & M. Co. v. Wolff, 5 Wash. 264.

A claim of lien for furnishing the "lumber, sash, doors, etc., used in the construction of (building described) at the agreed and contract price of $2,449.85," is sufficiently definite as to the terms of the contract: Id.

A claim of lien is not vitiated by the inclusion therein by mistake of lienable items, which had not been furnished, there being no attempt to perpetrate a fraud and the true amount of the claim not being increased thereby: Id.

§ 1135. (5905.) Recording Claim.

The county auditor must record the claims mentioned in this chapter in a book to be kept by him for that purpose, which record must be indexed as deeds and other conveyances are required by law to be indexed. [L. '93, p. 35, § 6.]

Evidence of recording claim: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1893, § 93; Greene v.

Finnell, 22 Wash. 186; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318.

Indorsement on lien claim, "Filed for record at 9 A. M., Aug. 16th, '77. Recorded, page 205, book 6, records Island Co., Robert C. Hill, county auditor": Held, not evidence of anything: Jewett v. Darlington, 1 W. T. 602; and proof that notice was handed the auditor with request to record is also insufficient proof of recording: Id.

§ 1136. (5906.) Assignment of Lien.

Any lien or right of lien created by law and the rights of action to recover therefor, shall be assignable so as to vest in the assignee all rights and remedies of the assignor, subject to all defenses thereto that might be made if such assignment had not been made. [L. '93, p. 35, § 7.]

The assignment by the contractor of his claim against the owner will not deprive him of the right to assert a lien upon the premises, when the assignment was given merely as security for indebtedness: Potvin v. Denny Hotel Co., 9 Wash. 316.

The lien given by statute (§ 1947, Code 1881) is personal to the laborer; and where the laborer combines with his own claim one assigned him by another laborer, he loses all right to take benefit of foreclosure: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Sparkman, 2 Wash. 165.

Although the inchoate right of lien cannot be assigned, yet where the lien is perfected by the filing of notice thereof, the assignment of the claim will give the assignee the benefit of the security: Casey v. Ault, 4 Wash. 167.

The foregoing adjudications were made prior to the enactment of this section.

§ 1137. (5907.) Segregation of Claims.

In every case in which one claim is filed against two or more separate pieces of property owned by the same person, or owned by two or more persons who jointly contracted for the labor or material for which the lien is claimed, the person filing such claim must designate in the claim the amount due him on each piece of property, otherwise the lien of such claim is postponed to other liens. The lien of such claim does not extend beyond the amount designated as against other creditors having liens upon either of such pieces of property. [L. '93, p. 35, § 8.]

Cited in 27 Wash. 343; 33 Wash. 696.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1878, § 41; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318; Seattle Lumber Co. v. Sweeney, 33 Wash. 691; Sly v. Mining Co., 28 Wash. 485.

In an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien, there is not sufficient evidence of the amount to be charged to the property, where there was but one general account for different houses, charging various items to the contractor, with general credits, from which it could not be clearly ascertained what was chargeable against the property, or what amount remained unpaid: Knudson-Jacob Co. v. Brandt, 44 Wash. 68.

In an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien, it is error to enter a joint judgment for the value of the material against the several owners of two houses to whom the material was delivered in common and so charged against them, where it was agreed that, the houses being identical, the delivery should be in common, but that each should pay one-half of the value thereof, to be taken out of their several salaries, each being employed by the plaintiff: Argo Mfg. Co. v. Parker, 52 Wash. 100.

§ 1138. (5908.) Limitations of Actions.

No lien created by this chapter binds the property subject to the lien for a longer period than eight calendar months after the claim has been filed unless an action be commenced in the proper court within that time to enforce such lien; or, if credit be given, then eight calendar months after the expiration of such credit; and in case such action be not prosecuted to judgment within two years after the commencement thereof, the court, in its discretion, may dismiss the same for want of prosecution, and the dismissal of such action, or a judgment rendered therein, that no lien exists, shall constitute a cancellation of the lien. [L. '93, p. 35, § 9.]

Cited in 27 Wash. 86, 346; 42 Wash. 453, 454.

Limitation of actions: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1890, § 83; Peterson v. Dillon, 27 Wash. 78; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318; Service v. McMahon, 42 Wash. 452; 52 Wash. 511.

When proceedings have been commenced within the time limited, the fact that judgment was not rendered until after such limitation will not defeat the lien: Pacific Mfg. Co. v. Brown, 8 Wash. 347.

A mechanic's lien lapses unless action is commenced against the owner of the property within eight months after the filing of the lien claim: Rees v. Wilson, 50 Wash. 339.

§ 1139. (5909.) Extent of Contractor's Liability—Rights of Owner.

The contractor shall be entitled to recover upon the claim filed by him only such amount as may be due him according to the terms of his contract, after deducting all claims of other parties for labor performed and materials furnished; and in all cases where a claim shall be filed under this chapter for labor performed or materials furnished to any contractor, he shall defend any action brought thereupon at his own expense; and during the pendency of such action, the owner may withhold from the contractor the amount of money for which the claim is filed; and in case of judgment against the owner or his property, upon the lien, the owner shall be entitled to deduct from any amount due or to become due by him to the contractor, the amount of the judgment and costs, and if the amount of such judgment and costs shall exceed the amount due by him to the contractor or if the owner shall have settled with the contractors in full, he shall be entitled to recover back from the contractor the amount, including costs for which the lien is established in excess of any sum that may remain due from him to the contractor. [L. '93, p. 36, § 10.]

Cited in 52 Wash. 562.

Under this section, and §§ 1129 and 1147, a person employed to do the plastering upon a building for the contractor, to be paid therefor the amount paid out to his men and a further sum for his own work and superintendence, is entitled to a lien for the amounts paid by him for the labor of his men, and for his own labor, according to the terms of the contract, although he did none of the actual work of the plastering: Smyth v. Lance & Peters, 52 Wash. 560.

The judgment on a lien for labor and material furnished in the construction of a building may include a commission of fifteen per cent on the cost, as profit, where the contract provides therefor, and defendants offer no evidence to support their denial of the contract: Cornelius v. Washington Steam Laundry, 52 Wash. 272.

§ 1140. (5910.) Foreclosure—Parties.

The liens provided by this chapter, for which claims have been filed, may be foreclosed and enforced by a civil action in the court having jurisdiction; in any action brought to foreclose a lien, all persons who, prior to the commencement of such action, have legally filed claims of liens against the same property, or any part thereof shall be joined as parties, either plaintiff or defendant; and no person shall begin an action to foreclose a lien upon any property while a prior action begun to foreclose another lien on the same property is pending, but if not made a party plaintiff or defendant to such prior action, he may apply to the court to be joined as a party thereto, and his lien may be foreclosed in such action; and no action to foreclose a lien shall be dismissed at the instance of a plaintiff therein to the prejudice of another party to the suit who claims a lien. [L. '93, p. 36, § 11.]

See supra, § 1129, who may have lien.

See supra, § 1136, assignment of lien.

ENFORCEMENT OF LIENS: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1890-1898, §§ 79-107.

Under the statutes of this state a mechanic's lien cannot be enforced against property after it has passed into the hands of an assignee for the benefit of creditors, but all those having claims against the estate must present them in the insolvency proceedings: Quinby v. Slipper, 7 Wash. 475.

A mechanic's lien cannot be maintained by one who performs labor upon the credit of the contractors employing him, with no intent, at the time of service, of claiming a lien: Heald v. Hodder, 5 Wash. 677; nor when the claim of lien does not show that the work was done at the direct instance of owner, or for contractors bearing the statutory relation of agent for the owner: Id.

The fact that certain persons signed a building contract as sureties does not render them liable for materials furnished the contractor: Stetson etc. Mill Co. v. McDonald, 5 Wash. 496.

As to amount of recovery by owner against surety for failure of principal to comply with contract, see Crowley v. U. S. Fidelity & Guar. Co., 29 Wash. 268.

If materials have been specially designed for a certain building and furnished the contractor therefor, a lien may be claimed for the whole amount furnished, although only a portion has been used in the structure because of the contractor suspending work: Huttig Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Denny Hotel Co., 6 Wash. 122.

If there is a partial cessation of work on a building, but abandonment of contract is not complete until after the furnishing of certain materials, lien may be claimed therefor: Id.

Where a party has a contract to furnish all the brick used in a building and delivers a quantity at the ruling market price, the fact that he subsequently throws off fifty cents a thousand when the price falls is a mere modification of the original contract, and delivery to contractor's bondsmen after he had left the country is a delivery under the contract: Fairhaven Land Co. v. Jordan, 5 Wash. 729.

If materials are furnished to contractors as copartners, the subsequent withdrawal of one does not release him from liability when no agreement is entered into between contractors and owners of the building, or between contractors and materialmen: Stetson etc. Mill Co. v. McDonald, supra.

In case of consolidated actions each should be tried on its merits: Harrington v. Miller, 4 Wash. 808.

The knowledge of the owner that materials were furnished for his building is not ground for sustaining a defective lien thereon: Fairhaven Land Co. v. Jordan, supra.

Under § 1965, Code 1881, providing for the owners giving notice that they will not be responsible for improvements, it was held that it must affirmatively appear that they had notice of such improvement: Culter v. Striegel, 4 Wash. 346; but this section is omitted as repealed by this chapter.

Setoff and counterclaim: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1890, § 82; Cochran v. Yoho, 34 Wash. 238; Burnett v. Ewing, 39 Wash. 45.

A suit to foreclose a mechanic's lien is a proceeding in equity and triable therein: Installment etc. Co. v. Wentworth, 1 Wash. 467; Wheeler v. Ralph, 4 Wash. 617; Kilroy v. Mitchell, 2 Wash. 407; Fox v. Nachtsheim, 3 Wash. 684; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318.

Consolidation of action brought by owner to prevent lien attaching: See Peterson v. Dillon 27 Wash. 78.

A complaint to enforce a mechanic's lien is insufficient which alleges that, at the time the materials were furnished, a certain party was the owner or reputed owner of the property and seeks to subject his interest therein, but the notice alleges that the materials were furnished at the instance and request of another party, the interest of the latter being described: Cutter v. Striegel, supra.

Foreclosure of a mechanic's lien being a proceeding in equity, defendant cannot, by setting up a claim for damages for breach of contract, demand a jury trial, although he may possess the right to interpose such defense: Installment etc. Co. v. Wentworth, supra; but it is within the discretion of the court to grant or refuse a jury trial of any questions of fact therein involved: Wheeler v. Ralph, supra.

A suit to foreclose a mechanic's lien cannot be transformed into an action at law by defendant setting up a legal defense by way of counterclaim: Kilroy v. Mitchell, supra; following Installment etc. Co. v. Wentworth, supra.

A notice must be filed before the lien attaches so that there can be a foreclosure thereof, and a denial on knowledge or information is sufficient to put the record of the notice in issue: Cowie v. Ahrenstedt, 1 Wash. 416.

An action to enforce a mechanic's lien is an equitable proceeding, and the judgment therein is appealable, although the amount in controversy does not exceed two hundred dollars: Fox v. Nachtsheim, 3 Wash. 684; Wash. Iron Works Co. v. Jensen, 3 Wash. 584.

Although a deed absolute on its face is intended as a mortgage between the parties, yet the mortgagee so holding legal title is, for purposes of foreclosure, properly designated as "owner, or reputed owner": Harrington v. Miller, supra.

PARTIES: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1891, §§ 84, 85; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318; Peterson v. Dillon, 27 Wash. 78; Northwest Bridge Co. v. Tacoma Shipbuilding Co., 36 Wash. 333.

In claiming a lien for the erection of a building upon the separate property of one spouse, it is not necessary to name the other spouse in the notice: Parsons v.

Pearson, 9 Wash. 48; Washington R. P. Co. v. Johnson, 10 Wash. 445.

Where the record title is in the husband, and the lien claimant has no knowledge of any wife, it is unnecessary to make her a party to a lien notice, although the claim is against the community property: Washington R. P. Co. v. Johnson, supra, 445, 447.

A notice describing the husband as the reputed owner is not invalid, where it appears upon the trial, the wife being joined, that the property was community, but that such fact was not known to claimant when the notice was filed: Douthitt v. MacCulsky, 11 Wash. 601; see Sagmeister v. Foss, 4 Wash. 320.

A claim of lien against a husband, showing on its face knowledge that the lands sought to be charged are community property, is defective: Sagmeister v. Foss, 4 Wash. 320.

If it does not appear in the lien notice that the claim is against community property, or that the wife has an interest in the premises, the failure to make the wife a party to the notice is not a fatal defect, although she must be made a party to the foreclosure proceedings: Collins v. Snoke, 9 Wash. 566; distinguishing Sagmeister v. Foss, 4 Wash. 320; see supra, notes to § 1134.

In all suits to enforce liens upon community lands the wife is a necessary party defendant, and in such cases, § 1959, Code 1881 (§ 1130, supra), authorizing the interest of a party owning less than a fee simple to be sold on execution, does not apply: Littell etc. Mfg. Co. v. Miller, 3 Wash. 480; Sagmeister v. Foss, 4 Wash. 320; see § 1130, supra, proviso.

In an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien, it is proper to join as defendants the contractor who purchased the material and his wife, as a community, and the plaintiff is entitled to a personal judgment against them as for a community debt for the material purchased, as well as a lien against the property of the other defendants, without a jury trial; and the same would not be an improper joinder of causes of action: Rasmusson v. Liming, 50 Wash. 184.

Intervention, addition or substitution of parties: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1891, § 96; Fairhaven Land Co. v. Jordan, 5 Wash. 729; Nason v. Northwestern Mill. & P. Co., 17 Wash. 142; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318; Lavanway v. Cannon, 37 Wash. 593.

In an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien on partnership realty the wives of the partners are not necessary parties, such property being in equity a trust fund of the partnership, unaffected by any contingent rights the wives may have therein after the settlement of the partnership: Harrington v. Johnson, 10 Wash. 542; Littell etc. Mfg. Co. v. Miller, supra, distinguished.

The assignee of a lien, after commencement of suit to foreclose the same, may be substituted as a party plaintiff: Fairhaven Land Co. v. Jordan, supra; see supra, § 1136, assignment of lien.

In order to enforce a mechanic's lien against a certain parcel of land and the buildings thereon, the owner of a leasehold interest in a portion thereof is a necessary party to the notice and action: Wright v. Cowie, 5 Wash. 341.

The fact that a mortgagee loaning money for the erection of a building on certain lands reserves the right in the mortgage to pay liens that may be created against the property from the amount of the loan, does not make the mortgagee a party to such liens or estop him from disputing the claims of lienors: Huttig Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Denny Hotel Co., 6 Wash. 122.

A complaint for foreclosure of a mechanic's lien which makes the assignee of the estate of the person to whom the materials were furnished a party, and, without describing him as assignee, merely alleges that he has some interest in the premises, will be taken as alleging a personal interest and not as assignee: Quinby v. Slipper, 7 Wash. 475.

In foreclosing a mechanic's lien, it is within the discretion of the court to allow the intervention of other parties for the purpose of enforcing liens against the same property growing out of contracts of a different nature: Washington R. P. Co. v. Johnson, 10 Wash. 445; but this right is expressly given under this section.

The assignor of a leasehold interest in real estate is not a necessary party to an action to foreclose a lien thereon: Harrington v. Miller, supra.

Where a lien claimant's right to lien accrues subsequent to a mortgage foreclosure suit on the premises, and such claimant has knowledge of such suit, and does not seek, by intervention or otherwise, to protect his rights, he is bound by the judgment in the foreclosure suit: Pacific Mfg. Co. v. Brown, 8 Wash. 347; and in a subsequent suit the burden of proof of knowledge of claimant is upon the party claiming under the foreclosure sale, and knowledge by claimant's attorney is not knowledge by claimant: Id.

Decree of foreclosure should not be refused, even though interested parties are not before the court: Harrington v. Miller, supra.

Pleading: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1892, 1893, §§ 87-90; Griffith v. Maxwell, 20 Wash. 403; Childs Lum. & Mfg. Co. v. Page, 28 Wash. 128; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318, 67 Pac. 712; Seattle Lum. Co. v. Sweeney, 33 Wash. 691; Burnett v. Ewing, 39 Wash. 45.

A general demurrer to a complaint for the foreclosure of a mechanic's lien should be overruled where the complaint states a cause of action for a general recovery: Lee v. Kimball, 45 Wash. 656.

A complaint for the foreclosure of a mechanic's lien for the construction of a well states a cause of action where it shows that work ceased January 30th, that the lien notice was filed February 10th, and, aided by the lien notice attached, that the notice was filed within ninety days from the time the work ceased: Id.

Objections to a decree foreclosing a mechanic's lien for boring a well, entered against the whole of the premises without determining how much thereof was necessary to satisfy the lien, as required by § 1130, cannot be urged by a defendant who stood upon a general demurrer to the complaint and joined no issue and offered no evidence on the subject: Id.

EVIDENCE: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1893, 1894, §§ 90-94; Stetson-Post Mill Co. v. McDonald, 5 Wash. 496; Greene v. Finnell, 22 Wash. 186; Childs Lum. & Mfg. Co. v. Page, 28 Wash. 128; Heald v. Hodder, 5 Wash. 677; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318; Griffith v. Maxwell, 20 Wash. 403; Huetter v. Redhead, 31 Wash. 320; Cochran v. Yoho, 34 Wash. 238.

An action against a married woman to foreclose a mechanic's lien on a building erected on her land will be nonsuited, where the contract is with the husband and the proof fails to establish the husband's agency: Chattell v. Fergusson, 3 Wash. 541.

If defendant holds under a written lease the premises upon which a lien is claimed, his interest therein cannot be shown by parol: Cowie v. Ahrenstedt, 1 Wash. 416.

In an action to enforce a lien against a refrigerating machine building and boiler house, for materials furnished, there is no variance on the ground that the proof showed two buildings instead of one, when it appears that they were so connected as to make substantially one building: Peterman v. Milwaukee B. Co., 11 Wash. 199.

If a lien notice is offered in evidence for the purpose of establishing the lien, all questions going to its sufficiency, if not raised at the time of offer, will be deemed waived: Wheeler v. Ralph, 4 Wash. 617.

The introduction of an original lien notice in evidence, with the auditor's certificate that it was "as the same appears of record," etc., is sufficient proof of the facts and date of record, notwithstanding Jewett

v. Darlington, 1 W. T. 601, and Cowie v. Ahrenstedt, 1 Wash. 416; Fairhaven Land Co. v. Jordan, 5 Wash. 729.

A mere indorsement upon a mechanic's lien notice is not even prima facie evidence of the filing and date of recording: Jewett v. Darlington, 1 W. T. 601.

It is an immaterial variance that a notice of claim of lien styles the defendant the "Installment Building and Loan Association," whose name is "Installment Building and Loan Company," when the corporation itself was making the improvements and could not be misled: Installment etc. Co. v. Wentworth, supra.

An appeal from a decree of foreclosure of a mechanic's lien, resulting in a reversal of the decree on account of the invalidity of the lien, will not affect the personal judgment obtained against the contractor when he has not joined in the appeal: Littell v. Miller, supra.

Although owner of lumber may have made default, the holder of a chattel mortgage thereon, impleaded as defendant, who has answered, is entitled to trial: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Sparkman, 2 Wash. 165.

In an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien, there is not sufficient evidence of delivery of the material at the property in question, where the only testimony was that some of the material was given the appellant's deliveryman with directions for delivery, and most of it to a subcontractor, the contractor being engaged in a number of houses, and neither the deliveryman or subcontractor were called to testify: Knudson-Jacob v. Brandt, 44 Wash. 68.

The evidence is sufficient to sustain findings that repairs upon leased premises were not made at the request of the tenants, so as to subject their interests to a mechanic's lien, where it appears that the lessor agreed to fully repair the building as rapidly as possible and the lessees simply demanded that the repairs be made without further delay or they would get someone else to make them: Housekeeper v. Livingstone, 48 Wash. 209.

A judgment foreclosing a mechanic's lien must be reversed, where there was no testimony tending to show that the materials were delivered or furnished for use in the building or that they were so used: Crane Co. v. Farnandis, 46 Wash. 436.

§ 1141. (5911.) Rank of Liens—Attorney's Fees.

In every case in which different liens are claimed against the same property, the court, in the judgment, must declare the rank of such lien or class of liens, which shall be in the following order:—

1. All persons performing labor;
2. All persons furnishing material;
3. The subcontractors;
4. The original contractor.

And the proceeds of the sale of the property must be applied to each lien or class of liens in the order of its rank; and personal judgment may be rendered in an action brought to foreclose a lien, against any party personally liable for any debt for which the lien is claimed, and if the lien be established, the judgment shall provide for the enforcement thereof upon the property liable as in case of foreclosure of mortgages; and the amount realized by such enforcement of the lien shall be credited upon the proper personal judgment, and the deficiency, if any remaining unsatisfied, shall stand as a personal judgment, and may be collected by execution against the party liable therefor. The court may allow, as part of the costs of the action, the moneys paid for filing or recording the claim, and a reasonable attorney's fee in the superior and supreme courts. [L. '93, p. 37, § 12.]

DECREE OF FORECLOSURE: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1895, § 98; Huetter v. Redhead, 31 Wash. 320; Friend v. Ralston, 35 Wash. 422.

A decree foreclosing a mechanic's lien upon real estate creates a judgment lien upon the premises as against subsequent purchasers, and no filing of lis pendens is necessary: Frank v. Jenkins, 11 Wash. 611.

In a suit by a subcontractor to foreclose his lien against the owner and the principal contractor, no personal judgment can be rendered against the principal contractor when the lien is not established: Eisenbeis v. Wakeman, 3 Wash. 534; Hildebrandt v. Savage, 4 Wash. 524; but see this section.

The only personal judgment authorized by the statute (§ 1673, 1 Hill's Code) is for the deficiency in the proceeds of the sale of the property on which the lien is established: Hildebrandt v. Savage, supra; and to take advantage of the error in rendering a personal judgment on the failure of the lien, defendant must object in the court below, or demand a jury trial: Stetson Mill Co. v. McDonald, 5 Wash. 496, 498.

A decree rendered in a consolidated action finding that the ownership was in the husband, when in fact it was in the community, is binding on the wife when she had been made a party to some of the actions, knew of the pendency of the others, had appeared in trial of consolidated cause and had knowledge of the decree rendered therein and failed to appeal: Douthitt v. MacCulsky, 11 Wash. 601; Littell etc. Mfg. Co. v. Miller, 3 Wash. 480.

If several actions between owner and contractor and lien claimant had been consolidated, by order of court, a subsequent order directing an issue to be made up between owner and contractor has the effect of segregating to that extent the actions theretofore consolidated: Wheeler v. Ralph, 4 Wash. 617.

In mechanic's lien suit when the decree ordered sale subject to a certain mortgage and subsequently in the mortgage foreclosure suit one of the lien claimants introduced in evidence a stipulation between itself and mortgagee showing priority of such claimant's lien, it was held that the amount of such claim would be deducted from the mortgage and placed on the same plane as to priority as the other lien claims, and the mortgagee subrogated to the rights of the claimant holding the stipulation: Potvin v. Denny Hotel Co., 9 Wash. 316.

Judgment awarding liens on shingles not mentioned in lien claim is erroneous: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Sparkman, 2 Wash. 165.

Conveyance of premises pending foreclosure will not deprive grantor of right to appeal from foreclosure of decree when he still has an interest in the result of the action: Tacoma L. & M. Co. v. Wolff, 5 Wash. 264.

Sale of mortgaged or encumbered property: See Stetson etc. Mill Co. v. Pacific Amusement Co., 37 Wash. 335.

Deficiency and personal liability: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1896, §§ 101-104; Peterson v. Dillon, 27 Wash. 78; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318; Spaulding v. Burke, 33 Wash. 679; Robinson v. Brooks, 31 Wash. 60; Service v. McMahon, 42 Wash. 452; Marks v. Pence, 31 Wash. 426.

Interest is allowable on a mechanic's lien from the date of filing of the lien notice: Cornelius v. Washington Steam Laundry, 52 Wash. 272.

That a decree foreclosing a mechanic's lien fails to describe the lien notice is not ground for reversal, where the court had jurisdiction and the rights of third parties are not involved and the whole record discloses that the decree was proper: Cornelius v. Washington Steam Laundry, 52 Wash. 272.

ATTORNEY'S FEE: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1897, 1898, §§ 106, 107; Wheeler, Osgood & Co. v. Ralph, 4 Wash. 617; Bolster v. Stocks, 13 Wash. 460; Lavanway v. Cannon, 37 Wash. 593; Sweatt v. Hunt, 42 Wash. 96; Littell v. Saulsberry, 40 Wash. 550; Griffith v. Maxwell, 20 Wash. 404;

Greene v. Finnell, 22 Wash. 186; Lee v. Kimball, 45 Wash. 656.

An attorney's fee is allowed in the foreclosure of a mechanic's lien: Seattle etc. R. Co. v. Ah Kow, 2 W. T. 36.

An attorney's fee of $2,000 for enforcing a lien of $21,000 is excessive, and should be reduced to one thousand or less: Huttig Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Denny Hotel Co., 6 Wash. 122.

§ 1142. (5912.) Personal Action.

Nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to impair or affect the right of any person to whom any debt may be due for labor performed or material furnished to maintain a personal action to recover such debt against the person liable therefor. [L. '93, p. 37, § 13.]

§ 1143. (5913.) Lien not Discharged by Taking Note, When.

The taking of a promissory note or other evidence of indebtedness for any labor performed or material furnished for which lien is created by law, shall not discharge the lien therefor, unless expressly received as payment and so specified therein. [L. '93, p. 37, § 14.]

§ 1144. (5914.) Material Exempt from Attachment, etc., When.

Whenever material shall have been furnished for use in the construction, alteration or repair of property subject to a lien created by this chapter, such material shall not be subject to attachment, execution, or other legal process, to enforce any debt due by the purchaser of such material, except a debt due for the purchase money thereof, so long as in good faith the said material is about to be applied in the construction, alteration or repair of such property. [L. '93, p. 37, § 15.]

The fact that a materialman, who has furnished building material to a contractor, has filed notice of lien against the owner of the building in which it is to be used, will not, when the lien claim has not been paid, vest the title to such material in the owner of the building so as to render it liable to execution on judgments against him: Potvin v. Wickersham, 15 Wash. 646.

Under 1 H. C., § 1675, exempting from execution material designed in good faith to be used in the construction of a building, such material will be exempt, although the completion of the building has been delayed for a number of years pending litigation, and whether the material is to be used by the one engaged in the construction of the building at the time of its purchase or by one succeeding to his rights: Id.

§ 1145. (5915.) Community Interest, How Subjected.

The claim of lien, when filed as required by this chapter, shall be notice to the husband or wife of the person who appears of record to be the owner of the property sought to be charged with the lien, and shall subject all the community interest of both husband and wife to said lien. [L. '93, p. 38, § 16.]

See infra, § 5918, and notes, community lands, subject to.

§ 1146. (5916.) When Land not Subject to Lien—Power of Court.

When, for any reason the title or interest in the land, upon which the property subject to the lien is situated cannot be subjected to the lien, the court may order the sale and removal from the land of the property subject to the lien to satisfy the lien. [L. '93, p. 38, § 17.]

Cited in 20 Wash. 605.

§ 1147. (5917.) Liberal Construction.

The provisions of law relating to liens created by this chapter, and all proceedings thereunder, shall be liberally construed with a view to effect their objects. [L. '93, p. 38, § 18.]

See supra, § 144, construction in general.

Cited in 27 Wash. 338; 33 Wash. 695; 52 Wash. 278, 512, 562.

The mechanic's lien statute should be liberally construed, but to hold that a lien could attach without a full compliance with the statute would be to take property without "due process of law": Kellogg v. Littell etc. Mfg. Co., 1 Wash. 407, 410.

Under this section all proceedings on the foreclosure of a mechanic's lien are to be liberally construed: Cornelius v. Washington Steam Laundry, 52 Wash. 272.

§ 1148. (5918.) Existing Rights Preserved.

All rights acquired under any existing law of this state are hereby preserved, and all actions now pending shall be proceeded with under the law as it exists at the time this act shall take effect. [L. '93, p. 38, § 19.]

Cited in 11 Wash. 311.

Validity of statutes and effect of change or repeal: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1870, §§ 2, 3; Armour & Co. v. Western Const. Co., 36 Wash. 529.

This section authorizes the procedure under the former law merely for those actions begun prior to the taking effect of the act embraced in this chapter; rights accrued before the taking effect of the same, but for whose enforcement actions are instituted subsequent thereto, are governed by the procedure provided in this chapter: Hopkins v. Jamieson-Dixon Mill Co., 11 Wash. 308.

The mechanic's lien law of 1877 was intended as a substitute for and not a continuation of the act of 1873. All rights accrued under the earlier act were repealed, except to the extent they were kept alive by the latter act; while all remedies to enforce such preserved rights are under the provisions of the new statute: Seattle etc. v. Ah Kow, 2 W. T. 36; see Garneau v. Port Blakeley Mill Co., 8 Wash. 467.

CHAPTER IV.

LIENS OF EMPLOYEES.

§ 1149. (5919.) Laborer's Lien on Property, Franchises, etc.

Every person performing labor for any person, company or corporation, in the operation of any railway, canal or transportation company, or any water, mining or manufacturing company, sawmill, lumber or timber company, shall have a prior lien on the franchise, earnings, and on all the real and personal property of said person, company or corporation, which is used in the operation of its business, to the extent of the moneys due him from such person, company or corporation, operating said franchise or business, for labor performed within six months next preceding the filing of his claim therefor, as hereinafter provided; and no mortgage, deed of trust or conveyance shall defeat or take precedence over said lien. [L. '97, p. 55, § 1.]

See supra, § 1131, lien for work on lands.

See infra, § 1188, lien on farm products.

Cited in 22 Wash. 512; 24 Wash. 32, 598; 41 Wash. 113; 45 Wash. 649, 651.

Liens of employees: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1808, §§ 18-20; Blumauer v. Clock, 24 Wash. 596; Fitch v. Applegate, 24 Wash. 25.

A laborer engaged in cutting logs in the woods at a distance from a mill, paid by the thousand feet, is not an employee of the mill or engaged in performing labor in its operation, within the meaning of this section; his remedy being a logger's lien under § 1162, infra: Graham v. Gardner, 45 Wash. 648.

§ 1150. (5920.) Notice of Lien.

No person shall be entitled to the lien given by the preceding section, unless he shall, within ninety days after he has ceased to perform labor for such person, company or corporation, filed for record with the county auditor of the county in which said labor was performed, or in which is located the principal office of such person, company or corporation in this state, a notice of claim, containing a statement of his demand, after deducting all just credits and offsets, the name of the person, company or corporation, and the name of the person or persons employing claimant, if known, with the statement of the terms and conditions of his contract, if any, and the time he commenced the employment, and the date of his last service, and shall serve a copy thereof on said person, company or corporation within thirty days after the same is so filed for record. [L. '97, p. 56, § 2.]

See notes to last section.

Cited in 45 Wash. 650.

§ 1151. (5921.) Service of Notice.

Service of notice, as herein required, may be made in the same manner as summons in civil actions. [L. '97, p. 56, § 3.]

§ 1152. (5922.) Foreclosure of Lien.

Any such lien may be enforced within the same time and in the same manner as mechanics' liens are foreclosed. [L. '97, p. 56, § 4.]

§ 1153. (5923.) How Claims are to be Paid by Receiver or Assignee.

Whenever a receiver or assignee is appointed for any person, company or corporation, the court shall require such receiver or assignee to pay all claims for which a lien could be filed under this chapter, before the payment of any other debts or claims, other than operating expenses. [L. '97, p. 56, § 5.]

CHAPTER V.

LIENS ON CHATTELS.

§ 1154. Lien on Chattels for Labor and Material.

Every person, firm or corporation who has expended labor, skill or material on any chattel, at the request of its owner, or authorized agent of the owner, shall have a lien upon such chattels for the contract price for such expenditure, or in the absence of such contract price, for the reasonable worth of such expenditure, for a period of one year from and after such expenditure, notwithstanding the fact that such chattel be surrendered to the owner thereof: Provided, however, that no such lien shall continue after the delivery of such chattel to its owner as against the rights of third persons who may have acquired an interest in, or the title to, such chattel in good faith, for value, and without actual knowledge of the lien. [L. '05, p. 137, § 1; L. '09, p. 626, § 1.]

See infra, § 1188, lien on farm products.

§ 1155. Notice of Lien on Chattel.

In order to make such lien effectual the lien claimant shall within ninety days from the date of delivery of such chattel to the owner file in the office of the auditor of the county in which such chattel is kept a lien notice, which notice shall state the name of the claimant, the name of the owner, a description of the chattel upon which the claimant has expended labor, skill or material, the amount for which a lien is claimed, and the date upon which such expenditure was completed, which notice shall be signed by the claimant, or some one in his behalf, and may be in substantially the following form:

CHATTEL LIEN NOTICE.

— Claimant, against — Owner. }

Notice is hereby given that — has and claims a lien upon (here insert description of chattel), owned by — for the sum of — dollars, for and on account of labor, skill and material expended upon said — which was completed upon the — day of —, 190—.

—,
 Claimant.

§ 1156. Ownership.

Every person who is in possession of a chattel, under an agreement for the purchase thereof, whether the title thereto be in him, or his vendor, shall, for the purposes of this act, be deemed the owner thereof, and the lien of a person expending material, labor or skill thereon shall be superior to and preferred to the rights of the person holding the title thereto, or any lien thereon antedating the time of expenditure of the labor, skill or material thereon by a lien claimant, to the extent that such expenditure has enhanced the value of such chattel. [L. '05, p. 138, § 3.]

§ 1157. Enforcement of Lien.

The lien herein provided for may be enforced against the owner of and all persons having an interest in any such chattel by notice and sale in the same manner that a chattel mortgage is foreclosed, or by decree of any court in this state, exercising original equity jurisdiction in the county wherein such chattel may be, or in action commenced within nine months after the filing of such lien notice and if no such action be commenced within such time such lien shall cease. [L. '05, p. 138, § 4.]

§ 1158. Filing of Notice.

Upon presentation of such lien notice to the auditor of any county, and the payment to him of fifteen cents, he shall file the same, and indorse thereon the time of the reception, the number thereof, and shall enter the same in a suitable book or file (but need not record the same). Such book or file shall have herewith an alphabetic index, in which the county auditor shall index such notice by noting the name of the owner, name of lien claimant, description of property, date of lien (which shall be the date upon which such expenditure of labor, skill or material was completed), date of filing and when released, the date of release. [L. '05, p. 138, § 5.]

CHAPTER VI.

SECURITY FOR LABOR, ETC., ON PUBLIC WORKS.

§ 1159. (5925.*) Contractor's Bond—Filing.

Whenever any board, council, commission, trustees or body acting for the state or any county or municipality or any public body shall contract with any person or corporation to do any work for the state, county or municipality, or other public body, city, town or district, such board, council, commission, trustees or body shall require the person or persons with whom such contract is made to make, execute and deliver to such board, council, commission, trustees or body a good and sufficient bond, with two or more sureties, or with a surety company as surety, conditioned that such person or persons shall faithfully perform all the provisions of such contract and pay all laborers, mechanics and subcontractors and materialmen, and all persons who shall supply such person or persons, or subcontractors, with provisions and supplies for the carrying on of such work, all just debts, dues and demands incurred in the performance of such work, which bond shall be filed with the county auditor of the county where such work is performed or improvement made, except in cases of cities and towns, in which cases such bond shall be filed with the clerk or comptroller thereof, and any person or persons performing such services or furnishing material to any subcontractor shall have the same right under the provision of such bond as if such work, services or material was furnished to the original contractor. [L. '09, p. 716, § 1. Cf. L. '88, p. 15, § 1; 1 H. C., § 2415; L. '97, p. 57, § 1.]

Cited in 5 Wash. 145, 146, 586; 6 Wash. 121; 7 Wash. 272, 280, 281, 283, 485; 8 Wash. 328, 457; 9 Wash. 6, 429; 11 Wash. 162, 476; 12 Wash. 120; 13 Wash. 392, 560, 575; 19 Wash. 592, 627; 21 Wash. 508; 22 Wash. 107; 28 Wash. 93; 29 Wash. 527; 39 Wash. 556; 46 Wash. 435.

Liability of surety on contractor's bond: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2021, 2022, §§ 134-138; Baum v. Whatcom County, 19 Wash. 626; Spokane & Idaho Lumber Co. v. Loy, 21 Wash. 501; Spokane & Idaho Lumber Co. v. Boyd, 28 Wash. 90; Pacific Bridge Co. v. U. S. Fidelity etc. Co., 33 Wash. 47; Huggins v. Sutherland, 39 Wash. 552; Spokane v. Costello, 33 Wash. 98; Id., 42 Wash. 182.

The object of this statute is to give the same relief by action on the bond as could be had by the enforcement of a lien against the building: Ihrig v. Scott, 5 Wash. 584, 588.

The provisions of this chapter requiring bonds of contractors to secure laborers and materialmen does not violate Article 9, § 2, of the Constitution: Pacific Mfg. Co. v. School Dist., 6 Wash. 121.

This chapter provides a remedy for those furnishing material or labor by virtue of a subcontract, as well as those who furnish the same in any other capacity: Ihrig v. Scott, supra.

This section does not apply to street grading contracts: Clough v. Spokane, 7 Wash. 279.

The provisions of this chapter should not be extended beyond the scope of the mechanic's lien statute: Clough v. Spokane, supra.

School districts are, within the contemplation of the legislative and constitutional enactments of this state, municipal corporations providing for liens for work done or improvements made for any "county, incorporated town or city, or other municipal corporations": Maxon v. School Dist., 5 Wash. 142.

The construction of a local ditch is not such a county improvement as to require the county commissioners to take a bond from the contractor for the protection of laborers: Wallace v. Skagit Co., 8 Wash. 457.

Under this chapter, it is not necessary that the plaintiff, in an action to enforce his claim, should have established in a prior action the contractor's indebtedness to him, or should make the contractor a party to his action against the municipal corporation: Maxon v. School Dist., supra.

Where a contractor's bond by mistake names the board of school directors instead of the state of Washington as obligee, such defect is not fatal, if from the terms of the bond it appears that its object was to secure laborers and materialmen as provided for by this section: Ihrig v. Scott, supra; and such a bond is not inoperative by reason of its being made payable to the school district instead of the state: Wadsworth v. School Dist., 7 Wash. 485.

In an action by a materialman against a school district, founded on its failure to take a bond from the contractor, where there is evidence showing that the lumber was furnished to a firm of which the contractor was a member, and a charge on plaintiff's books showing a sale to the firm, an instruction "that if plaintiffs satisfy your mind that there was a mistake (in making the charge), and the evidence is not in conflict, you will find that there was a mistake, and that the goods were sold to the contractor," is misleading, as it makes the whole question as to whom the lumber was sold turn upon the way it was charged upon the books of plaintiff, and whether it was so charged by mistake: Sexton v. School Dist., 9 Wash. 5.

In an action against a school district for failure to take a sufficient bond from a contractor for the protection of materialmen, the fact that the sureties thereon did not justify is a mere irregularity, and presumed not injurious in absence of allegations and proof that they could not justify as required by law: Wadsworth v. School Dist., supra.

A bond taken by a school district under this section, conditioned that the sureties shall be liable only in case the contractor fails to "perform said work and comply with said contract, plans and specifications to which reference is hereby made, and the same made a part of the bond," is insufficient: Puget Sound Brick etc. Co. v. School Dist., 12 Wash. 118.

It is not necessary that a school district should be made a party to a suit against a contractor for materials furnished in the construction of a schoolhouse in order to subject the district to liability for failure to take bond from contractor: Pacific Mfg. Co. v. School Dist., 6 Wash. 121.

It is not within the corporate powers of a city of the third class to take a bond conditioned that the obligors shall construct a street railway upon its streets, and in case of a default shall pay a certain sum as liquidated damages: Aberdeen v. Honey, 8 Wash. 251; and where such bond is given in a penal sum it is a penal bond, and no recovery can be had thereon without proof showing that actual damages had accrued by reason of the failure to construct the railway: Id.

Although under this section a public corporation is not required to take a bond from a contractor in improving streets, the fact that such a bond has been voluntarily given will not estop the sureties thereon from denying their liability to materialmen, although, as between the city and the obligors thereon, the bond may be valid:

Sears v. Williams, 9 Wash. 428; see Clough v. Spokane, 7 Wash. 279.

An action on a contractor's bond given under this section is not barred by the procuring of a judgment against the contractors personally prior to suit upon his bond: Fischer v. Quigley, 8 Wash. 327.

It is not necessary to file such bond with the auditor prior to furnishing materials to the contractor, in order to relieve the district from liability: Wadsworth v. School Dist., supra.

The provisions of § 781, supra, that no bond shall fail for want of form, etc., applies to a contractor's bond for public works given under this section: Ihrig v. Scott, supra.

Persons who furnish material for public bridges, whether to the original contractor or to a subcontractor, are within the protection of this section, providing that whenever the board of county commissioners shall contract with any person to do work of a character which, if performed for an individual, a lien would exist, it shall take a bond conditioned for the payment of all the laborers and materialmen: Gilmore v. Westerman, 13 Wash. 390.

A materialman's right of action on a bond given under this section is assignable: Id.

The acceptance, without payment, of an order drawn upon the contractor for a public work by a subcontractor in favor of a materialman does not extinguish the latter's right of action upon the contractor's bond given under this section: Id.; Moody v. Westerman, 13 Wash. 709.

A judgment obtained against the principal upon a statutory bond given under the provisions of this act for the protection of those furnishing labor and materials to a contractor upon public improvements, is prima facie sufficient to warrant a recovery against the sureties, without requiring proof of the contract between the principal and the party so furnishing labor or materials: Ihrig v. Scott, supra.

The sureties upon a bond given by a contractor for the erection of a school building, under the statute requiring such bond, for the protection of those furnishing labor and materials to a contractor employed in making public improvements, are estopped to deny the authority of the school district to make the contract, when the bond executed by such sureties recites as a fact that the principal in the bond had duly entered into a contract with the school district for the erection of said school building: Price v. Scott, 13 Wash. 574; see Ihrig v. Scott, supra.

Sureties upon the bond given by a contractor under the terms of this section for the protection of those furnishing labor or material to the contractor in the construction of public improvements, cannot escape liability from the fact that the bond was not signed by the contractor, when it has been delivered by him to, and accepted by, the other contracting party with the knowledge and consent of the sureties: Eureka Sandstone Co. v. Long, 11 Wash. 161; Twigley v. Bellingham Bay Boom Co., 5 Wash. 644.

The presumption arises from the delivery of a bond by the principal, as the agent of the sureties, that they must have known its conditions, and ratification by them of the bond while ignorant that it was unsigned by the principal will not affect their liability: Id.

A complaint against principal and sureties upon a contractor's bond, given in compliance with this section, but which had not been signed by the principal, is not demurrable on the ground of misjoinder of parties defendant, for the reason that the obligations of the parties and the rights of plaintiff are identical, although founded in the case of the principal upon the contract, and in the case of the sureties upon the bond: Id.; following Ihrig v. Scott, 5 Wash. 584.

§ 1160. (5926.*) Liability for Failure to Take Bond.

If any board of county commissioners of any county, or mayor and common council of any incorporated city or town, or tribunal transacting the business of any municipal corporation shall fail to take such bond as herein required, such county, incorporated city or town, or other municipal corporation, shall be liable to the persons mentioned in section 1159, to the full extent and for the full amount of all such debts so contracted by such contractor. [L. '88, p. 15, § 2; 1 H. C., § 2416; L. '09, p. 717, § 2.]

See notes to last section.

§ 1161. (5927.*) Conditions of Bond—Action on.

The bond mentioned in section 1159 shall be in an amount equal to the full contract price agreed to be paid for such work or improvement, and shall be to the state of Washington, except in cases of cities and towns, in which cases such municipalities may by general ordinance fix and determine the amount of such bond and to whom such bond shall run: Provided, the same shall not be for a less amount than twenty-five per cent. (25%) of the contract price of any such improvement, and may designate that the same shall be payable to such city, and not to the state of Washington, and all such persons mentioned in said section 1159 shall have a right of action in his, her, or their own name or names on such bond, for the full amount of all debts against such contractor, or for work done by such laborers or mechanics, and for materials furnished or provisions and goods supplied and furnished in the prosecution of such work, or the making of such improvements: Provided, that such persons shall not have any right of action on such bond for any sum whatever, unless within thirty (30) days from and after the completion of the contract with and acceptance of the work by the board, council, commission, trustees, or body acting for the state, county or municipality, or other public body, city, town or district, the laborer, mechanic or subcontractor, or materialman, or person claiming to have supplied materials, provisions or goods for the prosecution of such work, or the making of such improvement, shall present to and file with such board, council, commission, trustees or body acting for the state, county or municipality, or other public body, city, town or district, a notice in writing in substance as follows:

To (here insert the name of the state, county or municipality or other public body, city, town or district):

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned (here insert the name of the laborer, mechanic or subcontractor, or materialman, or person claiming to have furnished labor, materials or provisions for or upon such contract or work) has a claim in the sum of — dollars (here insert the amount) against the bond taken from — (here insert the name of the principal and surety or sureties upon such bond) for the work of — (here insert a brief mention or description of the work concerning which said bond was taken).

(Here to be signed) —

Such notice shall be signed by the person or corporation making the claim or giving the notice; and said notice, after being presented and filed, shall be a public record open to inspection by any person: Provided further, that any city may avail itself of the provisions of this act, notwithstanding any charter provisions in conflict herewith: And provided further, that any city or town may impose any other or further conditions and obligations in such bond as may be deemed necessary for its proper protection in the fulfillment of the terms of the contract secured thereby. [L. '09, p. 717, § 3. Cf. L. '88, p. 16, § 3; 1 H. C., § 2417; L. '99, p. 172, § 1.]

Necessity of filing notice: See Huggins v. Sutherland, 39 Wash. 552.

Failure to file bond does not relieve contractor from failure to file claim: Crane Co. v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 43 Wash. 516.

The overstatement of the amount due, in a notice to a city of a claim for material furnished to a contractor upon public work, is not fatal to recovery upon the contractor's statutory bond to secure laborers and materialmen, where actual fraud is not shown: Strandell v. Moran, 49 Wash. 533.

Such a notice, required by the statute to be signed by the claimant, is sufficient when signed by one "A. S. Agent," through whom the claimant did business without disclosing the principal, where no one was misled thereby; since the same fulfills the purpose of the statute to give notice of claims: Id.

CHAPTER VII.

LIENS UPON LOGS AND OTHER TIMBER.

§ 1162. (5930.*) Who may Have Liens.

Every person performing labor upon, or who shall assist in obtaining or securing saw-logs, spars, piles, cordwood, shingle bolts, or other timber, and the owner or owners of any tugboat, or towboat, which shall tow or assist in towing, from one place to another within this state, any saw-logs, spars, piles, cordwood, shingle bolts, or other timber, and the owner or owners of any team or any logging engine, which shall haul or assist in hauling from one place to another within this state, any saw-logs, spars, piles, cord wood, shingle bolts, or other timber, and the owner or owners of any logging or other railroad over which saw-logs, spars, piles, cordwood, shingle bolts, or other timber shall be transported and delivered, shall have a lien upon the same for the work or labor done upon, or in obtaining or securing, or for services rendered in towing, transporting, hauling, or driving, the particular saw-logs, spars, cordwood, shingle bolts, or other timber in said claim of lien described, whether such work, labor or services was done, rendered or performed at the instance of the owner of the same or his agent. The cook in a logging camp shall be regarded as a person who assists in obtaining or securing the timber herein mentioned. [L. '07, p. 14, § 1. Cf. L. '60, p. 340,

See infra, § 1190a, this chapter applicable to liens on farm products.

Liens on logs and actions for enforcement: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1757, 1765, §§ 21-49.

CONSTRUCTION.—Logger's lien statutes are remedial in their nature and ought to be liberally construed in the interest of labor: Proulx v. Stetson & Post M. Co., 6 Wash. 478, 481.

The statute is broad enough to fairly include all kinds of labor necessarily performed in and about a logging camp: Id., 482.

RIGHT TO LIEN.—A statutory right of lien given loggers for labor in getting out logs becomes such a part of the contract for such labor as to be unaffected by the repeal of the statute pending the enforcement of the lien: Garneau v. Port Blakeley M. Co., 8 Wash. 467; McQueston v. Morrill, 12 Wash. 335.

One who constructs a necessary road by which certain logs are taken from the forest to the mill, or to water and after to the mill or to market, as much assists in obtaining and securing such logs as if he were engaged in cutting and sawing them, and is entitled to a lien for such labor: Proulx v. Stetson etc. Mill Co., supra; and labor in blasting rocks along a river-bed in order to make a passage for logs in getting them from the woods to the place of booming is lienable under this section: Duggan v. Washougal L. & L. Co., 10 Wash. 84; but not for labor in opening a public road to get in supplies: Id.

No lien is given by statute for the manufacture of shingles, and where the notice is for the manufacture of lumber and shingles, without showing how much is due for the labor on the lumber and how much on the shingles, the whole lien fails: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Sparkman, 2 Wash. 165, decided prior to amendment of 1895.

Lien claimants who had worked for defendant for from one to six months, in getting out logs in several log booms, have a lien upon all the logs cut and secured during the time, and they need not prove that the services for which the lien was filed were all performed in cutting and securing the particular logs against which the lien was filed: Grimm v. Pacific Creosot Co., 50 Wash. 415.

Where the logs were at all times owned by one who manufactured them into lumber, the owner cannot defeat a lien on the logs by claiming that he was only liable as an eloigner, where the statute gave a lien on the finished product to anyone rendering services on the logs: O'Connor v. Burnham, 49 Wash. 443.

A person getting out logs and piling under a contract with the owner is an agent of the owner, within the meaning of Ballinger's Code § 5930 (amended by this section): O'Brien v. Perfection Pile Preserving Co., 49 Wash. 395.

The lien given by Ballinger's Code, § 5930 (amended by this section), extends to hauling logs and piles before being worked into a finished product, and is not restricted to railroads and steamboats by the clause giving such carriers liens for hauling or towing: Id.

One claiming a lien on logs under a contract to cut certain timber at $4 per thousand, payable monthly as delivered, is justified in ceasing to work upon the owner's refusal to make payments agreed upon: O'Connor v. Burnham, 49 Wash. 443.

Under §§ 1679, 1680, 1 Hill's Code, a lien upon logs cannot be so extended as to reach the lumber manufactured therefrom: Winsor v. Johnson, 5 Wash. 429; but the present law is to the contrary; see this and the next section.

A logger's lien cannot be defeated on the ground that plaintiff had worked for three corporations, when he had no knowledge of their existence other than the one employing him, when the three companies had the same officers, same manager and same place of business: Duggan v. Washougal L. & L. Co., supra.

If laborers engaged in getting out sawlogs have expressly released all right of lien upon the logs cut within thirty days of the time of filing liens, the right to lien upon logs cut prior thereto is thereby lost: Campbell v. Vincent, 8 Wash. 650; Beal v. Nichols, 12 Wash. 157.

The lien of vendor of timber attaches to each log, for the contract price for one thousand feet, as if a separate contract of sale had been made respecting it: Baxter v. Smith, 2 W. T. 97.

The owner of logs cannot defeat loggers' liens thereon by intermingling the logs with others of the same brand: Creighton v. Cole, 10 Wash. 472.

PURCHASERS OF PROPERTY subject to logger's lien do so at their peril: Proulx v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., supra.

It is not the duty of the vendee to pay liens on lumber (labor liens) at the time of purchase, although he may do so, and make the price so paid a setoff against the purchase price, at the hazard, however, of the liens being valid: Baker v. McAllister, 2 W. T. 48.

§ 1163. (5931.) Lien on Lumber—Lumber, Defined.

Every person performing work or labor or assisting in manufacturing saw-logs and other timber into lumber and shingles, has a lien upon such lumber while the same remains at the mill where it was manufactured, or in the possession or under the control of the manufacturer, whether such work or labor was done at the instance of the owner of such logs or his agent or any contractor or subcontractor of such owner. The term lumber, as used in this chapter, shall be held and be construed to mean all logs or other timber sawed or split for use, including beams, joists, planks, boards, shingles, laths, staves, hoops, and every article of whatsoever nature or description manufactured from saw-logs or other timber. [Cf. L. '77, p. 217, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1942; 1 H. C., § 1680; L. '93, p. 19, § 1; L. '93, p. 428, § 2.]

Cited in 11 Wash. 205, 691; 13 Wash. 161, 351, 375; 16 Wash. 696; 18 Wash. 269; 30 Wash. 460, 461; 49 Wash. 444.

Persons entitled to lien: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1758, § 25; Cross v. Dore, 20 Wash. 121; Blumauer v. Clock, 24 Wash. 596; Robins v. Paulson, 30 Wash. 459; Munroe v. Sedro Lum. & Shingle Co., 16 Wash. 694; Judge v. Bay Mill Co., 18 Wash. 269.

A judgment awarding liens on shingles not mentioned in the claim of lien is erroneous: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Sparkman, 2 Wash. 165.

Shingle-bolt cutters are entitled to a lien under this section on the shingles as long as they are under the control of the manufacturer: Campbell v. Sterling Mfg. Co., 11 Wash. 204; Hadlock v. Shumway, 11 Wash. 690.

This section, giving liens to persons who assist in obtaining saw-logs and other timber to be manufactured into lumber and shingles, does not apply to one who employs men to do the work thereon, and who does not directly perform the labor himself: Campbell v. Sterling Mfg. Co., 11 Wash. 204.

The removal of shingles by a purchaser from the mill in which they were manufactured, before the filing of a logger's lien thereon, precludes the acquisition of a lien under this section, providing that every person performing work in manufacturing saw-logs and other timber into lumber and shingles has a lien upon such lumber while it remains at the mill or in possession or under the control of the manufacturer: Swartwood v. Red Star Shingle Co., 13 Wash. 349.

A lien for work performed upon manufactured fence posts can be asserted only under this section, providing that "every person performing work or labor or assisting in manufacturing saw-logs and other timber into lumber and shingles has a lien upon such lumber while the same remains at the mill where it was manufactured, or in the possession or under the control of the manufacturer," and under such provision one who has hauled the posts from the place of manufacture to the place of delivery to the purchaser is not entitled to file a lien for such hauling: Ryan v. Guilfail, 13 Wash. 373.

Waiver of lien: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1762, § 37; Anderson v. Tingley, 24 Wash. 537; Maris v. Clevenger, 29 Wash. 395.

Contractors getting out logs, at so much per thousand feet, for immediate manufacture into lumber by the owner, are entitled to a lien upon the finished product, under this section, and are not confined to a lien upon the logs given by the preceding section: O'Connor v. Burnham, 49 Wash. 443.

§ 1164. (5932.) Lien for Stumpage.

Any person who shall permit another to go upon his timber land and cut thereon saw-logs, spars, piles or other timber, has a lien upon the same for the price agreed to be paid for such privilege, or for the price such privilege would be reasonably worth in case there was no express agreement fixing the price. [Cf. L. '77, p. 217, § 5; Cd. '81, § 1943; 1 H. C., § 1681; L. '93, p. 429, § 3.]

Where the contract for stumpage provided that payment should be made for each thousand feet of logs cut, a claim of lien cannot be maintained for stumpage on the whole number of logs against a party who is in possession of a part only of the entire cutting: Doyle v. McLeod, 4 Wash. 732.

§ 1165. (5933.) Preferred Liens.

The liens provided for in this chapter are preferred liens and are prior to any other liens, and no sale or transfer of any saw-logs, spars, piles or other timber or manufactured lumber or shingles shall divest the lien thereon as herein provided, and as between liens provided for in this chapter those for work and labor shall be preferred: Provided, that as between liens for work and labor claimed by several laborers on the same logs or lot of logs the claim or claims for work or labor done or performed on the identical logs proceeded against to the extent that said logs can be identified, shall be preferred as against the general claim of lien for work and labor recognized and provided for in this chapter. [Cf. L. '77, p. 217, § 6; Cd. '81, § 1944; 1 H. C., § 1682; L. '93, p. 429, § 4.]

Cited in 14 Wash. 227; 20 Wash. 593.

§ 1166. (5934.) Limitation of Filing Lien for Labor.

The person rendering the service of [or] doing the work or labor named in sections 1162 and 1163 of this chapter is only entitled to the liens as provided herein for services, work or labor for the period of eight calendar months, or any part thereof next preceding the filing of the claim, as provided in section 1169 of this chapter. [Cf. L. '77, p. 217, § 7; Cd. '81, § 1945; 1 H. C., § 1683; L. '93, p. 429, § 5.]

"Section 1169" substituted for "section 8" of the act of 1893, while "section 7" [§ 1168, infra] was evidently intended.

§ 1167. (5935.) Limitation of Filing Lien for Stumpage.

The person granting the privilege mentioned in section 1164 of this chapter is only entitled to the lien as provided therein for saw-logs, spars, piles and other timber cut during the eight months next preceding the filing of the claim, as herein provided in the next succeeding section of this chapter. [Cf. L. '77, p. 217, § 8; Cd. '81, § 1946; 1 H. C., § 1684; L. '93, p. 429, § 6.]

§ 1168. (5936.) Filing of Claim for Labor, etc.

Every person within thirty days after the close of the rendition of the services, or after the close of the work or labor mentioned in the preceding sections (1162, 1163) claiming the benefit hereof, must file for record with the county auditor of the county in which such saw-logs, spars, piles and other timber were cut, or in which such lumber or shingles were manufactured, a claim containing a statement of his demand and the amount thereof, after deducting as nearly as possible all just credits and offsets, with the name of the person by whom he was employed, with a statement of the terms and conditions of his contract, if any, and in case there is no express contract, the claim shall state what such service, work or labor is reasonably worth; and it shall also contain a description of the property to be charged with the lien sufficient for identification with reasonable certainty, which claim must be verified by the oath of himself or some other person to the effect that the affiant believes the same to be true, which claim shall be substantially in the following form:—

— Claimant, vs. —.

Notice is hereby given that — of — county, state of Washington, claims a lien upon a — of —, being about — in quantity, which were cut or manufactured in — county, state of Washington, are marked thus —, and are now lying in —, for labor performed upon and assistance rendered in — said —; that the name of the owner or reputed owner is —; that — employed said — to perform such labor and render such assistance upon the following terms and conditions, to wit:—

The said — agreed to pay the said — for such labor and assistance —; that said contract has been faithfully performed and fully complied with on the part of said —, who performed labor upon and assisted in — said — for the period of —; that said labor and assistance were so performed and rendered upon said —, between the — day of — and the — day of —; and the rendition of said service was closed on the — day of —, and thirty days have not elapsed since that time; that the amount of claimant's demand for said service is —; that no part thereof has been paid except —, and there is now due and remaining unpaid thereon, after deducting all just credits and offsets, the sum of —, in which amount he claims a lien upon said —. The said —, also claims a lien on all said — now owned by said — of said county to secure payment for the work and labor performed in obtaining or securing the said logs, spars, piles or other timber, lumber or shingles herein described.

State of Washington, County of —, ss.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this — day of —.

Time for filing: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1762, § 35; Beal v. Nicols, 12 Wash. 157.

THIRTY DAYS' LIMITATION for the filing of liens for labor in securing saw-logs does not begin to run from the time such logs are rafted into booms, but from the time the service rendered in securing the logs is at an end: Overbeck v. Calligan, 6 Wash. 342.

ASSIGNMENT, EFFECT OF: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1758, § 23.

Although the inchoate right of lien cannot be assigned, yet when the lien is perfected by the filing of a notice thereof, the assignment of the claim will give the assignee the benefit of the security: Casey v. Ault, 4 Wash. 167; Dexter Horton & Co. v. Sparkman, 2 Wash. 165.

NOTICE, VERIFICATION: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1700, § 29; Duggan v. Washougal Land etc. Co., 10 Wash. 84.

When a claim of lien is verified by another than the claimant, a verification to the effect that he believes it to be true is sufficient: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Sparkman, supra.

NOTICE, SUFFICIENCY OF: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1700, 1701, §§ 30-34; Marlette v. Crawford, 17 Wash. 603; Maris v. Clavenger, 29 Wash. 365.

An innocent mistake in a lien notice as to the exact amount due a laborer for his hire will not defeat the lien: Proulx v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 6 Wash. 478.

A notice of lien that states that the claim is for labor performed upon and assistance rendered in preparing and securing certain saw-logs is sufficiently definite: Overbeck v. Calligan, 6 Wash. 342; see Proulx v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., supra.

A logger's lien notice complies with the language of the statute if it appears, taken as a whole, what was the entire demand before the deductions of offsets and what amount remained due after such deductions: Baxter v. Smith, 2 W. T. 97.

In logger's lien claims, where both lienable and nonlienable items appear in the notice, the former will not fail unless apparent intention to defraud appears and no confusion of claims is made in the notice, and the evidence segregates the two classes of claims: Duggan v. Washougal L. & L. Co., 10 Wash. 84.

A notice of lien "for labor in manufacturing lumber" which describes the lumber as "being about one hundred thousand feet, which was manufactured in Kitsap Co., Wash., and which is marked thus —, and is now lying at the sawmill owned by said Builders' Material Co., in Kitsap Co., the same being the place where said lumber was manufactured, and situated about two miles south of Port Blakeley, on Puget Sound," complies with the statute: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Sparkman, 2 Wash. 165.

A claim of lien which describes the property as "a quantity of lumber, being about 70,000 feet, now lying at defendant's sawmill, in said county," is insufficient: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Wyley, 2 Wash. 171.

A claim of lien upon a certain lot of saw-logs, described as "being 1,625,000 feet in quantity . . . being marked thus, K. 30, and a part of which are loose in the water, and a part made up of rafts, one raft of which is now in the possession of the Hart Mill Co., of Seattle, Wash., and the remainder are now lying in the water at the bay at Shelton, Wash.," is insufficient: Doyle v. McLeod, 4 Wash. 732; but the notice was held sufficient describing "a lot of saw-logs, being about 1,100,000 feet in quantity . . . marked thus, K. 33, about 153,000 feet of which are in the possession of the Hart Mill Co., of Seattle, Wash., and the remainder of which are now lying in the water in the bay at Shelton, Wash.": Id.

A notice of a logging lien need not declare that the labor was performed on all the logs upon which the lien is claimed, as Laws of 1893, page 428, gives a lien upon all the logs of the person for whom the labor was performed which belonged to him at the time of the filing of the claim: McPherson v. Smith, 14 Wash. 226.

The question of the sufficiency of a lien notice cannot be raised in the appellate court, although an objection was made to its introduction, when there is no exception to a finding by the court that the notice was sufficient, or a refusal of the court to make a finding on the subject: Id.; compare Wash. B., L. & M. Co. v. Adler, 12 Wash. 24.

Affirmative proof that the notice of a logging lien was properly indexed in the records of the auditor's office is not essential to recovery thereon: McPherson v. Smith, supra.

The provisions of this section reducing the time within which actions to enforce laborers' liens upon logs may be commenced, from twelve to eight months, is a matter affecting the remedy merely, which was within the power of the legislature to abridge; and lien notices filed prior to the passage of the law of 1893 must be enforced within a reasonable time after its taking effect: McQuesten v. Morrill, 12 Wash. 135; citing Garneau v. Port Blakeley M. Co., 8 Wash. 467.

The fact that notice of a logger's lien was duly recorded is sufficiently proved by the introduction in evidence of the original notice with the auditor's certificate of record thereon and by testimony admitted without objection, that plaintiff had filed the notice for record in the proper auditor's office: Mason v. McGee, 15 Wash. 272.

§ 1169. (5937.) Filing of Claim for Stumpage.

Every person mentioned in section 1164 claiming the benefit thereof must file for record with the county auditor of the county in which such saw-logs, spars, piles or other timber were cut, a claim in substance the same as provided in the next preceding section of this chapter and verified as therein provided. [Cf. L. '77, p. 218, § 10; Cd. '81, § 1948; 1 H. C., § 1686; L. '93, p. 431, § 8.]

§ 1170. (5938.) Recording Claim.

The county auditor must record any claim filed under this act in a book kept by him for that purpose, which record must be indexed, as deeds and other conveyances are required by law to be indexed, and for which he may receive the same fees as are allowed by law for recording deeds and other instruments. [Cf. L. '77, p. 218, § 11; Cd. '81, § 1949; 1 H. C., § 1687; L. '93, p. 431, § 9.]

§ 1171. (5939.) Limitation of Actions.

No lien provided for in this chapter binds any saw-logs, spars, piles or other timber, or lumber and shingles, for a longer period than eight calendar months after the claim as herein provided has been filed, unless a civil action be commenced in a proper court, within that time, to enforce the same: Provided, however, that in case such civil action so commenced should for any cause other than the merits, be nonsuited or dismissed, then the lien shall continue for the term of one calendar month, if the said eight months have expired, to permit the commencement of another action thereon, which shall be as effective in prolonging the lien as if it had been entered during the term of eight months hereinbefore stated. [Cf. L. '77, p. 218, § 12; L. '79, p. 100, § 5; Cd. '81, § 1950; 1 H. C., § 1688; L. '93, p. 431, § 10.]

Time to sue: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1763, § 42.

A lienor who filed his lien prior to the taking effect of the law of 1893 is governed by the limitation of time for commencing suit by the new law: McQuesten v. Morrill, 12 Wash. 335.

An action to foreclose a lien on saw-logs may be commenced after a portion of them have been made into lumber, and foreclosure may be decreed as to the existing portion: Gray's Harbor Boom Co. v. Lytle Log. etc. Co., 36 Wash. 151.

§ 1172. (5940.) Jurisdiction—Procedure.

The liens provided for in this chapter shall be enforced by a civil action in the superior court of the county wherein the lien was filed, and shall be governed by the laws regulating the proceedings in civil actions touching the mode and manner of trial, and the proceedings and laws to secure property so as to hold it for the satisfaction of any lien that be against it; except as hereinafter otherwise provided. [Cf. L. '77, p. 218, § 13; Cd. '81, § 1951; 1 H. C., § 1689; L. '93, p. 431, § 11.]

See infra, § 1175.

FORECLOSURE: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1762, 1764, §§ 39-47; Mason v. McGee, 15 Wash. 272; Cross v. Dore, 20 Wash. 121; Duggin v. Smith, 27 Wash. 702.

A lien given by statute is personal to the laborer; and when the laborer combines with his own claim one assigned him by another laborer, he loses all right to take the benefit of foreclosure: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Sparkman, 2 Wash. 166; see Casey v. Ault, 4 Wash. 167.

The action to foreclose a laborer's lien upon saw-logs cannot be maintained against a personal representative of decedent's estate unless the claim shall have been first presented to the executor or administrator, as required by law. Such provision does not, however, prevent such liens being primary claims upon the property covered by them: Casey v. Ault, supra.

The action to foreclose a loggers' lien is properly brought in the county where the logs were cut, the notice filed, and where the owner resides: Overbeck v. Calligan, 6 Wash. 342.

Where it sufficiently appears from the allegations of a complaint that the action is for foreclosure of a loggers' lien, although some of the allegations give it the character of an action of damages for the eloignment of logs, the court is warranted in denying a change of venue, if by amendment the complaint could be made adequate in the foreclosure proceedings without changing the nature of the action: Mill Co. v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 673.

Under §§ 1679-1690, 1 Hill's Code, one who has performed labor in securing logs may enforce a lien against a part of the property upon which he expended labor, for all of the labor performed upon the whole lot of saw-logs, provided the logs all belonged to the same owner, and the labor was performed under one entire contract: Proulx v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 6 Wash. 478; see infra, § 1175.

In a certain loggers' lien action stipulation was entered into by the terms of which the logs were to be sold and proceeds divided pro rata; held that the defendant could not attack the sufficiency of the notices of lien claims held by plaintiff, and that it was the duty of the court to take jurisdiction of the trust fund for distribution, according to the stipulation, although some of the lien claimants raised objections thereto: Winsor v. Johnson, 5 Wash. 429.

In an action to foreclose a number of liens upon several lots of logs for labor performed by various persons, whose claims had been assigned to plaintiff, the complaint is not subject to demurrer for misjoinder of causes of action, although each lien may not have covered all the logs, when the complaint alleges that the defendant has some interest in the logs upon which the various liens are claimed: McQuesten v. Morrill, 12 Wash. 335.

Although the owner of lumber and shingles may have made default, the holder of a chattel mortgage thereon, impleaded as defendant, who has answered, denying all plaintiff's allegations, is entitled to a trial: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Sparkman, 2 Wash. 165.

Where plaintiffs allege in their complaint that they had filed a lien upon certain lumber and shingles, but the copies of liens forming part of the complaint show that lien was not claimed on the shingles, the answer of defendant specifically denying all the allegations of the complaint and setting up as a new defense that the shingles were cut and sawed from shingle bolts made by other parties than the plaintiffs, to which plaintiffs filed no reply, does not entitle defendants to judgment on the pleadings: Id.

In an action to enforce a logger's lien proof that the logs were cut in the county where the notice was filed is necessary: Garneau v. Port Blakeley Mill Co., 8 Wash. 467; Overbeck v. Calligan, 6 Wash. 342.

In an action to foreclose a logger's lien, time checks given by the employer to a third party impleaded as defendant on account of some interest in the logs are competent evidence: Garneau v. Port Blakeley Mill Co., supra.

Where a notice of lien described logs as marked "T" on each end, while the proof described them as marked "circle T," without showing the location of the mark, the notice and proof will be held sufficient in the absence of any showing that anyone was misled thereby: Casey v. Ault, 4 Wash. 167.

COSTS AND ATTORNEY'S FEES: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1765, § 48; Ivall v. Willis, 17 Wash. 645; Fraser v. Rutherford, 26 Wash. 658.

Liabilities of claimants for having notices prepared should be considered as moneys paid and taxed as costs: Creighton v. Cle, 10 Wash. 472.

Twenty-five dollars attorney's fees is not excessive in a loggers' lien suit for each several claimant: Garneau v. Port Blakeley Mill Co., 8 Wash. 468.

The amount of attorney's fee in logger's lien case is within the discretion of the court, and the decision will not be disturbed, because no evidence was produced of the reasonable value thereof: Proulx v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., supra; distinguishing Cowie v. Ahrenstedt, 1 Wash. 416, 420.

A complaint in an action to foreclose a lien on shingles alleges sufficient ground for the issuance of a temporary injunction when it avers that the debt is due; that defendants are insolvent and financially irresponsible; and that the only security for plaintiff's claim was the lien upon the shingles, which defendants were threatening to and were about to remove from the state and dispose of: Cady v. Case, 11 Wash. 126.

The issuance of a temporary injunction pendente lite to preserve and make efficient a lien upon shingles, which plaintiff was seeking to enforce, is warranted, although the allegations of the complaint have been denied, when neither the amount sued for nor the right to a lien is disputed by the defendants: Cady v. Case, 11 Wash. 124.

The owner of logs cannot defeat loggers' liens thereon by intermingling the logs with others of the same brand: Creighton v. Cole, 10 Wash. 472.

In taxing costs upon foreclosure of loggers' liens, liabilities incurred by the claimants for having lien notices prepared should be considered as moneys paid: Id.

It is error to tax as costs fees paid a private citizen for preparing copies of the complaint and summons, and for the service thereof upon the defendants: Id.

Semble, a rule of the superior court allowing such costs to be taxed is invalid: Id.

The complaint in an action to foreclose a logger's lien is not demurrable on the ground that it does not allege, except as a conclusion of law, that anything was due the plaintiff, when it states that "under the terms and conditions of the said contract defendants became indebted to the plaintiff in the sum of three hundred three and 87-100 dollars": Mason v. McGee, 15 Wash. 172.

§ 1173. (5941.*) Sheriff as Receiver.

The sheriff of the county wherein the lien is filed shall be the receiver when one is appointed, and the superior court, upon a showing made, shall appoint such receiver without notice, who shall be allowed such fees as may seem just to the court, which fees shall be accounted for by such sheriff as other fees collected by him in his official capacity: Provided, that at any time when any property is in the custody of such sheriff under the provisions of this act, and any person claiming any interest therein may deposit with the clerk of the court in which such action is pending, a sum of money in an amount equal to the claim sued upon, together with one hundred ($100) dollars, to cover costs and interest, (unless the court shall make an order fixing a different amount to cover such costs and interest, then such an amount as the court shall fix to secure such costs and interest, which such action is being prosecuted) and shall have the right to demand and receive forthwith from such sheriff the possession and custody of such property: Provided, that in no action brought under the provisions of this act shall costs be allowed to lienholders unless a demand has been made for payment of his lien claim before commencement of suit, unless the court shall find the claimants at time of bringing action had reasonable ground to believe that the owner or the person having control of the property upon which such lien is claimed was attempting to defraud such claimant, or prevent the collection of such lien. [L. '93, p. 432, § 12; L. '99, p. 143, § 1.]

Cited in 8 Wash. 475; 20 Wash. 594; 26 Wash. 660; 51 Wash. 600.

Necessity of demand for payment before suit: See Fraser v. Rutherford, 26 Wash. 658.

Under this section demand before the filing of the lien will entitle the claimant to costs: Sumpter v. Burnham, 51 Wash. 599.

§ 1174. (5942.) Answer of Defendant—Hearing.

If the defendant or defendants appear in a suit to enforce any lien provided by this chapter he or they shall make their answer on the merits of the complaint, and any motion or demurrer against the said complaint must be filed with the answer; and no motion shall be allowed to make complaint more definite and certain, if it appear to the court that the defendant or defendants have or should have knowledge of the facts, or that it can be made more certain and definite by facts which will appear necessarily in the testimony; but the case, unless the court sustains the demurrer to the complaint, shall be heard on the merits as speedily, as possible, and amendments of the pleadings, if necessary, shall be liberally allowed. [L. '93, p. 432, § 13.]

Pleading—Amendment of complaint: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1763, § 44; Cross v. Dore, 20 Wash. 121; Maris v. Clevenger, 29 Wash. 395.

In loggers' lien complaint where the claim of each plaintiff is separately pleaded, if any of the causes of action are well pleaded a general demurrer to the complaint for want of sufficient facts should be overruled:

Chevret v. Mechanics' M. & L. Co., 4 Wash. 721.

An answer setting up a tender "at the time of the filing of the lien" and plaintiff's failure to make a demand before such filing, dispenses with plaintiff's proof of the filing of the lien, which defendant had denied on information and belief: Sumpter v. Burnham, 51 Wash. 599.

§ 1175. (5943.) Enforcement of Lien Against Whole or Part.

Any person who shall bring a civil action to enforce the lien herein provided for, or any person having a lien as herein provided for, who shall be made a party to any civil action, has the right to demand that such lien be enforced against the whole or any part of the saw-logs, spars, piles or other timber or manufactured lumber or shingles upon which he has performed labor or which he has assisted in securing or obtaining, or which he has cut on his timber land during the eight months next preceding the filing of his lien, for all his labor upon or for all his assistance in obtaining or securing said logs, spars, piles or other timber, or in manufacturing said lumber or shingles during the whole or any part of the eight months mentioned in section 1168, or for timber cut during the whole or any part of the eight months above mentioned. And where proceedings are commenced against any lot of saw-logs, spars, piles or other timber or lumber or shingles as herein provided, and some of the lienors claim liens against the specific logs, spars, piles or other timber or lumber or shingles proceeded against, and others against the same generally, to secure their claims for work and labor, the priority of the liens shall be determined as hereinbefore provided. [Cf. L. '77, p. 218, § 14; Cd. '81, § 1952; 1 H. C., § 1690; L. '93, p. 432, § 14.]

See note to § 1172, supra.

"Section 1168" substituted for "section 7" of the act of 1893, while "section 5" [§ 1166, supra] was evidently intended.

Cited in 6 Wash. 480, 481; 20 Wash. 594; 27 Wash. 110.

§ 1176. (5944.) Errors not to Invalidate Lien, When.

No mistake or error in the statement of the demand, or of the amount of credits and offsets allowed, or of the balance asserted to be due to claimant, nor in the description of the property against which the claim is filed, shall invalidate the lien, unless the court finds that such mistake or error in the statement of the demand, credits and offsets or of the balance due was made with intent to defraud, or the court shall find that an innocent third party without notice, direct or constructive, has, since the claim was filed, become the bona fide owner of the property lienied upon, and that the notice of claim was so deficient that it did not put the party upon further inquiry, in any manner. [L. '93, p. 433, § 15.]

See notes and references to § 1174, supra.

As to immaterial variance in description, see Marlette v. Crawford, 17 Wash. 603.

As to harmless error in lien notice, see Maris v. Clevenger, 29 Wash. 395; Livingstone v. Lovegren, 27 Wash. 102.

§ 1177. (5945.) Innocent Third Party, Who is.

It shall be conclusively presumed by the court that a party purchasing the property lienied upon within thirty days given herein to claimants wherein to file their liens, is not an innocent third party, nor that he has become a bona fide owner of the property lienied upon, unless it shall appear that he has paid full value for the said property, and has seen that the purchase money of the said property has been applied to the payment of such bona fide claims as are entitled to liens upon the said property under the provisions of this chapter, according to the priorities herein established. [L. '93, p. 433, § 16.]

Cited in 27 Wash. 107; 40 Wash. 201.

Innocent purchaser: See Livingstone v. Lovegren, 27 Wash. 102.

The latter part of this section is not open to objection that it seeks, without due process of law, to dispose of the purchase money, and vest in the buyer the authority to apply it to such claims as he may see fit to consider bona fide and entitled to liens on the property sold, in violation of the Constitution, Article I, §§ 3-16: McCoy v. Spithell, 13 Wash. 158.

§ 1178. (5946.*) Joinder—Costs.

Any number of persons claiming liens under this chapter may join in the affidavit in section 1168 provided, and may join in the same action, and when separate actions are commenced the court may consolidate them. The court shall also allow as part of the costs the moneys paid for filing, making and recording the claim, and a reasonable attorney's fee for each person claiming a lien. [L. '01, p. 20, § 1. Cf. L. '77, p. 219, § 15; Cd. '81, § 1953; 1 H. C., § 1691; L. '93, p. 433, § 17.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 722; 10 Wash. 174; 16 Wash. 416; 17 Wash. 647.

The joinder of several claimants' liens in one notice of lien, where the character of the claims is the same, the property is proceeded against and each claim is separately stated, is authorized by § 1691, 1 Hill's Code, which provides for the joinder in one action of foreclosure by persons claiming liens against the same property: Cheveret v. Mechanics' M. & L. Co., 4 Wash. 721.

Where a number of loggers have filed liens on a certain boom of logs they may all join in the action: Peterson v. Sayward, 9 Wash. 503; and damages may be recovered in the lien foreclosure or by separate action: Id.

As to attorney's fees in cases of joinder of action: see Wall v. Willis, 17 Wash. 645.

§ 1179. (5947.) Judgment, Enforcement of.

In each civil action judgment must be rendered in favor of each person having a lien for the amount due to him, and the court or judge thereof shall order any property subject to the lien herein provided for to be sold by the sheriff of the proper county in the same manner that personal property is sold on execution, and the court or judge shall apportion the proceeds of such sale to the payment of each judgment, according to the priorities established in this act pro rata in its class according to the amount of such judgment. [Cf. L. '77, p. 219, § 16; Cd. '81, § 1954; 1 H. C., § 1692; L. '93, p. 434, § 18.]

Judgment: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1764, § 47.

In a joint action by a number of loggers, a judgment in their favor will be reversed as to one who fails to show that anything was due him either at the time of trial or when notice was filed: Proulx v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 6 Wash. 478, 485.

Where a number of claimants join in foreclosing loggers' liens and the pleadings, proofs and findings establish that each assisted in producing certain logs, of which the marks and quantity in feet were given, the decree should set out the logs upon which the several recoveries can be had: Garneau v. Port Blakeley Mill Co., 8 Wash. 467.

Where the logs have been manufactured into lumber, and their identity destroyed, foreclosure cannot be ordered, but a money judgment may be entered against the party liable, and any money in court impressed with the lien applied thereon: Grays' Harbor Boom Co. v. Lytle Log etc. Co., 36 Wash. 151.

§ 1180. (5948.) Sale as Personalty.

The court or judge may order any property subject to a lien as in this chapter provided to be sold by the sheriff as personal property is sold on execution either before or at the time judgment is rendered, as provided in section next preceding, and the proceeds of such sale must be paid into court, to be applied as in said section directed. [Cf. L. '77, p. 219, § 17; Cd. '81, § 1955; 1 H. C., § 1693; L. '93, p. 434, § 19.]

§ 1181. (5949.) Damages for Eloigning or Removing Marks, etc.—Recoverable When.

Any person who shall eloin, injure or destroy, or who shall render difficult, uncertain or impossible of identification any saw-logs, spars, piles, shingles or other timber upon which there is a lien as herein provided, without the express consent of the person entitled to such lien shall be liable to the lienholder for the damages to the amount secured by his lien, and it being shown to the court in the civil action to enforce said lien, it shall be the duty of the court to enter a personal judgment for the amount in such action against the said person, provided he be a party to such action, or the damages may be recovered by a civil action against such person. [Cf. L. '77, p. 219, § 18; Cd. '81, § 1956; 1 H. C., § 1694; L. '93, p. 434, § 20.]

Cited in 5 Wash. 383; 8 Wash. 475, 578; 9 Wash. 505, 506; 12 Wash. 537; 27 Wash. 109; 50 Wash. 416.

This section, in so far as it authorizes a personal judgment against the eloigner of property subject to a lien without the right to a trial by jury, is void: McCoy v. Spithill, 13 Wash. 158.

A personal judgment against a third party for damages is unwarranted when the act of eloignment was committed prior to the taking effect of this law: Garneau v. Port Blakeley Mill Co., 8 Wash. 467; also a judgment for damages when there is no proof of the value of the logs: Id.

Under § 1694, 1 Hill's Code, the action of the holder of a lien upon saw-logs for damages by reason of their being sawed into lumber, destroying identification, is not of equitable cognizance, but at law, and where the judgment is for less than $200 an appeal will not lie: Tom the Cook v. Sayward, 5 Wash. 383.

In an action for damages for the destruction of certain logs, defendant cannot set up as a counterclaim that the logs had been sold to defendant, and that in a former case plaintiff had secured a foreclosure of his lien and a sale of a portion of the logs which had not been destroyed: Peterson v. Sayward, 9 Wash. 503.

An action for damages may be maintained against persons injuring or destroying logs, and the complaint states a cause of action when it alleges that plaintiff performed work on a certain boom of logs, for which they filed their lien notices within the statutory time; that the logs were sold to defendants, who, knowing the logs were subject to liens, sawed them into lumber without the consent of plaintiffs, etc.: Id.; a prior adjudication to establish the liens is not necessary to maintain the action: Id.

In an action to foreclose loggers' liens the person who destroyed the identity of the logs to which the right of lien attached cannot be made a party defendant for the purpose of being made to respond in damages, but the remedy of the laborers is to bring separate actions against their employers for the sum due, and under § 1694, 1 Hill's Code, they have another right of action against the person sawing up and destroying the identity of the logs for the actual damages suffered by them: Singer v. Wallace, 8 Wash. 576.

In an action for damages for destroying the identification and removal of lumber for which a lien is claimed there is no appellate jurisdiction if the amount is less than $200: Chapin v. Kenoyer, 12 Wash. 530.

In an action to foreclose loggers' liens and for damages against an eloigner of the property, the joinder of the law and equity actions will not deprive the one charged with eloignment of the right to trial by jury: McCoy v. Spithill, 13 Wash. 158.

In an action foreclosing liens on certain logs, and for damages against a defendant for the eloignment of logs, it is error in entering personal judgment against the eloigner to tax as costs attorney's and receiver's fees allowed in the matter of the foreclosure: Grimm v. Pacific Creosoting Co., 50 Wash. 415.

In an action to foreclose liens upon several booms of logs, two of which had been eloigned and removed from the jurisdiction of the court by a defendant, he is a proper party to the foreclosure action, where it is alleged that he had also purchased the booms within the jurisdiction of the court, and damages may be awarded against him for the eloignment, and his demurrer for misjoinder of causes of action is properly overruled: Id.

CHAPTER VIII.

LIENS ON STEAMERS, BOATS, ETC.

§ 1182. (5953.*) Vessels, etc., Liable for Liens, When.

All steamers, vessels and boats, their tackle, apparel and furniture, are liable—

1. For service rendered on board at the request of, or under contract with, their respective owners, charterers, masters, agents or consignees.

2. For work done or material furnished in this state for their construction, repair or equipment at the request of their respective owners, charterers, masters, agents, consignees, contractors, subcontractors, or other person or persons having charge in whole or in part of their construction, alteration, repair or equipment; and every contractor, builder or person having charge, either in whole or in part, of the construction, alteration, repair or equipment of any steamer, vessel or boat, shall be held to be the agent of the owner for the purposes of this chapter, and for supplies furnished in this state for their use, at the request of their respective owners, charterers, masters, agents or consignees, and any person having charge, either in whole or in part, of the purchasing of supplies for the use of any such steamer, vessel or boat, shall be held to be the agent of the owner for the purposes of this chapter.

3. For their wharfage and anchorage within this state.

4. For nonperformance or malperformance of any contract for the transportation of persons or property between places within this state, or to or from places within this state, made by their respective owners, masters, agents or consignees.

5. For injuries committed by them to persons or property within this state, or while transporting such persons or property to or from this state. Demands for these several causes constitute liens upon all steamers, vessels and boats, and their tackle, apparel and furniture, and have priority in the order of the subdivisions hereinbefore enumerated, and have preference over all other demands; but such liens continue in force only for a period of three years from the time the cause of action accrued. [L. '01, p. 21, § 1. Cf. L. '58, p. 29, § 1; L. '77, p. 216, § 1; Cd. '81, § 1939; 1 H. C., § 1678.]

Maritime liens: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1796, 1797, §§ 1-8; Callahan v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 33 Wash. 583.

This section gives a lien for damages by a vessel to the pier of a bridge: West v. Martin, 51 Wash. 85.

Doubt expressed as to the power of the legislature to confer jurisdiction upon courts to entertain an in rem proceeding in admiralty, for materials furnished in the building of a vessel: Waddell v. Str. Daisy, 2 W. T. 76.

In determining whether a contract for the furnishing of materials in the construction of a vessel is a maritime contract, the test is, not the location of the hull, as to being on the ways or afloat, but rather, was she so far finished at the time that anything further done upon or about her would in its nature be maritime: Id.

Where it appears that a person has a contract for the furnishing of machinery for a vessel, and the materials of a third person, who had full knowledge, were used in the construction of such machinery, and it appearing that the owner of the steam vessel, or his agent, authorized the using of said materials, the steamer is not liable for the same: Id.

The libel averring that the material was used in the building of the vessel, demonstrates that the contract was not maritime, and that this court is without jurisdiction in rem: Id.

Under this chapter, providing for enforcing liens by civil action against vessels, for labor and materials furnished, there may be a decree of lien and foreclosure of the same, upon a vessel for the price of machinery and other material used in its construction; and such statute is valid, although it may contain no provision for recording the lien, nor any provision authorizing the seizure of the vessel pending the litigation: Wash. I. W. Co. v. Jensen, 3 Wash. 584.

The foreclosure of a lien upon a vessel, and the appointment of a receiver, being matters of an equitable nature, in an action wherein such relief is sought, is properly brought on the equity side of the court: Id.

Materialmen have no lien upon a domestic vessel, in her home port, or that in which the owner resides. Peculiar circumstances, such as mentioned in the opinion, may qualify this rule: Price v. Frankel, 1 W. T. 33.

The common law, not favoring liens, deems a surrender of possession a waiver of lien: Id.

The statute of California, providing liability against vessels for supplies and materials furnished within that state, creates no lien upon vessels until proceedings are instituted to enforce the liability as contemplated by that statute. There being no such lien created in this case, this court sitting in admiralty can exercise no jurisdiction: Id.

This and the following section require that maritime torts be enforced in admiralty, and state courts have no jurisdiction thereof: West v. Martin, 47 Wash. 417.

Objection to the jurisdiction of the state superior court over an action to enforce a lien for damages against a vessel is not waived by the giving of a bond for the release of the vessel, conditioned to pay any judgment that might be recovered on the cause of action, where the bond is expressly stated to be a substitute for any security or claim the plaintiff might have against the vessel: West v. Martin, 47 Wash. 417.

In the absence of special proceedings in the foreclosure of liens upon vessels, it is within the power of the court, sitting as a court of chancery, to appoint a receiver to take charge of the property pending such proceedings: Wash. I. W. Co. v. Jensen, supra.

It is the settled rule in the construction of lien laws that the legislature will not be presumed to have provided a lien for the claims of persons, not in privity with the owner of the property against which the lien is sought, unless such provision is made in unequivocal language; and such intention does not appear in the language of our lien law, but a fair construction shows the contrary: Waddell v. Str. Daisy, supra.

The personal representatives of passengers killed in a collision can maintain a suit in admiralty in a federal court against the vessel in fault, when the local law gives them a right of action, and makes the damages a lien on the vessel as provided in this chapter and in §§ 183, 194: The Premier (Wash.), 59 Fed. 797.

§ 1183. (5954.) Enforcement of Liens.

Such liens may be enforced, in all cases of maritime contracts or service, by a suit in admiralty, in rem, and the law regulating proceedings in admiralty shall govern in all such suits; and in all cases of contracts or service not maritime, by a civil action in any district court of this territory. [L. '77, p. 216, § 2; Cd. '81, § 1940.]

See § 1186, infra.

§ 1184. Liens for Services of Stevedores.

All steamers, vessels and boats, their tackle, apparel and furniture shall be held liable at all ports and places within this state or within the jurisdiction of the courts of this state or within the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States in said state for services rendered by stevedores, longshoremen or others engaged in the loading, unloading, stowing or dunnaging of cargo in or from any steamer, vessel or boat in any harbor or at any other place within said state, or within the jurisdiction of the courts thereof as above stated, and said steamers, vessels and boats shall further be liable as per their contracts for all services performed upon wharfs or landing places by stevedores, longshoremen or others: Provided, that such services must have been so performed in and about and be connected with the loading, unloading, dunnaging or stowing of said cargo. [L. '01, p. 136, § 1.]

§ 1185. Priority.

Demands for wages and all sums due under contracts or otherwise for the performance of all or any of the services mentioned in the last preceding section shall constitute liens upon all steamers, vessels and boats, their tackle, apparel and furniture, and shall have priority over all other demands save and excepting the demands mentioned in the first three subdivisions of section 1182, supra, to which said demands the lien hereby provided shall be subordinate: Provided, that such liens shall only continue in force for the period of three years from the date when such work was done or the last services performed by such stevedores, longshoremen or others. [L. '01, p. 137, § 2.]

§ 1186. Suits in Rem.

The liens hereby created may be enforced by a suit, in rem, and the law regulating like proceedings shall govern in all such suits. [L. '01, p. 137, § 3.]

See, also, § 1183, supra.

§ 1187. Liens for Towage and Dunnage.

Whenever the owner, charterer, or any person or corporation operating, managing or controlling any steamship, vessel or boat shall willfully fail, neglect or refuse to carry out or perform any express contract or portion thereof for the towing, loading, unloading, dunnaging or stevedoring of such steamship, vessel or boat, any person or persons, firm or corporation sustaining thereby any loss or damage which is capable of definite ascertainment shall have a lien upon such steamship, vessel or boat for said loss or damage. The rank and priority of the lien hereby created and the manner of its enforcement shall be fixed, controlled and regulated by the provisions of the existing law pertaining to liens for similar services already performed. [L. '03, p. 286, § 1.]

CHAPTER IX.LIENS ON FARM PRODUCTS.*§ 1188. (5957.) Farm Laborers' and Landlords' Liens.

Any person who shall do labor upon any farm or land, in tilling the same or in sowing or harvesting or threshing any grain, as laborer, contractor, or otherwise, or laboring upon, or securing or assisting in securing or housing any crop or crops sown, raised, or threshed thereon during the year in which said work or labor was done, such person shall have a lien upon all such crops as shall have been raised upon all or any of such land, for such work or labor, and every landlord shall have a lien upon the crops grown or growing upon the demised lands of any year for the rents accrued or acquiring for such year, whether the same is paid wholly or in part in money or specific articles of property, or products of the premises, or labor, and also for the faithful performance of the lease; and the lien created by the provisions of this section shall be a preferred lien, and shall be prior to all other liens. [Cf. L. '79, p. 150, § 1; Cd. '81, § 1975; L. '86, p. 114, § 1; L. '91, p. 144, § 1; 1 H. C., § 1695.]

Cited in 10 Wash. 174; 14 Wash. 624, 625; 40 Wash. 201.

Agricultural liens: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 56, 57, §§ 1-6.

Employer cannot claim lien covering the labor of his employees. The above section was intended to secure and protect the personal earnings of laborers, and not to give a lien to contractors who hire the services of others. The lien is given to laborers actually performing the services with their teams or other implements of labor: Mohr v. Clark, 3 W. T. 440.

One who harvests and threshes grain is entitled to a lien thereon for wages, unless there is something in the nature of his contract showing that he did not look to such property for security. Leaving the grain thus harvested and threshed on the premises of the owner in charge of a third person is not a waiver of the lien against an attaching creditor with knowledge of the claim of lien: Hogue v. Sheriff of Lewis Co., 1 W. T. 172.

Farm labor statute giving liens held constitutional: Essency v. Essency, 10

Wash. 375; but under the statute no lien can be claimed for a team, but might be maintained for a person and a team where there is no separate specification of contract price for person and team: Id.

The lien given by this section to laborers for work in growing farm crops is superior to all other liens thereon, including that of a prior chattel mortgage: Sitton v. Dubois, 14 Wash. 624.

An act giving farm laborers priority over all other liens upon crops which they have assisted in raising is not unconstitutional as impairing the obligation of contracts, although the crop had been mortgaged in advance of the labor thereon, where such act was in force at the time of the execution of the mortgage, and must therefore have entered into and formed a part of the contract: Id.

In an action to foreclose a laborer's lien on a certain quantity of wheat upon which it was alleged that a number of defendants had, or claimed, a lien, one defendant is not entitled to set up by cross-complaint that a codefendant converted the property to his own use to the cross-complainant's damage, as such claim relates to matters not embraced in the original complaint: Hill v. Frink, 11 Wash. 562.

In an action to enforce a laborer's lien upon certain farm products, evidence is competent which tends to show that plaintiff was in fact interested in the contract made by the owners of the products with another for the raising of the crops, and that the cost of production of such crops had been fully paid under the contract: Essency v. Essency, supra.

§ 1189. (5958.) Priority of Liens.

The liens provided for in the last section are preferred liens, and are prior to any other liens or encumbrance upon said crop or crops, except that the interest of any lessor in any portion of the crop raised where the premises are leased in consideration of a share of the crop raised, shall not be subject to such lien. [L. '79, p. 150, § 2; Cd. '81, § 1976; L. '83, p. 45, § 5.]

§ 1190. (5959.) Claim to be Verified and Filed—How Enforced.

Any person claiming the benefit of this chapter must, within forty days after the close of said work and labor, or after the expiration of the term, or after the expiration of each year of the lease, for which any lands were demised, file for record with the county auditor of the county in which said work and labor was performed, or said demised lands are situated, a claim which shall be in substance in accordance with the provisions of section 1168, so far as the same may be applicable, which said claim shall be verified as in said section provided, and said liens may be enforced in a civil action in the same manner, as near as may be, as provided in section 1172: Provided, that the lien hereby created in favor of landlords shall only apply when the lease has been recorded. [Cf. L. '79, p. 150, § 3; Cd. '81, § 1977; L. '86, p. 115, § 2; L. '88, p. 130, § 1; 1 H. C., § 1696.]

Compare Code of 1881, § 1978, rights secured to lienholders.

Cited in 11 Wash. 174.

Under this section giving farm laborers liens, all may join in filing claims, but the verification may be made by one of the number: Payne v. Isaacs, 10 Wash. 173; and in such case an attorney's fee may be allowed: Id.; see Cheveret v. Mechanics' Mill Co., 4 Wash. 721.

A farm laborer's lien, when it appears that his labor was concluded more than forty days prior to the filing of the lien notice, his lien will be defeated: Payne v. Isaacs, supra.

In a claim of lien for farm labor where no demurrer is interposed for deficiency of description in the lien notice, the defect is cured by the decree of foreclosure: Id.

In a particular case of foreclosure on wheat a judgment was rendered for plaintiffs against attaching creditors of the tenant: Id.; and in such action against the tenant to enforce farm laborer's lien the landlord is neither a proper or necessary party: Id.

A notice of lien describing products as eight hundred and fifty sacks of wheat raised on certain described premises, without locating or describing the sacks, is insufficient, and cannot be amended: Dexter v. Olson, 40 Wash. 199.

Where nonlienable items are willfully and intentionally inserted in claim of lien along with lienable items, a court of equity will refuse to enforce the lien for any portion of the claim: See Robinson v. Brooks, 31 Wash. 60.

§ 1190a. (5984.) Provisions Extended to Farm Laborers.

All rights secured to the holders of liens upon logs, under the provisions of chapter VII, shall inure to the benefit of those holding liens under the provisions of this chapter, and the said lienholders hereunder, shall have the same right to have their liens recorded, the same right of foreclosure, of joinder of parties, of judgment over against the person primarily liable, and against any person who shall injure or impair their lien or any of their rights, as are above secured to the holders of liens upon logs, under said chapter VII. [Cd. '81, § 1978.]

"This chapter" in the Code of 1881 included chapters IX, XIII and XIV of this Title; but this section relates only to chapter IX.

This section is still in force: Pain v. Isaacs, 10 Wash. 173, 174; Gleason v. Tacoma Hotel Co., 16 Wash. 412, 416.

CHAPTER X.

LIENS FOR STORAGE AND ADVANCED CHARGES.

§ 1191. (5963.) When Lien Exists.

Whenever property upon which charges for advances, freight, transportation, wharfage, or storage, due and unpaid, and a lien shall remain and be held in store by the person or persons in whose favor such lien exists uncalled for, it shall be lawful for such person or persons to cause such property to be sold as is herein provided. [Cd. '81, § 1980; 1 H. C., § 1699.]

Lien of carriers: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 438, §§ 34, 35; Moses v. Port Townsend etc. R. Co., 5 Wash. 595; Koyukuk Mining Co. v. Van De Vanter, 30 Wash. 385.

§ 1192. (5964.) When Certain Property may be Sold for Charges.

If said property consists of livestock, the maintenance of which at the place where kept is wasteful and expensive in proportion to the value of the animals, or other of the perishable property liable, if kept, to destruction, waste, or great depreciation, the person or persons having such lien may sell the same upon giving ten days' notice. [Cd. '81, § 1981; 1 H. C., § 1700; see L. '63, p. 421, § 2.]

§ 1193. (5965.) When Other Property may be Sold.

All other property upon which such charges may be unpaid, due, and a lien, after the same shall have remained in store uncalled for for a period of thirty days after such charges shall have become due, may be sold by the person or persons having a lien for the payment of such charges upon giving ten days' notice: Provided, that where the property can be conveniently divided into separate lots or parcels, no more lots or parcels shall be sold than shall be sufficient to pay the charges due on the day of sale, and the expenses of the sale. [Cd. '81, § 1982; 1 H. C., § 1701.]

§ 1194. (5966.) Application of Proceeds of Sale.

The moneys arising from sales made under the provisions of this chapter shall first be applied to the payment of the costs and expenses of the sale, and then to the payment of the lawful charges of the person or persons having a lien thereon for advances, freight, transportation, wharfage, or storage, for whose benefit the sale shall have been made; the surplus, if any, shall be retained, subject to the future lawful charge of the person or persons for whose benefit the sale was made, upon the property of the same owner still remaining in store uncalled for, if any there be, and to the demand of the owner of the property who shall have paid such charges or otherwise satisfied such lien, and all moneys remaining uncalled for, for the period of three months, shall be paid to the county treasurer, and shall remain in his hands a special fund for the benefit of the lawful claimant thereof. [Cd. '81, § 1983; 1 H. C., § 1702.]

Cited in 30 Wash. 391.

§ 1195. (5967.) Special Contract not Affected.

Nothing in this chapter contained shall be so construed as to alter or affect the terms of any special contract in writing, made by the parties, as to the advances, affreightment, wharfage, or storage; but when any such special contract shall have been made, its terms shall govern, irrespective of this chapter. [Cd. '81, § 1984; 1 H. C., § 1703.]

§ 1196. (5968.) Notices, How Given.

All notices required under this chapter shall be given as is or may be by law provided in cases of sales of personal property upon execution. [Cd. '81, § 1985; 1 H. C., § 1704.]

CHAPTER XI.

LIENS FOR KEEPING LIVESTOCK.

§ 1197. (5971.*) Creation of Lien.

Any farmer, ranchman, herder of cattle, tavern keeper, livery and boarding stable keeper or any other person, to whom any horses, mules, cattle or sheep shall be intrusted for the purpose of feeding, herding, pasturing, and training, caring for or ranching, shall have a lien upon said horses, mules, cattle or sheep for such amount that may be due for said feeding, herding, pasturing, training, caring for, and ranching, and shall be authorized to retain possession of said horses, mules or cattle or sheep, until said amount is paid. [L. '09, p. 636, § 1. Cf. L. '91, p. 151, § 1; 1 H. C., § 1705.]

Agister's liens: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 63, § 1; Lafond v. Smith, 8 Wash. 26; Hooker v. McAllister, 12 Wash. 46.

Where a horse trainer entitled to a lien for services under this section accepts a bill of sale or chattel mortgage on the horse, he loses his priority over a mortgagee whose lien accrued subsequent to the rendition of service: Murray v. Guse, 10 Wash. 25.

§ 1198. (5972.) Enforcement.

Any person having a lien under the provisions of the last preceding section may enforce the same by an action in any court of competent jurisdiction; and said property may be sold on execution for the purpose of satisfying the amount of such judgment and costs of sale, together with the proper costs of keeping the same up to the time of said sale. [L. '91, p. 151, § 2; 1 H. C., § 1706.]

The "last preceding section" applies to the act of 1891, page 151, § 1, which expressly excepted "stolen stock" from liens for keeping, and omitted the words "any other person." Otherwise it was the same as § 1197.

Cited in 36 Wash. 129.

§ 1199. Possession to Secure Lien—Sale—Notice.

Any person having a lien under the provisions of section 1197 for feeding, herding, pasturing, training, caring for, or ranching any horses, mules, cattle or sheep, shall retain such animal for a period of ten (10) days, at the expiration of which time, if the owner of such animal does not satisfy such lien, the sheriff or any constable may sell such animal at public auction after giving the owner ten days' notice of the time and place of such sale by delivering a copy of such notice to the owner, or in case personal service cannot be had, by publishing same in a newspaper of general circulation in said county where said feeding, herding, pasturing, training, caring for, and ranching was furnished; if there be no paper of general circulation in said county, then by posting notices of the time and place of such sale in three conspicuous places in said county, and after satisfying the lien and costs that may accrue, any residue remaining shall be paid to the owner of said animal or person who may be lawfully entitled to the same. [L. '09, p. 636, § 2.]

§ 1200. No Waiver by Delivery—Action to Enforce.

Whenever any horses, mules, cattle or sheep shall be intrusted for the purpose of feeding, herding, pasturing, training, caring for, and ranching to any farmer, ranchman, herder of cattle, tavern keeper, livery or boarding stable-keeper, continuously for some time, either definite or indefinite, the voluntary delivery of the same to the owner or his agent shall not waive or defeat the lien provided for in section 1197, and the person having such lien may enforce his lien against said property in any court of competent jurisdiction at any time within ten (10) days after parting with the possession thereof: Provided, that such lien shall not attach to the interest nor affect the rights of a third person who may have acquired an interest in or title to an animal against which a lien is claimed, for value and without knowledge of the claimed lien, while such animal is not in possession of the claimant. [L. '09, p. 637, § 3.]

CHAPTER XII.

LIENS OF INNKEEPERS AND THEIR LIABILITY.

§ 1201. (5975.) Lien upon Baggage, etc.

Hereafter all hotel-keepers, innkeepers, lodging-house keepers, and boarding-house keepers in this state shall have a lien upon the baggage, property, or other valuables of their guests, lodgers, or boarders brought into such hotel, inn, lodging-house, or boarding-house by such guests, lodgers, or boarders, for the proper charges due from such guests, lodgers, or boarders for their accommodation, board, or lodging, and such other extras as are furnished at their request, and shall have the right to retain in their possession such baggage, property, or other valuables until such charges are fully paid, and to sell such baggage, property, or other valuables for the payment of such charges in the manner provided in the next succeeding section of this chapter. [L. '90, p. 96, § 1; 1 H. C., § 2710.]

Cited in 38 Wash. 412.

Innkeeper's liens: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1511, § 2.

An innkeeper has no lien upon samples of a traveling salesman where he was aware at the time of giving credit that the samples belonged to the salesman's employer: Wertheimer etc. Co. v. Hotel Stevens Co., 38 Wash. 409.

§ 1202. (5976.) Sale to Satisfy Lien—Notice.

Whenever any baggage, property, or other valuables which have been retained by any hotel-keeper, innkeeper, lodging-house keeper, or boarding-house keeper in his possession by virtue of the provision of the next preceding section of this chapter shall remain unredeemed for the period of three months after the same shall have been so retained, then it shall be lawful for such hotel-keeper, innkeeper, lodging-house keeper, or boarding-house keeper to sell such baggage, property, or other valuables at public auction, after giving the owner thereof ten days' notice of the time and place of such sale, through the postoffice, or by advertising in some newspaper published in the county where such sale is made, or by posting notices in three conspicuous places in such county, and out of the proceeds of such sale to pay all legal charges due from the owner of such baggage, property, or other valuables, including proper charges for storage of the same, and the overplus, if any, shall be paid to the owner upon demand. [L. '90, p. 96, § 2; 1 H. C., § 2711.]

§ 1203. (5977.) Responsibility Limited.

No innkeeper who constantly has in his inn an iron safe or suitable vault in good order, and fit for the safe custody of money, bank notes, jewelry, articles of gold and silver manufacture, precious stones and bullion, and who keeps a copy of this section, printed by itself in large, plain Roman type, and framed, constantly and conspicuously suspended in the office, barroom, saloon, reading, sitting, and parlor room of his inn, and also a copy printed by itself in ordinary-sized plain Roman type, posted upon the inside of the entrance door of every public sleeping room of his inn, shall be liable for the loss of any such article suffered by any guest, unless such guest has first offered to deliver such property lost by him to such innkeeper for custody in such iron safe or vault, and such innkeeper has refused or neglected to receive and deposit such property in his safe or vault, and to give such guest a receipt therefor: Provided, that all doors to rooms furnished to guests shall be provided with slide-bolts inside of such rooms on all doors; otherwise he shall be liable; but every innkeeper shall be liable for any loss of the above enumerated articles by a guest in his inn, when caused by the theft or negligence of the innkeeper or any of his servants. [L. '90, p. 95, § 1; 1 H. C., § 2712.]

CHAPTER XIII.

PREFERENCE RIGHTS OF EMPLOYEES.

§ 1204. (5981.) Priority of Wages, etc., in Insolvency.

In all assignments of property made by any person to trustees or assignees on account of the inability of the person at the time of the assignment to pay his debts, or in proceedings in insolvency the wages of the miners, mechanics, salesmen, servants, clerks, or laborers employed by such persons to the amount of one hundred dollars each, and for services rendered within sixty days previously, are preferred claims, and must be paid by such trustees or assignees before any other creditor or creditors of the assignor. [L. '77, p. 223, § 34; Cd. '81, § 1972; 1 H. C., § 3122.]

Cited in 17 Wash. 186.

§ 1205. (5982.) Preference on Death of Employer.

In case of the death of any employer, the wages of each miner, mechanic, salesman, clerk, servant, and laborer for services rendered within sixty days next preceding the death of the employer, not exceeding one hundred dollars, rank in priority next after the funeral expenses, expenses of the last sickness, the charges and expenses of administering upon the estate, and the allowance to the widow and infant children, and must be paid before other claims against the estate of the deceased person. [L. '77, p. 223, § 35; Cd. '81, § 1973; 1 H. C., § 3123.]

See infra, § 1568, order of payment of debts of estates.

§ 1206. (5983.) Notice and Presentment of Claims.

In cases of executions, attachments, and writs of similar nature issued against any person, except for claims for labor done, any miners, mechanics, salesmen, servants, clerks, and laborers who have claims against the defendant for labor done, may give notice of their claims and the amount thereof, sworn to by the person making the claim to the creditor and the officer executing either of such writs at any time before the actual sale of property levied on, and unless such claim is disputed by the debtor or a creditor, such officer must pay to such person, out of the proceeds of the sale, the amount each is entitled to receive for services rendered within sixty days next preceding the levy of the writ, not exceeding one hundred dollars. If any or all the claims so presented and claiming preference under this chapter are disputed by either the debtor or a creditor, the person presenting the same must commence an action within ten days from [for] the recovery thereof, and must prosecute his action with due diligence, or be forever barred from any claim of priority of payment thereof; and the officer shall retain possession of so much of the proceeds of the sale as may be necessary to satisfy such claim, until the determination of such action; and in case judgment be had for the claim or any part thereof, carrying costs, the costs taxable therein shall likewise be a preferred claim, with the same rank as the original claim. [L. '77, p. 223, § 36; Cd. '81, § 1974; 1 H. C., § 3124.]

Cited in 6 Wash. 621; 16 Wash. 413, 697.

Where property was attached, but before judgment the action was dismissed by plaintiff, and a chattel mortgage taken and foreclosed thereon, the fact that certain labor claim notices under this section were served in the original action will not give such claimants a cause of action against the mortgagee: Wells v. Columbia Nat. Bank, 6 Wash. 621.

As to claims for labor against property levied on, see Gleason v. Tacoma Hotel Co., 16 Wash. 412.

CHAPTER XIV.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF STATUTES RELATING TO LIENS.

§ 1208. (5985.) Construction of Lien Law.

In construing the provisions of the lien law, words used in the masculine gender include the feminine and neuter, the singular number includes the plural, and the plural the singular; the word "person" includes a corporation as well as a natural person, and the word "writing" includes printing. [L. '77, p. 224, § 37; Cd. '81, § 1979; 1 H. C., § 1707.]

See supra, §§ 144-148, construction of terms in general.

§ 1209. (5986.) Extent of Lien Law.

This act establishes the law of this state respecting the subject to which it relates, and its provisions and all proceedings under it are to be liberally construed with a view to effect its object. [L. '77, p. 224, § 39; Cd. '81, § 1979; 1 H. C., § 1980.]

"This act" in Laws of 1877, refers to liens of mechanics, loggers, and others, now covered in this title.

See supra, § 144, construction of statutes in general.

See supra, § 1147, construction.

CHAPTER I.

THE COMPETENCY OF WITNESSES.

§ 1210. (5990.) Who may Testify.

Every person of sound mind and suitable age and discretion, except as hereinafter provided, may be a witness in any action or proceeding. [L. '54, p. 186, § 289; Cd. '81, § 388; 2 H. C., § 1645.]

See supra, § 81, examination of witnesses before legislative committee.

See supra, § 339, mode and procedure.

See supra, § 348, juror may be examined as witness.

See infra, § 2158, trial and procedure in criminal cases.

Capacity and qualifications of witnesses in general: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2887, §§ 10-26; State v. Bailey, 31 Wash. 89; State v. White, 10 Wash. 611; Birkel v. Chandler, 26 Wash. 241; State v. Dolan, 17 Wash. 499; Bullock v. White Star Steamship Co., 30 Wash. 443; Maitland v. Zanga, 14 Wash. 92; State v. Bringgold, 40 Wash. 12; Kellogg v. Scheuerman, 18 Wash. 293; Klehn v. Territory, 1 Wash. 584; Czarecki v. Seattle & S. F. Ry. & Nav. Co., 30 Wash. 288; State v. Melvern, 32 Wash. 7.

The statutes (1863) relative to witnesses and evidence do not alter the common-law rule that an accessory before the fact is not a competent witness on behalf of the prisoner: Edwards v. Territory, 1 W. T. 195.

§ 1211. (5991.) Not Excluded on Ground of Interest, Exception.

No person offered as a witness shall be excluded from giving evidence by reason of his interest in the event of the action, as a party thereto or otherwise; but such interest may be shown to affect his credibility: Provided, however, That in an action or proceeding where the adverse party sues or defends as executor, administrator, or legal representative of any deceased person, or as deriving right or title by, through, or from any deceased person, or as the guardian or conservator of the estate of any insane person, or of any minor under the age of fourteen years, then a party in interest or to the record shall not be admitted to testify in his own behalf as to any transaction had by him with or any statement made to him by any such deceased or insane person, or by any such minor under the age of fourteen years: Provided further, that this exclusion shall not apply to parties of record who sue or defend in a representative or fiduciary capacity, and who have no other or further interest in the action. [Cf. L. '54, p. 186, § 290; L. '67, p. 88, § 1; L. '73, p. 106, § 382; Cd. '81, § 389; L. '90, p. 91, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1646.]

See infra, § 1213, who incompetent.

See infra, § 1214, who disqualified.

See infra, § 1402, notes, proceedings in certain cases.

Cited in 2 Wash. 425; 6 Wash. 85; 12 Wash. 471; 13 Wash. 553; 14 Wash. 136; 17 Wash. 518; 24 Wash. 228, 672; 26 Wash. 49, 57; 27 Wash. 187; 29 Wash. 83; 30 Wash. 193; 31 Wash. 37; 34 Wash. 374; 42 Wash. 113; 43 Wash. 244; 45 Wash. 110, 111; 46 Wash. 251, 310; 47 Wash. 258; 48 Wash. 653; 49 Wash. 344; 50 Wash. 380.

Testimony of parties or persons interested, for or against representatives, survivors, or successors in title or interest of persons deceased or incompetent: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2890-2893, §§ 30-48; Spencer v. Terrell, 17 Wash. 514; In re Alfstad's Estate, 27 Wash. 175; Kline v. Stein, 30 Wash. 189; Reynolds v. Reynolds, 42 Wash. 107; Marvin v. Yates, 26 Wash. 50; Whitney v. Priest, 26 Wash. 48; O'Toole v. Faulkner, 34 Wash. 371; Bay View Brewing Co. v. Grubb, 31 Wash. 34; Carr v. Jones, 29 Wash. 78; Newman v. Buzard, 24 Wash. 225; Rauh v. Scholl, 19 Wash. 30; Sackman v. Thomas, 24 Wash. 660; Erickson v. Modern Woodmen, 43 Wash. 242.

Under this section, in an action by an administrator against a son of the deceased, for appropriation of property belonging to the estate, a brother of the defendant is not interested adversely to the estate and may testify therein: McCoy v. Ayers, 2 W. T. 307.

The rule prohibiting conversations between a deceased person and a party in interest extends to a stockholder in a corporation, which is a party to an action, in which the stockholder is the real party in interest: Gilmore v. H. W. Baker Co., 12 Wash. 468; the reason of the rule is to require one to remain silent as to any transaction had by him with a deceased person: Id., 472; see Wolferman v. Bell, 6 Wash. 84, 85.

Where parties claim title in lands by, through or from a deceased person the declarations of the decedent to either party to the record cannot be testified to by them under this section: Smith v. Taylor, 2 Wash. 422, 425. The words "legal representative" as used in this section are not synonymous with "personal representative": Id.

The death of a party to an action and the substitution of his legal representative will not render inadmissible the deposition of an adverse party in interest, when at the time the deposition was taken the testimony of the witness was competent: Neis v. Farquharson, 9 Wash. 508.

In an action to recover for services as a domestic in the family of a decedent, testimony is admissible on the part of plaintiff to show that he was employed in the house of the decedent, and the character of the work performed by him there, as such testimony does not come within the prohibition of this section prohibiting testimony of conversations had with a deceased person: Ah How v. Furth, 13 Wash. 550.

In an action upon a promissory note alleged to have been executed by a decedent, and to which the defense has been set up that it is a forgery, evidence of statements made by decedent at about the time of the date of the note is admissible for the purpose of showing the improbability of his having executed it: Moore v. Palmer, 14 Wash. 134.

The rule prohibiting the introduction in evidence of conversations held between a deceased person and a party in interest will exclude the testimony of a stockholder in a corporation, which is a party to an action brought by the representatives of a decedent's estate upon a lease, when such stockholder, at the time of the alleged conversation, which was prior to the formation of the corporation to which he had assigned the lease, was the real party in interest. A party at whose request incompetent testimony has been admitted cannot complain of the errors: Gilmore v. The H. W. Baker Co., 12 Wash. 468.

The rule excluding the testimony of an interested party in an action against the executor of a deceased person will apply to one who has conveyed away his interest in the land which is the subject matter of the action by a deed absolute on its face, but in reality only a mortgage, even though, for the purpose of rendering his testimony competent, he executes a release of his right to redeem: Thorne v. Joy 15 Wash. 83.

Agreements and arrangements entered into with a deceased person cannot be given in evidence in an action against his executor by parties whose interests are adverse, even if competent as to another defendant in the action, when the relief sought against such other defendant is incidental to the principal object sought by the action against such executor, and when the court has not been sufficiently advised as to the restrictive purpose for which the evidence was offered: Id.

In an action between alleged partners, one of whom was insane, an adverse party cannot testify as to who composed the partnership under this section: Chlopeck v. Chlopeck, 47 Wash. 256.

This section does not disqualify an interested party, defending as administratrix, from testifying on behalf of the estate of such deceased as to such transactions had with him: O'Connor v. Slatter, 46 Wash. 308.

A widow, defending as executrix of her deceased husband's estate, does not waive her right to object to evidence by the adverse party as to transactions with the deceased by the fact that she fully testified to the same, since under our statute her testimony was competent and not barred by the statute: O'Connor v. Slatter, 48 Wash. 493.

In an action to recover an interest in property as an heir of defendant's alleged wife, the defendant is incompetent to testify that he was never married to the deceased, since it would be evidence of a transaction between himself and the deceased: Nelson v. Carlson, 48 Wash. 651.

A plaintiff claiming under a contract with a person since deceased may testify as to transactions between himself and a third person and as to services performed by him which appear to be the consideration for the contract, and the same does not fall within the statute prohibiting testimony of a transaction had with, or statements made to or by, a deceased person: Kauffman v. Baillie, 46 Wash. 248.

This section applies to transactions or statements prior to the date of the amending enactment, and is constitutional, since it merely declares a rule of evidence and relates only to the remedy, in which there is no vested right: Kenney Presbyterian Home v. Kenney, 45 Wash. 106.

Testimony by the adverse party as to whether notes had been changed since he received them from a person since deceased is inadmissible, because testimony of a transaction had with the deceased, being indirectly testimony as to their condition when received from the deceased: O'Connor v. Slatter, 48 Wash. 493.

The son of one of the parties is not incompetent to testify as to conversations had with the deceased, since a prospective heir is not a party in interest: In re Sloan's Estate, 50 Wash. 86.

In an action to enjoin the removal of timber sold by plaintiff to one M., who sold the same to defendants, brought after the death of M., the plaintiff is incompetent to testify to the transaction between himself and M. upon an issue as to the terms of the contract under this section: Preston v. Hill-Wilson Shingle Co., 50 Wash. 377.

This section does not exclude evidence as to who was or was not present at the time certain notes were indorsed by the deceased: O'Connor v. Slatter, 48 Wash. 493.

In an action by an administrator to recover money paid by the deceased upon a settlement, a question as to what transpired at the settlement and all about it is objectionable, as calling for statements made by the deceased contrary to this section: Moylan v. Moylan, 49 Wash. 341.

Credibility and impeachment, in general: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2903, 2904, §§ 97-101; State v. Hoshor, 26 Wash. 643; Smith v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 481; State v. McPhail, 39 Wash. 199; State v. Melvern, 32 Wash. 7; Keim v. Rankin, 40 Wash. 111; State v. Shelton, 16 Wash. 590; Shoemaker v. Bryant Lum. & Shingle Mfg. Co., 27 Wash. 637; Iverson v. McDonnell, 36 Wash. 73; Williams v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 42 Wash. 597.

Interest and bias of witness: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2906, §§ 109-113; State v. White, 10 Wash. 611; State v. McCann, 16 Wash. 249; Fleischner v. Beaver, 21 Wash. 6; Stossel v. Van de Vanter, 16 Wash. 9; Stowe v. La Conner Trad. & Transp. Co., 39 Wash. 28; State v. Griffin, 43 Wash. 591; Sproul v. Seattle, 17 Wash. 256.

Upon a trial for assault with intent to murder, a complaint in a civil action brought by the complaining witness against the accused to recover damages is properly excluded as immaterial, where the fact of the bringing of the suit had already been shown for the purpose of affecting the interest and credibility of the complaining witnesses: State v. Constantine, 48 Wash. 218.

Inconsistent statements by witness: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2907, §§ 114-125; Irwin v. Buffalo Pitts Co., 39 Wash. 346; Bailey v. Seattle & Renton R. Co., 32 Wash. 640; Brown v. Gillet, 33 Wash. 264; Sears v. Seattle Consol. St. R. Co., 6 Wash. 227; State v. Walters, 7 Wash. 246; French v. Seattle Traction Co., 26 Wash. 264; State v. Burton, 27 Wash. 528; State v. Fetterly, 33 Wash. 599; State v. Coates, 22 Wash. 601; Wheeler v. Buck & Co., 23 Wash. 679.

Since an attempt to suppress evidence by paying money to the prosecuting witness may be shown as a corroborative circumstance against the defendant, it is error to refuse to allow the defendant to rebut evidence of such an attempt by contradicting evidence that a certain person had made such an offer on behalf of the defendant: State v. Constantine, 48 Wash. 218.

Where the prosecuting witnesses had testified to an attempt made by an emissary of the defendant to suppress his testimony by the payment of money, it is not necessary to lay the usual foundation for the impeachment of his evidence by calling attention of the witnesses to any particular conversation, time, and place, but he may be impeached by merely showing that the matter testified to is untrue: Id.

The defendant has a right to offer evidence in support of his answer to an impeaching question after the state has impeached it: Id.

Contradiction and corroboration of witness: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2909, §§ 126, 127; Bailey v. Seattle & Renton R. Co., 32 Wash. 640; State v. McLain, 43 Wash. 267; State v. Nelson, 13 Wash. 523.

§ 1212. (5992.) Conviction of Crime. Effect of.

No person offered as a witness shall be excluded from giving evidence by reason of conviction of crime, but such conviction may be shown to affect his credibility: Provided, that any person who shall have been convicted of the crime of perjury shall not be a competent witness in any case, unless such conviction shall have been reversed, or unless he shall have received a pardon. [L. '91, p. 33, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1647; see L. '54, p. 196, § 292; Cd. '81, § 390.]

See infra, § 2148, defendant as witness in his own behalf.

Cited in 6 Wash. 569, 570; 15 Wash. 19; 22 Wash. 59; 32 Wash. 187; 33 Wash. 350; 37 Wash. 408-410.

Conviction of crime as affecting credibility or competency: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2905, §§ 104-106; Id. p. 2888, § 14; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339; State v. Eder, 36 Wash. 482; State v. Pearson, 37 Wash. 405; State v. Gottfredson, 24 Wash. 398; State v. Ripley, 32 Wash. 182.

The former conviction of a witness for the commission of a misdemeanor cannot be proven for the purpose of affecting his credibility: State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563.

It is not error under § 2162, infra, to allow one indicted with the prisoner, but not put upon trial with him, to be used as a witness for the state prior to his discharge: Edwards v. State, 2 Wash. 291.

Proof that defendant in a criminal prosecution has formerly been confined in the county jail is irrelevant: State v. Payne, supra.

The only competent evidence of former conviction is the production of the judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction, founded upon an indictment or other proper accusation: Id.

A person under conviction for perjury is not a competent witness, although the judgment was erroneous, as the judgment of conviction is conclusive against collateral attack: State v. Harras, 22 Wash. 57.

Character and conduct of witness: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2904, 2905, §§ 102-108; State v. Coates, 22 Wash. 601; State v. Miles, 15 Wash. 534; Bringgold v. Bringgold, 40 Wash. 121.

§ 1213. (5993.) Who Incompetent.

The following persons shall not be competent to testify:—

1. Those who are of unsound mind, or intoxicated at the time of their production for examination; and

2. Children under ten years of age who appear incapable of receiving just impressions of the facts respecting which they are examined, or of relating them truly. [L. '54, p. 186, § 293; L. '63, p. 154, § 330; L. '73, p. 106, § 384; Cd. '81, § 391; 2 H. C., § 1648.]

Cited in 34 Wash. 203; 45 Wash. 439.

Age and maturity of mind as affecting competency: See State v. Bailey, 31 Wash. 83.

As to use of drugs by witness: See State v. White, 10 Wash. 611.

Under this section it is error to permit a child under ten years of age to testify without first being sworn: Hodd v. Tacoma, 45 Wash. 436.

§ 1214. (5994.) Who Disqualified.

The following persons shall not be examined as witnesses:—

1. A husband shall not be examined for or against his wife without the consent of the wife, nor a wife for or against her husband without the consent of the husband; nor shall either, during marriage or afterwards, without the consent of the other, be examined as to any communication made by one to the other during marriage. But this exception shall not apply to a civil action or proceeding by one against the other, nor to a criminal action or proceeding for a crime committed by one against the other;

2. An attorney or counselor shall not, without the consent of his client, be examined as to any communication made by the client to him, or his advice given thereon in the course of professional employment;

3. A clergyman or priest shall not, without the consent of the person making the confession, be examined as to any confession made to him in his professional character in the course of discipline enjoined by the church to which he belongs;

4. A regular physician or surgeon shall not, without the consent of his patient, be examined in a civil action as to any information acquired in attending such patient, which was necessary to enable him to prescribe or act for the patient;

5. A public officer shall not be examined as a witness as to communications made to him in official confidence, when the public interest would suffer by the disclosure. [Cf. L. '54, p. 187, § 294; L. '73, p. 107, § 385; L. '79, p. 118, § 1; Cd. '81, § 392; L. '86, p. 73, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1649.]

See infra, § 2147, competency of witnesses in criminal cases. A proviso to subdivision 1 of this section was added by the Laws of 1886, but the title of the act is insufficient; hence same is omitted.

Cited in 20 Wash. 462; 21 Wash. 662; 24 Wash. 683; 27 Wash. 29, 573; 42 Wash. 600; 44 Wash. 486; 47 Wash. 520.

A wife may be a witness in her own behalf in an action for divorce: Lee v. Lee, 3 Wash. 236.

A husband, being a party to a suit and calling his wife as a witness and interrogating her, thereby consents to her testifying under this section: Columbia etc. Ry. Co. v. Hawthorne, 3 W. T. 353.

If defendant, on direct examination, declares that he acted upon information derived from counsel, to cross-examine him as to advice his attorney gave concerning the advisability of resisting plaintiff's demands, does not violate the rule as to confidential communications, because the client himself first opened the matter: Hall etc. Co. v. Wilbur, 4 Wash. 644; followed in Columbia etc. Ry. Co. v. Braillard, 5 Wash. 492.

In an action by a husband for seduction of his wife, she cannot testify except with the consent of the husband: Speck v. Gray, 14 Wash. 589; following State v. Halbert, 14 Wash. 306.

Confidential relations and privileged communications: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2894, §§ 50-56; State v. Nelson, 39 Wash. 221; Hartness v. Brown, 21 Wash. 655; Williams v. Blumenthal, 27 Wash. 24; Stanley v. Stanley, 27 Wash. 570; State v. Falsetta, 43 Wash. 159; Sackman v. Thomas, 24 Wash. 660; State v. Mann, 39 Wash. 144; Speck v. Gray, 14 Wash. 589; Lane v. Spokane F. & N. R. Co., 21 Wash. 119; Dubeich v. Grand Lodge A. O. U. W., 33 Wash. 651; Williams v. Spokane F. & N. R. Co., 33 Wash. 651.

The accused cannot allege error in permitting his wife to testify against him where, upon objection, he offered no proof that the witness was his wife; nor where, after answering on cross-examination that she was his wife, he made no motion to strike out the evidence: State v. Frye, 45 Wash. 645.

In proceedings supplementary to execution brought against the wife, she may be examined as to whether she has any property in her possession belonging to her husband: See Frankenthal v. Solomonson, 20 Wash. 460.

In an action for professional services, letters showing that the services were rendered are not inadmissible, for the reason that they showed the defendant to be engaged in leasing houses for immoral purposes and the reflection upon his character might prejudice the jury against him: Stern v. Daniel, 47 Wash. 96.

In an action for personal injuries, the plaintiff does not waive the right to object to testimony by his physician by the fact that he himself testified as to the cause and extent of his injuries and described them as he saw and felt them, without reference to what his physician told him: Noelle v. Hoquiam Lumber & Shingle Co., 47 Wash. 519.

In a prosecution for statutory rape upon one under the age of consent, evidence as to pregnancy, by a physician who had made an examination, is admissible, where the relation of physician and patient did not exist, and no confidence was violated: State v. Winnett, 48 Wash. 93.

Letters from a client to an attorney are not privileged as between themselves where the client charges mismanagement of the cause, and to enforce the privilege would deprive the attorney of the means of obtaining his rights: Sterns v. Daniel, 47 Wash. 96.

CHAPTER II.

THE MANNER OF COMPELLING THE ATTENDANCE OF WITNESSES.

§ 1215. (5995.) Witnesses, When Compelled to Attend.

No person shall be obliged to attend as a witness before any court of record, judge, justice of the peace, commissioner, referee, or other officer, in any civil action or proceeding out of the county in which he resides, unless his residence be within twenty miles of such court, judge, justice of the peace, commissioner, referee, or other officer; and no person shall be obliged to attend as a witness in any civil action or proceeding in a justice's court, unless his residence be within twenty miles of such court, whether within the county or not. Nor shall any person be compelled to attend as a witness in any civil action or proceeding, unless the fees be paid or tendered to him which are allowed by law for one day's attendance as a witness, and for traveling to and returning from the place where he is required to attend, provided such fees be demanded by him at the time of service of the subpoena. [L. '54, p. 187, § 295; L. '63, p. 156, § 332; L. '69, p. 104, § 388; Cd. '81, § 393; L. '91, p. 33, § 2; 2 H. C., § 1650.]

If a person residing in another county has been summoned and refuses to attend, he cannot be adjudged guilty of contempt unless it be shown that his residence is within twenty miles of the place of trial: State v. Trounce, 5 Wash. 804.

§ 1216. (5996.) Subpoena Duces Tecum.

The subpoena may require not only the personal attendance of the person to whom it is directed at a particular time and place to testify as a witness, but may also require him to bring with him any books, documents, or things under his control; but no public officer or person having the possession or control of public records or papers which by law are required to be kept in any particular office or place shall be compelled to produce the same in any court. See supra, § 284, and notes, bill of particulars.

See infra, § 1262, order for inspection and to take copy of writing.

The violation of an order of the court to produce certain books belonging to a bank for which a receiver had been appointed is not subject to punishment for contempt, although committed by the president of the bank, where the affidavit used as a basis for the contempt proceedings fails to show that it was within the power of the party prosecuted to comply with the order: State v. Allen, 14 Wash. 684.

The fact that proof subsequently introduced upon the trial tends to show that one charged with contempt of court had books in his possession which he was ordered to produce, but that he violated the order, is immaterial when such fact is not sufficiently shown by the affidavit used as a basis for the proceeding: Id.

Failure to produce the documents raises a presumption that they are what the adverse party claims them to be, and it is for the jury to determine whether the witness complied with the subpoena: Thomas v. Fos, 51 Wash. 250.

§ 1217. (5997.) Subpoena Issued When.

The subpoena shall be issued as follows:

1. To require attendance before a court of record or at the trial of an issue therein, such subpoena may be issued in the name of the state of Washington and be under the seal of the court before which the attendance is required or in which the issue is pending: Provided, that such subpoena may be issued with like effect by the attorney of record of the party to the action in whose behalf the witness is required to appear, and the form of such subpoena in each case may be the same as when issued by the court except that it shall only be subscribed by the signature of such attorney;

2. To require attendance out of such court before a judge, justice of the peace, commissioner, referee or other officer authorized to administer oaths or to take testimony in any matter under the laws of this state, it shall be issued by such judge, justice of the peace, commissioner, referee or other officer before whom the attendance is required;

3. To require attendance before a commissioner appointed to take testimony by a court of any other state, territory or county it may be issued by any judge or justice of the peace in places within their respective jurisdiction. [Cf. L. '54, p. 188, § 297; Cd. '81, § 395; 2 H. C., § 1652; L. '95, p. 189, § 1.]

See Const., Art. IV, § 27, process to run in the name of the state.

See infra, § 1235, subpoena of witness to take deposition.

See infra, § 1898, subpoena in justices' courts.

§ 1218. (5998.) Service, Proof of.

Such subpoena may be served by any suitable person over eighteen years of age, by exhibiting and reading it to the witness, or by giving him a copy thereof, or by leaving such copy at the place of his abode. When service is made by any other person than an officer authorized to serve process, proof of service shall be made by affidavit. [L. '54, p. 188, § 298; L. '53, p. 156, § 334; L. '69, p. 105, § 391; Cd. '81, § 396; 2 H. C., § 1653.]

See supra, § 244, service of notice and other process.

See supra, § 254, service by telegraph.

See infra, § 1776, false return or failure to execute process.

§ 1219. (5999.) Person in Court Required to Testify.

A person present in court, or before a judicial officer, may be required to testify in the same manner as if he were in attendance upon a subpoena issued by such court or officer. [L. '54, p. 188, § 299; Cd. '81, § 397; 2 H. C., § 1654.]

§ 1220. (6000.) Liability and Penalty for Failure to Attend.

If any person duly served with a subpoena, and obliged to attend as a witness, shall fail to do so, without any reasonable excuse, he shall be liable to the aggrieved party for all damages occasioned by such failure, to be recovered in a civil action. Such failure to attend as required by the subpoena shall also be considered a contempt, and, upon due proof, the witness may be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, and stand committed until said fine and costs are paid, or until discharged by due course of law. [L. '54, p. 188, §§ 300, 301; Cd. '81, §§ 398, 399; 2 H. C., § 1655.]

See supra, § 1049 et seq., contempts and their punishment.

See infra, § 1902, damages for nonattendance in justices' courts.

Cited in 13 Wash. 487.

§ 1221. (6001.) Attachment for Witness.

The court, judge, justice of the peace, or other officer, in such case, may issue an attachment to bring such witness before them to answer for contempt, and also testify as witness in the cause in which he was subpoenaed. [L. '54, p. 188, § 302; Cd. '81, § 400; 2 H. C., § 1656.]

A judge of the superior court has no jurisdiction to compel by attachment the attendance of a nonresident witness, who is outside of the jurisdiction, for the purpose of taking his deposition, although a subpoena was served upon him while he was temporarily within the county: State ex rel. Hopkins v. Kennan, 33 Wash. 247.

§ 1222. (6002.) To Whom Directed, How Executed.

Such attachment may be directed to the sheriff or any constable of any county in which the witness may be found, and shall be executed in the same manner as a warrant; and the fees of the officer for issuing and serving the same shall be paid by the person against whom the same was issued, unless he show reasonable cause, to the satisfaction of the justice, for his omission to attend; in which case the party requiring such attachment shall pay all such costs. [L. '91, p. 33, § 3; 2 H. C., § 1657.]

§ 1223. (6003.) Testimony of Prisoner, How Obtained.

If the witness be a prisoner confined in a jail or prison within this state, an order for his examination in prison, upon deposition, or for his temporary removal and production before a court or officer, for the purpose of being orally examined, may be issued. [L. '54, p. 189, § 303; Cd. '81, § 401; 2 H. C., § 1658.]

§ 1224. (6004.) Affidavit to Procure Order.

Such order can only be made upon affidavit, showing the nature of the action or proceeding, the testimony expected from the witness, and its materiality. [L. '54, p. 189, § 304; Cd. '81, § 402; 2 H. C., § 1659.]

CHAPTER III.

THE EXAMINATION OF PARTIES.

§ 1225. (6008.) Examination of Adverse Party as Witness.

A party to an action or proceeding may be examined as a witness, at the instance of the adverse party, or of one of several adverse parties, and for that purpose may be compelled in the same manner and subject to the same rules of examination as any other witness to testify at the trial, or he may be examined on a commission. [L. '54, p. 189, § 305; Cd. '81, § 403; 2 H. C., § 1660.]

Discovery in equity: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 938, §§ 1-3; Allend v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 21 Wash. 324; 51 Wash. 252.

While a technical bill of discovery is not proper under the civil procedure of this state, yet the defendant may, under this and following sections, in an action instituted for legal and equitable relief, be compelled to make a discovery of facts: Le May v. Baxter, 11 Wash. 649.

Grounds and purposes of examination—
Application: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 939, §§ 5-7; Du Clos v. Batcheller, 17 Wash. 389; Ingram v. Wishkah Boom Co., 35 Wash. 191; Main v. Hadfield, 41 Wash. 504; Livesley v. O'Brien, 6 Wash. 553.

Physical or surgical examination: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 940, § 11; Lane v. Spokane Falls & Northern R. Co., 21 Wash. 119; Smith v. Spokane, 16 Wash. 403; Myrberg v. Baltimore etc. R. Co., 25 Wash. 364; Helbig v. Gray's Harbor Elec. Co., 37 Wash. 130.

This section, and § 1229, infra, expressly authorize the examination of the adverse party as a witness, and the rebuttal of his evidence by adverse testimony, although he was called as the party's own witness at the opening of the trial: Thomas v. Fos, 51 Wash. 250.

§ 1226. (6009.) Interrogatories to Adversary.

Instead of the examination being had at the trial, as provided by the last section, the plaintiff, at the time of filing his complaint or afterwards, and the defendant, at the time of filing his answer or afterwards, may file in the clerk's office interrogatories for the discovery of facts and documents material to the support or defense of the action, to be answered on oath by the adverse party. [L. '54, p. 189, § 306; Cd. '81, § 404; 2 H. C., § 1661.] inspection: Cully v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 35 Wash. 241.

Doubted whether the production of documents can be enforced under this section, in view of § 1262 making provision for their Waiver of right to demand interrogatories: See Murrilla v. Guis, 51 Wash. 93.

§ 1227. (6010.) Answers to Interrogatories.

Such interrogatories shall be served in the manner provided by law for the service of summons, or by service upon the attorney of the party to be interrogated, and the answers thereto shall be served and filed within twenty days after such service unless for cause shown a further time be allowed by the court. A private corporation may be interrogated in the same manner as individuals, and it shall not be excused for a failure to answer any proper interrogatory unless it shall show that no one in its employ or connected with, or interested in it, can give the desired answer or information. [Cf. L. '54, p. 189, § 307; Cd. '81, § 405; 2 H. C., § 1662; L. '97, p. 288, § 1.]

Interrogatories and answers thereto— Defects and objections: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 940, §§ 8, 9; Moore v. Palmer, 14

Wash. 134; Du Clos v. Batcheller, 17 Wash. 389; Lowry v. Moore, 16 Wash. 476; Knapp v. Order of Pendo, 36 Wash. 601.

§ 1228. (6011.) Examination on Trial Notwithstanding Interrogatories.

A party to an action or proceeding, having filed interrogatories to be answered by the adverse party, as prescribed by the last two sections, shall not thereby be precluded from examining such adverse party as a witness at the trial, nor from taking his deposition to be read at the trial. [Cf. L. '54, p. 189, § 308; Cd. '81, § 406; L. '91, p. 34, § 4; 2 H. C., § 1663.]

§ 1229. (6012.) Testimony not Conclusive.

The testimony of a party, upon examination at the trial, or by deposition, or upon interrogatories filed, may be rebutted by adverse testimony. [Cf. L. '54, p. 189, § 309; Cd. '81, § 407; L. '91, p. 34, § 5; 2 H. C., § 1664.]

& N. R. Co., 21 Wash. 324; Moore v. Palmer, 14 Wash. 134.

The answers to interrogatories propounded to a defendant may be put in evidence, and, as evidence, are subject to contradiction: Denny v. Sayward, 10 Wash. 422.

§ 1230. (6013.) Penalty for Refusal to Answer or Give Testimony.

If a party refuse to attend and testify at the trial, or to give his deposition, or to answer any interrogatories filed, his complaint, answer or reply may be stricken out, and judgment taken against him, and he may also, in the discretion of the court, be proceeded against as in other cases for a contempt: Provided, that the preceding sections shall not be construed so as to compel any person to answer any question where such answer may tend to criminate himself. [Cf. L. '54, p. 190, § 310; Cd. '81, § 408; L. '91, p. 34, § 6; 2 H. C., § 1665.]

See infra, § 1905, penalty for refusal to testify in justice court.

Cited in 4 Wash. 326; 6 Wash. 553; 44 Wash. 31, 32; 44 Wash. 42.

Failure to answer interrogatories: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 940, § 10; Fischer v. Woodruff, 25 Wash. 67; Knapp v. Order of Pendo, 38 Wash. 601; Fidelity Nat. Bank v. Adams, 38 Wash. 75; Le May v. Baxter, 11 Wash. 649.

Under this section if a party refuse to answer interrogatories filed the only judgment authorized is one of dismissal: Waite v. Wingate, 4 Wash. 324.

Judgment may be given against defendant in an action for failure to answer interrogatories within the time prescribed by statute, although no formal order requiring answer to same has been made: Livesley v. O'Brien, 6 Wash. 553.

Upon the granting of a motion to strike certain answers to interrogatories, for the reason that they are insufficient in certain particulars, it is error to grant judgment of default without requiring more specific answers and fixing a time for the filing thereof, in order that upon failure to file the same the time of a default may be definitely known: Lawson v. Black Diamond Coal Min. Co., 44 Wash. 26.

This section is not unconstitutional as depriving a party of property without due process, since such failure to answer may be construed as an admission of material facts; hence such judgment is justified only where the failure to make discovery as to material facts is alleged and proved: Id.

In an action against a corporation to recover a broker's commission, interrogatories respecting negotiations, and correspondence had with a stockholder relate to immaterial matters, as the stockholder has no power to bind the corporation; and failure to answer the same does not warrant judgment: Id.

It is not error to deny an application for specific answers to each of one hundred and sixty interrogatories, where those relating to a single matter were grouped and fully answered by one answer, and the defendant was sufficiently informed to prepare its defense: Pearce v. Greek Boys' Min. Co., 48 Wash. 38.

CHAPTER IV.

DEPOSITIONS.

§ 1231. (6017.) Cases in Which may be Taken.

The testimony of a witness may be taken by deposition, to be read in evidence in an action, suit, or proceeding commenced and pending in any court in this state, in the following cases:—

1. When the witness resides out of the county, and more than twenty miles from the place of trial;

2. When the witness is about to leave the county, and go more than twenty miles from the place of trial, and there is a probability that he will continue absent when the testimony is required;

3. When the witness is sick, infirm, or aged, so as to make it probable that he will not be able to attend at the trial;

4. When the witness resides out of the state. [L. '54, p. 190, § 313; L. '69, p. 108, § 404; L. '77, p. 89, § 411; Cd. '81, § 409; 2 H. C., § 1666.]

See supra, § 1225 et seq., examination of adversary before trial.

See infra, § 1249 et seq., proceedings to perpetuate testimony.

See infra, § 1907, depositions in justices' courts.

Cited in 14 Wash. 458.

Depositions: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 926-928; Reformed Presbyterian Church v. McMillan, 31 Wash. 643.

The depositions of absent witnesses are inadmissible in a criminal action: State v. Paggett, 8 Wash. 579; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670.

§ 1232. (6018.) When may be Taken.

Either party may commence taking testimony by depositions at any time after service of summons upon the defendants. [L. '77, p. 90, § 412; Cd. '81, § 410; 2 H. C., § 1667.]

§ 1233. (6019.) Before Whom Taken Within State—Notice.

Either party may have the deposition of a witness taken in this state before any judge of the superior court, justice of the peace, clerk of the supreme or superior court[s], mayor of a city or notary public, by serving on the adverse party or his attorney previous notice of the time and place of examination. The notice shall be served such time before the time when the deposition is to be taken as to allow the adverse party sufficient time by the usual route of travel to attend, and three days for preparation, exclusive of the day of service, and the examination may, if so stated in the notice, be adjourned from day to day. The notice shall specify the action or proceeding, the name of the court or tribunal in which the deposition is to be used, and the time and place of taking the deposition. It shall be served upon the adverse party, his agent, or attorney of record, or be left at his usual place of abode. [L. '54, p. 190, § 314; Cd. '81, § 411; L. '88, p. 29, § 1; L. '91, p. 34, § 7; 2 H. C., § 1668.]

Notice: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 927, §§ 5, 8; Phelps v. S. S. City of Panama, 1 W. T. 518; Mendenhall v. Kratz, 14 Wash. 453.

A defendant who appears and has a hearing continued to enable him to file cross-interrogatories, is estopped from claiming that he had insufficient notice: Hobart v. Jones, 5 Wash. 385.

§ 1234. (6020.) Time for Notice may be Limited.

The court, or a judge thereof, or in an action or proceedings before a justice of the peace, the justice, may, upon sufficient cause being shown by affidavit, prescribe a shorter time for notice than that specified in the last preceding section. A copy of the order shortening the time must be served with the notice. [L. '91, p. 35, § 8; 2 H. C., § 1669.]

§ 1235. (6021.) Witnesses Subpoenaed and Compelled to Attend.

Any witness may be subpoenaed and compelled, by any officer authorized to take depositions, to appear and give his deposition at any place within twenty miles of the abode of such witness, in like manner as he may be subpoenaed and compelled to attend as a witness in any court, and he shall suffer the same penalties for a failure to attend as are prescribed in section 1220. [Cf. L. '54, p. 192, § 321; Cd. '81, § 422; L. '91, p. 35, § 9; 2 H. C., § 1670.]

See supra, § 1215, witnesses, how compelled to attend.

See supra, § 1217, subpoena for witnesses.

§ 1236. Superior Court may Compel Attendance.

The superior court shall have power to compel the attendance of witnesses, within this state, before notaries public, justices of the peace or any other person authorized by the laws of this state to take depositions in causes pending in any court of the state, or in any court of any other state, or in any court of the United States, or in any court of a foreign country. [L. '01, p. 23, § 1.]

§ 1237. Application for Order.

The officer before whom the deposition is to be taken in case of the refusal of any witness to attend or testify shall report to the superior court in and for the county in which the witness resides, or is found, by petition, that due notice has been given of the time and place of taking the depositions and that the witness has been summoned in the same manner that witnesses are now summoned to appear and testify in the superior court of this state; and the fees and mileage of the witness has been paid, or tendered to the witness, for his attendance and testimony, and that the witness has failed and refused to attend or testify before such officer, in the cause mentioned in the notice and the subpoena; and ask an order of the court compelling the witness to attend and testify before such officer. [L. '01, p. 23, § 2.]

§ 1238. Citation—Contempt.

The court upon the petition of the officers, and the payment of the regular docket fee of four dollars ($4) shall enter an order directing the witness to appear before the officer making the report, at a time and place to be fixed by the court in such order, and then and there give his testimony in such case. A copy of which order shall be served upon the witness in the same manner that summons and complaints are now served; and on failure or refusal of the witness to obey such order such witness shall be dealt with as for contempt. [L. '01, p. 24, § 3.]

§ 1239. (6022.) Before Whom Taken Out of the State.

Depositions may be taken out of the state by a judge, justice, or chancellor or clerk of any court of record, a justice of the peace, notary public, mayor, or chief magistrate of any city or town, or any person authorized by a special commission from any court [of record] of this state. [Cf. L. '54, p. 193, § 322; L. '77, p. 90, § 414; Cd. '81, § 412; 2 H. C., § 1671.]

§ 1240. (6023.) Commission to Take—How Issued.

Any superior court in this state, or any judge thereof, is authorized to grant a commission to take depositions within or without this state. The commission must be issued to a person or persons therein named, by the clerk, under the seal of the court granting the same, and depositions under it may be taken upon written interrogatories or upon oral questions or partly upon oral and partly upon written interrogatories. Before any such commission shall be granted, the person intending to apply therefor shall serve upon the adverse party a notice of his intention to make such application, stating the time when and the place where such application will be made, which notice shall be served in the same manner and for the same time as provided in section 1233, unless the court or judge, for sufficient cause shown by affidavit, prescribe a shorter time. At the time the application is presented, the court or judge shall settle the interrogatories, if any have been served and the parties have not settled the same. The clerk, upon issuing the commission, shall attach the interrogatories thereto, if any have been agreed upon or settled by the court, and immediately forward the same to the commissioner. At least five days' notice must be given to the party or witness to be examined out of the state, in case such examination shall be had upon oral interrogatories, and the person before whom the deposition of the witness shall be taken shall have the same power to compel the attendance of such parties or witnesses as any person authorized to take such deposition within this state. [Cf. L. '54, p. 193, § 323; L. '73, p. 114, §§ 412, 413; L. '77, p. 90, § 415; Cd. '81, §§ 413, 414; L. '91, p. 35, § 10; 2 H. C., § 1672; L. '97, p. 206, § 1.]

Jurisdiction of probate court to issue formed Presbyterian Church v. McMillan, commission to take depositions: See Re- 31 Wash. 643.

§ 1241. (6024.) Notice to Nonresident Party.

When the party against whom the deposition is to be read is absent from or a nonresident of the state, and has no agent or attorney of record therein, he may be notified of the taking of the deposition [or] of the application for a commission, by publication. The publication must be made three consecutive weeks, in some newspaper printed in the county where the action or proceeding is pending, if there be any printed in such county, and if not, in some newspaper printed in this state, of general circulation in that county. The publication must contain all that is required in the written or printed notice, and may be proved in the manner prescribed in case of the publication of summons. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 415; L. '91, p. 35, § 11; 2 H. C., § 1673.]

§ 1242. (6025.) How Taken and Certified.

The deposition shall be written by the officer taking the same, or by the witness, or by some disinterested person, in the presence and under the direction of such officer. When completed, it shall be carefully read to or by the witness, corrected if desired, and subscribed by him. If taken upon notice, it shall be certified by the officer substantially as follows:—

State of Washington, County of——, ss.

I, A B, justice of the peace in and for said county (or judge, clerk, etc., as the case may be), do hereby certify that the above deposition was taken before me, and reduced to writing by myself (or witness, as the case may be), at ——, in said county, on the —— day of ——, 18——, at —— o'clock, in pursuance of notice hereto annexed; that the above-named witness, before examination, was sworn (or affirmed) to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, and that the said deposition was carefully read to (or by) said witness, and then subscribed by him. A B, Justice of the Peace.

Dated at —— the —— day of ——, 18——.

If the deposition be taken upon a commission, the commission[er] shall testify [certify] it in substantially the same manner, and annex to it the commission and interrogatories. [Cf. L. '54, p. 191, § 315; Cd. '81, § 416; L. '91, p. 36, § 12; 2 H. C., § 1674.]

Making and requisites of return or certificate: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 927, §§ 6, 7; Phelps v. S. S. City of Panama, 1 W. T. 518.

A certificate to a deposition taken under commission is sufficient when it states that "F. N. Hendrix, commissioner, does hereby certify," and is signed "F. N. Hendrix, commissioner and notary public," especially when caption states that it is the "deposition of ——, taken before F. N. Hendrix, ——, pursuant to the annexed commission to take testimony": Hobart v. Jones, 5 Wash. 385.

§ 1243. (6026.) How Returned.

The deposition, whether taken upon notice or upon a commission, shall be inclosed in a sealed envelope, by the officer taking the same, and directed to the clerk of the court, arbitrators, referee, or justice of the peace before whom the action is pending, or to such persons as the parties, in writing, may agree upon, and either delivered to the clerk of the court or other person, or transmitted through the mail or by some private person. [Cf. L. '54, p. 191, § 316; Cd. '81, § 417; L. '91, p. 36, § 13; 2 H. C., § 1675.]

Opening and publication: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 927, § 8; Mendenhall v. Kratz, 14 Wash. 453.

Depositions being opened by clerk and placed on file without the order of court will not be received in evidence: Phelps v. Steamship City of Panama, 1 W. T. 615.

§ 1244. (6027.) Use of on Trial—Objections.

Such deposition may be used by either party upon the trial, or other proceeding, against any party giving or receiving the notice, subject to all legal exceptions to the competency or credibility of the witness, or the manner of taking the deposition. But if the parties attend at the examination, no objection to the form of an interrogatory shall be made at the trial, unless the same was taken at the time of the examination. It shall be the duty of the person taking the deposition to propound to the witness every question proposed by either party, and to note all objections to the form of any interrogatory, and when any interrogatory is objected to on account of form, unless the form is amended and the objection waived, he shall write after the question, and before the answer, the words "objected to"; and when any witness declines to answer a question on the ground that it will [tend to] criminate himself, that fact shall also be noted after the question, if written down. The deposition may be taken in the form of a narrative, or by question and answer, or partly in either form, as either party present at the examination shall require. When taken by question and answer, the officer shall first write down the question and then the answer, as nearly as may be, in the language of the witness; but when the deposition is read to the witness previous to signing it, he shall be permitted to amend his answer to any question, or any part of his deposition; such amendment, however, unless both parties shall otherwise agree, shall not be made by way of interlining or erasing, but shall be added at the end of the deposition under the title "amendment by the witness," and such amendment shall intelligibly refer to the part so amended. [L. '54, p. 191, § 317; Cd. '81, § 418; 2 H. C., § 1676.]

See infra, §§ 1962, 2131.

Admissibility in evidence, objections, etc.: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 927, 928, §§ 9-15; McGraw v. Franklin, 2 Wash. 17; Brown v. Gillet, 33 Wash. 264; Von Tobel v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 32 Wash. 683.

Depositions in a criminal case, tending to show good character of defendant, are inadmissible; the statutes of this state make no provision for the use of an ordinary deposition of an absent witness in criminal cases, nor was the same recognized at common law: State v. Humason, 5 Wash. 499, 504; State v. Paggett, 8 Wash. 584; see Const., Art. I, § 22.

That the complaint is amended after a deposition is taken will not be sufficient to exclude it if it is upon and pertinent to the issues raised by the amended complaint: Mendenhall v. Kratz, 14 Wash. 453.

Depositions opened by the clerk by mistake, but at once sealed up and kept in his custody until regularly ordered to be published by the court, may, within the discretion of the court, be used upon the trial: Id.

Upon taking a deposition before a trial judge, where objections are ruled on at the time and exceptions taken, the exceptions need not be renewed at the trial: Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. Co. v. Alexander, 47 Wash. 131.

§ 1245. (6028.) Shall not be Used, When.

If it appear at the trial that the reason for taking the deposition no longer exist, the deposition shall not be read in evidence, unless the party offering it show that another of the causes specified by section 1231 then exists, or that the witness is dead, or cannot safely attend at the trial on account of sickness, age, or other bodily infirmity. [Cf. L. '54, p. 192, § 318; Cd. '81, § 419; L. '91, p. 36, § 14; 2 H. C., § 1677.]

Cited in 8 Wash. 93; 49 Wash. 648.

The death of a party to an action and substitution of his legal representative will not render inadmissible the deposition of an adverse party when the deposition was competent at the time the deposition was taken: Neis v. Farquharson, 9 Wash. 508.

Under this section, which provides that a deposition shall not be read in evidence if it appears at the trial that the reason for taking the same no longer exists, it will be presumed that the reason continues to exist until the contrary is shown by the adverse party, and the deposition is admissible without any showing: Heinzerling v. Agen, 49 Wash. 647.

§ 1246. (6029.) Depositions Taken in One Cause may be Used in Another, When.

When the plaintiff in any action shall discontinue it, or when it shall be dismissed for any cause, and another action shall afterwards be commenced for the same cause between the same parties, or their respective representatives, all depositions lawfully taken in the first action may be used in the other, in the same manner and subject to the same conditions and objections as if originally taken for such other action: Provided, that the deposition shall have been duly filed in the court where the first action was pending, and shall have remained in the custody of the court from the termination of the first action until the commencement of the other. [L. '54, p. 192, § 319; Cd. '81, § 420; 2 H. C., § 1678.]

§ 1247. Certified Testimony of Deceased or Absent Witness.

The testimony of any witness, deceased, or out of the state, or for any other sufficient cause unable to appear and testify, given in a former action or proceeding, or in a former trial of the same cause or proceeding when reported by a stenographer, or reduced to writing, and certified by the trial judge, upon three days' notice to the opposite party or parties, together with service of a copy of the testimony proposed to be used may be given in evidence in the trial of any civil action or proceeding, where it is between the same parties and relates to the same matter. [L. '05, p. 50, § 1.]

§ 1248. (6030.) When may be Used on Appeal.

When any action shall have been appealed from one court to another, and is to be tried anew in the appellate court, all depositions lawfully taken to be used in the court from which the appeal was taken may be used in the appellate court in the same manner and subject to such exceptions for informality or irregularity, and none other, as were taken in writing to such depositions in the court below; and when an action is removed from one court to another by change of venue, all depositions previously taken in the action must be certified to the court to which the action is removed, and may be used in that court in the same manner and subject to the same exceptions as if originally taken for use therein. [Cf. L. '54, p. 192, § 320; Cd. '81, § 421; L. '91, p. 37, § 15; 2 H. C., § 1679.]

Use on appeal: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 165, § 273; Demaris v. Barker, 33

Wash. 200; State ex rel. Richardson v. Superior Court, 41 Wash. 439.

CHAPTER V.

PERPETUATION OF TESTIMONY.

§ 1249. (6034.) Application for Order to Examine Witnesses.

When any person shall be desirous to perpetuate the testimony of any witness he shall make a statement in writing, setting forth briefly and substantially his title, claim or interest in or to the subject concerning which he desires to perpetuate the evidence, and the names of all the persons interested or supposed to be interested therein, and also the name of the witness proposed to be examined, which statement shall be under oath, and filed in the superior court. If the subject of the proposed deposition relate to real property within this state, the statement shall be filed in the county where the lands, or any part thereof, lie; in other cases, in the county where the parties interested, or some of them, reside. Upon such statement, an application may be made to such court, or judge thereof, to allow the examination of such witness. [Cf. L. '54, p. 193, § 327; L. '77, p. 93, § 425; Cd. '81, § 423; L. '91, p. 37, § 17; 2 H. C., § 1688.]

Cited in 37 Wash. 84.

§ 1250. (6035.) Hearing of Application—Notice.

The court or judge shall appoint a time and place for hearing such application, and shall order notice thereof and of the statement to be served on all persons mentioned therein as adversely interested in the matter; the notice shall be served personally on all those living in the state at least twenty days before the time of hearing the application; upon those who are not residents of the state, it shall be served by publication or otherwise, in the same manner as a notice is served upon a nonresident. [L. '54, p. 194, § 328; L. '77, p. 93, § 426; Cd. '81, § 424; 2 H. C., § 1689.]

See supra, § 228 et seq., notice of publication.

§ 1251. (6036.) Order for Examination—Commission.

If upon hearing of the parties, or of the applicant alone, should no adverse party appear, the court or judge shall be satisfied that there is sufficient cause for taking the deposition, an order shall be made allowing the examination of the witness; and such court or judge may direct a commission to issue therefor in like manner as a commission to take the testimony of witnesses in actions or proceedings pending in such court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 194, § 329; Cd. '81, § 425; L. '91, p. 37, § 18; 2 H. C., § 1690.]

See supra, § 1240, commission to take deposition.

§ 1252. (6037.) How Taken and Returned.

The deposition of such witness, whether residing in this state or not, shall be taken upon written interrogatories filed by the applicant and cross-interrogatories filed by any party adversely interested, if he shall think fit, and it shall be taken and returned substantially in the same manner as if taken upon commission to be used in any cause pending in the same court. [L. '54, p. 194, § 330; Cd. '81, § 426; 2 H. C., § 1691.]

See supra, § 1240, interrogatories to witnesses.

See supra, §§ 1242, 1243, depositions, how taken, certified and returned.

§ 1253. (6038.) Return and Filing—How Used—Objections.

The deposition, when returned, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the court by whom the commission was issued; and if a trial be had between the person at whose request the deposition was taken and the person named in the statement, or any of them, or their successors in interest, upon proof of the death or insanity of the witness, or his inability to attend the trial by reason of age, sickness, or settled infirmity, the deposition, or a certified copy thereof, may be used by either party, subject to all legal objections. But if the parties attend at the examination, no objections to the form of the interrogatory shall be made at the trial, unless the same were taken at the time of the examination. [L. '54, p. 194, § 331; Cd. '81, § 427; 2 H. C., § 1692.]

CHAPTER VI.

DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE.

§ 1254. (6040.) Court Records, etc., as Evidence.

The records and proceedings of any court of the United States, or any state or territory, shall be admissible in evidence in all cases in this state when duly authenticated by the attestation of the clerk, prothonotary, or other officer having charge of the records of such court, with the seal of such court annexed. [L. '54, p. 195, § 334; Cd. '81, § 430; 2 H. C., § 1680.]

See supra, § 284, pleading written instrument.

See U. S. Rev. Stats., §§ 905, 906.

Cited in 2 Wash. 518; 3 Wash. 169; 44 Wash. 487.

Acts, records, and judicial proceedings of other states: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1142, §§ 122, 123; Id., p. 1141, § 115; Id., p. 1146, § 136; Id., p. 1119, § 27; Waldo v. Milroy, 19 Wash. 156; James v. James, 35 Wash. 650; Keim v. Rankin, 40 Wash. 111; Gilmore v. H. W. Baker Co., 12 Wash. 468; Kerstetter v. Thomas, 36 Wash. 620.

Under this section the records and proceedings of courts of another state are admissible in evidence without the certificate of the judge thereof that the attestation of the clerk having charge of the records of such court is in due form: Ritchie v. Carpenter, 2 Wash. 512.

Under § 905, U. S. Rev. Stats., it will be presumed, without being certified or otherwise shown, that the clerk attesting such records is the proper custodian thereof: Id. In attesting such records it is not necessary that the seal of the court be attached thereto, but only to the certificate of the clerk: Id. The signature of the judge to the journal entry of the judgment, offered in evidence, is not necessary to make it valid: Id.; Kentzler v. Kentzler, 3 Wash. 166, 169.

In an action upon a judgment of a court of record of another state, it will be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that it is a court of general jurisdiction; and recitals in the record of jurisdiction of defendant's person are prima facie evidence thereof: Ritchie v. Carpenter, supra.

Facts and circumstances affecting the action in the foreign forum can only be taken advantage of in that forum, but cannot be considered here: Id., 520.

Want of jurisdiction may be shown by defendant even to the extent of contradicting express recitals in the record: Id. 512.

The name of defendant in the record offered being identical with that of defendant in this action is prima facie proof of identity of person; and it is incumbent upon defendant to allege and prove every fact necessary to show want of jurisdiction of his person: Id.

Where there is no showing that the record of a decree in a court of another state has been lost or destroyed, the loss of a certified copy thereof, which plaintiff had obtained, will not warrant admission of parol proof to show nature and contents of the original: Kentzler v. Kentzler, supra.

The transcript of the record of the probate court of the state of Oregon showing that said court had assumed jurisdiction over certain chattels was admitted as prima facie evidence that said chattels were then within that state; and the rejection of such transcript would have been error: McCoy v. Ayers, 2 W. T. 203.

The copy of the record of a marriage certificate of another state, not appertaining to any court, the record appearing to be the public record of a county, must be certified as required by U. S. Rev. Stats., § 906, to be admissible in evidence, and a certificate by a deputy clerk of such county to the effect that it was a true copy of the record in his office, under the seal of the county, is insufficient: State v. Kniffen, 44 Wash. 485.

Evidence, weight and sufficiency of foreign judgments: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1640, §§ 282-285; Cunningham v. Spokane Hydraulic Min. Co., 20 Wash. 450; Aultman, Miller & Co. v. Mills, 9 Wash. 68; Trowbridge v. Spinning, 23 Wash. 48; Clark v. Eltinge, 38 Wash. 376; Olson v. Veazie, 9 Wash. 481.

This and the next section appear to be in conflict with section 905 of the U. S. Rev. Stats., as not giving full faith and credit to the laws and usages of the courts of the state from which taken: See Ritchie v. Carpenter, 2 Wash. 512, 518.

§ 1255. (6041.) Faith Given to Judgments of Other States.

Judgment for debt rendered in any other state or any territory against any person or persons residents of this state at the time of the rendition of such judgment shall not be of any higher character as evidence of indebtedness than the original claim or demand upon which such judgment is rendered, unless such judgment shall be rendered upon personal services of summons, notice, or other due process against the defendant therein. [Cf. L. '66, p. 88, § 1; Cd. '81, § 739; L. '91, p. 70, § 1; 2 H. C., § 804.]

See supra, § 284, pleading instrument of writing.

See supra, § 287, pleading a judgment.

§ 1256. (6042.) Defenses to Suits on Foreign Judgments.

The same defense to suits on judgment rendered without such personal service may be made by the judgment debtor which might have been set up in the original proceeding. [L. '66, p. 88, § 2; Cd. '81, § 740; 2 H. C., § 805.]

See note to last section.

§ 1257. (6043.) Public Records as Evidence.

Copies of all records and documents on record or on file in the offices of the various departments of the United States and of this state, when duly certified by the respective officers having by law the custody thereof, under their respective seals, where such officers have official seals, shall be admitted in evidence in the courts of this state. [Cf. L. '54, p. 195, § 336; Cd. '81, § 432; L. '91, p. 37, § 16; 2 H. C., § 1681.]

Cited in 38 Wash. 634.

Public records and documents: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1140, §§ 109-113; Cherry Point Fish Co. v. Nelson, 25 Wash. 558; Anderson v. Hilker, 38 Wash. 632; Greene v. Finnell, 22 Wash. 186; Bardsley v. Sternberg, 18 Wash. 612.

Section 1682, 2 Hill's Code, probably covered by this section, is as follows:

"Any certificate of residence and cultivation of the public lands issued by the surveyor general of Oregon or state of Washington, or by the register and receiver of either of the land offices therein, or any certificate, receipt, or exemplification of the records of either of said offices issued to any settler upon or purchaser of said lands, or in any way affecting the rights of parties to lands in this state, issued or given in pursuance of law, or as evidence of any matter recorded in either of said offices, or any copies of maps, plats, or diagrams of land claims of every nature or kind, or plats of the public surveys, certified by either of said officers, shall be admitted as evidence in all the courts of this state. In actions affecting real estate, such certificates shall be prima facie evidence that the title of the lands mentioned or described in such receipt is in the person or persons named therein."

If the holder of a United States register's certificate sells the land therein described and indorses the contract on the back thereof, a certified copy of such certificate and contract by the commissioner of the general land office is admissible to establish the contract: Sayward v. Gardner, 5 Wash. 247.

A certified copy of a notification to the surveyor general of intent to claim land settled upon as a donation claim, from the general land office at Washington, D. C., establishes the date of the giving of such notice, clearly appearing thereon, although the local surveyor general's and register's offices contain no record of the filing thereof: Sylvester v. State, 46 Wash. 585.

In a condemnation proceeding, maps showing the location of the railroad are admissible as illustrative of the evidence of the witnesses, where they are shown to be accurate by witnesses who had scaled the maps and compared them with the government field-notes, although such witnesses had not surveyed the ground or made the maps: Portland and Seattle R. Co. v. Ladd, 47 Wash. 88; Portland and Seattle R. Co. v. Clarke County, 48 Wash. 509.

The court will take judicial notice of the population of its cities as shown by a pamphlet issued under the auspices of the state, and of the approximate increase since the date of such issue: Times Printing Co. v. Star Publishing Co., 51 Wash. 667.

§ 1258. (6044.) Seal of Public Officer, How Affixed.

A seal of court or public office, when required to any writ, process, or proceeding to authenticate a copy of any record or document, may be affixed by making an impression directly on the paper, which shall be as valid as if made upon a wafer or on wax. [L. '54, p. 196, § 338; Cd. '81, § 434; 2 H. C., § 1683.]

Cited in 40 Wash. 631.

§ 1259. (6045.) Foreign Statutes Admissible in Evidence, When.

Printed copies of the statute laws of any state, territory, or foreign government, if purporting to have been published under the authority of the respective governments, or if commonly admitted and read as evidence in their courts, shall be admitted in all courts in this state, and on all other occasions, as presumptive evidence of such laws. [L. '54, p. 196, § 339; Cd. '81, § 435; 2 H. C., § 1684.]]

See infra, § 7830, charters and ordinances of cities, how proven.

Evidence as to statutes of other states: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2638, § 96; Dormitzer v. German S. & L. Soc., 23 Wash. 132; Gunderson v. Gunderson, 25 Wash. 459; Daniel v. Gold Hill Min. Co., 28 Wash. 411; Clark v. Eltinge, 29 Wash. 215.

Where the statutes of a state are not pleaded they are presumed to be the same as the laws of this state: Mantle v. Dabney, 44 Wash. 193..

§ 1260. (6046.) Certified Copies of Recorded Instruments as Evidence.

Whenever any deed, conveyance, bond, mortgage, or other writing shall have been recorded or filed in pursuance of law, copies of record of such deed, conveyance, bond, or other writing, duly certified by the officer having the lawful custody thereof, with the seal of the office annexed, if there be such seal, if there be no such seal, then with the official certificate of such officer, shall be received in evidence to all intents and purposes as the originals themselves. [Cf. L. '54, p. 195, § 335; L. '77, p. 95, § 433; Cd. '81, § 431; 2 H. C., § 1685.]

See infra, § 1304, copies of wills as evidence.

See infra, § 1386, copies of letters of administration as evidence.

Certified copies of records: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1141, 1142, §§ 113-118; Peters v. Gay, 9 Wash. 383; Smith v. Veysey, 30 Wash. 18; Greene v. Finnell, 22 Wash. 186; Seattle v. Parker, 13 Wash. 450; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318; Mason v. McGee, 15 Wash. 272; Spokane & Idaho Lumber Co. v. Loy, 21 Wash. 501; Goon Gan v. Richardson, 16 Wash. 373; Roberts v. Center, 26 Wash. 435; New Whatcom v. Bellingham Bay Imp. Co., 16 Wash. 131; Bringgold v. Spokane, 27 Wash. 202.

The original deed itself, regularly acknowledged, is admissible in evidence without further proof; and the legislature did not intend by this section to give to a certified copy any greater legal sanctity than that accorded the original document: Gardner v. Port Blakeley Mill Co., 8 Wash. 1.

The introduction of an original lien notice in evidence, with the auditor's certificate that it was "as the same appears of record," is sufficient proof of the fact and date of record: Fairhaven Land Co. v. Jordan, 5 Wash. 729.

In an action by a foreign corporation, a copy of its articles of incorporation and the appointment of an agent, certified by the Secretary of State as being of record in his office, are, under the statutes of this state (§§ 3698, 6101, infra), prima facie proof of the organization of such corporation and the right to transact business in this state: Knapp v. Strand, 4 Wash. 686.

A certified copy of a recorded instrument is admissible in evidence as an admission: Pearce v. Greek Boys' Mining Co., 48 Wash. 38.

§ 1260½. (1299.) Ordinances as Evidence.

All ordinances passed by any city council or board of trustees or other municipal corporation within the state of Washington shall be recorded in a book to be kept for that purpose by the city clerk, or clerk of such board of trustees or municipal corporation of such city, and when so recorded the record thereof so made shall be received in any court of this state as prima facie evidence of the due passage of such ordinances as recorded, and this chapter shall apply as well to all ordinances heretofore as hereafter so passed and recorded. And when the ordinances of any city or town are printed by authority of such municipal corporation, the printed copies thereof shall be received as prima facie evidence that such ordinances as printed and published were duly passed. [Cd. '81, § 2062; 1 H. C., § 766.]

Some of the provisions of this section are probably superseded by the statutes for the organization of cities and towns.

CITY OR TOWN LAWS AND ORDINANCES are by-laws, and not state laws; and are, in some respects, as distinct from laws of the state as are the laws of the several states from the laws of the United States: Thornton v. Territory, 3 W. T. 482.

Pleading and evidence: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2001, § 50; Seattle v. Doran, 5 Wash. 482; Seattle v. Pearson, 15 Wash. 575; New Whatcom v. Bellingham Bay Imp. Co., 16 Wash. 131; Seattle v. Turner, 29 Wash. 515; Hillman v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 14; Gove v. Tacoma, 34 Wash. 434.

§ 1261. Certified Copy of Tax Deeds.

Whenever it shall be necessary in any action in any court of law or equity, wherein the title to any real estate is in controversy, to prove the conveyance to any county of such real estate in pursuance of a foreclosure of a tax certificate and sale thereunder, a copy of the tax deed issued to the county containing a description of such real estate, exclusive of the description of all other real estate therein described, certified by the county auditor of the county wherein the real estate is situated, to be such, shall be admitted in evidence by the court, and shall be proof of the conveyance of the real estate in controversy to such county, to the same extent as would a certified copy of the entire record of such tax deed. [L. '05, p. 266, § 1.]

§ 1262. (6047.) Order for Inspection and to Take Copy of Writings, etc.

Any court, or judge thereof, in which an action is pending may, upon notice, order either party to give to the other, within a specified time, an inspection and copy, or permission to take a copy, of any book, document, or paper in his possession, or under his control, containing evidence relating to the merits of the action or defense therein. If compliance with the order be refused, the court may exclude the book, document, or paper from being given in evidence, or if wanted as evidence by the party applying, may direct the jury to presume it to be such as he alleges it to be, and the court may also punish the party refusing as for contempt. This section shall not be construed to prevent a party from compelling another to produce books, papers, or documents where he is examined as a witness. [L. '54, p. 195, § 332; Cd. '81, § 428; 2 H. C., § 1686.]

See supra, § 284, bill of particulars.

See supra, § 1216, and notes, subpoena duces tecum.

See supra, § 1226, interrogatories to adversary for discovery.

See infra, § 9309 et seq., proof of telegraphic copies.

Doubted, whether the production of documentary evidence can be enforced by interrogatories under § 1226, in view of this section: Cully v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 35 Wash. 241.

A party upon whom a demand is made for the inspection of papers or documents as provided by this section has the right to defeat the demand by showing that such documents or papers sought are not material to the support or defense of the action: Lawson v. Black Diamond Coal Min. Co., 44 Wash. 26.

After failure of a defendant to specifically answer interrogatories, filed for a discovery of facts and documents material to the support of the action, under § 1226, the court is not warranted in striking the answer and entering a default judgment for failure to produce and attach to the answer certain correspondence called for by the plaintiff under this section; since it was not the intention of the legislature to furnish a cumulative remedy by these two sections: Id.

§ 1263. (6048.) When Writing may be Read in Evidence, etc.

If either party, at any time before trial, allow the other an inspection of any writing material to the action, whether mentioned in the pleadings or not, and deliver to him a copy thereof, with notice that he intends to read the same in evidence on the trial of the cause, it may be so read without proof of its genuineness or execution, unless denied by affidavit before the commencement of the trial. If such denial be made of any writing not mentioned in the pleadings, the court may give time to either party to procure evidence, when necessary for the furtherance of justice. [L. '54, p. 195, § 333; Cd. '81, § 429; 2 H. C., § 1687.]

See supra, § 284, bill of particulars, etc.

Cited in 35 Wash. 619.

The fact that notice had been served upon the state to produce a certain memorandum-book at the trial of a criminal prosecution which the state was unable to produce for the reason that it had been removed from the jurisdiction of the court, will not preclude the state from contradicting oral testimony on the part of the defendant as to the contents of an entry in dispute: State v. Baldwin, 15 Wash. 15.

The failure to offer an inspection and serve a copy of a writing, before trial, is not a valid objection to the writing as evidence: Beebe v. Redward, 35 Wash. 615.

CHAPTER VII.

OATHS AND AFFIRMATIONS.

§ 1264. (6054.) Who Authorized to Take and Administer Oaths.

Every court, judge, clerk of a court, justice of the peace, or notary public is authorized to take testimony in any action, suit, or proceeding, and such other persons in particular cases as authorized by law. Every such court or officer is authorized to administer oaths and affirmations generally, and every such other persons in such particular case as authorized. [L. '69, p. 378, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1693.]

See supra, § 52, subd. 7, power to administer oaths.

See supra, § 59, subd. 3, power of judge, affidavit.

§ 1265. (6055.) Oath, How Administered.

An oath may be administered as follows: The person who swears holds up his hand, while the person administering the oath thus addresses him: "You do solemnly swear that the evidence you shall give in the issue (or matter) now pending between — and — shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God." If the oath be administered to any other than a witness giving testimony, the form may be changed to: "You do solemnly swear you will true answers make to such questions as you may be asked," etc. [L. '69, p. 378, § 2; 2 H. C., § 1694.]

§ 1266. (6056.) Form Varied to Suit Witnesses' Opinion.

Whenever the court or officer before which a person is offered as a witness is satisfied that he has a peculiar mode of swearing connected with or in addition to the usual form of administration, which, in witness' opinion, is more solemn or obligatory, the court or officer may, in its discretion, adopt that mode. [L. '69, p. 379, § 3; 2 H. C., § 1695.]

§ 1267. (6057.) Form Adapted to Suit Religious Belief.

When a person is sworn who believes in any other than the Christian religion, he may be sworn according to the [peculiar] ceremonies of his religion, if there be any such. [L. '69, p. 379, § 4; 2 H. C., § 1696.]

Where an oath has been administered to a Chinese witness according to the custom and religion of his country, the subsequent administration to him of an oath in the form prescribed by statute is not prejudicial error: State v. Gin Pon, 16 Wash. 425.

§ 1268. (6058.) Affirmation, Form of.

Any person who has conscientious scruples against taking an oath may make his solemn affirmation, by assenting, when addressed, in the following manner: "You do solemnly affirm that," etc., as in section 1265. [L. '69, p. 379, § 5; 2 H. C., § 1697.]

§ 1269. (6059.) Affirmation Equivalent to Oath—Perjury.

Whenever an oath is required, an affirmation as prescribed in the last section is to be deemed equivalent thereto, and a false affirmation is to be deemed perjury equally with a false oath. [L. '69, p. 379, § 6; 2 H. C., § 1698.]

See infra, §§ 2851-2854, penalty for perjury.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE RESTORATION OF LOST RECORDS.

§ 1270. (6063.) Substitution of Copy.

Whenever a pleading, process, return, verdict, bill of exceptions, order, entry, stipulation, or other act, file, or proceeding in any action or proceeding pending in any court of this state shall have been lost or destroyed by fire or otherwise, or is withheld by any person, such court may, upon the application of any party to such action or proceeding, order a copy or substantial copy thereof to be substituted. [L. '90, p. 337, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1699.]

Where an information is lost, the substitution of a new information at the trial, which is given a new number, is not an institution of a new prosecution: State v. McFadden, 42 Wash. 1.

§ 1271. (6064.) Court Records Lost or Destroyed—How Replaced.

Whenever the record required by law of the proceedings, judgment, or decree in any action or other proceeding of any court in this state in which a final judgment has been rendered, or any part thereof, is lost or destroyed by fire or otherwise, such court may, upon the application of any party interested therein, grant an order authorizing such record or parts thereof to be supplied or replaced,—

1. By a certified copy of such original record or part thereof, when the same can be obtained;

2. By a duly certified copy of the record in the supreme court of such original record of any action or proceeding that may have been removed to the supreme court, and remain recorded or filed in said supreme court;

3. By the original pleadings, entries, papers, and files in such action or proceeding, when the same can be obtained;

4. By an agreement in writing, signed by all the parties to such action or proceeding, their representatives or attorneys, that a substituted copy of such original record is substantially correct. [L. '90, p. 338, § 2; 2 H. C., § 1700.]

Under this section, a duly certified copy of a recorded deed is admissible without proof of the genuineness of the signatures to the deed: Chrast v. O'Connor, 41 Wash. 360.

§ 1272. (6065.) Action to Restore—Proceedings.

Whenever the record required by law, or any part thereof, of the proceeding or judgment or decree in any action or other proceeding of any court in this state in which the final judgment has been rendered is lost or destroyed by fire or otherwise, and such loss cannot be supplied or replaced as provided in the last preceding section, any person or party interested therein may make a written application to the court to which said record belongs, setting forth the substance of the record so lost or destroyed, which application shall be verified in the manner provided for the verification of pleadings in a civil action, and thereupon summons shall issue, and actual service, or service by publication, shall be made upon all persons interested in or affected by said original judgment or final entry, in the manner provided by law for the commencement of civil actions, provided the parties may waive the issuing or service of summons, and enter their appearance to such application; and upon the hearing of such application, without further pleadings, if the court finds that such record has been lost or destroyed, and that it is enabled, by the evidence produced, to find the substance, or effect thereof, material to the preservation of the rights of the parties thereto, it shall make an order allowing a record, which record shall recite the substance and effect of said lost or destroyed record, or part thereof, and the same shall thereupon be recorded in said court, and shall have the same effect as the original record would have if the same had not been lost or destroyed, so far as it concerns the rights of the parties so making the application, or persons or parties so served with summons, or entering their appearance, or persons claiming under them by a title acquired subsequently to the filing of the application. [L. '90, p. 338, § 3; 2 H. C., § 1701.]

§ 1273. (6066.) Hearing on Application—Evidence.

Upon the hearing of the application provided in the last preceding section, the court may admit in evidence oral testimony, and any complete or partial abstract of such record, docket entries, or indices, and any other written evidence of the contents or effect of such records and published reports concerning such actions or proceedings, when the court is of opinion that such abstracts, writings, and publications were fairly and honestly made before the loss of such records occurred. [L. '90, p. 339, § 4; 2 H. C., § 1702.]

§ 1274. (6067) Lost Records—Time Extended for Appeal, When.

Whenever a lost or destroyed judgment or order is one to which either party has a right to a proceeding in error or of appeal, the time intervening between the filing of the application mentioned in section 1272 and the final order of the court thereon shall be excluded in computing the time within which such proceeding or appeal may be taken as provided by law. [L. '90, p. 339, § 5; 2 H. C., § 1703.]

§ 1275. (6068.) Costs.

The costs to be taxed upon an application to restore a lost or destroyed record shall be the same as are provided for like service in civil actions, and may be adjudged against either or any party to such proceeding or application, or may, in the discretion of the court, be apportioned between such parties. [L. '90, p. 339, § 6; 2 H. C., § 1704.]

See supra, § 476 et seq., costs in civil cases.

See infra, § 1277, costs, by whom paid.

[L. '90, p. 340, § 7; 2 H. C., § 1705.]

§ 1277. (6070.) Costs, by Whom Paid.

The costs incurred in the superior courts in proceedings under this chapter shall be paid by the party or parties interested in such proceedings, or in whose behalf such proceedings are instituted. [L. '90, p. 340, § 8; 2 H. C., § 1706.]

CHAPTER I.

JURISDICTION AND POWERS OF THE COURT.

§ 1278. (6075.) Powers of Court.

The superior courts, in the exercise of their jurisdiction of matters of probate, shall have power,—

1. To take proof of wills, and to grant letters testamentary and of administration, and to bind apprentices as by law provided;
2. To settle the estates of deceased persons, and the accounts of executors, administrators, and guardians;

3. To allow or reject claims against the estates of deceased persons as hereinafter provided;

4. To hear and determine all controversies between masters and their apprentices;

5. To award process, and cause to come before them all persons whom they may deem it necessary to examine, whether parties or witnesses, or who, as executors, administrators, or guardians, or otherwise, shall be intrusted with or in any way accountable for any property belonging to a minor, orphan, or person of unsound mind, or estate of any deceased person;

6. To order and cause to be issued all writs which may be necessary to the exercise of their jurisdiction. [Cf. L. '54, p. 309, § 3; L. '73, p. 253, § 3; Cd. '81, § 1299; L. '91, p. 380, § 1; 2 H. C., § 845.]

See Const., Art. IV, § 6.

Courts of probate jurisdiction: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 729, 730, §§ 47-51; State ex rel. Cox v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 575; In re Macdonald's Estate, 29 Wash. 422; Reformed Presbyterian Church v. McMillan, 31 Wash. 643; Ball v. Clothier, 34 Wash. 299; In re Alfstad's Estate, 27 Wash. 175; In re Belt's Estate, 29 Wash. 535; Winston v. Crowe, 28 Wash. 65. See, also, 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1198, § 4; Dooley v. Russell, 10 Wash. 195; Furth v. United States Mtg. & T. Co., 13 Wash. 73; State ex rel. Warren v. Ayer, 17 Wash. 127.

Where the court acquires jurisdiction of a decedent's estate through a petition to appoint an administrator, which it denied, the court has power to proceed regularly to final distribution, although the widow may protest against any administration: In re Wilbur's Estate, 8 Wash. 35, 40 Am. St. Rep. 886.

The probate court has no jurisdiction to try title to real estate as between the representatives of an estate and the husband of the decedent, where the latter claims an interest adverse thereto: Stewart v. Lohr, 1 Wash. 341, 22 Am. St. Rep. 150; and where the probate court had no jurisdiction of the subject matter the appellate court could gain none: Id.

Under this section probate courts were invested with jurisdiction over the estates of deceased persons, and when such powers have been invoked by petition setting forth the jurisdictional facts, among others, absence of a party for more than seven years and that there is no evidence that he is still living, the court is warranted in finding that he is dead, and in ordering administration on his estate: Scott v. McNeal, 5 Wash. 309.

In such a case, the supposed deceased person, after his return to this state, cannot, as against an innocent purchaser or his grantees, maintain an action of ejectment to recover property sold under the decree of the probate court: Id.; overruled in 154 U. S. 34.

The power given probate courts by the legislature of Washington territory to make distribution of testator's estate to his minor children, when they were not provided for in his will, was not in contravention of the organic act (10 Stats. at L. 172) creating such courts: Webster v. Seattle Trust Co., 7 Wash. 642.

Under § 1444, infra, where the testator directs the management and settlement of his estate without the intervention of the probate court, the acts of the trustees cannot be called in question by any court, so long as they faithfully comply with the provisions of the will: Newport v. Newport, 5 Wash. 114.

A finding that a decedent was a resident of this state, with property therein, authorizes the court to administer thereon, and if the fact of residence is erroneously determined, the remedy is by appeal: State v. Superior Court, 11 Wash. 111.

Decree of territorial probate court, when cannot be collaterally attacked: Magee v. Big Bend Land Co., 51 Wash. 406.

§ 1279. (6076.) Records to be Kept.

There shall be kept in the office of the clerk of the superior court the following books of record of probate matters:—

1. A journal, in which shall be entered all orders, decrees and judgments made by the court, or the judge thereof, and the minutes of the court, in probate proceedings;

2. A record of wills, in which shall be recorded all wills admitted to probate;

3. A record of letters testamentary and of administration, in which all letters testamentary and of administration shall be recorded;

4. A record of bonds, in which all bonds and obligations required by law to be approved by the court or judge in matters of probate shall be recorded;

5. A record of petitions, in which all petitions for orders of sale of real estate shall be recorded;

6. A record of claims, in which at least one page shall be given to each estate, or case, wherein shall be entered, under the title of each estate, or case, in separate columns properly ruled,—1. The names of claimants against the estate; 2. The date of filing proof of claim; 3. The amount claimed; 4. The amount allowed; 5. The date of allowance; 6. The nature of the claim; 7. The amount paid; 8. The number of the voucher for each payment; 9. The date of filing the voucher;

7. A memorandum of the files, in which at least one page shall be given to each estate or case, wherein shall be noted each paper filed in the case, except proof of claims and vouchers noted in record of claims, and the date of filing each paper;

8. A record of marriages, in which certificates of all marriages solemnized in the county shall be recorded. [Cf. L. '54, p. 310, § 5; L. '60, p. 235, § 5; Cd. '81, § 1300; L. '91, p. 380, § 2; 2 H. C., § 846; Abb. R. P. S., pp. 360-373.]

Cited in 17 Wash. 489.

§ 1280. (6077.) Powers of Judge at Chambers.

The judges of the superior courts may, at chambers, appoint appraisers, receive inventories and accounts, suspend the powers of executors, administrators, or guardians in the cases allowed by law, grant letters of administration or guardianship, approve claims and bonds, and direct the issuance of all writs and process necessary in the exercise of their powers. [Cf. L. '65, p. 24, § 1; L. '73, p. 472, § 2; L. '75, p. 36, § 2; Cd. '81, § 2138; L. '91, p. 94, § 15; 2 H. C., § 847.]

See infra, § 1414, hearing in court or at chambers.

For power of judge at chambers, see 2 v. Schwabacher, 2 W. T. 130; Kalb v. Remington's Digest, p. 1570, § 15; Murne German S. & L. Soc., 25 Wash. 349.

CHAPTER II.

NOTICES AND CITATIONS.

§ 1281. (6081.) Personal Notice—Citation.

Whenever personal notice is required to be given to any party to a proceeding in matters of probate, and no other mode of giving notice is prescribed, it shall be given by citation issued from the court, signed by the clerk and under the seal of the court, directed to the sheriff of the proper county, requiring him to cite such person to appear before the court or judge, as the case may be, at a time and place to be named in such citation. In the body of the citation shall be briefly stated the nature or character of the proceedings. [L. '54, p. 305, § 226; Cd. '81, § 1311; L. '91, p. 381, § 3; 2 H. C., § 848.]

The officer to whom the citation is directed shall serve it by delivering a copy to the person or persons named therein, and shall return the original to § 1283. (6083.) Time of Service.

In all cases in which citations are issued from the superior court in probate proceedings, they shall be served at least ten days before the term [time] at which they are made returnable, except when issued from the court in cases where the law requires the judge to issue them upon his own motion, and he does so issue them; and in such cases they shall be served in sufficient time to allow the person served to be in attendance on the court. [Cf. L. '63, p. 206, § 46; L. '73, p. 256, § 18; Cd. '81, § 1313; L. '91, p. 381, § 4; 2 H. C., § 850.]

Sill, 39 Wash. 557; In re Clayson's Estate, 26 Wash. 253; Rader v. Stubblefield, 43 Wash. 334; Higgins v. Nethery, 30 Wash. 239.

A decree of one probate court escheating property to the territory, because the owner died intestate, leaving no heirs, is void, where the probate court of another county had already granted letters of administration of the estate, the decedent having been a nonresident, having died out of the territory, and leaving property in both counties: Territory v. Klee, 1 Wash. 183.

§ 1285. (6088.) Jurisdiction When Estate in Two Counties.

§ 1300. (6103.) Proof Where One Witness is Dead, etc.

When one of the witnesses to such will shall be examined, and the other witnesses are dead, insane, or their residence unknown, then such proof shall be taken of the handwriting of the testator, and of the witness dead, insane, or residence unknown, and of such other circumstances as would be sufficient to prove such will. [L. '54, p. 315, § 20; Cd. '81, § 1353; 2 H. C., § 865.]

Cited in 10 Wash. 558.

§ 1301. (6104.) Proof Where All Witnesses are Dead.

If it shall appear, to the satisfaction of the court, that all the subscribing witnesses are dead, insane, or their residence unknown, the court shall take and receive such proof of the handwriting of the testator and subscribing witnesses to the will, and of such other facts and circumstances as would be sufficient to prove such will. [L. '54, p. 315, § 21; Cd. '81, § 1354; 2 H. C., § 866.]

§ 1302. (6105.) Testimony, How Taken and Authenticated.

All the testimony adduced in support of the will shall be reduced to writing, signed by the witnesses, and certified by the judge of the court. [L. '54, p. 315, § 22; Cd. '81, § 1355; 2 H. C., § 867.]

§ 1303. (6106.) Recording Wills.

All wills shall be recorded in a book kept for that purpose, within thirty days after probate, and the originals shall be carefully filed. [L. '54, p. 316, § 26; Cd. '81, § 1356; 2 H. C., § 868.]

See supra, § 1276, restoration of lost probate records.

§ 1304. (6107.) Admissible in Evidence, When.

Every will proved according to the provisions of this chapter, recorded and certified by the judge of the superior court, and attested by the seal of said court, may be read as evidence without any further proof. [L. '54, p. 316, § 27; Cd. '81, § 1357; 2 H. C., § 869.]

See supra, § 1260, certified copies of records as evidence.

§ 1305. (6108.) Copies Admissible, When.

The record of any will made, proved, and recorded as aforesaid, and the exemplification of such record by the clerk in whose custody the same may be, shall be received as evidence, and shall be as effectual in all cases as the original would be if produced and proven. [Cf. L. '54 p. 316, § 28; Cd. '81, § 1358; L. '91, p. 382, § 7; 2 H. C., § 870.]

§ 1306. (6109.) Recorded in Other Counties, When.

In all cases where lands devised by last will are situated in different counties, a copy of such will shall be recorded in the county auditor's office in each county within six months after probate. [L. '54, p. 316, § 29; Cd. '81, § 1359; 2 H. C., § 871.]

§ 1307. (6110.) Contest of Will.

If any person interested in any will shall appear within one year after the probate or rejection thereof, and, by petition to the superior court having jurisdiction, contests the validity of said will, or pray to have the will proven which has been rejected, he shall file a petition containing his objections and exceptions to said will, or to the rejection thereof. Issue shall be made up, tried and determined in said court respecting the competency of the deceased to make last will and testament, or respecting the execution by the deceased of such last will and testament under restraint or undue influence or fraudulent representation, or for any other cause affecting the validity of such will. [Cf. L. '54, p. 316, § 30; L. '60, p. 176, § 63; L. '73, p. 264, § 64; Cd. '81, § 1360; L. '91, p. 382, § 8; 2 H. C., § 872.]

In an action to contest a will by persons claiming to be children of the testator, to whose complaint a motion is interposed requiring it to be made more specific in stating whether they are natural or adopted children, and, if adopted, how, when, and where it was done, an allegation setting up that the contestants believed that they had been legally adopted at some time and place not remembered or discovered, but evidence of which they expected to produce at the trial, does not show such interest in the will as entitles them to contest under the provisions of this section: In re Renton's Estate, 10 Wash. 533.

Phillips*, 34 Wash. 362.

§ 1308. (6111.) Interested Parties to be Cited.

Upon the filing of the petition referred to in the next preceding section, a citation shall be issued to the executors who have taken upon them the execution of the will, or to the administrators with the will annexed, and to all legatees named in the will residing in the state, or to their guardians if any of them are minors, or their personal representatives if any of them are dead, requiring them to appear before the court on a day therein specified, to show cause why the petition should not be granted. [Cf. L. '60, p. 176, § 64; Cd. '81, § 1361; L. '91, p. 382, § 9; 2 H. C., § 873.]

See supra, § 1281, citation.

§ 1309. (6112.) Adjudication Binding, When.

If no person shall appear within the time aforesaid, the probate or rejection of such will shall be binding, save to infants, married women, persons absent from the United States, or of unsound mind, a period of one year after their respective disabilities are removed. [Cf. L. '54, p. 316, § 32; L. '60, p. 176, § 65; Cd. '81, § 1362; 2 H. C., § 874.]

See infra, § 1378, disability of married women removed.

§ 1310. (6113.) Evidence Admitted at Time of Probate, Sufficient When.

In all trials respecting the validity of a will, if any subscribing witness be deceased, or cannot be found, the oath of such witness, examined at the time of probate, may be admitted as evidence. [L. '54, p. 317, § 33; L. '60, p. 177, § 66; Cd. '81, § 1363; 2 H. C., § 875.]

§ 1311. (6114.) Probate Annulled, When.

If, upon the trial of said issue, it shall be decided that the will is for any reason invalid, or that it is not sufficiently proved to have been the last will of the testator, the will and probate thereof shall be annulled and revoked. [L. '60, p. 177, § 67; Cd. '81, § 1364; 2 H. C., § 876.]

§ 1312. (6115.) Effect of Revocation.

Upon the revocation being made, the powers of the executor, or administrator with the will annexed shall cease, but such executor or administrator shall not be liable for any act done in good faith previous to service of written notice of intention to contest said will. [L. '60, p. 177, § 68; Cd. '81, § 1365; 2 H. C., § 877.]

§ 1313. (6116.) Costs and Expenses, by Whom Paid.

The fees and expenses shall be paid by the losing party. If the probate be revoked or the will annulled, the party who shall have resisted such revocation shall pay the cost and expenses of proceedings out of the property of the deceased. [L. '60, p. 177, § 69; Cd. '81, § 1366; 2 H. C., § 878.]

Costs, counsel fees and expenses: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2877, §§ 36, 37; State ex rel. Richardson v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 677; In re Gorkow's Estate, 20 Wash. 563; Hunt v. Phillips, 34 Wash. 362.

The unsuccessful contestant of a will, who claimed the estate under another will, is not entitled to an allowance out of the estate for costs of the contest, either in the lower or appellate court: In re Rathjen's Estate, 45 Wash. 55.

§ 1314. (6117.) Proof of Lost or Destroyed Will.

Whenever any will be lost or destroyed, by accident or design, the superior court shall have power to take proof of the execution and validity of the will, and to establish the same, notice to [all] persons interested having first been given; such proof shall be reduced to writing, and signed by the witnesses. But no will shall be allowed to be proved as a lost or destroyed will, unless the same shall be proved to have been in existence at the time of the death of the testator, or be shown to have been fraudulently destroyed in the lifetime of the testator, nor unless its provisions shall be clearly and distinctly proved by at least two credible witnesses. [L. '60, p. 177, § 70; L. '73, p. 265, § 71; Cd. '81, § 1367; 2 H. C., § 879.]

Cited in 10 Wash. 557.

Under this section the provisions of a lost will must be proved by at least two credible witnesses, and the declarations of the testator are inadmissible for that purpose: In re Harris' Estate, 10 Wash. 555.

In proceeding to establish a lost will its execution is sufficiently proved in the absence of any contradictory testimony, when one of the attesting witnesses testifies that he saw the testator and the other attesting witness, who had since died, sign an instrument which the former declared to be his will: Id.

An allegation in a petition to establish and prove a lost will stating that "said deceased, at the time of his death, left a will which your petitioner alleges to be the last will and testament of said deceased," is equivalent to alleging that the will was in existence at the time of the death of the testator, as required in this section, in such cases: Id.

§ 1315. (6118.) Decree—Recording.

When any such will shall be established, the provisions thereof shall be distinctly stated in the judgment establishing it, and a copy of such decree shall be certified by the clerk, under the seal of the court; and such copy, together with the testimony upon which the decree is founded, shall be recorded as other wills are required to be recorded, and letters testamentary or of administration, with the will annexed, shall be issued thereon, in the same manner as upon wills produced and duly proved. [Cf. L. '60, p. 177, § 71; Cd. '81, § 1368; L. '91, p. 382, § 10; 2 H. C., § 880.]

See supra, § 1276, restoration of lost probate records.

§ 1316. (6119.) Restraining Order Pending Such Proceedings.

If, before or during the pendency of an application to prove a lost or destroyed will, letters of administration be granted on the estate of the testator, or letters testamentary of any previous will of the testator be granted, the court shall have authority to restrain the administrators or executors so appointed from any acts or proceedings which would be injurious to the legatees or devisees claiming under the lost or destroyed will. [L. '60, p. 177, § 72; Cd. '81, § 1369; 2 H. C., § 881.]

§ 1317. (6120.) Foreign Wills, How Proved.

Wills probated in any other state or territory of the United States, or in any foreign country or state, shall be admitted to probate in this state on the production of a copy of such will and of the original record of probate thereof, authenticated by the attestation of the clerk of the court in which such probate was made; or if there be no clerk, by the attestation of the judge thereof, and by the seal of office of such officers, if they have a seal. [L. '77, p. 284, § 1; Cd. '81, § 1370; 2 H. C., § 882.]

Upon the death of a nonresident testator, and the original probate of his will in a county in this state, wherein he left the bulk of his real and personal property, the administration of the estate in the court of such county should be considered the principal one, and a subsequent probate at the place of his domicile only ancillary thereto: Rader v. Stubblefield, 43 Wash. 334.

§ 1318. (6121.) Foreign Wills, Proceedings After Probate.

All provisions of law relating to the carrying into effect of domestic wills after probate shall, so far as applicable, apply to foreign wills admitted to probate in this state, as contemplated in the preceding section. [L. '77, p. 284, § 2; Cd. '81, § 1371; 2 H. C., § 883.]

The provisions of this section make all provisions relating to probate of domestic wills applicable to a foreign will when admitted to probate in this state: Dunn v. Peterson, 4 Wash. 170, 172.

The personal property of a nonresident testator will be distributed according to the law of his domicile: Rader v. Stubblefield, 43 Wash. 334.

CHAPTER V.

WILLS.

§ 1319. (4594.) Who may Devise.

Every person who shall have attained the age of majority, of sound mind, may by last will devise all his or her estate, real and personal. [L. '54, p. 313, § 1; L. '60, p. 169, § 18; L. '63, p. 207, § 51; Cd. '81, § 1318; 1 H. C., § 1458.]

See supra, § 1287 et seq., and notes, probate of wills.

See infra, § 1341 et seq., descent and distribution.

Married woman can devise her property by will to the same extent and in the same manner that her husband can property belonging to him: See infra, § 5918.

Cited in 7 Wash. 411; 47 Wash. 78-81.

Testamentary capacity: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2871, 2872, §§ 1-7; Kromer v. Friday, 10 Wash. 621; Jackson v. Thompson, 38 Wash. 282; Higgins v. Nethery, 30 Wash. 239; Rathjens v. Merrill, 38 Wash. 442.

The right to make a testamentary disposition of property is governed by the laws in force at the date of the testator's death, and wills must conform thereto: Strand v. Stewart, 51 Wash. 685.

Where there was ample testimony that the testator was sane at all times and rarely intoxicated, and that he was both sane and sober at the time of the execution of the will, a finding of testamentary capacity will not be disturbed on appeal, although there was conflicting testimony to the effect that he was frequently intoxicated and insane at intervals: In re Rathjen's Estate, 45 Wash. 55.

A finding of want of testamentary capacity is warranted by the evidence where it appears that the decedent was seventy-eight years of age, that his wife died nine days before, causing him great mental anguish, that he languished physically until his death nine days thereafter, the will being made four days before his death, at night, in the house of the sole devisee, who was not related to him, no mention being made of his children or grandchildren, and no disposition made of a small amount of the property excepted from the general devise, and where there was evidence that at the time his mind was wandering, weak and feeble: In re Wetmore's Estate, 44 Wash. 567.

There is sufficient evidence to support findings of testamentary capacity and want of undue influence in the making of a will, revoking a will made seventeen days before in favor of the testator's wife, where it appears that the husband and wife were estranged, that divorce suits had been instituted with charges and counter-charges, that she refused to respond to his repeated appeals for a reconciliation, that the beneficiaries in the will were miles away for two months immediately preceding the execution of the will, and that just before committing suicide, the testator left a note declaring that he was about to kill himself on account of his wife, and to will his property to his friends: In re Rathjen's Estate, 45 Wash. 55.

§ 1320. (4595.) Requisites, and Execution of.

Every will shall be in writing, signed by the testator or testatrix, or by some other person under his or her direction in his presence, and shall be attested by two or more competent witnesses, subscribing their names to the will in the presence of the testator. [L. '54, p. 313, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1319; 1 H. C., § 1459.]

See supra, notes to § 1314, proof of lost or destroyed wills.

See supra, note to § 1319, what law governs.

§ 1321. (4596.) Signing Testator's Name.

Every person who shall sign the testator's or testatrix's name to any will by his or her direction shall subscribe his own name as a witness to such will, and state that he subscribed the testator's name at his request. [L. '54, p. 313, § 5; Cd. '81, § 1320; 1 H. C., § 1460.]

§ 1322. (4597.) Will in Writing, Revocation of.

No will in writing, except in cases hereinafter mentioned, nor any part thereof, shall be revoked except by a subsequent will in writing, or by burning, canceling, tearing, or obliterating the same, by the testator or testatrix, or in his or her presence, or by his or her consent or direction. [L. '54, p. 313, § 6; Cd. '81, § 1321; 1 H. C., § 1461.]

Revocation of will: See note to § 1329, infra.

§ 1323. (4598.) Revocation of by Subsequent Marriage, When.

If, after making any will, the testator shall marry and the wife shall be living at the time of the death of the testator, such will shall be deemed revoked, unless provision shall have been made for her by marriage settlement, or unless she be provided for in the will, or in such way mentioned therein as to show an intention not to make such provision, and no other evidence to rebut the presumption of revocation shall be received. [L. '54, p. 313, § 7; Cd. '81, § 1322; 1 H. C., § 1462.]

The will of a feme sole is revoked by her marriage if her husband survives her, under this section, so providing as to a man whose wife survives, and § 1340, providing that words importing the masculine gender may be extended to females, when such construction is necessary, in view of our community property laws placing man and wife upon an equality as to property rights, testamentary capacity, and right of inheritance: In re Pettridge's Will, 47 Wash. 77.

Under this section marriage does not revoke a former will making a bequest in favor of the person who became the wife of the testator, where there was nothing in the will to show a counter intent, revocation of wills by implication not being favored: In re Adler's Estate, 52 Wash. 539.

§ 1324. (4599.) Bond to Convey not Deemed Revocation.

A bond, covenant, or agreement made for a valuable consideration by a testator to convey any property, devised or bequeathed in any last will previously made, shall not be deemed a revocation of such previous devise or bequest, but such property shall pass by the devise or bequest, subject to the same remedies on such bond, covenant, or agreement, for specific performance or otherwise, against devisees or legatees, as might be had by law against the heirs of the testator or his next of kin, if the same had descended to him. [L. '54, p. 314, § 9; Cd. '81, § 1323; 1 H. C., § 1463.]

§ 1325. (4600.) Charge or Encumbrance not Deemed Revocation.

A charge or encumbrance upon any real or personal estate for the purpose of securing the payment of money, or the performance of any covenant or agreement, shall not be deemed a revocation of any will relating to the same estate, previously executed. The devises and legacies therein contained shall pass and take effect, subject to such charge or encumbrance. [L. '54, p. 314, § 10; Cd. '81, § 1324; 1 H. C., § 1464.]

§ 1326. (4601.) Void When Children not Provided for.

If any person make his last will and die, leaving a child or children, or descendants of such child or children, in case of their death, not named or provided for in such will, although born after the making of such will, or the death of the testator, every such testator, so far as he shall regard such child or children, or their descendants, not provided for, shall be deemed to die intestate, and such child or children, or their descendants, shall be entitled to such proportion of the estate of the testator, real and personal, as if he had died intestate, and the same shall be assigned to them, and all the other heirs, devisees, and legatees shall refund their proportional part. [L. '54, p. 314, § 11; Cd. '81, § 1325; 1 H. C., § 1465.]

See infra, § 1699, descent as to adopted children.

Requisites and validity: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2873, 2874, §§ 8-13; Van Brocklin v. Wood, 38 Wash. 384; Morrison v. Morrison, 25 Wash. 467; Webster v. Thorndyke, 11 Wash. 390; McKnight v. McDonald, 34 Wash. 98; In re Gorkow's Estate, 20 Wash. 563; Cross v. Cross, 23 Wash. 673.

This section applies to the testator's community as well as to his separate property: Hill v. Hill, 7 Wash. 409; and under the settled construction proof of the testator's intention to make provision for his children, outside the language of the will itself, is inadmissible: Id.

Under this section parol evidence is inadmissible, where a testator devised all his property to his wife and her heirs, to show that at the time the will was made he had in mind his children, and that in devising his property to his wife he thereby intended to, and did, provide for them: Bower v. Bower, 5 Wash. 225.

A bequest of all of decedent's property to her husband must be held void, under this section, there being a child living, when the only reference to him was in a proviso to the bequest to the husband providing that if he "should marry again after my demise all my property, both real and personal, is to belong to any one or more children that may be born to me before my demise": Purdy v. Davis, 13 Wash. 164; following Bower v. Bower, 5 Wash. 225; In re Barker's Estate, 5 Wash. 390.

A will, by the terms of which the testator gives and bequeaths all her property to her beloved husband, "to the exclusion of every one else who may be or might be entitled to the same," is ineffectual as against the testator's children, under this section: In re Barker's Estate, supra.

Where a will is void as to children for the reason that it fails to comply with this section, the proper remedy is to move the court to proceed with the administration of the testator's estate, and, as a part of such administration, to decree and set over to the children the proportion to which they would be entitled if the testator had died intestate: Id.

Although a will may, under the provisions of this section, be inoperative as to the testator's children, and they entitled to share in his estate as if he had died intestate, yet the will is valid for all other purposes, and a devise of all the testator's estate to his wife during her lifetime, with remainder to his heirs, will operate, where there are two children, to give the widow but a life estate in one-third of the testator's separate property: Webster v. Seattle Trust Co., 7 Wash. 642.

A will devising all the testator's real estate to his wife, and which expressly declares that it is the last will and testament of testator, cannot be construed as a codicil to a former will whereby all the realty was devised to the wife, and certain sums bequeathed to the children, but such former will was necessarily revoked by the last; and the last will, not naming or providing for the children, is inoperative as to them: Mason v. McLean, 6 Wash. 31.

A decree vesting one-half of community property in the children of a testator remains unaffected by the setting aside of a decree rendered in the same cause upon proceedings in intervention declaring the rights of the parties to be as decreed in the original action, except that the interests of all should be subject to the lien of a certain mortgage: Id.

Where a testator dies leaving any child not named or provided for in his will, he is, under this section, deemed to have died intestate as to such child: Bower v. Bower, 5 Wash. 225; In re Barker's Estate, 5 Wash. 390; Mason v. McLean, 6 Wash. 31; Hill v. Hill, 7 Wash. 409; Webster v. Seattle Trust Co., 7 Wash. 642; Purdy v. Davis, 13 Wash. 164; In re Gorkow's Estate, 20 Wash. 563; Morrison v. Morrison, 25 Wash. 466.

§ 1327. (4602.) Advancements, Effect of.

If such child or children, or their descendants, shall have an equal proportion of the testator's estate bestowed on them in the testator's lifetime, by way of advancement, they shall take nothing by virtue of the provisions of the preceding sections. [L. '54, p. 314, § 12; Cd. '81, § 1326; 1 H. C., § 1466.]

See infra, § 1348 et seq., advancements by decedent dying intestate.

§ 1328. (4603.) Of Devise, Where Devisee Dies Before Testator.

When any estate shall be devised to any child, grandchild, or other relative of the testator, and such devisee shall die before the testator, having lineal descendants, such descendants shall take the estate, real and personal, as such devisee would have done in case he had survived the testator. [L. '54, p. 314, § 13; Cd. '81, § 1327; 1 H. C., § 1467.]

See supra, § 1307, and notes, contest of will.

Cited in 10 Wash. 538, 539.

A wife is not a "relative" of her husband within the terms of this section: In re Renton's Estate, 10 Wash. 533.

§ 1329. (4604.) Revocation of Second Will Revives First, When.

If, after making any will, the testator shall duly make and execute a second will, the destruction, canceling, or revocation of such second will shall not revive the first will unless it appears by the terms of such revocation that it was his intention to revive and give effect to the first will, or unless he shall duly republish his first will. [L. '54, p. 315, § 14; Cd. '81, § 1328; 1 H. C., § 1468.]

§ 1330. (4605.) Nuncupative Will Valid, When.

No nuncupative will shall be good when the estate bequeathed exceeds the value of two hundred dollars, unless the same be proved by two witnesses who were present at the making thereof, and it be proven that the testator, at the time of pronouncing the same, did bid some person present to bear witness that such was his will, or to that effect, and such nuncupative will was made at the time of the last sickness and at the dwelling house of the deceased, or where he had been residing for the space of ten days or more, except where such person was taken sick from home and died before his return. Nothing herein contained shall prevent any mariner at sea or soldier in the military service from disposing of his wages or other personal property by nuncupative will. [L. 54, p. 315, §§ 23, 24; Cd. '81, § 1329; 1 H. C., § 1469.]

Upon the probate of a nuncupative will, the court may, in the exercise of its sound discretion, permit the alleged will and records to be amended to conform to the facts found: In re Miller's Estate, 47 Wash. 253.

A nuncupative will is made "during the last sickness" of the testator, without reference to the fact of extremis or that there was opportunity to reduce it to writing, where the testator expected he was in his last sickness and about to die, and did thereafter die thereof: Id.

§ 1331. (4606.) Proof of Nuncupative Will.

No proof shall be received of any nuncupative will unless it be offered within six months after speaking the testamentary words, nor unless the words, or the substance thereof, be first committed to writing, and a citation issued to the widow or next of kin of the deceased, that they may contest the will if they think proper. [L. '54, p. 316, § 25; Cd. '81, § 1330; 1 H. C., § 1470.]

§ 1332. (4607.) Devises to Witnesses Void, When.

All beneficial devises, legacies, and gifts whatever, made or given in any will to a subscribing witness thereto, shall be void unless there are two other competent witnesses to the same; but a mere charge on the estate of the testator for the payment of debts shall not prevent his creditors from being competent witnesses to his will. If such witness, to whom any beneficial devise, legacy, or gift may have been made or given, would have been entitled to any share in the testator's estate in case the will is not established, then so much of the estate as would have descended or would have been distributed to such witness shall be saved to him as will not exceed the value of the devise or bequest made to him in the will; and he may recover the same from the devisees or legatees named in the will in proportion to and out of the parts devised and bequeathed to him. [L. '60, p. 171, §§ 34, 35; Cd. '81, § 1331; 1 H. C., § 1471.]

§ 1333. (4608.) Devise of Land, How Construed.

Every devise of land in any will shall be construed to convey all the estate of the devisor therein which he could lawfully devise, unless it shall clearly appear by the will that he intended to convey a less estate. [L. '60, p. 172, § 36; Cd. '81, § 1332; 1 H. C., § 1472.]

A sale of land by virtue of a partition proceeding brought by the purchaser of a wife's community half interest is not subject to a deceased husband's will providing for the retention of the land until his children arrive at majority: Kromer v. Friday, 10 Wash. 621.

Under the legislation of this state relating to the property rights of husband and wife, a wife cannot claim a homestead in the separate property of her deceased husband, which he has by will devised to another: In re Eyre's Estate, 7 Wash. 291.

Under this section a will passes an absolute fee simple title instead of a life estate, when the will devises the residue "to my cripple son, Charles. . . . In case of his death it is my desire that my sole property shall be applied to the school fund of Wilbur," since it must be construed that the testator had reference to the possibility of the devisee's death before his own: Reeves v. School District, 24 Wash. 282.

§ 1334. (4609.) Estate for Life, Remainder in Fee.

If any person, by last will, devise any real estate to any person for the term of such person's life, such devise vests in the devisee an estate for life, and without the remainder is specially devised to the heirs of said devisee, it shall revert to the heirs at law of the testator. [L. '54, p. 318, § 45; Cd. '81, § 1333; 1 H. C., § 1473.]

Cited in 47 Wash. 254.

§ 1335. (4610.) After-acquired Lands Pass by Will.

Any estate, rights, or interest in lands acquired by the testator after the making of his or her will shall pass thereby, and in like manner as if it passed at the time of making the will, if such shall manifestly appear by the will to have been the intention of the testator. [L. '60, p. 172, § 38; Cd. '81, § 1334; 1 H. C., § 1474.]

§ 1336. (4611.) Contribution Among Legatees.

When any testator in his last will shall give any chattel or real estate to any person, and the same shall be taken in execution for the payment of the testator's debts, then all the other legatees, devisees, and heirs shall refund their proportional part of such loss to such person from whom the bequest shall be taken. [L. '54, p. 318, § 47; Cd. '81, § 1335; 1 H. C., § 1475.]

§ 1337. (4612.) Contribution, When Court may Enforce.

When any devisees, legatees, or heirs shall be required to refund any part of the estate received by them, for the purpose of making up the share, devise, or legacy of any other devisee, legatee, or heir, the superior court, upon the petition of the person entitled to contribution or distribution of such estate, may order the same to be made, and enforce such order. [L. '54, p. 318, § 48; Cd. '81, § 1336; 1 H. C., § 1476.]

A judgment creditor of a devisee under a will acquires no lien against the devisee's interest in the realty of the estate, when the devisee is indebted to the state in excess of the value of his share: Boyer v. Robinson, 26 Wash. 117.

§ 1338. (4613.) Term "Will" Construed.

The term "will," as used in this chapter, shall be so construed as to include all codicils attached to any will. [L. '54, p. 319, § 49; Cd. '81, § 1337; 1 H. C., § 1477.]

§ 1339. (4614.) Construction of Wills.

All courts and others concerned in the execution of last wills shall have due regard to the direction[s] of the will, and the true intent and meaning of the testator, in all matters brought before them. [L. '54, p. 319, § 50; Cd. '81, § 1338; 1 H. C., § 1478.]

Horst*, 23 Wash. 446; Reformed Presbyterian Church v. McMillan, 31 Wash. 643; Rathjens v. Merrill, 38 Wash. 442; Hunt v. Hunt, 18 Wash. 14.

The fact that technical and apt words of conveyance are not used in framing a will is immaterial if the intent of the testator to pass the title to real estate appears from the language used, when construed as a whole: Webster v. Thorn-dyke, 11 Wash. 390.

In the particular case, held that the will must be construed as passing title to the realty to the executor, and that he was given full power to sell the property and apply the proceeds as directed in the will: Id.

If a testator provides by will that the trustees of his estate shall manage and settle the estate in the manner directed in his will without the intervention of a court having jurisdiction, the power of such trustees is derived from the will and their duty prescribed by it, and, so long as they faithfully comply with its provisions, their acts cannot be called in question by any court: Newport v. Newport, 5 Wash. 114.

Upon the death of one of the devisees under such will before having attained his majority, the administrator of his estate is entitled to demand and receive his portion from the executor: Rogers v. Strobach, 15 Wash. 472.

A will bequeathing to each of the testator's two children one-half of all the moneys that may be realized from the sale of all his real and personal property, to be paid to them on their attaining the age of twenty-one years, respectively, is a devise to the children and not to the executor, though the will may further provide that all the property is devised to an executor in trust, with power to sell same and invest the proceeds in securities, until the children attain their majority, when principal and interest is to be paid over to them: Id.

A will devising and bequeathing to certain persons all the testator's property, "in trust, nevertheless, to and for the following uses and purposes," etc., constitutes such persons trustees, though they may be denominated in the will as executors, especially when it appears from the will construed as an entirety, that such was the intent of the testator, inasmuch as a nonresident is named as one of the executors and certain trust property of the testator is included in the devise: Smith v. Smith, 15 Wash. 239.

A will making the executrix a trustee for the purpose of paying creditors applies only to creditors who qualify by proving their claims, after publication of notice to creditors: Foley v. McDonnell, 48 Wash. 272.

§ 1340. (4615.) Words Importing Number and Gender, How Construed.

Words in this chapter contained, or in this act, which import the singular number only, may also be applied to the plural of persons and things, and words importing the masculine gender only may be extended to females also, when such construction shall be necessary. [Cd. '81, § 1339; 1 H. C., § 1479.]

CHAPTER VI.

DESCENT.

§ 1341. (4620.) Descent of Real Property—Rule of.

When any person shall die seised of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or any right thereto, or entitled to any interest therein, in fee simple, or for the life of another, not having devised the same, they shall descend subject to the debts as follows:—

1. If the decedent leaves a surviving husband or wife, and only one child, or the lawful issue of one child, in equal shares to the surviving husband or wife and child, or issue of such child; if the decedent leaves a surviving husband or wife, and more than one child living, or one child living and the lawful issue of one or more deceased children, one-third to the surviving husband or wife, and the remainder in equal shares to his children and to the lawful issue of any deceased child by right of representation; if there be no child of the decedent living at his death, the remainder goes to all of his lineal descendants; and if all the descendants are in the same degree of kindred to the decedent, they share equally; otherwise they take according to the right of representation;

2. If the decedent leaves no issue, the estate goes in equal shares to the surviving husband or wife, and to the decedent's father and mother, if both survive. If there be no father nor mother, then one-half goes in equal shares to the brothers and sisters of the decedent, and to the children of any deceased brothers or sisters, by right of representation. If decedent leaves no issue, nor husband nor wife, the estate must go to his father and mother;

3. If there be no issue, nor husband nor wife, nor father and mother, nor either, then in equal shares to the brothers and sisters of the decedent, and to the children of any deceased brother or sister, by right of representation;

4. If the decedent leaves a surviving husband or wife and no issue, and no father nor mother, nor brother nor sister, the whole estate goes to the surviving husband or wife;

5. If the decedent leaves no issue, nor husband nor wife, and no father nor mother, nor brother nor sister, the estate must go to the next of kin, in equal degree, excepting that when there are two or more collateral kindred in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through the nearest ancestor must be preferred to those claiming through an ancestor more remote, however;

6. If the decedent leaves several children, or one child and the issue of one or more other children, and any such surviving child dies under age, and not having been married, all the estate that comes to the deceased child by inheritance from such decedent descends in equal shares to the other children of the same parent, and to the issue of any such other children who are dead, by right of representation;

7. If, at the death of such child, who dies under age, not having been married, all the other children of his parents are also dead, and any of them have left issue, the estate that came to such child by inheritance from his parent descends to the issue of all other children of the same parent and if all the issue are in the same degree of kindred to the child, they share the estate equally; otherwise they take according to the right of representation;

8. If the decedent leaves no husband, wife, or kindred, the estate escheats to the state, for the support of common schools in the county in which the decedent resided during lifetime, or where the estate may be situated. [L. '75, p. 53, § 1; Cd. '81, § 3302; 1 H. C., § 1480.]

See supra, § 1326, and notes, wills.

It is the decedent's separate property that is spoken of in this section: Morgan v. Bell, 3 Wash. 554, 562.

The statutes of descent make the wife an heir of the husband, but no reason exists for enlarging its provisions: In re Renton's Estate, 10 Wash. 533, 539.

If the owner of lands dies intestate, leaving no husband or wife, or kindred, the lands escheat to the state under this section (subdivision 8), and the title vests immediately in the state on the death of owner, without the aid or intervention of the probate court: Territory v. Klee, 1 Wash. 183.

A decree of one probate court escheating property to the territory for the support of public schools, because the owner died intestate, leaving no kindred or wife, is void, where the probate court of another county has already granted letters of administration of the estate, the decedent having been a nonresident, and having died outside of the territory, leaving property in both counties: Id.

An action to quiet title cannot be maintained by an heir until after the close of the administration upon his ancestor's estate: Hazelton v. Bogardus, 8 Wash. 102; see Dunn v. Peterson, 4 Wash. 170; Balch v. Smith, 4 Wash. 497; but see infra § 1366 et seq., later enactment.

The passage of the act of 1875 regulating the descent of property did not operate to prevent the act passed on the same day relating to adoption from becoming a law, but the two must be construed together as one act: In re Wilbur's Estate, 14 Wash. 242.

Under statutes 11 and 12 William III, chapter 6, modifying the common law of England so as to enable English subjects to inherit from an alien, and which is a part of our common law, and under our constitution giving an alien a right to take title by inheritance, no disability exists in an alien to transmit title by inheritance, and aliens may receive title by inheritance from an alien: Abrams v. State, 45 Wash. 327.

First cousins take to the exclusion of second cousins under subdivision 5, providing that in the absence of issue, husband, wife, father, mother, brothers or sisters, the estate shall go to the next of kin, in equal degree, excepting that, of collateral kindred claiming through different ancestors, those claiming through the nearest ancestor shall be preferred: In re Sullivan's Estate, 48 Wash. 631.

§ 1342. (4621.) Descent of Community Property.

Upon the death of either husband or wife, one-half of the community property shall go to the survivor, subject to the community debts, and the other half shall be subject to the testamentary disposition of the deceased husband or wife, subject also to the community debts. In case no testamentary disposition shall have been made by the deceased husband or wife of his or her half of the community property, it shall descend equally to the legitimate issue of his, her, or their bodies. If there be no issue of said deceased living, or none of their representatives living, then the said community property shall all pass to the survivor, to the exclusion of collateral heirs, subject to the community debts, the family allowance, and the charges and expenses of administration. [Cf. L. '75, p. 55, § 2; Cd. '81, §§ 3303, 2411, 2412; 1 H. C., § 1481.]

Upon the death of a husband his community real property descends one-half to the wife and one-half, share and share alike, to his children, who become tenants in common: Schlarb v. Castaing, 50 Wash. 331.

Under this section, upon the death of either husband or wife, the whole community estate, and not merely the decedent's interest therein, is subject to administration proceedings for the payment of community debts: Ryan v. Ferguson, 3 Wash. 356; see, also, In re Hill's Estate, 6 Wash. 288; Sadler v. Neisz, 5 Wash. 193.

Under the statute requiring the property of the community to be administered with the estate of that member of the community who is first deceased, the widow of a decedent cannot maintain an action for her half interest in a community contract until after a decree of distribution in the probate proceedings is had: Lawrence v. Bellingham Bay etc. Ry. Co., 4 Wash. 664.

Although it is proper that the community estate should be administered upon by the legal representatives of the wife, she having died first, yet, where an administrator with the will annexed has been appointed for the wife's estate subsequent to death of husband, who was acting as executor thereof, and such administrator does not proceed with diligence to obtain possession of the community property, but sits by for a year and a half and sees the same administered, in the settlement of the estate of the husband, such administrator is estopped from asserting any claim of right to administer the community estate: In re Hill's Estate, 6 Wash. 285.

Where a husband acts as administrator of a deceased wife's will, but, at the time of his death, has not completed administration upon her estate, and the executors of his own will take possession and administer upon all the property the husband held, including the separate and community estate of the deceased wife, such administration by his executors is merely irregular and not void, nor do the ordinary rules relating to the liability of executors de son tort apply thereto: Id.

Under the statutes of this state providing for the descent of community property, one-half of which shall go to the survivor and the other half to the children, the portion received by any child, whether real or personal, will, on its decease, descend to its brothers and sisters and not to the surviving parent: In re Forts' Estate, 14 Wash. 10.

Where there has been no administration upon the estate of the wife, or upon the community property, for a period of eight years after her death, her husband and only child surviving her, the presumption is that as to the community property there was no necessity for administration, and that the right of the child to the possession of his share in the community real estate as heir of his mother is complete: Hill v. Young, 7 Wash. 33.

Where all the parties are before the court concerning an application for the sale of decedent's lands, a decree that a marriage existed between the decedent and a woman claiming to be his wife, and that certain land left by decedent was community property, in which she had a half interest, must stand against collateral attack, if the court had jurisdiction: Kromer v. Friday, 10 Wash. 621.

Upon the death of a wife the power of the husband to dispose of community realty, although acquired before the act of 1869, ceased, and the property became vested by moieties in the husband and the children: Hill v. Young, supra.

Under this section a mortgage by the survivor purporting to embrace his whole estate is valid as to his undivided one-half interest: Wortman v. Voorhies, 14 Wash. 152, 154; citing Tucker v. Brown, 9 Wash. 357; Hill v. Young, 7 Wash. 33.

Real property acquired by the community under the provisions of the law of 1869 which gave the husband power to convey the entire title by his separate deed, could not be conveyed away by the husband after his wife's death, so as to pass her interest, while the law of 1871 (Laws 1871, p. 73, § 22), declaring that one-half the community property should belong to the wife and her heirs forever, was in force: Mabie v. Whittaker, 10 Wash. 656.

The legislature has power to change the law of descent as to community lands previously acquired: Id.

If a party dies possessed of an interest in community property which is not required to pay the community debts, and is not otherwise exempt, such interest is liable for his separate debts when his separate property is exhausted: Columbia Nat. Bank v. Embree, 2 Wash. 331.

Under §§ 1528, 1530, infra, authorizing the probate court to order a sale of the mortgaged property of a decedent, if the redemption thereof is not deemed expedient, community property mortgaged by a decedent and his wife may be ordered sold for the purpose of paying the mortgaged debt: Ryan v. Ferguson, 3 Wash. 356.

A sale by a father of his minor children's portion of a community estate inherited from their deceased mother, when not made under order of the probate court, cannot in an action against the children by the grantees to quiet title, be treated as having been made for the benefit of the heirs and as subject to confirmation in such action, on the theory of necessity for such sale, even though the grantees had in good faith purchased and improved the property, as the children would not be estopped by any dishonest conduct on the part of their father in making the sale: Bjmerland v. Eley, 15 Wash. 101.

§ 1343. (4622.) Tenancy in Dower and by Curtesy Abolished.

The provisions of section 1341, as to the inheritance of the husband and wife from each other, apply only to the separate property of the decedents, and take the place of tenancy in dower and tenancy by curtesy, which are hereby abolished. [L. '75, p. 55, § 3; Cd. '81, § 3304; 1 H. C., § 1482.]

See infra, § 5922, prohibition against such tenancy.

See Ballinger on Community Property, §§ 218, 253.

Cited in 10 Wash. 539; 14 Wash. 15.

This section is not void for the reason that it is not embraced within the objects of the law within which it is found and enacted: Richards v. Bellingham Bay L. Co., 54 Fed. 209.

The inchoate right of dower is not such a vested right or interest as cannot be taken away by legislative action: Richards v. Bellingham Bay L. Co., supra; and dower as it existed in Washington territory prior to the Laws of 1879, page 79, § 18, which abolished dower, was not a right "established, accrued, or accruing," as to which, by § 31, such act was not to be construed as operating retrospectively: Richards v. Bellingham Bay L. Co., supra.

At a time when the right of dower existed in Washington territory, a husband conveyed land without joining his wife in the deed, and, at the time of his death, this section and § 5923, infra, were in force, abolishing dower. Held, that the widow was not entitled to dower in the land so conveyed (47 Fed. 854, affirmed): Richards v. Bellingham Bay L. Co., supra.

This section limits the operation of § 1341, supra, in husbands and wives inheriting from each other, to separate property: In re Forts' Estate, 14 Wash. 10, 15.

§ 1344. (4623.) Survivorship Between Joint Tenants Abolished.

If partition be not made between joint tenants, the parts of those who die first shall not accrue to the survivors, but descend, or pass by devise, and shall be subject to debts and other legal charges, or transmissible to executors or administrators, and be considered, to every intent and purpose, in the same view as if such deceased joint tenants had been tenants in common: Provided, that community property shall not be affected by this section. [L. '86, p. 165, § 1; 1 H. C., § 1483.]

§ 1345. (4624.) Illegitimate Child, Rights of.

Every illegitimate child shall be considered as an heir to the person who shall in writing, signed in the presence of a competent witness, have acknowledged himself to be the father of such child, and shall in all cases be considered as heir of his mother, and shall inherit his or her estate, in whole or in part, as the case may be, in the same manner as if he had been born in lawful wedlock; but he shall not be allowed to claim, as representing his father or mother, any part of the estate of his or her kindred, either lineal or collateral, unless before his death his parents shall have intermarried, and his father, after such marriage, shall have acknowledged him as aforesaid, and adopted him into his family, in which case such child and the legitimate children shall be considered as brothers and sisters, and on the death of either of them intestate, and without issue, the others shall inherit his estate, and he theirs, as heretofore provided in like manner as if all the children had been legitimate, saving to the father and mother, respectively, their rights in the estates of all the said children, as provided heretofore, in like manner as if all had been legitimate. ment of a few dollars to her relatives, no marriage ceremony being celebrated, the issue of such a union is illegitimate and incapable of inheriting the father's estate: Kelley v. Kitsap Co., 5 Wash. 521.

§ 1346. (4625.) Property of Illegitimate Child, Descent of.

If any illegitimate child shall die intestate without lawful issue, his estate shall descend to his mother, or in case of her decease, to her heirs at law. [L. '75, p. 65, § 5; Cd. '81, § 306; 1 H. C., § 1485.]

§ 1347. (4626.) Degree of Kindred, How Computed.

The degree of kindred shall be computed according to the rules of the civil law, and the kindred of the half-blood shall inherit equally with those of the whole blood in the same degree. [L. '75, p. 56, § 6; Cd. '81, § 3307; 1 H. C., § 1486.]

§ 1348. (4627.) Advancement, How Considered.

Any estate, real or personal, that may have been given by the intestate in his lifetime as an advancement to any child, or other lineal descendant, shall be considered a part of the intestate's estate, so far as regards the division and distribution thereof among his issue, and shall be taken by such child or other descendant, toward his share of the intestate's estate. [L. '75, p. 56, § 7; Cd. '81, § 3308; 1 H. C., § 1487.]

§ 1349. (4628.) Effect of Advancements on Distributive Shares.

If the amount of such advancement then exceed the share of the heir so advanced, he shall be excluded from any further portion in the division and distribution of the estate, but he shall not be required to refund any part of such advancement, and if the amount so received shall be less than his share, he shall be entitled to so much more as will give him his full share of the estate of the deceased. [L. '75, p. 56, § 8; Cd. '81, § 3309; 1 H. C., § 1488.]

See references to § 1341, supra.

§ 1350. (4629.) Advancement of Realty, Effect on Distributive Shares.

If any such advancement shall have been made in real estate, the value thereof shall, for the purposes of the preceding section, be considered as part of the real estate to be divided, and if it be in personal estate, and if in either case it shall exceed the share of real or personal estate respectively that would have come to the heir so advanced, he shall not refund any part of it, but shall receive so much less out of the other part of the estate as will make the whole share equal to those of the other heirs who are in the same degree with him. [L. '75, p. 56, § 9; Cd. '81, § 3310; 1 H. C., § 1489.]

See references to § 1341.

§ 1351. (4630.) Advancement, What is.

All gifts and grants shall be deemed to have been made in advancement, if expressed in the gift or grant to be so made, or if charged in writing by the intestate as an advancement, or acknowledged in writing as such by the child or other descendant. The widow, if any, shall be allowed all articles of her apparel or ornament, according to the degree and estate of her husband, and such provisions and other necessities, for the use of herself and family under her care, as shall be allowed and ordered in pursuance of the provisions of any law; and this allowance shall be made as well when the widow receives the provision made for her in the will of her husband as when he dies intestate;

2. The personal estate remaining after such allowance shall be applied to the payment of the debts of the deceased, with the charges for the funeral and the settling of the estate;

other, his title shall vest immediately in his heirs or devisees, subject to his debts, family allowance, expenses of administration and any other charges for which such real estate is liable under existing laws. No administration of the estate of such decedent, and no decree of distribution or other finding or order of any court shall be necessary in any case to vest such title in the heirs or devisees, but the same shall vest in the heirs or devisees instantly upon the death of such decedent: Provided, that no person shall be deemed a devisee until the will has been probated. The title and right to possession of such lands, tenements, or hereditaments so vested in such heirs or devisees, together with the rents, issues and profits thereof, shall be good and valid against all persons claiming adversely to the claims of any such heirs, or devisees, excepting only the executor or administrator when appointed, and persons lawfully claiming under such executor or administrator; and any one or more of such heirs or devisees, or their grantees, jointly or severally, may sue for and recover their respective shares or interests in any such lands, tenements, or hereditaments and the rents, issues and profits thereof, whether letters testamentary or of administration be granted or not, from any person except the executor or administrator and those lawfully claiming under such executor or administrator. Moore, 49 Wash. 288.

§ 1367. (4641.) Titles of Heirs Confirmed.

This act shall apply to and govern the transmission of title of lands, tenements and hereditaments in the case of the estates of persons hereafter dying and of persons already deceased, whether letters testamentary or of administration have been granted on such estates or not, and the title of all heirs and devisees, and their grantees, to any such real property is hereby confirmed and made valid to the same extent as if this act had been passed before the death of such decedent. [L. '95, p. 199, § 5.]

See note to § 1367.

CHAPTER VIII.

LETTERS TESTAMENTARY AND OF ADMINISTRATION.

§ 1372. (6125.) Letters Testamentary, When and to Whom Granted.

After probate of any will letters testamentary shall be granted to the persons therein appointed executors. If a part of the persons thus appointed refuse to act, or be disqualified, the letters shall be granted to the other persons appointed therein. If all such persons refuse to act, letters of administration with the will annexed shall be granted to the person to whom administration would have been granted if there had been no will. [L. '54, p. 268, § 5; Cd. '81, § 1372; 2 H. C., § 884.]

Any person interested in a will may file objections in writing to the granting of letters testamentary to the persons named as executors, or any of them, and the objection shall be heard and determined by the court. [L. '60, p. 179, § 74; Cd. '81, § 1373; 2 H. C., § 885.]

§ 1374. (6127.) Letters During Minority or Absence of Executor.

If the executor be a minor, or absent from the state, letters of administration with the will annexed shall be granted, during the time of such minority or absence, to some other person, unless there be another executor, who shall accept the trust, in which case the estate shall be administered by such other executor until the disqualification shall be removed, when such minor, having arrived at full age, or such absentee, shall be admitted as joint executor with the former. [L. '54, p. 269, § 9; L. '60, p. 180, § 75; Cd. '81, § 1374; 2 H. C., § 886.]

§ 1375. (6128.) Discovery of Will Revokes Letters.

If, after letters of administration are granted, a will of the deceased be found, and probate thereof be granted, the letters shall be revoked, and letters testamentary or of administration with will annexed shall be granted. [L. '54, p. 272, § 27; Cd. '81, § 1375; 2 H. C., § 887.]

§ 1376. (6129.) Setting Aside Will Revokes Letters.

One who has been appointed executor under a will whose probate is afterward revoked has a remedy by appeal from an order made in a subsequent application for the appointment of a general administrator of the estate and not by certiorari: State ex rel. Richardson v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 677.

§ 1377. (6130.) Marriage of Executrix, etc., not to Affect Interest, etc.

If any executrix or administratrix marry, her husband shall not thereby acquire any interest in the effects of her testator or intestate, nor shall the administration thereby devolve on him. [L. '54, p. 272, § 29; Cd. '81, § 1377; 2 H. C., § 889.]

See infra, § 1430, accounting upon revocation of letters.

See infra, § 1443, who disqualified.

No woman shall be disqualified from acting as executrix of the last will of a deceased person, nor from acting as administratrix of the estate of any deceased person by reason of being a married woman. [L. '97, p. 24, § 1.]

§ 1379. (6131.) Revocation of Letters, When.

If an executor or administrator become of unsound mind, or be convicted of felony or infamous crime, or become an habitual drunkard, or otherwise incapable of or unsuitable for executing the trust reposed in him, or so fail to discharge his official duties, or waste or mismanage the estate, or so act as to endanger any coexecutor or coadministrator, the superior court, upon complaint in writing made by any person interested, supported by affidavit, and due notice given to the person complained of, shall hear the complaint, and if found to be just, shall revoke the letters granted. [L. '54, p. 272, § 30; Cd. '81, § 1378; 2 H. C., § 890.]

See supra, § 1281, citation.

§ 1380. (6132.) Executor of Executor Administers What.

No executor of an executor shall, as such, be authorized to administer upon the estate of the first testator, but on the death of the sole or surviving executor of any last will, letters of administration with the will annexed, of the estate of the first testator left unadministered, shall be issued. [L. '60, p. 180, § 80; Cd. '81, § 1379; 2 H. C., § 891.]

§ 1381. (6133.) Acts of Portion of Executors Valid, When.

When all the executors named shall not be appointed by the court, such as are appointed shall have the same authority to perform every act and discharge every trust required by the will, and their acts shall be as effectual for every purpose as if all were appointed and should act together. [L. '60, p. 180, § 81; Cd. '81, § 1380; 2 H. C., § 892.]

§ 1382. (6134.) Administrator with Will Annexed, Power of.

Administrators with the will annexed shall have the same authority as the executor named in the will would have had, and their acts shall be as effectual for every purpose. [L. '60, p. 180, § 82; Cd. '81, § 3881; 2 H. C., § 893.]

There is no justification for administration with the will annexed, in this state, thirteen years after the death of the testator, where he died in a sister state, and the widow was appointed executrix in that state, notice to creditors was duly given there, her accounts approved, and nothing remained to be done there except to distribute the estate according to the law of that state vesting the same in the devisees: State ex rel. Speckart v. Superior Court, 48 Wash. 141.

§ 1383. (6135.) Letters to be Signed and Under Seal.

See infra, §§ 1394, 1395, oath and bond.

§ 1384. (6136.) Affidavit as to Knowledge of Other Will.

Every administrator with the will annexed, and executor, at the time letters are granted him, shall make an affidavit that he knows of no other and subsequent will of the deceased. [L. '54, p. 270, § 18; Cd. '81, § 1383; 2 H. C., § 895.]

§ 1385. (6137.) Recording Letters—Certificate.

The clerk shall record, in a well-bound book kept for that purpose, all letters testamentary and of administration, before they are delivered to the executors or administrators, and shall certify on such letters that they have been so recorded. [Cf. L. '54, p. 271, § 22; Cd. '81, § 1384; L. '91, p. 383, § 11; 2 H. C., § 896.]

See infra, § 1388, form of letters.

See infra, § 1389, who entitled to letters.

§ 1386. (6138.) Certified Copies are Evidence.

Copies of such letters, or copies of the records thereof, certified by the clerk, and under the seal of the superior court, shall be received as evidence in any court in this state. [Cf. L. '54, p. 271, § 23; Cd. '81, § 1385; L. '91, p. 383, § 12; 2 H. C., § 897.]

See supra, § 1260, certified copies of records as evidence.

§ 1387. (6139.) Form of Letters Testamentary.

In the superior court of the county of —.

Whereas, the last will of A B, deceased, was, on the — day of —, A. D. —, duly exhibited, proven, and recorded in our said superior court, a copy of which is hereto annexed; and whereas, it appears in and by said will that C D is appointed executor thereon, now, therefore, know all men by these presents, that we do hereby authorize the said C D to execute said will according to law.

Witness my hand and the seal of said court this — day of —, A. D. 18—. [L. '54, p. 271, § 24; Cd. '81, § 1386; 2 H. C., § 898.]

See supra, § 1383, how issued.

See infra, §§ 1394, 1395, oath and bond.

§ 1388. (6140.) Form of Letters with Will Annexed.

Letters of administration with the will annexed may be substantially in the following form:—

State of Washington, County of —.

In the superior court of the county of —.

The last will of A B, deceased, a copy of which is hereunto annexed having been proved and recorded in the said superior court, and — (as the case may be), —, C D, is hereby appointed administrator with the will annexed.

Witness my hand and the seal of said court this — day of —, A. D. 18—. [L. '60, p. 181, § 88; Cd. '81, § 1387; 2 H. C., § 899.]

See supra, § 1383, how issued.

§ 1389. (6141.) Who Entitled to Letters of Administration.

Administration of the estate of a person dying intestate shall be granted to some one or more of the persons hereinafter mentioned, and they shall be respectively entitled in the following order:—

1. The surviving husband or wife, or such person as he or she may request to have appointed;

2. The next of kin, in the following order: 1. Child or children; 2. Father or mother; 3. Brothers or sisters; 4. Grandchildren;

3. To one or more of the principal creditors: Provided, that if the persons so entitled or interested shall neglect for more than forty days after the death of the intestate to present a petition for letters of administration, or if there be no relatives or next of kin, or if the heirs or one or more of the principal creditors, in writing, waive their right to administration, or if there be no principal creditor or creditors, then the court or judge may appoint any suitable and competent person to administer such estate. [L. '54, p. 268, § 4; L. '60, p. 181, § 89; L. '73, p. 269, § 90; Cd. '81, § 1388; 2 H. C., § 900.]

Right to appointment as administrator—Renunciation—Appointment: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1199, 1201, §§ 8-19; McLean v. Roller, 33 Wash. 166; Stern v. Sill, 39 Wash. 557; In re Hill's Estate, 6 Wash. 285; Lawrence v. Bellingham Bay etc. R. R. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 677.

The right to administer upon an estate is statutory, with no discretion in the court where proper application is made: State ex rel. Mann v. Superior Court, 52 Wash. 149.

Upon the death of a nonresident, leaving real property in this state, there is the same necessity for administration in this state as in the case of resident decedents, regardless of proceedings in another state: Id.

In the administration upon the estate of a widower, without there having been any previous administration upon the estate of his deceased wife, the court has jurisdiction to administer the whole of their community property: Magee v. Big Bend Land Co., 51 Wash. 406.

Upon the death of a wife, the court has jurisdiction to administer upon her undivided one-half interest in community real property, no objection being made, although the proceeding may be irregular and the proper course would have been to administer upon the entire community estate; and a sale of such half interest to pay community debts cannot be collaterally attacked for want of jurisdiction: Wiley v. Verhaest, 52 Wash. 475.

§ 1390. (6142.) Application for Letters, How Made.

Application for letters of administration shall be made by petition in writing, signed by the applicant or his attorney, and filed in the superior court, which petition shall set forth the facts essential to giving the court jurisdiction of the case, and such applicant, at the time of making such application, shall make an affidavit, stating, to the best of his knowledge and belief, the names and places of residence of the heirs of the deceased, and that the deceased died without a will. [L. '54, p. 270, § 17; Cd. '81, § 1389; 2 H. C., § 901.]

A failure to verify a petition which is the foundation of probate proceedings is a mere irregularity, and does not render the proceedings subject to collateral attack: McCoy v. Ayers, 2 W. T. 203.

Section 286, in regard to requiring pleadings to be made more specific upon motion is applicable to petitions necessary in probate practice: In re Renton's Estate, 10 Wash. 533.

§ 1391. (6143.) Application for Letters de Bonis Non.

A similar affidavit, with such variations as the case may require, shall be made by administrators of the goods remaining unadministered, and by administrators during the time of a contest about a will, or the granting of letters of administration. [L. '54, p. 270, § 16; Cd. '81, § 1390; 2 H. C., § 902.]

Such notice must be given at least ten days before the hearing. [Cd. '81, § 1391; L. '83, p. 29, § 1; 2 H. C., § 903.]

In form the bond must be joint and several, and the penalty must not be less than twice the value of the personal property, and twice the probable value of the annual rents, profits, and issues of the real property belonging to the estate; which values must be ascertained by the judge by examining on oath the party applying, and any other persons. [Cf. L. '54, p. 268, § 7; L. '77, p. 211, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1394; 2 H. C., § 906.]

§ 1397. (6149.) Additional Bond Before Sale of Property.

The judge must require an additional bond whenever the sale of any real estate belonging to an estate is ordered by him; but no such additional bond must be required when it satisfactorily appears to the court that the penalty of the bond given, before receiving letters, or of any bond given in place thereof, is equal to twice the value of the personal property remaining in or that may come into the possession of the executor or administrator, including the annual rents, profits, and issues of real estate, and twice the probable amount to be realized on the sale of the real estate ordered to be sold. [Cf. L. '54, p. 268, § 7; L. '77, p. 211, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1395; 2 H. C., § 908.]

In all cases where bonds or undertakings are required to be given under this chapter, the sureties must possess the qualifications and justify thereon in the same manner as required for bail upon an arrest, and the certificate thereof must be attached to and filed and recorded with the bond or undertaking. All such bonds or undertakings must be approved by the judge before being filed or recorded. [Cf. L. '77, p. 211, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1399; L. '91, p. 383, § 13; 2 H. C., § 911.]

See supra, § 1395, bond.

See infra, § 1410, who not to be sureties.

§ 1401. (6153.) Justification of Sureties.

Before the judge approves any bond required under this chapter, and after its approval, he may, of his own motion, or upon the motion of any person interested in the estate, supported by affidavit that the sureties, or some one or more of them, are not worth as much as they have justified to, order a citation to issue, requiring such sureties to appear before him at a designated time and place, to be examined touching their property and its value; and the judge must, at the same time, cause notice to be issued to the executor or administrator, requiring his appearance on the return of the citation, and on its return he may examine the sureties and such witnesses as may be produced touching the property of the sureties and its value; and if upon such examination he is satisfied that the bond is insufficient, he must require sufficient additional security. [L. '77, p. 211, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1400; 2 H. C., § 912.]

See infra, § 8336, release of sureties.

§ 1403. (6155.) Failure to Give Security Annuls Powers.

If sufficient security is not given within the time fixed by the judge's order, the right of such executor or administrator to the administration shall cease, and the person next entitled to the administration on the estate, who shall execute a sufficient bond, must be appointed to the administration. [Cf. L. '73, p. 272, § 102; L. '77, p. 211, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1402; 2 H. C., § 914.]

§ 1404. (6156.) No Bond When Will so Provides.

When it is expressly provided in the will that no bond shall be required of the executor, letters testamentary may issue and sale of real estate be made and confirmed without any bond, unless the court for good cause require one to be executed; but the executor may at any time afterwards, if it appear from any cause necessary or proper, be required to file a bond, as in other cases. [Cf. L. '60, p. 184, § 103; L. '73, p. 272, § 103; L. '77, p. 211, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1403; 2 H. C., § 915.]

See infra, § 1444, settlement without administration.

§ 1405. (6157.) Additional Security, When.

Any person interested in an estate may, by verified petition, represent to the judge that the sureties of the executor or administrator thereof have become, or are becoming, insolvent, or that they have removed, or are about to remove, from the state, or from any other cause the bond is insufficient, and ask that further security be required. [Cf. L. '77, p. 211, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1404; L. '91, p. 383, § 13½; 2 H. C., § 916.]

The citation must be served personally on the administrator or executor, at least five days before the return day. If he has absconded or cannot be found, it may be served by leaving a copy of it at his last place of residence, or by such publication as the court or judge may order. [L. '77, p. 211, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1405; 2 H. C., § 917.]

§ 1407. (6159.) Hearing and Order.

On the return of the citation, or at such other time as the judge may appoint, he must proceed to hear the proof and allegations of the parties. If it satisfactorily appears that the security is from any cause insufficient, he may make an order requiring the executor or administrator to give further security, or to file a new bond in the usual form, within a reasonable time, not less than five days. [L. '77, p. 211, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1406; 2 H. C., § 918.]

§ 1411. (6163.) Special Care in Taking Sureties.

The judge shall take special care to take as sureties men who are solvent and sufficient, and who are not bound in too many other bonds; and to satisfy himself, he may take testimony, and examine, on oath, the applicant or person offered as surety. [Cf. L. '54, p. 271, § 20; Cd. '81, § 1410; L. '91, p. 384, § 15; 2 H. C., § 922.]

§ 1413. (6165.) Bond not to Fail for Want of Form.

No bond required under the provisions of this chapter, and intended as such bond, shall be void for want of form or substance, recital or condition; nor shall the principal or surety on such account be discharged, but all the parties thereto shall be held and bound to the full extent contemplated by the law requiring the same, to the amount specified in such bond. In all actions on such defective bond, the plaintiff may state its legal effect in the same manner as though it were a perfect bond. [Cd. '81, § 1412; 2 H. C., § 924.]

See supra § 777, bonds not to fail for want of form.

See supra, § 1395, bond.

See supra, § 1280, hearing in court or at chambers.

§ 1415. (6167.) Suspension by Judge, When.

Whenever the judge has reason to believe, from his own knowledge, or from credible information, that any executor or administrator has wasted, embezzled, or mismanaged, or is about to waste or embezzle, the property of the estate committed to his charge, or has committed, or is about to commit, a fraud upon the estate, or is incompetent to act, or has permanently removed from the state, or has wrongfully neglected the estate, or has long neglected to perform any acts as such executor or administrator, he must, by order entered upon the minutes of the court, suspend the powers of such executor or administrator until the matter is investigated. [L. '77, p. 211, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1414; 2 H. C., § 926.]

§ 1416. (6168.) Hearing and Determination After Suspension.

When such suspension is made notice thereof must be given to the executor or administrator, and he must be cited to appear and show cause why his letters should not be revoked. If he fail to appear in obedience to the citation, or if, appearing, the court is satisfied that there exists cause for his removal, his letters must be revoked, and letters of administration granted anew, as the case may require. [Cf. L. '77, p. 211, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1415; L. '91, p. 384, § 18; 2 H. C., § 927.]

§ 1418. (6170.) Service of Notice by Publication.

If the executor or administrator has absconded or conceals himself, or has removed or absented himself from the state, notice may be given him of the pendency of the proceedings by publication in such manner as the court may direct, and the court may proceed upon such notice as if the citation had been personally served. [L. '77, p. 211, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1417; 2 H. C., § 929.]

§ 1420. (6172.) Special Administrator Appointed, When.

When, by reason of an action concerning the proof of a will, or from any other cause, there shall be a delay in granting letters testamentary or of administration, the judge may, in his discretion, appoint a special administrator (other than one of the parties) to collect and preserve the effects of the deceased; and in case of an appeal from the decree appointing such special administrator, he shall, nevertheless, proceed in the execution of his trust, until he shall be otherwise ordered by the appellate court. The insufficiency of the showing made for the appointment of a special administrator is nothing more than an irregularity, which would not affect the question of the jurisdiction of the court: State ex rel. Warren v. Ayer, 17 Wash. 127.

The executor of a will is a party within the meaning of this section: Hartley v. Lord, 38 Wash. 432.

Every such administrator shall, before entering on the duties of his trust, give bond, with sufficient surety or sureties, in such sum as the judge shall order, payable to the state of Washington, with condition as required of an executor or in other cases of administration, to make and return into court, as soon as practicable, a true inventory of the goods, chattels, rights, and credits of the deceased which have or shall come into his possession or knowledge; and that he will truly account for all the goods, chattels, debts, and effects of the deceased that shall be received by him as special administrator, whenever required by the court, and will deliver the same to the person who shall be appointed executor or administrator of the deceased, or to such other person as shall be lawfully authorized to receive the same. § 1422. (6174.) Duties of Special Administrator.

§ 1423. (6175.) Powers of Special Administrator Cease, When.

Upon granting letters testamentary or of administration, the power of the special administrator shall cease, and he shall forthwith deliver to the executor or administrator all the goods, chattels, money, and effects of the deceased in his hands, and the executor or administrator may be admitted to prosecute any suit commenced by the special administrator, in like manner as an administrator de bonis non is authorized to prosecute a suit commenced by a former executor or administrator. [L. '54, p. 270, § 14; Cd. '81, § 1422; 2 H. C., § 934.]

§ 1424. (6176.) Special Administrator not Liable to Creditors.

Such special administrator shall not be liable to an action by any creditor of the deceased, and the time for limitation of all suits against the estate shall begin to run from the time of granting letters testamentary or of administration in the usual form, in like manner as if such special administration had not been granted. [L. '54, p. 270, § 15; Cd. '81, § 1423; 2 H. C., § 935.]

§ 1425. (6177.) Account of Special Administrator.

§ 1426. (6178.) Resignation of Executor or Administrator.

If any executor or administrator, having first settled his accounts, shall publish for six weeks, in some newspaper in this state in general circulation in the county wherein his letters were granted, a notice of his intention to apply to the court to resign his letters, and the court, on proof of such publication, believe that he should be permitted to resign, it shall so order. [Cf. L. '54, p. 273, § 36; L. '60, p. 185, § 110; L. '73, p. 274, § 110; Cd. '81, § 1425; 2 H. C., § 937.]

Resignation and discharge: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1202, § 25; State ex rel. Reser v. Superior Court, 13 Wash. 25.

§ 1427. (6179.) Letters to be Surrendered on Resignation.

Such person shall then surrender his letters, his power from that time shall cease, and he shall pay the expense of publication and of all the proceedings on such application. [L. '54, p. 273, § 37; Cd. '81, § 1426; 2 H. C., § 938.]

§ 1428. (6180.) Where One Resigns Others may Act.

If there be more than one executor or administrator of an estate, and the letters to part of them be revoked or surrendered, or a part die or in any way become disqualified, those who remain shall perform all the duties required by law. [L. '54, p. 273, § 38; Cd. '81, § 1427; 2 H. C., § 939.]

§ 1429. (6181.) Order of Appointment on Death or Resignation.

If the executor or administrator of an estate shall die, resign, or the letters be revoked before the settlement of the estate, letters of administration of the goods remaining unadministered shall be granted to those to whom administration would have been granted if the original letters had not been obtained, or the person obtaining them had renounced administration, and the administrator de bonis non shall perform the like duties and incur the like liabilities as the former executors or administrators. [Cf. L. '54, p. 273, § 39; L. '73, p. 274, § 113; Cd. '81, § 1428; 2 H. C., § 940.]

Where husband acts as executor under wife's will, but dies before completion of administration, and the executors of husband's own will take possession and administer upon all husband's property, including separate and community estate of deceased wife, such administration is merely irregular and not void, and ordinary rules relating to liability of executors de son tort do not apply to them: In re Hill's Estate, 6 Wash. 286.

In such case, although it is proper for the community estate to be administered, and where an administrator with the will annexed has been appointed for the wife's estate subsequent to the death of the husband, who was acting as her executor, and such administrator does not proceed to diligently administer upon the community, but sits by for eighteen months and sees the same administered in the settlement of the husband's estate, such administrator of the wife's estate is estopped from setting up claim of right to such administration: Id.

Notes found in Oregon secured by mortgages on land in Washington, and where there has been a proper accounting to the Oregon probate court, will relieve an administrator of that court from any liability in the courts of Washington, in an action begun against him by an administrator appointed by the Washington probate court: McCoy v. Ayres, 2 W. T. 307.

An administrator is not estopped to contest the validity of a mortgage made by a former administrator: Wallace v. Grant, 27 Wash. 130.

§ 1431. (6183.) Action by Successor for Assets.

The succeeding administrator, or remaining executor or administrator, may proceed by law against any delinquent former executor or administrator, or his personal representatives, or the sureties of either, or against any other person possessed of any part of the estate. § 1432. (6184.) Limitation of Actions Against Sureties.

§ 1433. (6185.) Attachment for Failure to Settle.

If any executor or administrator fail to make either annual or final settlement as required by law, and do not show good cause for such failure, after having been cited for that purpose, the court shall order such executor or administrator to make such settlement, and may enforce obedience to such order by attachment and may revoke his letters. [L. '54, p. 274, § 43; Cd. '81, § 1432; 2 H. C., § 944.]

§ 1434. (6186.) Attachment of, When Letters Surrendered.

If any person who has surrendered his letters testamentary or of administration, or whose letters have been revoked, or the legal representatives of any deceased executor or administrator, shall fail to make final settlement as required by law, after being cited for that purpose by the court, it shall order such delinquent to make such settlement, and may enforce obedience to such order by attachment. [L. '54, p. 274, § 44; Cd. '81, § 1433; 2 H. C., § 945.]

§ 1435. (6187.) Costs upon Attachment.

In all cases where citations or attachments may be issued against any executor, administrator, or other person for failing to settle his accounts, such delinquent shall pay all costs incurred thereby, the collection of which costs may be enforced by attachment. [Cf. L. '54, p. 274, § 45; L. '73, p. 275, § 119; Cd. '81, § 1434; 2 H. C., § 946.]

§ 1436. (6188.) Partnership Property, Inventory of.

The executor or administrator of a deceased person who was a member of a copartnership shall include in the inventory of such person's estate, in a separate schedule, the whole of the property of such partnership; and the appraisers shall estimate the value thereof, and also the value of such person's individual interest in the partnership property, after the payment or satisfaction of all the debts and liabilities of the partnership. [L. '54, p. 274, § 46; L. '73, p. 275, § 120; Cd. '81, § 1435; 2 H. C., § 947.]

Upon the death of a partner in whose name partnership real property is held, the legal title descends to his heirs, who take subject to the debts of the firm, and the interest of the surviving partner therein is merely an equitable one: Hannegan v. Roth, 12 Wash. 65.

There being no survivorship in partnership real property, the legal title of which was in the name of a deceased partner, the surviving partner cannot maintain an action to quiet title thereto until he has acquired the legal title: Id.

Duty of executor as to inventory of partnership property: See In re Alfstad's Estate, 27 Wash. 175.

§ 1437. (6189.) Administration of Partnership Estate.

After the inventory is taken, the partnership property shall be in the custody and control of the executor or administrator for the purposes of administration, unless the surviving partner shall within five days from the filing of the inventory, or such further time as the court may allow, apply for the administration thereof, and give the bond therefor hereinafter prescribed. [Cf. L. '54, p. 274, § 47; L. '73, p. 276, § 121; Cd. '81, § 1436; 2 H. C., § 948.]

See notes to §§ 1436, 1438.

§ 1438. (6190.) Surviving Partner Entitled to Administration.

If the surviving partner apply therefor, as provided in the last section, he is entitled to the administration of the partnership estate, if he have the qualifications and competency required for a general administrator. He is denominated an administrator of the partnership, and his powers and duties extend to the settlement of the partnership business generally, and the payment or transfer of the interest of the deceased in the partnership property remaining after the payment or satisfaction of the debts and liabilities of the partnership, to the executor or general administrator, within six months from the date of his appointment, or such further time, if necessary, as the court may allow. In the exercise of his powers and the performance of his duties, the administrator of the partnership is subject to the same limitations and liabilities, and control and jurisdiction of the court, as a general administrator. [Cf. L. '54, p. 274, §§ 48-51; L. '63, p. 225, §§ 155-158; L. '73, p. 276, § 122; Cd. '81, § 1437; 2 H. C., § 949.]

Administration of partnership estate, upon death of partner: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2224, 2225, §§ 56-62; Hannegan v. Roth, 12 Wash. 65; Alfstad's Estate, 27 Wash. 175; State ex rel. Bogey v. Neal, 29 Wash. 391; Brigham Hopkins Co. v. Gross, 20 Wash. 218; Id., 30 Wash. 277.

In the absence of statutory provisions the surviving partner is liable and has exclusive control of partnership effects; suits must be brought by or against him for partnership demands or liabilities. Remedy cannot be had against the executor of the deceased partner unless partnership property is insufficient to satisfy the same: Barlow v. Coggan, 1 W. T. 257.

The partner may satisfy the debt, and reimburse himself so far as he is entitled to reimbursement from the estate of the deceased in his custody: Id.

The general rule requiring claims against estates of deceased persons before suit to be presented to the administrator of the partnership has no application in this case: Id.

Presentment and demand on a note should be made to the surviving partnership maker, and not to executor of deceased partner: Id.

The statute of 1862 for the settlement of partnership estates was in aid of the common-law method of closing such estates, instead of exclusion thereof, and where no steps were taken to procure administration of the affairs of the partnership under the statute, the surviving partner had full power to settle its affairs: Dyer v. Morse, 10 Wash. 492.

Where, upon the death of a party, while the law of 1862 for the settlement of partnership estates was in force, no administration was had upon his estate, but the surviving partner settled the affairs of the firm, paying off its indebtedness, which amounted to more than the partnership assets, and in order to reimburse himself took possession of the partnership realty as his own, he acquired the same right thereto which he could have conveyed to another: Id.

§ 1439. (6191.) Bond of Administrator of Partnership.

The bond of the administrator of the partnership shall be in a sum not less than double the value of the partnership property, and shall be given in the same manner and be of the same effect as the bond of a general administrator. [Cf. L. '54, p. 274, § 48; L. '63, p. 225, § 155; L. '73, p. 276, § 123; Cd. '81, § 1438; 2 H. C., § 950.]

See supra, § 1395, bond of general administrator.

§ 1440. (6192.) General Administrator to Give Additional Bond, When.

In case the surviving partner is not appointed administrator of the partnership, the administration thereof devolves upon the executor or general administrator, but before entering upon the duties of such administration, he shall give an additional bond in double the value of the partnership property. [Cf. L. '63, p. 226, § 157; L. '73, p. 276, § 124; Cd. '81, § 1439; 2 H. C., § 951.]

§ 1441. (6193.) Surviving Partner to Furnish Exhibit.

Every surviving partner, on the demand of an executor or administrator of a deceased partner, shall exhibit and give information concerning the property of the partnership at the time of the death of the deceased partner, so that the same may be correctly inventoried and appraised; and in case the administration thereof shall devolve upon the executor or administrator, such survivor shall deliver or transfer to him, on demand, all the property of the partnership, including all books, papers, and documents pertaining to the same, and shall afford him all reasonable information and facilities for the performance of the duties of his trust. [Cf. L. '63, p. 226, § 159; L. '73, p. 277, § 125; Cd. '81, § 1440; 2 H. C., § 952.]

§ 1442. (6194.) Surviving Partner Cited to Give Information.

Any surviving partner who shall refuse or neglect to comply with the requirements of the last section may be cited to appear before the court; and unless he show cause to the contrary, the court shall require him to comply with such section in the particular complained of. [Cf. L. '54, p. 275, § 53; L. '63, p. 227, § 160; L. '73, p. 227, § 126; Cd. '81, § 1441; 2 H. C., § 953.]

See supra, § 1281, citation.

§ 1443. (6195.) Who Disqualified—Revocation.

The following persons are not qualified to act as executors or administrators: Nonresidents of this state, minors, judicial officers other than justices of the peace, persons of unsound mind or who have been convicted of any felony or of a misdemeanor involving moral turpitude. And when any person to whom letters testamentary or of administration have been issued becomes disqualified to act because of leaving the state, becoming of unsound mind, or is convicted of any crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, the court having jurisdiction shall revoke his or her letters as in this chapter provided. [L. '63, p. 227, § 164; L. '77, p. 227, § 127; Cd. '81, § 1442; 2 H. C., § 954.]

A personal representative of deceased will not be recognized unless clothed with authority under our laws: Id.

An assignee of an administrator appointed in one state may bring an action in another without administration being first had in the latter state: Munson v. Exchange National Bank, 19 Wash. 125; Waldo v. Milroy, 19 Wash. 156.

The fact that an administrator is a non-resident of the state does not amount to such a fraud as to avoid the proceedings had: Meikle v. Cloquet, 44 Wash. 513.

§ 1444. (6196.) Settlement of Estates Without Administration.

In all cases where it is provided in the last will and testament of the deceased that the estate shall be settled in a manner provided in such last will and testament, and that letters testamentary or of administration shall not be required, and where it also duly appears to the court, by the inventory filed, and other proof, that the estate is fully solvent, which fact may be established by an order of the court on the coming in of the inventory, it shall not be necessary to take out letters testamentary or of administration, except to admit to probate such will, and to file a true inventory of all the property of such estate in the manner required by existing laws. And after the probate of such will and the filing of such inventory all such estates may be managed and settled without the intervention of the court, if the said last will and testament shall so provide: But provided, that in all such cases the claims against such estates shall be paid within one year from the date of the first publication of notice to creditors to present their claims, unless such time be extended by the court, for good cause shown, for a reasonable time: Provided, however, in all such cases, if the party named in such will as executor shall decline to execute the trust, or shall die or be otherwise disabled from any cause from acting as such executor, then letters testamentary or of administration shall issue as in other cases: And provided further, if the party named in the will shall fail to execute the trust faithfully and to take care and promote the interests of all parties taking under the will, then, upon petition of a creditor of such estate, or of any of the heirs, or of any person on behalf of any minor heirs, it shall be the duty of the court of the county wherein such estate is situated to cite such person having the management of such estate to appear before such court, and if, upon hearing of such petition it shall appear that the trust in such will is not faithfully discharged, and that the parties interested, or any of them, have been or are about to be damaged by such actual doings of the executor, then letters testamentary or of administration shall be had and required in such cases, and all other matters and proceedings shall be had and required as are now required in the administration of estates, and in such cases the costs of the citation and hearing shall be charged against the party failing and neglecting to execute the trust as required in such will. [Cf. L. '68, p. 49, § 2; L. '69, p. 298 et seq.; Cd. '81, § 1443; 2 H. C., § 955; L. '97, p. 285, § 1.]

Where trustees of the property of an estate, instead of executors, have been appointed by a will, the probate court has no jurisdiction of questions involving their management of the estate, but the same are triable in equity: Smith v. Smith, 15 Wash. 239.

Under this section, where the testator provides by will that the trustees shall manage and settle the estate by the terms of the will without the intervention of court, the power of such trustees is derived from the will and their duty prescribed by it, and, so long as they faithfully comply with its provisions their acts cannot be called in question by any court: Newport v. Newport, 5 Wash. 114; see Ralph v. Lomer, 3 Wash. 401, 411.

In foreclosure of a mortgage executed by the executor of decedent's estate, an allegation in the complaint that the will authorized and directed said executor to administer upon said estate without the intervention, order or advice of any court, and to fully execute all its terms and provisions, sufficiently shows that no letters testamentary were required in the settlement of the estate: Miller v. Borst, 11 Wash. 260.

A complaint in foreclosure of a mortgage, executed by the executor of a decedent's estate, sufficiently alleges the power under the will to make the note and mortgage in controversy, when it appears from the complaint that it was the intention of the testator that the estate should be administered without the aid of any court, that the executor had performed all the terms and conditions of said will, that he had executed the note and mortgage, and that his action therein had been fully confirmed by the court; the necessary inference from such allegations being that the execution of the note and mortgage was within the powers conferred by the will: Id.

As to discretionary power of sale, see Sharp v. Greene, 22 Wash. 677.

The law presumes that the executor of a nonintervention will seasonably publish notice to creditors, as required by statute, and a complaint upon a claim is demurrable where the action was not commenced until five years after testator's death, and there is no allegation that notice to creditors was not given, or any excuse shown for the delay: Foley v. McDonnell, 48 Wash. 272.

Sufficiency of consideration for sale by executors and trustees in a nonintervention will: See Sprague v. Betz, 44 Wash. 650.

§ 1445. (6197.) Inventory to be Filed Within Thirty Days.

All executors and administrators of estates that have not been fully settled and closed, and who shall not have filed an inventory of all the property as required by the existing laws, shall, within thirty days after the taking effect of this act, file a true inventory of all the property of any such estate, and in case it appears to the court by any such inventory or other proof that any such estates are insolvent, such estates shall be settled by the court as in cases of intestacy, and the court shall make an order requiring the executor or administrator to make a report of his acts to the court. [L. '97, p. 286, § 2.]

"This act": Of March 16, 1897.

Cited in 21 Wash. 188, 578.

This section is unconstitutional in so far as it impairs vested rights, under non-intervention wills: State ex rel. Phinney v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 186.

§ 1446. (6198.) Sale of Property.

Such executors, who have been heretofore acting under wills dispensing with letters testamentary or of administration, and those who may hereafter act under such wills, shall have power, after the filing of an inventory of the estate, if the said estate has been adjudged to be solvent according to the provisions of the last preceding section, to sell and convey the real and personal property of their testator, where the will authorizes them so to do, without an order of the court for that purpose, and without notice or confirmation of sale. [L. '97, p. 286, § 3.]

§ 1447. (6199.) Performance of Contracts.

Such executor, after the order referred to in section 1445 has been made, declaring the estate solvent, shall have the power to carry out and perform all the contracts and undertakings of his testator, which he might be required by law to execute, and it shall not be necessary to obtain an order of the court authorizing the same, or an order confirming the same. [L. '97, p. 286, § 4.]

§ 1448. (6199a.) Publication of Notice.

Upon publication of notice to creditors to present their claims to such executor, for a period of time and in the manner required of executors and of administrators holding letters testamentary and of administration under the laws of this state, said creditors shall be required to present their claims to the said executor within one year from the date of the first publication of said notice, and if they fail to do so their claim shall be barred. [L. '97, p. 287, § 5.]

Cited in 48 Wash. 275.

Under this section, creditors must present their claims to the executor of a nonintervention will within one year after publication of notice to creditors, as in other cases, or they will be barred: Foley v. McDonnell, 48 Wash. 272 (overruling earlier cases); Strand v. Stewart, 51 Wash.

685. And this section applies to wills executed prior to the passage of the act: Strand v. Stewart, supra.

An adjudication of solvency of an estate, in the case of a nonintervention will, need not precede the publication of notice to creditors, which is required immediately upon appointment: Strand v. Stewart, supra.

CHAPTER IX.

THE INVENTORY AND EFFECTS OF DECEASED PERSONS.

§ 1449. (6200.) Right of Possession of Estate.

Every executor or administrator shall, after having qualified, by giving bond as hereinbefore provided, have a right to the immediate possession of all the real as well as personal estate of the deceased, and may receive the rents and profits of the real estate until the estate shall be settled or delivered over, by order of the court, to the heirs or devisees, and shall keep in tenantable repair all houses, buildings, and fixtures thereon, which are under his control. [Cf. L. '54, p. 278, § 65; L. '60, p. 189, § 132; Cd. '81, § 1444; 2 H. C., § 956.]

See supra, Title X, Chaps. VI, and VII, descent and distribution.

See supra, § 1366 et seq., rights of heirs, devisees, etc.

See infra, § 1534, right to possession of estate.

See infra, § 1610 et seq., specific performance of contracts of decedents.

Cited in 1 Wash. 480; 2 Wash. 335; 4 Wash. 172, 500, 501; 7 Wash. 381, 650; 10 Wash. 599; 17 Wash. 676; 27 Wash. 188; 32 Wash. 487; 38 Wash. 264; 42 Wash. 351, 353.

JURISDICTION AND RIGHT OF POSSESSION.—Upon the appointment of an administrator the court obtains jurisdiction of the estate, and the administration is a proceeding in rem: Furth v. U. S. Mortgage & Trust Co., 13 Wash. 73, 75; Ryan v. Ferguson, 3 Wash. 356; Ackerson v. Orchard, 7 Wash. 377; Hyde v. Heller, 10 Wash. 586; Dooley v. Russell, 10 Wash. 195.

Our code differs from that of Oregon in that the administrator or executor shall take possession of and hold the estate, both real and personal, "until the estate shall be settled or delivered over, by order of the probate court, to the heirs or devisees": Webster v. Seattle Trust Co., 7 Wash. 642, 650.

Right of administrator to possession and use of real property: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1206, § 48; Noble v. Whitten, 38 Wash. 262; Gibson v. Slater, 42 Wash. 347.

An administrator takes charge of the entire estate of the decedent, whether it passes to the heirs by descent or otherwise: Ward v. Moorey, 1 W. T. 104; and under this section the administrator has the right to the immediate possession of all real estate, and when an administrator is appointed it is his duty to take possession of both personal and real property: Hanford v. Davies, 1 Wash. 476, 480.

A devisee of lands under a foreign will admitted to probate where the lands are situated cannot maintain ejectment therefor: Dunn v. Peterson, 4 Wash. 170.

Though heirs take title at once to real estate, on death of ancestor, yet such title is subject to right of administration and probate to judicially determine who the heirs or devisees are: Hanford v. Davies, supra.

After filing of bond, an executor is qualified to act, whether letters testamentary have issued or not, and the year allowed by § 170 for commencement of action against the executor begins to run: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1225, § 149; Bank of Montreal v. Buchanan, 32 Wash. 480; Gleason v. Hawkins, 32 Wash. 464.

As a general rule, the intervention of the probate court and a distribution thereunder are essential to passing title to decedent's heirs, and an allegation that several persons plaintiff are heirs at law is not sufficient to establish the fact that they are jointly interested in the property to be recovered and entitled jointly to maintain an action therefor: Balch v. Smith, 4 Wash. 497; Dunn v. Peterson, supra; Hanford v. Davies, 1 Wash. 476.

If the complaint, in an action by an heir, sets up facts showing administration unnecessary, it will not be held insufficient because plaintiff is suing as heir, when there has been no distribution (Balch v. Smith, 4 Wash. 497; Hill v. Young, 7 Wash. 33, distinguished): Tucker v. Mastick, 9 Wash. 357.

Where there has been no administration on the wife's estate or upon the community, for eight years after death, her husband and an only child surviving, the presumption is as to the community real property that there is no necessity of administration, and that the child's right as heir of its mother in the community is complete: Hill v. Young, supra; and that the husband's power to dispose of community realty, although acquired under the act of 1869, ceased upon wife's death and the property became vested by moieties in the husband and child: Id.

Under this section the probate court had jurisdiction to grant letters of administration upon a decedent's estate, although no personal property is within the territory, no creditors of the estate existed, and decedent's estate was being administered in a sister state; and there being no personal property, it was proper to order sale of the realty to pay expense of administration and taxes on the realty: Hanford v. Davies, supra.

Under the statutes of this state the legal title to land of a decedent vests in his executor for the purpose of passing title made under a contract by the decedent and the rights of heirs or devisees in the land are confined to the purchase money due on the contract: Hyde v. Heller, 10 Wash. 586.

The fact that a tender of the purchase price of land is made to an executor before he has qualified does not impose upon such executor the duty of executing a deed after his qualification, when the tender is not kept good, especially when the time of the execution of the deed is not made of the essence of the contract: Id. What was and what was not a sufficient tender to a vendor's executor: See Id.

On the decease of an intestate pre-emptor, whose title is yet inchoate, a salable possessory right passes to his administrator, subject to the trust to perfect title in favor of the heirs if the estate will enable him to do so and the interest of heirs so demand, with liability for neglect of duty, and he may dispose of the possessory right under orders of court: Burch v. McDaniel, 2 W. T. 58; he can transfer no interest in the land, but may release the entry: Id.

But see Towner v. Rodegeb, 33 Wash. 153.

Under § 1341, supra, upon the death of either husband or wife the whole community estate, and not merely the decedent's interest therein, is subject to administration for the payment of community debts: Ryan v. Ferguson, 3 Wash. 356.

The property of the community is to be administered with the estate of that member who is first deceased, and the widow of a decedent cannot maintain her action for her half interest until after a decree of distribution in the probate proceedings: Lawrence v. Bellingham Bay etc. Ry. Co., 4 Wash. 664; Baleh v. Smith, 4 Wash. 497; but see supra, §§ 1366 et seq.

Our courts cannot recognize the personal representatives of deceased persons unless clothed with authority derived from the laws of this territory: Barlow v. Coggan, 1 W. T. 257.

Property vested in a nonresident administrator is liable to attachment and other process: Id.

The legal representative of a decedent's estate has power to compromise law suits involving realty belonging thereto, when the legal title is in the adverse party, without submitting the matter to the probate court for authorization and approval: Denny v. Parker, 10 Wash. 218. See § 1539, infra.

§ 1450. (6201.) Inventory.

Every executor and administrator shall make and return, upon oath, into the court, within one month after his appointment, a true inventory of the real and personal estate of the deceased, which shall come to his possession or knowledge. [L. '60, p. 190, § 136; Cd. '81, § 1445; 2 H. C., § 957.]

See supra, § 1445, inventory in case of nonintervention will.

See infra, § 1453, inventory to include moneys.

See infra, § 1456, signing and verification.

See infra, § 1457, penalty for failure to return.

See infra, § 1458, additional inventory.

See infra, § 1464, suspension when estate less than $1,000.

See infra, § 1489, claims to be presented with inventory.

Cited in 29 Wash. 540; 30 Wash. 567; 38 Wash. 265; 42 Wash. 353.

The failure of an administrator to include certain lands will not deprive him of authority to administer thereon, when a supplemental statement has been filed describing and showing their value, although not filed as an additional inventory: Ackerson v. Orchard, 7 Wash. 377.

§ 1451. (6202.) Appraisement of Estates.

The estates and effects comprised in the inventory shall be appraised by three suitable disinterested persons, who shall be appointed by the court. If any part of the estate shall be in another county than that in which letters are issued, appraisers residing in such county may be appointed by the court having jurisdiction of the case, or, if most advisable, the same appraisers may act. Such appraisers shall receive as compensation for their services three dollars per day, to be paid out of the estate, and when they have to go out of their county, mileage shall be allowed: Provided, that where it appears to the satisfaction of the court, from the return of the inventory or other proof, that the whole estate consists of personal property of less value than one hundred dollars, exclusive of moneys, drafts, checks, bonds, or other securities of fixed valuation, an appraisement may be dispensed with, in the discretion of the court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 276, § 57; Cd. '81, § 1446; L. '88, p. 186, § 1; 2 H. C., § 958.]

§ 1452. (6203.) Oath and Duties of Appraisers.

Before proceeding to the discharge of their duties, the appraisers shall take and subscribe an oath, before any officer authorized to administer oaths, to be attached to the inventory, that they will honestly and impartially appraise the property which shall be exhibited to them, according to the best of their knowledge and ability; they shall proceed to estimate and appraise the property, and set down each article separately, with the value thereof in dollars and cents, in figures, opposite the respective articles. The inventory shall contain all the estate of the deceased, real and personal, a statement of all debts, partnership and other interests, bonds, mortgages, notes, and other securities for the payment of money belonging to the deceased, specifying the name of the debtor in each security, the date, the sum originally payable, the indorsements thereon, if any, and their dates, and the sum which, in the judgment of the appraisers, may be collectible on each debt, interest, or security. [L. '54, p. 276, § 58; Cd. '81, § 1447; 2 H. C., § 959.]

§ 1453. (6204.) Inventory to Include Moneys, etc.

The inventory shall also contain an account of all moneys belonging to the deceased, which shall have come to the possession or knowledge of the executor or administrator; and if none shall come to his possession or knowledge, the fact shall be so stated in the inventory. [L. '54, p. 277, § 59; Cd. '81, § 1448; 2 H. C., § 960.]

§ 1454. (6205.) Executor or Administrator not Released by Appointment.

The naming of any person as executor in a will, or the appointment of any person as administrator, shall not operate as a discharge from any just claim which the testator or intestate had against the executor or administrator, but the claim shall be included in the inventory, and the executor and administrator shall be liable to the same extent as he would have been had he not been appointed executor or administrator. [Cf. L. '54, p. 277, § 60; L. '60, p. 63, § 5; Cd. '81, § 1449; 2 H. C., § 961.]

§ 1455. (6206.) Bequest Invalid Against Creditor, When.

The discharge or bequest in a will of any debt or demand of the testator against any executor named in his will or against any other person, shall not be valid against the creditors of the deceased, but shall be construed as a specific bequest of such debt or demand, and the amount thereof shall be included in the inventory, and shall, if necessary, be applied in payment of his debts; if not necessary for that purpose, it shall be paid in the same manner and proportions as other specific legacies. [L. '54, p. 277, § 61; Cd. '81, § 1450; 2 H. C., § 962.]

§ 1456. (6207.) Inventory to be Signed and Verified.

The inventory shall be signed by the appraisers, and be verified by the oath of the executor or administrator to the effect that the inventory contains a true statement of all of the estate of the deceased which has come to his possession or knowledge, and particularly of all moneys belonging to the deceased, and of all just claims of the deceased against the executor or administrator. [L. '54, p. 277, § 62; L. '73, p. 280, § 136; Cd. '81, § 1451; 2 H. C., § 963.]

§ 1457. (6208.) Penalty for Failure to Return Inventory.

If any executor or administrator shall neglect or refuse to return the inventory within the period prescribed, or within such further time, not exceeding three months, as the court shall allow, the court shall revoke the letters testamentary or of administration; and the executor or administrator shall be liable on his bond to any party interested for the injury sustained by the estate through his neglect. [L. '54, p. 277, § 63; L. '73, p. 280, § 137; Cd. '81, § 1452; 2 H. C., § 964.]

§ 1458. (6209.) Additional Inventory, When.

Whenever property not mentioned in any inventory shall come to the knowledge and possession of the executor or administrator, he shall cause the same to be appraised in the manner prescribed in this chapter, and an additional inventory to be returned, subscribed and sworn to as is provided in this chapter, as soon as practicable after the discovery thereof, and the making of such inventory may be enforced, after notice, by attachment to which may be added the revocation of the letters. [Cf. L. '54, p. 277, § 64; L. '73, p. 281, § 138; Cd. '81, § 1453; 2 H. C., § 965.]

§ 1459. (6210.) Personal Estate, How Applied.

The personal estate of the deceased which shall come into the hands of the executor or administrator shall be first chargeable with the payment of the debts and expenses; and if the goods, chattels, rights, and credits in the hands of the executor or administrator shall not be sufficient to pay the debts of the deceased, the expenses of the administration, and the allowance to the family of the deceased, the whole, or so much as may be necessary, of the real estate may be sold for that purpose by the executor or administrator, in the manner prescribed in this chapter. [L. '54, p. 278, § 66; Cd. '81, § 1454; 2 H. C., § 966.]

§ 1460. (6211.) Penalty for Embezzlement.

If any person, before the granting of letters testamentary or administration, shall embezzle or alienate any of the moneys, goods, chattels, or effects of any deceased person, he shall stand chargeable, and be liable to the action of the executor or administrator of the estate, in double the value of the property so embezzled or alienated, to be recovered for the benefit of the estate. [L. '54, p. 278, § 67; Cd. '81, § 1455; 2 H. C., § 967.]

§ 1461. (6212.) Citation to Recover Property Unlawfully Withheld.

If the executor, administrator, heir, legatee, creditor, or other person interested in the estate of any deceased person, shall complain to the court, on oath, that any person is suspected of having concealed, embezzled, smuggled, conveyed away, or disposed of any moneys, goods, or chattels of the deceased, or that he has in his possession or knowledge any deeds, conveyances, bonds, contracts, or other writings which contain evidence of or tend to disclose the right, title, interest, or claim of the deceased to any real or personal estate, or any claim, demand, or last will of the deceased, the said court may cite such person to appear, and may examine him on oath upon the matter of such complaint. If such person be not in the county where letters have been granted, he may be cited and examined, either before the court for the county where he may be found, or before the court issuing the order or citation; but in the latter case, if he appear and be found innocent, his necessary expenses shall be allowed him out of the estate. [Cf. L. '54, p. 278, § 68; Cd. '81, § 1456; L. '91, p. 385, § 22; 2 H. C., § 968.]

See supra, § 1281, citation.

See infra, § 1463, and notes, citation in certain cases.

A suit in equity may be maintained against an unauthorized person collecting debts owing to an estate without authority, if it be shown that the debtor is insolvent: McCoy v. Ayers, 2 W. T. 307.

If an unauthorized person collects debts owing to an estate, an action at law cannot be maintained against him for the recovery of such money, for the reason that the original debtor is still liable to the estate. The rule would be otherwise in the case of specific personal property in the hands of a person unauthorized to receive it, if such property is capable of identification: Id.

In an action by an administrator against the son of deceased for misappropriation of decedent's property, the exclusion of a brother of defendant from testifying under § 1211, supra, was erroneous, because such person was not interested adversely to the estate: Id.

§ 1462. (6213.) Penalty for Failure to Submit to Examination.

If the person so cited refuse to appear and submit to such examination, or to answer such interrogatories as may be put to him touching the matter of such complaint, the court may, by warrant for that purpose, commit him to the county jail, there to remain in close custody until he shall submit to the order of the court; and all such interrogatories and answers shall be in writing, and shall be signed by the party examined, and filed in the court. [L. '54, p. 278, § 69; Cd. '81, § 1457; 2 H. C., § 969.]

Procedure as to interrogatories: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1205, § 39; Main v. Hadfield, 41 Wash. 504.

§ 1463. (6214.) Citation to Person Intrusted with Property.

The court, upon the complaint on oath of any executor or administrator, may cite any person who shall have been intrusted with any part of the estate of the deceased person to appear before the said court, and may require such person to give a full account, on oath, of any moneys, goods, chattels, bonds, accounts, or other papers belonging to the estate, which shall have come to his possession in trust for such executor or administrator, and of his proceeding thereon; and if the person so cited shall refuse to appear and answer such account, the court may proceed against him as provided in the preceding section. [L. '54, p. 279, § 70; Cd. '81, § 1453; 2 H. C., § 970.]

§ 1464. (6215.) Proceedings When Estate does not Exceed One Thousand Dollars.

If, by the return of the inventory of the estate of any intestate who died leaving a widow or minor children, it shall appear that the value of the estate does not exceed one thousand dollars, the court shall, by decree for that purpose, assign for the use and support of the widow and minor children of the [int]estate, or for the support of the minor child or children, if there be no widow, the whole estate, after the payment of the funeral expenses and expenses of administration, and there shall be no further proceedings in the administration, unless further estate be discovered. [Cf. L. '68, p. 49, § 1; L. '73, p. 283, § 145; Cd. '81, § 1459; L. '88, p. 186, § 2; L. '91, p. 385, § 23; 2 H. C., § 971.]

CHAPTER X.

PROVISION FOR THE SUPPORT OF THE FAMILY.

§ 1465. (6219.) Probate Homestead and Widow's Allowance.

When a person shall die, leaving a widow, or minor child or children, the widow, child or children, shall be entitled to remain in the possession of the homestead, and of all the wearing apparel of the family, and of all the household furniture of the deceased; and if the head of the family in his lifetime had not complied with the provisions of the law relative to the acquisition of a homestead, the widow, or the child or children, may comply with such provisions, and shall be entitled on such compliance to a homestead as now provided by law for the head of a family, and the same shall be set aside for the use of the widow, child or children, and shall be exempt from all claims for the payment of any debt, whether individual or community. Said homestead shall be for the use and support of said widow, child or children, and shall not be assets in the hands of any administrator or executor for the debts of the deceased, whether individual or community. [Cf. L. '54, p. 279, § 71; L. '73, p. 283, § 146; L. '77, p. 209, § 3; Cd. '81, § 1460; L. '83, p. 44, § 1; L. '86, p. 170, § 1; L. '91, p. 386, § 24; 2 H. C., § 972.]

Allowances to surviving wife, husband or children: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1209; §§ 58-64; Murphy's Estate, 30 Wash. 0; Griesemer v. Boyer, 13 Wash. 171; Gorkow's Estate, In re, 20 Wash. 563; Drasdo's Estate, In re, 36 Wash. 478; Stewin v. Thrift, 30 Wash. 36.

As to possession of homestead: See Austin v. Clifford, 24 Wash. 172.

Where person claiming to be a widow of a decedent, which claim is resisted by daughter of deceased on the ground of no marriage, and where the court decides in favor of the widow, from which an appeal was taken to review and determine such question, the superior court has no jurisdiction to make an allowance for maintenance pending such appeal: State v. Lichtenberg, 4 Wash. 231.

Under this section the obtaining of a general judgment lien does not cut off subsequent selection of a homestead at any time before sale: McMillan v. Mau, 1 Wash. 26. See Philbrick v. Andrews, 8 Wash. 7.

§ 1466. (6220.) Exempt Property to be Set Apart.

In case of the appointment of an executor or administrator upon the death of the husband, as mentioned in the last preceding section, the court shall, without cost to the widow, minor child or children, set apart, for the use of such widow, minor child or children, all the property of the estate by law exempt from execution; if the amount thus exempt be insufficient for the support of the widow and minor child or children the court shall make such further reasonable allowance out of the estate as may be necessary for the maintenance of the family according to their circumstances, during the progress of the settlement of the estate. [Cf. L. '54, p. 279, §§ 72, 73; Cd. '81, § 1461; L. '86, p. 171, § 2; L. '91, p. 386, § 25; 2 H. C., § 973.]

See supra, § 528 et seq., property exempt from execution.

Cited in 13 Wash. 172; 20 Wash. 572; 30 Wash. 11, 55.

The fact that the widow had ample means of her own for maintenance is no ground for denying a further allowance, the exemption being insufficient: Griesemer v. Boyer, 13 Wash. 171; and the removal from the state on the death of the husband cannot deprive the widow and children of the right of further allowance for maintenance pending settlement of the estate; Id.

Under this section, providing that in case the property of a decedent exempt from execution, which has been set apart for the use of the widow and minor children, prove insufficient for their support, "the court shall make such further reasonable allowance out of the estate as may be necessary for the maintenance of the family according to their circumstances, during the progress of the settlement of the estate," the widow and children are entitled to such allowance, although the husband may have made provision for them otherwise by means of life insurance policies payable to the widow: Griesemer v. Boyer, 13 Wash. 171.

Prior ex parte appraisement of estate and order setting same aside to the widow as her homestead are not res adjudicata of the value thereof or of the question of exemption of the same from the debts of the estate: See In re Lloyd's Estate, 34 Wash. 84.

An allowance to a widow for support pending administration cannot be granted thirteen years after the death of the testator, after ample allowances in another state under proceedings which were not closed up by final distribution owing to the neglect of the widow: State ex rel. Speckart v. Superior Court, 48 Wash. 141.

§ 1467. (6221.) Family Allowance has Preference.

Any allowance made by the court in accordance with the provisions of the preceding section shall be paid by the executor or administrator in preference to all other charges, except funeral charges and expenses of administration. [L. '54, p. 279, § 74; Cd. '81, § 1462; 2 H. C., § 974.]

Cited in 18 Wash. 107.

Such part of physician's charges and funeral expenses as are incurred by the surviving spouse for the benefit of minor children living in the family are properly allowable as a part of the family allowance: Murphy's Estate, In re, 30 Wash. 9.

§ 1468. (6222.) Distribution of Property Set Apart.

When property shall have been set apart for the use of the family, in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, if the deceased shall have left a widow and no minor children, such property shall be the property of the widow; if he shall have left also a minor child or children, one-half to the widow, and the remainder to such child, or in equal shares to such children, if there are more than one; if there be no widow, then the whole shall belong to the minor child or children. [L. '54, p. 279, § 75; Cd. '81, § 1463; 2 H. C., § 975.]

See supra, §§ 1465, 1466, probate and exemption.

§ 1469. (6223.) When No Widow or Children, Estate to be Administered.

If intestate leave no widow or minor children, all his estate shall be assets in the hands of the administrator, after payment of funeral expenses and expenses of administration, for the payment of the debts of the deceased, or distribution according to law. [Cf. L. '54, p. 280, § 77; L. '73, p. 284, § 151; Cd. '81, § 1464; 2 H. C., § 976.]

CHAPTER XI.

CLAIMS AGAINST THE ESTATE.

§ 1470. (6226.) Notice to Creditors.

Every executor or administrator shall, immediately after his appointment, cause to be published in some newspaper printed in the county, if there be one, if not, then in such newspaper as may be designated by the court, a notice to the creditors of the deceased, requiring all persons having claims against the deceased to present them, with the necessary vouchers, within one year after the date of such notice, to such executor or administrator, at the place of his residence or transaction of business, to be specified in the notice. Such notice shall be published as often as the court shall deem necessary, but not less than once in a week for four successive weeks. [L. '54, p. 280, § 78; L. '60, p. 195, § 157; Cd. '81, § 1465; 2 H. C., § 977.]

See supra, § 1448, notice in case of nonintervention will.

A notice to creditors is not objectionable in that the administrator's signature was affixed thereto by his attorneys: Meikle v. Cloquet, 44 Wash. 513.

Upon the probate of a foreign will, the absence of debts can only be established by notice to creditors: State ex rel. Mann v. Superior Court, 52 Wash. 149.

§ 1471. (6227.) Copy of Notice to be Filed.

After the notice shall have been published, a copy thereof, together with the affidavit attached thereto, of the publisher or printer of the paper in which the same was published, shall be filed by the executor or administrator in court. [L. '54, p. 281, § 79; Cd. '81, § 1466; 2 H. C., § 978.]

§ 1472. (6228.) Claims Barred in One Year.

If a claim be not presented within one year after the first publication of the notice, it shall be barred. [L. '54, p. 281, § 80; L. '61, p. 63, § 6; Cd. '81, § 1467; 2 H. C., § 979.]

Cited in 1 Wash. 181; 18 Wash. 606; 19 Wash. 608; 21 Wash. 614; 32 Wash. 486.

Presentation of claims: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1211, §§ 72-77; McFarland

v. Fairlamb, 18 Wash. 601; Strong v. Eldridge, 8 Wash. 895; Megrath v. Gilmore, 15 Wash. 558; Barto v. Stewart, 21 Wash. 605; McDonald v. Frater, 29 Wash. 423;

Gleason v. Hawkins, 32 Wash. 464; Griffin v. Warburton, 23 Wash. 231.

The failure to present a claim to the trustees of a testator's estate within one year after their appointment and qualification under the will is no bar to an action on the claim when notice to present claims has never been published by the trustees: Donnerberg v. Oppenheimer, 15 Wash. 290.

A claim secured by mortgage not presented within the year will be barred, only so far as relates to the deficiency remaining after exhausting the mortgaged property: Scammon v. Ward, 1 Wash. 179; Redd v. Miller, 1 Wash. 426.

An action to foreclose a laborer's lien on saw-logs cannot be maintained against the personal representatives of a decedent's estate unless the claim shall have been presented to the executor or administrator as required by this section: Casey v. Ault, 4 Wash. 167. A lien of this character does not come within the provisions of §§ 1528, 1529, infra: Id.; distinguishing Scammon v. Ward, 1 Wash. 179. See notes to § 1528, infra, redemption of mortgaged property of decedents.

Fraud in preventing a creditor from presenting his claim against an estate within the proper time cannot be predicated upon the fact that the attorney of the administrator declined, upon request by mail, to look after the collection of the debt because employed by the administrator, where such answer was promptly mailed: Meikle v. Cloquet, 44 Wash. 513.

It cannot be claimed that an administrator fraudulently misled a creditor as to the time for presenting his claim, where he gave the proper notices and personally notified the creditor of the necessity of presenting the claim: Id.

§ 1473. (6229.) Claims to be Verified.

Every claim presented to the administrator shall be supported by the affidavit of the claimant that the amount is justly due, that no payments have been made thereon, and that there are no offsets to the same to the knowledge of the claimant. The oath may be taken before any officer authorized to administer oaths. The executor or administrator may also require satisfactory vouchers to be produced in support of the claim. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 1468; L. '83, p. 29, § 1; 2 H. C., § 980.]

Laws of 1883 omitted as unconstitutional.

Statement and verification of claim: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1213, § 81; McFarland v. Fairlamb, 18 Wash. 601; First Nat. Bank of Olympia v. Root, 19 Wash. 111; Ash v. Clarke, 32 Wash. 390.

A verification that the amount is justly due, etc., is insufficient: Neis v. Farquharson, 9 Wash. 508, 517.

Verification held sufficient in Pocin v. Furth, 15 Wash. 201, 207.

Where it has been stipulated between parties to an action that prior to its commencement plaintiff had duly presented the note in issue to defendants and demanded payment of them, as the personal representatives of certain dece-dents who had guaranteed its payment, no question can be raised on the trial as to the want of an affidavit of the justness of the claim: Donnerberg v. Oppenheimer, 15 Wash. 290.

Where services are performed for another under a contract for compensation to be made by will or otherwise upon the death of the employer, who dies without making provision therefor, an action on quantum meruit lies against the estate: Pelton v. Smith, 50 Wash. 459.

In an action against an estate upon a quantum meruit for services rendered under a contract whereby the employer was to make provision therefor on his death, he having failed to do so, interest is recoverable only from the time of his death, and not from the time the employment ceased: Id.

§ 1474. (6230.) Allowance and Rejection of Claims.

When a claim, accompanied by the affidavit required in the preceding section, has been presented to the executor or administrator, he shall indorse thereon his allowance or rejection, with the day and date thereof. If he allow the claim, it shall be presented to the judge of the court, who shall in the same manner indorse on it his allowance or rejection. If the executor or administrator reject the claim, he shall notify the claimant forthwith of said rejection. [Cf. L. '54, p. 281, § 82; L. '73, p. 285, § 156; Cd. '81, § 1469; 2 H. C., § 981.]

Crowe*, 28 Wash. 65; Wallace v. Grant, 27 Wash. 130; Reese v. Murnan, 5 Wash. 373; In re Sullivan's Estate, 36 Wash. 217.

§ 1475. (6231.) Claims to be Filed.

Every claim which has been allowed by the executor or administrator and the said judge shall be filed in the court and be ranked among the acknowledged debts of the estate, to be paid in the course of the administration. [L. '54, p. 281, § 83; Cd. '81, § 1470; 2 H. C., § 982.]

Cited in 21 Wash. 618.

If a claim is rejected by the judge in probate no appeal lies from the order of rejection, the claimant's remedy being by suit in the proper court against executor or administrator: Wilkins v. Wilkins, 1 Wash. 87; and if the claim is held by the administrator and disallowed, his only remedy is a resignation of the trust and to bring suit as another creditor: Id.

The original note and rejected statement of claim are admissible in evidence: First Nat. Bank of Olympia v. Root, 19 Wash. 111.

A proceeding to recover specific real or personal property belonging to an estate must be tried by a jury: Winston v. Crowe, 28 Wash. 65; Filley v. Murphy, 30 Wash. 1.

§ 1476. (6232.) Claim of Judge Referred to Another.

Any judge of a court may present a claim against the estate of any decedent for allowance, to the executor or administrator; and if the executor or administrator allows such claim, he shall, in writing, designate some judge of the court of an adjoining county, and the said judge shall have the same power to allow or reject it as he would have, had letters issued in his court; and the claimant shall have, in the event of his claim being rejected, all the rights incident to any other creditor against the estate. [L. '60, p. 196, § 163; Cd. '81, § 1471; 2 H. C., § 983.]

§ 1477. (6233.) Claim Barred, When.

When a claim is rejected by either the executor, administrator, or the court, the holder must bring suit in the proper court against the executor or administrator within three months after its rejection, otherwise the claim shall be forever barred. [Cf. L. '54, p. 281, § 84; L. '69, p. 166, § 665; L. '73, p. 285, § 159; Cd. '81, § 1472; 2 H. C., § 984.]

§ 1478. (6234.) No Claim to be Allowed if Barred by Statute.

No claim shall be allowed by the executor, administrator, or court which is barred by the statute of limitations. [L. '54, p. 281, § 85; Cd. '81, § 1473; 2 H. C., § 985.]

Effect of presentation or failure to present: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1213, §§ 82-84; Frew v. Clark, 34 Wash. 561; Bank of Montreal v. Buchanan, 32 Wash. 480.

§ 1479. (6235.) No Action on Unpresented Claim.

No holder of any claim against an estate shall maintain an action thereon, unless the claim shall have been first presented to the executor or administrator. [L. '54, p. 281, § 86; Cd. '81, § 1474; 2 H. C., § 986.]

The provisions of this section have no application to claims against a partnership estate: Barlow v. Coggan, 1 W. T. 257. They are applicable in case of foreclosure of laborer's lien on saw-logs: Casey v. Ault, 4 Wash. 167. No action can be maintained against the representative of a deceased person until the claim has been first presented and rejected: Strong v. Eldridge, 8 Wash. 595, 599; but the rule does not apply where no executor or administrator is in existence: Id.

Where, pending an appeal from a judgment, the appellant dies and his executors are substituted by stipulation, they cannot, on a retrial of the cause after reversal, demand a nonsuit on the ground that the claim in action had never been presented to them as executors: Megrath v. Gilmore, 15 Wash. 558; Strong v. Eldredge, supra.

Failure to present a claim to the executors of one joint debtor will not release the other joint debtor, in cases where the law excuses, or does not require, presentment to the executors: Megrath v. Gilmore, supra.

Where one of the makers of a promissory note, a partner, dies, before maturity of the note, presentment and demand should be made of the surviving maker, and not of the executor of the deceased partner. This section has no application in such a case: Barlow v. Coggan, 1 Wash. 257.

§ 1480. (6236.) Vacancy in Administration not Included.

The time during which there shall be a vacancy in the administration shall not be included in any limitations herein prescribed. [L. '54, p. 281, § 87; Cd. '81, § 1475; 2 H. C., § 987.]

Time not included, when: See notes to §§ 1472, 1477.

§ 1481. (6237.) Claim to be Presented Though Action Pending at Death of Decedent.

If any action be pending against the testator or intestate at the time of his death, the plaintiff shall, in like manner, present his claim to the executor or administrator for allowance or rejection, authenticated as in other cases; and no recovery shall be had in the action, unless proof be made of the presentment. [L. '54, p. 281, § 88; Cd. '81, § 1476; 2 H. C., § 988.]

See notes to § 1479, supra.

See infra, § 1484, no execution to issue.

Cited in 8 Wash. 599; 9 Wash. 517; 15 Wash. 560.

§ 1482. (6238.) Costs Disallowed on Failure to Recover Full Amount.

Whenever any claim shall have been presented to an executor or administrator and the court, and a part thereof shall be allowed, the amount of such allowance shall be stated in the indorsement. If the creditor shall refuse to accept the amount so allowed in satisfaction of his claim, he shall recover no costs in any action he may bring against the executor or administrator, unless he shall recover a greater amount than that offered to be allowed, exclusive of interest and costs. [L. '54, p. 282, § 89; Cd. '81, § 1477; 2 H. C., § 989.]

§ 1483. (6239.) Effect of Judgment.

The effect of any judgment rendered against any executor or administrator shall be only to establish the claim in the same manner as if it had been allowed by the executor or administrator and the court; and the judgment shall be, that the executor or administrator pay, in due course of administration, the amount ascertained to be due, but no execution shall issue upon such judgment, nor shall it create a lien upon the property of the estate, or give the judgment creditor any priority of payment. [L. '54, p. 282, § 90; Cd. '81, § 1478; 2 H. C., § 990.]

Cited in 15 Wash. 207; 16 Wash. 22; 29 Wash. 425.

Effect of verdict and judgment is determined by this section, and their form is of the least importance: Poncin v. Furth, 15 Wash. 201, 207.

A claimant must exhaust his remedy against the personal representatives before he has a right to proceed against the heirs or devisees: Prefontaine v. McMicken, 16 Wash. 16.

Enforcement of judgment: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1226, § 155; Collins v. Denny Clay Co., 41 Wash. 136.

§ 1484. (6240.) No Execution After Death—Proceedings.

When any judgment has been rendered against the testator or intestate in his lifetime, no execution shall issue thereon after his death, but it shall be presented to the executor or administrator as any other claim, but need not be supported by the affidavit of the claimant, and if justly due and unsatisfied, shall be paid in due course of administration: Provided, however, that if it be a lien upon any property of the deceased, the same may be sold for the satisfaction thereof, and the officer making the sale shall account to the executor or administrator for any surplus in his hands. [L. '54, p. 282, § 91; Cd. '81, § 1479; 2 H. C., § 991.]

Cited in 2 Wash. 335.

§ 1485. (6241.) Arbitration of Claims, When.

If the executor or administrator doubt the correctness of any claim presented to him, he may enter into an agreement in writing with the claimant to refer the matter in controversy to some disinterested person or persons, to be approved by the court. Upon filing the agreement in the court, the court shall enter an order referring the matter in controversy to the persons so selected. [Cf. L. '54, p. 282; L. '60, p. 197, § 172; Cd. '81, § 1480; 2 H. C., § 992.]

See supra, § 420, arbitration in general.

§ 1486. (6242.) Referees—Proceedings upon Reference.

The referee or referees, having been sworn, shall proceed to hear and determine the case and make return thereof; and their award, if not excepted to, shall be entered as the decision of the court. If exceptions in writing are filed, the court shall proceed to determine the case in like manner as other claims are determined. The compensation of referees shall be the same as allowed to referees in other causes. [Cf. L. '54, p. 282, § 93; L. '60, p. 197, § 173; Cd. '81, § 1481; L. '91, p. 386, § 26; H. C., § 993.]

§ 1487. (6243.) Executor or Administrator's Claims Presented to Court.

If the executor or administrator is himself a creditor of the testator or intestate, his claim, duly authenticated by affidavit, shall be presented for allowance or rejection to the judge of the court, and its allowance by the judge shall be sufficient evidence of its correctness. [Cf. L. '54, p. 283, § 94; Cd. '81, § 1482; L. '91, p. 386, § 27; 2 H. C., § 994.]

See supra, § 1474, allowance of claims.

A court exercising probate jurisdiction has no power to direct a distribution of a decedent's estate to the heirs, charged with a lien in favor of the administrator on account of money expended by him for the benefit of the estate: Hustan v. Becker, 15 Wash. 586.

§ 1488. (6244.) Failure to Give Notice to Creditors, Effect of.

If the executor or administrator shall neglect, for two months after his appointment, to give notice to creditors as prescribed by section 1470, it shall be the duty of the court to revoke his letters. [Cf. L. '54, p. 283, § 95; L. '60, p. 197, § 174; Cd. '81, § 1483; 2 H. C., § 995.]

§ 1489. (6245.) Statements Required of Executors and Administrators.

At the same time at which the executor or administrator is required to return his inventory, he shall also return a statement of all claims against the estate which shall have been presented to him, when required by the court, and from time to time thereafter shall present a statement of claims subsequently presented to him; and in all such statements he shall designate the names of creditors, the nature of each claim, when it did or will become due, and whether it was allowed or rejected by him. [L. '54, p. 283, § 96; Cd. '81, § 1484; 2 H. C., § 996.]

See supra, § 1450, inventory.

§ 1490. (6246.) Notice on Change of Executor or Administrator.

In case of resignation or removal for any cause of any executor or administrator, and the appointment of another or others after notice has been given by publication as required by law, by such executor or administrator first appointed, to persons to present their claims against the estate, it shall be the duty of the judge of the court to cause notice of such resignation or removal and such new appointment to be published two successive weeks in the same newspaper in which the original notice was published, if the publication of such paper is at the time continued, and if not, then in some other newspaper published in the county, or if there be no newspaper published in such county, then in a newspaper published in the state and of general circulation in the county, and the estate shall be closed up and settled within the year from the date of said original notice, unless further time be granted by the court as provided by law. [Cf. L. '67, p. 106, § 3; L. '73, p. 288, § 172; Cd. '81, § 1485; L. '91, p. 387, § 28; 2 H. C., § 997.]

See supra, § 1470, notice to creditors.

CHAPTER XII.

SALES BY EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.

§ 1491. (6250.) Sales or Mortgages to be Made Under Order of Court.

No sale or mortgage of any property shall be valid unless made under order of the court, unless otherwise provided by law. [Cf. L. '54, p. 284, § 97; Cd. '81, § 1486; L. '83, p. 29, § 1; 2 H. C., § 998; L. '95, p. 394, § 1.]

See infra, § 1520, sales under power given in will.

Sales and conveyances under order of court: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1218-1223, §§ 106-139.

§ 1492. (6251.) Application for Order of Sale.

All applications for orders of sale shall be by petition, in writing, in which shall be set forth the facts, showing the sale to be necessary, and upon the hearing any person interested in the estate may file his written objections, which shall be heard and determined. [L. '54, p. 284, § 98; Cd. '81, § 1487; 2 H. C., § 999.]

§ 1493. (6252.) Sale of Perishable Property, etc.

Within twenty days after the filing of the inventory, the executor or administrator shall apply for an order to sell the perishable property of the estate, and so much other property as may be necessary to be sold to pay the allowance made to the family of the deceased; and the order of sale may be made without notice of the application, but the executor or administrator shall be responsible for the value of the property unless the sale be reported to and approved by the court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 284, § 99; Cd. '81, § 1488; L. '91, p. 387, § 29; 2 H. C. § 1000.]

A sale of personal property made by an executor, without authority of the court, may be ratified and rendered valid by the court if deemed to the advantage of the estate, and anyone interested in the estate may ratify it to the extent of his interest: Brewster v. Baxter, 2 W. T. 135.

§ 1494. (6253.) Application to Sell to Pay Expenses.

If the claims against the estate have been allowed, or a sale of property shall be necessary for the payment of the expenses of the administration, he may also apply for an order to sell so much of the personal estate as shall be necessary. [Cf. L. '54, p. 284, § 99; L. '60, p. 199, § 179; Cd. '81, § 1489; L. '91, p. 387, § 30; 2 H. C., § 1001.]

§ 1495. (6254.) Order of Sale, Contents of.

If it appear to the court that a sale is necessary, it shall so order. In making such sale, the court shall order such articles as are not necessary for the support and subsistence of the family of the deceased, or not specially bequeathed, to be first sold. [L. '54, p. 285, § 100; Cd. '81, § 1490; 2 H. C., § 1002.]

§ 1496. (6255.) Sales of Personalty, How Made.

Sales of personal property shall be made at public auction, and after notice given for at least two weeks, which notice shall be given by notices posted in ten public places in the county, or by publication in a newspaper, if the judge shall so order, in which shall be stated the time and place of sale. [Cf. L. '54, p. 285, § 101; L. '73, p. 289, § 178; Cd. '81, § 1491; 2 H. C., § 1003.]

§ 1497. (6256.) Private Sales of Personalty.

If it be made to appear to the satisfaction of the court that it will be for the interest of the estate to allow the executor or administrator to sell some or the whole of the personal estate at private sale, the court may so order. [Cf. L. '54, p. 285, § 102; L. '60 p. 199, § 182; Cd. '81, § 1492; L. '83, p. 29, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1004.]

The amendment of 1883 is void for defective title.

§ 1498. (6257.) Real Property may be Sold or Mortgaged, When.

When the personal estate in the hands of the executor or administrator shall be insufficient to pay the allowance to the family and all the debts and charges of the administration, the executor or administrator may sell or mortgage the real estate for that purpose, upon the order of the court. To obtain such order he shall present a petition to the court setting forth the amount of the personal estate that has come to his hands, and how much, if any, remains undisposed of, a list and the amounts of the debts outstanding against the deceased, as far as the same can be ascertained, a description of all the real estate of which the testator or intestate died seised, the condition and value of the respective lots and portions, the names and ages of the devisees, if any, and of the heirs of the deceased, which petition shall be verified by the oath of the party presenting the same. [Cf. L. '54, p. 285, § 103; Cd. '81, § 1493; 2 H. C., § 1005.]

See supra, § 1397, additional bond.

See infra, § 1515, confirmation of sales.

Cited in 10 Wash. 168, 196; 16 Wash. 23; 27 Wash. 133.

In an action to recover realty from the heirs of decedent, it is error to set aside a verdict in favor of plaintiff, when the evidence shows that the land had been ordered sold to pay debts; that with consent of plaintiff, who held a mortgage thereon, and of the defendant, the order provided for the payment of the debt out of the proceeds; that the lands were sold to plaintiff for a sum slightly in excess of his lien, he paying the excess in money; that a petition for resale on account of inadequacy of price was denied by the court; that the sale was duly confirmed, the defendants being represented in the confirmation proceedings; and that in accordance with the order of the court a deed had been duly executed by the administrator to the plaintiff: Dooley v. Russell, 10 Wash. 195.

Facts of a particular case held sufficient to authorize a writ of prohibition to prevent the lower court setting aside a sale of property of an estate: State v. Superior Court, 10 Wash. 168.

The showing that there is not a sufficiency of personal property to pay the debts is a jurisdictional step, without which the sale of realty is void: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1218, 1219, §§ 110-118; Wallace v. Grant, 27 Wash. 130; McKenna v. Cosgrove, 41 Wash. 332; Prefontaine v. McMicken, 16 Wash. 16.

An order of sale of real estate, held under a nonintervention will, held void where estate had been fully settled, and the trust reposed in the executrix concluded: English-McCaffery Logging Co. v. Clowe, 29 Wash. 721.

A petition for an administrator's sale of real estate to pay debts sufficiently shows jurisdiction to make the sale, where it appears that the personal property, consisting of stock, was lost without fault of the administrator, the money having been expended in an effort to save the stock, that no personal property remains in his hands, and that there is no way to pay the debts except by sale of the real estate: Magee v. Big Bend Land Co., 51 Wash. 406.

§ 1499. (6258.) Order to Show Cause Why Realty Should not be Sold or Mortgaged.

If it should appear from such petition that there is not sufficient personal estate in the hands of the executor or administrator to pay the allowance to the family, the debts outstanding against the deceased and the expenses of administration, and that it is necessary to sell or mortgage the whole or some portion of the real estate to provide funds for the payment of such debts, the court shall thereupon make an order directing all persons interested to appear at a time and place specified, not less than four nor more than eight weeks from the time of making such order, to show cause why an order shall not be granted to the executor or administrator to sell or mortgage the real estate of the deceased, or so much thereof as shall be necessary to pay such allowances, charges and debts. [Cf. L. '54, p. 285, § 104; Cd. '81, § 1494; 2 H. C., § 1006; L. '95, p. 385, § 3.]

Cited in 13 Wash. 74; 34 Wash. 310.

In the order for interested persons to show cause, the names, though known, need not be given, but it is sufficient, if directed, in the language of this section, to "all parties interested": Furth v. United States Mortgage & Trust Co., 13 Wash. 73.

A sale under an order which gives such an indefinite description of the land that the same cannot be located, validating statutes cannot cure the defect: Hazleton v. Bogardus, 8 Wash. 102; see Ackerson v. Orchard, 7 Wash. 377.

Irregularities in probate proceedings for order of sale, though defective in contents, will not oust the court of jurisdiction to order the sale: Id.; see Hazleton v. Bogardus, supra.

Lands of decedent may be sold to pay expense of administration and for allowance for support of family, although the petition for such sale may state that decedent left no debts: Ackerson v. Orchard, supra.

The sole heir to lands who was also administrator of decedent's estate, contracted for the sale of the land, subsequently delivered an administrator's deed therefor to the vendee without authority of the probate court, the vendee paying a portion of the consideration and agreeing that in case of his failure to make the deferred payments when due, to forfeit all payments theretofore made and to be retained by the vendor. The deferred payments were never made and the vendor or administrator mortgaged the land to a third person. Held, that an equitable title passed to the vendee, subject to a lien in favor of the vendor for the amount remaining unpaid, and that the mortgagee, being sub-rogated to the rights of the vendor, is entitled to the amount of such deferred payment, with interest, as a condition to setting aside his mortgage: Wilson v. Morrill, 5 Wash. 654.

Where an administratrix has sold timber upon lands of her intestate for a fair price to parties purchasing in good faith, and, after having received from them almost the whole purchase price and refused to receive the balance, the amount received having been appropriated to the use and benefit of herself and the estate, and accounted for in her report to the court, she cannot come into a court of equity and rescind her sale and deprive the purchasers of the benefits thereof simply on the ground that she was not authorized by the court to make the sale as required by statute: Davis v. Ford, 15 Wash. 107.

Even if an unauthorized sale of timber by an administratrix was merely a license to cut and remove the timber, she is estopped from taking advantage of its invalidity, when the licensee has acted in good faith and paid her a valuable consideration therefor: Id.

Where defendants have been improperly restrained from performing certain acts under a contract, which was to be terminated at a certain time, the court may properly, in refusing to continue the injunction, grant defendants such further time after the period for which their contract rights had been given as would be equivalent to what they had lost by the interference of the plaintiff in securing a restraining order: Id.

Facts held not sufficient to show inadequacy of price: Sharp v. Greene, 22 Wash. 677.

§ 1500. (6259.) Service of Order to Show Cause.

A copy of such order to show cause shall be personally served on all persons interested in the estate at least ten days before the time appointed for the hearing of the petition, or shall be published, at least four successive weeks in such newspaper as the court shall order: Provided, however, that if all persons interested in the estate shall signify in writing their assent to such sale or the making of such mortgage, the notice may be dispensed with. [Cf. L. '54, p. 285, § 105; Cd. '81, § 1495; 2 H. C., § 1007; L. '95, p. 395, § 4.]

Cited in 13 Wash. 75; 34 Wash. 310.

Failure to direct in the order of sale the newspaper in which publication shall be made is cured by an order confirming the sale: Furth v. United States Mtg. & Trust Co., 13 Wash. 73; affirming Ryan v. Fer- guson, 3 Wash. 356; Ackerson v. Orchard, 7 Wash. 377; Hyde v. Heller, 10 Wash. 586.

A complaint, to enjoin a sale, held sufficient where it is alleged that the order was obtained through fraud and without notice: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1221, § 125; Demaris v. Barker, 33 Wash. 200.

§ 1501. (6260.) Hearing of Application.

The court, at the time and place appointed in such order, or at such other time to which the hearing may be adjourned, upon proof of due service or publication of a copy of the order, or upon filing the consent in writing to such sale or to the making of such mortgage of all parties interested, shall proceed to the hearing of such petition, and if such consent be not filed, shall hear and examine the allegations and proofs of the petitioner and of all persons interested in the estate who may oppose the application. [Cf. L. '54, p. 286, § 106; Cd. '81, § 1496; 2 H. C., § 1008; L. '95, p. 396, § 5.]

An order denying application for sale, held final and appealable, and subject to vacation only by the statutory steps: See

1 Remington's Digest, p. 1221, § 126; In re Barker's Estate, 33 Wash. 79.

§ 1502. (6261.) Service on Guardian—Appointment of.

If any of the devisees or heirs of the deceased are minors, and have a general guardian in the county, the copy of the order shall be served on the guardian. If they have no such guardian, the court shall, before proceeding to act on the petition, appoint some disinterested person their guardian for the sole purpose of appearing for them, and taking care of their interests in the proceedings. [L. '54, p. 286, § 107; Cd. '81, § 1497; 2 H. C., § 1009.]

See supra, § 187, appointment of guardian ad litem.

Sale held void for noncompliance with this section: Ball v. Clothier, 34 Wash. 299.

§ 1503. (6262.) Examination of Witnesses.

The executor or administrator may be examined under oath, and witnesses may be examined by either party, and process may be issued to compel their attendance and testimony, by the court, in the same manner and with like effect as in other cases. [L. '54, p. 286, § 108; Cd. '81, § 1498; 2 H. C., § 1010.]

§ 1504. (6263.) Court may Order Part or All of Estate Sold.

If it shall appear to the court that it is necessary to sell a part of the real estate, and that by a sale of such part the residue of the estate or some specific part or piece thereof would be greatly injured, the court may authorize the sale of the whole estate, or of such part thereof as may be adjudged necessary, and most to the interest of all concerned. [L. '54, p. 286, § 109; Cd. '81, § 1499; 2 H. C., § 1011.]

As to order of sale under this section: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1220, § 122; In re Bryant's Estate, 38 Wash. 337.

§ 1505. (6264.) Order to Sell or Mortgage, When Granted.

If the court shall be satisfied, after a full hearing upon the petition, and on examination of the proofs and allegations of the parties interested, that it is necessary, in order to raise funds for the payment of the allowance to the family and all valid claims against the estate, and charges of administration, to sell or mortgage the whole or some portion of the real estate, the court shall then proceed to determine which method of raising such funds will be most beneficial to the estate and those interested therein, and shall thereupon make an order authorizing the executor or administrator to sell the whole or so much and such parts of the real estate described in the petition as the court shall adjudge necessary or beneficial, or authorizing the executor or administrator to mortgage the whole or so much and such parts of the real estate described in said petition as the court shall adjudge necessary or beneficial, according as the court shall determine one or the other methods most beneficial to the estate and those interested therein: Provided, that if the executor or administrator shall, in his petition, represent to the court that one or the other of such methods of providing such funds will be most beneficial to the estate, and all parties interested in the estate shall join in such petition, then the court, if it grants such petition, shall order that such funds be raised in the manner petitioned for. [Cf. L. '54, p. 286, § 110; Cd. '81, § 1500; 2 H. C., § 1012; L. '95, p. 396, § 6.]

§ 1506. (6265.) What Order must Contain.

The order shall specify the lands to be sold or mortgaged and the terms of the sale or mortgage. If a sale be ordered it may be either for cash or on credit, not exceeding six months, as the court may direct. If a sale has been ordered and it appears that any part of the real estate has been devised and not charged in such devise with the payment of debts, the court shall order that part descended to heirs to be sold before that part devised. If a mortgage be ordered the court shall order the amount to be borrowed, which may be greater or less than the amount prayed for in the petition, and shall prescribe the maximum rate of interest which shall be paid, and the period for which the mortgage shall run, and may require that the interest and part or the whole of the mortgage debt be paid from any part of the estate, and may direct that any buildings on the lands to be mortgaged shall be insured for the further security of the mortgagee, the premiums to be paid from any funds in the hands of the executor or administrator. If a mortgage be ordered the executor or administrator shall at once proceed to negotiate a loan for the amount and upon the terms and upon the security ordered by the court, and upon securing said loan and upon the receipt of the money borrowed, shall execute and deliver to the lender of said money a mortgage of the premises described in the order of the court directing such mortgage, in accordance with said order, setting forth in the mortgage that it is executed by order of the court, and giving the date of such order. Before the delivery of such mortgage the same shall be presented to a judge of the court making the order for his approval, and if he shall approve the same his approval shall be indorsed upon said mortgage. No notice of such presentation need be given. Every mortgage so made and approved shall be effectual to mortgage and hypothecate all the right, title and interest which the decedent had in the premises described therein at the time of his death or acquired by his estate subsequent to his death. Jurisdiction of the court to administer such estate shall be sufficient to clothe such court with jurisdiction to make an order to mortgage the real property thereof, and such jurisdiction shall inure to the benefit of the mortgagee, his heirs and assigns. No irregularity in the proceedings shall impair or invalidate any mortgage given pursuant to such order and so approved, and the mortgage, his heirs and assigns, shall have the same rights and remedies by virtue of such mortgage as if it had been duly executed and delivered by the decedent in his lifetime. Whenever any such mortgage shall be foreclosed and the mortgaged property sold under such foreclosure proceedings, and the proceeds of the sale of such lands shall not be sufficient to pay the costs of such foreclosure proceedings and sale and the amount due upon said mortgage, then the amount of the deficiency shall be stated by the sheriff in his return of said sale, and the same shall stand as an allowed claim against the estate. [Cf. L. '54, p. 286, § 11; Cd. '81, § 1501; 2 H. C., § 1013; L. '95, p. 397, § 7.]

See infra, § 1693, validity of sales.

Presumption in aid of jurisdiction of the court to order sale: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1219, § 118; McKenna v. Cosgrove, 41 Wash. 332.

§ 1507. (6266.) Interested Persons may Apply for Order, When.

If the executor or administrator shall neglect to apply for an order to sell or mortgage the real property of the estate, whenever it may be necessary, any person interested in the estate may make application therefor in the same manner as an executor or administrator, but notice thereof shall be given to the executor or administrator before the hearing. [Cf. L. '54, p. 287, § 112; Cd. '81, § 1502; 2 H. C., § 1014; L. '95, p. 398, § 8.]

Cited in 16 Wash. 23.

§ 1508. (6267.) Order Delivered to Executor or Administrator.

Upon the making of such order the clerk of the court shall deliver the same to the executor or administrator, who shall thereupon be authorized to sell or mortgage the real estate as directed. [Cf. L. '54, p. 287, § 113; Cd. '81, § 1503; 2 H. C., § 1015; L. '95, p. 398, § 9.]

§ 1509. (6268.) Notice of Sale, What to Contain.

When a sale is ordered, notice of the time and place of sale shall be posted in three of the most public places in the county where the land is situated, at least twenty days before the day of sale, and shall be published in some newspaper of said county, if any there be, and if not, in some newspaper of this state in general circulation in said county, for three successive weeks next before such sale, in which notice the lands and tenements shall be described with proper certainty. [Cf. L. '54, p. 287, § 114; Cd. '81, § 1504; L. '88, p. 187, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1016.]

A sale of community property in probate proceedings for the purpose of paying off a mortgage debt thereon, being a proceeding in rem, personal notice thereof to the widow is unnecessary: Ryan v. Ferguson, 3 Wash. 356.

§ 1510. (6269.) Sale of Real Estate, Where, When and How Made.

Such sale shall be in the county where the lands are situated, at public auction, between the hours of ten o'clock in the morning and the setting of the sun the same day; but if the executor or administrator shall deem it for the interest of all concerned that the sale should be postponed, he may adjourn it for any time not exceeding fourteen days. [L. '54, p. 287, § 115; Cd. '81, § 1505; 2 H. C., § 1017.]

§ 1511. (6270.) Notice of Adjournment, How Given.

In case of such adjournment, notice thereof shall be given by a public proclamation at the time and place first appointed for the sale; and if the adjournment shall be for more than one day, further notice shall be given by posting or publishing as the time and circumstances may admit. [L. '54, p. 287, § 116; Cd. '81, § 1506; 2 H. C., § 1018.]

§ 1512. (6271.) Sale on Credit, Security Taken.

The executor or administrator shall, when the sale is on credit, take the note or notes of the purchaser for the purchase money, with surety, and mortgage on the property to secure their payment. [L. '54, p. 287, § 117; Cd. '81, § 1507; 2 H. C., § 1019.]

§ 1513. (6272.) Resale, When will be Ordered.

The executor or administrator making any sale of real estate shall, within ten days thereafter, make a return of his proceedings to the court, which shall examine the same, and if the court shall be of opinion that the proceedings were unfair, or that the sum bidden is disproportionate to the value, and that a sum exceeding such bid at least ten per cent, exclusive of expenses of a new sale, may be obtained, the order of sale shall be vacated [and] another sale shall be ordered. On a resale, notice shall be given, and the sale shall be conducted in all respects as if no previous sale had been made. [Cf. L. '54, p. 287, § 118; Cd. '81, § 1508; L. '91, p. 387, § 31; 2 H. C., § 1020.]

Sale: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1221-1223, §§ 127-139. and discretion, is not ground for setting aside a sale by an executor: Sharp v. Greene, 22 Wash. 677.

Mere inadequacy of price, unless so gross as to indicate fraud or want of judgment § 1514. (6273.) Objections to Confirmation.

When the return of the sale is made, any person interested in the estate may file written objections to the confirmation of the sale, and may be heard and produce witnesses in support of his objections. [L. '54, p. 287, § 119; Cd. '81, § 1509; 2 H. C., § 1021.]

Objections to the confirmation of sale of a decedent's real estate can be made only by parties interested in the estate: Terry v. Clothier, 1 Wash. 475.

§ 1515. (6274.) Confirmation of Sale.

If it appear to the court that the sale was legally made and fairly conducted, and that the sum bidden was not disproportionate to the value of the property sold, or if disproportionate, that a greater sum, as above specified, cannot be obtained, the court shall make an order confirming the sale and directing conveyances to be executed; and such sale, from that time, shall be confirmed and valid. [L. '54, p. 287, § 120; Cd. '81, § 1510; 2 H. C., § 1022.]

See supra, § 591, confirmation of execution sales.

See note to § 1499, order to show cause for sale.

See infra, § 1649, guardian's sales.

See infra, § 1693 et seq., validity of sales.

Cited in 3 Wash. 368.

Failure to direct in the order of sale the newspaper in which publication shall be made is cured by an order confirming the sale: Furth v. United States Mtg. & Trust Co., 13 Wash. 73.

Under a sale of the community property to satisfy a mortgage, duly confirmed, the deed executed thereunder purporting merely to convey "all the right, title, interest and estate of deceased at the time of his death," an equitable title to the entire tract is conferred upon the purchaser, sufficient to constitute a defense in an action of ejectment: Ryan v. Ferguson, 3 Wash. 356; Sadler v. Niesz, 5 Wash. 193.

A sale, free from fraud and valid on the face of the record, cannot be attacked collaterally for irregularities as against a bona fide purchaser: McKenna v. Cosgrove, 41 Wash. 332.

Where, pending confirmation of an inadequate bid at an executor's sale, an upset bid was made, misleading the executor to think that the sale would not be confirmed, withdrawal of the upset bid and confirmation of the sale without notice to the executor, at a time when higher bids were available, constitutes an irregularity warranting vacation of the order of confirmation: In re Holburte's Estate, 48 Wash. 378.

§ 1516. (6275.) Conveyance.

Such conveyances shall thereupon be executed to the purchaser by the executor or administrator. They shall refer to the original order authorizing a sale, and the order confirming the sale and directing the conveyance; and they shall be deemed to convey all the estate, rights, and interest of the testator or intestate at the time of his death. [L. '54, p. 288, § 121; Cd. '81, § 1511; 2 H. C., § 1023.]

The rule of caveat emptor applies to administrator's sales: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1223, § 138; Wallace v. Grant, 27

Wash. 130; Towner v. Rodegeb, 33 Wash. 153; Bjmerland v. Eley, 15 Wash. 101; Matson v. Johnson, 48 Wash. 256.

§ 1517. (6276.) Order of Confirmation to Show Notice of Sale.

Before any order is entered confirming the sale, it shall be proven to the satisfaction of the court that notice of the sale was given as herein prescribed, and the order of confirmation shall state that such proof was made. [L. '54, p. 288, § 122; Cd. '81, § 1512; 2 H. C., § 1024.]

Order of confirmation: See note to § 1515, supra.

§ 1518. (6277.) Sale to Pay Legacy.

When a testator shall have given any legacy by will that is effectual to charge real estate, and his goods, chattels, rights and credits shall be insufficient to pay such legacy, together with the debts and charges of administration, the executor or administrator, with the will annexed, may obtain an order to sell or mortgage his real estate for that purpose in the same manner and upon the same terms and conditions as prescribed in this chapter in case of a sale or mortgage for the payment of the debts. [Cf. L. '54, p. 288, § 123; Cd. '81, § 1513; 2 H. C., § 1025; L. '95, p. 398, § 10.]

§ 1519. (6278.) Debts and Expenses Paid According to Terms of Will.

If the testator shall make provision by his will or designate the estate to be appropriated for the payment of his debts, the expenses of administration, or family expenses, they shall be paid according to the provision of the will, and out of the estate thus appropriated, so far as the same may be sufficient. [L. '54, p. 288, § 124; Cd. '81, § 1514; 2 H. C., § 1026.]

§ 1520. (6279.) Sale Without Order of Court.

When such provision has been made, or any property directed to be sold, the executor [or] administrator with the will annexed may proceed to sell without the order of the court; but he shall be bound as an administrator to give notice of the sale, and to proceed in making the sale in all respects as if he were under the order of the court, unless there are special directions given in the will, in which case he shall be governed by such directions; but in no [all] cases he shall make return of the sale to the court, which shall vacate such sale unless the same shall appear in all respects to be made according to law, in like manner as upon sales made by administrator. [Cf. L. '54, p. 288, § 125; Cd. '81, § 1515; L. '91, p. 388, § 32; 2 H. C., § 1027.]

See supra, § 1491, no sale without order of court.

See infra, § 1683 et seq., private sales of real property.

§ 1521. (6280.) Debts and Expenses When Provisions of Will Insufficient.

If the provision made by the will or the estate appropriated be not sufficient to pay the debts and expenses of administration and family expenses, such part of the estate as shall not have been disposed of by the will, if any, shall be appropriated for that purpose, according to the provisions of this chapter. [L. '54, p. 288, § 126; Cd. '81, § 1516; 2 H. C., § 1028.]

§ 1522. (6281.) Estate Given by Will Subject to Debts and Expenses.

The estate, real and personal, given by the will to any legatees or devisees, shall be held liable for the payment of the debts, the expenses of administration and of the family, in proportion to the value or amount of the several devises or legacies, if there shall not be other sufficient estate, except that specific devises or legacies may be exempted, if it appear to the court necessary to carry into effect the intention of the testator. [Cf. L. '54, p. 288, § 127; L. '73, p. 249, § 204; Cd. '81, § 1517; 2 H. C., § 1029.]

§ 1523. (6282.) All Devisees and Legatees to Contribute.

When the estate given by any will has been sold for the payment of debts and expenses, all the devisees and legatees shall be liable to contribute according to their respective interests, to any devisee or legatee from whom the estate devised to him may be taken for the payment of the debts or expenses; and the court, when distribution is made, shall, by decree for that purpose, settle the amount of the several liabilities, and decree how much each person shall contribute. [L. '54, p. 289, § 128; Cd. '81, § 1518; 2 H. C., § 1030.]

See infra, § 1576, payment of legacies and distribution.

§ 1524. (6283.) Contract Interest of Deceased in Land may be Sold.

If the deceased person at the time of his death was possessed of a contract for the purchase of lands, his interest in such lands under such contract may be sold on the application of his executor or administrator, in the same manner as if he had died seised of such lands; and the same proceedings may be had for that purpose as are prescribed in this chapter, in respect to lands of which he died seised, except as hereinafter provided. [L. '54, p. 289, § 129; Cd. '81, § 1519; 2 H. C., § 1031.]

§ 1525. (6284.) Sale Subject to Unmatured Debts—Confirmation—Bond.

Such sale shall be made subject to all payments that may thereafter become due on such contract; and if there be any such payments thereafter to become due, such sale shall not be confirmed by the court until the purchaser shall have executed a bond to the executor or administrator for his benefit and indemnity, and for the benefit and indemnity of the persons entitled to the interest of the deceased in lands so contracted for, in double the whole amount of the payments thereafter to become due on such contract, with such sureties as the court shall approve. [L. '54, p. 289, § 130; Cd. '81, § 1520; 2 H. C., § 1032.]

§ 1526. (6285.) Conditions of Bond.

Such bond shall be conditioned that the purchaser will make all payments for such land as shall become due after the date of such sale, and will fully indemnify the executor or administrator and the person so entitled against all demands, costs, and charges and expenses, by reason of any covenant or agreement contained in such contract; but if there be no payments thereafter to become due on such contract, no bond shall be required of the purchaser. [L. '54, p. 289, § 131; Cd. '81, § 1521; 2 H. C., § 1033.]

§ 1527. (6286.) Assignment of Contract, Effect of.

Upon the confirmation of such sale, the executor or administrator shall execute to the purchaser an assignment of the contract, which assignment shall vest in the purchaser, his heirs and assigns, all the right, title, and interest of the persons entitled to the interest of the deceased in the land sold at the time of the sale; and such purchaser shall have the same rights and remedies against the vendor of such lands as the deceased would have had if living. [L. '54, p. 289, § 132; Cd. '81, § 1522; 2 H. C., § 1034.]

§ 1528. (6287.) Redemption of Mortgaged Property.

If any person die, having mortgaged any real or personal estate, and shall not have devised the same, or provided for the redemption thereof by will, the court, upon the application of any person interested, may order the executor or administrator to redeem the estate out of the personal assets, if it should appear to the satisfaction of the court that such redemption would be beneficial to the estate, and not injurious to creditors. [L. '54, p. 289, § 133; Cd. '81, § 1523; 2 H. C., § 1035.]

See supra, § 1116, and notes, foreclosure of real estate mortgages.

A mortgagee, after the death of the mortgagor, has a right to foreclose the mortgage and sell the mortgaged property for the payment of his debt, and the sale will convey a good title: Hyde v. Heller, 10 Wash. 586, 600.

The provision of this section, that if the decedent "has not devised the same," merely limits the sale in case of a specific devise, and has no application to cases where the property has been devised to a residuary legatee: In re Clements, 8 Wash. 323.

Presentation of claims secured by mortgage: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1212, § 77; Gleason v. Hawkins, 32 Wash. 464.

Failure to present a claim against an estate, secured by mortgage, within the time provided by § 1472 will not bar the mortgagee's right under the mortgage, but will operate to defeat any deficiency against the estate which may remain after exhausting the mortgaged property: Scammon v. Ward, 1 Wash. 179; see Reed v. Miller, 1 Wash. 426; Casey v. Ault, 4 Wash. 167; but if the mortgagee applies under this section to compel the redemption of land from his mortgage lien, or to have the lands sold under the provisions of the next section, he must apply within the year allowed for presentment of claims: Scammon v. Ward, supra.

Under this and the next section, if redemption is not deemed expedient, community property mortgaged by decedent and wife may be sold for the purpose of paying off the mortgage: Ryan v. Ferguson, 3 Wash. 356.

The rights of a mortgagee under a mortgage making special provisions for foreclosure and a receiver are not affected by the death of the mortgagor, but may be enforced against the executor: German S. & L. Soc. v. Cannon, 65 Fed. 542.

As property mortgaged by husband and wife, in the absence of claim that it was separate property, will be presumed to have been community, and as under the decisions of Washington, on the death of a married woman administration of her separate property is distinct from that of the community, it will not be presumed that her administrator has acquired lawful authority over the property thus mortgaged and presumed as community property, or that a court administering her estate under her will has drawn such property into its custody: Id.

In ordering a sale of decedent's estate under § 1529 to pay the mortgage debt, it is error to allow attorneys' fees upon a foreclosure of the mortgage: In re Clements, 8 Wash. 323.

§ 1529. (6288.) Sale of Other Property in Lieu of that Mortgaged.

If it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the court that it will be to the interest of the estate of any deceased person to sell other personal estate or to sell or mortgage other real estate of the decedent than that mortgaged by him, to redeem the real estate so mortgaged, the court may order the sale of any personal estate, or the sale or mortgaging of any real estate of the decedent which it may deem expedient to be sold or mortgaged for such purpose, which sale or mortgaging shall be conducted in all respects as other sales or mortgages of like property ordered by the court. [Cf. L. '88, p. 185, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1036; L. '95, p. 399, § 11.]

See infra, § 1569, extent of mortgage preference.

See notes to last section.

§ 1530. (6289.) Where Redemption not Expedient—Procedure.

If such redemption be not deemed expedient, the court shall order such property to be sold at public sale, which sale shall be with the same notice, and conducted in the same manner, as required in other cases of real estate provided for in this chapter, and the executor or administrator shall thereupon execute a conveyance thereof to the purchaser, which conveyance shall be effectual to convey to the purchaser all the right, title, and interest which the deceased would have had in the property had not the same been mortgaged by him, and the purchase money, after paying the expenses of the sale, shall first be applied to the payment and discharge of such mortgage, and the residue in due course of administration. If said sale of the mortgaged premises shall be insufficient to secure the mortgage debt, the mortgagee shall file a claim for balance, authenticated as other claims, and payable in due course of administration. [Cf. L. '54, p. 290, § 134; L. '73, p. 296; § 211; Cd. '81, § 1524; 2 H. C., § 1037.]

§ 1531. (6290.) Liability for Neglect, etc., in Sales or Mortgages.

If there should be any neglect or misconduct in the proceedings of the executor or administrator in relation to any sale or mortgage by which any person interested in the estate shall suffer damages, the party injured may recover the same in a suit upon the bond of the executor or administrator, as the case may appear. [Cf. L. '54, p. 290, § 135; Cd. '81, § 1525; 2 H. C., § 1038; L. '95, p. 399, § 12.]

§ 1532. (6291.) Liability for Fraudulent Sale of Realty.

Any executor or administrator who shall fraudulently sell or mortgage any real estate of his testator or intestate, contrary to the provisions of this chapter, shall be liable in double the value of the land sold or mortgaged, as damages, to be recovered in an action by the person or persons having an estate of inheritance therein. [Cf. L. '54, p. 290, § 136; Cd. '81, § 1526; 2 H. C., § 1039; L. '95, p. 399, § 13.]

An administrator is not estopped from pleading the illegality of a former mortgage executed without authority by a former administrator: See Wallace v. Grant, 27 Wash. 130.

§ 1533. (6292.) Sale Under Will—Void Unless Confirmed.

When property is directed by will to be sold, or authority is given in the will to sell property, the executor may sell any property of the estate without the order of the court, and either at public or private sale, and with or without notice, as the executor may determine; but the executor must make return of such sales as in other cases; and if directions are given in the will as to the mode of selling, or the particular property to be sold, such directions must be observed. In either case, no title passes unless the sale is confirmed by the court. [Cd. '81, § 1527; 2 H. C., § 1040.]

CHAPTER XIII.

POWERS AND DUTIES OF EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.

§ 1534. (6296.) Executor or Administrator to Take and Manage Estate.

The executor or administrator shall take into his possession all the estate of the deceased, real and personal, and collect all debts due to the deceased. [L. '54, p. 291, § 141; Cd. '81, § 1528; 2 H. C., § 1041.]

Cited in 2 Wash. 335; 4 Wash. 173, 501; 10 Wash. 599; 38 Wash. 265; 42 Wash. 351, 353.

Whether persons appointed in a will are executors or trustees depends upon the general scope of the powers conferred upon them, irrespective of the terms used: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1199, § 7; Smith v. Smith, 15 Wash. 239; State ex rel. Phinney v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 186.

§ 1535. (6297.) Actions by and Against Administrators.

Actions for the recovery of any property, real or personal, or for the possession thereof, and all actions founded upon contracts, may be maintained by and against executors and administrators in all cases in which the same might have been maintained by or against their respective testators or intestates. [Cf. L. '54, p. 291, § 142; L. '60, p. 206, § 222; Cd. '81, § 1529; 2 H. C., § 1042.]

Eldridge, 8 Wash. 595; Ritterhoff v. Puget Sound Nat. Bank, 37 Wash. 76.

In order to bring a suit upon an administrator's bond, it is not necessary that application be first made to court and leave obtained, as the administrator is not a public officer within the purview of § 771, supra: Bartells v. Gove, 4 Wash. 632.

Pleading: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1225, § 151; Miller v. Borst, 11 Wash. 260; Megrath v. Gilmore, 15 Wash. 558; Waldo v. Milroy, 19 Wash. 156; Stein v. Waddell, 37 Wash. 634; Boyer v. Robinson, 26 Wash. 117.

§ 1536. (6298.) Action by Administrator for Waste, Trespass, etc.

Executors and administrators may maintain actions against any person who shall have wasted, destroyed, taken, carried away, or converted to his own use the goods of their testator or intestate in his lifetime; also may maintain actions for trespass committed on the estate of the deceased during his lifetime. [L. '54, p. 291, § 143; Cd. '81, § 1530; 2 H. C., § 1043.]

See supra, § 159, limitation of actions.

See supra, § 937 et seq., waste and trespass.

§ 1537. (6299.) Action Against Administrator for Waste, Trespass, etc.

Any person, or his personal representatives, shall have an action against the executor or administrator of any estate or intestate who in his lifetime shall have wasted, destroyed, taken, or carried away, or converted to his own use, the goods and chattels of any such person, or committed any trespass on the real estate of such person. § 1538. (6300.) Action by Administrator on Predecessor's Bond.

Any administrator may in his own name, for the use and benefit of all parties interested in the estate, maintain actions on the bond of an executor or of any former administrator of the same estate. [L. '54, p. 291, § 145; Cd. '81, § 1532; 2 H. C., § 1045.]

§ 1539. (6301.) Debts may be Compromised.

Whenever a debtor of a deceased person shall be unable to pay all his debts, the executor or administrator may, with the approbation of the court, compound with him and give him a discharge upon receiving a fair and just dividend of his effects. [L. '54, p. 291, § 146; Cd. '81, § 1533; 2 H. C., § 1046.]

See note to § 1449, supra, right of possession of estate.

See supra, § 1485, administrator may arbitrate.

An administrator cannot cancel his own rights of the estate: Eastman v. Landon, 17 mortgage due to the estate, in fraud of the Wash. 48.

§ 1540. (6302.) Action to Recover Property Fraudulently Conveyed by Decedent.

When there shall be a deficiency of assets in the hands of an executor or administrator, and when the deceased shall in his lifetime have conveyed any real estate, or any right or interest therein, with intent to defraud his creditors or to avoid any right, duty, or debt of any person, or shall have so conveyed such estate, which deeds or conveyances by law are void as against creditors, the executor or administrator may, and it shall be his duty to, commence and prosecute to final judgment any proper action for the recovery of the same, and may recover for the benefit of the creditors all such real estate so fraudulently conveyed, and may also, for the benefit of the creditors, sue and recover all goods, chattels, rights and credits which may have been so fraudulently conveyed by the deceased in his lifetime, whatever may have been the manner of such fraudulent conveyance. [L. '54, p. 291, § 147; Cd. '81, § 1534; 2 H. C., § 1047.]

See supra, § 159, limitations.

§ 1541. (6303.) Such Action Brought, When.

No executor or administrator shall be bound to sue for such estate as mentioned in the preceding section for the benefit of the creditors, unless on application of the creditors of the deceased; and the creditors making such application shall pay such part of the costs and expenses, or give such security to the executor or administrator thereof, as the court shall direct. [Cf. L. '54, p. 292, § 148; L. '73, p. 298, § 221; Cd. '81, § 1535; 2 H. C., § 1048.]

§ 1542. (6304.) Real Estate so Regained, How Disposed of.

The real estate so recovered shall be sold for the payment of debts in the same manner as if the deceased had died seised thereof, upon obtaining an order therefor from the court, and the proceeds of all goods, chattels, rights, and credits so recovered shall be appropriated in payment of debts of the deceased, in the same manner as other property in the hands of the executor or administrator. [L. '54, p. 292, § 149; Cd. '81, § 1536; 2 H. C., § 1049.]

CHAPTER XIV.

ACCOUNTS OF EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS AND PAYMENT OF DEBTS.

§ 1543. (6308.) Administrator's Promise to Pay Debts Valid, When.

No executor or administrator shall be chargeable upon any special promise to answer damages, or to pay the debts of the testator or intestate out of his own estate, unless the agreement for that purpose, or some memorandum or note thereof, is in writing, and signed by such executor or administrator, or by some other person by him thereunto specially authorized. [L. '54, p. 295, § 160; Cd. '81, § 1537; 2 H. C., § 1050.]

An executor, who in good faith deposits funds of the estate in a bank at the time solvent and of good repute, is not liable for depreciation of the trust funds resulting from the subsequent failure of the bank, if the deposit is made to the credit of the estate, and not in the executor's individual name: In re Kohlers' Estate, 15 Wash. 613.

The fact that an administrator, by mistake or in ignorance of legal rights, in-§ 1548. (6313.) Shall not Purchase Claim Against Estate.

estate accounted for by him as follows: For the first one thousand dollars, at the rate of seven per cent; for all above that sum, and not exceeding two thousand dollars, at the rate of five per cent; for all above that sum, at the rate of four per cent; and the same commission shall be allowed to administrators. In all cases such further allowance may be made as the court shall deem just and reasonable for any extraordinary services not required of an executor or administrator in the common course of his duty: Provided, that the total amount of such allowance shall not exceed the amount of commission allowed in this section. [L. '54, p. 296, § 167; Cd. '81, § 1544; 2 H. C., § 1057.]

§ 1552. (6317.) Interested Persons may Require Exhibit.

Any person interested in the estate may, at any time before the final settlement of accounts, present his petition to the court, praying that the executor or administrator be required to appear and render such exhibit, setting forth the facts showing that it is necessary and proper that such an exhibit shall be made. When an exhibit is rendered by an executor or administrator, any person interested may appear, and, by objections in writing, contest any account or statement therein contained. The court may examine the executor or admin-

If he fail to present his account, it shall be the duty of the court to compel the rendering of such account by attachment, and any person interested in the estate may apply for and obtain an attachment, but no attachment shall issue unless a citation shall have been first issued and returned, requiring the executor or administrator to appear and show cause why an attachment should not issue. [L. '54, p. 296, § 173; Cd. '81, § 1550; 2 H. C., § 1063.]

§ 1557. (6322.) Citation to Account After Revocation of Authority.

Whenever the authority of an executor or administrator shall cease, or be revoked for any reason, he may be cited to account before the court, at the instance of the person succeeding to the administration of the estate, in like manner as he might have been cited by any person interested in the estate during the time he was administrator or executor. [Cf. L. '54, p. 296, § 174; L. '60, p. 212, § 254; L. '73, p. 304, § 247; Cd. '81, § 1551; 2 H. C., § 1064.]

§ 1558. (6323.) Revocation of Letters for Failure to Account.

If the executor or administrator resides out of the county, or absconds or conceals himself so that the citation cannot be personally served, and shall neglect to render an account within thirty days after the time above prescribed, or if he shall neglect to render an account within thirty days after having been committed where the attachment has been executed, his letters shall be revoked. [Cf. L. '54, p. 297, § 175; L. '73, p. 304, § 248; Cd. '81, § 1552; 2 H. C., § 1065.]

See supra, § 1379, revocation of letters.

See supra, § 1415, suspension.

§ 1559. (6324.) Vouchers to be Filed, etc.

In rendering his accounts the executor or administrator shall produce vouchers for the expenses and charges which he shall have paid, which vouchers shall be filed and remain in court; and he may be examined on oath touching such payments, and also touching any property and effects of the deceased, and the disposition thereof. [L. '54, p. 297, § 176; Cd. '81, § 1553; 2 H. C., § 1066.]

§ 1560. (6325.) Voucher Unnecessary. When.

On the settlement of his account, he may be allowed any item of expenditure not exceeding twenty dollars for which no voucher is produced, if such item be supported by his own oath, positive to the fact of payment, specifying when, where, and to whom payment was made, if such oath be uncontradicted; but such allowances, in the whole, shall not exceed three hundred dollars for payment in behalf of any one estate. [Cf. L. '54, p. 297, § 177; L. '73, p. 304, § 250; Cd. '81, § 1554; 2 H. C., § 1067.]

[L. '75, p. 127, § 1; Cd. '81, § 1555; 2 H. C., § 1068.]

See infra, § 1571, funeral expenses include monument.

§ 1562. (6327.) Final Hearing and Settlement—Notice of.

When the account is rendered for settlement, the court, or the judge thereof, shall appoint a day for the hearing and settlement of the same, and notice of such hearing and settlement shall be given by posting notices thereof in three of the most public places in the county, and publishing a similar notice for such time as the court or judge may order, in a newspaper published in the county, or if there be no newspaper published in the county, then in a newspaper published in the state, and of general circulation in the county. The notice shall set forth the name of the estate, of the executor or administrator and the day appointed for the settlement of account, which shall be on some day not more than six weeks after the filing of the account. [Cf. L. '54, p. 297, § 178; L. '73, p. 305, § 251; Cd. '81, § 1556; L. '91, p. 388, § 34; 2 H. C., § 1069.]

See supra, § 1544, chargeable with whole estate.

See infra, § 1566, effect of settlement.

See infra, § 1567, notice necessary to obtain settlement.

See infra, § 1587, distribution on final settlement.

See infra, § 1608, decree of final settlement and discharge.

A conditional order of the court discharging an administrator upon his final accounting, which has never been made absolute, may be set aside by the court at any time: State v. Superior Court, 13 Wash. 25.

§ 1563. (6328.) Exceptions to Final Account—Contest.

On the day appointed, or on any subsequent day to which the hearing may have been adjourned by the court, any person interested in the estate may appear and file his exceptions in writing to the account, and contest the same. [L. '54, p. 297, § 179; Cd. '81, § 1557; 2 H. C., § 1070.]

See §§ 1546, 1547, supra, and notes thereto.

The appraised value of an estate is not conclusive upon the accounting, as to the assets or their value: Horton v. Barto, 17 Wash. 675; In re Smith's Estate, 18 Wash. 129.

Administratrix is chargeable upon final accounting for use and possession of decedent's premises: See In re Alstad's Estate, 27 Wash. 175.

A decedent's estate cannot be charged with the expense of attorney fees incurred by the administratrix in securing her appointment as such, nor in litigating her right to inherit as sole heir: Wilbur v. Wilbur, 17 Wash. 683.

As to allowance of attorneys' fees: See In re Mason's Estate, 26 Wash. 259.

§ 1564. (6329.) Guardian for Minor—Compensation.

If there be any minor interested in the estate who has no legally appointed guardian, the court shall appoint some disinterested person to represent him, who, on behalf of the minor, may contest the account as any other person interested might contest it, and who shall be allowed by the court reasonable compensation for his services. [L. '54, p. 297, § 180; Cd. '81, § 1558; 2 H. C., § 1071.]

§ 1565. (6330.) Hearing may be Adjourned.

The hearing and allegations of the respective parties may be adjourned from time to time as shall be necessary. [Cf. L. '54, p. 297, § 181; L. '60, p. 213, § 261; Cd. '81, § 1559; 2 H. C., § 1072.]

§ 1566. (6331.) Settlement, When and When not Conclusive.

The settlement of the account and the allowance thereof by the court, [or upon appeal], shall be conclusive against all persons in any way interested in the estate, saving, however, to all persons laboring under any legal disability, the right to proceed against the executor or administrator, either individually or upon his bond, within two years after their respective disabilities shall have ceased; and in any action brought by any such person. the allowance and settlement of the account shall be deemed presumptive evidence of its correctness. [L. '54, p. 297, § 182; Cd. '81, § 1560; 2 H. C., § 1073.]

Words "or upon appeal" have no application under present organization of courts.

Jurisdiction of courts over final account of executors or administrators: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1226, § 156; Seattle v. McDonald, 26 Wash. 98; In re MacDonald's Estate, 29 Wash. 422; Drasdo v. Jobst, 39 Wash. 425.

Although a final account in the administration of an estate has been rendered and an order of distribution made and carried into effect, such fact will not be prejudicial to an action by the executor in the interest of the estate, if he has not received his final discharge and his bondsmen have not been released: Denny v. Sayward, 10 Wash. 422.

An action to quiet title cannot be maintained until after the close of administration on the ancestor's estate: Hazelton v. Bogardus, 8 Wash. 102; Dunn v. Peterson, 4 Wash. 170; and the court retains jurisdiction even after final account until there has been a final settlement or distribution of the property, or some other act equivalent thereto: Hazelton v. Bogardus, supra; Balch v. Smith, 4 Wash. 497.

If the administratrix purchased land in her own name, and subsequently, by mistake or otherwise, was credited in her account with a portion of the purchase price, no trust in the land results in favor of the estate: Bowen v. Hughes, 5 Wash. 442.

The settlement of a so-called final account of an administrator does not preclude him from asserting, as an individual, error in subsequent orders affecting his relation to the estate since the making of the orders: In re Sullivan's Estate, 48 Wash. 631.

A creditor of an estate having a preferred claim which was on presentation disallowed for want of funds, who took no appeal or proceedings to question the administrator's sale of real estate for a nominal sum, or the administrator's discharge on final accounting, until after the lapse of more than three years and then only to interpose his claim as a counterclaim to an action on account, is concluded by the probate proceedings, and cannot reopen the same for fraud which he might have discovered with reasonable diligence: Lauridsen v. Lewis, 50 Wash. 605.

§ 1567. (6332.) Proof of Notice of Settlement.

The account shall not be allowed by the court until it be first proven that notice has been given as required by this chapter, and the decree shall show that such proof was made to the satisfaction of the court, and shall be conclusive evidence of the fact. [L. '54, p. 298, § 183; Cd. '81, § 1561; 2 H. C., § 1074.]

See supra, § 1562, final hearing and settlement of account.

§ 1568. (6333.) Order of Payment of Debts.

The debts of the estate shall be paid in the following order:—

1. Funeral expenses;

2. Expenses of the last sickness;
3. Debts having preference by the laws of the United States;
4. Wages due for labor performed within ninety days immediately preceding the death of decedent;
5. Taxes or any debts or dues, owing to the state;
6. Judgments rendered against the deceased in his lifetime which are liens upon real estate on which execution might have issued at the time of his death, and debts secured by mortgages, in the order of their priority;
7. All other demands against the [e]state. [Cf. L. '54, p. 298, § 184; L. '60, p. 213, § 264; Cd. '81, § 1562; 2 H. C., § 1075; L. '97, p. 22, § 1.]

See supra, § 1205, preference rights of employees.

See infra, § 1571, payment of funeral expenses.

Cited in 2 Wash. 335; 25 Wash. 436, 543; 50 Wash. 396.

If a party dies possessed of an interest in community property, not required to pay community debts, and not otherwise exempt, such interest is liable for separate debts when separate property is exhausted: Columbia Nat. Bank v. Embree, 2 Wash. 331.

The word "estate" relates to separate property of deceased as well as community property; and "debts" include separate as well as community debts: Columbia Nat. Bank v. Embree, supra.

§ 1569. (6334.) Extent of Mortgage Preference.

The preference given in the preceding section to a mortgage or judgment shall only extend to the proceeds of the property subject to the lien of such mortgage or judgment. [Cf. L. '54, p. 298, § 185; Cd. '81, § 1653; 2 H. C., § 1076; L. '97, p. 22, § 2.]

See supra, § 1529, redemption or sale of mortgaged property.

§ 1570. (6335.) Estate Insufficient, Dividend to be Paid.

If the estate shall be insufficient to pay the debts of any one class, each creditor shall be paid a dividend in proportion to his claim, and no creditor of any one class shall receive any payment until all those of the preceding class shall have been fully paid. [L. '54, p. 298, § 186; Cd. '81, § 1564; 2 H. C., § 1077.]

Cited in 50 Wash. 396.

§ 1571. (6336.) Funeral Expenses and Expenses of Last Sickness.

It shall be the duty of the executor or administrator, as soon as he may have sufficient funds in his hands, to pay the funeral expenses, and expenses of the last sickness, and the allowance made to the family of the deceased, and he may retain in his hands the necessary expenses of administration; but he shall not be obliged to pay any other debt or any legacy until, as prescribed by this chapter, the payment has been ordered by the court. [L. '54, p. 298, § 187; Cd. '81, § 1565; 2 H. C., § 1078.]

Compensation for services of physicians, rendered to deceased during his last sickness, do not depend upon a contract with the deceased, but are given a preference right of payment over ordinary expenses of the estate: Cunningham v. Lakin, 50 Wash. 394.

§ 1572. (6337.) Payment of Debts on Annual Settlement.

Upon the settlement of the accounts of the executor or administrator at the end of the year, as required by this chapter, the court shall make an order for the payment of the debts, as the circumstances of the estate shall require.

If there be not sufficient funds in the hands of the executors or administrators, the court shall specify in the decree the sum to be paid to each creditor. [L. '54, p. 298, § 188; Cd. '81, § 1566; 2 H. C., § 1079.]

See supra, § 1556, annual account.

§ 1573. (6338.) Provisions for Disputed or Contingent Claims.

If there be any claim not due, or any contingent or disputed claim against the estate, the amount thereof, or such part thereof as the holder would be entitled to if the claim were due, established, or absolute, shall be paid into the court, where it shall remain, to be paid over to the party when he shall become entitled thereto; or if he fail to establish his claim, to be paid over or distributed, as the circumstances of the case may require: Provided, that if any creditor whose claim has been allowed, but is not yet due, shall appear and assent to a reduction therefrom of the legal interest for the time the claim has yet to run, he shall be entitled to be paid accordingly. [L. '54, p. 298, § 189; Cd. '81, § 1567; 2 H. C., § 1080.]

Cited in 21 Wash. 615.

§ 1574. (6339.) Administrator Personally Liable to Creditors, When.

Whenever a decree shall have been made by the court for the payment of creditors, the executor or administrator shall be personally liable to each creditor for his claim, or the dividend thereon; and execution may be issued on such decree, as upon a judgment, in favor of each creditor. The executor or administrator shall also be liable on his bond to each creditor. [Cf. L. '54, p. 299, § 190; Cd. '81, § 1568; L. '91, p. 389, § 35; 2 H. C., § 1081.]

See supra, § 1535, actions by and against administrators.

§ 1575. (6340.) Claims not Included in Order for Payment, How Disposed of.

When the accounts of the executor or administrator have been settled, and an order made for the payment of the debts and distribution of the estate, no creditor whose name was not included in the order of payment shall have any right to call upon the creditors who have been paid, or upon the heirs, legatees, or devisees, to contribute for the payment of his claim; but if the executor or administrator shall have failed to give the notice to creditors as prescribed in this chapter, such creditor may recover on the bond of the executor or administrator the amount of his claim, or such part thereof as he would have been entitled to had it been allowed: Provided, that this section shall not apply to any creditor whose claim was not due one year before the day of settlement, or whose claim was contingent, and did not become absolute one year before such day. [Cf. L. '54, p. 299, § 191; L. '60, p. 214, § 271; Cd. '81, § 1569; 2 H. C., § 1082.]

§ 1576. (6341.) Order of Payment of Legacies—Extension of Time.

If all the debts shall have been paid by the first distribution, the court shall proceed to direct the payment of legacies and the distribution of the estate among the heirs, legatees, or other persons entitled; but if there be debts remaining unpaid, the court shall give such extension of time as may be reasonable for the final settlement of the same. [L. '54, p. 299, § 192; Cd. '81, § 1570; 2 H. C., § 1083.]

See supra, § 1341, order of descent of real property.

See supra, § 1523, contribution of distributees.

See infra, § 1582, payment of legacies before settlement, when.

An order of distribution does not operate to relieve the administrator of his trust, and thereby create merely the relation of debtor and creditor between him and those entitled to distribution, but the court has authority to compel the administrator to make distribution without requiring the distributees to resort to another forum: McLaughlin v. Barnes, 12 Wash. 373.

An administrator cannot hold any portion from distribution in settlement of an indebtedness due him from a cestui que trust, arising out of a claim for services rendered prior to his appointment; nor can the same result be obtained by colorable assignment of the claim to a third party: Id.

§ 1577. (6342.) When Final Account is to be Rendered.

At the time designated, or sooner, if within that time all property of the estate shall have been sold, or there shall be sufficient funds in his hands to pay all the debts due by the estate, the executor or administrator shall render a final account and pray a settlement of the estate. [L. '54, p. 299, § 193; Cd. '81, § 1571; 2 H. C., § 1084.]

See supra, § 1562, final hearing and settlement.

§ 1578. (6343.) Neglect to Render Final Account—Proceedings.

If the executor or administrator neglect to render his final account, the same proceedings may be had as are prescribed in this chapter in regard to the first account to be rendered by him; and all the provisions of this chapter relative to the last mentioned account, and the notice and settlement thereof, shall apply to his account presented for final settlement. [Cf. L. '54, p. 299, § 194; Cd. '81, § 1572; L. '91, p. 389, § 36; 2 H. C., § 1085.]

See supra, §§ 1550-1553, exhibits to be rendered.

Negotiable notes found with deceased at the time of his death in the state of Oregon are property, payable in that state, though secured by mortgages in this state; and a proper accounting to the Oregon court will relieve an administrator in that court from any liability in the courts of this state, in an action begun against him by an administrator appointed under the laws of this state: McCoy v. Ayres, 2 W. T. 307.

CHAPTER XV.

PARTITION AND DISTRIBUTION OF ESTATES.

§ 1579. (6347.) Application for Payment of Legacies—Bond.

At any time after six months from the issuing letters testamentary or of administration, any heir, legatee, or devisee, may present his petition to the court that the legacy or share of the estate to which he is entitled may be given to him upon his giving bond, with security, for the payment of his proportion of the debts of the estate. [Cf. L. '54, p. 300, § 195; Cd. '81, § 1573; L. '91, p. 389, § 37; 2 H. C., § 1086.]

See supra, § 1576, payment of legacies and distribution.

The executor does not sustain such a trust relation to a legatee under the will as to render fraudulent per se the purchase by him from the legatee of the property acquired under the will, and only in case of actual fraud could such a sale be set aside: O'Neile v. Ternes, 32 Wash. 528.

§ 1580. (6348.) Notice of Application.

Notice of the application shall be given to the executor or administrator, and to all persons interested in the estate, in the same manner that notice is required to be given of the settlement of the account of the executor or administrator. [L. '54, p. 300, § 196; Cd. '81, § 1574; 2 H. C., § 1087.]

§ 1581. (6349.) Who may Resist Application.

The executor, administrator, or any person interested in the estate, may appear and resist the application; or any other heir, legatee, or devisee may make a similar application for himself. [Cf. L. '54, p. 300, § 197; L. '60, p. 216, § 277; Cd. '81, § 1575; 2 H. C., § 1088.]

§ 1582. (6350.) Decree for Payment of Legacies—Conditions of.

If, on the hearing, it appear to the court that the estate is but little in debt, and that the share of the parties applying may be allowed without injury to the creditors of the estate, the court shall make a decree in conformity with the prayer of the applicant or applicants: Provided, each one of them shall first execute and deliver to the executor or administrator a bond in such sum as shall be designated by the court, and with sureties to be approved by the judge thereof, to the executor or administrator, conditioned for the payment by the devisee or legatee, whenever required, of his proportion of the debts due from the estate. [L. '54, p. 300, § 198; Cd. '81, § 1576; 2 H. C., § 1089.]

See supra, § 1523, contribution.

See supra, § 1576, payment of legacies and distribution.

Cited in 16 Wash. 18.

A debt due from a devisee can be retained from his portion of the real estate, as a setoff: Boyer v. Robinson, 26 Wash. 117.

§ 1583. (6351.) Decree, What may Contain.

Such decree may order the executor or administrator to deliver to the heir, devisee, or legatee the whole portion of the estate to which he may be entitled, or only a part thereof. [L. '54, p. 301, § 199; Cd. '81, § 1577; 2 H. C., § 1090.]

§ 1584. (6352.) Partition may be Made When Necessary.

If, in execution of such decree, any partition be necessary between two or more of the parties interested, it shall be made in the manner hereinafter prescribed. [L. '54, p. 301, § 200; Cd. '81, § 1587; 2 H. C., § 1091.]

§ 1585. (6353.) Applicant to Pay Costs.

The cost of the proceedings authorized by the preceding section shall be paid by the applicant, or if there be more than one, shall be equally apportioned among them. [Cf. L. '54, p. 301, § 201; L. '60, p. 216, § 281; Cd. '81, § 1579; 2 H. C., § 1092.]

§ 1586. (6354.) Order for Payment of Bond, and Suit Thereon.

Whenever any bond has been executed and delivered under the provisions of the preceding sections, and the executor or administrator shall ascertain that it is necessary for the settlement of the estate to require the payment of any part of the money thereby secured, he shall petition the court for an order requiring the payment, and shall have a citation issued and served on the party bound, requiring him to appear and show cause why the order shall not be made. At the hearing, the court, if satisfied of the necessity of the payment, shall make an order accordingly, designating the amount and giving the time within which it shall be paid; and if the money shall not be paid within the time allowed, an action may be maintained by the executor or administrator on the bond. [Cf. L. '54, p. 301, § 201; L. '60, p. 216, § 282; Cd. '81, § 1580; 2 H. C., § 1093.]

§ 1587. (6355.) Distribution of Estate upon Final Settlement.

Upon the settlement of the account of the executor or administrator, or at any subsequent time, upon the application of the executor or administrator, or any heir, devisee, or legatee, the court shall proceed to distribute the residue of the estate among the persons who are by law entitled. [Cf. L. '54, p. 301, § 202; L. '60, p. 217, § 283; Cd. '81, § 1581; 2 H. C., § 1094.]

See supra, § 1562, notice of final hearing and settlement.

Effect of payment or distribution: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1216, § 100; Griffin v. Warburton, 23 Wash. 231; Sturgiss v. Dart, 23 Wash. 244.

The intervention of the probate court and an adjudication and distribution thereunder are essential to passing title of ancestor to heirs; Balch v. Smith, 4 Wash. 497, 503; Lawrence v. Bellingham Bay etc. Ry. Co., 4 Wash. 664; but see § 1366 et seq., title vests in heirs and devisees when.

Allowances to executor or administrator for advances made before distribution: See In re Murphy's Estate, 30 Wash. 9.

An order of final distribution of an estate, requiring all real and personal property except cash on hand to be turned over to the distributees at once, will, on appeal by the administrator, be modified so as to decree distribution subject to the charge for final settlement purposes, where more than a year has elapsed since the filing of the report showing the cash on hand, which cash may not be ample for all purposes of final settlement: In re Sullivan's Estate, 48 Wash. 631.

An administrator has an appealable interest in an order of final distribution of an estate, since it is his duty to guard against error in distribution without ample provision for obligations of the estate: Id.

§ 1588. (6356.) Decree of Distribution, What to Contain.

In the decree, the court shall name the person and the portion or part to which each shall be entitled; and such persons shall have the right to demand and recover their respective shares from the executor or administrator, or any person having the same in possession. [L. '54, p. 301, § 203; Cd. '81, § 1582; 2 H. C., § 1096.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 502; 7 Wash. 651.

§ 1589. (6357.) Decree Made Only After Notice.

The decree may be made on the application of the executor or administrator, or of any person interested in the estate, and shall only be made after notice has been given in the manner required in regard to an application for the sale of land by an executor or administrator. The court may order such further notice to be given as it may deem proper. [L. '54, p. 301, § 204; Cd. '81, § 1583; 2 H. C., § 1096.]

§ 1590. (6358.) Estate in Common may be Partitioned.

When the estate, real or personal, assigned to two or more heirs, devisees, or legatees, shall be in common and undivided, and the respective shares shall not be separated and distinguished, partition and distribution may be made by three disinterested persons, to be appointed commissioners for that purpose by the court, who shall be duly sworn to the faithful discharge of their duties, and the court shall issue a warrant to them for that purpose. [L. '54, p. 301, § 205; Cd. '81, § 1584; 2 H. C., § 1097.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 502.

§ 1591. (6359.) Estate in Different Counties, How Partitioned.

If the real estate be in different counties, the court may, if it shall judge proper, appoint different commissioners for each county; and in such cases the estate in each county shall be divided separately, as if there were no other estate to be divided, but the commissioners first appointed shall, unless otherwise directed by the court, make division of such real estate, wherever situated within the state. [L. '54, p. 302, § 206; Cd. '81, § 1585; 2 H. C., § 1098.]

§ 1592. (6360.) Partition and Distribution After Notice.

Such partition and distribution may be ordered on the petition of any of the persons interested in the estate; but before any partition shall be ordered as directed in this chapter, notice shall be given to all persons interested who shall reside in this state, or to their guardians, and to agents, attorneys, or guardians, if there be any in this state, of such as reside out of the state, either personally or by public notice, as the court may direct. [L. '54, p. 302, § 207; Cd. '81, § 1586; 2 H. C., § 1099.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 502.

§ 1593. (6361.) Partition Though Some Heirs have Parted with Their Interest.

Partition of the real estate may be made as provided in this chapter, although some of the original heirs, or devisees may have conveyed their shares to other persons, and such shares shall be assigned to the person holding the same, in the same manner as they otherwise would have been to such heirs or devisees. [L. '54, p. 302, § 208; Cd. '81, § 1587; 2 H. C., § 1100.]

Cited in 22 Wash. 628; 33 Wash. 206.

§ 1594. (6362.) Shares to be Set Out by Metes and Bounds.

The several shares in the real and personal estate shall be set out to each individual in proportion to his right, by such metes, bounds, and descriptions that the same may be easily distinguished, unless two or more of the parties shall consent to have their shares set out so as to be held by them in common and undivided. [L. '54, p. 302, § 209; Cd. '81, § 1588; 2 H. C., § 1101.]

§ 1595. (6363.) Assignment of Whole Estate to One—Compensation to Others.

When any such real estate cannot be divided without prejudice or inconvenience to the owners, the court may assign the whole to one or more of the parties entitled to share therein, who will accept it, providing the party so accepting the whole shall pay to the other parties interested their just proportion of the true value thereof, or secure the same to their satisfaction, and the true value of the estate shall be ascertained by the commissioners appointed by the court, and sworn for that purpose. [Cf. L. '54, p. 302, § 210; L. '73, p. 311, § 284; Cd. '81, § 1589; 2 H. C., § 1102.]

§ 1596. (6364.) Equality for Inequality of Shares.

When any tract of land or tenement shall be of greater value than either party's share of the estate to be divided, and cannot be divided without injury to the same, it may be set off, by the commissioners appointed to make partition, to either of the parties who will accept it, giving preference as prescribed in the preceding sections; provided the party so accepting shall pay or secure to one or more of the others such sums as the commissioners shall award to make the partition equal, and the commissioners shall make their award accordingly; but such partition shall not be established by the court until the sums so awarded shall be paid to the parties entitled to the same, or secured to their satisfaction. [L. '54, p. 302, § 211; Cd. '81, § 1590; 2 H. C., § 1103.]

§ 1597. (6365.) Estate may be Sold and Proceeds Distributed, When.

When it cannot be otherwise fairly divided, the whole or any part of the estate, real or personal, may be recommended by the commissioners to be sold; and if the report be confirmed, the court may order a sale by the executor or administrator, and distribute the proceeds. [Cf. L. '54, p. 303, § 212; L. '60, p. 218, § 293; Cd. '81, § 1591; 2 H. C., § 1104.]

§ 1598. (6366.) Duties of Commissioners Where Estate Held in Common.

When partition of real estate among heirs or devisees shall be required, and such real estate shall be undivided and in common with the real estate of any other person, the commissioners shall first divide and sever the estate of the deceased from the estate with which it lies in common; and such division so made and established by the court shall be binding upon all the persons interested. [L. '54, p. 303, § 213; Cd. '81, § 1592; 2 H. C., § 1105.]

§ 1599. (6367.) Notice to Guardians, etc., Before Partition.

Before any partition shall be made, or any estate divided, as provided in this chapter, guardians shall be appointed for all minors and insane persons interested in the estate to be divided; and some discreet persons shall be appointed to act as agent for such parties as reside out of the state, and notice of the appointment of such agent shall be given to the commissioners in their warrant, and notice shall be given to all persons interested in the partition, their guardians or agents, by the commissioners, of the time when they shall proceed to make partition. [L. '54, p. 303, § 214; Cd. '81, § 1593; 2 H. C., § 1106.]

See infra, § 1603, agent to take possession.

§ 1600. (6368.) To Make Report and Partition to be Recorded.

The commissioners shall make a report of their proceedings in writing, and the court may, for sufficient reasons, set aside such report and remit the same to the same commissioners or appoint others; and the report, when finally accepted and established, shall be recorded in the records of the court, and a certified copy thereof, under the seal of the court, shall be recorded in the office of the county auditor of the county where the land lies. [Cf. L. '54, p. 303, § 215; Cd. '81, § 1594; L. '91, p. 389, § 38; 2 H. C., § 1107.]

§ 1601. (6369.) When Commissioners Unnecessary.

When the court shall make a decree assigning the residue of any estate to one or more persons entitled to the same, it shall not be necessary to appoint commissioners to make partition or distribution of such estate, unless the parties to whom the assignment shall have been decreed, or some of them, shall request that such partition be made. [L. '54, p. 303, § 216; Cd. '81, § 1595; 2 H. C., § 1108.]

§ 1602. (6370.) Advancements to Heirs.

All questions as to advancement made, or alleged to have been made, by the deceased to any heirs may be heard and determined by the court, and shall be specified in the decree assigning the estate, and in the warrant to the commissioners, and the final decree of the court, or in case of appeal, of [to] the supreme court, shall be binding on all parties interested in the estate. [L. '54, p. 303, § 217; Cd. '81, § 1596; 2 H. C., § 1109.]

§ 1603. (6371.) Court may Appoint Agent to Take Possession of Absentee's Estate.

When any estate shall have been assigned by decree of the court, or distributed by commissioners, as provided in this chapter, to any person residing out of this state, and having no agent therein, and it shall be necessary that some person should be authorized to take possession and charge of the same for the benefit of such absent person, the court may appoint an agent for that purpose, and authorize him to take charge of such estate, as well as to act for such absentee in the partition and distribution. [L. '54, p. 303, § 218; Cd. '81, § 1597; 2 H. C., § 1110.]

See supra, § 1599, notice to agent before partition.

§ 1604. (6372.) Agent to Give Bond, Compensation of.

Such agent shall give a bond to the state of Washington, to be approved by the court conditioned faithfully to manage and account for such estate, before he shall be authorized to receive the same, and the court appointing such agent may allow a reasonable sum out of the profits of the estate for his services and expenses. [Cf. L. '54, p. 304, § 219; L. '57, p. 24, § 3; Cd. '81, § 1598; 2 H. C., § 1111.]

§ 1605. (6373.) Unclaimed Estates, How Disposed of.

When the estate shall have remained in the hands of the agent unclaimed for one year, it shall be sold under order of the court, and the proceeds, deducting the expenses of the sale, to be allowed by the court, shall be paid into the county treasury. When the payment is made the agent shall take triplicate receipts, one of which he shall file with the county auditor, and another with the court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 304, § 220; L. '57, p. 24, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1599; 2 H. C., § 1112.]

§ 1606. (6374.) Agent's Liability on Bond.

The agent shall be liable on his bond for the care and preservation of the estate while in his hands, and for the payment of the proceeds of sale as required by the preceding section, and may be sued thereon by any person interested. [L. '54, p. 304, § 221; Cd. '81, § 1600; 2 H. C., 1113.]

§ 1607. (6375.) Auditor to Draw Warrant.

When any person shall appear and claim the money paid into the treasury, the court making the distribution, being first satisfied of his right, shall order the payment of such money, and, upon the presentation of a certified copy of the order to the county auditor, he shall draw his warrant on the county treasurer for the amount. [Cf. L. '54, p. 304, § 222; Cd. '81, § 1601; L. '91, p. 390, § 39; 2 H. C., § 1114.]

§ 1608. (6376.) Final Settlement, Decree and Discharge.

When the estate has been fully administered, and it shall have been shown by the executor or administrator, by the production of satisfactory vouchers, that he has paid all sums of money due from him, and delivered up, under order of the court, all property of the estate to the persons entitled, the court shall make a decree discharging him from all liability to be incurred thereafter. [L. '54, p. 304, § 223; Cd. '81, § 1602; 2 H. C., § 1115.]

See supra, § 1562, final hearing and settlement of account.

A finding upon the final settlement of the estate that there are no debts is sustained where the evidence showed no debts except funeral expenses and the costs of administration, and the only bill presented was disallowed: Drasdo v. Jobst, 39 Wash. 425.

§ 1609. (6377.) Discovery of Further Property After Final Settlement—Proceedings.

The final settlement of the estate shall not prevent a subsequent issuance of letters of administration, should other property of the estate be discovered, or it should become necessary and proper from any cause that letters should be again issued. [L. '54, p. 304, § 224; Cd. '81, § 1603; 2 H. C., § 1116.]

CHAPTER XVI.

SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE OF DECEDENT'S CONTRACTS.

§ 1610. (6381.) Decedent's Contract to Convey may be Enforced.

If any person, who is bound by contract, in writing, to convey any real property, shall die before making the conveyance, the superior court of the county in which such real estate or any portion thereof is situate may make a decree authorizing and directing his executor or administrator to convey such real property to the person entitled thereto. [Cf. L. '54, p. 292, § 150; L. '77, p. 130, § 626; Cd. '81, § 623; L. '91, p. 390, § 40; 2 H. C., § 1117.]

See supra, § 1447, performance of contracts of testator, nonintervention wills.

See notes to § 1449, supra, right to possession of estate.

Cited in 5 Wash. 381; 10 Wash. 594; 46 Wash. 185, 189.

Contracts of decedent: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1207, § 49.

The legal title to decedent's land vests in the administrator for the purpose of passing title to purchasers in conformity with conditions of contracts of sale made by the testator: Hyde v. Heller, 10 Wash. 586, 599; and the language of this section applies to all persons who have contracted in writing to convey real property, whether they have died testate or intestate, and without regard to the conditions of their will: Id.

This section is not impliedly repealed by section 1366 et seq., providing that upon the death of a person, the lands of which he died seised shall immediately vest in the heirs; since repeals by implication are not favored, and lands held by the deceased under contract to convey may be treated as personalty; hence, upon proceedings by the purchaser for specific performance against the administrator, under the statute, the heirs are not necessary parties defendant: Griggs Land Co. v. Smith, 46 Wash. 185.

§ 1611. (6382.) Petition for Executor to Make Conveyance and Notice of Hearing.

On filing and presentation of a petition of any person claiming to be entitled to such conveyance under such contract, setting forth the facts upon which such claim is predicated, the court, or the judge thereof, shall make an order appointing a time for hearing, to be published four successive weeks next before such hearing, in such newspaper in the state as the court shall designate; and in case such deceased person was an inhabitant of this state at the time of his death, or died in this state, and in all other cases in which an executor or administrator has been appointed in this state, the court shall further order that the notice be personally served upon the executor or administrator, by delivery to him of a copy of the same, together with a copy of the petition. [Cf. L. '54, p. 292, § 151; L. '77, p. 130, § 627; Cd. '81, § 624; L. '91, p. 390, § 41; 2 H. C., § 1118.]

The proceedings must be held in the county where the land is situated: Reese v. Murnan, 5 Wash. 373, 381.

In a proceeding where the administrator was not served with copies of the petition and notice, and there was no adjournment of the hearing, the court was without jurisdiction at a later date to entertain the petition or to reopen the case to allow a party served by publication only to appear and defend: Sander-Boman Co. v. Yesler Estate, 2 Wash. 430.

In a proceeding under this statute to enforce the specific performance of a contract to convey real estate made by a decedent, a notice of publication to the administrator of the estate, "and all persons having an interest in said estate," is sufficient without being directed to "all persons interested as creditors, heirs, devisees or personal representatives" thereof: Id.

§ 1612. (6383.) Proceedings at Hearing, Contest.

At the time appointed for such hearing, or at such other time as the same may be adjourned to, upon proof of the publication of the notice and of personal service thereof where personal service is required, the court shall proceed to a hearing, and all persons interested as creditors, heirs, devisees, or personal representatives may appear and resist such petition, by filing their objections in writing, and the court shall examine, on oath, the petitioners, and all witnesses who may be produced on the hearing, by an interested party, for that purpose. [Cf. L. '54, p. 293, § 152; Cd. '81, § 625; L. '91, p. 340, § 42; 2 H. C., § 1119.]

§ 1613. (6384.) Decree for Conveyance.

After a full hearing, upon such petition and objections, of the facts and circumstances of the claim, if the court is satisfied that the petitioner is entitled, in equity, to a conveyance of the real estate described in the petition, of any part thereof, or any interest therein, the court shall make a decree authorizing and directing the execution and delivery of a conveyance to the petitioner. [Cf. L. '54, p. 293, § 153; L. '77, p. 130, § 629; Cd. '81, § 626; 2 H. C., § 1120.]

The decree is made upon notice only to the administrator, and while heirs, creditors or devisees may appear and resist the application, notice to the administrator is the test of jurisdiction: Hyde v. Heller, 10 Wash. 586, 598.

§ 1614. (6385.) Conveyance, by Whom Executed.

Such conveyance shall be executed by the executor or administrator of the estate of the deceased, if the deceased was a resident of or had his place of abode at the time of his death in this state, or if he died therein, or if an executor or administrator has been appointed therein; but in such case no decree for conveyance shall be made, unless the executor or administrator shall have been served with a copy of the said petition and the notice provided for in section 1611, at least twenty days prior to the time appointed for the hearing. [Cf. L. '77, p. 130, § 630; Cd. '81, § 627; L. '91, p. 391, § 43; 2 H. C., § 1121.]

§ 1615. (6386.) Proceedings Where There is No Executor or Administrator.

If the deceased died out of the state, and was not an inhabitant thereof at the time of his death, and no executor or administrator shall have been appointed in the state, such conveyance shall be executed by a commissioner to be appointed by the court, in the decree, for that purpose; but in such case, in addition to the notice provided in section 1611, it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court at the hearing, that the executor or administrator of such deceased duly appointed in another state, territory, or country, or his heirs or devisees, shall have had reasonable notice personally of the pendency of said petition, and of the time and place appointed for such hearing. And such foreign executor or administrator shall have the same right to file objections and resist the claim of the petitioners as an executor or administrator appointed under the laws of this state would have; and it shall not be necessary, in such case, that an administration of the estate of the deceased be had in the state, to authorize the decree of conveyance prayed for. [Cf. L. '77, p. 131, § 631; Cd. '81, § 628; L. '91, p. 391, § 44; 2 H. C., § 1122.]

§ 1616. (6387.) Form and Effect of Such Conveyance.

A conveyance executed under the provisions of this chapter shall so refer to the decree authorizing the conveyance that the same may be readily found, but need not recite the record in the case generally, and the conveyance made in pursuance of a decree shall pass to the grantee all the estate, right, title, and interest contracted to be conveyed by the deceased, as fully as if the contracting party himself were still living and executed the conveyance in pursuance of such contract. [L. '77, p. 131, § 632; Cd. '81, § 629; 2 H. C., § 1123.]

Cited in 10 Wash. 594.

§ 1617. (6388.) Appeal from Decree—Recording, Effect of.

Any party interested may appeal therefrom to the supreme court, in the same manner as appeals are taken and prosecuted from final decrees or judgments in equity causes; but if no appeal be taken from such decree within the time limited therefor, or if such decree be affirmed on appeal, it shall be the duty of the executor, administrator, or commissioner to execute and deliver the conveyance according to the directions contained in the decree; and a certified copy of the decree shall be recorded with the deed in the office of the auditor of the county where the lands lie, and shall be conclusive evidence of the correctness of the proceedings and of the authority of the executor, administrator, or commissioner to make such conveyance. [Cf. L. '54, p. 293, § 154; L. '73, p. 300, § 227; L. '77, p. 131, § 633; Cd. '81, § 630; L. '91, p. 391, § 45; 2 H. C., § 1124.]

A decree in a proceeding ordering the administrator to execute a deed forthwith, and, in default thereof within ten days, decreeing that a commissioner shall execute the same, is erroneous, as, under this section, a conveyance is not to be made until after the time for an appeal shall have elapsed: Sander-Boman Co. v. Yesler Estate, 2 Wash. 430.

§ 1618. (6389.) Effect of Recording Copy of Decree.

A copy of the decree for conveyance, made by the court, and duly certified, and recorded in the office of the auditor of the county wherein the land is situate, shall, after affirmance upon appeal, or after expiration of the time for taking an appeal in case no appeal be taken, give to the person entitled to the conveyance a right to the immediate possession of the land contracted for, and of holding the same according to the terms of the intended conveyance, in like manner and with like effect as if they had been conveyed in pursuance of the decree. [Cf. L. '54, p. 293, § 157; L. '77, p. 131, § 634; Cd. '81, § 631; L. '91, p. 392, § 46; 2 H. C., § 1125.]

§ 1619. (6390.) Proceedings Where Party to Whom Conveyance is Made Dies.

If the person to whom the conveyance was to be made shall die before the commencement of the proceedings according to the provisions of this chapter, or before the completion of the conveyance, any person who would have been entitled to the conveyance under him, as heir, devisee, or otherwise, in case the conveyance had been made according to the terms of the contract, or the executor or administrator of such deceased person, for the benefit of persons entitled, may commence such proceedings, or prosecute the same if already commenced; and the conveyance shall be so made as to vest the estate in the persons who would have been entitled to it, or in the executor or administrator for their benefit. [Cf. L. '54, p. 299, § 159; Cd. '81, § 532; L. '91, p. 392, § 47; 2 H. C., § 1126.]

§ 1620. (6391.) Depositions on Hearing.

The testimony of witnesses in support of the claim of the petitioner may be taken by deposition whenever the deposition of such witnesses might be taken to be used in the trial of a civil action; but notice of the time and place of taking such deposition shall be published by the petitioner, in the paper required to be designated by section 1611, for three successive weeks prior to taking the same, which notice shall also state the name of the officer before whom the deposition is to be taken, and the name[s] of the witnesses whose testimony is proposed to be taken at such time and place, and shall also be served personally in all cases wherein personal service of the notice is required by the provisions of section 1611. Any party interested in the estate may appear and cross-examine such witnesses, and the manner of examination and the form of such deposition shall be in conformity with the statute regulating depositions of witnesses in civil actions. Any party interested in the estate, and resisting the claim of the petitioner, may, after filing his objections, take the testimony of witnesses in his behalf in like manner as in civil actions. [Cf. L. '77, p. 132, § 636; Cd. '81, §§ 633, 634; L. '91, p. 392, § 48; 2 H. C., § 1127.]

CHAPTER XVII.

GUARDIANSHIP OF INFANTS, AND OF THE INSANE.

§ 1621. (6395.) Guardians for Minors Appointed, When.

The superior court of each county, when it shall become necessary, may appoint guardians to minors resident in said county, who have no guardian appointed by will; or who may reside out of the state, having estate within the county. [Cf. L. '55, p. 15, § 1; L. '73, p. 314, § 299; Cd. '81, § 1604; 2 H. C., § 1128.]

Only the next four sections of this chapter (§§ 1622-1625) and §§ 1638 to 1640, inclusive, relate to the guardianship of the insane: See § 1654 et seq.

See infra, note to § 1674, sales of property of nonresident wards.

§ 1622. Petition for Appointment.

When a petition is presented to the superior court verified by the petitioner, and showing that a person, resident of the county where the petition is filed, is a minor, or is insane, or mentally incompetent, and that such person has property needing care and attention and praying for the appointment of a guardian for such minor, insane or mentally incompetent person's property, the court shall thereupon make an order setting a time for the hearing on said petition, and directing the clerk of the court to issue a notice stating that such a petition has been filed, and the time and place of the hearing thereon and stating that all persons interested shall appear at the time and place of the hearing and show cause if any there be, why a guardian should not be appointed for the estate of such minor, insane, or mentally incompetent person. [L. '09, p. 408, § 1. Cf. L. '03, p. 242, §§ 1-5.]

This act supersedes the act of 1903.

As to proceedings for appointment, under this act, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1513, Laws 1903, page 242, §§ 1-5, superseded by § 6; Coleman v. Cravens, 41 Wash. 1.

§ 1623. Notice, How Served.

The notice of the hearing shall be served upon such minor personally if over fourteen years of age, or such insane or incompetent person, and also upon the head of the family with whom such minor, insane or incompetent person resides, and if such minor, insane or incompetent person is in the care and custody of an officer, or institution, then upon such officer or head of such institution, at least ten days prior to the time set for the hearing; and proof of such service shall be made and filed in the same manner as proof of the service of a summons: Provided, however, that in case that the person making application for the appointment of such guardian, is the parent of a minor under fourteen years of age, then the notice herein provided for shall be dispensed with and the court may make the order appointing the parent as such guardian upon his or her petition being presented. [L. '09, p. 408, § 2. Cf. L. '03, pp. 242, 243, §§ 2, 3.]

§ 1624. Prosecuting Attorney to Appear for Ward.

Before the hearing the petition or a copy thereof shall be submitted to the prosecuting attorney who shall appear for such minor, insane or incompetent person at said hearing, and if the prosecuting attorney desires further time in which to make an investigation, the court shall at his request continue the hearing to some certain day, and the court may on its own motion or at the request of the prosecuting attorney, direct that the minor, insane or mentally incompetent person, be brought into court in person, and for this purpose may make an order directing the sheriff to bring him or her into court.

In case the prosecuting attorney or his deputy is unable to attend at the hearing, the court may appoint some suitable person to act in his place: Provided, however, that nothing herein shall prevent the minor, insane or mentally incompetent person from appearing by an attorney selected by himself, or by some one on his behalf, in which case it will not be necessary for the prosecuting attorney to appear at the hearing. [L. '09, p. 409, § 3. Cf. L. '03, p. 243, § 4.]

§ 1625. Service on Nonresidents—Publication.

When a minor, insane or mentally incompetent person, resides out of the state of Washington, and has property within the state requiring the care of a guardian, and a petition is filed in the county where such minor, insane or mentally incompetent person has property, the petitioner shall make an affidavit stating the fact of the nonresidence of such minor, insane or mentally incompetent person, and then the notice provided for in section 1622 shall be served by publication in some newspaper printed and of general circulation in the county where the petition is filed for four weeks, to wit; for five successive weekly issues of such paper prior to the time set for the hearing and proof of such publication shall be made and filed, as in the case of a summons by publication, and thereafter the same proceedings shall be had as hereinbefore provided. [L. '09, p. 409, § 4. Cf. L. '03, p. 243, § 5.]

This section may perhaps supersede 1 Hill's Code, §§ 3071-3078 (Code 1881, §§ 1658-1665), given in note to § 1674 infra.

See infra, § 1674 et seq., appointment of guardian for nonresident insane.

§ 1626. (6396.) Who may Nominate—Disqualifications.

If the minor is under fourteen years of age, the judge may nominate and appoint his guardian; if said minor be over fourteen years of age, he or she may nominate the guardian, who, if approved by the superior court, shall be appointed accordingly: Provided, that no judicial officer, excepting justice of the peace, no person of unsound mind, or a party convicted of felony, or a misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, shall be appointed guardian, and when a guardian shall incur either of the foregoing disabilities, he shall be displaced. If a guardian becomes superior judge, the superior court of the proper [adjoining] county shall appoint his successor. [Cf. L. '55, p. 15, § 2; L. '60, p. 225, § 322; L. '73, p. 314, § 300; Cd. '81, § 1605; 2 H. C., § 1129.]

See infra, § 1629, who entitled to guardianship.

§ 1627. (6397.) Appointment must be Approved by Court.

If the guardian nominated by the minor be not approved by the judge, or if the minor shall reside out of the state, or if, after being duly cited by the court he shall neglect for ten days to nominate a suitable person, the court may appoint the guardian in the same manner as if the minor were under the age of fourteen years. [L. '60, p. 226, § 323; Cd. '81, § 1606; 2 H. C., § 1130.]

§ 1628. (6398.) Guardian not to be Removed Without Cause.

When a guardian has been appointed for any minor under the age of fourteen, such guardian shall not be removed when such minor arrives at the age of fourteen, except for good cause shown. [L. '55, p. 15, § 3; Cd. '81, § 1607; 2 H. C., § 1131.]

§ 1629. (6399.) Who Entitled to Guardianship.

The father of the minor if living, and in case of his decease the mother, being themselves respectively competent to transact their own business, shall be entitled to the guardianship of a minor. [Cf. L. '60, p. 226, § 235; L. '73, p. 315, § 303; Cd. '81, § 1608; 2 H. C., § 1132.]

See supra, § 1626, who may nominate—disqualifications.

§ 1630. (6400.) Guardian to have Custody of Ward, When.

If the minor have no father or mother living, and competent to have the custody and care of the education of such minor, the guardian so appointed shall have the custody and tuition of his ward. [L. '60, p. 226, § 326; Cd. '81, § 1609; 2 H. C., § 1133.]

See infra, § 1664, custody of person and estate of insane ward.

Persons who may be appointed: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1342, § 1; Lovell v. House of the Good Shepherd, 9 Wash. 419; Willet v. Warren, 34 Wash. 647; Russner v. McMillan, 37 Wash. 416.

It is not a valid objection to the appointment of a guardian for an adopted child that the guardian would inherit from the child, in case of her decease without issue, and that it would be to the guardian's interest to prevent her marriage, especially where the court has found such guardian to be a suitable and proper person: In re Master-son's Estate, 45 Wash. 48.

§ 1631. (6401.) Guardianship Terminates, When.

Every guardian appointed as aforesaid shall have the custody and tuition of the minor, and the care and management of the estate of such minor, except as hereinafter provided, until he or she shall have attained the age of majority; and males shall be deemed of full and legal age when they shall be twenty-one years old, and females shall be deemed of full and legal age when they shall be eighteen years old, or at any age under eighteen, when, with the consent of the parent or guardian, or other person under whose care or government they may be, they shall have been lawfully married. [Cf. L. '55, p. 16, § 6; L. '60, p. 326, § 327; L. '73, p. 315, § 305; Cd. '81, § 1610; 2 H. C., § 1134.]

Cited in 50 Wash. 476.

Personal appearance of a ward who has attained his majority, upon the hearing of the final account of a guardian of a minor, is sufficient, without the appointment of a guardian ad litem, to give the court jurisdiction to order a discharge of the guardian, where the court had jurisdiction of the guardianship: Meeker v. Mettler, 50 Wash. 473.

The finding of a court having jurisdiction of the guardianship of a minor, that the ward has attained his majority is binding upon the ward and privies in estate until vacated or set aside for fraud or error; and is consequently a bar to an action by his heirs to set aside his subsequent conveyances on the ground that he was a minor: Id.

§ 1632. (6403.*) Bond of Guardian.

The court shall take of each guardian appointed under this act a bond, with approved security payable to the state of Washington, in the sum of not less than twice the value of the personal property and twice the estimated value of the annual rents, profits and issues of the real property belonging to the estate, conditioned as follows: The condition of this obligation is such that if the above-bound A. B., who has been appointed guardian for C. D. shall faithfully discharge the office and trust of such guardian according to law, and shall render a fair and just account of his said guardianship to the superior court for the county of — from time to time as he shall thereto be required by said court, and comply with all orders of said court, lawfully made relative to the goods, chattels and moneys of such minor, and render and pay to such minor all moneys, goods and chattels, title papers and effects which may come into the hands or possession of such guardian belonging to such minor, when such minor shall thereto be entitled, or to any subsequent guardian, should such court so direct, this obligation shall be void, or otherwise to remain in full force and virtue. Which bond shall be for the use of such minor, and shall not become void upon the first recovery, but may be put in suit from time to time against all or any one or more of the obligors, in the name and for the use and benefit of any person entitled by a breach thereof, until the whole penalty shall be recovered thereon. The judge may require an additional bond whenever a sale of real estate belonging to a minor is ordered by him, but no such additional bond must be required when it satisfactorily appears to the court that the penalty of the bond given before receiving letters, or of any bond given in place thereof is equal to twice the value of the personal property remaining in or that may come into the possession of the guardian, including the annual rents, profits and issues of real estate and twice the probable amount to be realized on the sale of the property ordered to be sold. [L. '05, p. 33, §1, Cf. L. '60, p. 226, § 329; Cd. '81, § 1612; 2 H. C., § 1136.]

§ 1633. (6408.) Provisions Applicable to Bond of Guardian.

All the provisions of chapter eight of this title relative to bonds given by executors and administrators shall apply to bonds taken of guardians. [L. '60, p. 228, § 334; Cd. '81, § 1617; 2 H. C., § 1141.]

See supra, § 1395 et seq., bonds of administrators, etc.

See supra, § 1632, bond of guardian, conditions and form of.

§ 1634. (6420.) Discharge of Sureties.

Sureties in the bond of any guardian may be discharged from liability therein, under the same rule and regulation prescribed for the discharge of the sureties in the bond of executors and administrators, and the provisions of the chapter regulating the same shall apply to guardians, and guardians' bonds and sureties. [Cf. L. '55, p. 19, § 26; L. '60, p. 229, § 346; Cd. '81, § 1629; 2 H. C., § 1153.]

See supra, § 1402, new bond discharges.

See supra, § 1432, limitations of actions against.

See infra, § 8336, release of sureties.

§ 1635. (6404.) Court may Require Accounting and Further Security.

Superior courts shall have power, in their respective counties, with or without previous complaint, by an order duly made and served, to oblige all guardians of minors, from time to time, to render their respective accounts, upon oath, touching their guardianship, to said courts for adjustment, and shall have power to compel such guardian to give supplementary security, whenever it shall judge proper, and in default thereof, to remove such guardian. [L. '60, p. 227, § 330; Cd. '81, § 1613; 2 H. C., § 1137.]

Cited in 48 Wash. 428.

§ 1636. (6405.) Duties of Guardian.

It shall be the duty of the guardian of any minor,—

1. To make out and file, within three months after his appointment, a full inventory, verified by oath, of the real and personal estate of his ward, with the value of the same, and failing so to do, it shall be the duty of the court to remove him and appoint a successor;

2. To manage the estate for the best interest of his ward;

3. To render on oath to the proper court an account of his receipts and of his expenditures, with vouchers therefor, at least once in every two years, and whenever cited so to do, and failing so to do, he shall receive no allowances for services, and be liable to said ward on his bond in damages for ten per cent of the whole amount of the estate, both real and personal, in his hands belonging to such ward;

4. At the expiration of his trust fully to account for and pay over to the proper person all the estate of said ward remaining in his hands;

5. To pay all just debts due from such ward out of the estate in his hands, and to collect all debts due such ward, and in case of doubtful debts, to compound the same, and to appear for and defend, or cause to be defended, all suits against such ward;

6. When any ward has no father or mother, or such father or mother is unable or fails to educate such ward, it shall be the duty of his guardian to provide for him such education as the amount of his estate may justify. [Cf. L. '55, p. 16, § 9; L. '60, p. 227, § 331; Cd. '81, § 1614; 2 H. C., § 1138; L. '95, p. 65, § 1.]

Custody and care of ward's person and estate: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1343, §§ 4-7; Terry v. Sicade, 37 Wash. 249; Schulteis v. Nash, 27 Wash. 261; Burgert v. Caroline, 31 Wash. 62.

An order requiring a guardian to pay over to a ward, who had become of age, her proportion of certain moneys alleged to be in his hands as such guardian, and to account to those of his wards who had not become of age, is a final and appealable order: In re Guardian of Hill's Heirs, 7 Wash. 421.

In such case where the order adjudges that the guardian pay the costs, he has sufficient interest in the subject matter of the order to authorize him to appeal therefrom: Id.

Where an insurance policy is made payable to the children of the deceased, the money collected thereon is no part of decedent's estate, but goes to the heirs directly; In re Hill's Heirs, 8 Wash. 330; and, if a guardian, who is an executor of the estate of his ward's deceased father, allows the funds of his ward to become commingled with those of the testator's estate, and his accounts as guardian to become confused with those of the executor's, the court is warranted in finding that the minor heirs had been supported from the funds of the estate, and that insurance money collected by the guardian had been kept intact for the use of the ward: Id.

As to time within which ward, after arriving at age, must commence action against guardian for fraud, see Wickham v. Sprague, 18 Wash. 466.

§ 1637. (6402.) Guardian may Prosecute and Defend for Ward.

Guardians, by virtue of their office as such, shall be allowed in all cases to prosecute and defend for their wards. [L. '60, p. 226, § 328; Cd. '81, § 1611; 2 H. C., § 1135.]

Cited in 27 Wash. 257.

Where a suitable general guardian has been appointed, it is error to appoint a temporary guardian for a special purpose, without a clear showing of the necessity thereof: Reed v. Brown, 36 Wash. 130.

§ 1638. Compromise of Suits by Guardian.

Every minor, imbecile or insane person, having a cause of action against him, or in his favor, shall be bound by any compromise or settlement thereof to the same extent as a person not under legal disability would be bound; providing such compromise is made by the guardian of such minor, imbecile or insane person by and with the advice of the court, by whom such guardian was appointed. Before making a compromise, the guardian shall file in the court wherein he is appointed, and to which he is accountable, a petition briefly stating the nature of the claim, together with the reasons for the making of such compromise. In case the ward is a minor more than fourteen years of age, a copy of the petition with a notice of the time of hearing, shall be served upon the ward. The guardian shall call to the attention of the court all facts pertaining to said matter, and if the court, after such hearing, directs a compromise to be made, the guardian is hereby authorized to make and accept acquittances which shall be forever binding upon his ward. [L. '03, p. 153, § 1.]

§ 1639. (6405a.) Presentation of Claim to Guardian.

No holder of a claim, demand or judgment against an estate of a person under guardianship shall maintain an action thereon or enforce the same, unless the claim demand or judgment shall have been first presented to such guardian and by him rejected in whole or in part. A failure or neglect to allow a claim for thirty days after the same is presented, shall be deemed a rejection thereof. [L. '97, p. 203, § 1.]

The title of this act relates to the insane as well as to minors.

§ 1640. (6405b.) Judgments to be Presented for Allowance.

No judgment entered against the estate or person of a ward, except for the foreclosure of a mortgage or lien, shall be a lien against or upon the estate of such ward, but such judgment shall be presented and paid as other claims of the same class or grade. [L. '97, p. 203, § 2.]

See note to last section.

§ 1641. (6406.) Court may Change Investment.

The court may, on the application of a guardian or any other person, said guardian having due written notice thereof, order and decree any change to be made in the investment of the estate of any ward that may to such court seem advantageous to such estate. [Cf. L. '55, p. 17, § 10; L. '60, p. 227, § 332; Cd. '81, § 1615; 2 H. C., § 1139.]

§ 1642. (6407.) Removal of Guardian and Proceedings Thereafter.

The court in all cases shall have power to remove guardians for good and sufficient reasons, which shall be entered of record, and to appoint others in their place or in the place of those who may die, who shall give bond and security for the faithful discharge of their duties as heretofore prescribed in this chapter; and when any guardian shall be removed or die, and a successor be appointed, the court shall have power to compel such guardian to deliver up to such successor all goods, chattels, moneys, title-papers, or other effects belonging to such minor which may be in the possession of such guardian so removed, or of the executors or administrators of a deceased guardian, or of any other person or persons who have the same, and upon failure, to commit the party offending to prison, until he, she, or they comply with the order of the court. [Cf. L. '55, p. 17, § 11; L. '60, p. 227, § 333; Cd. '81, § 1616; 2 H. C., § 1140.]

§ 1643. (6409.) Testamentary Guardian, Appointment and Bond of.

The father of every legitimate child, who is a minor, may, by his last will in writing, appoint a guardian or guardians for his minor children, whether born at the time of making such will or afterwards, to continue during the minority of such child, or for any less time, and every such testamentary guardian shall give bond in like manner and with like condition as hereinbefore required, and he shall have the same powers and perform the same duties with regard to the person and estate of the ward as a guardian appointed as aforesaid. [L. '60, p. 228, § 335; Cd. '81, § 1618; 2 H. C., § 1142.]

§ 1644. (6410.) Court may Appoint Guardian ad Litem.

Nothing contained in this chapter shall affect or impair the power of any court to appoint a guardian to defend the interests of any minor interested in any suit or matter pending therein, or to commence and prosecute any suit in his behalf. [Cf. L. '60, p. 228, § 336; L. '73, p. 318, § 314; Cd. '81, § 1619; 2 H. C., § 1143.]

See supra, § 187, appointment of guardian ad litem.

Cited in 23 Wash. 151; 24 Wash. 128.

A judgment against minors resulting from an appearance in the suit by one who assumed, without lawful authority, to be their guardian, does not conclude them, and they may question it in a collateral proceeding: Hatch v. Ferguson, 57 Fed. 96d.

The guardian of a minor who wages an action has the same right to control it that any other suitor has, and may stipulate for dismissal of appeal regardless of his attorney's objections: So. Bend Land Co. v. Denio, 7 Wash. 303.

§ 1645. (6411.) Estate may be Sold Under Order of Court, When.

Whenever necessary for the education, support, or payment of the just debts of any minor, or for the discharge of any liens on the real estate of such minor, or whenever the real estate of such minor is suffering unavoidable waste, or a better investment of the value thereof can be made, the court may, on the application of such guardian, order the same or a part thereof to be sold. [L. '55, p. 17, § 14; Cd. '81, § 1620; 2 H. C., § 1144.]

See infra, § 1683 et seq., private sales of real property.

Cited in 39 Wash. 687.

§ 1646. (6412.) Requisites of Petition.

Such application shall be by petition, verified by the oath of the guardian, and shall substantially set forth:—

1. The value and character of all personal estate belonging to such ward that has come to the knowledge or possession of such guardian;
2. The disposition made of such personal estate;
3. The amount and condition of the ward's personal estate, if any, dependent upon the settlement of any estate, or the execution of any trust;
4. The annual value of the real estate of the ward;
5. The amount of rent received and the application thereof;
6. The proposed manner of reinvesting the proceeds of the sale, if asked for that purpose;
7. Each item of indebtedness, or the amount and character of the lien, if the sale is prayed for the liquidation thereof;
8. The age of the ward, where and with whom residing;
9. All other facts connected with the estate and condition of the ward necessary to enable the court fully to understand the same. If there is no personal estate belonging to such ward, in possession or expectancy, and none has come into the hands of such guardian, and no rents have been received the fact shall be stated in the application. [Cf. L. '55, p. 17, § 15; L. '60, p. 228, § 338; Cd. '81, § 1621; 2 H. C., § 1145.]

A partition of property may be voluntary, and if the act of the guardian in proceedings therein, and in making a sale of the allotted part, is not disaffirmed by the ward within a reasonable time after attaining majority, he will be deemed to have ratified it: Brazeo v. Schofield, 2 W. T. 209.

Parol partition, consummated by possession and dominion in severalty, confirmed by long-continued acquiescence and many changes of title, will not be disturbed in equity: Id.

§ 1647. (6413.) Manner and Terms of Sale.

If it shall appear to the court from such petition, and from the hearing thereon, that it is necessary or would be beneficial to the ward that such real estate or some part of it should be sold, the court may authorize the said guardian to sell the same at public sale, on the same terms and notice required for sales of real estate by executors and administrators. [Cf. L. '60, p. 229, § 339; L. 73, p. 319, § 317; Cd. '81, § 1622; 2 H. C., § 1146.]

§ 1650. (6416.) Confirmation of Sale.

The court, in confirming such sale and directing a conveyance, shall be governed by the law regulating the confirming of sales of real estate made by executors or administrators, and the making of conveyances on such sales. [L. '60, p. 229, § 343; Cd. '81, § 1625; 2 H. C., § 1149.]

See supra, § 1515, and notes, confirmation of sale.
See infra, § 1693, validity of sales.

§ 1651. (6417.) Powers of Guardian in Partition.

The guardian of any minor may join in and assent to the partition of the real estate of such minor, under the direction of the court, upon a petition for partition. [L. '55, p. 19, § 24; Cd. '81, § 1626; 2 H. C., § 1150.]

See supra, § 1599, guardian to be appointed when, in partition.

§ 1652. (6418.) Compensation and Expenses.

Every guardian shall be allowed by the court, on settling his accounts, the amount of all reasonable expenses incurred in the execution of his trust, and also such compensation for his services as the court shall deem reasonable. [L. '55, p. 19, § 25; Cd. '81, § 1627; 2 H. C., § 1151.]

See supra, §§ 1547-1549, compensation of administrators.

§ 1653. (6419.) Nonresidents may Remove Ward's Property, When.

When the guardian and ward are both nonresidents, and the ward is entitled to property in this state, which may be removed to another state or territory, without conflict to any restriction or limitation thereupon, or impairing the right of the ward thereto, such property may be removed to the state or territory in which such ward may reside, upon the application of the guardian to the judge of the superior court of the county in which the estate of the ward, or the principal part thereof, may be, in the manner following: The guardian so applying must produce a transcript from the records of a court of competent jurisdiction, certified according to the laws of this state, showing his appointment as guardian of the ward in the state or territory in which he and the said ward reside; that he has qualified as such according to the laws thereof, and given bond, with sureties for the performance of his trust; and must also give thirty days' notice to the resident executor, administrator, guardian, agent, or trustee, if there be such, of the applications. Thereupon, if no objection be made, or if no good cause be shown to the contrary, the judge of the court shall make an order granting such guardian leave to remove the property of said ward to the state or territory in which he or she may reside; which order shall be full and complete authority to said guardian to sue for and receive the same in his own name, for the use and benefit of said ward. [L. '73, p. 320, § 323; Cd. '81, § 1628; 2 H. C., § 1152.]

Ward may compel accounting against executor of foreign guardian by an action in the superior court, where both ward and guardian were originally residents of the state of Indiana, where the guardian, before discharge and accounting to his ward, removed to this state and died here, and where the partner of the guardian here was appointed as his executor: Ong v. Whipple, 3 W. T. 233; and in such case it is not necessary to first present his claim for allowance to the executor: Id.

Choses in action are "property" within the meaning of this section: Crosby, In re, 42 Wash. 366.

The superior court has jurisdiction to grant a foreign guardian of nonresident wards leave to bring action against an executor in this state: Id., 42 Wash. 366.

CHAPTER XVIII.

THE GUARDIANSHIP OF IDIOTS AND INSANE PERSONS.

§ 1654. (6424.) Guardians for Idiots, Insane and Other Persons.

The several superior courts [in their respective counties] shall have power to appoint guardians to take the care, custody, and management of all idiots, insane persons, and all who are incapable of conducting their own affairs; and of their estates, real and personal; the maintenance of themselves and families, and the education of their children. [Cf. L. '60, p. 231, § 348; L. '73, p. 321, § 326; Cd. '81, § 1631; 2 H. C., § 1154.]

See supra, §§ 1622-1625, procedure for appointment of guardian.

See infra, § 1674, estates of nonresident insane.

See supra, § 1638, compromise of claims against.

See supra, §§ 1639, 1640, presentation of claims and payment of judgments against.

See infra, § 5953 et seq., commitment of insane patients.

Guardianship of insane persons: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1513, §§ 4-8; Coleman v. Cravens, 41 Wash. 1; Dickman v. Strobach, 26 Wash. 558.

The appointment of a guardian for the person and estate of one whose mind has become unsound from the constant and excessive use of alcoholic liquors, thereby rendering him incapable of conducting his own affairs, is authorized by this section: In re Wetmore, 6 Wash. 271, 274.

Although the court appointed a guardian for an habitual drunkard, the latter not being before the court at the time, yet where, without attacking the proceedings, he subsequently submits himself to the jurisdiction of the court by filing a petition denying the allegation of the original petition, and asking for an investigation upon the merits and for an order to set aside the appointment of such guardian, the court thereby obtains jurisdiction of his person, and from any final order in the premises an appeal will lie: Id.

The word "insane" as used in this and following sections includes every person for whom a guardian may be appointed under the same. It includes idiotic persons, as well as those who are incapable of managing their own affairs by reason of any unsoundness of mind due to whatever cause: Id.

As to notice and the record of appointment of a guardian for an incompetent person, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1343, § 3; State ex rel. Lowary v. Superior Court, 41 Wash. 450.

§ 1655. (6425.) Court to Appoint Guardian, When.

If it be found by the court that the person so brought before the court is of unsound mind and incapable of managing his own affairs, the court shall appoint a guardian for the estate of such insane person. [Cf. L. '60, p. 231, § 350; L. '73, p. 322, § 330; Cd. '81, § 1635; 2 H. C., § 1155.]

Cited in 6 Wash. 274, 276.

§ 1656. (6426.) Costs Taxed Against Prosecuting Witness, When.

If the person alleged to be insane shall be discharged, and it shall be thought by the court that there were no grounds for such impression of insanity, then the cost shall be paid by the person at whose instance the proceeding was had, and execution may issue for the same. [Cf. L. '60, p. 231, § 352; L. '73, p. 322, § 332; Cd. '81, § 1637; 2 H. C., § 1156.]

Cited in 6 Wash. 274.

§ 1657. (6427.) Bond.

Every such guardian so appointed shall, before entering upon the duties assigned him, enter into bond to the board of county commissioners, in such sum and with such security as the court shall approve, conditioned that he will take proper care of such insane person, and manage and minister his effects to the best advantage, according to law; and that he will faithfully discharge all duties as such guardian which may by law, or by the order, sentence, or decree of any court of competent jurisdiction, devolve upon him; which bond shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court. A copy thereof, duly certified, shall be evidence in all respects as the original. [L. '60, p. 231, § 353; Cd. '81, § 1638; 2 H. C., § 1157.]

Cited in 26 Wash. 560.

A bond, given under this section, is not an obligation in itself, but merely collateral security for the proper discharge of duties imposed by the statutes; and an action thereon is not an action upon a contract liability in writing: Dickman v. Strobach, 26 Wash. 558.

§ 1658. (6428.) Notice of Appointment to be Published.

It shall be the duty of every such guardian, within twenty days after his appointment, to cause notice thereof to be published in some newspaper printed in this state, or otherwise publish such notice, at such time and place and in such manner as the court shall decide. [Cf. L. '60, p. 231, § 354; L. '73, p. 323, § 334; Cd. '81, § 1639; 2 H. C., § 1158.]

§ 1659. (6429.) Custody of Ward's Estate.

It shall be the duty of such guardian to collect and take into his possession the goods, chattels, moneys, effects, and other evidences of debt, and all writings touching the estate, real and personal, of the person under his guardianship. [L. '60, p. 232, § 356; Cd. '81, § 1640; 2 H. C., § 1159.]

§ 1660. (6430.) Guardian to File Inventory.

Within forty days after his appointment, such guardian shall make out, and file in the office of the clerk of the superior court by which he was appointed, a just and true inventory of the real and personal estate of his ward, stating the income and profits thereof, and the debts, credits and effects, as the same shall have come to his knowledge. And if, after having filed such inventory, it shall be found that there is other property belonging to said estate, it shall be the duty of such guardian to make out and file an additional inventory, containing a just and full account of the same, from time to time, as the same may be discovered. [Cf. L. '60, p. 232, §§ 357, 358; L. '73, p. 323, § 336; Cd. '81, § 1641; 2 H. C., § 1160.]

§ 1661. (6431.) Inventory to be Witnessed and Verified.

All such inventories shall be made in the presence of and attested by two credible witnesses in the neighborhood, and shall be verified by the oath of the guardian. [L. '60, p. 232, § 359; Cd. '81, § 1642; 2 H. C., § 1161.]

§ 1662. (6432.) Guardian to Prosecute and Defend Actions for Ward.

It shall be the duty of every such guardian to prosecute all actions commenced at the time of his appointment, or thereafter to be commenced, by or on account of his ward, and to defend all actions [pending or] which may be brought against such ward. [L. '60, p. 232, § 360; Cd. '81, § 1643; 2 H. C., § 1162.]

See supra, § 1638, compromise of suit by guardian.

See supra, § 1639, claims to be presented to guardian.

Cited in 29 Wash. 421.

Under this section a guardian is without authority to enter into a stipulation agreeing to abide the result of an action under a defense imposed by another party: Mattson v. Mattson, 29 Wash. 417.

§ 1663. (6433.) Guardian to Collect Dues, and Pay Debts.

Every such guardian is authorized and required to collect all debts due to his ward, and give acquittances and discharges thereof and adjust, settle, and pay all demands due and becoming due from his ward, so far as his estate and effects will extend. [L. '60, p. 232, § 361; Cd. '81, § 1644; 2 H. C., § 1163.]

§ 1664. (6434.*) Power of Court Over Person and Estate.

The superior court shall have power to make orders for the restraint, support and safekeeping of such person, for the management of his estate, and the support and maintenance of his family, and education of his children, out of the proceeds of his estate; to set apart and reserve, for the use of such family, all property, real or personal, not necessary to be sold for the payment of debts; and to let, sell or mortgage any part of such estate, real or personal, when necessary for the payment of debts, the maintenance of such insane person or his family, or the education of his children; and to order the sale of any property when a better investment can be made of the proceeds. [L. '07, p. 73, § 1. Cf. L. '60, p. 232, § 362; L. '73, p. 324, § 340; Cd. '81, § 1645; 2 H. C., § 1164.]

§ 1665. (6435.*) Sale, Mortgage, or Lease of Real Estate.

When cause shall exist therefor it shall be the duty of such guardian to lay the same before the superior court by whom he was appointed, setting forth the particulars relative to the estate, real and personal, of such person, and all the debts by him owing, or the reasons why a better investment can be made accompanied by a correct and true account of his doings therewith; whereupon, if the court shall find in the exercise of its sound discretion that it is necessary for the payment of debts to dispose of such estate, real or personal, or a portion thereof, or that a better investment of such estate or a portion thereof can be made, it shall be the duty of such court to make an order directing the mortgage, lease or sale at his discretion, of the whole or such part of the real estate as may be necessary. [L. '07, p. 73, § 2. Cf. L. '60, p. 232, § 363; Cd. '81, § 1646; 2 H. C., § 1165.]

See infra, § 1683 et seq., private sales by guardians.

§ 1666. (6436.) Order of Sale and Proceedings.

The court making such order shall direct the time and terms of such sale, mortgage, or lease of such estate, and the manner in which the proceeds shall be applied; and shall give due notice thereof, together with a full description of the property to be thus disposed of, at which time and place it shall be the duty of the guardian to execute the order of said court, and to make a full report of his doings therein, which report shall be accompanied by the affidavit of the guardian verifying the report, and stating that such guardian did not directly or indirectly become the purchaser thereof; or if otherwise disposed of, that he is not directly or indirectly interested personally in the agreement. [L. '60, p. 233, § 364; Cd. '81, § 1647; 2 H. C., § 1166.]

See infra, § 1683 et seq., private sale of real property.

§ 1667. (6437.*) Execution of Instruments by Guardian.

When any such sale, mortgage or lease is approved by the court ordering the same, as having been executed according to law, and not under such circumstances as to operate prejudicially to the interest of such ward, it shall be the duty of the guardian to execute a deed, mortgage or other instrument of writing, which shall be as valid and effective in law as if executed by such ward when of sound mind and discretion. In case of the sale of community property the sane member of the community may either join in the conveyance by the guardian or execute a separate conveyance for the property. [L. '07, p. 74, § 3. Cf. L. '60, p. 233, § 365; L. '73, p. 324, § 343; Cd. '81, § 1648; 2 H. C., § 1167.]

§ 1668. (6438.) Proceedings may be Set Aside.

If such proceedings be disapproved by said court, the court may set them aside, and proceed in like manner as if no sale had been made. [Cf. L. '60, p. 233, § 366; L. '73, p. 325, § 344; Cd. '81, § 1649; 2 H. C., § 1168.]

§ 1669. (6439.) Guardian to Account, When.

Every such guardian, as often as required by the court appointing him, shall render a true and perfect account of his guardianship. [L. '60, p. 233, § 367; Cd. '81, § 1650; 2 H. C., § 1169.]

No provision in this chapter for compensation of guardian.

§ 1670. (6440.) Ward Exempt from Process.

No such ward shall be held to bail, or his body be taken in execution, in any civil action; and in all actions commenced against him the process shall be served upon his guardian, and in all judgments against such ward (or his guardian as such) the execution shall be against the property of the ward only, and in no case against his body, nor against that of his guardian, nor the property of said guardian, unless he shall have rendered himself liable thereunto. [Cf. L. '60, p. 233, § 368; L. '73, p. 325, § 346; Cd. '81, § 1651; 2 H. C., § 1170.]

§ 1671. (6441.) Proceedings in Case Ward Recovers His Reason.

Whenever the court shall receive information that such ward has recovered his reason, he shall immediately inquire into the facts, and if he finds that such ward is of sound mind, he shall forthwith discharge such person from care and custody; and the guardian shall immediately settle his accounts and restore to such person all things remaining in his hands belonging or appertaining to such ward. [L. '60, p. 233, § 369; Cd. '81, § 1652; 2 H. C., § 1171.]

§ 1672. (6442.) Death of Ward, Effect of.

In case of the death of any such ward while under guardianship, the power of the guardian shall cease, and the estate descend and be disposed of in the same manner as if said ward had been of sound mind; the guardian shall immediately settle his accounts and deliver the estate and the effects of such ward to his legal representatives. [Cf. L. '60, p. 234, § 370; L. '73, p. 326, § 351; Cd. '81, p. 1656; 2 H. C., § 1172.]

§ 1673. (6443.) Removal of Guardian, When.

The several superior courts shall have the power to remove any such guardian at any time, for neglect of duty, mismanagement, or of disobedience to any lawful order, and appoint another in his place, whereupon such guardian shall immediately settle his account and render to his successor the estate and effects of his ward. [L. '60, p. 234, § 371; Cd. '81, § 1657; 2 H. C., § 1173.]

CHAPTER XIX.

ESTATES OF NONRESIDENT PERSONS OF UNSOUND MIND.

§ 1674. (6447.) Nonresident Guardian—Letters, How Obtained.

Whenever any insane person or person non compos mentis who resides without this state, and who shall have no guardian within this state, or, if he or she has a foreign guardian, the said guardian may file an authenticated copy of his letters of guardianship in the office of the clerk of the superior court of any county in this state in which there may be property of his ward, and upon the filing of such authenticated copy of his letters of guardianship as aforesaid, the court shall order him to enter into a good and sufficient bond, in such sum as the court may require, conditioned and subject to all the provisions of law concerning the bonds of guardians of minors in this state, with sufficient freehold surety resident in said county. After said bond is duly approved by the court said guardian shall be considered for all purposes as a domestic guardian. [L. '93, p. 286, § 1.]

See supra, § 1625, procedure for appointment of guardian for person residing out of this state, a later enactment.

Section 10 of the Act of 1893, p. 291, attempting to repeal §§ 3071-3078 of 1 Hill's Code, is insufficient under Constitution, Article II, § 19, as the repealing clause is not within the title of the act; hence these sections are inserted in the notes as still in force, except perhaps, as to estates of insane persons. But see § 1625, supra, requiring the appointment of a guardian to control the estates of nonresident wards "requiring the care of a guardian."

"§ 3071. (1658.) Real estate belonging to minors and persons of unsound mind, residing out of this state, may be sold upon the application of the foreign guardian of such minor or person of unsound mind to the superior court of the county in which such land is situated, upon the same terms as are or may be provided by law in case of the sale of real estate belonging to minors residing in this state.

"§ 3072. (1659.) When any minor or person of unsound mind residing out of the limits of this state has any real estate, goods, chattels, rights, credits, moneys or effects in this state, the superior court having jurisdiction of the county in which such property or any part thereof is situate or may be, shall, upon the application of the foreign guardian of such minor or person of unsound mind, appoint a trustee of such minor or person of unsound mind to manage, collect, lease, and take care of said property.

"§ 3073. (1660.) The first appointment of a trustee, lawfully made, shall extend to all the property and effects of the minor in this state, and shall exclude the jurisdiction of the superior court of any other county.

"§ 3074. (1661.) The said trustee shall give bond with surety to the satisfaction of the superior court, and shall take upon himself the management of the estate and property of such minor or person of unsound mind, situate in this state, and the collection of debts and other demands due such minor or person of unsound mind from persons residing or being in this state, and shall settle with the court, and be liable to suit or removal, or both, for neglect or misconduct in the performance of his duties, in like manner as is or may by law be provided in the case of guardians of minors.

"§ 3075. (1662.) The said trustees shall, under the order of the superior court, deliver up to the foreign guardian of such minor or person of unsound mind all the personal property, rights and credits belonging to such minor or person of unsound mind; provided, that the superior court shall make no such order except upon application of the foreign guardian, and sufficient proof of his appointment and qualification in accordance with the laws of the state or place of residence of such guardian.

"§ 3076. (1663.) The said trustee shall have no power to apply to the superior court for the sale of real estate of such minor or person of unsound mind.

"§ 3077. (1664.) The said trustee, unless removed by the court, holds his appointment so long as the services of a trustee may be required, and shall receive such compensation for his services as may be stipulated between him and the foreign guardian; and in case no agreement has been made, then such compensation as is or may be by law provided for such guardians.

"§ 3078. (1665.) All moneys due such minor or person of unsound mind, in the hands of such trustee, shall be paid over to the foreign guardian so long as he shall remain such guardian, or in case of the decease of such minor or person of unsound mind, then to the administrator or legal representative of such minor or person of unsound mind."

§ 1675. (6448.) Other Persons may Obtain Letters, When.

Should the said foreign guardian fail to file a duly authenticated copy of his said letters of guardianship and the bond required by section 1674 of this chapter within ninety days after his appointment as such foreign guardian, or within ninety days after such insane person or person non compos mentis shall become the owner of any real estate or personal property within this state, or, should said insane person or person non compos mentis have no guardian without this state, any creditor or other person interested in the property or estate of such insane person or person non compos mentis may apply by petition, to the superior court of any county in this state where any of the real estate or personal property of such insane person or person non compos mentis may be situated, for letters of guardianship for the estate and property of such insane person or person non compos mentis. [L. '93, p. 287, § 2.]

See supra, § 1625, appointment of guardian for nonresident, a later enactment.

§ 1676. (6449.) Hearing—Appointment.

Upon the hearing of such petition, on a day to be fixed by the court, and upon proof of the insanity of such person, or that such person is non compos mentis, the court may appoint the petitioner or some other suitable person possessing all of the qualifications necessary or requisite for the guardianship of a minor of this state as such guardian, who, upon the filing and approval of a bond as is provided herein for foreign guardians, shall be the duly constituted guardian of the estate of such ward in this state: Provided, nothing herein shall annul the appointment of any ancillary guardians heretofore appointed by any court of this state, which appointments are hereby ratified, and all such ancillary guardians shall hereafter be subject to all the provisions of this chapter. [L. '93, p. 287, § 3.]

§ 1677. (6450.) Notice to Creditors.

It shall be the duty of the guardian who has been appointed as hereinbefore provided, to cause to be published in a newspaper published in the county in which he was appointed, if any there be, and if there be no newspaper published in said county, then in a newspaper to be designated by the court, a notice to the creditors of the said ward requiring them to present their claims, with the necessary vouchers, within a time to be fixed by the court, at a place of residence or business of such guardian, to be specified in the notice; such notice shall be published as often as the court shall deem necessary, not less than once a week for four successive weeks. [L. '93, p. 287, § 4.]

See supra, § 1639, presentation of claims to guardians.

§ 1678. (6451.) Duties of Guardian.

It shall be the duty of every such guardian,—

1. To make and file within thirty days after his appointment a full inventory, verified by his oath, of all the real or personal property of such ward, with the value of the same, and on failure so to do it shall be the duty of the court to remove him and appoint a successor;

2. To manage the personal and real estate of his said ward to the best interest of said ward;

3. To render under oath to the said court an account of his receipts and expenditures as such guardian, verified by vouchers or proofs, at least once in every two years, or whenever cited by the court to do so. On failure to so account he shall be in contempt of court and subject to such penalties as the court may fix;

4. To pay all just debts due from said ward and collect all debts due said ward by action or otherwise and in case of doubtful debts, under the order of the court, to compound the same, and to appear for and defend or cause to be defended all suits against said ward. [L. '93, p. 288, § 5.]

See supra, § 1638, compromise of suits by guardian.

§ 1679. (6452.) Community Realty, How Disposed of to Pay Debts, etc.

In all cases where guardians have been or may hereafter be appointed for insane persons or persons non compos mentis, under the provisions of this chapter; and who own or may hereafter own community real estate, the husband or wife of such insane person or person non compos mentis, under the order of the court, may join with the guardian in the execution of deeds or mortgages for the disposition or encumbrance of such estate, and the guardian shall, upon application to the court for that purpose, be authorized to sell or mortgage the estate or interest of the said insane person or person non compos mentis for the purpose of paying the debt or providing for the support or maintenance of such ward or the wife of such ward or for the better investment of the proceeds of such estate. [L. '93, p. 288, § 6.]

See infra, § 1683 et seq., private sales by guardians.

§ 1680. (6453.) Proceedings on Failure of Spouse to Join in Conveyance, etc.

In all cases where community debts exist and the husband or wife of any insane person or person non compos mentis, under guardianship, shall fail or refuse for sixty days after an order of the court, to join the said guardian in a sale or conveyance or mortgage of the said community property of the said insane person or person non compos mentis, found necessary by the court for the payment of such community debts, any creditor may commence his action by attachment against any such insane person or person non compos mentis, and the husband or wife of the said insane person or person non compos mentis and the guardian provided for in this chapter: Provided, that any suit or suits which may have heretofore or may hereafter be brought for the purpose of subjecting the property of such insane person or person non compos mentis to the payment of the debts of such insane person or person non compos mentis, shall be consolidated, and in case the writs of attachment levied in such actions shall not have been levied upon all community property of such insane person or person non compos mentis, alias writs of attachment may issue and successive levies may be made of them to cover and bring into court all of the property of such insane person or person non compos mentis and the husband or wife of either. Such action may be brought only in the court granting the letters of guardianship, and writs of attachment may issue to any county in this state where the said insane person or person non compos mentis may have any property. All known creditors, whether secured by mortgage or otherwise, shall be made parties to such action, and all suits or actions brought for the purpose of enforcing any mortgage or lien shall be consolidated with said action. All creditors shall be made parties to such action and the same shall be prosecuted for the benefit of all creditors, whether they may be made parties or not, and the person so bringing the action herein provided for shall share pro rata with all other creditors, and upon the trial of such action the court may, upon proofs, render such judgment as may be necessary for the protection of all parties, and shall settle and decree the priorities between creditors. The guardian may employ counsel in any such action, and the compensation of such counsel shall be fixed by the court and taxed as a part of the cost in such action. After judgment the court shall order the community property of such insane person or person non compos mentis sold, and under the order of sale in such action the separate property of such insane person or person non compos mentis shall also be sold if the same shall be found by the court to be necessary to pay the debts of such insane person or person non compos mentis, and the proceeds of such sale shall be paid into court for distribution according to the priorities as decreed by the court, and any residue or overplus remaining in the court after paying all the debts found due shall be paid over to the guardian. This chapter shall not suspend or abrogate the existing liens of any attachment, mortgage or other lien, and all such liens shall merge into the judgment of the court rendered in such action according to the priority of each. The court may order all or such part of the community and separate property of the said insane person or person of unsound mind, as it may deem necessary for the payment of the judgment rendered, to be sold, and successive sales may be made under such judgment until an amount sufficient to pay such judgment is realized. All such sales shall be confirmed by the court as in cases of mortgage or other sales, and the court may, if it deem the amount bid at any sale inadequate, order a resale of any property sold under said order. [L. '93, p. 289, § 7.]

See supra, § 1515, confirmation.

§ 1681. (6454.) Surplus Moneys, How Disposed of.

When it shall appear to the court that all the real and personal property of such ward has been sold and the debts herein authorized to be paid have been satisfied, and that there are moneys and property in the hands of such guardian, upon the foreign guardian of such ward filing with the clerk of said court a duly certified copy of his appointment as such guardian, by a court of competent jurisdiction in any state or territory where said ward resides, with a copy of his bond, the sufficiency of which shall be certified by the said court, the court shall order all money and property in the hands of the said guardian in this state to be paid and turned over to the said foreign guardian upon his receipting therefor, and upon the filing of the said receipt by the said guardian with the clerk of the court, said guardian and his sureties shall be released from all liabilities for all money and property so paid and turned over, and should said guardian fail or refuse to pay or turn over such money or property as provided in said order, the said foreign guardian is hereby empowered as such guardian to sue for and recover the same. [L. '93, p. 290, § 8.]

§ 1682. (6455.) Discharge of Sureties.

The sureties on the bond of any such guardian appointed in this state may be discharged from all liability thereunder under the same rules and regulations as are prescribed for the discharge of the sureties upon the bonds of executors and administrators in this state. [L. '93, p. 291, § 9.]

See references to § 1634, supra.

CHAPTER XX.

PRIVATE SALES OF REAL PROPERTY OF ESTATES.

§ 1683. (6460.) Private Sales of Real Property of Estates Generally.

Real property belonging to the estates of decedents, minors, idiots and insane persons may be sold at private sale according to the following provisions. [Cf. L. '91, p. 168, § 1; 2 II. C., § 1174; L. '93, p. 85, § 1.]

See supra, §§ 1491, 1499, 1501 et seq., sale or mortgage of real property of decedents' estates.

See supra, § 1520, sales without order of court.

See supra, § 1645 et seq., sales of minors' lands.

See supra, § 1665 et seq., sale of insane wards' lands.

Cited in 39 Wash. 687.

§ 1684. (6461.) Showing Necessary—Extent of Order.

When the court is satisfied after a full hearing upon the petition and an examination of the proof and allegations of the parties interested, that a sale of the whole or some portion of the real estate is necessary for any of the causes specified in the laws of the state of Washington, or if such sale be assented to by all the persons interested in a decedent's estate, an order must be made to sell the whole or so much and such parts of the real estate described in the petition as the court shall judge necessary or beneficial at either public or private sale. [Cf. L. '91, p. 168, § 2; 2 II. C., § 1175; L. '93, p. 85, § 2.]

"Public sale": the title of this act relates only to "private sales."

§ 1685. (6462.) Order of Sale—Procedure Under.

The order of sale must describe the lands to be sold and the terms of sale, which may be for cash or on a credit not exceeding three years, payable in gross or in installments, and in such kind of money, with interest, as the court may direct. The land may be sold in one parcel or in subdivisions, as the executor, administrator or guardian shall judge the most beneficial to the estate, unless the court otherwise specially directs. Every such sale must be ordered to be made at public auction, unless in the opinion of the court it would benefit the estate to sell the whole or some part of such real estate at private sale. The court may, if the same is asked for in the petition, order or direct such real estate or any part thereof to be sold at either public or private sale, as the executor, administrator or guardian shall judge most beneficial for the estate. If the executor, administrator or guardian objects or refuses to make a sale under the order and as directed therein, he may be compelled to sell by order of the court made on motion after due notice by any party interested. [L. '91, p. 168, § 3; 2 H. C., § 1176; L. '93, p. 85, § 3.]

"Public auction": See note to last section.

§ 1686. (6463.) Notice—Bids, etc.

When a sale of real estate is ordered to be made at private sale, notice of the same must be posted up in three of the most public places in the county in which the land is situated, and published in a newspaper if there is one printed in the same county; if none then in such paper as the court or a judge thereof may direct, for two weeks successively next before the day on which the sale is to be made, in which the lands and tenements to be sold must be described with common certainty. The notice must state a day on or after which the sale will be made, and a place where offers or bids will be received. The day last referred to must be at least fifteen days from the first publication of notice and the sale must not be made before that day, but must be made within six months thereafter. The bids or offers must be in writing, and may be left at the place designated in the notice, or delivered to the executor or administrator personally, or may be filed in the office of the clerk of the court to which the return of sale must be made, at any time after the first publication of the notice and before the making of the sale. If it be shown that it will be for the best interests of the estate the court or judge may, by an order, shorten the time of notice, which shall not, however, be less than one week, and may provide that the sale may be made on or after a day less than fifteen, but not less than eight days from the first publication of the notice of sale, and the sale may be made to correspond with such order. [Cf. L. '91, p. 169, § 4; 2 H. C., § 1177; L. '93, p. 86, § 4.]

§ 1687. (6464.) Sale, Price Necessary to Obtain.

No sale of real estate at private sale shall be confirmed by the court unless the sum offered is at least ninety per cent of the appraised value thereof, nor unless such real property has been appraised within one year of the time of such sale. If it has not been so appraised, or if the court is satisfied that the appraisement is too high or low, appraisers may be appointed, and they must make an appraisement thereof in the same manner as in case of an original appraisement of an estate; this may be done at any time before the sale or the confirmation thereof. [Cf. L. '91, p. 169, § 5; 2 H. C., § 1178; L. '93, p. 86, § 5.]

See infra, § 1691, confirmation.

§ 1688. (6465.) Security on Credit Sales.

The executor, administrator, or guardian must, when the sale is made upon a credit, take the notes of the purchaser for the purchase money with a mortgage on the property to secure their payment. [Cf. L. '91, p. 169, § 6; 2 H. C., § 1179; L. '93, p. 86, § 6.]

Under this chapter a guardian of a nonresident insane person may be empowered by the court to sell the real estate belonging to such persons: Coleman v. Cravens, 41 Wash. 1.

§ 1689. (6466.) Return of Sale—Hearing—Vacation of.

The executor, administrator or guardian after making such sale of real property must make a return of his proceedings to the court, which must be filed in the office of the clerk within ten days. A hearing upon the return of the proceedings may be asked for by any interested party by petition, and thereupon the court or judge must fix the day for a hearing, of which notice of at least ten days must be given by the clerk, by notices posted in three public places in the county or by publication in a newspaper, or both, as the court or judge shall direct, and must briefly indicate the land sold, the sum for which it was sold, and must refer to the return for further particulars. Upon the hearing the court must examine the return and witnesses in relation to the same, and if the proceedings were unfair or the sum bid disproportionate to the value, and if it appear that a sum exceeding such bid at least ten per cent, exclusive of the expenses of a new sale, may be obtained, the court may vacate the sale and direct another to be had, of which notice must be given and the sale in all respects conducted as if no private sale had taken place. If an offer of ten per cent more in amount than that named in the return be made to the court in writing by a responsible person, it is in the discretion of the court to accept such offer and confirm the sale to such person or to order a new sale. [Cf. L. '91, p. 170, § 7; 2 H. C., § 1180; L. '93, p. 87, § 7.]

§ 1690. (6467.) Objections to Confirmation.

When the return of the sale is made and filed, any person interested in the estate may file written objections to the confirmation thereof and may be heard thereon when the return is heard by the court or judge, and may produce witnesses in support of his objections. [Cf. L. '91, p. 170, § 8; 2 H. C., § 1181; L. '93, p. 87, § 8.]

§ 1691. (6468.) Confirmation—Conveyance.

If it appears to the court that the sale was legally made and fairly conducted, and that the sum bid was not disproportionate to the value of the property sold, and that a greater sum, as above specified, cannot be obtained, or if the increased bid in section 1689 of this chapter be made and accepted by the court, the court must make an order confirming the sale and directing conveyances to be executed. [Cf. L. '91, p. 170, § 9; 2 H. C., § 1182; L. '93, p. 87, § 9.]

See supra, § 1515, confirmation of administrators' sales.

See supra, § 1650, confirmation of guardians' sales.

See supra, § 1687, confirmation prohibited, when.

§ 1692. (6469.) Other Provisions Applicable.

In all other respects such sale shall be governed by the laws of the state of Washington now in force governing the sale of real property belonging to such estates. [Cf. L. '91, p. 171, § 10; 2 H. C., § 1183; L. '93, p. 88, § 10.]

See references to § 1683, supra.

CHAPTER XXI.

THE VALIDITY OF SALES OF ESTATES.

§ 1693. (6474.) Sales not Void on Account of Irregularity.

In case of an action relating to any estate sold by an executor, administrator, or guardian, in which an heir or person claiming under the deceased, or in which the ward or any person claiming under him, shall contest the validity of the sale, it shall not be voided on account of any irregularity in the proceedings: Provided, it appears,—

1. That the executor, administrator, or guardian was ordered to make the sale by the probate or superior court having jurisdiction of the estate;

2. That he gave a bond which was approved by the probate or superior judge, in case a bond was required upon granting the order;

3. That he gave notice of the time and place and sale, as in the order and by law prescribed; and

4. That the premises were sold accordingly, by public auction, and the sale confirmed by the court, and that they are held by one who purchased them in good faith. [L. '90, p. 82, § 2; 1 H. C., § 3066.]

See supra, § 158, limitations of actions to recover real estate sold by executor or administrator.

As to operation and effect of this chapter, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1222, § 132; Id., p. 1344, §§ 10, 11; Ball v. Clothier, 34 Wash. 299; Dormitzer v. German Sav. & Loan Soc., 23 Wash. 132.

A sale under an order which gives such an indefinite description of the land as that the same cannot be located, validating statutes cannot cure: Hazleton v. Bogardus, 8 Wash. 102.

If purchasers hold land in good faith under an administrator's sale, although such sale may be irregular, yet if the court had jurisdiction to order the sale and the same was had at public auction after due notice of the time and place, the sale confirmed by court, it will not be disturbed: Ackerson v. Orchard, 7 Wash. 377.

§ 1694. (6475.) Conveyance Valid if Sale Authorized by Court.

If the validity of a sale is drawn in question by a person claiming adversely to the title of the deceased, or the ward, or claiming under a title that is not derived from or through the deceased or ward, the sale shall not be void on account of any irregularity in the proceedings, if it appears that the executor, administrator, or guardian was licensed to make the sale by a probate or superior court having jurisdiction of the estate, and that he did, accordingly, execute and acknowledge, in legal form, a deed for the conveyance of the premises. [L. '90, p. 82, § 3; 1 H. C., § 3067.]

§ 1695. (6476.) Chapter Applies to Past as Well as Future Sales.

This chapter shall apply to sales heretofore as well as hereafter made, and all sales heretofore made in conforming with the provisions of this chapter are declared valid. [L. '90, p. 82, § 4; 1 H. C., § 3068.]

CHAPTER XXII.

THE ADOPTION OF CHILDREN.

By incorporated societies, see infra, § 1700.

§ 1696. (6480.*) Petition for Leave to Adopt.

Any inhabitant of this state, not married, or any husband and wife jointly, may petition the superior court of their proper county for leave to adopt and change the name if desired, of any child under the age of twenty-one years, but a written consent must be given to such adoption by the child, if of the age of fourteen years, and by each of his or her living parents who is not hopelessly insane or a confirmed drunkard. If there be no such parents, or if the parents be unknown, or shall have abandoned such child, or if such parents, or either of them, are hopelessly insane, or a confirmed drunkard, then by the legal guardian; if there be no such guardian, then by a discreet and suitable person appointed by said court to act in the proceedings as the next friend of such child: Provided, however, that if the parents are living separate and apart, the consent of both is not required, but such consent may be given by the parent having the care, custody and control of such child; And provided further, that either spouse may adopt a child of the other. [L. '05, p. 296, § 1. Cf. L. '75, pp. 110-112; L. '79, p. 136, § 1; Cd. '81, § 1667; 1 H. C., § 1418; L. '97, p. 46, § 1.]

See Const., Art. II, § 28, subd. 16, prohibiting special legislation.

See notes to § 1341, supra.

Cited in 14 Wash. 246; 42 Wash. 414; 43 Wash. 189.

Adoption: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 41, 42, §§ 1-7; Knight v. Gallaway, 42 Wash. 413; James v. James, 35 Wash. 655; State ex rel. Le Brook v. Wheeler, 43 Wash. 183.

The adoption of an heir is a matter purely statutory, which can be accompanied only by strict compliance with the statute, and can never be sustained by mere presumption of compliance: In re Renton's Estate, 10 Wash. 533.

If a wife named as beneficiary in her husband's will dies before the testator, her children by a former marriage, when they have not been legally adopted by the testator, cannot contest the legality of a will revoking the one in favor of the mother: Id.

§ 1697. (6481.) Separate Examination of Wife.

If the petition be filed by husband and wife, the court shall examine the wife separate and apart from her husband, and shall refuse leave for such adoption, unless the court shall be satisfied, from such examination, that the wife, of her own free will and accord, desire such adoption. [L. '79, p. 136, § 2; Cd. '81, § 1668; 1 H. C., § 1419.]

§ 1698. (6482.) Order Confirming Adoption.

Upon the compliance with the foregoing provisions, if the court shall be satisfied of the ability of the petitioner or petitioners to bring up and educate the child properly, having reference to the degree and condition of the child's parents, and shall be satisfied of the fitness and propriety of such adoption, the court shall make an order setting forth the facts and declaring that from that date such child, to all legal intents and purposes, is the child of the petitioner or petitioners, and that the name of the child is hereby changed. [L. '79, p. 136, § 3; Cd. '81, § 1669; 1 H. C., § 1420.]

An order for the adoption of children may be collaterally attacked by a parent in habeas corpus proceedings to recover possession, where the parent was not a party to the proceedings and had no actual or constructive notice thereof: Beatty v. Davenport, 45 Wash. 555.

§ 1699. (6483.) Effect of Adoption—Descent of Property.

By such order the natural parents shall be divested of all legal rights and obligations in respect to such child, and the child shall be free from all legal obligations of obedience and maintenance in respect to them, and shall be, to all intents and purposes, the child and legal heir of his or her adopter or adopters, entitled to all rights and privileges and subject to all the obligations of a child of the adopter or adopters begotten in lawful wedlock: Provided, that on the decease of parents who have adopted a child or children under this chapter, and the subsequent decease of such child or children without issue, the property of such adopting parents shall descend to their next of kin, and not to the next of kin of such adopted child or children. [L. '79, p. 137, § 4; Cd. '81, § 1670; 1 H. C., § 1421.]

See supra, § 1341 et seq., descent and distribution.

Cited in 38 Wash. 389; 45 Wash. 50, 51.

Effect of adoption: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 42, §§ 6, 7; James v. James, 35 Wash. 655; Van Brocklin v. Wood, 38 Wash. 384.

Under this section, the natural mother of a minor, by consenting to an adoption of the child, waives and forfeits any right or claim she may have under § 1629, providing that the mother is entitled to the guardianship of a minor in case of the decease of the father; hence, upon the death of the adoptive parents, the appointment of some other suitable person, having regard to the welfare of the child, cannot be questioned by the natural mother: Master-son's Estate, 45 Wash. 48.

For the same reason, the rights of natural grandparents are divested in the decree of adoption: Id.

CHAPTER XXIII.

PROTECTION OF ORPHAN, HOMELESS, OR NEGLECTED CHILDREN.

Delinquent children: See infra, § 1987.

§ 1700. Adoption by Incorporated Societies.

Any benevolent or charitable society incorporated under the laws of this state for the purpose of receiving, caring for or placing out for adoption, or improving the condition of orphan, homeless, neglected or abused minor children of this state shall have authority to receive, control, and dispose of children under eighteen (18) years of age under the following provisions:

(a) When the father and mother or the person or persons legally entitled to act as guardian of the person of any minor child shall, in writing, surrender such child to the charge and custody of said society, such child shall thereafter be in the legal custody of such society for the purposes herein provided.

(b) In case of death or legal incapacity of a father or his abandonment or neglect to provide for his family, the mother shall have authority to make such surrender, and in case of the death or legal incapacity of a mother, or her abandonment of such child, then the father shall have authority to make such surrender.

(c) In all cases where the person or persons legally authorized to make such surrender are not known, any judge of superior court may cause a notice of hearing to be published in any newspaper of general circulation printed and published in the county, and if he deems it best for such orphan, homeless, neglected or abused child, he may surrender it to any benevolent or charitable society incorporated under the laws of Washington and having for its object the care of such children.

(d) When any child shall have been surrendered in accordance with any of the preceding clauses and such child shall have been accepted by such society, then, (but not otherwise), the rights of its natural parents or of the guardian of its person (if any) shall cease and such corporation shall become entitled to the custody of such child, and shall have authority to care for and educate such child or place it either temporarily or permanently in a suitable private home in such manner as shall best secure its welfare. Such corporation shall have authority when any such child has been surrendered to it in accordance with any of the preceding provisions, and it is still in its control, to consent to its adoption under the laws of Washington. The custody or control of any such child by any such corporation or by any other corporation, institution, society or person may be inquired into, and, in the discretion of the court, terminated at any time by the superior court of the county where the child may be, upon the complaint of any person, and a showing that such custody is not in the interest of the child. [L. '03, p. 58, § 1.]

See L. '99, pp. 9-12, repealed by this act, § 9.

Proceedings for the adoption of a child where the society had no right to the custody of the child: State ex rel. Le Brook v. Wheeler, 43 Wash. 183.

§ 1701. Issue of Warrant for Taking Child into Custody—Proceedings.

Upon complaint of any person in writing other than an officer or agent of such society or corporation to any judge of the superior court giving the names and residences of the parents, guardian (if any) or the next of kin of such child, so far as known, and alleging that the father of such minor child is dead, or has abandoned his family or is an habitual drunkard or is a man of notoriously bad character, or is imprisoned for crime, or has grossly abused or neglected such child, and that the mother of such child is an habitual drunkard or imprisoned for crime, or an inmate of a house of ill-fame, or a woman of notoriously bad character or is dead, or has abandoned her family, or has grossly abused or neglected such child, and alleging that the welfare of such child requires that legal steps be taken to provide for its care and custody, a warrant shall issue directing the proper officer, to take such child into custody and care for or dispose of it as such judge shall direct, until a hearing can be had, such proceedings shall have precedence of other causes, of which hearing not less than five days notice shall be given to such parents, guardian or next of kin and such judge shall hear the allegations of the complaint and all testimony offered for or against the same and determine whether in his judgment there is cause for a change in the care and custody of such child. If the judge shall decide to change the care and custody of such child, he may commit the child to the care and custody of any such benevolent society contemplated in this act which is willing to receive it, and such commitment shall carry with it the same powers and authority as above provided in case of voluntary surrender, or he may enter in such findings and transmit the papers and a transcript of his proceedings to the county commissioners of the county in which the case arises and surrender such child to the care and custody of such commissioners and it may be disposed of without further notice to the parents, guardian or next of kin. [L. '03, p. 60, § 2.]

§ 1702. County Charges—Surrender to Society.

When any minor is a county charge, the board of county commissioners, if they think the welfare of the child demands it, may surrender such child to the care and custody of any benevolent society or corporation without the consent of its parents unless within twenty days after the notice of the intention of such commissioners so to do, given in writing to parents, guardian or next of kin of such child so far as known, to said commissioners, such parents, guardian or next of kin shall provide for such child and relieve the county thereof and when any child has been so surrendered by the county commissioners, it may be disposed of as herein provided for the disposition of other children. [L. '03, p. 60, § 3.]

§ 1703. Investigation of Neglect—Duty of Police.

When any officer or agent of any such society shall request a police officer or other peace officer, to investigate or assist in the investigation of any alleged case of any such neglected or abused child, such officer shall immediately make or assist in such investigation and if he deem it proper shall forthwith take such child into custody without warrant, taking such child and reporting such case at once to the judge of the superior court for such proceedings as may be proper under the provisions of this chapter. [L. '03, p. 61, § 4.]

§ 1704. Minor Convicted of Offense—Rights of Parent.

When any minor under eighteen years of age shall be convicted on any charge, the punishment for which may be imprisonment or confinement in the reform school, the judge of the superior court, if he finds that the good of such minor demands it, and such minor is an orphan, or a homeless, neglected or abused minor within the terms of this act, or is a county charge, or the parents or guardian of such minor consent thereto, may suspend sentence and surrender the custody of such minor to any society, as is contemplated in this act, when such society is willing to receive such minor, until such minor shall attain the age of majority, or for a term of years to be fixed in the order of surrender, and such society may find a home for such minor and surrender his custody to the person providing such home for the term fixed in said order of surrender, which surrender by the society shall be approved by an order of said court: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be held to affect the natural rights of said minor or of his parents or guardian, except in the matter of his custody: and provided further, that if said minor shall fail to conform to the order of court fixing his custody, he may be apprehended and brought before the court, and the court may sentence said minor as provided by law, or resurrender him as the court may deem best for the interests of said minor. [L. '03, p. 61, § 5.]

§ 1705. Society not to Act as Guardian.

Nothing in this chapter shall entitle any such society to act as guardian or to have control of the estate of any minor child. [L. '03, p. 62, § 6.]

§ 1706. Hearing on Habeas Corpus—Evidence.

Upon the hearing of any writ of habeas corpus for the custody of any such child, if it appears that such child has been surrendered to any such corporation under the provisions of this chapter, such surrender shall be taken as prima facie evidence that such child was legally and properly surrendered to such corporation and that such corporation is entitled to the custody and control of such child under the provisions of this chapter. [L. '03, p. 62, § 7.]

§ 1707. County Charges—County to Pay Expenses.

The board of county commissioners shall pay the expenses of bringing the child before the court and caring for it pending a hearing under this act; when a child is surrendered to a benevolent society under the provisions of this act by the superior court, the county shall pay such society a reasonable compensation for the temporary care of such child until it is placed in a family but not to exceed fifty [$50] dollars in each case. No clerk, sheriff, police officer, member of the board of county commissioners or agent of any such society shall charge or be allowed to charge any costs whatever in these proceedings, except where a complaint shall be adjudged to be without sufficient cause and malicious, in which event all costs shall be taxed against the complainant: Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to cases under section 1704. [L. '03, p. 62, § 8.]

CHAPTER XXIV.

HABITUAL DRUNKARDS.

§ 1708. (6487.) Who may be Adjudged an Habitual Drunkard.

Any person addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors may, upon complaint thereof, or upon certificate of a justice of the peace, as hereinafter provided, be adjudged an habitual drunkard. [Cf. L. '79, p. 113, § 1; Cd. 81, § 1673; L. '83, p. 32, § 1; 1 H. C., § 2523.]

See infra, § 6289, action for injuries caused by intoxication.

§ 1709. (6488.) Complaint, Who may Make.

Any party aggrieved may appeal to the supreme court in the mode prescribed in this title from any and every of the following determinations, and no others, made by the superior court, or a judge thereof, in any action or proceeding.

(1) From the final judgment entered in any action or proceeding, and an appeal from any such final judgment shall also bring up for review any order made in the same action or proceeding either before or after the judgment, in case the record sent up on the appeal, or any supplementary record sent up before the hearing thereof, shall show such order sufficiently for the purposes of a review thereof.

(2) From any order refusing to vacate an order of arrest in a civil action.

(3) From an order granting or denying a motion for a temporary injunction, heard upon notice to the adverse party, and from any order vacating or refusing to vacate a temporary injunction: Provided, that no appeal shall be allowed from any order denying a motion for a temporary injunction, or vacating a temporary injunction unless the judge of the superior court shall have found upon the hearing, that the party against whom the injunction was sought was insolvent.

(4) From any order discharging or refusing to discharge an attachment.

(5) From any order appointing or removing, or refusing to appoint or remove, a receiver.

(6) From any order affecting a substantial right in a civil action or proceeding, which either, (1) in effect determines the action or proceeding and prevents a final judgment therein; or (2) discontinues the action; or (3) grants a new trial; or (4) sets aside or refuses to affirm an award of arbitrators, or refers the cause back to them.

(7) From any final order made after judgment, which affects a substantial right; and an appeal from any such order shall also bring up for review any previous order in the same action or proceeding which involves the merits and necessarily affects the order appealed from, in case the record sent up on the appeal, or any supplementary record sent up before the hearing thereof, shall show such previous order sufficiently for the purposes of a review thereof. But an appeal shall not be allowed to the state in any criminal action, except when the error complained of is in setting aside the indictment or information, or in arresting the judgment on the ground that the facts stated in the indictment or information do not constitute a crime, or is some other material error in law not affecting the acquittal of a prisoner on the merits. An appeal will not be dismissed on the ground of cessation of the controversy because of a tender by plaintiff of the amount claimed to be due, made after the appeal was taken, when the tender did not include the costs and was not accepted by the appellant, since an offer to settle, not accepted, does not end the controversy: Loveday v. Parker, 50 Wash. 260.

Parker*, 50 Wash. 260.

Co. v. Nolan*, 48 Wash. 382.

Stephens*, 50 Wash. 397.

A motion to dismiss an appeal because of the cessation of the controversy may be supported by affidavits containing copies of parts of the record below, which need not be brought up by supplemental record where the affidavit is undenied: Kelso v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 677; In re Crosby, 42 Wash. 366; Sutton's Estate, In re, 31 Wash. 340.

An appeal by defendant from a judgment denying relief upon his counterclaim is not prematurely taken by reason of the pendency of plaintiff's motion to vacate the judgment denying plaintiff any relief, since the appeal was taken only from the other portion of the judgment, which the plaintiff would have no interest in vacating: Lauridsen v. Lewis, 47 Wash. 594.

After final judgment, an appeal lies from an order dissolving an attachment, or it is reviewable upon appeal from the final judgment: Maxwell v. Griffith, 20 Wash. 106.

An order which is a temporary mandatory injunction is appealable: State ex rel. Byers v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 403.

Ex parte order appointing temporary receiver appealable, when: See State ex rel. Washington Match Co. v. Superior Court, 34 Wash. 123.

Superior Court*, 19 Wash. 118; Brady v. Onffroy, 37 Wash. 482; Peterson v. Dillon, 27 Wash. 78; Sullivan's Estate, In re, 40 Wash. 202.

What constitutes a final judgment: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 100, §§ 76½-79; Huntington v. Blakeney, 1 W. T. 111; Wilkins v. Wilkins, 1 Wash. 87; In re Foye, 21 Wash. 250; In re Baker, 21 Wash. 259; In re Sylvester, 21 Wash. 263; Chambers v. Hoover, 3 W. T. 20; Hays v. Dennis, 11 Wash. 360; *Reichenbach v. In an action to foreclose a mortgage, an order dismissing the action as to some of the defendants who assert interests in the property paramount to the mortgagee is appealable, although no judgment has been rendered against the mortgagors: Mortgage Co. v. Gilbert, 13 Wash. 684. See, also, Keef v. Tibbals, 18 Wash. 656; Lough v. John Davis & Co., 30 Wash. 204.

An order purporting to dissolve an attachment after the rendition of judgment in the action in which it was issued, and which is in effect a direction by the court to the sheriff to disregard the rights of the attaching creditor in making a levy under the execution issued upon the judgment is an appealable order: Sheppard v. Guisler, 10 Wash. 41.

If the original judgment has been lost before entry, an affidavit of one of the attorneys describing the judgment will not constitute such a record on appeal as will warrant the reversal of the original judgment: Reichenbach v. Sage, 8 Wash. 250.

Where both parties move for a new trial and it is granted on the motion of one and denied on the motion of the other, neither party can appeal therefrom for the reason that the order must be held to have been granted at the request of each: Clallam Co. v. Clump, 15 Wash. 593.

A second mortgagee may appeal from a decree foreclosing the first and second mortgages, notwithstanding the fact that he has accepted a portion of the proceeds derived from the sale under said decree, where the part of the decree appealed from in no wise affects the part awarding him such proceeds: Hinchman v. Railway Co., 14 Wash. 349.

ORDERS NOT APPEALABLE.—An appeal will not lie from an order sustaining a demurrer: Mason County v. Dunbar, 10 Wash. 163 (but will where a party refuses to plead further: See Peters v. Lewis, 28 Wash. 366); or discharging an attachment: Jensen v. Hughes, 12 Wash. 661; Spokane Dry Goods Co. v. Fritz, 26 Wash. 433; or removing one receiver and appointing another in his stead: State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 74; or from an order which postpones the right of plaintiff to proceed to judgment for default until the day following that upon which his motion therefor is made: Schlotfeldt v. Bull, 13 Wash. 242; or from a judgment which fails to dispose of all the defendants in the action, either by dismissal or by an affirmative judgment: Fairfield v. Binnian, 13 Wash. 1; Johnson v. Lighthouse, 8 Wash. 32.

In an original action instituted for the purpose of having a judgment vacated, an order setting aside a default and giving defendants leave to answer is not appealable: Reitmeir v. Siegmund, 13 Wash. 624; Freeman v. Ambrose, 12 Wash. 1.

Order setting aside a void default judgment is not appealable: See Thompson v. Robbins, 32 Wash. 149.

After a case has been reversed and remanded for a new trial, an order of the lower court directing the defendant to repay to plaintiff the sum collected under the original judgment is not appealable: First Nat. Bank v. Carter, 10 Wash. 11.

An appeal does not lie from a board of equalization to the superior court: Knapp v. King County, 15 Wash. 541.

Under the statute governing appeals to the supreme court, no authority is conferred upon the superior courts to certify questions to the supreme court for decision, and no appeal will lie from such an order: Munson v. Mudgett, 14 Wash. 662.

An order striking a complaint from the files for the reason that it contained two or more causes of action not separately stated is not a final order and is not appealable: Vaktaren Pub. Co. v. Pacific etc. Pub. Co., 41 Wash. 355.

Where notice of appeal in a criminal action is given upon denying a motion for a new trial and before the entry of judgment, the appeal must be dismissed as not having been taken from an appealable order: State v. Landes, 26 Wash. 325.

Orders on motions for new trial, when not appealable: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 98, § 70.

An order refusing to set aside the vacation of a judgment is not a final judgment: Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co. v. De Lanty, 20 Wash. 539. See, also, Jordan v. Hutchinson, 39 Wash. 373; State ex rel. Post v. Superior Court, 31 Wash. 53; Post v. Spokane, 35 Wash. 114; Green v. Moore, 24 Wash. 241; Nash v. Wakefield, 30 Wash. 556.

An order overruling a motion to quash a summons is not appealable: Prussian Nat. Ins. Co. v. Northwestern Fire etc. Ins. Co., 19 Wash. 281; Powell v. Nolan, 32 Wash. 403.

An order denying a temporary injunction is not appealable: State ex rel. Young v. Superior Court, 43 Wash. 34.

An order denying a temporary injunction is not appealable unless the court has found the party against whom it is sought to be insolvent, although the court attempted to fix the amount of a supersedeas bond; nor could the denial be considered a final determination as to the sufficiency of the complaint where the record fails to show that a demurrer thereto was passed upon: Masoero v. Campbell & Co., 52 Wash. 551.

An order discharging a jury and ordering a retrial is not appealable: Dossett v. St. Paul etc. Lumber Co., 28 Wash. 618.

An order opening or vacating judgment or order is not appealable: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 99, § 74; Nelson v. Denny, 26 Wash. 327; Metler v. Metler, 28 Wash. 734; State v. Boyce, 25 Wash. 422; National Christian Assn. v. Simpson, 21 Wash. 16.

Upon an application to reappoint a trustee, who alleged that he had been induced to resign through fraud, the vacation of an ex parte order of reappointment, which could only be made on notice, is not appealable as a final order, since it does not dispose of the application: In re Sinclaire's Estate, 44 Wash. 119.

An ex parte appointment of a receiver, without any notice of hearing or bond, is void and could only be temporarily valid until notice could be given; and an order vacating the appointment is not an appealable order, as the ex parte appointment could not be restored or continued by the appeal: Libert v. Unfried, 47 Wash. 182.

An order vacating, upon defendant's motion, a void ex parte appointment of a receiver, is not an appealable order in that it in effect denies plaintiff's motion for a receiver, submitted at the same time, where (1) plaintiff's motion only requested the confirmation of the ex parte order theretofore made, and (2) was not noted for hearing as required, and (3) the record shows that only the defendant's motion was considered and passed upon: Libert v. Unfried, 47 Wash. 182.

Orders relating to costs are not appealable when: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 99, § 76; Durk v. Scully, 41 Wash. 357; Smith v. Palmer, 38 Wash. 276.

No appeal lies from an order permitting the filing of an amended complaint: Albin v. Seattle Electric Co., 46 Wash. 420.

An order granting a new trial is not appealable when it is made pursuant to directions of the supreme court in reversing the case on a former appeal: Albin v. Seattle Electric Co., 46 Wash. 420.

Orders sustaining a demurrer to a complaint in intervention and denying leave to amend the complaint are not appealable as orders affecting a substantial right which in effect determine the proceeding or discontinue the action: Seattle & Northern R. Co. v. Bowman, 46 Wash. 90.

An order refusing a voluntary dismissal of an action is not appealable as a final order, but may be reviewed on appeal from the final judgment: State ex rel. Korsstrom v. Superior Court, 48 Wash. 671.

AMOUNT IN CONTROVERSY: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 87-89, §§ 33-42.

The fact that the amount of damage alleged in the complaint and for which judgment is prayed is in excess of $200, will not authorize an appeal to the supreme court when it is evident from the pleadings that the original amount in controversy was less than $200: Doty v. Krutz, 13 Wash. 169; Chapin v. Kenoyer, 12 Wash. 536; Bleeker v. Satsop R. Co., 3 Wash. 77; Penter v. Staight, 1 Wash. 365; Trumbull v. School District No. 7, 22 Wash. 631; Kirby v. Rainer-Grand Hotel Co., 28 Wash. 705. Before the supreme court will assume jurisdiction there must be a finding as to the value by the lower court, the mere allegation in the complaint that the value of the property in controversy is in excess of $200 being insufficient: Herrin v. Pugh, 9 Wash. 637.

If the value of property seized under attachment proceedings exceeds $200, an appeal will lie to the supreme court, although the claim of the attaching creditor is for a less sum: Edison v. Woolery, 10 Wash. 225. See Graves v. Thompson, 35 Wash. 282.

When the object of a garnishment proceeding is to ascertain the title and right of possession of personal property, the action is within the appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court, although the principal debt may be less than $200: Campbell v. Simpkins, 10 Wash. 160.

Where the guarantor of a promissory note has been made a party defendant to an action, the judgment in which involves his contingent liability, the plaintiff is estopped from raising any question as to the guarantor's appealable interest: Howard v. Shaw, 10 Wash. 151.

If an equitable question is involved, the supreme court has jurisdiction, even though the amount in controversy is less than $200: Blake v. Savings Bank, 12 Wash. 619.

Where the validity of a statute is not involved, an appeal will not lie to the supreme court if the amount involved is less than $200: Jacobs v. Puyallup, 10 Wash. 384.

An appeal from an order discharging a receiver, wherein is involved the disposition of $135 collected by him, will not be dismissed because not within the constitutional limit, $200, for actions at law for the recovery of money: Johnson v. Joslyn, 47 Wash. 531.

The supreme court will assume jurisdiction of a case where the amount involved is less than $200, where the appeal is in reality an attempt to compel the lower court to obey the mandate of the supreme court upon a former appeal: Johnson v. Joslyn, 47 Wash. 531.

Upon appeal by defendant, the amount claimed by him in a counterclaim is the amount in controversy, and if over $200, the court has jurisdiction of the appeal: Lauridsen v. Lewis, 47 Wash. 594.

An action of interpleader, under § 199, wherein the county auditor deposited a warrant in court and asked that the conflicting claims of the defendants thereto be determined, is of equitable cognizance, and appeal lies to the supreme court regardless of the amount in controversy: Agnew v. Barto & Son's Bank, 48 Wash. 66.

§ 1717. (6501.) Designation of Parties.

The party appealing shall be known as the appellant, and the adverse party as the respondent, and they shall be so designated in all papers in the cause after the notice of appeal shall have been given or served; but the title of the cause shall in other respects remain unchanged. [L. '93, p. 120, § 2.]

Cited in 27 Wash. 177; 49 Wash. 407.

Failure to designate a receiver as such in appellate proceedings is no ground for dismissal where the record plainly shows that he was sued in his representative capacity: Chandler v. Shingle Co., 13 Wash. 89.

Name and designation of parties: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 143, § 212.

§ 1718. (6502.) Time of Taking.

In civil actions and proceedings an appeal from any final judgment must be taken within ninety days after the date of the entry of such final judgment; and an appeal from any order, other than a final order, from which an appeal is allowed by this act, within fifteen days after the entry of the order, if made at the time of the hearing, and in all other cases within fifteen days after the service of a copy of such order, with written notice of the entry thereof, upon the party appealing, or his attorney. In criminal causes, an appeal must be taken within ninety days after the entry of final judgment. [L. '93, p. 120, § 3; L. '95, p. 81, § 1.]

Cited in 10 Wash. 380; 12 Wash. 232, 555; 13 Wash. 225; 15 Wash. 29; 17 Wash. 597; 20 Wash. 541; 21 Wash. 18; 26 Wash. 43, 230, 308; 27 Wash. 28, 317; 32 Wash. 168; 35 Wash. 67; 42 Wash. 688, 689; 49 Wash. 407; 50 Wash. 263, 455.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 129-133, §§ 172-187.

An appeal taken within six months after judgment is in time, although prior to the taking thereof the act of 1895 was passed, reducing the time to ninety days, where the latter act did not become effective until after the appeal had been taken: Brookman v. Ins. Co., 15 Wash. 29. See Seattle & M. R. Co. v. O'Meara, 4 Wash. 17; Western American Co. v. St. Ann Co., 22 Wash. 158; Rogers v. Trumbull, 32 Wash. 211.

Actual notice of the entry of a judgment or of an appealable order is as effective as the service of a copy of said judgment or order, to limit the time within which an appeal therefrom may be taken: Braely v. Marks, 13 Wash. 224; Irwin v. Olympia Co., 12 Wash. 112; McQuesten v. Morrill, 12 Wash. 335.

Where a default judgment, erroneously entered instead of a judgment of dismissal, has been set aside, and a proper judgment entry made, the time within which an appeal may be taken must be computed from the date of the entry of the original judgment: Agassiz v. Keller, 11 Wash. 88.

Where no notice in writing of the entry of the order appealed from was ever served upon appellant, the appeal will not be dismissed because notice was not given within the prescribed time: Debenture Corp. v. Warren, 9 Wash. 312.

Where an appeal has been taken from a judgment, the appellant is estopped to afterward take advantage of the fact that no copy of the judgment had been served upon him: Barkley v. Barton, 15 Wash. 33.

Commencement of period of limitation: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 130, §§ 173-177; Leary v. Territory, 3 W. T. 13; National Christian Assn. v. Simpson, 21 Wash. 16; Wadhams v. Page, 6 Wash. 103.

An appeal from the oral announcement of the judge's conclusions, made at the end of a trial without a jury, will be dismissed as premature, since it is not a final judgment until expressed in writing: Robertson v. Shine, 50 Wash. 433.

Effect of motion for new trial: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 130, § 174; Pedigo v. Fuller, 37 Wash. 529; State ex rel. Payson v. Chapman, 35 Wash. 64; Rice Fisheries Co. v. Pacific Realty Co., 35 Wash. 535; Herzog v. Palatine Ins. Co., 36 Wash. 611; Prospector's Development Co. v. Brook, 32 Wash. 315; Kubillus v. Ewert, 40 Wash. 38; Creech v. Aberdeen, 42 Wash. 77.

The time for taking an appeal does not begin to run until the denial of a motion for a new trial, seasonably made: Wittler-Corbin Machinery Co. v. Martin, 47 Wash. 123.

Effect of motion to vacate judgment or order: Leary v. Territory, 3 W. T. 13; National Christian Assn. v. Simpson, 21 Wash. 16; State ex rel. Hennessy v. Huston, 32 Wash. 154; Hennessy v. Tacoma Smelting etc Co., 33 Wash. 423.

An order dismissing a petition to vacate a judgment for fraud in obtaining the same is a final order made after judgment affecting a substantial right; and therefore an appeal need not be taken within the fifteen days limited for other than final orders, and is in time if taken within ninety days: Kath v. Histogenetic Medicine Co., 50 Wash. 454.

As to commencement of period on interlocutory and subsequent orders, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 131, § 179; Nicol v. Skagit Boom Co., 12 Wash. 230; Otis Bros. & Co. v. Nash, 26 Wash. 39; Denison v. Spokane, 27 Wash. 317; Lamona's Estate, In re, 29 Wash. 394.

The fact that an appeal from several orders was given too late to confer jurisdiction of the appeal as to the first order made does not operate to dismiss the appeal as to the other orders: Loveday v. Parker, 50 Wash. 260.

As to limitations applicable to particular proceedings—Final judgments, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 131, § 180; State v. Symes, 17 Wash. 596; National Christian Assn. v. Simpson, 21 Wash. 16; Krutz v. Isaacs, 43 Wash. 714; Seattle, Lake Shore & E. R. Co. v. Simpson, 19 Wash. 628; State ex rel. Tremblay v. McQuade, 12 Wash. 554.

Where notice of appeal is not served within ninety days after the date of entry of judgment, the appeal will be dismissed: Shipley v. McPherson, 46 Wash. 172.

Where a judgment was immediately entered by the clerk upon rendition of the verdict, and a new trial was denied November 9th, an oral notice of appeal must, to be effective, be taken at that time; and the entry of a formal judgment December 9th, against the objection of the prevailing party, does not authorize an oral notice of appeal at that time: Chilcott v. Globe Nav. Co., 49 Wash. 302.

Limitations applicable to interlocutory orders: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 131, 132, § 181; Cole v. Price, 22 Wash. 18; Otis Bros. & Co. v. Nash, 26 Wash. 39; National Christian Assn. v. Simpson, 21 Wash. 16; Hewitt v. Root, 31 Wash. 312; Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co. v. De Lanty, 20 Wash. 539.

An appeal from an order discharging a garnishee must be taken within fifteen days after the entry thereof, under this section: Loveday v. Parker, 50 Wash. 260.

Extension of time: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 133, §§ 186, 187; Leary v. Territory, 3 W. T. 13; Nicol v. Skagit Boom Co., 12 Wash. 230; National Christian Assn. v. Simpson, 21 Wash. 16; State v. Boyce, 25 Wash. 422; Sturgiss v. Dart, 23 Wash. 244; Agassiz v. Kelleher, 11 Wash. 88.

The courts have no power, even in a capital case, to extend the time: State v. White, 40 Wash. 428.

§ 1719. (6503.) Notice of.

A party desiring to appeal to the supreme court under the provisions of this title may, by himself or his attorney, give notice in open court or before the judge, if the judgment or order appealed from is rendered or made at chambers, at the time when such judgment or order is rendered or made, that he appeals from such judgment or order to the supreme court, and thereupon the court or judge shall direct the clerk to make an entry of such notice in the journal of the court. If the appeal be not taken at the time when the judgment or order appealed from is rendered or made, then the party desiring to appeal may, by himself or his attorney, within the time prescribed in section 1718, serve written notice on the prevailing party or his attorney that he appeals from such judgment or order to the supreme court, and within five days after the service of such notice he shall file with the clerk of the superior court the original or a copy of such notice, with proof or the written admission of the service thereof, and thereupon the clerk shall enter such notice, with the proof or admission of service thereof, in the journal of the court. The giving or service of a notice of appeal as prescribed in this section shall effect the appeal, but the same shall become ineffectual if an appeal bond for costs and damages be not given as required by section 1721 of this title. Two or more appealable orders with or without the judgment may be embraced in one appeal: Provided, that the time allowed in this title for appealing from each of such orders has not expired. The appellant in his notice of appeal shall designate with reasonable certainty from what judgment or orders, whether one or more, the appeal is taken, and if from part of any judgment or order, from what particular part. [L. '93, p. 120, § 4.]

Cited in 9 Wash. 665; 10 Wash. 380; 17 Wash. 366, 609; 18 Wash. 361; 20 Wash. 540, 690, 716; 22 Wash. 22, 695; 23 Wash. 251, 722; 24 Wash. 668; 25 Wash. 183; 26 Wash. 224; 27 Wash. 113; 30 Wash. 312; 32 Wash. 531; 34 Wash. 177, 514, 657; 37 Wash. 457; 42 Wash. 78; 43 Wash. 385; 45 Wash. 134; 48 Wash. 420; 49 Wash. 303, 407; 50 Wash. 587, 588, 592, 593.

The notice of appeal prescribed by the statute is essential to confer jurisdiction on the appellate court, and it is not competent for the parties to waive it: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 141, § 209; Sawtelle v. Weymouth, 14 Wash. 21; Seattle, Lake Shore R. Co. v. Simpson, 19 Wash. 628; Winters v. Grays Harbor Boom Co., 19 Wash. 346; Clark v. Eltinge, 29 Wash. 215.

Notice is not necessary to parties who do not appear in the action, though named as defendants: Railway v. Johnson, 7 Wash. 97; and failure to serve a defendant who does not appear in the action is not ground for the dismissal of the appeal: Essency v. Essency, 10 Wash. 375; Eldridge v. Stenger, 19 Wash. 697; Home Savings etc. Assn. v. Burton, 20 Wash. 688; Collins v. Kinnear, 37 Wash. 453.

As to form and requisites of notice, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 141-144, §§ 210-214; Van de Vanter v. Flaherty, 37 Wash. 218; James v. James, 35 Wash. 655; Brown v. Calloway, 34 Wash. 175.

NOTICE IN OPEN COURT is not limited to judgments and orders rendered at chambers, but applies equally to all judgments or orders: Investment Trust v. Hender, 12 Wash. 559; and such notice is properly given at the time when the court orders the entry of judgment, even though the findings and conclusions upon which the judgment is based, as well as the judgment itself, appear to have been signed some time before: Id.

The fact that written notice of appeal has not been served upon all the parties to the action is immaterial, when oral notice has been given in open court after the rendition of judgment, and an appeal bond given thereafter within the time required: Seattle v. Liberman, 9 Wash. 276; Moore v. Brownfield, 7 Wash. 23.

As to the sufficiency of oral notice, see, also, 1 Remington's Digest, p. 142, § 211; Creech v. Aberdeen, 42 Wash. 77; Rananhan v. Gibbons, 23 Wash. 255; Thompson v. Sines, 18 Wash. 359; Brady v. Onffroy, 37 Wash. 482; Puckett v. Moody, 17 Wash. 609.

An oral notice of appeal, given in open court at the time of signing judgment of dismissal, is sufficient; and the claim of insufficiency on the ground that the adverse party was not present cannot be first made on appeal where the judgment was regular on its face: Carlson v. Curren, 48 Wash. 249.

As to the sufficiency of the designation of parties, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 143, § 212; Carstens v. Gustin, 18 Wash. 90; Roberts v. Shelton S. W. R. Co., 21 Wash. 427; Alfstad's Estate, In re, 27 Wash. 175; Philadelphia Mtg. & Trust Co. v. Palmer, 32 Wash. 455; Noble v. Whitten, 34 Wash. 507.

As to the description of the judgment or order appealed from, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 143, 144, § 213; Shannon v. Consol. Tiger & Poorman Min. Co., 24 Wash. 119; Thompson v. Sines, 18 Wash. 359; Roberts v. Shelton S. W. R. Co., 21 Wash. 427; Clark v. Eltinge, 29 Wash. 215; Doremus v. Root, 23 Wash. 710; Norris v. Campbell, 27 Wash. 654; O'Neile v. Ternes, 32 Wash. 528; Horrell v. California etc. Assn., 40 Wash. 531.

A notice of appeal sufficiently describes the judgment by reference to the "decision" entered on a certain date, the record showing the judgment to have been entered on such date: Gilbert Co. v. Husted, 50 Wash. 61.

An appeal from a portion of a decree is expressly authorized by this section: State ex rel. Holcomb v. Yakey, 48 Wash. 419.

Service of notice of the appeal: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 144-147, §§ 215-223.

Notice of appeal must be served upon all parties to the action who do not join in the appeal, and if this is not done the appeal will be dismissed: Id., p. 126, § 165; Casey v. Oakes, 13 Wash. 38; Dewey v. Land Co., 11 Wash. 210; Lamey v. Coffman, 11 Wash. 301; Johnson v. Lighthouse, 8 Wash. 32; Bank v. Hotel Co., 4 Wash. 642; Traders' Bank v. Bokien, 5 Wash. 777; Cornell v. Hotel Co., 15 Wash. 433; Smalley v. Laugenour, 30 Wash. 307. See, also, Noble v. Whitten, 34 Wash. 507; Collins v. Kinnear, 37 Wash. 453.

As to service prior to other proceedings, see Lawyer Land Co. v. Steel, 41 Wash. 411.

By whom service may be made: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 145, § 217; Belle City Mfg. Co. v. Kemp, 27 Wash. 111; Smalley v. Laugenour, 30 Wash. 307; Horr v. Aberdeen Packing Co., 7 Wash. 354.

The necessity for serving the notice upon all parties who have appeared in the action is not removed by reason of the fact that the parties not appealing and not served appeared in the superior court by the same attorneys as did the ones prosecuting the appeal: Casey v. Oakes, supra; Traders' Bank v. Bokien, supra; Dewey v. Land Co., supra; Cornell v. Hotel Co., supra; Home Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Burton, 20 Wash. 688. But see Murphy's Estate, In re, 26 Wash. 222; Smalley v. Laugenour, 30 Wash. 307.

Upon appeal from an order striking a petition in intervention, in an action to foreclose a mortgage, the notice of appeal must be served on all the defendants who claim a prior right to the mortgaged premises, although notice of appeal was given in open court, where the only parties then present were the plaintiff and the intervener: Hinchman v. Railway Co., 14 Wash. 171.

An appeal will be dismissed if the notice was not served upon a party who has been recognized by the court and the other parties to the action as an intervener, although there is no formal order of intervention in the record: Grays Harbor Co. v. Wotton, 14 Wash. 87; Fairfield v. Binnian, 13 Wash. 1.

Where parties have appeared in an action, but the action has subsequently been dismissed as to them, with the consent of the other parties thereto, it is not necessary to serve them with notice of appeal: Watson v. Sawyer, 12 Wash. 35; Casey v. Oakes, supra.

Service of the notice upon a receiver is a sufficient service upon all creditors who have appeared in the action in which the receiver was appointed: Radebaugh v. Railway Co., 8 Wash. 570.

It is not sufficient to serve a portion only of the respondents and file proof thereof within the statutory time, but service and filing should be made as to all the respondents: Watson v. Pugh, 9 Wash. 665.

Service of notice of appeal and notice to settle a statement of facts upon the attorney of record of the adverse parties is sufficient when there is no showing that there was any substitution of attorneys: Tacoma Mill Co. v. Sherwood, 11 Wash. 492; Sturgiss v. Dart, 23 Wash. 244; Belle City Mfg. Co. v. Kemp, 27 Wash. 211.

If coparties not joining are not served, the appeal must be dismissed: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 127, § 167; Dewey v. South Side Land Co., 11 Wash. 210; Winters v. Gray's Harbor Boom Co., 19 Wash. 346; Johnson v. Lighthouse, 8 Wash. 32; Smith v. Beard, 21 Wash. 204; Wax v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 32 Wash. 210; Davis v. Tacoma R. & P. Co., 35 Wash. 203. Even if the coparties are represented by the same attorney as appellant: Dewey v. South Side Land Co., 11 Wash. 210; Traders' Bank of Tacoma v. Bokien, 5 Wash. 777; Casey v. Oakes, 13 Wash. 38; Home Savings etc. Assn. v. Burton, 20 Wash. 688; Smalley v. Laugenour, 30 Wash. 307.

See further as to coparties: Spokane & Idaho Lum. Co. v. Loy, 21 Wash. 501; Cline v. Mitchell, 1 Wash. 24; Carstens v. Gustin, 18 Wash. 90; State ex rel. Billings v. Port Townsend, 27 Wash. 728; Pierce v. Commercial Inv. Co., 31 Wash. 655; O'Connor v. Lighthizer, 34 Wash. 152 (overruling Brockway v. Abbott, 34 Wash. 700); Wagner v. Royal, 36 Wash. 428.

An appeal will be dismissed as to a coparty where the record fails to show that he joined in the notice of appeal, or that he filed any appeal bond, and no brief was filed in his behalf: Perkins v. Pierce, 48 Wash. 380.

See, also, Noble v. Whitten, 34 Wash. 507; Aetna Ins. Co. v. Thompson, 34 Wash. 610; Winters v. Grays Harbor Boom Co., 19 Wash. 346; First Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Gordon Hardware Co., 30 Wash. 127.

As to coparty's defective proceedings and necessity for service: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 128, § 168; Winters v. Grays Harbor Boom Co., 19 Wash. 346; Hopkins v. Satsop R. Co., 18 Wash. 679; Griffith v. Seattle Nat. Bank Bldg. Co., 16 Wash. 329.

Service upon parties dismissed from the suit, or defaulting: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 128, § 169; Sheehan v. Bailey Building Co., 42 Wash. 535; Smalley v. Laugenour, 30 Wash. 307; First Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Gordon Hardware Co., 30 Wash. 127.

Service affected by transfer or devolution of interest: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 128, § 170; Currans v. Seattle & San Francisco R. & Nav. Co., 34 Wash. 512; Hight v. Batley, 32 Wash. 165.

Where actual notice of appeal cannot be had upon a party or his attorney, the return of the sheriff to that effect is the only competent evidence of the fact sufficient to justify service upon the clerk in behalf of the party not found: Cornell v. Hotel Co., 15 Wash. 433.

A notice of appeal which is directed to all the parties appearing in the action, and duly served upon the attorneys appearing for them, is sufficient, although but one attorney may appear for several parties, and such attorney be served with but one copy: Hendricks v. Edmiston, 15 Wash. 687; Home Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Burton, 20 Wash. 688.

Service of the notice of appeal is not sufficiently proven by an affidavit in the record which recites that it was served upon a respondent "by delivering and leaving at the office of (his attorneys) a true copy of said notice of appeal": Fairchild v. Binnian, supra.

Where a lawyer appears for himself and as attorney for his wife, service of a notice of appeal upon him, directed to both, is a good service: Howard v. Shaw, 10 Wash. 151.

Service of notice of appeal upon one member of a firm who appeared for a party to an action is a good service when the other member is dead: Id. See Seat- tle, Lake Shore & E. R. Co. v. Simpson, 19 Wash. 628.

Where an appeal has not been perfected after notice given, a new notice may be given if the statutory period therefor has not expired: State v. Seavey, 7 Wash. 562.

The notice need not be served upon defendants who come in after judgment has been rendered and file an answer in the cause: Snohomish County v. Ruff, 15 Wash. 637.

Notice of appeal may be served by mail: Horr v. Packing Co., 7 Wash. 354.

Proof of service of the notice upon the prevailing party must be filed within five days after service, but proof of service upon coparties may be filed subsequently: Howard v. Shaw, supra.

A judgment announced by the court is so far complete as to sustain a notice of appeal, although it has not been duly signed and entered: Hays v. Dennis, 11 Wash. 360.

There is no statute in this state authorizing an appeal in forma pauperis in civil cases, and hence appeals must be taken and perfected in the same manner by all appellants: Bokien v. State, 14 Wash. 401.

As to return or proof of service: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 146, § 221; Puckett v. Moody, 17 Wash. 609; Kasch v. Nelson, 20 Wash. 315; Sackman v. Thomas, 24 Wash. 660; Embree v. McLennan, 18 Wash. 651; Hill v. Gardner, 35 Wash. 529; Reynolds v. Reynolds, 42 Wash. 107; Tischner v. Rutledge, 35 Wash. 285.

As to filing notice and proof of service: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 146, 147, §§ 222, 223; State v. Butler, 19 Wash. 110; Ward v. Springfield F. & M. Ins. Co., 12 Wash. 631; Seattle Lake S. etc. R. Co. v. Simpson, 19 Wash. 628; Hibbard etc. Co. v. De Lanty, 20 Wash. 539; Van Dusen v. Kelleher, 20 Wash. 716; Collins v. Kinnear, 37 Wash. 453; Best v. Best, 22 Wash. 695; Watson v. Pugh, 9 Wash. 665; Best v. Best, 22 Wash. 695; Littlejohn v. Miller, 5 Wash. 399; Main Inv. Co. v. Olsen, 43 Wash. 480.

Proof of service of notice of an appeal upon a coparty need not be filed within five days limited for filing proof of service upon the prevailing party: Sipes v. Puget Sound Electric R. Co., 50 Wash. 585.

Amending record to show service: See Puckett v. Moody, 17 Wash. 609; Seattle Lake S. etc. R. Co. v. Simpson, 19 Wash. 628; Ames v. Kinnear, 40 Wash. 646.

§ 1720. (6504.) Who may Join in Notice.

All parties whose interests are similarly affected by any judgment or order appealed from may join in the notice of appeal whether it be given at the time when such judgment or order is rendered or made, or subsequently; and any such party who has not joined in the notice may at any time within ten days after the notice is given or served, serve an independent notice of like appeal, or join in the appeal already taken by filing with the clerk of the superior court a statement that he joins therein or in some part thereof, specifying in what part. Any such party who does not so join shall not derive any benefit from the appeal unless from the necessity of the case; nor can he independently appeal from any judgment or order already appealed from, more than ten days after service upon him of written notice of the former appeal, unless such former appeal be afterwards dismissed. All parties who so join in an appeal after the notice is given or served shall be liable for the expenses thereof, and for costs and damages to the same extent and upon the same conditions as if they had originally joined in the notice. When the notice of appeal is not given at the time when the judgment or order appealed from is rendered or made, it shall be served in the manner required by law for the service of papers in civil actions and proceedings, upon all parties who have appeared in the action or proceeding: Provided, that where the record and files in the cause do not disclose the address of a party on whom notice should be made, or of his attorney, and neither such party nor his attorney can be found within the county in which the judgment or order appealed from was rendered or made (of which fact a return by the sheriff that they cannot be so found shall be proof), the notice of appeal need not be served on such party, but the appeal may be taken by filing the notice and such sheriff's return with the clerk. Service on an attorney who was the attorney of record for a party in the cause at the time when the judgment or order appealed from was rendered or made, shall be deemed service on such party in all cases where service is required by this title. [L. '93, p. 121, § 5.]

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 125-128, §§ 164-171.

Parties joining in an appeal subsequent to the original notice must file an appeal bond in addition to that filed by the parties first appealing: Stans v. Baitey, 9 Wash. 115.

The fact that notice of appeal has been given but not served upon all parties will not preclude the parties not served from themselves giving notice of appeal and serving same upon all necessary parties; and, in such case, there is nothing objectionable in the abandonment of the first appeal and a joinder in the second: Waterson v. Masterson, 15 Wash. 511.

After an appeal from a final judgment in an equity cause has been taken and determined, a second appeal cannot be prosecuted from the same judgment by other parties. An appeal from a final judgment in equity takes up the entire case, and each party thereto must see to it that his rights are protected on that appeal: Hill v. Sawyer, 14 Wash. 275.

Service of a notice of appeal by mail is sufficient, when the person making the service and the person upon whom service is made reside in different places between which there is regular communication by mail: De Roberts v. Stiles, 24 Wash. 611.

Substituted service of the notice by filing a copy with the clerk, under this section can only be made when the party cannot be found within the county, which fact can only be proven by the return of the sheriff: Cornell University v. Denny Hotel Co., 15 Wash. 433.

Who is the prevailing or adverse party: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 125, § 164; Pacific Coast Trading Co. v. Bellingham Bay Baseball Assn., 18 Wash. 245; Damon v. Leque, 17 Wash. 573.

A garnishee is not the "adverse party" upon an appeal by plaintiff from a judgment in the principal action in favor of the defendant: Seattle Trust Co. v. Pitner, 17 Wash. 365.

Garnishees, who filed answers, are not adversely affected by a judgment in the main case, in favor of the defendant, and are not necessary parties to an appeal therefrom: Sudden & Christenson v. Morse, 48 Wash. 101.

A coparty dismissed from the action is not an adverse party upon whom service of notice of appeal, or of the statement of facts, need be made: Woelflen v. Lewiston-Clarkston Co., 49 Wash. 405.

As to the appearance of parties: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 126, § 165; Smalley

v. Laugenour, 30 Wash. 307; Noble v. Whitten, 34 Wash. 507.

As to intervention or addition of new parties, see Old National Bank v. O. K. Gold Min. Co., 19 Wash. 194; Wiseman v. Eastman, 21 Wash. 163; Willard v. Fisher, 36 Wash. 229.

Interveners, whose affirmative answer was denied and who introduced no evidence in support of it, can derive no benefit from joining in an appeal by the defendant, where their interests were entirely adverse to the defendant's interest: Reiff v. Coulter, 47 Wash. 678.

When coparty may take appeal or join: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 132, § 182; Griffith v. Seattle Nat. Bank Bldg. Co., 16 Wash. 329; Damon v. Leque, 17 Wash. 573.

§ 1721. (6505.) Bond for Costs.

An appeal in a civil action or proceeding shall become ineffectual for any purpose unless at or before the time when the notice of appeal is given or served, or within five days thereafter, an appeal bond to the adverse party conditioned for the payment of costs and damages as prescribed in section 1722, be filed with the clerk of the superior court, or money in the sum of two hundred dollars be deposited with the clerk in lieu thereof. But no bond or deposit shall be required when the appeal is taken by the state, or by a county, city, town or school district thereof, or by a defendant in a criminal action. [L. '93, p. 122, § 6.]

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 133-141, §§ 189-208. See, also, notes to next section.

An appeal bond may be filed before the date of the taking of the appeal: Deben-ture Corp. v. Warren, 9 Wash. 312.

An appeal bond must be filed within five days after the notice of appeal is given, and if this is not done the failure will render the appeal ineffectual for any purpose: Savage v. Graham, 14 Wash. 323.

When the notice of appeal is not given until six months after the entry of the judgment, it is sufficient to file the appeal bond within five days after the expiration of the six months: Asher v. Sekofsky, 10 Wash. 379.

As to necessity of security to perfect appeal: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 133, 134, §§ 189, 190; Kasch v. Nelson, 20 Wash. 315; State ex rel. Cann v. Moore, 23 Wash. 276; Townsend Gas L. Co. v. Hill, 24 Wash. 469; State ex rel. Smith v. Blumberg, 34 Wash. 640; State ex rel. Geiger v. Geiger, 20 Wash. 181; State ex rel. Roberts v. Superior Court, 32 Wash. 743; Campbell v. Hall, 28 Wash. 626; Jordan v. Seattle, 29 Wash. 581; Corbett v. Civil Service Com. of Seattle, 33 Wash. 190; Parish v. Collins, 43 Wash. 392.

Upon appeals from the final judgment and from an order denying a new trial, only one bond on the appeal from the final judgment need be given: Woelflen v. Lew-iston-Clarkston Co., 49 Wash. 405.

Filing and service of bonds, necessity and sufficiency: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 135, §§ 192-194; Dahl v. Tibbals, 5 Wash. 259; Runyan v. Russell, 3 Wash. 665; Laurendeau v. Fugelli, 16 Wash. 367; Ramage v. Littlejohn, 16 Wash. 702; Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co. v. De Lanty, 20 Wash. 539; Van Dusen v. Kelleher, 20 Wash. 716; Galloway v. Tjossem, 22 Wash. 103; First Nat. Bank of Cambridge v. Hatfield, 20 Wash. 224; Shannon v. Consolidated Tiger & P. Min. Co., 24 Wash. 119; Main Inv. Co. v. Olsen, 43 Wash. 480; Hight v. Batley, 32 Wash. 165.

An appeal will not be dismissed because it appears that the bond was filed after the time allowed by law, where it is shown by a supplemental record that the lower court has found that it was left with the clerk for filing within the time, but by inadvertence it was not marked filed until the time for filing had expired: Main Investment Co. v. Olson, 44 Wash. 121.

An appeal will not be dismissed for failure to file the notice and bond within five days after the date of acceptance of service appearing thereon, when such date antedates the notice and bond and was evidently a clerical error: Andrews v. Uncle Joe Diamond Broker, 44 Wash. 668.

Where an oral notice of appeal is given and the appeal duly perfected by the filing of an appeal bond within five days, the giving of a subsequent written notice of appeal without filing a bond will not amount to an abandonment of the first appeal; and in any event, the first bond is sufficient for either notice, as a bond on appeal may be filed before the giving of written notice: Ayars v. O'Connor, 45 Wash. 132.

Parties by and to whom security to be given: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 136, §§ 195, 196; Seattle Trust Co. v. Pitner, 17 Wash. 365; White Crest Canning Co. v. Sims, 29 Wash. 389; Shannon v. Consolidated Tiger & P. Min. Co., 24 Wash. 119; State v. Fisher, 4 Wash. 382; Hopkins v. Satsop R. Co., 18 Wash. 679; Stans v. Baitey, 9 Wash. 115.

An appeal bond by defendants is sufficient without naming as obligee a codefendant dismissed from the action and not joined in the appeal: Woelflen v. Lewiston-Clarkston Co., 49 Wash. 405.

As to the amount or penalty of bond or undertaking, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 137, 138, § 202; Anderson v. Provident Life & T. Co., 26 Wash. 192; Pierce v. Willeby, 20 Wash. 129; *Sumner v. As to the conditions of bond, form, contents, and execution, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 138, 139, §§ 202-204; Anderson v. Bigelow, 16 Wash. 198; King v. Branscheid, 32 Wash. 634; *Dossett v. § 1722. (6506.) Bond—Execution, Conditions and Effect of.

The appeal bond must be executed in behalf of the appellant by one or more sufficient sureties, and shall be in a penalty of not less than two hundred dollars in any case; and in order to effect a stay of proceedings as in this section provided, the bond, where the appeal is from a final judgment for the recovery of money, shall be in a penalty double the amount of the damages and costs recovered in such judgment and in other cases shall be in such penalty, not less than two hundred dollars, and sufficient to save the respondent harmless from damages by reason of the appeal, as a judge of the superior court shall prescribe. It shall be conditioned that the appellant will pay all costs and damages that may be awarded against him on the appeal, or on the dismissal thereof, not exceeding two hundred dollars. An appeal shall not stay proceedings on the judgment or order appealed from or on any part thereof, unless the original or a subsequent appeal bond be further conditioned that the appellant will satisfy and perform the judgment or order appealed from in case it shall be affirmed, and any judgment or order which the supreme court may render or make, or order to be rendered or made by the superior court, and (where such condition is applicable) shall pay all rents of or damages to property accruing during the pendency of the appeal, out of the possession of which any respondent shall be kept by reason of the appeal. If the bond is intended to stay proceedings on only a part of the judgment or order it shall be varied so as to secure the part stayed alone. When such bond, further conditioned as hereinabove prescribed, has been filed the appeal shall operate so long as it shall remain effectual under the provisions of this title to stay proceedings upon the judgment or order appealed from; but in case of an appeal from an order other than an order granting a new trial, no appeal or appeal bond shall operate to stay proceedings in the cause except proceedings upon the order appealed from; and no appeal or stay shall vacate or affect any part of a judgment or order not appealed from and where an appeal is taken from an order vacating a temporary injunction, the appellant cannot proceed further in the cause in the superior court during the pendency of the appeal, except so far as may be rendered necessary by proceedings of an adverse party. [L. '93, p. 122, § 7.]

As to supersedeas or stay of proceedings, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 148-155, §§ 232-244.

An appeal will be dismissed where the bond does not, in form and substance, conform to the requisites of the statute: Erickson v. Erickson, 11 Wash. 76; and the supreme court has no authority to allow the amendment of an appeal bond which is defective in a substantial particular: Investment Trust v. Hender, 12 Wash. 559.

Where an appeal has been dismissed for failure to file bond within the time prescribed by statute, the appellate court is authorized to render judgment against the appellants, but not against the sureties on their appeal bond: Grunewald v. Grocery Co., 11 Wash. 478.

The statute requiring a supersedeas bond in double the amount of the judgment applies to all appellants, irrespective of the question of liability under the judgment: State v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 365.

It is only in cases where the appellant desires a stay of proceedings, or where the appeal is not from a final judgment for the recovery of money, that an order of the court fixing the amount of the bond is required: Watch Co. v. Rumpf, 12 Wash. 647.

In an action to foreclose a mortgage or mechanic's lien the amount of the supersedeas bond pending appeal is fixed by the statute providing that where the action is for the recovery of money the bond shall be double the amount of the judgment recovered, and the lower court has no power to fix the amount: State v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 365; State v. Superior Court, 11 Wash. 366.

Upon an appeal from an order appointing a receiver, a stay of proceedings may be had, as in other cases, by complying with the provisions of the statute: State v. Superior Court, 12 Wash. 677.

As to right to supersedeas or stay, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 148, § 232; State ex rel. German American Safe Dep. etc. Bank v. Superior Court, 12 Wash. 677; State ex rel. Denham v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 590; State ex rel. Marlin v. Poin-dexter, 43 Wash. 147; State v. Seaton, 27 Wash. 120; Northwestern etc. Bank v. Griffiths, 17 Wash. 98.

As to the necessity, number and competency of the sureties, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 136, §§ 197, 198; White Crest Canning Co. v. Sims, 29 Wash. 389; Smith

v. Beard, 21 Wash. 204; David v. Gulch, 30 Wash. 266; Roberts v. Shelton S. W. R. Co., 21 Wash. 427; Dodge v. Corliss, 27 Wash. 685; De Roberts v. Stiles, 24 Wash. 611; Murray v. Moynahan, 27 Wash. 379.

A bond on appeal given on behalf of the appellant is sufficient if executed by the surety alone: Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Seattle, Renton & Southern R. Co., 50 Wash. 391.

No revenue stamp required on bond: See Dawson v. McCarty, 21 Wash. 314.

Subscription to the justification is sufficient execution of bond when: See Yakima Water, L. & P. Co. v. Hathaway, 18 Wash. 377.

The board of state land commissioners have no authority to pass upon a bond on appeal to the superior court nor upon the sufficiency of sureties, and an appeal will not be dismissed because the bond was rejected to them: Oliver v. Dupee, 16 Wash. 634.

As to amount or penalty of bond or undertaking in appeals from money judgments, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 150, 151, § 236; State ex rel. Washington Bridge Co. v. Superior Court, 11 Wash. 366; State ex rel. Commercial Nat. Bank v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 365; Beezley v. Sessions, 22 Wash. 125; Title Guarantee & Trust Co. v. Badger State Mine, 41 Wash. 266.

Where the bond on appeal conditioned also as a supersedeas bond is in less than double the amount of a money judgment and $200 additional, the same is ineffectual for any purpose and the appeal will be dismissed: Tibbitts v. Henry, 46 Wash. 306.

As to fixing the amount of the penalty in such cases, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 151, § 238; Rockford Watch Co. v. Rumpf, 12 Wash. 647; Kirby v. Collins, 5 Wash. 682; Ewing v. Van Wagenen, 6 Wash. 39; State ex rel. Baldwin v. Seavey, 7 Wash. 562; Guarantee & Trust Co. v. McDonnell, 28 Wash. 359; State ex rel. Sprague v. Superior Court, 32 Wash. 693; Lazier v. Cady, 43 Wash. 82.

In an appeal from an order in supplemental proceedings entered after judgment appointing a receiver, a supersedeas bond given for the purpose of staying payment on the judgment by the receiver is sufficient when given in the amount fixed by the court, although less than the amount of the judgment, no appeal having been taken therefrom: Johnson v. Joslyn, 45 Wash. 310.

An appeal from a judgment quieting title and for costs will be dismissed where the bond on appeal is conditioned also as a supersedeas bond, without the amount thereof having been fixed by order of the trial court: Tibbitts v. Henry, 46 Wash. 300.

An appeal from a judgment quieting title, in which the court, at appellant's request, fixed the amount of a supersedeas bond at $200, will be dismissed when the bond on appeal, conditioned also as a supersedeas bond, was in the sum of only $200; since it should have been $400: Washington Water Power Co. v. Abacus Assn., 49 Wash. 261.

Where, in an action of replevin, the appellant having erroneously assumed that it had possession of the property, the court on application fixed the amount of the supersedeas bond in the sum of $—, a bond given in the sum of $1,000 both as a cost and supersedeas bond is sufficient to give jurisdiction of the appeal, where the only judgment to be superseded was one for $43 in the registry of the court and for costs taxed: Gilbert Co. v. Husted, 50 Wash. 61.

Penalty of supersedeas bond on appeal from judgments affecting property or rights: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 151, § 237; State ex rel. Smith v. Sachs, 3 Wash. 96; State ex rel. Orth v. Benson, 21 Wash. 580; In re Drasdo's Estate, 35 Wash. 412; Macy v. Sullivan, 41 Wash. 564; Pierson v. Peirce, 37 Wash. 443 (overruled on rehearing), 42 Wash. 164; Title Guarantee & Trust Co. v. McDonnell, 28 Wash. 359.

That an appeal and supersedeas bond is not large enough to cover interest accruing is not ground for dismissal of the appeal: Woelflen v. Lewiston-Clarkston Co., 49 Wash. 405.

An appeal and supersedeas bond by defendants need not be large enough to cover the costs of a codefendant dismissed from the action and not joining in the appeal: Woelflen v. Lewiston-Clarkston Co., 49 Wash. 405.

Scope and effect as stay: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 151, § 239; State ex rel. Schloss v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 696; Anderson v. Tingley, 20 Wash. 592; State ex rel. Barnard v. Board of Education of Seattle, 19 Wash. 8; Fawcett v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 342.

Where the custody of minor children is awarded to their mother upon a hearing of habeas corpus proceedings, the filing of a supersedeas bond, upon appeal by adoptive parents does not entitle them to resume custody of the children; since the welfare of the children is the primary consideration, and the supreme court acquires jurisdiction over that subject by virtue of the appeal: State ex rel. Davenport v. Poindexter, 45 Wash. 37.

The giving of a bond to stay execution of a judgment does not operate to prevent an appeal from the judgment, and the stay bond only creates an obligation to pay the judgment at the end of the period fixed for the stay, which assumes a valid judgment existing at that time: Hampton v. Buchanan, 50 Wash. 39.

As affecting injunction: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 153, § 240; State ex rel. Miller v. Lichtenberg, 4 Wash. 407; Coleman v. Columbia & P. S. R. Co., 8 Wash. 227; State ex rel. Commercial El. Superior Court, 35 Wash. 200; State ex rel. Gibson v. Superior Court, 39 Wash. 115; State ex rel. Burrows v. Superior Court, 43 Wash. 225.

Effect of supersedeas on appointment of receiver and other proceedings: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 153, 154, §§ 241, 242; Anderson v. Tingley, 20 Wash. 592; State ex rel. Sachs, 3 Wash. 96; State ex rel. Orth v. Benson, 21 Wash. 580; State ex rel. Byers v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 403; State ex rel. Denham v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 590.

Proceedings in violation of supersedeas or stay—Compelling lower court's compliance and supersedeas by the supreme court: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 154, 155, §§ 243, 244; German-American Safe Dep. etc. Bank v. Superior Court, 12 Wash. 677; State ex rel. Quandt v. Superior Court, 30 Wash. 197; State ex rel. Washington Match Co. v. Superior Court, 34 Wash. 123; State ex rel. Norris Safe Co. v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 677; State ex rel. Cawley v. Bremerton, 32 Wash. 508.

After an appeal has been perfected from a prohibitory injunction, the supreme court has jurisdiction to issue an order of supersedeas, where the appeal is being prosecuted in good faith and the suspension of the judgment can be granted without depriving respondents of ultimate relief; and an injunction against the operation of a railroad by a common carrier in a street abutting on respondent's lots will be suspended upon the filing of a suitable bond conditioned upon the payment of any damages sustained by reason of the suspension: Lund v. Idaho etc. Northern R. R., 48 Wash. 453.

§ 1723. (6507.) Temporary Injunction to Remain in Force, When.

In all cases where a final judgment shall be rendered by any superior court of this state in a cause wherein a temporary injunction has been granted, and the party at whose instance such injunction was granted shall appeal from such judgment, such injunction shall remain in force during the pendency of such appeal, if, within five days after service on him of notice of the entry of the final judgment, such appellant shall file with the clerk of the superior court a bond, with one or more sufficient sureties, in a penalty to be fixed by said court, conditioned that the appellant shall pay to the respondent all costs and damages that may be adjudged against the appellant on the appeal, and all costs and damages that may accrue to the respondent by reason of the injunction remaining in force. [L. '93, p. 123, § 8.]

See notes to previous section.

A restraining order issued without notice to defendants, on the ground of a temporary emergency, cannot be kept in force by the plaintiff pending an appeal: Coleman v. Railway Co., 8 Wash. 227. See State ex rel. Quandt v. Superior Court, 30 Wash. 197.

§ 1724. (6508.) Injunction Where Appeal to United States Supreme Court.

In all cases where a final judgment shall be rendered by the supreme court of this state in a cause wherein a temporary or final injunction has been granted and the party at whose instance such injunction was granted shall appeal from such judgment to the supreme court of the United States, such injunction shall remain in force during the pendency of such appeal, if, within sixty days after the rendition of such judgment of the supreme court of this state, such appellant shall file with the clerk of the supreme court a bond, with one or more sufficient sureties, in a penalty to be fixed by said court, conditioned that the appellant shall pay to the respondent all costs and damages that may be adjudged against the appellant on appeal, and all costs and damages that may accrue to the respondent by reason of the injunction remaining in force. [L. '93, p. 124, § 9.]

§ 1725. (6509.) Justification of Sureties.

An appeal bond, whether conditioned so as to effect a stay of proceedings or not, shall be of no force unless accompanied by the affidavit of the surety or sureties therein attached thereto, in which each surety shall state that he is a resident of this state and is worth a certain sum mentioned in such affidavit, over and above all debts and liabilities, in property within this state, exclusive of property exempt from execution, and which sums so sworn to by the surety or sureties, shall be at least equal to the penalty named in the bond if there be but one surety, or shall amount in all to at least twice such penalty if there be more than one surety. [L. '93, p. 124, § 10.]

See infra, § 6240, bonds by surety companies.

See notes to § 1722.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 136, 137, §§ 199, 200.

Where the appeal bond is not accompanied by the affidavit of the sureties required by the statute, the appeal will be dismissed: Investment Trust v. Hender, 12 Wash. 559.

An appeal will not be dismissed for the reason that the affidavit of the surety in the appeal bond fails to state that such surety is worth the required amount over and above all debts and liabilities: Horton v. Donohue Co., 15 Wash. 399.

Under this section one surety is sufficient: Murray v. Moynahan, 27 Wash. 379.

Appeal will be dismissed where sureties on appeal fail to justify: McFadden v.

Mountain View Min. etc. Co., 27 Wash. 729 (mem.); Starling v. Burdette, 28 Wash. 261.

But not where the surety is a guaranty company: See De Roberts v. Stiles, 24 Wash. 611.

Sufficiency of affidavits: See Spokane & Idaho Lum. Co. v. Loy, 21 Wash. 501; McLean v. Roller, 33 Wash. 166; Murray v. Moynahan, 27 Wash. 379.

§ 1726. (6510.) Exception to Surety—Certificate—New Bond.

Any respondent may except to the sufficiency of the surety or sureties in an appeal bond, within ten days after the service on him of the notice of appeal or within five days after the service on him of the bond or written notice of the filing thereof, by serving on the appellant a notice stating that he so excepts, and specifying a place at the county seat, and a time, not less than three nor more than ten days distant, at which the surety or sureties are required to attend before the superior court in which the judgment or order appealed from was rendered or made, or before a judge thereof, and to justify their sufficiency as sureties. At the time and place named in such notice, or to which the proceedings may be thence adjourned by the court or judge, the surety or sureties must attend before the court or judge, and may be then and there examined in detail, under oath, as to their property and other qualifications as sureties, by any respondent or by the judge, or by both. If the judge upon such examination is satisfied that the surety or sureties are qualified as such, to the extent to which they are required by section 1723 of this title to make affidavit, then he shall make a certificate to that effect indorsed upon or attached to the bond, which shall thereupon stand as a sufficient appeal bond to the effect expressed in the condition thereof; but if he is not so satisfied, or if the sureties fail to attend and justify, then the judge shall in like manner certify to that effect, and thereupon the bond shall become void: Provided, that in such case the appellant may, within five days after the making of such certificate, file a new appeal bond, in conformity with the requirements of this title, and subject to the requirement of justification of the sureties therein, as hereinabove provided; but in case such new appeal bond be found insufficient, no new bond can thereafter be filed in lieu thereof. In case the original or new appeal bond be not conditioned so as to effect a stay of proceedings, however, an additional appeal bond may be filed at any time thereafter when the appellant desires to effect a stay as provided in this title, during the pendency of the appeal. The examination of the sureties taken upon their justification shall be reduced to writing and subscribed by the sureties, if either party so requires, and attached to the certificate made thereon. [L. '93, p. 125, § 11.]

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 139, 140, §§ 205-208.

Failure to object to the sufficiency of an appeal bond before the lower court will preclude the consideration of such objection upon appeal: Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537; Miller v. Vermurie, 7 Wash. 386; McEachern v. Brackett, 8 Wash.

652; Railway Co. v. Johnson, 7 Wash. 97; Cook v. Tibballs, 12 Wash. 207; Oliver v. Dupee, 16 Wash. 634; Jenkins v. Jenkins' University, 17 Wash. 160; Weiser v. Holzman, 33 Wash. 87. Also, failure to object to the form of the justification of the sureties: Frew v. Clark, 34 Wash. 561; or for failure to state the amount over and above debts and liabilities: Horton v. Donohoe-Kelly Banking Co., 15 Wash. 399; or in stating that the property was not subject to execution as the use of the word "not" was evidently a clerical error: Jones v. Herrick, 33 Wash. 197; or to state the residence of the surety and ownership of property in the state: Sligh v. Shelton S. W. R. Co., 20 Wash. 16.

An objection that a surety company is not qualified to become surety is waived if not raised below: Roberts v. Shelton S. W. R. Co., 21 Wash. 427.

An objection that the surety was not qualified must be first raised in the court below: Noble v. Whitten, 34 Wash. 507. See, also, First Nat. Bank v. Coles, 40 Wash. 528.

Where the sufficiency of sureties is objected to, the appellant may file a new bond within the time required by the statute, instead of presenting his sureties for examination: Spurlock v. Railway Co., 12 Wash. 34; Maney v. Hart, 11 Wash. 67.

The failure of a surety to appear and justify when the sufficiency of the bond has been attacked will not disqualify him as a surety upon a new bond given after the abandonment of the old one: State v. Superior Court, 12 Wash. 677.

Where the bond first filed has been found insufficient and a new bond filed in its stead, the latter can be attacked only in the manner provided by statute, and the court cannot of its own motion certify such bond as invalid: Id.

If an appeal is dismissed because the sureties upon the bond are found to be insufficient, no judgment can be rendered against them: Railway Co. v. Brailard, 12 Wash. 22.

The sufficiency of a bond is not triable in the supreme court upon affidavits: Jenkins v. Jenkins' University, 17 Wash. 160.

Testimony of sureties as to their qualifications need not be reduced to writing, when: See Hyatt v. Lewis, 20 Wash. 303.

Amendment of bond and defects incapable of amendment: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 140, §§ 207, 208; David v. Guich, 30 Wash. 266; Smith v. Beard, 21 Wash. 204; State ex rel. Brewer v. Chapman, 17 Wash. 109; Galloway v. Tjossem, 22 Wash. 103; Northern Counties Investment Trust v. Hender, 12 Wash. 559; McFadden v. Mountain View etc. Co., 27 Wash. 729; Pennsylvania Mtg. Inv. Co. v. Gilbert, 18 Wash. 667; Wallace v. Oceanic Packing Co., 25 Wash. 143; Starling v. Burdette, 28 Wash. 261.

§ 1727. (6511.) Execution Countermanded, When.

When an appeal bond is conditioned so as to effect a stay of proceedings if execution has issued the clerk shall on demand of the appellant, issue to the sheriff a certificate that proceedings have been stayed, which shall countermand the execution; and thereupon the sheriff shall release any property levied on and not already sold, and return the execution into court. [L. '93, p. 126, § 12.]

A pending appeal will not prevent action upon the judgment in the lower court in the absence of a supersedeas bond: Gilmore v. H. W. Baker Co., 14 Wash. 52.

A supersedeas bond is sufficient without the giving of an appeal bond: State v. Seavey, 7 Wash. 562. See, also, Title Guaranty & Trust Co. v. McDonnell, 28 Wash. 359.

§ 1728. (6512.) Application for New Bond.

If any respondent shall have cause to believe, after any appeal bond shall have been filed and the sureties therein have justified or the time for requiring their justification has expired, that the sureties have since become disqualified as such, so that the bond is no longer an adequate security, he may apply by motion to the supreme court to require a new or additional bond; and upon the hearing of such motion the court may receive evidence in support of and in opposition to the motion in such manner, and may make such order thereon, as it shall deem proper. [L. '93, p. 126, § 13.]

§ 1729. (6313.*) Record—What Constitutes—Duties of Clerk.

Within ninety days after an appeal shall have been taken by notice as provided in this title, the clerk of the superior court shall prepare, certify and file in his office, at the expense of the appellant (except in criminal appeals prosecuted in forma pauperis, and in such cases at the expense of the county), a transcript containing a copy of so much of the record and files as the appellant shall deem material to the review of the matters embraced within the appeal, said transcript to be so prepared, certified and filed, in the office of the clerk, at or before the time when the appellant shall serve and file his opening brief, as hereinafter provided. Within four months after said appeal shall have been taken by notice as aforesaid, the clerk of the superior court shall at the expense of appellant, send up to the supreme court said transcript together with the original briefs on appeal filed in his office. The papers and copies so sent up together with any thereafter sent up as hereinbelow provided, shall constitute the record on appeal. Any bill of exceptions or statement of facts on file when the record is so sent up shall be sent up as a part thereof, unless the superior court or a judge thereof has not yet passed on an application for the settlement and certifying of such bill or statement. In case any bill of exceptions or statement of facts shall be filed or certified, or any other addition to the records or files shall be made after the record on appeal shall have been sent up, a supplementary record on appeal embracing so much thereof as the appellant deems material, or a copy thereof may be prepared, certified and sent up at any time prior to the hearing of the appeal. And in case the respondent deems any part of the files or record not already sent up to be material to the review of the matters embraced within the appeal, he may cause the clerk, in like manner, at his expense, to prepare, certify and send up a supplementary record on appeal embracing such omitted files or records, or copies thereof, at any time prior to the hearing of the appeal. Any such supplementary record or records, if filed in the supreme court prior to the hearing of the appeal, shall be considered by the court as part of the record on appeal, so far as the same may be material to a review of the matters embraced within the appeal. When the review of an original paper in the cause may be important to a correct decision of the appeal, the court or judge may order the clerk to transmit the same to the clerk of the supreme court and the same shall be transmitted accordingly, and shall be under the control of the supreme court. Record in general: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 155-190, §§ 245-336.

The notes taken by a stenographer are not a part of the record in a cause, and an appellant cannot be compelled to furnish a copy of them: State v. Superior Court, 13 Wash. 514.

The minutes of the clerk of the superior court and affidavits will not be considered by the supreme court for the purpose of showing the alleged misconduct of the trial judge, but the facts must be accepted as certified by the judge in the statement of facts: State v. Wroth, 15 Wash. 621.

The failure of appellant to bring up more of the instructions than the paragraph complained of will not raise a presumption that the error was subsequently obviated by the court in its further instructions to the jury: Payne v. Railway Co., 15 Wash. 522.

The supreme court must take cognizance of matters brought before it by a supplemental record, which supplies the deficiencies of the original record: Curry v. Catlin, 12 Wash. 322.

The transcript on appeal cannot be corrected in the appellate court by affidavits or other extrinsic evidence: Ward v. Insurance Co., 12 Wash. 631.

The fact that the appellant has failed to except to the findings and conclusions of the trial court does not furnish grounds for striking the statement of facts from the files: Hannegan v. Roth, 12 Wash. 65.

Leave to file a supplemental transcript for the purpose of disclosing a want of jurisdiction will not be given, where the supreme court has already taken action upon the original record: Watson v. Sawyer, 12 Wash. 35.

A statement will not be stricken because additional matter was incorporated therein after service, where the additional matter is such as the clerk was required to make part of the record, or which has no effect upon, or application to, the rights of the respondent: Building Co. v. Jones, 9 Wash. 434.

FURTHER MATTERS TO BE SHOWN BY RECORD, IN GENERAL: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 155, 156, §§ 245-249; Hall v. Union Life Ins. Co., 23 Wash. 610; Hall v. Woolery, 20 Wash. 440; Smith v. Dow, 43 Wash. 407; Smith v. Michigan Lum. Co., 43 Wash. 402.

Upon the failure of a party to answer interrogatories filed, where the interrogatories go to all the issues in the case, and where the refusal to answer may be taken as an admission of the facts at issue, the entry of a judgment thereunder will not be disturbed on appeal when the interrogatories are not brought up, but the presumption will arise that the interrogatories extend to all the issues and that the refusal to answer is an admission of the facts sought to be determined: Capps v. Frederick, 44 Wash. 38.

SCOPE AND CONTENTS OF RECORD IN GENERAL: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 157-159, §§ 250-261; Chase Nat. Bank of New York v. Hastings, 20 Wash. 433; Huggins v. Sutherland, 39 Wash. 552; Yakima Water L. & P. Co. v. Hathaway, 18 Wash. 377; Townsend Gas & Elec. Light Co. v. Hill, 24 Wash. 469; Buckley v. Conley, 16 Wash. 338.

The supreme court cannot take cognizance of an oral stipulation sought to be shown by an affidavit which is controverted by the other party: Costello v. Drainage District, 44 Wash. 344.

An instruction requested in writing and filed with the clerk is properly made part of the record on appeal without being included in the bill of exceptions or statement of facts: Tergeson v. Robinson Manufacturing Co., 48 Wash. 294.

The order calling for the issuance of a special jury venire, and records showing the issuance of a venire and selection of a jury from the jurors summoned, are properly part of the record to be certified by the clerk as part of the transcript on appeal without any bill of exceptions or statement of facts: Oregon R. & Nav. Co. v. McCormick, 46 Wash. 45.

Immaterial documents need not be included: See, Seattle Trust Co. v. Pitner, 17 Wash. 365; Seavey v. Seattle, 17 Wash. 361.

Papers referred to in the record: See Roberts v. Shelton S. W. R. Co., 21 Wash. 427; Tacoma v. Tacoma Light & Water Co., 16 Wash. 288.

Transmission and filing of transcript on appeal: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 184-187, §§ 325-330.

FAILURE TO FILE TRANSCRIPT.—A motion to dismiss an appeal because the transcript and brief were not filed within the time required by law will not be granted when the facts shown establish a sufficient excuse for the delay: Benn v. Chehalis County, 10 Wash. 294; State v. Willson, 7 Wash. 502; but the failure of an appellant for four months after taking an appeal to have the transcript and statement of facts filed in the supreme court will work a dismissal of the appeal: Cochrane v. Gunderson, 11 Wash. 141; Baker v. Iron Works Co., 11 Wash. 535.

Under this section the appellant has four months after the appeal is taken within which to file the transcript in the supreme court: Griffith v. Maxwell, 20 Wash. 403.

An appeal will be dismissed where the only excuse for failing to file the transcript within the time required by law is the certificate of the clerk "that owing to the press of other business in my office I have been unable to sooner make up this transcript": Chehalis County v. Pearson, 10 Wash. 216.

A motion to dismiss an appeal for failing to send up the record and to diligently prosecute the appeal will not be entertained, when the motion is not made until after the appellant has furnished the record: Gustin v. Jose, 10 Wash. 217.

In order to procure a dismissal of an appeal for a failure to file the transcript within the time required by law, the respondent must move therefor on a short record, giving ten days' notice of the motion to the appellant: Cochrane v. Gunderson, 10 Wash. 326.

For further cases on failure to file in time, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 185, 186, §§ 326-329; Ellis v. Bardin, 36 Wash. 122; Humes v. Hillman, 39 Wash. 107; Richardson v. Spangle, 22 Wash. 14; Dean v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 38 Wash. 565.

An appeal will not be dismissed for failure to file the transcript with the clerk of the superior court, before serving the briefs, in violation of Laws of 1901, page 29, section 2, when the transcript is filed before the motion is made: Raymond v. Bales, 26 Wash. 493; Prescott v. Puget Sound Bridge & D. Co., 30 Wash. 158; Johnson v. San Juan Fish etc. Co., 30 Wash. 162. See, also, Chaplin v. Port Angeles, 31 Wash. 535; McNamara v. Crystal Min. Co., 23 Wash. 26; McAvoy v. Jennings, 39 Wash. 109.

An appeal should not be dismissed for failure to file the transcript within the time fixed by statute, where the inconvenience to respondent was not serious, but the motion will be denied upon payment of $25 costs: Driscoll v. Dufur, 45 Wash. 494.

As to supplemental record to cure defects, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 187, § 330; Ranahan v. Gibbons, 23 Wash. 255; Washington Liquor Co. v. Alladio Cafe Co., 28 Wash. 176; Johnston v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524; Spring Hill Irr. Co. v. Lake Irr. Co., 42 Wash. 379; State ex rel. Krutz v. Washington Irr. Co., 39 Wash. 11; Ogden v. Chehalis County, 41 Wash. 45; Ames v. Kinnear, 40 Wash. 646; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318.

When, by a supplemental record, the clerk of the lower court certifies to a new copy of the judgment appealed from, showing a personal judgment against only one of the defendants, and that there was an inadvertent mistake in certifying the first copy on appeal, which showed personal judgment against both defendants, there is in fact but one judgment as indicated by the corrected transcript; but if, as claimed, there are two inconsistent judgments, the erroneous one should be vacated without costs to appellants, the point not having been urged below: Hopkins v. Crane, 50 Wash. 636.

As to the conclusiveness of the record on appeal, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 189, 190, § 336; Fox v. Territory, 2 W. T. 297; State v. Hinchey, 5 Wash. 326; Ward v. Springfield Fire & M. Ins. Co., 12 Wash. 631; State v. Wroth, 15 Wash. 621; Puckett v. Moody, 17 Wash. 609; Seattle etc. R. Co. v. Simpson, 19 Wash. 628; Washington Liquor Co. v. Alladio Cafe Co., 28 Wash. 176; Winsor v. McLachlan, 12 Wash. 154; Main Inv. Co. v. Olsen, 43 Wash. 480.

§ 1730. (6514.*) Time for Filing and Serving Briefs.

Within ninety days after an appeal shall have been taken by notice as provided in this title, the appellant shall serve on the respondent three copies and shall file with the clerk of the superior court fifteen copies, together with proof or written admission of service, as aforesaid, of a printed brief on the appeal upon his part, which brief shall clearly point out each error that the appellant relies on for a reversal, and shall conform to such regulations of its contents in other respects, and its form and size, as the supreme court by its rules may have prescribed. Within thirty days after the service of the appellant's brief, the respondent shall likewise serve and file with the clerk of the superior court, with like proof of service, the like numbers of copies of a printed brief on the appeal upon his part which shall likewise conform to the rules of the supreme court. Not less than ten days prior to the hearing the appellant may also serve and file either with the clerk of the superior court or in the supreme court like printed brief or briefs, strictly in reply to respondent's brief. The time for service and filing of briefs, as in this section prescribed, may be extended by order of the superior court for good cause shown, or by stipulation of the parties concerned; and if the time for filing any statement of facts shall be extended by order or stipulation, the time herein prescribed for serving and filing the appellant's opening brief shall thereby be correspondingly extended. Either party may after the filing of his briefs and not less than one day prior to the hearing of the appeal submit to the supreme court and to the adverse party a written or printed statement of any additional authorities, with suitable comment thereon strictly in support of the position taken in his brief hereinabove required to be filed. But the appellant shall not be permitted to urge in any such reply brief or statement of additional authorities, or on the hearing, any grounds for reversal not clearly pointed out in his original brief. [L. '93, p. 127, § 15; L. '01, p. 30, § 3.]

Twenty-five copies of all printed briefs to be filed: Rule VIII, subd. 6, 51 Wash. xxxvi. See supra, § 13, power of supreme court to make rules.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 190-194, §§ 337-347.

Where the appellant files a typewritten brief it will, upon motion, be stricken from the record and the judgment affirmed: State v. Oleson, 9 Wash. 186.

Where no substantial rights have been prejudiced by the delay in filing briefs, they will not be ordered stricken because not filed within the prescribed time: In re Hill's Heirs, 7 Wash. 421.

Failure to file the brief within the time prescribed without any excuse therefor is ground for the dismissal of the appeal, or affirmance of the judgment: Lewis v. Host, 2 W. T. 402; Fountain v. Leckie, 3 W. T. 407; Higgins v. Burns, 2 Wash. 372; Chelalis Flume & Aqueduct Co. v. Reinhart, 3 Wash. 428; Cady v. Case, 10 Wash. 140; *Blair v. An oral stipulation made out of court between the parties to an appeal, extending the time for filing the briefs, will not be recognized by the supreme court as binding: Livesley v. Pier, 9 Wash. 658.

As to extending time for filing briefs, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 191, § 340; Carlson Bros. & Co. v. Van De Vanter, 19 Wash. 32; National Christian Assn. v. Simpson, 21 Wash. 16; Chapin v. Port Angeles, 31 Wash. 535; Livesley v. Pier, 9 Wash. 658.

Form and requisites of briefs in general: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 192, § 341; Sheehan v. Levy, 1 Wash. 149; Puget Sound Iron Co. v. Worthington, 2 W. T. 472; State ex rel. Tremblay v. Rothschild, 2 Wash. 6; Donohoe-Kelly Banking Co. v. Puget Sound Sav. Bank, 13 Wash. 407.

DEFECTIVE BRIEF.—The fact that appellant's brief does not designate all the defendants as respondents is not a ground for dismissing the appeal, if the notice of appeal was properly entitled and was served upon all the parties appearing in the action: Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537.

Where many of the points argued in appellant's brief purport to be based upon parts of the record, without indicating the pages thereof, the court will not hear the appeal until after an amendment of the brief upon terms imposed: State v. Carter, 8 Wash. 272; Froelich v. Morse, 15 Wash. 636.

Where the insufficiency of the complaint to sustain the judgment has not been questioned in the appellant's brief, the point will not be considered: State v. Rohde, 8 Wash. 362.

As to printing and size of briefs, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 192, § 342; Carroll v. Anderson, 2 W. T. 366; State v. Oleson, 9 Wash. 186; Bernier v. Bernier, 17 Wash. 689; Von Schrader v. Welcher, 19 Wash. 349; State v. Lewis, 35 Wash. 261; Rule VIII, 51 Wash. xxxv.

As to references in the brief to the record: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 192, § 343; Washington Mill Co. v. Sprague Lumber Co., 19 Wash. 165; Hyatt v. Lewis, 20 Wash. 303; Sligh v. Shelton S. W. R. Co., 20 Wash. 16; Anderson v. White, 18 Wash. 658; State v. Brown, 37 Wash. 97; Kellogg v. Scheuerman, 18 Wash. 293; Jones v. Herrick, 33 Wash. 197; Dunsmuir v. Port Angeles Gas etc. Co., 24 Wash. 104; Murphy v. Currie, 21 Wash. 232; Drumheller v. American Surety Co., 30 Wash. 530; Graton & Knight Mfg. Co. v. Redelsheimer, 28 Wash. 370.

As to printing findings of lower court in the brief, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 193, § 344; Fares v. Gleason, 14 Wash. 657; Seattle, In re, 26 Wash. 602; Lewis v. McDougall, 19 Wash. 388; Interstate Savings & L. Assn. v. Benson, 28 Wash. 578; Young v. Borzone, 26 Wash. 4; Timm v. Timm, 34 Wash. 228; Thompson v. Benson, 41 Wash. 70; Corbett v. A motion to strike a brief because appellant failed to print the findings or exceptions thereto will be denied where the answer brief made no mention of the fact and the point was not raised until the hearing: Bybee v. Bybee, 45 Wash. 187.

As to improper language in the briefs, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 194, § 345; Littlejohn v. Miller, 5 Wash. 399; Plummer v. Weil, 15 Wash. 427; Sawdey v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 27 Wash. 536; Coates v. Seattle Elec. Co., 37 Wash. 8.

Respondent's brief containing ten pages of abusive criticism of attorneys who testified in favor of the appellant, the same having no connection with the case, will be struck out on motion, with leave to file a proper brief: Stern v. Daniel, 45 Wash. 611.

Defective reply briefs: See Stickler v. Giles, 9 Wash. 147; Vestal v. Morris, 11 Wash. 451; Sawyer v. Vermont Loan etc. Co., 41 Wash. 524.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERRORS: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 194-198, §§ 348-352. Where an appellant fails to clearly point out the errors relied on for a reversal in his brief, the brief will be stricken and the judgment affirmed: Haugh v. Tacoma, 12 Wash. 386; Colton Co. v. Duff, 11 Wash. 35; Perkins v. Mitchell, 15 Wash. 470; State v. Zettler, 15 Wash. 625.

An appellant will not be permitted to urge grounds of reversal in his reply brief not assigned or discussed in his opening brief: Peek v. Stanfield, 12 Wash. 101; Vestal v. Morris, 11 Wash. 451.

Errors not pointed out and relied upon in the original brief of a party to an appeal cannot be availed of for the first time on a petition for a rehearing: State v. Moss, 13 Wash. 42.

General objections to the statement of facts will not be considered, when no specific error has been called to the court's attention, either in the brief or by reference to the transcript: Payne v. Railway Co., 15 Wash. 522.

Although the errors relied on are not specifically assigned, an appeal will not be dismissed where reference is made in the appellant's brief to objections in the record which were passed upon by the court when making the order appealed from: Chandler v. Shingle Co., 13 Wash. 89.

An assignment of error that the court erred in overruling a demurrer to an answer is sufficiently definite, especially when the court in so ruling does not disclose its reasons therefor: Phelps v. Tacoma, 15 Wash. 367.

Form and requisites in general: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 195, § 349; Watson v. Gray's Harbor Brick Co., 3 Wash. 283; McReavy v. Eshelman, 4 Wash. 757; Crowley v. McDonough, 30 Wash. 57; Chandler v. Cushing-Young Shingle Co., 13 Wash. 89; Ranahan v. Gibbons, 23 Wash. 255; Wilson v. Aberdeen, 25 Wash. 614; State v. Milby, 26 Wash. 661; Goetzinger v. Reed, 29 Wash. 383; Johnston v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524; Brown v. Calloway, 34 Wash. 175; Hawkins v. Casey, 38 Wash. 625; Rule VIII, 51 Wash., p. xxxv.

A brief on appeal sufficiently assigns as error that the verdict was excessive where that was one of the grounds of a motion for a new trial, and the brief assigned as error the overruling of such motion, although the excessiveness of the verdict was not argued in the brief: Williams v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 44 Wash. 363.

Argument in a brief against the correctness of admitting testimony or errors tending to excite the jury to passion and prejudice, and to bring in a large verdict, sufficiently points out error assigned as to the excessiveness of the verdict: Id.

Error in refusing a new trial on the ground of misconduct of a party is sufficiently assigned where that was one of the grounds of the motion, the brief assigns error on overruling the motion, and a subdivision of the argument is devoted to the subject of such misconduct: Spencer v. Arlington, 49 Wash. 121.

For insufficient assignments of error, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 196, § 350; Seattle v. Pearson, 15 Wash. 575; Haugh v. Ta- coma, 12 Wash. 386; Doran v. Brown, 16 Wash. 703; Perkins v. Mitchell, Lewis & Staver Co., 15 Wash. 470; Crane Co. v. Pacific Heat & Power Co., 36 Wash. 95; Stein v. Waddell, 37 Wash. 634.

An assignment of error that the court failed to charge the jury on the law of the case is too general to raise any question on appeal: Duteau v. Seattle Electric Co., 45 Wash. 418.

A general assignment of error as to the admission of evidence is insufficient, where no reference is made to any particular evidence and no argument made thereon: State v. Johnson, 47 Wash. 227.

Necessity of specifying errors: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 196, § 351; McAlmond v. Adams, 1 W. T. 230; Blumenthal v. Pacific Meat Co., 12 Wash. 331; Phelps v. Tacoma, 15 Wash. 367; Interstate Savings & Loan Assn. v. Benson, 28 Wash. 578; Peck v. Stansfield, 12 Wash. 101; Stickler v. Giles, 9 Wash. 147; State ex rel. Abernethy v. Moss, 13 Wash. 42; State v. Harding, 20 Wash. 556; State v. Zettler, 15 Wash. 625; Shumway v. Orchard, 12 Wash. 104; Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 244; Payne v. Spokane St. R. Co., 15 Wash. 522; Wilson v. Aberdeen, 25 Wash. 614; Carter v. Seattle, 21 Wash. 585; State v. Ilomaki, 40 Wash. 629.

Errors not assigned in the brief will not be considered: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 197, § 352; Brown v. Hazard, 2 W. T. 464; Kellogg v. Sessions, 4 Wash. 814; State v. Devine, 6 Wash. 587; Sligh v. Shelton S. W. R. Co., 20 Wash. 16; Blanton v. State, 1 Wash. 265; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Hess, 2 Wash. 383; Francioli v. Brue, 4 Wash. 124; Colton Mercantile Co. v. Duff, 11 Wash. 35; State ex rel. Bud-dress v. Rohde, 8 Wash. 362; Ogle v. Jones, 16 Wash. 319; Lacey v. North Olym-pia Land Co., 4 Wash. 261; Dearborn Foundry Co. v. Augustine, 5 Wash. 67; State v. Owens, 15 Wash. 468; Sweeney v. Pacific Coast Elevator Co., 14 Wash. 562; Sengfelder v. Hill, 21 Wash. 371; Branscheid v. Branscheid, 27 Wash. 368; Harris v. Halverson, 23 Wash. 779; Murphy v. Currie, 21 Wash. 232; McKenzie v. Royal Dairy, 35 Wash. 390.

§ 1731. (6515.) Jurisdiction, Effect of Appeal upon.

Upon the taking of an appeal by notice as provided in this title, and the filing of a bond to render the appeal effectual, the supreme court shall acquire jurisdiction of the appeal for all necessary purposes, and shall have control of the superior court and of all inferior officers in all matters pertaining thereto, and may enforce such control by a mandate or otherwise, and, if necessary, by fine and imprisonment, which imprisonment may be continued until obedience shall be rendered to the mandate of the supreme court. But the superior court shall, nevertheless, retain jurisdiction for the purpose of all proceedings by this act provided to be had in such court, and for the purpose of settlement and certifying the bills of exceptions and statements of facts, and for all purposes in so far as the cause is not affected by the appeal. [L. '93, p. 128, § 16.]

Cited in 12 Wash. 565; 29 Wash. 621; 26 Wash. 124; 29 Wash. 621.

Where an appeal has been perfected, the superior court no longer has jurisdiction for the purpose of any action except such as is especially provided for in the appeal act: State ex rel. Mullin v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 376.

Effect of transfer of cause or proceedings therefor: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 148 §§ 224-228; Gilmore v. Baker Co., 14 Wash. 52; State ex rel. Roberts v. Superior Court, 32 Wash. 143; Canada Settlers L. & T. Co. v. Murray, 20 Wash. 656; Aetna Ins. Co. v. Thompson, 34 Wash. 610; Brundage v. Home Savings & Loan Assn., 11 Wash. 288; State ex rel. Sanglin v. Superior Court, 30 Wash. 232.

Jurisdiction of the supreme court: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 148, 149, §§ 229-231; De Mers v. Sandy Spit Fish Co., 24 Wash. 582; Irving v. Irving, 26 Wash. 122; State v. Tugwell, 19 Wash. 228; Hinchman v. Point Defiance R. Co., 17 Wash. 399.

MODIFICATION OF JUDGMENT.—Neither the trial court nor the supreme court has power to modify a judgment after the time therefor has expired: Wolferman v. Bell, 8 Wash. 140.

After an appeal has been taken, the appellant's right to a reversal will not be affected by an offer of the respondent to consent to a modification of the judgment for the purpose of correcting error therein: Leake v. Hayes, 13 Wash. 213.

A judgment in the supreme court for costs against defendants who have not been served nor appeared in the action is absolutely void, and may be properly attacked by a proceeding in that court to have the judgment modified: Bell v. Waudby, 7 Wash. 203.

The judgment of the supreme court upon appeal in an equity case cannot be modified by the superior court after the cause has been remanded: State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 234.

A stipulation pending appeal, providing for a distribution of a portion of the fund in a controversy, will not deprive appellants of the benefit of their appeal, when the stipulation shows that it was not intended as an abandonment of their appeal: Seattle v. Liberman, 9 Wash. 276.

§ 1732. (6516.) Calendar, How Prepared.

All appeals in which the record shall have [been] filed in the supreme court at least ten days before the beginning of any stated session of the court, shall be placed on the calendar of the court for hearing at such session; and the subsequent filing of a supplementary record shall not affect the position of the appeal on the calendar. But the hearing of an appeal may at any time be postponed by the court or continued for the session, of its own motion or for good cause shown, and on such terms as may be just. [L. '93, p. 128, § 17.]

See Rules IX and X, 51 Wash. p. xxxvii et seq.

Cases on appeal will not be heard out of their regular order, except where grave public considerations justify such a course: Olympia v. Moore, 7 Wash. 236.

See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 201, § 362; Griffith v. Maxwell, 22 Wash. 624.

An appellant's brief must be on file or the cause cannot be put on the calendar: Lacey v. North Olympia Land Co., 4 Wash. 261.

§ 1733. (6517.) Motion to Dismiss.

Any respondent may move the supreme court, at such time and in such manner as the court by its rules may have prescribed, to dismiss an appeal either on the ground that the court has no jurisdiction of an appeal from the judgment or order from which the appeal was taken, or that the notice of appeal was not served or filed within the time limited by law, or is insufficient, or that the appeal bond was not filed within the time limited by law, or is not in form or substance such as to render the appeal effectual, or that the appellant's brief has not been served or filed, or that the record on appeal has not been sent up, or that the appeal has not been diligently prosecuted or on any ground going to the merits of the further prosecution of the appeal, or on any two or more of the grounds hereinabove mentioned; and there may be combined with a motion to dismiss a motion to affirm the judgment or order appealed from, or a motion for damages on the ground that the appeal was taken merely for delay, or was manifestly unauthorized by law, or both such motions. A general appearance in the supreme court shall not be a waiver of the right to make any motion herein authorized. [L. '93, p. 129, § 18.]

Motions how made and heard: Rule XVII, 51 Wash., p. xl.

Cited in 9 Wash. 657; 11 Wash. 78, 480; 27 Wash. 178; 29 Wash. 621.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 198-200, §§ 353-360.

A motion to dismiss an appeal, which is not set out in respondent's brief, will not be considered, when it involves no jurisdictional question: Luce v. Luce, 15 Wash. 608; but a motion addressed to the jurisdiction of the appellate court will be entertained at any time, although not incorporated in the brief of the moving party: First Nat. Bank v. Carter, 10 Wash. 11.

An appeal by the state from a judgment sustaining a demurrer will be dismissed, when the attorney general, who appears for the state, concedes that the demurrer was properly sustained: State v. Smith, 7 Wash. 194.

An appeal from a judgment refusing an injunction to prevent a county treasurer from paying a warrant is not subject to dismissal because of the act of the treasurer in making payment subsequent to the appeal: Hartson v. Dale, 9 Wash. 379.

The dismissal of an appeal on motion will not oust the supreme court of jurisdiction to enter judgment against the appellant and his sureties in the appeal bond: Allen v. Catlin, 9 Wash. 603.

Laws of 1893, page 372, § 106, providing for the deposit of sufficient money to pay the judgment and costs upon appeal from a judgment for the sale of lands for taxes, does not apply where the assessment was absolutely void: In re Lockwood's Application, 11 Wash. 704.

Failure to observe rules of court: See, also, State v. Pearson, 37 Wash. 405.

Voluntary dismissals: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 188, 199, § 355; Post v. Spokane, 28 Wash. 71; Taake v. Seattle, 16 Wash. 90; Seattle, In re, 40 Wash. 450.

Time and mode of making motion for dismissal: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 199, § 356; Luce v. Luce, 15 Wash. 608; First Nat. Bank of Aberdeen v. Carter, 10 Wash. 11; Rogers v. Trumbull, 31 Wash. 656; Lamona's Estate, In re, 29 Wash. 394; First Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Gordon Hardware Co., 30 Wash. 127; Healy v. Seward, 5 Wash. 319; State v. Blanck, 10 Wash. 292; Ellis v. Moon, 40 Wash. 114; Kubillus v. Ewert, 40 Wash. 38.

Where a motion to dismiss an appeal was filed before briefs were served, calling attention thereto in the briefs, in a conspicuous place, is sufficient notice that the motion will be urged at the hearing, without setting the same out in the brief: Kelso v. American Investment & Improvement Co., 48 Wash. 5.

Motion for dismissal in absence of record: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 199, 200, § 357; O'Hare v. Wilson, 3 W. T. 251; Hesford v. Doud, 3 Wash. 430; Tinkham v. Timble, 2 Wash. 683; Chehalis Flume & Aqueduct Co. v. Reinhart, 3 Wash. 428; Haas v. Gaddis, 1 Wash. 89; Cochrane v. Gunderson, 10 Wash. 326.

§ 1734. (6518.*) Hearing and Disposition of Motion.

If the supreme court on the hearing of any such motion or motions shall find the grounds or any thereof alleged, for the same, to be well taken and true in effect, the court may grant the same in whole or in part, but when any such motion does not go to the substance of the appeal, or to the right of appeal, and the court shall be of the opinion that the moving party can be compensated in costs, or by the imposition of other terms for any delay of the appellant which is made the ground of any such motion (except a failure to take the appeal within the time limited by law) the court, in its discretion, may deny the motion on such terms as may be just. The court shall upon like terms allow all amendments in matters of form, curative of defects in proceedings to the end that substantial justice be secured to the parties, and no appeal shall be dismissed for any informality or defect in the notice of appeal, the appeal bond, or the service of either thereof, or for any defect of parties to the appeal if the appellant shall forthwith, upon order of the supreme court, perfect the appeal. [L. '93, p. 129, § 19; L. '99, p. 79, § 1.]

Cited in 12 Wash. 565; 20 Wash. 691; 26 Wash. 224; 27 Wash. 178.

Practice on motion to dismiss: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 200, § 358; Skagit R. & Lum. Co. v. Cole, 1 Wash. 330; Spokane & Idaho Lumber Co. v. Loy, 21 Wash. 501; State v. Nordstrom, 21 Wash. 403; Jenkins v. Jenkins University, 17 Wash. 160; Rogers v. Trumbull, 31 Wash. 656.

An appeal will not be dismissed on the ground that the matters were determined in a former appeal where it is patent on the face of the motion that, if granted, the appellant could not enforce the orders made by the appellate court: Johnson v. Joslyn, 47 Wash. 531.

An appeal will not be dismissed because taken from a judgment against only one of two defendants, when the other defendant had not appeared in the action at the time of the appeal: Andrews v. Uncle Joe Diamond Broker, 44 Wash. 668.

An appeal will not be dismissed because of the filing of a notice of appeal before service thereof, or because of failure to file proof of service within five days, where the proof was substantially made and no delay or injury results: Reynolds v. Reynolds, 42 Wash. 107.

An appeal from a judgment dismissing an action for failure to file a bill of particulars will not be dismissed for the reason that no abuse of discretion appears; since that is a question to be determined on the merits of the appeal and not on motion to dismiss: Moore v. Scharnikow, 48 Wash. 564.

Where judgment is entered in a personal injury case upon a verdict in favor of plaintiff, against one defendant for damages, and in favor of a codefendant for costs, and appeal is taken by the unsuccessful defendant, failure to serve the notice of appeal upon the codefendant as required by section 1720 does not deprive the supreme court of jurisdiction or work a dismissal of the appeal; since section 1719 provides that service of the notice upon the prevailing party shall effect the appeal; and since such coparty has no right to appeal and no interest in the appeal taken, and the same does not go to the substance, or to the right to appeal, under this section: Sipes v. Puget Sound Electric R. Co., 50 Wash. 585; Wilson v. Puget Sound Electric R. Co., 50 Wash. 596.

Upon a motion to dismiss an appeal for failure of the appellant to serve notice upon a coparty in whose favor judgment had been given, an affidavit showing that the coparty was represented by the same attorneys as the appellant, that they prepared the notice of appeal and at all times had a copy in their possession as attorneys for the coparty, and had notice of the appeal, and the coparty had no intention to join therein, cures any defect, and shows sufficient service and proof thereof, under this section: Sipes v. Puget Sound Electric R. Co., 50 Wash. 585.

§ 1735. (6519.) Second Appeal.

No withdrawal of an appeal, and no dismissal which does not go to the substance of or the right to the appeal, shall preclude any party from taking another appeal in the same cause, within the time limited by law. [L. '93, p. 130, § 20.]

Cited in 9 Wash. 658; 28 Wash. 702; 40 Wash. 451, 580.

Although an appellant has the right to dismiss his appeal with a view to a second appeal, such dismissal will not be granted him without prejudice, but the supreme court will retain jurisdiction for the purpose of affirming the judgment in case the appellant fails to prosecute a second appeal within the time allowed by law: Agassiz v. Kelleher, 9 Wash. 656.

As to second appeals, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 80, § 8; Robert v. Tucker, 1 W.

Seavey, 7 Wash. 562; Watterson v. Masterson, 15 Wash. 511; Embree v. McLennan, 18 Wash. 651; Sligh v. Shelton S. W. R. Co., 20 Wash. 16; Reichenbach v. Lewis, 5 Wash. 577; Noble v. Whitten, 34 Wash. 507; Tatum v. Geist, 40 Wash. 575.

§ 1736. (6520.) What may be Reviewed.

Upon an appeal from a judgment, the supreme court may review any intermediate order or determination of the court below which involves the merits and materially affects the judgment, appearing upon the record sent up from the superior court. Any questions of fact or of law, decided upon trials by the court or by referees, in either legal or equitable causes, may be reviewed, when exceptions to the findings of fact or to the conclusions of law, or both, have been duly taken, by either party and sent up in the record on appeal; and in actions legal or equitable, tried by the court below without a jury, wherein a statement of facts or bill of exceptions shall have been certified, the evidence of facts shown by such bill of exceptions or statement of facts shall be examined by the supreme court de novo, so far as the findings of fact or a refusal to make findings based thereon shall have been excepted to, and the cause shall be determined by the record on appeal, including such exceptions or statement. [L. '93, p. 130, § 21.]

See supra, §§ 381-397, exceptions, and bills of exceptions.

Cited in 9 Wash. 300; 10 Wash. 154; 11 Wash. 395, 403, 553; 12 Wash. 68, 113, 188, 252; 13 Wash. 35; 22 Wash. 293; 24 Wash. 610; 28 Wash. 615; 29 Wash. 42; 33 Wash. 195, 655; 34 Wash. 94.

EXTENT OF REVIEW.—Matters not appearing in the record on appeal will not be considered by the supreme court: State v. McQuade, 12 Wash. 554; State v. Rohde, 8 Wash. 362.

Error prejudicial to a respondent will not be noticed in an appellate court when he has taken no appeal from the judgment of the trial court: Langert v. David, 14 Wash. 389; Glenn v. Hill, 11 Wash. 541.

Where an appeal has been taken from only a portion of a judgment, the appellant cannot challenge the sufficiency of the complaint: Le May v. Baxter, 11 Wash. 649; Doremus v. Root, 23 Wash. 710.

After reversal and a retrial, an objection to the sufficiency of the original complaint cannot be raised for the first time upon a second appeal: Dennis v. Kass, 13 Wash. 137.

The fact that an order is irregular or void for want of jurisdiction on the part of the court to make it will not prevent its reversal on appeal: Sheppard v. Guisler, 10 Wash. 41.

Failure of the court to make special findings cannot be urged on appeal, where no requests therefor appear in the record: Davis v. Ford, 15 Wash. 107.

An appellant may urge as error the fact that judgment was taken against his codefendant before the expiration of the time allowed by law for answer, although said defendant failed to appeal therefrom, when plaintiff's right to judgment against appellant is dependent upon his right to judgment against his codefendant: Murray v. Guse, 10 Wash. 25.

Where a case has been fairly and fully tried upon the evidence or the action of the lower court complained of is substantially correct, the appellate court will not consider erroneous rulings upon technical questions of practice of sufficient importance to warrant a reversal: Clein v. Wandschneider, 14 Wash. 257; Delamater v. Smith, 14 Wash. 261; Mason v. McGee, 15 Wash. 272.

Upon an appeal from an order incident to a receiver's suit, the appellate court is not authorized to inquire into the regularity of the proceedings leading up to the appointment of the receiver: Radebaugh v. Railway Co., 8 Wash. 570.

On an appeal from an order appointing a receiver, the appellate court is authorized to examine fully into the matter, and determine whether the discretion reposed in the lower court has been abused: Roberts v. Bank, 9 Wash. 12.

Review on appeals from specific orders: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 206, 207, § 380; Jones v. North Pacific Fish etc. Co., 42 Wash. 332; Roberts v. Washington Nat. Bank, 9 Wash. 12; Belding v. Washington Cornice Co., 36 Wash. 549; Peterson v. Dillon, 27 Wash. 78; State ex rel. Dutch Miller etc. Co. v. Superior Court, 30 Wash. 43; Norris v. Campbell, 27 Wash. 654; Hunter v. Wenatchee Land Co., 36 Wash. 541; Sturgiss v. Dart, 23 Wash. 244.

Abstract propositions of law will not be considered where there is nothing to show their bearing on the case: Yelm Jim v. Territory, 1 W. T. 63; Doran v. Brown, 16 Wash. 703.

Where validity of statute is in issue: See Henry v. Thurston County, 31 Wash. 638; Gies v. Broad, 41 Wash. 448.

The invalidity of a statute may be declared upon appeal, although not raised by either party to the appeal, where a question is raised that might disturb friendly relations with a sister state: State ex rel. Mackintosh v. Superior Court, 45 Wash. 248.

Where facts are not undisputed: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 202, § 366; Id., p. 221, §§ 408-421; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Miller, 20 Wash. 21; Phillips v. Port Townsend Lodge etc., 8 Wash. 529.

Trial in equitable actions: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 203, § 369; Kilroy v. Mitchell, 2 Wash. 407; Enos v. Wilcox, 3 Wash. 44; Cadwell v. First Nat. Bank, 3 Wash. 188; McKinnon v. Kingston Land & Imp. Co., 4 Wash. 535; Bartlett v. Reichenbecker, 6 Wash. 168; Roberts v. Washington Nat. Bank, 11 Wash. 550.

Theory and grounds of decision of lower court—Scope and theory of case: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 203, § 370; Walker v. McNeill, 17 Wash. 582; State ex rel. Holgate v. Billings, 31 Wash. 542; Standard Furniture Co. v. An- derson, 38 Wash. 582; Normile v. Thompson, 37 Wash. 465.

An action to quiet title, tried in the court below as if upon sufficient pleadings, must be tried upon the same theory on appeal: Sylvester v. State, 46 Wash. 585.

The appellant has a right to appeal on the judgment-roll and question the sufficiency of the complaint and findings to support the judgment: Ramsdell v. Ramsdell, 47 Wash. 444.

Where, in an action brought by a city to determine the damages to abutting property by a regrade, the defendant moved to dismiss the action for the reason that the city had failed to show any damage, the defendant cannot urge error in the direction of a verdict of no damages for the plaintiff because the jury viewed the premises and the question of damages should have been submitted to it: Seattle v. Buty, 50 Wash. 139.

Correct decision based upon erroneous grounds: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 204, § 371; Dillon v. Spokane County, 3 W. T. 498; Thompson v. Huron Lum. Co., 4 Wash. 600; *Tullis v. WHAT MAY BE REVIEWED, IN GENERAL: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 205, 208, §§ 375-383.

As to interlocutory orders—On appeal from final judgment: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 206, § 379; Thompson v. Sines, 18 Wash. 359; Bingham v. Keylor, 25 Wash. 156; *Windt v. 24 Wash. 636; Dane v. Daniel, 28 Wash. 155.

An order dissolving an attachment issued on the ground of a conveyance of property with intent to defraud creditors, heard upon affidavits filed by each party, will not be disturbed on appeal unless clearly erroneous: Hendelman v. Kahan, 48 Wash. 549.

As to review of previous similar orders or proceedings, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 207, § 381; Deming Inv. Co. v. Ely, 21 Wash. 102; Clein v. Wandschneider, 14 Wash. 257; State ex rel. Rucker v. Superior Court, 18 Wash. 227 (disapproving Burnham v. Spokane Mer. Co., 18 Wash. 207); Wilson v. Seattle Dry Dock etc. Co., 26 Wash. 297; Gibson v. Gibson, 18 Wash. 489; Cannon's Estate, In re, 18 Wash. 101.

Appeals from subsequent orders after bar as to prior orders: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 208, § 382; Nicol v. Skagit Boom Co., 12 Wash. 230; Sturgiss v. Dart, 23 Wash. 244; Wilson v. Seattle Dry Dock etc. Co., 26 Wash. 297; State v. Bringgold, 40 Wash. 12; Ellis v. Moon, 40 Wash. 114.

PARTIES ENTITLED TO ALLEGE ERROR.—Estoppel to allege error—Committed or invited by party complaining, or acquiesced in: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 208, 209, §§ 385, 386; Gilmore v. H. W. Baker Co., 12 Wash. 468; Reiner v. Crawford, 23 Wash. 669; North Yakima v. Seudder, 41 Wash. 15; State ex rel. Bickford v. Benson, 21 Wash. 365; Hodges v. Price, 38 Wash. 1; Dawson v. Dawson, 40 Wash. 656; Corbin v. McDermott, 33 Wash. 212; Bates v. Drake, 28 Wash. 447; State v. Shelton, 16 Wash. 590.

Where a defense of usury was waived at the trial, the supreme court cannot, upon appeal by plaintiff and a reversal, permit the defendants a new trial as to such defense: Mantle v. Dabney, 44 Wash. 193.

Appellant cannot complain of a judgment reducing an excessive verdict, entered at appellant's request, and accepted by respondent in lieu of a new trial: Hodge v. Hodge, 47 Wash. 196.

Error in refusing to grant a nonsuit is waived by proceeding with the trial: Adams v. Peterman Mfg. Co., 47 Wash. 484; Mooney v. Seattle, Renton & Southern R. Co., 47 Wash. 540.

Where defendant introduces evidence after denial of a motion for nonsuit, and makes motion for judgment on appeal, the supreme court will only consider the motion for judgment: Wees v. Page, 47 Wash. 213.

Appellant cannot raise the objection that there was no evidence to warrant a verdict upon an issue which was submitted to the jury by an instruction given at appellant's request: Meyers v. Syndicate Heat & Power Co., 47 Wash. 48.

Error in overruling a motion for a nonsuit is waived by proceeding with the trial and introducing evidence: Curtin v. Clear Lake Lumber Co., 47 Wash. 260.

The waiver of a nonsuit by proceeding with the trial, after exception taken, only allows the plaintiff the benefit of evidence thereafter introduced; and where the defects in plaintiff's case are not cured thereby, the nonsuit may, on proper assignment of error, be granted on appeal: Dimuria v. Seattle Transfer Co., 50 Wash. 633.

Error in overruling a demurrer to a complaint which failed to show jurisdictional facts as to venue is waived by answering over and trial on the merits, where the defendant was not misled and had full opportunity to present the merits of his case, and the jurisdictional facts were established, so far as the record discloses: Peterson v. Barry, 50 Wash. 361.

Where defendant submitted its case without evidence, solely upon a question of pleadings and the burden of proof, it is not in a position to allege prejudicial error in the previous denial of motion for a continuance asked for on the ground of the absence of a material witness: Port Blakely Mill Co. v. Hartford Fire Insurance Co., 50 Wash. 657.

Appellant cannot complain of error in sustaining an objection, where it forced respondent to make the objection and gained all it sought in the court below, since it thereby invited the ruling: Ranous v. Seattle Electric Co., 47 Wash. 544.

Appellants cannot allege error in findings which are substantially identical with the findings requested by them; and that being the only error urged, the appeal will be dismissed: Jensen v. Sheard, 49 Wash. 593.

Proceeding with the trial, after the overruling of a motion for nonsuit, does not preclude the defendants from insisting upon a motion for a directed verdict at the end of the case, upon which the sufficiency of the whole of the evidence comes up for review: Gardner v. Porter, 45 Wash. 158.

Estoppel by appellant's motions or proceedings: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 209, 210, § 387; Dixon v. Bausman, 17 Wash. 304; Mitchell v. Matheson, 23 Wash. 723; Mosher v. Bruhn, 15 Wash. 332; Hardin v. Mullen, 16 Wash. 647; Maggs v. Morgan, 30 Wash. 604; Dawson v. Dawson, 40 Wash. 656; Seal v. Cameron, 24 Wash. 62; O'Brien v. Allen, 42 Wash. 393, and notes to last section.

Error urged by respondent, and cross-appeals: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 210, § 388; Jenkins v. Jenkins University, 17 Wash. 160; Ablott v. Thorne, 34 Wash. 692; Isaacs v. Gloyd, 14 Wash. 5; Gray v. Washington Water Power Co., 27 Wash. 713; Id., 30 Wash. 154; Whiting v. Doughton, 31 Wash. 327; Watson v. Sawyer, 12 Wash.

PRESUMPTIONS IN GENERAL: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 212-215, §§ 390-399; Byers v. Rothschild, 11 Wash. 296; Wilson v. Aberdeen, 25 Wash. 614; Gay v. Havermale, 27 Wash. 390; Seattle v. Whitworth, 18 Wash. 126; State ex rel. Sander v. Jones, 20 Wash. 576.

Where the evidence is not brought up, it will be presumed on appeal that the court did not refuse to admit evidence on the issues made: Shaw v. O'Neill, 45 Wash. 98.

Burden of showing error: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 212, § 391; Spokane & Vancouver Gold & C. Co. v. Colfelt, 24 Wash. 568; Carpenter v. Barry, 26 Wash. 255; Collett v. Northern Pacific R. Co., 23 Wash. 600; Gray v. Washington Water Power Co., 30 Wash. 665; Gay v. Havermale, 27 Wash. 390.

The burden is upon appellants to show that errors alleged operated to their prejudice: Collins v. Huffman, 48 Wash. 184.

Presumptions as to pleadings: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 213, § 394; Bishop v. Averill, 17 Wash. 209; Hall v. Woolery, 20 Wash. 440. The sufficiency of the complaint cannot be first raised on appeal where, supplemented by evidence admitted, a cause of action is disclosed: Budlong v. Budlong, 48 Wash. 645. Where there is a demurrer upon two grounds, and an order sustaining the demurrer upon one ground, it will be presumed that it was overruled as to the other ground stated: Sequim Bay Canning Co. v. Bugge, 49 Wash. 127.

Presumptions as to admissibility of evidence: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 213, § 395; Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 547; Francioli v. Brue, 4 Wash. 124; Wilson v. Aberdeen, 25 Wash. 614.

Presumptions as to instructions: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 214, § 396; Bay View Brewing Co. v. Tecklenberg, 19 Wash. 469; Griffith v. Ridpath, 38 Wash. 540.

Presumptions as to judgments and orders: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 214, § 398; Byers v. Rothschild, 11 Wash. 296; Noerdlinger v. Huff, 31 Wash. 360.

Presumptions as to taking and perfecting appeal or other proceeding for review: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 215, § 299; Elma v. Carney, 4 Wash. 418; Thompson v. Sines, 18 Wash. 359; Ranahan v. Gibbons, 23 Wash. 255; State ex rel. Roberts v. Superior Court, 32 Wash. 143.

JUDICIAL NOTICE OF RECORDS.—The supreme court will take judicial notice of its own records and of what issues were presented for determination by the record in a given cause: Stallenp v. Tacoma, 13 Wash. 141. See Sweeney v. Waterhouse & Co., 43 Wash. 613.

EVIDENCE, SUFFICIENCY OF.—Where there was sufficient competent evidence before the jury to support the verdict, it will not be disturbed upon appeal: Moore v. Palmer, 14 Wash. 134; Bucklin v. Miller, 12 Wash. 152; Robertson v. Woolley, 12 Wash. 326; Aultman v. Mills, 9 Wash. 68; Moore v. Brownfield, 7 Wash. 23; Burden v. Cropp, 7 Wash. 198.

The verdict of a jury will not be set aside upon appeal where there is any substantial conflict in the testimony: Miller v. Bean, 13 Wash. 516; Mitchell v. Railway Co., 13 Wash. 560; Klepsch v. Donald, 8 Wash. 162; State v. Manville, 8 Wash. 523.

Where there is a substantial conflict over the facts upon which a temporary injunction has been granted, the supreme court will not, on an appeal from such order, disturb the action of the lower court: West Coast Co. v. Winsor, 8 Wash. 490.

Where the testimony is presented in the shape of depositions the supreme court is warranted in setting aside the verdict of the jury when satisfied it is against the evidence: Graetz v. McKenzie, 9 Wash. 696.

When the insufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict is not specified as a ground for a new trial before the trial court, the objection cannot be urged on appeal: Grocery Co. v. Barlow, 12 Wash. 21; Tingley v. Land Co., 9 Wash. 34.

Where the amount of damages found by the jury has been revised by the trial court, the appellate court will not interfere with the verdict so revised, in the absence of something in the record authorizing such interference: Washington v. Railway Co., 13 Wash. 9.

If the jury finds a verdict for the principal and interest of a promissory note, it will not be disturbed on the ground that the note had been materially altered after execution, if the evidence on that point is conflicting, and the court's instructions are not in the record. In such a case the appellate court will presume that the trial court gave proper instructions and that the jury found the note had not been altered: Hardy v. Hohl, 11 Wash. 1.

QUESTIONS OF FACT, VERDICTS, AND FINDINGS: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 221-229, §§ 408-421; East Spring Street, In re, 41 Wash. 366; Doyle v. Great Northern R. Co., 43 Wash. 558; *State ex rel. Credibility of witnesses: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 222, § 410; Brasen v. Seattle etc. R. Co., 4 Wash. 754; Bucklin v. Miller, 12 Wash. 152; Miller v. Bean, 13 Wash. 516; Hindle v. Holcomb, 34 Wash. 336; State v. Mann, 39 Wash. 144.

A verdict approved by the trial judge will not be disturbed on appeal because against the testimony of a witness not directly contradicted, since his credibility was for the jury: Johnson v. Great Northern R. Co., 48 Wash. 325.

Probative force of evidence: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 222, § 411; McNichol v. Collins, 30 Wash. 318; Furth v. Snell, 6 Wash. 542; Tacoma v. Tacoma Light & Water Co., 17 Wash. 458; Aultman, Miller & Co. v. Mills, 9 Wash. 68; Bausman v. Cameron, 26 Wash. 352.

The lower court is justified in taking a case from the jury where the clear weight is on one side, although there is conflicting evidence: Guley v. N. W. Coal etc. Co., 7 Wash. 491; Tacoma v. Tacoma Light & W. Co., 16 Wash. 288. Contra (overruling last two cases): Tacoma v. Tacoma L. & W. Co., 17 Wash. 458; Pronger v. Old Nat. Bank, 20 Wash. 618; *Brown v. Seattle City R. The verdict of a jury is not binding on questions of fact, where it is not consistent with the special findings and such findings are not consistent with themselves: Boucher v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 50 Wash. 627.

Where a verdict is clearly excessive and out of all reason, and the result of passion or prejudice, and the right of recovery is doubtful, the verdict should not be merely reduced and allowed to stand in any of its findings, but a new trial should be ordered: Olson v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 49 Wash. 626.

Verdicts when not set aside: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 223, 224, § 413; Ramage v. Littlejohn, 17 Wash. 386; Brown v. Seattle City R. Co., 16 Wash. 465; *Du Clos v. ACTIONS WITHOUT JURY—REVIEW OF EVIDENCE.—The judgment or the findings of the lower court in an action tried without a jury will not be disturbed on an appeal where the evidence is conflicting: Doonan v. Morrison, 12 Wash. 45; Riddell v. Prichard, 12 Wash. 601; Plaster Co. v. Johnson, 10 Wash. 445; Fisher v. Quigley, 8 Wash. 327; Dougan v. Abbott, 7 Wash. 370.

The supreme court will not hesitate to substitute its judgment for that of the lower court upon questions of fact in a case tried by the lower court on testimony reported by a referee: Seattle v. Parker, 13 Wash. 450.

In all cases tried by the lower court without a jury, the appellate court will examine the evidence de novo, and may set aside the findings and conclusions of the trial court, even though the evidence be conflicting: Allen v. Swerdiger, 14 Wash. 461; Furth v. Baxter, 24 Wash. 608. See Wolferman v. Bell, 6 Wash. 84.

Dalles etc. Nav. Co., 27 Wash. 490; Ingram v. Golden Tunnel Min. Co., 25 Wash. 318; Rohrer v. Snyder, 29 Wash. 199.

Errors not affecting trial de novo in supreme court: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 239, 240, § 452; Rohrer v. Snyder, 29 Wash. 199; Davies v. Cheadle, 31 Wash. 168; Funk v. Baldwin, 46 Wash. 106.

OBJECTIONS NOT RAISED BELOW.—Objection which should properly be urged before the lower court in the first instance, if not so made, will not be considered by the appellate court: Cook v. Tibbals, 12 Wash. 207; Slater v. Bank, 12 Wash. 448; Grocery Co. v. Barlow, 12 Wash. 21; Bozzio v. Vaglio, 10 Wash. 270; Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537; State v. Regan, 8 Wash. 506; McEachern v. Brackett, 8 Wash. 652; Railway Co. v. Johnson, 7 Wash. 97; Main v. Johnson, 7 Wash. 321; Earles v. Bigelow, 7 Wash. 581.

Review as to matters not before or investigated in the lower court: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 205, §§ 375, 376; Hinchman v. Point Defiance R. Co., 17 Wash. 399; Smith v. Lamping, 27 Wash. 624; Gray v. Washington Water Power Co., 27 Wash. 713.

An appeal from an order refusing to strike an amended complaint and dismiss the action does not bring up the question whether the action is barred by the statute of limitations, or the sufficiency of the pleading: Albin v. Seattle Electric Co., 46 Wash. 420.

Objections to the introduction of evidence will not be considered on appeal, unless the proper grounds of objection were called to the attention of the trial court: Bolster v. Stocks, 13 Wash. 460; Price v. Scott, 13 Wash. 574; Kohne v. White, 12 Wash. 199; Trust Co. v. Gallaher, 12 Wash. 507; Gustin v. Jose, 11 Wash. 348.

The alleged unconstitutionality of an act will not be considered on appeal when not raised in the court below or in the briefs in the supreme court: Boom Co. v. Smith, 15 Wash. 138.

A defect of parties plaintiff is not ground for reversal where there is nothing in the record to show that the objection was raised on the trial: Jenkins v. Land Co., 13 Wash. 502.

The appellate court will not pass upon the effect of admitting incompetent evidence on cross-examination where the record does not contain the direct evidence upon which the cross-examination was based: Maitland v. Zanga, 14 Wash. 92.

Objection to a statement of facts because it was served before the original was filed should first be made to the trial court: State v. Moss, 13 Wash. 42.

An objection that no findings of fact were made by the trial court cannot be urged on appeal unless there was a request for a general finding, or an objection raised for want of one when presented in the lower court: Remington v. Price, 13 Wash. 76; Plaster Co. v. Johnson, 10 Wash. 445.

On appeal, the appellant must confine himself to objections urged on the trial, nor will he be permitted, after having excepted specially to a ruling of the lower court, to urge a different ground for the objection before the appellate court: Sweeney v. Elevator Co., 14 Wash. 562.

Where there was no objection made to the introduction of testimony, and no motion for a nonsuit for a failure of proof, or any request for an instruction to the jury to find for the appellant for such failure, an objection to the form of the action can, at most, only raise the question as to whether the evidence was sufficient to sustain the verdict: Id.

EXCEPTIONS TO FINDINGS, ETC.—A general exception to all the findings of the lower court is sufficient on appeal to obtain a review of the evidence, or to raise any question as to the correctness of any particular findings: Ballard v. Keane, 13 Wash. 201; Hannegan v. Roth, 12 Wash. 65; Irwin v. Water Co., 12 Wash. 112; Moyer v. Van de Vanter, 12 Wash. 377; Cook v. Tibbals, 12 Wash. 207; Fremont Co. v. Denny, 12 Wash. 251; Schoonover v. Condon, 12 Wash. 475; Blackwell v. McLean, 9 Wash. 301.

In an equitable action, when the findings of fact of the trial court have been duly excepted to, the appellate court must review the evidence: Cleveland v. Glover, 13 Wash. 131; Roberts v. Bank, 11 Wash. 550.

An appeal will not be dismissed because the findings of fact of the trial court and the exceptions thereto are not printed in appellant's brief, where the decree appealed from is attacked on the ground that it is not supported by the evidence: Fares v. Gleason, 14 Wash. 657.

A finding of fact by the trial court, even in an equitable proceeding, will not be set aside upon appeal, unless there is a preponderance of evidence against it: Scott v. Bourn, 13 Wash. 471; Harnay v. Peterson, 9 Wash. 152; Roy v. Scott, 11 Wash. 399.

Where a bill of exceptions does not make a record of what actually happened upon the trial, but of what occurred on the hearing of the motion for a new trial, it is not entitled to consideration by the appellate court: Waite v. Stroud, 9 Wash. 333.

Errors arising upon a ruling of the court in regard to the right of argument cannot be urged upon appeal after waiver at the trial: State v. Ackles, 8 Wash. 462.

HARMLESS ERRORS: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 229-246, §§ 422-471. Errors committed by the trial court which are harmless will not be considered on appeal: Lewis v. McReavy, 7 Wash. 294.

The admission of incompetent evidence before a jury whose verdict is advisory only, or in an action tried without a jury, is a harmless error, where there is sufficient competent evidence to warrant the findings of the lower court: Peck v. Stanfield, 12 Wash. 101; Benson v. Hart, 10 Wash. 301; Merchants' Bank v. Peet, 9 Wash. 237.

The exclusion of impeaching testimony is not prejudicial error, where the facts to which the witness has testified are testified to by a number of other witnesses: State v. Holmes, 12 Wash. 169.

Error cannot be predicated upon an improper question asked upon cross-examination, to which objection is not made until after answer to it, and the answer as given is one alleging ignorance upon the subject matter of the question: Harker v. Woolery, 10 Wash. 484.

Taking the plaintiff's testimony, because of inability to attend court, at his residence, in the presence of the judge, jury and counsel, while an irregularity, is not prejudicial error: Sutton v. Snohomish, 11 Wash. 24.

Where it appears from the record and from the verdict of the jury that they were not misled by erroneous instructions of the court, the error is harmless and will not warrant a reversal: Gustin v. Jose, 11 Wash. 348.

Although an instruction to the jury may have been wrongfully given, it is binding and conclusive on the jury: Pepperall v. Transit Co., 15 Wash. 176.

The refusal of the court to strike out improper remarks of counsel at the time of their utterance is harmless error, where the court later instructs the jury to disregard them: State v. Reagan, 8 Wash. 506.

Although the refusal of the court to compel plaintiff, on motion, to elect between two causes of action pleaded in his complaint may be error, it is not prejudicial if an election be made by plaintiff at the opening of the trial: Van Hook v. Burns, 10 Wash. 22.

Presumption as to effect of error: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 229, § 422; Lillie v. Shaw, 22 Wash. 234; State v. Hawkins, 23 Wash. 289; Galbraith v. Carmode, 43 Wash. 456; Spokane & Idaho Lum. Co. v. Stanley, 25 Wash. 653.

Wand-schneider*, 14 Wash. 257; Budlong v. Bud-long, 43 Wash. 359.

It is not prejudicial error to allow a physician to testify that in his opinion, a femoral hernia resulted from a fall, when the other evidence was amply sufficient to warrant the jury in finding that the same resulted from such fall: Hodd v. Tacoma, 45 Wash. 436. It is harmless error to admit in evidence parts of the record in another case showing that the accused had been tried for another offense, where that fact had already been established by other evidence admitted without objection: State v. Frye, 45 Wash. 645. It is harmless error to receive evidence tending to show notice by a city of the defective condition of a sidewalk after counsel had admitted that the city had notice: Matthews v. Spokane, 50 Wash. 107. See, also, Schwede v. Hemrich, 29 Wash. 124; Seattle v. Griffith Realty etc. Co., 28 Wash. 605; Morrison v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 34 Wash. 70; *Hankle v. It is not error to exclude the answer to a question that has already been answered: State v. Gilluly, 50 Wash. 1. The rejection of an immaterial exhibit is harmless error where it in no way corroborated the witness and practically the same evidence, offered by the adverse party, was excluded on objection by the appellant: Wees v. Page, 47 Wash. 213. It is not prejudicial error to refuse to allow an owner of a town lot to testify to its market value, where the testimony as to his knowledge and qualifications was extremely contradictory, and seven or eight other witnesses better qualified testified in his behalf: Port Townsend Southern R. Co. v. Nolan, 48 Wash. 382. It is not prejudicial error to exclude evidence of a witness as to a warning of danger given to deceased, where subsequently another witness testified fully to the transaction and the same was not disputed but became an admitted fact in the case: Gau- thier v. Wood & Iverson, 49 Wash. 8. In an action to recover money lost in gambling, it is harmless error to exclude evidence that the defendants operated a large number of gambling games in the room in question, or that the defendant had pleaded guilty in a criminal prosecution, where the jury found for the plaintiffs and the appeal only involved the amount of the recovery, the appellants claiming that the same was too small: Crowley v. Taylor, 49 Wash. 511.

Error in excluding evidence of a witness to contradict evidence of the adverse party that she was present at a certain transaction, is not cured by testimony of the witness theretofore admitted enumerating the persons who were present without any mention of the party claimed to be present: O'Connor v. Slatter, 48 Wash. 493.

Facts otherwise established: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 243, § 458; Ramage v. Littlejohn, 17 Wash. 386; Charlton v. Markland, 36 Wash. 40; Knapp v. Order of Pendo, 36 Wash. 601; Lilly v. Washington Portland Cement Co., 49 Wash. 345.

Error cured by subsequent admission: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 243, § 459; McKenzie v. Oregon Imp. Co., 5 Wash. 409; Quandt v. Smith, 28 Wash. 664; Russell v. Gay, 33 Wash. 83; *Jordan v. & Earles v. Hine, 39 Wash. 498; Reynolds v. Great N. R. Co., 40 Wash. 163; Townsend Gas & Electric Light Co. v. Hill, 24 Wash. 469.

Entry of judgment prior to the expiration of the time for moving for a new trial is not ground for reversal, where the motion for new trial made preserved appellant's rights and the judgment entered was right: Gosline v. Dryfoos, 45 Wash. 396.

Error waived in supreme court: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 246, § 471; Tacoma v. Dougan, 4 Wash. 796; McInnes v. Sutton, 35 Wash. 384.

DISCRETION OF COURT: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 215-220, §§ 400-407. Where a motion for default for failure to plead within the time ordered by the court has been denied, it must be presumed on appeal that sufficient was shown to justify the exercise of the court's discretion in that regard: Plummer v. Weil, 15 Wash. 427.

A motion for a new trial is addressed to the sound discretion of the trial court, and unless it appear that there was an abuse of discretion, the action of the court in granting or denying the motion will not be disturbed on appeal: Rotting v. Cleman, 12 Wash. 615; Rigney v. Water Co., 9 Wash. 245; State v. Owens, 15 Wash. 468; Trumbull v. Jackman, 9 Wash. 524; Kohler v. Railway Co., 8 Wash. 452; Rinehart v. Watson, 11 Wash. 526; Bailey v. Tacoma Traction Co., 16 Wash. 48; Walker v. McNeill, 17 Wash. 582; Hart Lum. Co. v. Rucker, 20 Wash. 383.

Where a new trial may have been granted on one of several grounds, the order will not be reversed if within the discretion of the court upon any grounds: Prosch v. Seattle, 46 Wash. 553.

An order granting a new trial, which does not show upon which one of several grounds it was based, will not be reversed on appeal in the absence of a showing of abuse of discretion: Hartley v. Ferguson, 46 Wash. 33.

An order granting a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence will not be disturbed on appeal except for abuse of discretion: Cook v. Skinner, 46 Wash. 246.

Matters entirely within discretion of court: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 215, 216, § 400; Greely v. Newcomb, 21 Wash. 357; Knapp v. Order of Pendo, 36 Wash. 601; Fleming v. McLeod v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 366; Farnham's Estate, In re, 41 Wash. 570.

The submission of special interrogatories to the jury rests entirely with the trial court, and its refusal is not subject to review: Matthews v. Spokane, 50 Wash. 107.

The refusal of the court to disqualify a witness from testifying for disobedience to an order excluding witnesses from the courtroom will not be reviewed except for an abuse of discretion: Hendelman v. Kahan, 50 Wash. 247.

Matters reviewed only upon an abuse of discretion: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 216-218, § 401; State v. Lattin, 19 Wash. 57; State v. Farris, 26 Wash. 205; State v. Royse, 24 Wash. 440; State v. Stentz, 30 Wash. 134; Ogle v. Jones, 16 Wash. 319; West Seattle Land & Imp. Co. v. Herrin, 16 Wash. 665; McDonough v. Great Northern R. Co., 15 Wash. 244; Seattle v. Baxter, 20 Wash. 714; Price Baking Powder Co. v. Rinear, 17 Wash. 95; Van Lehn v. Morse, 16 Wash. 672; Chandler v. Cushing-Young Shingle Co., 13 Wash. 89; Ridpath v. Sans Poil etc. Co., 26 Wash. 427; Cameron v. Groveland Imp. Co., 20 Wash. 169; State v. Klein, 19 Wash. 368; State v. Nelson, 13 Wash. 523; Harris v. Halverson, 23 Wash. 779; State v. Mason, 24 Wash. 94; Wilson v. Seattle Dry Dock etc. Co., 26 Wash. 297.

What amounts to an abuse of discretion: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 218, § 402; Barnett v. Ashmore, 5 Wash. 163; Gould v. Gleason, 10 Wash. 476; Van Lehn v. Morse, 16 Wash. 672; Hull v. Vining, 17 Wash. 352.

What is not an abuse of discretion: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 218, § 403; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670; McClellan v. Gaston, 18 Wash. 472; Ross v. Howard, 25 Wash. 1; Wilson v. Seattle Dry Dock etc. Co., 26 Wash. 297; Swanson v. Hoyle, 32 Wash. 169; Hart Lumber Co. v. Rucker, 20 Wash. 383; Hull v. Vining, 17 Wash. 352; Dearborn Foundry Co. v. Augustine, 5 Wash. 67.

The denial of a motion for default, when there was an answer on file before the ruling was made, will not be reviewed on appeal in the absence of a clear showing of abuse of discretion: Bardon v. Hughes, 45 Wash. 627.

Where the parties stipulated that the court should fix the amount of attorney's fees on the foreclosure of a mechanics' lien, without the introduction of any evidence, the action of the court cannot be reviewed on appeal except for abuse of powers; and no such abuse appears from the allowance of $150 in a sharply contested action involving $340: Housekeeper v. Livingstone, 48 Wash. 209.

The granting of a new trial on the ground of insufficiency of the evidence will be reviewed only for abuse of discretion, and abuse of discretion will not be found where the evidence was contradictory on all contested issues: Angus v. Wamba, 50 Wash. 353.

New trial or rehearing: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 219, § 406; State v. Buhmann, 16 Wash. 700; State v. Symes, 17 Wash. 596; McBroom & Wilson Co. v. Gandy, 18 Wash. 79; Holgate v. Carlson, 48 Wash. 651; Farrell Co. v. Ihrig, 50 Wash. 281.

Where the court erroneously grants a new trial solely upon questions of law without passing upon the question of fact, the supreme court will review the decision independently of the action of the lower court, as that involves no question of discretion; Dunkle v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 20 Wash. 254; Gardner v. Lovegren, 27 Wash. 356; Gray v. Washington Water Power Co., 27 Wash. 713; La Bee v. Sultan Logging Co., 47 Wash. 57.

The record discloses that a new trial was granted on points of law which may be reviewed on appeal, when: See Gregg v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 49 Wash. 183.

Grant of new trial for surprise, accident, inadvertence, or mistake: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 220, § 407; State v. Webb, 20 Wash. 500; Allen v. Chambers, 18 Wash. 341; Friedman v. Manley, 21 Wash. 43; Pincus v. Puget Sound Brewing Co., 18 Wash. 108; Reeder v. Traders' Nat. Bank, 28 Wash. 139.

§ 1737. (6521.) Powers of Supreme Court.

Upon an appeal from a judgment or order, or from two or more orders with or without the judgment, the supreme court may affirm, reverse or modify any such judgment or order appealed from, as to any or all of the parties, and may direct the proper judgment or order to be entered, or direct a new trial or further proceedings to be had; and, if the appeal is from a part of a judgment or order, may affirm, reverse or modify as to the part appealed from. The decision of the court shall be given in writing, and no cause shall be deemed decided until the decision in writing is filed with the clerk. In giving its decision, if a new trial is granted, the court shall pass upon and determine all the questions of law involved in the cause presented upon such appeal and necessary to the final determination of the cause. [L. '93, p. 130, § 22.]

See Const., Art. IV, §§ 2, 4.

SUBSEQUENT APPEALS—FORMER DECISION AS LAW OF THE CASE: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 246, § 473; Smith v. Seattle, 20 Wash. 613; Dennis v. Kass & Co., 13 Wash. 137; *State v. The decision of the supreme court construing a statute, whether proper or not, is the law of the case in another action between the same parties, upon the same subject matter: Wilkes v. Davies, 8 Wash. 112.

All questions which were, or which, if presented, might have been determined upon appeal, will not be considered by the appellate court upon a second appeal of the same case: Dennis v. Kass, 13 Wash. 137.

Where a case has been reversed upon the ground of the insufficiency of the evidence to sustain the verdict, such decision stands as the law of the case upon a retrial in which the evidence is substantially the same as that upon which the case was first tried: Furth v. Snell, 13 Wash. 660.

Where a cause has been reversed upon appeal and sent back for retrial, the failure of the lower court to comply with the directions for retrial is error: Tacoma Assn. v. Clark, 8 Wash. 289; Soules v. McLean, 15 Wash. 22.

Where a case has been remanded for a new trial, the decision of the appellate court is not binding upon the trial court if the facts developed on the second trial are entirely different: Hughes v. Bravinder, 14 Wash. 304; Richardson v. Carbon Hill Coal Co., 18 Wash. 368; Ward v. Huggins, 16 Wash. 530.

Persons concluded by judgment: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 246, § 474; State ex rel. Holgate v. Superior Court, 19 Wash. 114; Gray v. Washington Water Power Co., 30 Wash. 154.

ACTION UPON REVERSAL.—The judgment of the supreme court affirming a decision on appeal is final, and injunction will not lie to restrain its enforcement until the case can be retried at the suit of the losing party: Cochrane v. Van de Vanter, 13 Wash. 323.

The appellate court may, upon the reversal of a judgment, grant leave to the respondent to amend its complaint in accordance with the facts proven: Greer v. Squire, 9 Wash. 359; Interstate Savings & Loan Assn. v. Knapp, 20 Wash. 225. Upon the reversal of a case and remand for a new trial, it is not error for the trial court to refuse to allow the answer to be amended, in a respect which would be inconsistent with the original answer and testimony of the defendants and the theory on which the case was first tried: Mantle v. Dabney, 47 Wash. 394. In an action on an insurance policy, where it appeared that the proofs of loss were not furnished in time and that defendant relied upon such fact for a defense, and no evidence of any waiver was offered, an application by plaintiffs to amend their complaint to show a waiver, made upon reversal of a judgment in their favor, comes too late: Davis v. Northwestern Mutual Fire Assn., 48 Wash. 50.

The appellate court is justified, upon reversing a case, in directing the lower court to enter judgment in a smaller sum, where it is satisfied that the evidence on a retrial would not differ from that given at the former hearing: Seattle v. Parker, 13 Wash. 450.

Powers and duties of lower court—Proceedings after remand: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 255, 256, § 493; In re Sullivan's Estate, 36 Wash. 217; Jenkins v. Jenkins University, 17 Wash. 160; State ex rel. Manhattan Trust Co. v. Superior Court, 17 Wash. 380; Herrick v. Niesz, 18 Wash. 132; Spring Hill Irr. Co. v. Lake Irr. Co., 42 Wash. 379; Kane v. Miller, 43 Wash. 354.

An objection that a complaint does not state a cause of action cannot be first raised by objection to any testimony at the second trial of the case, after a reversal by the supreme court of the first judgment, entered under the same complaint: Wheeler v. Aberdeen, 47 Wash. 405.

§ 1738. (6522.) Damages may be Awarded, When.

Upon the affirmance of any judgment or order for the payment of money, the collection of which, in whole or in part, has been stayed by an appeal bond, as in this title provided, the court may award to the respondent damages upon the amount superseded; and, if satisfied by the record that the appeal was taken for delay only, the court must so award such damages not exceeding fifteen per cent of the sum by such judgment or order recovered or directed to be paid, as will effectually tend to prevent the taking of appeals for delay only. § 1739. (6523.) Judgment Against Appellant and Sureties.

Upon the affirmance of a judgment or [on] appeal for the payment of money, the supreme court shall render judgment against both the appellant and his sureties in the appeal bond for the amount of the judgment appealed from (in case the bond was conditioned so as to support such judgment) and for the damages and costs awarded on the appeal; and in any other case of affirmance the supreme court shall likewise render judgment against both the appellant and his sureties in the appeal bond for the amount recoverable according to the condition of the bond, in case such amount can be ascertained by the court without an issue and trial. [L. '93, p. 131, § 24.]

It is within the jurisdiction of the supreme court to enter judgment against the principals and sureties on a stay bond when affirming judgment against the appellants: Hanna v. Savage, 8 Wash. 432.

Dismissal or affirmance on short record: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 499, § 499; Bash v. Eisenbeis, 16 Wash. 700; Grunewald

An appeal by a lien claimant from a judgment declaring the priority of and foreclosing a mortgage, with an application for an order fixing the amount of the bond to supersede the judgment "and the whole thereof," wherein the bond given showed on its face that it was given for that purpose and in terms stayed the whole judgment, is an appeal from the whole judgment and not merely from that part declaring the priority of the liens; and upon affirmance, the surety is liable for the full amount of the judgment: Rogers v. Minneapolis Threshing Machine Co., 48 Wash. 19.

§ 1740. (6524.) Rehearing, Limitation on—Remittitur.

If a petition for rehearing or an appeal be filed within thirty days after the filing of the decision of the supreme court, the remittitur upon the appeal shall not be sent down to the lower court till such petition shall have been acted upon by the supreme court. But at the expiration of thirty days after the filing of the decision of any cause on appeal in case no petition for rehearing shall be filed, or in case such a petition is filed and is denied by the court, then forthwith upon such denial the clerk of the supreme court shall send down to the superior court from which the appeal was taken a remittitur in the cause, which shall consist of the judgment of the supreme court, and a certified copy of the opinion of the court in case any judgment or order appealed from was reversed or modified thereby. [L. '93, p. 131, § 25.]

§ 1741. (6525.) Effect of Judgment—Execution Under.

If the supreme court affirm or modify any judgment or order appealed from, it may remand the cause to the court below with directions to carry the same into effect, or it may itself issue the necessary process for that purpose to the sheriff of the proper county, as it may deem advisable. If the cause is remanded to the court below to have such judgment or order carried into effect, the decision of the supreme court, and its order entered thereon, upon being certified to the court below and entered on its records, shall have the same force and effect therein as if made and entered by the court below during its session. Executions issued from the supreme court shall be similar to those from the superior court, and of like force and effect, and returnable in the same time. [L. '93, p. 131, § 26.]

See supra, § 10, finality of decisions.

See supra, § 14, effect of judgment.

Enforcement of judgment or order affirmed: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 256, § 495; State ex rel. Jefferson County v. Hatch, 36 Wash. 164.

After a cause has been remanded, the lower court may hear evidence and take such other proceedings as are necessary to carry into effect the decision of the supreme court: Spinning v. Drake, 7 Wash. 1.

Where a case is remanded on appeal with directions to enter judgment in a specified amount, and no modification is requested in the appellate court, the judgment becomes the law of the case; and where the trial court is about to add interest thereto, mandamus lies to compel entry of the judgment as directed: German-American State Bank v. Sullivan, 50 Wash. 42.

Money paid out by a receiver under order of court, after notice of appeal from the order, but before the appeal was perfected, is paid out at the peril of the receiver, who, upon reversal of the order, must look to the parties to whom it was paid: Johnson v. Joslyn, 47 Wash. 531.

§ 1742. (6526.) Effect of Reversal—Writ of Restitution.

If by a decision of the supreme court the appellant becomes entitled to a restoration of any part of the money or property that was taken from him by means of the judgment or order appealed from, either the supreme court or the court below may direct an execution or writ of restitution to issue for the purpose of restoring to the appellant his property, or the value thereof. But property acquired by a purchaser in good faith, under a judgment subsequently reversed, shall not be affected by such reversal. [L. '93, p. 132, § 27.]

Cited in 18 Wash. 437; 31 Wash. 503.

Upon the reversal of a judgment against a defendant, he is not entitled to judgment in the appellate court upon notes pleaded in his cross-complaint, when he has not urged his right thereto in the appellate court, and the evidence below on the subject was meager and unsatisfactory: Libbey v. Packwood, 11 Wash. 176.

Where a cause has been appealed and judgment rendered by the appellate court, no interference therewith will be tolerated on the part of the lower court by any proceeding in the cause other than such as is directed by the appellate court: State v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 591.

§ 1743. (6527.) Death of Party not to Affect Appeal.

The death of a party after the rendition of a final judgment in the superior court shall not affect any appeal taken, or the right to take an appeal; but the proper representatives in personalty or realty of the deceased party, according to the nature of the case, may voluntarily come in and be admitted parties to the cause, or may be made parties at the instance of another party, as may be proper, as in case of death of a party pending an action in the superior court, and thereupon the appeal may proceed or be taken as in other cases; and the time necessary to enable such representatives to be admitted or brought in as parties shall not be computed as part of the time in this act limited for taking an appeal, or for taking any step in the progress thereof. [L. '93, p. 132, § 28.]

Where judgment has been rendered prior to the death of a party defendant, the jurisdiction of the supreme court is not affected by the failure to present the claim upon which the action is founded to the administrator of such defendant's estate: Strong v. Eldridge, 8 Wash. 595.

§ 1744. (6528.) Costs of Appeal.

Costs shall be allowed in the supreme court, irrespective of any costs taxed in the case in the court below, to the prevailing party in the supreme court, on any appeal in any civil action or proceeding as follows: The fees of the clerk of the supreme court paid by the prevailing party, the fees of the clerk of the court below for preparing, certifying and sending up the records on appeal, or any supplementary record, paid by the prevailing party, and twenty-five dollars attorneys' fees, besides his necessary disbursements for the printing of briefs, and any sum actually paid or incurred by the prevailing party as stenographer's fees, not exceeding ten cents a folio, for making a transcript of the evidence or any part thereof included in the bill of exceptions or statement of facts; but when the judgment of the court below shall be affirmed in part and reversed in part, or affirmed as to some of the parties and reversed as to others, or modified, the costs shall be in the discretion of the court, and when the judgment is reversed and a new trial ordered, the court may in its discretion direct that costs of the prevailing party shall abide the result of the action. When in the opinion of the supreme court a brief of the prevailing party shall be unnecessarily long, or improper in substance, the court may in its discretion order the disallowance as costs of any part or the whole of the disbursements for printing the same. [L. '93, p. 132, § 29.]

Where an appeal is taken by the attorneys of a party to an action, contrary to his wishes and directions, such party is entitled to a voluntary dismissal without the imposition of costs: Grunewald v. Grocery Co., 11 Wash. 478.

§ 1745. (6529.) Effect of Appeal in Criminal Actions.

An appeal by a defendant in a criminal action shall stay the execution of the judgment of conviction. In case the defendant has been convicted of a felony, and has been unable to furnish the bail bond required by section 1747 pending the appeal, the time during which he remains in the jail of the county from which the appeal is taken shall be deducted from the term for which he was theretofore sentenced to the penitentiary, if judgment against him be affirmed. [L. '93, p. 133, § 30.]

See next section.

A defendant who has been transported to the penitentiary and delivered to the warden under a judgment of conviction is entitled, where he gives notice of appeal subsequent to his imprisonment in the penitentiary, to be returned to the jail of the county in which he was convicted, and there detained, or released on bail, if the offense be bailable, pending the determination of his appeal: Norris, In re, 26 Wash. 323.

§ 1746. Same—Date of Commencement of Sentence.

In the event no appeal be taken from the judgment of conviction of a felony, the term of sentence imposed upon such judgment shall commence to run from the date of the imposition thereof. In the event an appeal be taken from such judgment of conviction, and upon such appeal the judgment be affirmed, the term of sentence shall commence to run from the date upon which the remittitur shall be filed in the lower court. [L. '03, p. 39. § 1.]

This section was enacted with a repeal of all acts in conflict therewith. See last previous section.

§ 1747. (6530.) In What Cases Bail Authorized.

In all criminal actions, except capital cases in which the proof of guilt is clear or the presumption great, upon an appeal being taken from a judgment of conviction, the court in which the judgment was rendered, or a judge thereof, must, by an order entered in the journal or filed with the clerk, fix and determine the amount of bail to be required of the appellant; and the appellant shall be committed until a bond to the state of Washington in the sum so fixed be executed on his behalf by at least two sureties possessing the qualifications required for sureties on appeal bonds by section 1725 of this title, such bond to be conditioned that the appellant shall appear whenever required, and stand to and abide by the judgment or orders of the appellate court, and any judgment and order of the superior court that may be rendered or made in pursuance thereof. If the appellant be already at large on bail, his sureties shall be liable to the amount of their bond, in the same manner and upon the same conditions as if they had executed the bond prescribed by this section; but the court may by order require a new bond in a larger amount or with new sureties, and may commit the appellant until the order be complied with. § 1748. (6531.) Personal Appearance not Necessary.

Personal appearance of any party in the supreme court shall not be necessary on appeal in either civil or criminal actions. In criminal actions the defendant shall be entitled to close the argument. [L. '93, p. 134, § 32.]

§ 1749. (6532.) Proceedings in Case of Reversal in Criminal Cases.

When in a criminal action the judgment against the defendant is reversed and it appears that no offense whatever has been committed, the supreme court must direct that the defendant be discharged; but if it appear that the defendant is guilty of an offense, although defectively charged in the indictment or information, the supreme court, if the defendant is in prison, must direct the keeper of the place of confinement to cause the prisoner to be returned to the sheriff of the proper county, there to abide the order of the superior court thereof; and such keeper shall be entitled to the usual fees therefor. § 1750. (6533.) Imprisonment Pending Appeal to be Deducted.

If a defendant who has been in prison during the pendency of an appeal, upon a new trial ordered by the supreme court, shall be again convicted, the period of his former imprisonment shall be deducted by the superior court from the period of imprisonment to be fixed on the last verdict of conviction. [L. '93, p. 134, § 34.]

§ 1751. (6534.) Transcript of Judgment, Effect of.

A transcript of any order or judgment, or both, of the supreme court, certified under the seal of the court, shall be sufficient authority to any court, or to any officer on whom it may be served, to proceed according to its mandate. [L. '93, p. 134, § 35.]

§ 1752. (6535.) Appeals to be Heard on Merits.

The supreme court shall hear and determine all causes removed thereto in the manner hereinbefore provided, upon the merits thereof, disregarding all technicalities, and shall upon the hearing consider all amendments which could have been made as made. [L. '93, p. 134, § 36.]

The mode provided by this title for appealing cases to the supreme court, and for securing a revision of the same therein, shall be exclusive and shall supersede all other methods heretofore provided. But no rights acquired under statutes which are abrogated by this title shall be lost by reason of the passage of this title, and all appeals pending when this title takes effect may be prosecuted to their determination as if this title had not been passed. CHAPTER I.

COMMENCEMENT OF CIVIL ACTIONS IN JUSTICE'S COURT.

§ 1755. (6542.) Civil Actions, How Commenced.

Civil actions in the several justices' courts of this state may be instituted either by the voluntary appearance and agreement of the parties, by the service of a summons, or by the service upon the defendant of a true copy of the complaint and notice, which notice shall be attached to the copy of the complaint, and cite the defendant to be and appear before the justice at the time and place therein specified, which shall not be less than six nor more than twenty days from the date of filing the complaint. [Cf. L. '60, p. 245; L. '73, p. 35, § 19; Cd. '81, § 1712; 2 H. C., § 1452.]

See supra, §§ 44, 45, and notes, jurisdiction of justices of the peace.

See supra, § 47, territorial extent of jurisdiction.

A complaint coming into the possession of a justice of the peace by reason of his succession to the office cannot be presumed to be filed by him on any other date than the day of his succession, though marked filed by him as of a later date; and defendant must be cited to appear within twenty days from the date of filing: Nelson v. Campbell, 1 Wash. 261.

Where jurisdiction of the person of defendant had not been acquired by a justice of the peace, the fact that, after a special appearance by defendant to object to the jurisdiction, which was overruled, the defendant submitted to trial, will not constitute a waiver of the want of jurisdiction: Woodbury v. Henningsen, 11 Wash. 12.

§ 1756. Venue of Actions—Precinct of Defendant's Residence.

All civil actions commenced in a justice court against a defendant or defendants residing in a city or town of more than three thousand inhabitants shall be brought in the justice court of the precinct in said city or town in which one or more of such defendants reside. [L. '99, p. 53, § 1; L. '01, p. 105, § 1.]

§ 1757. Jurisdiction—Coextensive with Limits of County.

The jurisdiction of justices of the peace in all civil actions, except as provided in the preceding section, shall be coextensive with the limits of the county in which they are elected or appointed, and no other or greater, but every justice of the peace shall continue to reside and perform all the duties of his office in the precinct for which he was elected or appointed during his continuance in office. [L. '01, p. 105, § 2.]

See supra, § 47, territorial extent of jurisdiction.

§ 1758. (6543.) Action by Summons, How Commenced—Form, etc.

A party desiring to commence an action before a justice of the peace for the recovery of a debt by summons shall file his claim with the justice of the peace, verified by his own oath, or that of his agent or attorney; and thereupon the justice of the peace shall, on payment of his fees, if demanded, issue a summons to the opposite party, which summons shall be in the following form, or as nearly as the case will admit, viz.:—

The State of Washington, } ss.
 — County, }

To the Sheriff or any Constable of said County.

In the name of the state of Washington, you are hereby commanded to summon —, if he (or they) be found in your county, to be and appear before me at — on — day of —, at — o'clock, P. M. (or A. M.), to answer the complaint of —, for a failure to pay him a certain demand, amounting to — dollars and — cents, upon (here state briefly the nature of the claim); and of this writ make due service and return.

Given under my hand this — day of —, 19—.

—, Justice of the Peace.

And the summons shall specify a certain place, day, and hour for the appearance and answer of the defendant, not less than six nor more than twenty days from the date of filing plaintiff's claim with the justice, which summons shall be served at least five days before the time of trial mentioned therein, and shall be served by the officer delivering to the defendant, or leaving at his place of abode, with some person over twelve years of age, a true copy of such summons, certified by the officer to be such. [Cf. L. '60, p. 243, § 29; L. '73, p. 335, § 20; Cd. '81, § 1713; 2 H. C., § 1453.]

See Const., Art. IV, § 27, process to run in name of state.

See infra, § 1762, process to run in name of state.

§ 1759. (6544.) Action by Complaint and Notice—Form.

Any person desiring to commence an action before a justice of the peace by the service of a complaint and notice can do so by filing his complaint, verified by his own oath or that of his agent or attorney, with the justice, and when such complaint is so filed, upon payment of his fees, if demanded, the justice shall attach thereto a notice, which shall be substantially as follows:—

The State of Washington, } ss.
 — County, }
 To —.

In the name of the state of Washington, you are hereby notified to be and appear at my office in —, on the — day of —, 18—, at the hour of —, — M., to answer the foregoing complaint, or judgment will be taken against you as confessed, and the prayer of the plaintiff granted.

Dated —, 18—.

—, J. P.

[Cf. L. '60, p. 245, § 29; L. '73, p. 336, § 21; Cd. '81, § 1714; 2 H. C., § 1454.]

Cited in 11 Wash. 12.

§ 1760. Service of Process by Constable or Sheriff.

All process in actions and proceedings in justice courts, having a salaried constable, when served by an officer, shall be served by such constable or by the sheriff of the county or his duly appointed deputy; and all fees for such service shall be paid into the county treasury. [L. '09, p. 433, § 1.]

§ 1761. (6545.) How Served.

The complaint and notice shall be served at least five days before the time mentioned in the notice for the defendant to appear and answer the complaint, by delivering to the defendant, or leaving at his place of abode, with some person over twelve years of age, a true copy of the complaint and notice, certified by the officer or person making the service to be such. [L. '73, p. 337, § 22; Cd. '81, § 1715; 2 H. C., § 1455.]

Cited in 11 Wash. 12; 31 Wash. 362.

Under this section, if the notice and complaint are served on defendant by delivering a copy thereof to a child under the age of twelve years no jurisdiction of the person of the defendant is thereby conferred on the justice: Woodbury v. Henningsen, 11 Wash. 12.

§ 1762. (6546.*) Style of Process.

All process issued by justices of the peace shall run in the name of the state of Washington, be dated the day issued and signed by the justice granting the same, and all executions and writs of attachment or of replevin shall be served by the sheriff or some constable of the county in which the justice resides, but a summons or notice and complaint may be served by any citizen of the state of Washington over the age of twenty-one years and not a party to the action. [L. '03, p. 18, § 1. Cf. L. '73, p. 337, § 23; Cd. '81, § 1716; 2 H. C., § 1456; L. '93, p. 264, § 1; L. '95, p. 95, § 1.]

See Const., Art. IV, § 27, style of process.

See note to § 1758, action by summons.

§ 1763. (6547.*) Return of Process.

Every constable or sheriff serving process or complaint and notice shall return in writing, the time, manner and place of service and indorse thereon the legal fees therefor and shall sign his name to such return, and any person other than one of said officers serving summons or complaint and notice shall file with the justice his affidavit, stating the time, place and manner of the service of such summons or notice and complaint: Provided, that no fee shall be allowed for the service of a summons or notice and complaint by a person other than an officer. [L. '03, p. 19, § 2. Cf. L. '54, p. 229, § 31; L. '60, p. 246, § 37; L. '73, p. 337, § 24; Cd. '81, § 1717; 2 H. C., § 1457; L. '93, p. 264, § 2; L. '95, p. 195, § 2.]

§ 1764. (6548.*) Service by Person Appointed by Justice—Return.

Any justice may, by appointment in writing, authorize any person other than the parties to the proceeding, or action, to serve any subpoena, summons, or notice and complaint issued by such justice; and any such person making such service shall return on such process or paper, in writing, the time and manner of service, and shall sign his name to such return, and be entitled to like fees for making such service as a sheriff or constable, and shall indorse his fees for service thereon: Provided, it shall not be lawful for any justice to issue process or papers to any person but a regularly qualified sheriff or constable, in any precinct where such officers reside, unless from sickness or some other cause said sheriff or constable is not able to serve the same: Provided further, that it shall be lawful for notice and complaint or summons in a civil action in the justice court to be served by any person over the age of twenty-one years and not a party to the action in which the summons or notice and complaint shall be issued without previous appointment by the justice. [L. '03, p. 19, § 3. Cf. L. '73, p. 337, § 25; Cd. '81, § 1718; 2 H. C., § 1458.]

§ 1765. (6549.) Proof of Service.

Proof of service in either of the above cases shall be as follows: When made by a constable or sheriff, his return signed by him and indorsed on the paper or process. When made by any person other than such officer, then by the affidavit of the person making the service. [L. '73, p. 337, § 26; Cd. '81, § 1719; 2 H. C., § 1459.]

§ 1766. (6550.) Service by Publication—Form.

In case personal service cannot be had by reason of the absence of the defendant from the county in which the action is sought to be commenced, it shall be proper to publish the summons or notice, with a brief statement of the object and prayer of the claim or complaint, in some weekly newspaper published in the county wherein the action is commenced; or if there is no paper published in such county then in some newspaper published in the nearest adjoining county, which notice shall be published not less than once a week for three weeks prior to the time fixed for the hearing of the cause, which shall not be less than four weeks from the first publication of said notice. Said notice may be substantially as follows:—

See supra, § 452, transcript of justice's docket for judgment lien.

See note to § 1859, infra.

§ 1771. (6555.) Infant to Sue by Guardian or Next Friend.

No action shall be commenced by an infant plaintiff, except by his guardian or until a next friend for such infant shall have been appointed. Whenever requested, the justice shall appoint some suitable person, who shall consent thereto in writing, to be named by such plaintiff, to act as his next friend in such action, who shall be responsible for the costs therein. [L. '54, p. 230, § 40; Cd. '81, § 1753; 2 H. C., § 1465.]

Cited in 13 Wash. 165.

§ 1772. (6556.) Appointment of Guardian ad Litem.

After service and return of process against an infant defendant, the action shall not be further prosecuted until a guardian for such infant shall have been appointed. Upon the request of such defendant, the justice shall appoint some person, who shall consent thereto in writing, to be guardian of the defendant in defense of the action; and if the defendant shall not appear on the return day of the process, or if he neglect or refuse to nominate such guardian, the justice may, at the request of the plaintiff, appoint any discreet person as such guardian. The consent of the guardian or next friend shall be filed with the justice; and such guardian for the defendant shall not be liable for any costs in the action. [L. '54, p. 230, § 41; Cd. '81, § 1754; 2 H. C., § 1466.]

§ 1773. (6557.) Time for Appearance.

The parties shall be entitled to one hour in which to make their appearance after the time mentioned in the summons or notice for appearance, but shall not be required to remain longer than that time, unless both parties appear, and the justice, being present, is actually engaged in the trial of another action or proceeding; in such case he may postpone the time of appearance until the close of such trial. [L. '54, p. 230, § 42; Cd. '81, § 1755; 2 H. C., § 1467.]

See supra, § 241, appearance in courts of record.

See infra, § 1858, judgment by default.

Cited in 1 Wash. 509.

Party to an action in a justice's court is entitled to one hour in which to appear, after the time mentioned in the notice. If defendant do not so appear, judgment shall be entered against him without further proof or evidence. The mere corporal presence of defendant is not sufficient; he must answer, demur, or give the plaintiff written notice; or if by attorney, the attorney must give notice of appearance for him: McCoy v. Bell, 1 Wash. 505.

§ 1774. (6558.) Change of Venue.

If, previous to the commencement of any trial before a justice of the peace, the defendant, his attorney or agent, shall make and file with the justice an affidavit that the deponent believes that the defendant cannot have an impartial trial before such justice, it shall be the duty of the justice to forthwith transmit all papers and documents belonging to the case to the next nearest justice of the peace in the same county, who is not of kin to either party, sick, absent from the county, or interested in the result of the action, either as counsel or otherwise. The justice to whom such papers and documents are so transmitted shall proceed as if the suit had been instituted before him. Distance, as contemplated by this section, shall mean to be by the nearest traveled route. The costs of such change of venue shall abide the result of the suit. [Cf. L. '67, p. 88, §§ 2, 3; L. '81, p. 8, §§ 2, 3; Cd. '81, § 1938; 2 H. C., § 1468.]

Cited in 13 Wash. 573.

A change of venue will lie from a police justice of a city of the third class to the next nearest justice of the peace in the same county: Puyallup v. Snyder, 13 Wash. 572.

Where a change of venue is had to one who is admitted to be the next nearest justice of the peace, objection cannot be made for the first time in the supreme court, on the ground that the jurisdiction of the last justice was not shown, where the properly certified records of the justices show the transfer was regularly made, since technical accuracy in that respect is not required: Kerstetter v. Thomas, 36 Wash. 620.

§ 1775. (6559.) Change of Venue as in Superior Court.

Change of venue may be allowed for the same causes for which they are allowed in the superior court. [Cf. L. '60, p. 252, § 68; L. '63, p. 369, § 162; Cd. '81, § 1881.]

This section is found in the Code of 1881 as a part of the chapter on witnesses and depositions.

See supra, § 209, change of venue in superior court.

§ 1776. (6560.) Penalty for False Return.

If any officer, without showing good cause therefor, fail to execute any process to him delivered, and make due return thereof, or make a false return, such officer, for every such offense, shall pay to the party injured ten dollars, and all damage such party may have sustained by reason thereof, to be recovered in a civil action. [Cf. L. '54, p. 230, § 39; L. '73, p. 343, § 51; Cd. '81, § 1752; 2 H. C., § 1469.]

§ 1777. (6561.*) Security of Nonresident for Costs.

Whenever the plaintiff is a nonresident of the county, the justice may require of him security for the costs in a sum not exceeding fifty dollars at the time of the commencement of the action. Provided, however, that after an action has been commenced by a nonresident plaintiff and no security given for costs, the defendant may require such security by motion; when allowed all proceedings shall be stayed until such security has been given. [L. '05, p. 27, § 1. Cf. L. '54, p. 228, § 27; Cd. '81, § 1725; 2 H. C., § 1470.]

CHAPTER II.

PLEADINGS IN CIVIL ACTIONS IN JUSTICE'S COURT.

§ 1778. (6565.) Pleadings, When to Take Place.

The pleadings in justice's court shall take place upon the appearance of the parties, unless they shall have been previously filed, or unless the justice shall, for good cause shown, allow a longer time than the time of appearance. [L. '54, p. 231, § 43; Cd. '81, § 1756; 2 H. C., § 1471.]

§ 1779. (6566.) Pleadings, What Constitute.

The pleadings in the justice's court shall be,—

1. The complaint of the plaintiff, which shall state in a plain and direct manner the facts constituting the cause of action;

2. The answer of the defendant, which may contain a denial of the complaint, or any part thereof, and also a statement, in a plain and direct manner, of any facts constituting a defense;

3. When the answer sets up a setoff by way of defense, the reply of the plaintiff. [L. '54, p. 231, § 44; Cd. '81, § 1757; 2 H. C., § 1472.]

Cited in 1 Wash. 136, 510.

An action in a justice's court is properly entitled by naming the officer before whom the cause is heard, without designating the precinct in which the justice presides: State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 223.

There is no court apart from the officer designated by Article IV, § 1, of the Constitution, as a justice of the peace: Id.

The failure of plaintiff to reply to defendant's allegation of quiet possession for more than one year, in an action before a justice of the peace, cannot be regarded as an admission of its truth, as, under this section, all new matters in the answer constituting a defense, except setoff, are presumed to be denied: Bellingham Bay etc. Co. v. Strand, 1 Wash. 133.

Under the Constitution, Article IV, § 6, the superior court has original jurisdiction in forcible entry and detainer.

A claim was filed in the justice's court against S. Baxter & Co. Summons issued to Sutcliff Baxter and A. M. Brooks. Defendant appeared and pleaded. Held, that defect of parties appearing on face of claim was thereby waived: Baxter v. Scotland, 2 W. T. 86.

§ 1780. (6567.) Pleadings may be Oral or Written.

The pleadings in justices' courts may be oral or in writing. [L. '54, p. 231, § 45; Cd. '81, § 1758; 2 H. C., § 1473.]

This section as it appeared in the Code of 1881 is not in conformity with the constitution, and only that which is in force is retained.

§ 1781. (6568.) Pleadings Docketed or Filed—Form Immaterial.

When the pleadings are oral, the substance of them shall be entered by the justice in his docket. When in writing, they shall be filed in his office, and a reference made to them in his docket. Pleadings shall not be required to be in any particular form, but shall be such as to enable a person of common understanding to know what is intended. [L. '54, p. 231, § 46; Cd. '81, § 1759; 2 H. C., § 1474.]

§ 1782. (6569.) Denial of Knowledge or Information.

A statement, in an answer or reply, that the party has not sufficient knowledge or information in respect to a particular allegation in the previous pleadings of the adverse party to form a belief shall be deemed equivalent to a denial. [L. '54, p. 231, § 47; Cd. '81, § 1760; 2 H. C., § 1475.]

§ 1783. (6570.) Pleading Account or Instrument.

When the cause of action or setoff arises upon an account or instrument for the payment of money only, it shall be sufficient for the party to deliver the account or instrument, or a copy thereof, to the court, and to state that there is due to him thereon, from the adverse party, a specified sum, which he claims to recover or set off. The court may, at the time of pleading, require that the original account or instrument be exhibited to the inspection of the adverse party, with liberty to copy the same; or if not so exhibited, may prohibit its being given in evidence. [L. '54, p. 231, § 48; Cd. '81, § 1761; 2 H. C., § 1476.]

§ 1784. (6571.) Pleadings to be Verified.

Every complaint, answer, or reply shall be verified by the oath of the party pleading; or if he be not present, by the oath of his attorney or agent, to the effect that he believes it to be true. The verification shall be oral or in writing, in conformity with the pleading verified. [L. '54, p. 232, § 49; Cd. '81, § 1762; 2 H. C., § 1477.]

§ 1785. (6572.) Uncontroverted Allegations Deemed Admitted.

Every material allegation in a complaint, or relating to a setoff in an answer, not denied by the pleading of the adverse party, shall, on the trial, be taken to be true, except that when a defendant who has not been served with a copy of the complaint fails to appear and answer, the plaintiff cannot recover without proving his case. [L. '54, p. 232, § 50; Cd. '81, § 1763, 2 H. C., § 1478.]

See infra, § 1858, judgment on default.

§ 1786. (6573.) Objections to Pleading, Amendment.

Either party may object to a pleading by his adversary, or to any part thereof, that is not sufficiently explicit for him to understand it, or that it contains no cause of action or defense, although it be taken as true. If the court deem the objection well founded, it shall order the pleading to be amended; and if the party refuse to amend, the defective pleading shall be disregarded. [L. '54, p. 232, § 51; Cd. '81, § 1764; 2 H. C., § 1479.]

See infra, § 1488, amendments.

§ 1787. (6574.) Variance Immaterial, When.

A variance between the proof on the trial and the allegations in a pleading shall be disregarded as immaterial, unless the court be satisfied that the adverse party has been misled to his prejudice thereby. [L. '54, p. 232, § 52; Cd. '81, § 1765; 2 H. C., § 1480.]

§ 1788. (6575.) Amendments.

The pleadings may be amended at any time before the trial, or during the trial, or upon appeal, to supply any deficiency or omissions in the allegations or denials necessary to support the action or defense, when by such amendment substantial justice will be promoted. If the amendment be made after the issue, and it be made to appear to the satisfaction of the court that a continuance is necessary to the adverse party in consequence of such amendment, a continuance shall be granted. The court may also, in its discretion, require as a condition of an amendment the payment of costs to the adverse party. [L. '54, p. 232, § 53; Cd. '81, § 1766; 2 H. C., § 1481.]

See supra, § 303, and notes, amendments in superior court.

See supra, § 1786, objections and amendments to pleadings.

See infra, § 1915, pleadings on appeal.

Cited in 3 Wash. 709.

If a case is appealed from a justice to the superior court, it is discretionary with the superior court, under this and § 1915, infra, to allow amendments to pleadings used before the justice: State v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 705.

§ 1789. (6576.) Setoff, How Pleaded.

To entitle a defendant to any setoff he may have against the plaintiff, he must allege the same in his answer; and the statutes regulating setoffs in the superior court shall in all respects be applicable to a setoff in a justice's court, if the amount claimed to be set off, after deducting the amount [found] due the plaintiff, be within the jurisdiction of the justice of the peace; judgment may, in like manner, be rendered by the justice, in favor of the defendant, for the balance found due the plaintiff. [L. '54, p. 232, § 54; Cd. '81, § 1767; 2 H. C., § 1482.]

See supra, § 266 et seq., setoff in superior court.

See infra, § 1861, action when setoff exceeds jurisdiction.

See infra, § 1873, setoff of mutual judgments.

CHAPTER III.

ARREST AND BAIL IN JUSTICE'S COURT.

§ 1790. (6580.) Warrant may Issue, When.

A justice of the peace shall issue a warrant of arrest in all such cases within his jurisdiction, and for such causes and upon such proof, as is provided for an order for a warrant in chapter VII of title 5, regulating civil actions. [L. '54, p. 229, § 32; Cd. '81, § 1746; 2 H. C., § 1484.]

See supra, § 748 et seq., arrest and bail.

§ 1791. (6581.) Bond for Warrant.

Before issuing the warrant of arrest, the justice shall require a bond on part of the plaintiff, with one or more sureties, to the effect that if the defendant recover judgment the plaintiff will pay all costs that may be awarded to the defendant, and all damages which may be sustained by reason of the arrest, not exceeding the sum specified in the bond, which shall be at least one hundred dollars. [L. '54, p. 229, § 33; Cd. '81, § 1747; 2 H. C., § 1485.]

§ 1792. (6582.) Warrant, How Served.

The warrant shall be served by arresting the defendant, and taking him before the justice of the peace who issued the same; but if such justice, at the return thereof, be absent or unable to try the action, the officer shall immediately take the defendant to the nearest justice of the same county, who shall take cognizance of the action, and proceed thereon as if the warrant had been issued by himself. [L. '54, p. 229, § 34; Cd. '81, § 1748; 2 H. C., § 1486.]

§ 1793. (6583.) Notice of Arrest to Plaintiff, etc.

The officer making the arrest shall immediately give notice to the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, and indorse on the warrant the time of the arrest and the time of serving notice on the plaintiff. [L. '54, p. 229, § 35; Cd. '81, § 1749; 2 H. C., § 1487.], § 1794. (6584.) Detention not to Exceed Twenty-four Hours.

When a defendant is brought before a justice on a warrant, he shall be detained in the custody of the officer until he shall be discharged according to law; but in no case shall the defendant be detained longer than twenty-four hours from the time he shall be brought before the justice, unless within that time the trial of the action shall be commenced, or unless it has been delayed at the instance of the defendant. [L. '54, p. 229, § 36; Cd. '81, § 1750; 2 H. C., § 1488.], § 1795. (6585.) Continuance—Bond.

If the defendant, on his appearance, demand a continuance, the same may be granted on condition that he remain in custody or execute and file with the justice a bond, with one or more sufficient sureties, to be approved by the justice, to the effect that he will render himself amenable to the process of the court, or that the sureties will pay to plaintiff the amount of any judgment which he may recover in the action. On filing such bond, the justice shall order the defendant to be discharged from custody. [L. '54, p. 229, § 37; Cd. '81, § 1751; 2 H. C., § 1489.]

Sections 1790-1795 are not in harmony with the constitution unless the cases in which it may lie are confined by further enactment to absconding debtors: See Const., Art. I, § 17.

CHAPTER IV.

REPLEVIN IN JUSTICE'S COURT.

§ 1796. (6588.) Plaintiff may Claim Immediate Delivery.

The plaintiff in an action to recover the possession of personal property may, at the time of issuing such summons, or at any time before answer, claim the immediate delivery of such property as provided in this chapter. [L. '54, p. 242, § 109; Cd. '81, § 1809; 2 H. C., § 1490.]

See supra, §§ 707-717, and notes, claim and delivery in superior court.

See supra, §§ 573-577, adverse claims to property attached by sheriff.

See infra, § 1888, claim by third person of property levied upon.

§ 1797. (6589.) Affidavit Where Delivery Claimed, Contents of.

When a delivery is claimed, an affidavit shall be made by the plaintiff, or by some one in his behalf, showing,—

1. That the plaintiff is the owner of the property claimed (particularly describing it), or is lawfully entitled to the possession thereof by virtue of a special property therein, the facts in respect to which shall be set forth;
2. That the property is wrongfully detained by the defendant;
3. The alleged cause of the detention thereof, according to his best knowledge, information, and belief;

4. That the same has not been taken for a tax, assessment, or fine, pursuant to a statute, or seized under an execution or attachment against the property of the plaintiff, or if so seized, that it is by statute exempt from such seizure; and

5. The actual value of the property. [L. '54, p. 242, § 110; Cd. '81, § 1810; 2 H. C., § 1491.]

§ 1798. (6590.) Order for Delivery.

The justice shall thereupon, by an indorsement in writing upon the affidavit, order the sheriff or any constable of the county to take the same from the defendant and deliver it to the plaintiff upon receiving a proper bond. [L. '54, p. 243, § 111; Cd. '81, § 1811; 2 H. C., § 1492.]

§ 1799. (6591.) Execution of Order—Bond.

He shall also, without delay, serve on the defendant a copy of the affidavit, order, and bond, by delivering the same to him personally if he can be found within the county, or to his agent from whose possession the property is taken, or if neither can be found in the county, by leaving them at the usual abode of either within the county, with some person of suitable age and discretion; or if neither have any known place of abode in the county by putting them into the postoffice, directed to the defendant at the postoffice nearest to him. [L. '54, p. 243, § 112; Cd. '81, § 1810; 2 H. C., § 1493.]

§ 1800. (6592.) Exceptions to Sureties.

The defendant may, within two days after the service of a copy of the affidavit, order, and bond, give notice to the officer that he excepts to the sufficiency of the sureties. If he fail to do so, he shall be deemed to have waived all objection to them. When the defendant excepts, the sureties shall justify upon one day's notice before the justice; and the officer shall be responsible for the sufficiency of the sureties until the objection to them is either waived, as above provided, or until they justify, or new sureties be substituted, and they justify. If the defendant except to the sureties, he cannot reclaim the property as provided in the next section. [L. '54, p. 243, § 113; Cd. '81, § 1813; 2 H. C., § 1494.]

sum as may for any cause be recovered against the defendant. If a return of the property be not so required within two days after the taking and serving of notice to the defendant, it shall be delivered to the plaintiff, except as provided in this chapter. [L. '54, p. 243, § 114; Cd. '81, § 1814; 2 H. C., § 1495.]

§ 1802. (6594.) Justification of Sureties.

The defendant's sureties, upon one day's notice to the plaintiff or his attorney, shall justify before the justice, and upon such justification the officer shall deliver the property to the defendant. The officer shall be responsible for the defendant's sureties until they justify, or until the justification is complete or expressly waived, and may retain the property until that time; but if they, or others in their place, fail to justify at the time appointed, he shall deliver the property to the plaintiff. [L. '54, p. 244, § 115; Cd. '81, § 1815; 2 H. C., § 1496.]

§ 1803. (6595.) Officer may Break Open Building or Inclosure.

§ 1805. (6597.) Proceedings Where Property Claimed by Third Party.

If the property taken be claimed by any other person than the defendant or his agent, and such person make affidavit of his title thereto, or his right to the possession thereof, stating the ground of such title or right, and serve the same upon the officer before the delivery of the property to the plaintiff, the sheriff shall not be bound to keep the property or deliver it to the plaintiff, unless the plaintiff, on demand of him or his agent, indemnify the officer against such claim by a bond executed by two sufficient sureties, accompanied by their affidavits that they are each worth double the value of the property, as specified in the affidavit of the plaintiff, over and above their debts and liabilities, exclusive of property exempt from execution, and freeholders or householders of the county; and no claim to such property by any other person than the defendant or his agent shall be valid against the officer, unless made as aforesaid, and notwithstanding such claim, when so made, he may retain the property a reasonable time to demand such indemnity. [L. '54, p. 244, § 118; Cd. '81, § 1818; 2 H. C., § 1499.]

CHAPTER V.

GARNISHEE PROCESS BY OFFICERS.

§ 1807. (6600.) Affidavit for Garnishment.

Whenever any action shall have been commenced by summons upon contract express or implied, or notice and complaint in a justice's court, if the plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, shall make and deliver to the officer having such summons, or notice and complaint, an affidavit stating that the affiant has good reason to believe that some person (naming him) is indebted to the defendant, or has personal property in his possession or under his control belonging to the defendant, or when there is more than one defendant, to any or either of them, not by law exempt from sale on execution, and demand that he shall summon such person as garnishee, such officer shall summon such person in writing to appear before the justice on the return day of such summons, or notice and complaint, to answer touching his liability as garnishee. [L. '88, p. 101, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1501.]

Writ of garnishment by justice: See § 1823, infra, and note.

See infra, § 1886, garnishment on execution.

§ 1808. (6601.) Garnishee Summons.

The summons to the garnishee may be substantially as follows:—

The State of Washington, }

The State of Washington to —.

Whereas, a summons or notice and complaint has been issued by —, a justice of the peace of said county, returnable on the — day of —, A. D. 18—, in favor of —, plaintiff, and against —, defendant; and whereas, the plaintiff (or A B in his behalf) has made oath that you have property in your possession or under your control belonging to the defendant (or are indebted to him), now therefore, you are hereby summoned to be and appear before the said justice at his office in said county on the return day of said summons (or notice and complaint), at — o'clock in the —noon of said day, then and there to answer under oath, touching your liability as garnishee.

Given under my hand this — day of —, 18—.

—, Constable or Sheriff.

[L. '88, p. 101, § 2; 2 H. C., § 1502.]

§ 1809. (6602.) Service of.

The officer shall serve such summons on the garnishee personally, and return the same, with the affidavit, to the justice at the same time that he shall make return of the service of the summons or notice and complaint, and state the day such summons was served on the garnishee. [L. '88, p. 102, § 3; 2 H. C., § 1503.]

§ 1811. (6604.) Liability of Garnishee.

The garnishee, from the time of the service of such summons, shall stand liable to the plaintiff to the amount of the personal property, money, credits, and effects in his hands or under his control belonging to the defendant, and the amount of his own indebtedness to the defendant, then due or to become due, and not by law exempt from sale on execution. [L. '88, p. 102, § 5; 2 H. C., § 1505.]

§ 1812. (6605.) Garnishee Action—When Deemed Commenced.

The service of the garnishee summons shall be deemed the commencement of an action against such garnishee; and upon the return of the constable that such summons has been duly served, the justice shall enter an action in his docket in which the plaintiff in the original action shall be plaintiff and the garnishee defendant. [L. '88, p. 102, § 6; 2 H. C., § 1506.]

§ 1813. (6606.*) Examination of Garnishee.

On the appearance of the garnishee before the justice, the affidavit aforesaid shall be deemed a sufficient complaint in this action, and the justice shall forthwith proceed to examine the said garnishee and his witnesses touching the matters alleged in the affidavit, and shall reduce the answers of said garnishee and his witnesses to writing, and file the same with the papers in the case; such examination may be adjourned by said garnishee as in case of adjournment in justice court in civil actions: Provided, that in lieu of the personal appearance of the garnishee and his examination by the justice, the garnishee may answer the affidavit and writ, in writing, in which case the answer shall be in writing, signed and verified by the garnishee, and make true answer to the several matters set up in the affidavit and such answer shall be filed with the justice of the peace, within the time required by the writ for the garnishee to appear. [L. '88, p. 103, § 7; 2 H. C., § 1507; L. '03, p. 82, § 2.]

§ 1814. (6607.) Trial, When.

If the plaintiff shall not be satisfied with the answers of the garnishee, or if either party shall desire a trial, the justice shall enter the fact in his docket, and the case shall be proceeded with and tried upon the issue formed by the affidavit and answer, as in other actions commenced by summons; and if, upon the trial of any such issue, property or effects shall be found in the hands of the garnishee, or it shall appear that such garnishee was indebted to the defendant, the justice or jury shall assess the value thereof, and the garnishee may hold the same subject to the further order of the justice. [L. '88, p. 103, § 8; 2 H. C., § 1508.]

§ 1815. (6608.) Defendant may Participate in Trial.

The defendant in the original action may appear and defend the proceedings against the garnishee, upon the ground that the indebtedness of the garnishee, or any property held by him, is exempt from execution against such defendant, or for any other reason is not liable to garnishment, or upon any grounds upon which a garnishee might defend the same, and may participate in the trial of any issue between the plaintiff and the garnishee for the protection of his interests. [L. '88, p. 103, § 9; 2 H. C., § 1509.]

§ 1816. (6609.) Costs.

If, in the action instituted against the garnishee, the plaintiff shall be nonsuited or discontinue his action; or if, upon the answer and trial of the issue between the plaintiff and garnishee, no property or effects shall be found in the hands of the garnishee, or nothing shall be found due from the garnishee to the defendant; or if, in the action against the principal defendant, the plaintiff shall be nonsuited or discontinue his action; or if, on the trial in such action, nothing shall be found due from the defendant to the plaintiff,—then in each of these cases the garnishee shall recover costs against the plaintiff, and no such costs shall be paid by the defendant. [L. '88, p. 103, § 10; 2 H. C., § 1510.]

See infra, § 1818, costs against garnishee.

§ 1817. (6610.) Judgment Against Garnishee.

If the plaintiff recover against the defendant in the original action, and the answer of the garnishee, when no issue is made thereon, or the finding of the court or jury on an issue, show the garnishee, at the time of the service of the summons, had property in his possession belonging to the defendant, or that he was indebted to him, the justice shall enter an order in his docket requiring the garnishee, within ten days, to pay or deliver to the justice such property or the amount of such indebtedness, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy such judgment, with costs thereof, and the costs of the garnishee proceedings; or if it appears, from such answer or finding, that the garnishee is to pay or deliver to the defendant any money or property in any other manner or at any other time than immediately, and at the time of service of the summons, the same belonging to the defendant, then the order of the justice shall be that such payment or delivery be so made to the justice for the benefit of the plaintiff. If such garnishee shall pay such indebtedness, and deliver such property as directed by such order, the costs of the garnishee shall be paid out of the money or property received by the justice, unless the garnishee, upon an issue joined with him by the plaintiff, shall have been held liable in a greater amount of property or indebtedness than was disclosed in his answer, in which case he shall not have costs. And all property and effects, except money, delivered to the justice shall be by him ordered to be sold on the execution against the defendant. [L. '88, p. 103, § 11; 2 H. C., § 1511.]

§ 1818. (6611.) Costs Against Garnishee.

If the garnishee do not deliver over the property or pay the money so found in his hands and belonging to the defendant, as provided in the preceding section, then judgment shall be given against him for the value of such property or money, and costs of suit in the cause in which he is garnishee, and no such costs shall be paid by the defendant. [L. '88, p. 104, § 12; 2 H. C., § 1512.]

See supra, § 1816, costs.

§ 1819. (6612.) Final Judgment—Negotiable Instrument.

No final judgment shall be rendered against the garnishee until final judgment be rendered against the defendant in the original action; but no judgment shall be rendered against a garnishee, or any money be required to be delivered by him to the justice, upon any liability arising out of a debt due [evidenced] by negotiable paper, unless such paper is delivered or the garnishee completely exonerated or indemnified from all liability thereon after he may have satisfied the judgment. [L. '88, p. 104, § 13; 2 H. C., § 1513.]

§ 1820. (6613.) Default, etc., by Garnishee.

When a garnishee shall fail to appear, or, appearing, shall fail to make full answers upon oath to the interrogatories of the justice touching his liabilities as garnishee, the justice shall enter such fact in his docket, and he shall be adjudged to be indebted to the defendant; and if judgment shall be rendered in favor of the plaintiff, against the defendant, judgment in favor of the plaintiff shall be entered against such garnishee for the amount of the judgment against the defendant, and for all costs in the garnishee proceedings, and no such costs shall be paid by the defendant. The justice may continue the cause to some other day, if necessary for further proceedings. [L. '88, p. 104, § 14; 2 H. C., § 1514.]

The last paragraph but one of this section as originally enacted is omitted as void under Art. I, § 17, of the Constitution.

§ 1821. (6614.) Appearance After Default.

If the garnishee shall have failed to appear at the proper time, he may afterwards appear and answer at any time before final judgment against him, if he shall first pay all costs in the garnishee suit which have accrued up to that time; and when he shall so appear, the justice shall cause the plaintiff to be notified thereof, so that he may be present at the examination. [L. '88, p. 105, § 15; 2 H. C., § 1515.]

§ 1822. (6615.) Judgment in Bar.

In all actions brought by the defendant against the garnishee for the recovery of any property, credits, money, or effects delivered up or paid by order of any judgment rendered under this chapter, except costs rendered against the garnishee, such judgment may be pleaded in bar, and the same shall be conclusive between such parties. [L. '88, p. 105, § 16; 2 H. C., § 1516.]

CHAPTER VI.

WRITS OF GARNISHMENT BY JUSTICES.

§ 1823. Writ of Garnishment—When may Issue.

The justice of the peace in the various precincts in the state may issue writs of garnishment, returnable to their respective courts, where the plaintiff sues for a debt and makes affidavit that such debt is just, due and unpaid, and that the garnishment applied for is not sued out to injure either the defendant or the garnishee. [L. '09, p. 607, § 1.]

See supra, §§ 1807-1822, garnishee summons by officer. Formerly a justice of the peace could not issue a writ of garnishment. Since there is no reason why this act could not have been intended as a remedy concurrent with existing provisions for a summons by the officer, and as there is no repealing clause, it does not necessarily conflict with the older provisions, which are therefore retained.

§ 1824. Affidavit for Garnishment—Requisites.

Before the issuance of the writ of garnishment, the plaintiff, or someone in his behalf, shall make application therefor by affidavit, stating the facts authorizing the issuance of the writ, and that he has reason to believe and does believe that the garnishee is indebted to the defendant or that he has in his possession or under his control personal property or effects belonging to the defendant, or that the garnishee is a corporation and that the defendant is the owner of shares of the capital stock thereof. [L. '09, p. 608, § 2.]

§ 1825. Issuance of Writ—Contents.

When the foregoing requisites have been complied with, the justice of the peace shall immediately issue a writ of garnishment directed to the garnishee, commanding him to appear before the court from which it is issued, on the return day of the summons and notice or notice and complaint in the main action, and to answer on oath in what amount, if any, he was indebted to the defendant when such writ was served upon him and what personal property or effects, if any, of the defendant he had in his possession or under his control when such writ was served upon him; and where it appears from the affidavit for the writ that the garnishee is a corporation in which the defendant is the owner of shares, the writ of garnishment shall further require the garnishee to answer what number of shares, if any, the defendant owned in such corporation when such writ was served upon it. [L. '09, p. 608, § 3.]

§ 1826. Form for Writ.

Said writ shall be substantially in the following form:

To — Greeting:

Whereas, in the justice court in and for — precinct, — county, state of Washington, in a certain cause wherein — is plaintiff and — is defendant, the plaintiff claiming an indebtedness against the said — of — dollars, besides interest and costs of suit, has applied for a writ of garnishment against you:

Now therefore, you are hereby summoned to be and appear before the said justice, at his office in said county, on the — day of —, 19—, at — o'clock in the — noon of said day, that being the return day of the summons (or notice and complaint) in the main action, then and there to answer upon oath in what amount, if any, you were indebted to the said — when this writ was served upon you, and what personal property or effects, if any, of the said — you had in your possession or under your control when this writ was served upon you (and if the garnishee be a corporation in which the defendant is alleged to be the owner of shares, then the writ shall proceed: And further to answer what number of shares, if any, the said — owned in — a corporation, when this writ was served upon you). [L. '09, p. 608, § 4.]

§ 1827. How Issued.

The writ of garnishment shall be dated and signed by the justice of the peace, and the name and office address of the attorney for the plaintiff shall be indorsed thereon, or in case the plaintiff has no attorney, then the name and address of the plaintiff shall be indorsed thereon. The writ, when so issued and indorsed, shall be delivered by the justice of the peace who issues it to the party applying therefor, or to his attorney. [L. '09, p. 609, § 5.]

§ 1828. Service of Writ.

The writ of garnishment may be served by the sheriff or any constable of the county in which the garnishee lives, or it may be served by any citizen of the state of Washington over the age of twenty-one years and not a party to the action in which it is issued, in the same manner as a summons in an action is served. And in case such writ is served by an officer, such officer shall make his return thereon, showing the time, place and manner of service and noting thereon his fees for making such service and shall sign his name to such return. In case such service is made by any person other than an officer, such person shall attach to the original writ his affidavit showing his qualifications to make such service and the time, place and manner of making service, but no fee shall be allowed for the service of such writ unless the same is served by an officer. [L. '09, p. 609, § 6.]

§ 1829. Service upon Bank as Garnishee.

In cases where the writ of garnishment issued under the provisions of this act is directed to a corporation carrying on a general banking business in the state of Washington, the plaintiff, in addition to serving the writ of garnishment upon said garnishee, shall at the same time and as a part of said service deliver to said garnishee a statement in writing signed by the plaintiff or his attorney, stating the place of residence of the defendant and his business, occupation, trade or profession, and unless such statement is so delivered with said writ of garnishment, the service of said writ shall not be deemed complete and the garnishee shall not be held liable thereon. [L. '09, p. 610, § 7.]

§ 1830. Effect of Service—Payment of Debt.

From and after the service of such writ of garnishment, it shall not be lawful for the garnishee to pay to the defendant any debt owing to him at the time of such service, or to deliver to him any personal property or effects belonging to the defendant in his possession or under his control at the time of such service, nor shall the garnishee, if it be a corporation in which the defendant is alleged to be the owner of shares, permit or recognize any sale or transfer of any shares owned by said defendant at the time of such service; and any such payment, delivery, sale or transfer shall be void and of no effect as to so much of said debt, personal property or effects or shares as may be necessary to satisfy the plaintiff's demand. [L. '09, p. 610, § 8.]

§ 1831. Bond to Release Garnishee.

If the defendant in the principal action causes a bond to be executed to the plaintiff, with sureties, to be approved by the justice of the peace issuing the writ, conditioned that he will pay any judgment that may be rendered against him in favor of the plaintiff in said action, and shall file said bond with said justice of the peace, the writ of garnishment shall, upon the filing and approval of said bond, be immediately discharged, and all proceedings had thereunder shall be vacated and said justice shall issue and deliver to said defendant a certificate to the effect that said writ of garnishment has been discharged, and upon the delivery of said certificate to the garnishee he shall be discharged of any further liability under said writ: Provided, that the garnishee shall not be thereby deprived from recovery of costs in said proceeding to which he would otherwise be entitled under this act. [L. '09, p. 610, § 9.]

§ 1832. Answer of Garnishee.

The answer of the garnishee shall be in writing and signed and verified as other pleadings and shall make true answers to the several matters inquired of in the writ of garnishment and shall be served upon the plaintiff or his attorney and filed with the justice of the peace who issued said writ. [L. '09, p. 611, § 10.]

§ 1833. Discharge of Garnishee.

Should it appear from the answer of the garnishee that he was not indebted to the defendant when the writ of garnishment was served upon him and that he had not in his possession or under his control any personal property or effects of the defendant when the writ was served; and when the garnishee is a corporation in which the defendant is alleged to be the owner of shares of stock, if it shall further appear from such answer that the defendant was not the owner of any such shares when the writ was served, and should the answer of the garnishee not be controverted as hereinafter provided, the court shall enter judgment discharging the garnishee. [L. '09, p. 611, § 11.]

§ 1834. Default of Garnishee—Judgment—Dismissal of Action.

Should the garnishee fail to make answer to the writ within the time prescribed therein, the court shall, upon application of the plaintiff therefor, declare and enter the default of the garnishee and shall thereafter render judgment as follows:

In case judgment has not been rendered in the principal action at the time when the default of garnishee is declared and entered, final judgment shall not be rendered against said garnishee until the final judgment in the principal action is entered, and if the plaintiff recovers judgment against the principal defendant the court shall enter judgment against the garnishee for full amount of the judgment awarded to the plaintiff against the defendant; and if the plaintiff fails to recover judgment against the defendant, the garnishee shall be discharged without costs. [L. '09, p. 611, § 12.]

§ 1835. Judgment Against Garnishee—Satisfaction.

Should it appear from the answer of the garnishee, or should it be otherwise made to appear as hereinafter provided, that the garnishee was indebted to the defendant in any amount when the writ of garnishment was served upon him, the court shall render judgment for the plaintiff against such garnishee for the amount so admitted or found to be due from the garnishee, less the amount of the costs awarded to the garnishee, unless the amount so admitted or found to be due shall exceed the amount of the judgment rendered or thereafter rendered in favor of the plaintiff against the defendant, with interest and costs, in which case it shall be for the amount of such judgment rendered or thereafter to be rendered, with interest and costs: Provided, however, that judgment shall not be rendered against the garnishee until the final judgment in the principal action is entered, and if the plaintiff fails to recover judgment against the defendant the garnishee shall be discharged and shall have and recover his costs against plaintiff: Provided, however, if it shall appear from the answer of the garnishee and the same is not controverted, or if it shall appear from the trial hereinafter provided for that the garnishee was indebted to the defendant in any sum at the time of the service of said writ, but that said indebtedness is not matured and is not due and payable, the court shall make an order requiring the garnishee to pay such sum into court when the same becomes due, less the amount of the costs awarded to the garnishee, the date when such payment is to be made to be specified in said order, and in default thereof that judgment shall be entered against the garnishee for the amount of such indebtedness so admitted or found to be due. In case the garnishee shall pay said sum at the time specified in said order, said payment shall operate as a discharge; otherwise judgment shall be entered against him as above provided: Provided further, that if judgment shall be rendered in favor of the principal defendant, or if any judgment rendered against him shall be satisfied prior to the date of payment specified in said order, the garnishee shall not be required to make the payment hereinbefore provided for, nor shall any judgment in such case be against him. [L. '09, p. 612, § 13.]

§ 1836. Execution Against Garnishee.

Execution may be issued on the judgment against the garnishee herein provided for in like manner as upon any other judgment. The amount made upon any such execution shall be paid by the officer executing the same to the justice of the peace from whom such execution was issued, and shall be applied to the satisfaction of such judgment, interest and costs, and also to the satisfaction of the judgment against the defendant, and the surplus, if any, shall be paid to the garnishee. [L. '09, p. 613, § 14.]

§ 1837. Garnishee in Possession of Property—Surrender—Custody.

Should it appear from the answer of the garnishee, or should it be made otherwise to appear, as hereinafter provided, that the garnishee had in his possession or under his control when the writ was served upon him, any personal property or effects of the defendant liable to execution, the court shall render a decree requiring the garnishee to deliver up to the justice on demand, such personal property or effects, or so much of them as may be necessary to satisfy the plaintiff's claim. In cases where a judgment has been rendered in the principal action, such personal property or effects may be sold in like manner as other property is sold upon execution on a judgment. In cases where judgment has not been rendered in the principal action, the justice of the peace shall retain such personal property or effects in his possession until the rendition of the judgment therein, and in case judgment is entered in such principal action in favor of the plaintiff, said goods, or effects, or sufficient of them to satisfy said judgment, may be sold in like manner as other property is sold upon an execution issued on a judgment. In case judgment shall be rendered in such action against the plaintiff and in favor of the defendant, such effects and personal property shall be by the justice returned to the defendant. [L. '09, p. 613, § 15.]

§ 1838. Attachment for Contempt.

Should the garnishee adjudged to have effects or personal property of the defendant in his possession or under his control, as provided in the preceding section, fail or refuse to deliver them to the justice on such demand, the garnishee shall, on motion of the plaintiff, be cited to show cause why he should not be attached for contempt of court for such failure or refusal, and should the garnishee fail to show some good and sufficient excuse for such failure and refusal he shall be fined for such contempt and imprisoned until he shall deliver such personal property or effects. [L. '09, p. 614, § 16.]

§ 1839. Corporation Garnishee—Shares of Stock Sold.

Where the garnishee is a corporation and it appears by the answer or otherwise that the defendant was, when the writ of garnishment was served upon it, the owner of any shares of stock in such corporation, the court shall render a decree ordering the sale under execution in favor of the plaintiff against the defendant of such shares of the defendant in such corporation, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy such execution. [L. '09, p. 614, § 17.]

§ 1840. Sales, How Conducted.

The sale so ordered shall be conducted in all respects as other sales of personal property under execution, and the officer making such sale shall execute a transfer of such shares to the purchaser with a brief recital of the judgment of the court under which the same was sold. [L. '09, p. 614, § 18.]

§ 1841. Title on Sale.

Such sale shall be valid and effectual to pass to the purchaser all the right, title and interest which the defendant had in such shares of stock, and the proper officers of such company shall enter such sale and transfer on the books of the company in the same manner as if the sale had been made by the defendant himself. [L. '09, p. 614, § 19.]

§ 1842. Controverting the Answer of the Garnishee—Trial.

If the plaintiff should not be satisfied with the answer of the garnishee, he shall state such fact to the justice of the peace, who shall thereupon enter the fact in his docket, and an issue shall be formed under the direction of the court and tried as other cases: Provided, however, no pleading shall be necessary on such issue other than the affidavit of the plaintiff, the answer of the garnishee and the statement of the plaintiff that he is not satisfied with the answer. [L. '09, p. 614, § 20.]

§ 1843. Attorney's Fees—Costs.

Where the answer is controverted and the garnishee is subsequently discharged upon the trial thereof, his costs, including a reasonable attorney's fee to be fixed by the court, shall be taxed against the plaintiff; and if the garnishee upon his answer being controverted by the plaintiff is held liable to an extent greater than the liability admitted in his answer, the costs of the plaintiff upon such proceeding, including a reasonable attorney's fee to be fixed by the court, shall be taxed against the garnishee. [L. '09, p. 615, § 21.]

§ 1844. Garnishee's Defense Against Defendant.

It shall be a sufficient answer against any claim of the defendant against the garnishee founded on any indebtedness of such garnishee or upon the possession by him of any personal property or effects, or, where the garnishee is a corporation in which the defendant was the owner of shares of stock, for the garnishee to show that such indebtedness was paid or such shares of stock were sold under judgment of the court in accordance with the provisions of this act. [L. '09, p. 615, § 22.]

§ 1845. Garnishee's Answer—Identity of Names, How Determined—Trial.

Where the garnishee in his answer states that he was indebted or had personal property or effects in his possession under his control at the time of the service of the writ of garnishment upon him to a person of the same or similar name to the defendant, and stating the place of business or residence of said person, and that he does not know whether or not such person is the same person as the defendant, and prays the court to determine whether or not the person to whom he was indebted or whose personal property or effects he had in his possession is the same person as the defendant, the court, before rendering judgment against the garnishee defendant as hereinbefore provided, shall take proof as to the identity of said persons, and if he should find therefrom that they are not one and the same individual, the garnishee shall be discharged and shall have and recover his costs against the plaintiff; and if he should find that said persons are one and the same individuals, he shall make a similar judgment as to the payment of the money or the delivery of personal property and effects and as to costs of the garnishee as is hereinbefore provided, where the garnishee is held upon his answer. Before any such hearing on the question of identity is had, the plaintiff shall cause the justice of the peace to issue a citation directed to the person to whom the garnishee answers he was indebted or whose personal property or effects the garnishee has answered he had in his possession or under his control, commanding him to appear before the justice of the peace from which it is issued within ten days after the service of the same upon him, and to answer on oath whether or not he is the same person as the defendant in said action. Said citation shall be dated and attested in like manner as a writ of garnishment and be delivered to the plaintiff or his attorney and shall be served in the same manner as a summons in an action is served. If upon the hearing in this section provided for, the court shall find that the defendant or judgment debtor is the same person as the person to whom the garnishee defendant was indebted, or whose personal property or effects said garnishee defendant had in his possession or under his control, it shall be sufficient answer to any claim of said person against the garnishee founded on any indebtedness of such garnishee or on the possession by him of any personal property or effects for the garnishee to show that such indebtedness was paid or such personal property or effects delivered under the judgment of the court in accordance with the provisions in this act. [L. '09, p. 615, § 23.]

§ 1846. Answer of Garnishee—Defenses of Defendant—Exemptions.

It shall not be necessary for the garnishee to plead or set forth in his answer any defense which the defendant might have to the cause of action against him, nor to plead or set forth in his answer any claim of exemption which may be available to the defendant, but this section shall not be construed to preclude the defendant from pleading, claiming or asserting any exemption which may be available to him under the laws of the state of Washington now in force or hereafter to be enacted. [L. '09, p. 616, § 24.]

CHAPTER VII.

TRIAL OF CIVIL ACTIONS IN JUSTICE'S COURT.

§ 1847. (6619.) Continuance—Not to Exceed Sixty Days.

When the pleadings of the parties shall have taken place, the justice shall, upon the application of either party if the defendant be not under arrest, and sufficient cause be shown on oath, continue the case for any time not exceeding sixty days. If the continuance be on account of absence of testimony, it shall be for such reasonable times as will enable the party to procure such testimony, and shall be at the cost of the party applying therefor, unless otherwise ordered by the justice; and in all other respects shall be governed by the law applicable to continuance in the superior court. [L. '54, p. 232, § 56; Cd. '81, § 1769; 2 H. C., § 1517.]

See supra, § 322, continuance in superior court, when allowed.

Cited in 1 Wash. 262, 263.

If a continuance is granted a defendant for one day, in an action before a justice of the peace, he may thereafter appear specially in order to object to the jurisdiction of the court: Nelson v. Campbell, 1 Wash. 261; and a continuance for more than sixty days will divest the justice of jurisdiction, unless his docket shows that such continuance was by consent: Id.

If defendant fails to use due diligence to secure attendance or depositions of absent witnesses a continuance will be refused: O. R. & N. Co. v. Dacres, 1 Wash. 195.

§ 1848. (6620.) Justice to Try Cause Unless Jury Demanded.

Upon issued joined, if a jury trial be not demanded, the justice shall hear the evidence, and decide all questions of law and fact, and render judgment accordingly. [L. '54, p. 237, § 82; Cd. '81, § 1782; 2 H. C., § 1518.]

§ 1849. (6621.) Jury—Number—Qualifications—Fees.

After the appearance of the defendant, and before the justice shall proceed to inquire into the merits of the cause, either party may demand a jury to try the action, which jury shall be composed of six good and lawful men having the qualifications of jurors in the superior court of the same county, unless the parties shall agree upon a less number: Provided, That the party demanding the jury shall first pay to the justice the sum of six dollars, which shall be paid over by the justice to the jury before they are discharged, and said amount shall be taxed as costs against the losing party. [Cf. L. '54, p. 235, § 70; L. '62, p. 58, § 1; L. '63, p. 438, § 51; Cd. '81, § 1770; L. '88, p. 118, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1519.]

See Const., Art. I, § 21, juries may be less than twelve in courts not of record.

See supra, § 94 et seq., qualifications of jurors.

See infra, § 1927, juries in criminal cases in justice court.

§ 1850. (6622.) Time of Jury Trial.

When a jury is demanded, the trial of the case must be adjourned until the time fixed for the return of the jury; if neither party desire an adjournment, the time must be determined by the justice, and must be on the same day, or within the next two days. The jury must be immediately selected as herein provided. [Cf. L. '54, p. 235, § 71; L. '88, p. 118, § 2; 2 H. C., § 1520.]

§ 1851. (6623.) Selection of Jury.

The justice shall write in a panel the names of eighteen persons, citizens of the county, from which the defendant, his agent or attorney, must strike one name, the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, one, and so on alternately until each party shall have stricken six names, and the remaining six names shall constitute the jury to try such case; and if either party neglect or refuse to aid in striking the jury as aforesaid, the justice shall strike the name in behalf of such party. [Cf. L. '54, p. 235, § 72; Cd. '81, § 1772; L. '88, p. 119, § 3; 2 H. C., § 1521.]

See supra, § 92, distinction between jury in justices' and superior courts.

§ 1852. (6624.) Summons for Jurors.

The justice shall, thereupon issue a summons for the jury, in which the following form shall be observed in substance:—

The State of Washington, }
County of —, } ss.

The State of Washington to the Sheriff or [any] Constable of said County.

You are hereby commanded to summon — to appear before me, at my office in — precinct, said county, on the — day of —, A. D. 18—, at — o'clock in the —noon, to serve as jurors in a case pending before me, then and there to be tried. And this they shall in no wise omit. And have you then and there this writ, with your doings thereon.

Given under my hand this the — day of —, A. D. —.

A B, Justice of the Peace.

Which summons shall be personally served upon the persons named, and the same shall be returned, with the names of the persons summoned, at the time appointed for the trial of the cause. [Cf. L. '54, p. 236, § 73; Cd. '81, § 1773; L. '88, p. 119, § 4; 2 H. C., § 1522.]

Sections 1523, 1524 of 2 Hill's Code are omitted as being repealed by the provisions of the act of 1888.

See note to last section.

§ 1853. (6625.) Swearing Jury.

When the jury is selected, the justice shall administer to them an oath or affirmation well and truly to try the cause. [L. '54, p. 236, § 76; Cd. '81, § 1776; 2 H. C., § 1525.]

§ 1854. (6626.) Delivery of Verdict.

When the jury have agreed on their verdict, they shall deliver the same to the justice, publicly, who shall enter it on his docket. [L. '54, p. 236, § 77; Cd. '81, § 1777; 2 H. C., § 1526.]

§ 1855. (6627.) Justice may Discharge Jury, When.

Whenever a justice shall be satisfied that a jury, sworn in any civil cause before him, having been out a reasonable time, cannot agree on their verdict, he may discharge them, and issue a new venire unless the parties consent that the justice may render judgment on the evidence before him, or upon such other evidence as they may produce. [L. '54, p. 236, § 78; Cd. '81, § 1778; 2 H. C., § 1527.]

§ 1856. (6628.) Failure to Appear When Summoned—Penalty.

Every person who shall be duly summoned as a juror, and shall not appear nor render a reasonable excuse for his default, shall be subject to a fine not exceeding ten dollars. [L. '54, p. 236, § 79; Cd. '81, § 1779; 2 H. C., § 1528.]

CHAPTER VIII.

JUDGMENTS IN CIVIL ACTIONS IN JUSTICE'S COURT.

§ 1857. (6631.) Judgment of Dismissal.

Judgment that the action be dismissed, without prejudice to a new action, may be entered, with costs, in the following cases:—

1. When the plaintiff voluntarily dismisses the action before it is finally submitted;

2. When he fails to appear at the time specified in the notice, upon continuance, or within one hour thereafter;

3. When it is objected at the trial, and appears by the evidence, that the action is brought in the wrong county; but if the objection be taken and overruled, it shall be cause only of reversal or appeal; if not taken at the trial, it shall be deemed waived, and shall not be cause of reversal. [Cf. L. '54, p. 236, § 80; L. '63, p. 349, § 61; Cd. '81, § 1780; 2 H. C., § 1529.]

See supra, § 47, territorial extent of jurisdiction confined to county limits, which appears to render the provisions of subdivision 3, relating to actions brought in the wrong county, obsolete. See, also, supra, § 1757.

See infra, § 1910, and notes, appeal.

Cited in 1 Wash. 61.

Where an action is brought against a corporation before a justice of the peace, and defendant shows that its principal office is in another county, it is prima facie entitled to a dismissal without prejudice: Knoff v. Puget Sound etc. Colony, 1 Wash. 57.

§ 1858. (6632.) Judgment by Default—Evidence.

When the defendant fails to appear and plead at the time specified in the notice, or within one hour thereafter, judgment shall be given as follows:—

1. When the defendant has been served with a true copy of the complaint, judgment shall be given without further evidence for the sum specified therein;

2. In other cases, the justice shall hear the evidence of the plaintiff, and render judgment for such sum only as shall appear by the evidence to be just, but in no case exceed the amount specified in the complaint. [Cf. L. '54, p. 237, § 81; L. '63, p. 349, § 62; Cd. '81, § 1781; 2 H. C., § 1530.]

See supra, § 411, judgment by default in superior court.

See supra, § 1773, time for appearance.

Cited in 1 Wash. 508, 511; 12 Wash. 549.

After the expiration of an hour from the time mentioned in the summons or notice in justice's court, defendant has no right to obtain a continuance if plaintiff demands judgment. If the justice grants a continuance on request of defendant's agent, but afterward enters judgment, as he should have done, at the request of plaintiff, it is good: McCoy v. Bell, 1 Wash. 504.

After rendering judgment, all control of the judgment is lost to the justice, except to enter it: Id.

If two or more defendants are sued, personal judgment can only be rendered against the one served with process, though complaint alleges they are partners; but judgment by default may be rendered against the joint property of all if they are jointly liable: Id.

Mandamus will not lie to compel a superior court to take cognizance of an appeal from a judgment by default entered by a justice upon complaint and notice personally served on defendant, to which he had failed to plead: State v. Superior Court, 12 Wash. 548.

§ 1859. (6633.) Judgment—Rendition—Entry.

Upon the verdict of a jury, the justice shall immediately render judgment thereon. When the trial is by the justice, judgment shall be entered immediately after the close of the trial, if the defendant has been arrested and is still in custody; in other cases it shall be entered within three days after the close of the trial. [L. '54, p. 237, § 83; Cd. '81, § 1783; 2 H. C., § 1531.]

The judgment rendered by a justice of the peace is not void for want of signing, when his docket shows that all of the proceedings were entered consecutively under the title of the cause and that the justice signed the docket at the conclusion thereof: State v. White, 8 Wash. 230.

§ 1860. (6634.) Tender, Judgment in Case of.

If the defendant, at any time before the trial, offer in writing to allow judgment to be taken against him for a specified sum, the plaintiff may immediately have judgment therefor, with costs then accrued; but if he do not accept such offer before the trial, and fail to recover, on the trial of the action, a sum greater than the offer, such plaintiff shall not recover any costs that may accrue after he shall have been notified of the offer of the defendant, but such costs shall be adjudged against him, and if he recover, deducted from his recovery. But the offer and failure to accept it shall not be given in evidence to affect the recovery, otherwise than as to costs, as above provided. [Cf. L. '54, p. 237, § 84; L. '63, p. 350, § 65; Cd. '81, § 1784; 2 H. C., § 1532.]

§ 1861. (6635.) Setoff Allowed, to What Extent.

When the setoff of the defendant proved shall exceed the claim of the plaintiff, and such excess in amount exceed the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace, the court shall allow such amount as is necessary to cancel the plaintiff's claim, and give the defendant a judgment for costs; but in such case the court shall not render judgment for any further sum in favor of the defendant. [L. '54, p. 232, § 55; Cd. '81, § 1768; 2 H. C., § 1533.]

See supra, § 1789, pleading setoff.

See infra, § 1873, setoff of mutual judgments.

§ 1862. (6636.) Judgment for Costs—Attorneys' Fees.

When the prevailing party is entitled to recover costs in a civil action before a justice of the peace, the justice shall add the amount thereof to the judgment; in case of failure of the plaintiff to recover or of dismissal of the action, the justice shall enter up judgment in favor of the defendant for the amount of his costs; and in case any party so entitled to costs is represented in the action by an attorney, the justice shall include an attorney's fee of five dollars as part of the costs. [Cf. L. '54, p. 337, § 85; Cd. '81, § 1785; 2 H. C., § 1534; L. '93, p. 22, § 1.]

§ 1863. (6637.) Proceedings Where Title to Land is in Issue.

If it appear on the trial of any cause before a justice of the peace, from the evidence of either party, that the title to lands is in question, which title shall be disputed by the other [party], the justice shall immediately make an entry thereof in his docket, and cease all further proceedings in the cause, and shall certify and return to the superior court of the county a transcript of all the entries made in his docket, relating to the cause, together with all the process and other papers relating to the action, in the same manner and within the same time as upon appeal, and thereupon the parties shall file their pleadings, and the superior court shall proceed in the cause to final judgment and execution, in the same manner as if the said action had been originally commenced therein, and the cost shall abide the event of the suit. [L. '54, p. 235, § 69; Cd. '81, § 1868; 2 H. C., § 1483.]

Compensation and fees of justices of the peace: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1662, §§ 4, 5; State ex rel. Banks v. Board of County Commrs., 18 Wash. 160; State ex rel. Porter v. Headlee, 18 Wash. 220; State v. Headlee, 19 Wash. 477.

The constitutional prohibition against diminishing the compensation of any public officer during his term of office does not apply to officers who receive fees for specific services, and accordingly the fees of justices and constables may be reduced by a law passed subsequently to their election and qualification: State v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 445.

§ 1865. (1636.) Fees Where Justice Receives Salary.

In any civil action commenced before or transferred to a justice of the peace receiving a salary, the plaintiff may, at the time of such commencement or transfer, pay to such justice the sum of two dollars, which sum shall be all the fees and charges which any party to such action shall be compelled to pay to such justice up to and including the rendition of judgment in such action, unless process in replevin, attachment or garnishment shall issue therein, in which case the party procuring such process may pay to such justice the sum of one dollar as full payment for the fees and charges of such justice incident to the proceedings under such process; but in case said action is transferred from such justice before final judgment, such justice shall repay to any party making such payments any sum in excess of what said party would have been compelled to pay by the last section. [L. '93, p. 144, § 2.]

Cited in 8 Wash. 233.

§ 1866. (1637.) Compensation Limited to Schedule.

No justice of the peace in any civil action or proceeding shall be entitled to or receive any fees or compensations not provided for by this chapter. [L. '93, p. 144, § 3.]

CHAPTER X.

EXECUTIONS AND PROCEEDINGS THEREON.

§ 1867. (6640.) Stay of Execution.

The execution upon a judgment by a justice of the peace may be stayed in the manner hereinafter provided, upon reasonable notice to the opposite party, and for the following periods of time, to be calculated from the date of the judgment:—

1. If the judgment be for any sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars, exclusive of costs, one month;

2. If it be for more than twenty-five dollars, two months. [L. '54, p. 238, § 86; Cd. '81, § 1786; 2 H. C., § 1535.]

§ 1868. (6641.) Bond for Stay.

To entitle any person to such stay of execution, some responsible person, to be approved by the justice, and not being a party to the judgment, must, within five days after rendering of the judgment, enter into a bond before the justice, to the adverse party, in a sufficient sum to secure the payment of the judgment and costs, conditioned to be void upon such payment, at the expiration of the stay. [L. '54, p. 238, § 87; Cd. '81, § 1787; 2 H. C., § 1536.]

§ 1869. (6642.) Form of Bond.

Such bond shall be signed by the person entering into the same, and may be in the following form:—

Whereas, A B has obtained a judgment before J P, one of the justices of the peace in and for — county, on the — day of —, 18—, against C D, for — dollars, now, therefore, I, E F, acknowledge myself bound to A B in the sum of — dollars this bond to be void if such judgment shall be paid at the expiration of — month after the time it was rendered.

Dated the — day of —, 18—.

—, E. F.

[L. 54, p. 238, § 88; Cd. '81, § 1788; 2 H. C., § 1537.]

§ 1870. (6643.) Levy Against Property of Principal or Bail.

If, at the expiration of such stay, the judgment be not paid, the execution shall issue against both the principal and bail. If the principal do not satisfy the execution, and the officer cannot find sufficient property belonging to him upon which to levy, he shall levy upon the property of the bail, and in his return shall state what amount of money collected by him on the execution was collected from the bail, and the time when the same was received. [L. '54, p. 238, § 90; Cd. '81, § 1790; 2 H. C., § 1539.]

§ 1871. (6644.) Bail may Collect from Defendant.

After the return of such execution, the bail shall be entitled, on application to the justice, to have the judgment, or so much thereof as may have been collected from him in satisfaction of the execution, transferred to his use; and he may collect the same from the defendant by execution, together with the interest at the rate of twelve per cent per annum. [L. '54, p. 238, § 90; Cd. '81, § 1790; 2 H. C., § 1539.]

See supra, § 457, legal rate of interest on judgments.

§ 1872. (6645.) Execution Revoked Where Judgment Stayed.

If judgment be stayed in the manner above provided after an execution has been issued thereon, the justice shall revoke such execution, in the same manner and with like effect as he is hereinafter directed to revoke an execution after an appeal has been allowed; and if the defendant have been committed, shall order him to be discharged from custody. [L. '54, p. 238, § 91; Cd. '81, § 1791; 2 H. C., § 1540.]

§ 1873. (6646.) Setoff of Mutual Judgments.

If there be mutual justices' judgments between the same parties, upon which the time for appealing has elapsed on judgment, on the application of either party and reasonable notice given to the adverse party, one may be set off against the other by the justice before whom the judgment against which the setoff is proposed may be. [L. '54, p. 239, § 92; Cd. '81, § 1792; 2 H. C., § 1541.]

See supra, § 1789, pleading setoff.

See supra, § 1861, setoff allowed, to what extent.

§ 1874. (6647.) Procedure as to Setoff Rendered Before Another Justice.

If the judgment proposed as a setoff was rendered before another justice, the party proposing such setoff shall produce before such justice a transcript of such judgment, upon which there is a certificate of the justice before whom such may be, that it is unsatisfied in whole or in part, and that there is no appeal, and that such transcript was obtained for the purpose of being set off against the judgment to which it is offered as a setoff. The justice granting such transcript shall make an entry thereof on his docket, and all further proceedings on such judgment shall be stayed, unless such transcript be returned with the proper justice's certificate thereon, that it has not been allowed in setoff. [L. '54, p. 239, § 93; Cd. '81, § 1793; 2 H. C., § 1542.]

§ 1875. (6648.) Execution for Balance After Setoff.

If any justice shall set off one judgment against another, he shall make an entry thereof on his docket, and execution shall issue only for the balance which may be due after such setoff. If a justice shall allow a transcript of a judgment rendered by another justice to be set off, he shall file such transcript among the papers relating to the judgment in which it was allowed in setoff. If he shall refuse such transcript as a setoff, he shall so certify on the transcript, and return the same to the party who offered it. [L. '54, p. 239, § 94; Cd. '81, § 1794; 2 H. C., § 1543.]

§§ 1876-1880 ACTIONS AND PROCEEDINGS IN JUSTICES' COURTS. [TITLE XII

§ 1876. (6649.) No Execution After Five Years.

Execution for the enforcement of a judgment in a justice's court may be issued on the application of the party entitled thereto, in the manner hereinbefore described; but after the lapse of five years from the date of the judgment no execution shall issue except by leave of the justice before whom such judgment may be, upon reasonable notice to the defendant. [L. '54, p. 240, § 95; Cd. '81, § 1795; 2 H. C., § 1544.]

§ 1877. (6650.) Execution from Succeeding Justice.

When any judgment shall have been rendered by any justice of the peace, and the same [shall] not be satisfied during his continuance in office, and the docket of such justice shall have been transferred to another justice, or to the successor of the justice rendering such judgment, the justice to whom the docket shall be delivered shall issue execution upon such unsatisfied judgment, in the same manner and with like effect as if he himself had rendered the judgment. [L. '54, p. 240, § 96; Cd. '81, § 1796; 2 H. C., § 1545.]

The word "shall" in brackets was omitted from the later compilations.

§ 1878. (6651.) Execution to Another County.

If the defendant have not goods and chattels in the county in which judgment was rendered sufficient to satisfy the execution, the justice before whom such judgment may be shall, at the request of the party entitled, make out a certified transcript of the same, which may be delivered to a justice in any other county, who shall make an entry thereof in his docket, and issue execution thereon for the amount of the judgment, or such part as shall be unsatisfied, with costs as in other cases. [L. '54, p. 240, § 97; Cd. '81, § 1797; 2 H. C., § 1546.]

This section is in conflict with §§ 450-452, by which the justice's transcript is transferred to the superior court and operates as establishing a general judgment, from which execution may issue as from the superior court.

§ 1879. (6652.) Execution—Direction, Date, etc.

The execution shall be directed (except when it is otherwise especially provided) to the sheriff or any constable of the county where the justice resides; shall be dated on the day it is issued, and made returnable within thirty days from the date; and it shall be against the goods and chattels of the person against whom the same is issued. [L. '54, p. 240, § 98; Cd. '81, § 1798; 2 H. C., § 1547.]

See supra, § 47, territorial extent of jurisdiction.

§ 1880. (6653.) Amount of Debt, etc., to be Stated.

Before any execution shall be delivered, the justice shall state in his docket, and also on the back of the execution, the amount of the debt, or damages and costs, and of the fees due to each person separately, and the officer receiving such execution shall indorse [thereon] the time of the reception of the same. [L. '53, p. 240, § 99; Cd. '81, § 1799; 2 H. C., § 1548.]

The word "thereon" in brackets was omitted from later compilations.

§ 1881. (6654.) Execution may be Renewed.

If an execution be not satisfied, it may, at the request of the plaintiff, be renewed from time to time by the justice who issues the same, or by the justice to whom his docket is transferred, by an indorsement thereon to that effect, signed by him, and dated when the same shall be made. If any part of such execution has been satisfied, the indorsement of renewal shall express the sum due on the execution. Every such indorsement shall renew the execution in full force in all respects for thirty days, and no longer; and an entry of such renewal shall be made in the docket of the justice. [L. '54, p. 240, § 100; Cd. '81, § 1800; 2 H. C., § 1549.]

§ 1882. (6665.) Notice of Sale upon Execution.

The officer, after taking goods and chattels into his custody by virtue of an execution, shall, without delay, give public notice by at least three advertisements, put up at three public places in the county, of the time and place when and where they will be exposed for sale. Such notice shall describe the goods and chattels taken, and shall be put up at least ten days before the day of sale. [L. '54, p. 241, § 101; Cd. '81, § 1801; 2 H. C., § 1550.]

§ 1883. (6656.) Sale upon Execution—Return.

At the time and place so appointed, if the goods and chattels be present for inspection of bidders, the officer shall expose them to sale at public vendue to the highest bidder; he shall return the execution and have the money before the justice, at the time of making such return, ready to be paid over to the persons respectively entitled thereto. [L. '54, p. 241, § 102; Cd. '81, § 1802; 2 H. C., § 1551.]

§ 1884. (6657.) Officer not to Buy at Execution Sale.

No officer shall directly or indirectly purchase any goods or chattels at any sale made by him upon execution, and every such purchase shall be absolutely void. [L. '54, p. 241, § 103; Cd. '81, § 1803; 2 H. C., § 1552.]

§ 1885. (6658.) Execution may Issue Against the Person, When.

If the action be one in which the defendant might have been arrested upon a warrant, an execution against the person of such defendant may be issued, after the return of an execution against his property unsatisfied in whole or in part. An execution against the person may likewise be issued after such return, where the defendant has been arrested upon a warrant and not discharged according to law. [L. '54, p. 241, § 104; Cd. '81, § 1804; 2 H. C., § 1553.]

See notes to § 1795, continuance bond.

§ 1886. (6659.) Garnishees may be Examined Under Oath.

If there be no property found, or if the goods and chattels levied on be not sufficient to satisfy such execution, the officer shall, on demand of the plaintiff, summon, in writing, as garnishees, such persons as may be named to [him by] the plaintiff or his agent, to appear before the justice on the return day of the execution, to answer such interrogatories as may be put to them, touching their liabilities as garnishees, and the like proceedings shall be had thereon before the justice to final judgment as in the proceedings by attachment. [Cf. L. '54, p. 241, § 105; L. '63, p. 354, § 86; Cd. '81, § 1805; 2 H. C., § 1554.]

Words in brackets omitted in laws subsequent to 1854, evidently by inadvertence.
See supra, § 1807 et seq., proceedings in garnishment.

§ 1887. (6660.) Execution for Costs.

Any justice of the peace may issue an execution against the prevailing party, to collect fees and costs for which such party may be liable, after an execution has been first issued against the other party, and returned "no property found." [L. '54, p. 241, § 106; Cd. '81, § 1806; 2 H. C., § 1555.]

§ 1888. (6661.) Claim by Third Person to Property Levied on or Attached.

If any property levied on be claimed by any other person than the defendant in the execution, and the claimant make affidavit of his title or right to the possession of the same, stating the ground of such title or right, and serve the same upon the sheriff or constable while the property is in his possession, said sheriff or constable shall not be bound to keep the property, unless the plaintiff, on demand, indemnify him in the same manner as provided in this act for cases where property held under attachment is claimed by persons not parties to the suit; and when such claim is made, the sheriff or constable shall immediately file the claimant's affidavit with the justice, and notify the plaintiff thereof, and unless the property be at once released, the justice shall set the case for trial upon the allegations of the claimant's affidavit, and the case shall proceed and be determined in the same manner as provided in this act for cases where property held under attachment is claimed by persons not parties to the suit. [Cf. L. '54, p. 241, § 107; L. '77, p. 202, § 6; Cd. '81, § 1807; 2 H. C., § 1556.]

"This act" refers to §§ 1737, 1738, of the Code of 1881.

See supra, §§ 573-577, adverse claims to property attached by sheriff.

See supra, § 1796, claim and delivery.

Cited in 11 Wash. 583; 36 Wash. 180.

The repeal of §§ 1737, 1738, of the Code of 1881, relating to claim of third party to property attached under § 38, Laws of 1886, did not work a repeal of this section: Brotton v. Lumkley, 11 Wash. 581.

In an action upon an indemnifying bond, in which the execution of the bond was admitted, and the other facts necessary to plaintiff's cause of action had been proved, where there was no countervailing testimony on the part of the defendant, it is not error for the court to direct a verdict in favor of plaintiff and charge them to determine the amount of damages: Id.

Upon such bond indemnifying a constable against the claim of a third person to property upon which he has made a levy, the obligors therein are liable to the constable for his costs and attorney's fees incurred in consequence of a suit against him by such claimant for the recovery of the value of the property: Id.

The fact that a portion of the proceeds of an execution sale accrued to the benefit of other judgment creditors than the one giving an indemnifying bond to the officer, does not affect the liability of the one executing the bond: Id.

§ 1889. (6662.) Claimant may Resort to Other Remedies.

Nothing contained in the last section shall be so construed as to prevent the claimant of property levied on by execution from resorting to any legal remedy he may choose to pursue, instead of proceeding in the manner therein prescribed. [L. '54, p. 242, § 108; L. '63, p. 355, § 89; Cd. '81, § 1808; 2 H. C., § 1557.]

CHAPTER XII.

PROCEEDINGS FOR CONTEMPT BEFORE JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

§ 1891. (6715.) When Justice may Punish for Contempt.

In the following cases, and no others, a justice of the peace may punish for contempt:—

1. Persons guilty of disorderly, contemptuous, and insolent behavior towards such justice while engaged in the trial of a cause, or in rendering judgment, or in any judicial proceedings, which tend to interrupt such proceedings or impair the respect due to his authority;

2. Persons guilty of any breach of the peace, noise, or disturbance, tending to interrupt the official proceedings of such justice;

3. Persons guilty of resistance or disobedience to any lawful order or process made or issued by him. [L. '54, p. 248, § 145; Cd. '81, § 1842; 2 H. C., § 1601.]

See supra, § 43, general powers of justices of the peace.

See supra, § 1062, contempts in justices' courts are governed by the provisions of this chapter, and § 1049 et seq. have no application thereto.

§ 1892. (6716.) Punishment for Contempt.

Punishment for contempt may be by fine not exceeding twenty-five dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding two days, at the discretion of the justice, unless otherwise provided by statute. [L. '54, p. 249, § 146; Cd. '81, § 1843; 2 H. C., § 1602.]

§ 1893. (6717.) Hearing—Warrant for Offender.

No person shall be punished for a contempt before a justice of the peace until an opportunity shall have been given to him to be heard in his defense; and for that purpose, the justice may issue his warrant to bring the offender before him. [L. '54, p. 249, § 147; Cd. '81, § 1844; 2 H. C., § 1603.]

§ 1894. (6718.) Summary Arraignment.

If the offender be present, he may be summarily arraigned by the justice, and proceeded against in the same manner as if a warrant had been previously issued, and the offender arrested thereon. [L. '54, p. 249, § 148; Cd. '81, § 1845; 2 H. C., § 1604.]

§ 1895. (6719.) Form of Warrant.

The warrant for contempt may be in the following form:—

The State of Washington, } ss.
 — County.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of said County.

In the name of the state of Washington, you are hereby commanded to apprehend A B, and bring him before J P, one of the justices of the peace of said county, at his office in said county, to show cause why he should not be convicted of a contempt alleged to have been committed on the — day of —, A. D. 18—, before the said justice, while engaged as a justice of the peace in a judicial proceeding.

Dated this — day of —, A. D. 18—.

J P, Justice of the Peace.

[L. '54, p. 249, § 149; Cd. '81, § 1846; 2 H. C., § 1605.]

§ 1896. (6720.) Form of Judgment.

Upon the conviction of any person for contempt an entry thereof shall be made in the docket of such justice, stating the particular circumstances of the offense, and the judgment rendered thereon, and may be in the following form:—

The State of Washington, } ss.
 — County.

Whereas, on the — day of —, A. D. 18—, while the undersigned, one of the justices of the peace of said county, was engaged in the trial of an action between C D, plaintiff, and E F, defendant, in said county, A B, of the said county, did interrupt the said proceedings and impair the respect due to the authority of the undersigned, by (here describe the cause particularly); and whereas, the said A B was thereupon required by the undersigned to answer for the said contempt, and show cause why he should not be convicted thereof; and whereas, the said A B did not show cause against the said charge.—be it therefore ordered that the said A B is adjudged to be guilty, and is convicted of the contempt aforesaid, and is adjudged by the undersigned to pay a fine of — dollars (or be imprisoned, etc.).

Dated this — day of —, A. D. 18—.

J P, Justice of the Peace.

[L. '54, p. 249, § 150; Cd. '81, § 1847; 2 H. C., § 1606.]

§ 1897. (6721.) Warrant of Commitment.

If any person convicted of a contempt be adjudged to be imprisoned, a warrant of commitment shall be issued by the justice. If he be adjudged to pay a fine, a process may be issued to collect the same; and when so collected, it shall forthwith be paid by the justice into the county treasury. [L. '54, p. 250, § 151; Cd. '81, § 1848; 2 H. C., § 1607.]

CHAPTER XIII.

WITNESSES AND DEPOSITIONS.

§ 1898. (6740.) Witnesses may be Subpoenaed Within Twenty Miles.

A subpoena issued by a justice of the peace shall be valid to compel the attendance of a witness in the justice's court, if such witness be within twenty miles of the place of trial. [L. '54, p. 233, § 57; Cd. '81, § 1869.]

The sections in this chapter were omitted from Hill's Code, presumably because of their being in a large measure covered by the provisions of chapters 1 to 4, of title 9, supra.

See supra, § 47, territorial extent of jurisdiction.

See supra, § 1215, witnesses, when compelled to attend.

See supra, § 1217, issuance of subpoena.

§ 1899. (6741.) How and by Whom Served.

A subpoena may be served by any person above the age of eighteen years, by reading it to the witness, or by delivering to him a copy at his usual place of abode. [L. '54, p. 233, § 58; Cd. '81, § 1870.]

See supra, § 1218, service of subpoena.

§ 1900. (6742.) Attachment for Failure to Appear.

Whenever it shall appear to the satisfaction of the justice, by proof made before him, that any person, duly subpoenaed to appear before him in an action, shall have failed, without a just cause, to attend as a witness, in conformity to such subpoena, and the party in whose behalf such subpoena was issued, or his agent, shall make oath that the testimony of such witness is material, the justice shall have the power to issue an attachment to compel the attendance of such witness: Provided, that no attachment shall issue against witness in any civil action, unless his fees for mileage and one day's attendance have been tendered or paid in advance, if previously demanded by such witness from the person serving the subpoena. [L. '54, p. 233, § 59; Cd. '81, § 1871.]

See supra, § 1221, attachment for witnesses.

See supra, §§ 1223, 1224, testimony of prisoner, how secured.

§ 1901. (6743.) Service and Costs in Attachment.

Every such attachment may be directed to any sheriff or constable of the county in which the justice resides, and shall be executed in the same manner as a warrant; and the fees of the officer for issuing and serving the same shall be paid by the person against whom the same was issued, unless he show reasonable cause, to the satisfaction of the justice, for his omission to attend; in which case the party requiring such attachment shall pay all costs. [L. '54, p. 233, § 60; Cd. '81, § 1872.]

See supra, § 1222, service of attachment.

§ 1902. (6744.) Damages for Nonattendance.

Every person subpoenaed as aforesaid, and neglecting to appear, shall also be liable to the party in whose behalf he may have been subpoenaed, for all damages which such party may have sustained by reason of his non-appearance: Provided, that such witness had the fees allowed for mileage and one day's attendance paid, or tendered him, in advance, if demanded by him at the time of the service. [L. '54, p. 234, § 61; Cd. '81, § 1873.]

See supra, § 1220, damages for failure to appear.

§ 1903. (6745.) Party to Action as Witness.

A party to an action may be examined as a witness, at the instance of the adverse party, and for that purpose may be compelled in the same manner, and subject to the same rules of examination, as any other witness, to testify at the trial, or appear and have his deposition taken. [L. '54, p. 243, § 62; Cd. '81, § 1874.]

See supra, § 1226, interrogatories to adversary.

§ 1904. (6746.) Testimony of Party may be Rebutted.

The examination of a party thus taken may be rebutted by adverse testimony. [L. '54, p. 234, § 63; Cd. '81, § 1875.]

See supra, § 1229, testimony not conclusive.

§ 1905. (6747.) Proceedings on Party's Refusal to Testify.

If a party refuse to attend and testify at the trial, or give his deposition before trial, when required, his complaint, answer or reply, may be stricken out, and judgment taken against him. [L. '54, p. 234, § 64; Cd. '81, § 1876.]

See supra, § 1230, penalty for refusing to testify.

§ 1906. (6748.) Examination of Party in His Own Behalf.

A party examined by an adverse party may be examined on his own behalf, in respect to any matter pertinent to the issue. But if he testify to any new matter, not responsive to the inquiries put to him by the adverse party, or necessary to qualify or explain his answer thereto, or to discharge, when his answer would charge himself, such adverse party may offer himself as a witness, and he shall be so received. [L. '54, p. 234, § 65; Cd. '81, § 1877.]

§ 1907. (6749.) When Depositions may be Taken.

Either party, in an action depending before a justice of a peace, may cause a deposition of a witness therein to be taken, when such witness resides, or is about to go more than twenty miles from the place of trial, or is so sick, infirm, or aged, as to make it probable that he will not be able to attend at the trial. [L. '54, p. 234; § 66; Cd. '81, § 1878.]

See supra, § 1231 et seq., depositions in courts of record.

§ 1908. (6750.) How Taken and Certified.

The notice shall be served, and the deposition taken, certified, and returned, according to the law regulating the taking of depositions to be read in the superior court. [L. '54, p. 234, § 67; Cd. '81, § 1879.]

§ 1909. (6751.) How Used on Trial.

The justice shall allow every deposition taken, certified and returned according to law, to be read on the trial of the cause in which it is taken, in all cases where the same testimony, if given verbally before him, could have been received; but no such deposition shall be read on the trial, unless it appears to the justice that the witness, whose deposition is so offered:

1. Is dead, or resides more than twenty miles from the place of trial; or
2. Is unable, or cannot safely attend before the justice, on account of sickness, age, or other bodily infirmity;

3. That he has gone more than twenty miles from the place of trial without the consent or collusion of the party offering the deposition. [L. '54, p. 234, § 68; Cd. '81, § 1880.]

See supra, § 1244, how used on trial.

CHAPTER XIV.

APPEALS FROM JUSTICE'S COURT.

§ 1910. (6754.*) Appeal in Civil Actions.

Any person considering himself aggrieved by the judgment or decision of a justice of the peace in a civil action may, in person or by his agent, appeal therefrom to the superior court of the same county where the judgment was rendered or the decision made: Provided, there shall be no appeal allowed unless the amount in controversy exclusive of costs, shall exceed the sum of twenty dollars. [L. '05, p. 41, § 1. Cf. L. '54, p. 252, § 160; Cd. '81, § 1858; L. '91, p. 66, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1630.]

See notes to next section.

See supra, § 17, appellate jurisdiction of superior court.

See notes to § 1914, infra, transcript, jurisdiction, etc.

The provisions relating to certiorari, as found in 2 Hill's Code, at § 1621 et seq., have been omitted, as repealed by §§ 1001-1012, supra.

Cited in 11 Wash. 15; 12 Wash. 550.

Under § 1857, supra, defendant may take advantage on appeal of any error in overruling its objections, even after a trial upon the merits: Knoff v. Puget S. C. C., 1 Wash. 57.

No appeal lies from a default judgment rendered by a justice of the peace, in a cause where the complaint and notice has been personally served and when no reason exists preventing a determination in the justice's court upon the merits: State v. Superior Court, 12 Wash. 548.

Where a justice of the peace had no jurisdiction of the subject matter, the superior court cannot acquire jurisdiction thereof by an appeal from the justice: State v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 369. See State ex rel. Hibbard v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 631; State ex rel. Washington Dredging & Imp. Co. v. Moore, 21 Wash. 629; State ex rel. Vincent v. Benson, 21 Wash. 571.

The supreme court can acquire no jurisdiction by appeal over an action begun in a justice's court, where the amount in controversy, as determined by the pleadings, is seventy-five dollars, although the justice may have erroneously sustained a demurrer to the counterclaim for damages in the sum of five hundred dollars; as certiorari is the proper remedy for reviewing the ruling of the justice upon the defense interposed: Gabriel v. S. & M. Ry. Co., 7 Wash. 515.

Under a former statute (covering certiorari in justices' courts, § 1621 et seq., 2 Hill's Code), certiorari and appeal from a justice's court were treated as concurrent remedies; either of which could be resorted to by any person conceiving himself injured by error in any process, proceeding or judgment of a justice of the peace: Woodbury v. Henningsen, 11 Wash. 12.

The sureties on appeal bond submit to the jurisdiction of the court and are concluded by its judgment: Cline v. Mitchell, 1 Wash. 24.

There being a remedy by appeal, the superior court has no jurisdiction to grant a writ of review for the purpose of bringing before it the proceedings of a justice's court: State ex rel. Weymouth v. Lockhart, 28 Wash. 460.

Where the action of a justice of the peace in denying a motion for a change of venue is brought before the superior court by the issuance of a writ of review, it is error for the superior court to give judgment upon any other question than the alleged error of the justice in not granting the change of venue: State ex rel. Grady v. Lockhart, 18 Wash. 531.

§ 1911. (6755.) Appeal, How Taken—Bond.

Such appeal shall be taken by filing a notice of appeal with the justice and serving a copy on the adverse party, or his attorney, and unless such appeal be by a county, city, or school district, filing a bond or undertaking, as herein provided, within twenty days after the judgment is rendered, or the decision made. No appeal, except when such appeals are by a county, city, or school district, shall be allowed in any case, unless a bond or an undertaking shall be executed on the part of the appellant, and filed with and approved by the justice, with one or more sureties, in the sum of one hundred dollars, to the effect that the appellant will pay all costs that may be awarded against him on the appeal; or if a stay of proceedings before the justice be claimed, except by a county, city, or school district, a bond of undertaking, with two or more sureties, to be approved by the justice, in a sum equal to twice the amount of the judgment and costs, to the effect that the appellant will pay such judgment, including costs, as may be rendered against him on appeal. [Cf. L. '54, p. 252, §§ 161, 162; L. '81, p. 8, § 1; Cd. '31, § 1859; L. '91, p. 66, § 2; 2 H. C., § 1631.]

See notes to last section.

See notes to § 1914, transcript, jurisdiction, etc.

Cited in 17 Wash. 56; 24 Wash. 606; 41 Wash. 413.

Notice of appeal: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1666, §§ 23-26; State ex rel. Gardner v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 307; State ex rel. Alladio v. Superior Court, 17 Wash. 54; State ex rel. Fleischer v. Superior Court, 20 Wash. 709.

A NOTICE OF APPEAL from a judgment of a justice which notifies the opposite party that the "defendant appeals to the superior court from a judgment heretofore rendered by said justice of the peace against him in the above-entitled cause," is sufficient: State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 223.

Immaterial discrepancies between the notice of appeal filed with the justice and the copy of the same served upon the appellee, will not defeat the appeal: McKilver v. Manchester, 1 W. T. 255.

If a notice of appeal is filed with the justice of the peace, and a copy thereof served upon the adverse party or his attorney, the appeal is taken; but in order to stay the proceedings, it is necessary to file a bond and make an entry of the allowance of appeal in the justice's docket: Seattle Coal etc. Co. v. Lewis, 1 W. T. 488.

DESTRUCTION OF RECORDS.—Where the records in the justice's office are destroyed by fire before the transcript is certified to in the upper court, but after the appeal has been properly taken, plaintiffs are entitled to have the cause docketed in the superior court, in order to show the facts and supply the missing records, after which the appeal should be heard as in other cases: Mullen v. Mullen, 1 W. T. 192.

If the notice of appeal has been given and the bond filed within the time prescribed by law, but the transcript is not filed until after the time limited, the denial of the motion to dismiss the appeal after the transcript was filed, will be sustained, the presumption being that good cause was shown for failure to file the transcript in time: State v. Campbell, 5 Wash. 517.

§ 1912. (6756.) Stay of Proceedings, When.

Upon appeal being taken, and a bond filed to stay all proceedings, the justice shall allow the same, and make an entry of such allowance in his docket, and all further proceedings on the judgment before the justice shall thereupon be suspended; and if in the mean time execution shall have been issued, the justice shall give the appellant a certificate that such appeal has been allowed. [Cf. L. '54, p. 252, § 164; Cd. '81, § 1861; L. '91, p. 67, § 3; 2 H. C., § 1632.]

See notes to last section.

§ 1913. (6757.) Release of Property on Certificate of Appeal.

On such certificate being presented to the officer holding the execution, he shall forthwith release the property of the defendant that may have been taken on execution; and if the body of the defendant have been taken on execution, he shall be discharged from imprisonment. [L. '54, p. 252, § 165; Cd. '81, § 1862; 2 H. C., § 1633.]

§ 1914. (6758.) Transcript—Jurisdiction—Procedure in Superior Court.

Within ten days after the appeal has been taken in a civil action or proceeding, the appellant shall furnish the superior court with a transcript of all the entries made in the justice's docket relating to the case, together with all the processes and other papers relating to the action, and file[d] with the justice, which shall be certified by such justice to be correct; and upon the filing of such transcript, the superior court shall become possessed of the cause, and shall proceed in the same manner, as near as may be, as in actions originally commenced in that court, except as herein otherwise provided. [Cf. L. '54, p. 252, § 166; Cd. '81, § 1863; L. '91, p. 67, § 4; 2 H. C., § 1634.]

See notes to § 1910, appeals.

Cited in 9 Wash. 307; 17 Wash. 56; 25 Wash. 204; 41 Wash. 413.

On appeal from a justice of the peace the constable's return cannot be amended for the purpose of aiding the transcript from the lower court, and showing jurisdiction in the justice: Knoff v. P. S. C. C., 1 Wash. 57.

The supreme court will presume that the superior court did not abuse its discretion in denying a motion to dismiss an appeal from a judgment of a justice of the peace, when there is no showing to the contrary: State v. Campbell, 5 Wash. 517.

A motion to dismiss an appeal from a justice of the peace for failure to file transcript within the time allowed is addressed to the discretion of the superior court; the failure to file the transcript within the time allowed does not deprive the superior court of jurisdiction: State v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 307.

§ 1915. (6759.) Pleadings in Superior Court on Appeal.

The issue before the justice shall be tried in the superior court without other or new pleadings unless otherwise directed by the court. [L. '54, p. 253, § 167; Cd. '81, § 1864; 2 H. C., § 1635.]

See supra, § 1788, amendments.

Cited in 3 Wash. 709.

It is discretionary with the superior court under this and § 1788, supra, to allow amendments to pleadings used before the justice: State v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 705.

Unless issues are changed thereby, amendments in pleadings should be liberally allowed on appeals from justices' courts: Newberg v. Farmer, 1 W. T. 182.

§ 1916. (6760.) Attachment for Certified Transcript.

Upon an appeal being taken and allowed the superior court may, by rule and attachment, compel the justice to make and deliver to the appellant a certified transcript of the proceedings, upon paying to such justice the fees allowed by law for making such transcript, and whenever the court is satisfied that the return of the justice is substantially erroneous or defective, it may, by rule and attachment, compel him to amend the same. [Cf. L. '54, p. 253, § 168; Cd. '81, § 1865; L. '91, p. 67, § 5; 2 H. C., § 1636.]

§ 1917. (6761.) Appeal not to be Dismissed for Defective Bond, When.

No appeal allowed by justice shall be dismissed on account of the bond being defective, if the appellant will, before the motion is determined, execute and file in the superior court such a bond as he should have executed at the time of taking the appeal, and pay all costs that shall have accrued by reason of such defect. [L. '54, p. 253, § 169; Cd. '81, § 1866; 2 H. C., § 1637.]

§ 1918. (6762.) Judgment Against Appellant and Sureties, When.

In all cases of appeal to the superior court if, on the trial anew in such court, the judgment be against the appellant in whole or in part, such judgment shall be rendered against him and his sureties in the bond for the appeal. [L. '54, p. 253, § 170; Cd. '81, § 1867; 2 H. C., § 1638.]

Cited in 1 Wash. 25; 34 Wash. 155. Sureties on appeal bond from justice's court, by signing the bond, submit themselves to the jurisdiction of the court, and, are concluded by the judgment rendered against the principal and themselves without further notice: Cline v. Mitchell, 1 Wash. 24.

§ 1919. (6763.) Appeal in Criminal Cases—Notice.

Every person convicted before a justice of the peace of any offense may appeal from the judgment, within ten days thereafter, to the superior court. The appeal shall be taken by orally giving notice thereof at the time the judgment is rendered, or by serving a written notice thereof upon the justice at any time after the judgment, and within the time allowed for taking the appeal; when the notice is given orally, the justice shall enter the same in his docket. The appellant shall be committed to the jail of the county until he shall recognize or give a bond to the state, in such reasonable sum with such sureties as said justice may require, with condition to appear at the court appealed to, and there prosecute his appeal, and to abide the sentence of the court thereon, if not revised by a higher court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 261, § 177; L. '77, p. 203, § 7; Cd. '81, § 1898; L. '91, p. 67, § 6; 2 H. C., § 1639.]

Cited in 49 Wash. 437. Upon appeal, the superior court has jurisdiction of the cause for trial de novo, and after sustaining a demurrer to the complaint below, may direct a new complaint or information to be filed: State v. Bringgold, 40 Wash. 12. Where the accused, convicted in a police court, has on appeal been discharged from custody on giving bond to appear and prosecute his appeal, he is not entitled to a dismissal of the charge because more than sixty days elapsed without trial after the taking of the appeal, where he made no demand for trial, under section 2120; since he was accorded a speedy trial in the police court, and was bound to demand trial on appeal for his own benefit under this section: State v. Parmeter, 49 Wash. 435.

§ 1920. (6764.) Fees not Required in Advance—Failure to Prosecute, Effect of.

The appellant in a criminal action shall not be required to advance any fees in claiming his appeal, nor in prosecuting the same; but if convicted in the appellate court, or if sentenced for failing to prosecute his appeal, he may be required, as a part of the sentence, to pay the costs of prosecution. If the appellant shall fail to enter and prosecute his appeal, he shall be defaulted on his recognizance, if any was taken, and the superior court may award sentence against him for the offense whereof he was convicted, in like manner as if he had been convicted thereof in that court; and if he be not then in custody, process may be issued to bring him into court to receive sentence. [Cf. L. '54, p. 261, § 179; Cd. '81, § 1900; L. '91, p. 68, § 7; 2 H. C., § 1640.]

In no instance shall any accused person before final judgment be compelled to advance money or fees to secure his right of appeal, or any other constitutional rights guaranteed to him: See Const., Art. I, § 22.

Cited in 49 Wash. 437.

§ 1921. (6765.) Justice to Recognize Witnesses—Transcript.

Upon an appeal being taken in a criminal action, the justice shall require the witnesses to give recognizances for their appearance in the superior court, or if they are not present, indorse their names on the copy of proceeding. He shall, on such appeal, make and certify a copy of the conviction and other proceedings in the case, and transmit the same, together with the recognizance and an abstract bill of the costs, to the clerk of the court appealed to, who shall issue a subpoena for the witnesses, if they are not under recognizance. [Cf. L. '54, p. 261, § 178; L. '73, p. 384, § 197; Cd. '81, § 1899; L. '91, p. 68, § 8; 2 H. C., § 1641.]

§ 1922. (6766.) Appeal from Order for Security to Keep the Peace.

An appeal may be taken from the order of a magistrate requiring a person to give security, to keep the peace, or for good behavior. Such appeal shall be taken in the same manner and subject to the same conditions as appeals from justices' courts in criminal actions, and the magistrate may require recognizances of the appellant and the witness, as in appeals in such criminal actions. [Cf. L. '54, p. 106, §§ 18, 19; L. '63, p. 385, §§ 191, 192; Cd. '81, §§ 1911, 1912; L. '91, p. 68, § 9; 2 H. C., § 1642.]

§ 1925. (6666.) Justice to Issue Warrant of Arrest, When.

Any justice shall, on complaint on oath in writing before him charging any person with the commission of any crime or misdemeanor of which he has jurisdiction, issue a warrant for the arrest of such person, and cause him to be brought forthwith before him for trial. [L. '54, p. 260, § 172; Cd. '81, § 1888; 2 H. C., § 1559.]

See supra, § 46, jurisdiction in criminal cases.

See infra, §§ 1967–1975, proceedings against vagrants.

See infra, § 1999, child may be taken before juvenile court.

See infra, § 5201, jurisdiction, violations of fish laws.

See infra, § 5344, jurisdiction, offenses against sea gulls.

Preliminary complaint, affidavit, warrant, and summary trial: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 765, 766, §§ 54-60; State v. Newton, 29 Wash. 373; State ex rel. Romano v. Yakey, 43 Wash. 15; State v. Yourex, 30 Wash. 611; State ex rel. Belt v. Kennan, 25 Wash. 621; State v. Bringgold, 40 Wash. 12. A justice of the peace is not required under Article I; § 22, of the Constitution, to prepare a copy of the complaint in a criminal action and deliver it to the accused, but the constitutional mandate is sufficiently complied with when the accused is given the complaint and told to make a copy of it if he chooses to do so: State v. White, 8 Wash. 230.

§ 1926. (6667.) Offense Committed in View of Justice, Proceedings.

When any offense is committed in view of any justice, he may, by verbal direction to any constable, or if no constable is present, to any citizen, cause such constable or citizen to arrest such offender, and keep him in custody for the space of one hour, unless such offender shall sooner be taken from such custody by virtue of a warrant issued on complaint on oath. But such person so arrested shall not be confined in jail nor put upon any trial until arrested by virtue of such warrant. And on the return of any warrant issued by him, it shall be the duty of the justice to docket the cause, and unless continuance be granted, forthwith to hear and determine the cause, and either acquit, convict and punish, or hold to bail the offender, if the offense be bailable, and prove to be one which should be tried in the superior court, or in default of bail, commit him to jail, as the facts and law may justify. [L. '54, p. 260, §§ 173, 174; Cd. '81, § 1889; 2 H. C., § 1560.]

Cited in 23 Wash. 88.

§ 1927. (6668.) Either Side may Demand Jury.

In all trials for offenses within the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace, the defendant or the state may demand a jury, which shall consist of six or a less number, agreed [upon] by the state and accused, to be impaneled and sworn as in civil cases, or the trial may be by the justice. When the complaint is for a crime or misdemeanor in the exclusive jurisdiction of the superior court, the justice hears the case as a committing magistrate, and no jury shall be allowed. [L. '54, p. 260, § 174; L. '73, p. 382, § 188; L. '75, p. 51, § 2; Cd. '81, § 1890; L. '91, p. 18, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1561.]

Right to jury trial, see Const., Art. I, § 21, and notes.

See supra, § 1849 et seq., jury in civil cases.

See Const., Art. I, § 21, the legislature may provide for a jury of any number less than twelve in courts not of record.

Cited in 40 Wash. 405.

§ 1928. (6669.) Proceedings on Verdict of Guilty.

Such justice or jury, if they find the prisoner guilty, shall assess his punishment: or if, in their opinion, the punishment they are authorized to assess is not adequate to the offense, they may so find, and in such case the justice shall order such defendant to enter [into] recognizance to appear in the superior court of the county, and shall also recognizance the witnesses, and proceed as in proceedings by a committing magistrate. [Cf. L. '54, p. 260, § 174; Cd. '81, § 1891; L. '91, p. 18, § 2; 2 H. C., § 1562.]

See infra, § 1957, recognizance to appear before superior court.

Cited in 27 Wash. 687.

Upon failure of jury to fix the punishment, the action of the justice in fining the accused, although erroneous, was not void where the justice had jurisdiction of the person and subject matter: Casey, In re, 27 Wash. 686.

§ 1929. (6670.) Plea of Guilty.

The defendant may plead guilty to any offense charged. [L. '54, p. 260, § 174; Cd. '81, § 1892; 2 H. C., § 1563.]

§ 1930. (6671.) Justice to Summon Witnesses.

In all cases arising under this chapter, if the offense charged involve injury to a particular person who is within the county, it shall be the duty of the justice of the peace to summon the injured person, and all others whose testimony may be deemed material, as witnesses at the trial, and to enforce their attendance by attachment if necessary. The fact that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a crime, with all the particularity required in an indictment or information does not render all the subsequent proceedings void, nor make illegal the custody of one committed after an examination of such informal complaint: State v. Newton, 29 Wash. 373.

Upon complaint being made to the justice, he has no power to dismiss the complaint on the ground that it is the business of the prosecuting attorney to investigate the matter and determine whether or not an information shall be filed: State ex rel. Romano v. Yakey, 43 Wash. 15.

and exercise the same authority as in his own county. [L. '54, p. 107, § 28; Cd. '81, § 1922; 2 H. C., § 1583.]

[Cf. L. '54, p. 107, § 29; Cd. '81, § 1923; L. '91, p. 22, § 11; 2 H. C., § 1584.]

See § 1999, infra, complaint against child, to be transferred to juvenile court, when.

If it should appear, upon the whole examination, that no offense has been committed, or that there is not probable cause for charging the defendant with an offense, he shall be discharged; and if in the opinion of the magistrate the complaint was malicious or without probable cause, and there was no reasonable ground therefor, the costs shall be taxed against the party making the complaint. [L. '54, p. 107, § 31; Cd. '81, § 1925; 2 H. C., § 1588.]

See supra, § 1942, taxing costs to complaining witness.

§ 1955. (6701.) Defendant Recognized to Appear Before Justice, When.

See supra, § 765, qualifications of bail.

§ 1957. (6703.) Defendant to be Discharged on Bail, When.

If it appear that a bailable offense has been committed, the magistrate shall order the defendant to enter into recognizance, with sufficient sureties, for his appearance in the superior court, to answer the charge, and if he shall not do so, or the offense be not bailable, he shall commit him to jail. The justice of the peace who committed the person, or the judge of the superior court to which the party is held to answer, may admit to bail in the amount required, and approve the sureties. The recognizance shall be conditioned in effect that the defendant will appear in the superior court to answer said charge whenever the same shall be prosecuted, and at all times, until discharged according to law, render himself amenable to the orders and process of the superior court, and if convicted, render himself in execution of the judgment. [Cf. L. '54, p. 108, §§ 33, 34; Cd. '81, § 1927; L. '91, p. 23, § 13; 2 H. C., § 1591.]

§ 1959. (6705.) Witnesses to be Recognized, When.

When the person arrested is held to bail or committed to jail or forfeits his recognizance, the magistrate shall recognize the witnesses for the prosecution to be and appear in the superior court to which the party is recognized, bailed, or committed, whenever their attendance shall be required. [Cf. L. '54, p. 108, § 36; Cd. '81, § 1929; L. '91, p. 23, § 14; 2 H. C., § 1593.]

§ 1960. (6706.) Witnesses to Recognize With Sureties, When.

If the magistrate shall be satisfied that there is good cause to believe that any such witness will not perform the condition of his recognizance unless

All witnesses required to recognize with or without sureties shall, if they refuse, be committed to the county jail by the magistrate, there to remain until they comply with such orders or be otherwise discharged according to law. Provided, that when the magistrate is satisfied that any witness required to recognize with sureties is unable to comply with such orders, he shall immediately take the deposition of such witness and discharge him from custody upon his own recognizance. The testimony of the witness shall be reduced to writing by the justice or some competent person under his direction, and he shall take only the exact words of the witness; the deposition, except the cross-examinations, shall be in the narrative form, and upon the cross-examination the questions and answers shall be taken in full. The defendant must be present in person when the deposition is taken, and shall have an opportunity to cross-examine the witnesses; he may make any objections to the admission of any part of the testimony, and all objections shall be noted by the justice; but the justice shall not decide as to the admissibility of the evidence, but shall take all the testimony offered by the witness. The deposition must be carefully read to the witness, and any corrections he may desire to make thereto shall be made in presence of the defendant, by adding the same to the deposition as first taken; it must be signed by the witness, certified by the justice, and transmitted to the clerk of the superior court, in the same manner as depositions in civil actions. And if the witness is not present when required to testify in the case, either before the grand jury or upon the trial in the superior court, the deposition shall be submitted to the judge of such superior court, upon the objections noted by the justice, and such judge shall suppress so much of said deposition as he shall find to be inadmissible, and the remainder of the deposition may be read as evidence in the case, either before the grand jury or upon the trial in the court. See Const., Art. II, § 5, all county officers to be elected.

§ 1995. Commitment of Child—Support by Parent.

When any child under the age of eighteen years shall be found to be delinquent or neglected, within the meaning of this act, the court may, at any time, make an order committing the child to some suitable institution, or to the care of some reputable citizen of good moral character, or to the care of some training school or industrial school as provided by law, or to the care of some association willing to receive it, embracing in its objects the purpose of caring for or obtaining homes for dependent, neglected or delinquent children: Provided, such order may be temporary or permanent in the discretion of the court and may be revoked or modified as the circumstances of the case may thereafter require. In any case in which the court shall find a child neglected, dependent or delinquent, it may in the same or in a subsequent proceeding, upon the parent or parents, guardian or other person having custody of said child being duly summoned or voluntarily appearing, proceed to inquire into the ability of such person or persons to support the child or contribute to its support, and if the court shall find such person or persons able to support the child or contribute thereto, the court may enter such order or decree as shall be according to equity in the premises, and may enforce the same by execution, or in any way in which a court of equity may enforce its decrees. [L. '09, p. 672, § 8. Cf. L. '05, p. 37, § 7.]

See supra, § 1983, commitment to state training school.

See infra, §§ 8609, 8610, commitment to truant schools.

§ 1996. Control of Child—Adoption—Property Rights—Jurisdiction of Court Continues.

In any case where the court shall award a child to the care of any association or individual, the child shall, unless otherwise ordered, become a ward and be subject to the guardianship of the association or individual to whose care it is committed; such association shall have authority, with the assent of the court, to place such child in a family home, either temporarily or for adoption. With the written consent of the parents or one of them, or other person having the right, under the laws of this state, to dispose of a neglected or delinquent child, the court may make an order or decree of adoption transferring to any suitable person or persons, willing to receive such child, all the rights of the parent or other guardian. The order of the court made upon such consent shall be binding upon the child and its parents or guardian, or other person, the same as if such persons were personally in court and consented thereto, whether made party to the proceeding or not. The estate or property rights of any child shall not be affected, nor subjected to guardianship by the provisions of this act. The jurisdiction of the court shall continue over every child brought before the court, or committed pursuant to this act, and the court shall have power to order a change in the custody or care of such child, if at any time it is made to appear to the court that it would be for the best interests of the child to make such change. [L. '09, p. 673, § 9.]

§ 1997. Continuance and Probation—Limit of Commitment—Discharge.

In any case of a delinquent or neglected child, the court may continue the hearing from time to time, and may commit the child to the care and guardianship of a probation officer, duly appointed by the court, and may allow said child to remain at its own home, subject to the visitation of the probation officer, such child to report to the probation officer as often as may be required and subject to be returned to the court for further proceedings whenever such action may appear to be necessary, or the court may commit the child to the care and guardianship of the probation officer, to be placed in a suitable family home, in case provision is made by voluntary contribution or otherwise for the payment of the board of such child, until a suitable provision may be made for the child in a home without such payment, or the court may commit the child to a suitable institution for the care of delinquent or neglected children. In no case shall a child be committed beyond the age of twenty-one years. A child committed to such institution shall be subject to the control thereof and the said institution shall have power to parole such child, on such condition as it may prescribe, and the court shall, on the recommendation of such institution, have power to discharge such child from custody, whenever, in the judgment of the court, his or her reformation shall be complete; or the court may commit the child to the care and custody of some association that will receive such child, embracing in its object the care of neglected and delinquent children. [L. '05, p. 37, § 8; L. '09, p. 673, § 10.]

See infra, §§ 8612-8614, parole at truant schools.

See infra, § 8615, incorrigible truants to be committed to training school.

§ 1998. Commitment of Child Under Fourteen—No Jails, Lock-ups, etc.

No court or magistrate shall commit a child under fourteen years of age to a jail, common lock-up or police station; but, if such a child is unable to give bail, it may be committed to the care of the sheriff, police officer, or probation officer, who shall keep said child in some suitable place or house or school of detention provided by the city or county, outside of the inclosure of any jail or police station, or in the care of any association willing to receive it, and having as one of its objects the care of neglected and dependent children. When any child shall be sentenced to confinement in any institution to which adult convicts are sentenced, it shall be unlawful to confine such child in the same building with such adult convicts, or to confine such child in the same yard or inclosure with such adult convicts, or to bring such child into any yard or building in which such adult convicts may be present. [L. '05, p. 38, § 9; L. '09, p. 674, § 11.]

§ 1999. Juvenile Court, Justices' Courts to Transfer Case to—Procedure.

When in any county where a court is held as provided in section 1989 of this chapter, a child under the age of eighteen (18) years is arrested with or without warrant, such child may, instead of being taken before a justice of the peace or police magistrate, be taken directly before such court; or if the child is taken before a justice of the peace, or police magistrate, it shall be the duty of such justice of the peace or police magistrate to transfer the case to such court, and the officer having the child in charge to take the child before that court, and in any case the court may proceed to hear and dispose of the case in the same manner as if the child had been brought before the court upon complaint as hereinbefore provided. In any such case the court shall require notice to be given and investigation to be made as in other cases under this act, and may adjourn the hearing from time to time for such purpose. If upon investigation it shall appear that a child has been arrested upon the charge of having committed a crime, the court, in its discretion, may order such child to be turned over to the proper officers for trial under the provisions of the criminal code. [L. '09, p. 674, § 12. Cf. L. '05, p. 38, § 10.]

§ 2000. Providing Place of Detention in Certain Counties.

In counties of the first and second class it shall be the duty of the proper authorities to provide and maintain at public expense a detention-room, or house of detention, separated or removed from any jail, lock-up or police station, to be in charge of a matron, or other person of good character, wherein all children within the provisions of this act, shall, when necessary, be sheltered. [L. '05, p. 38, § 11; L. '09, p. 675, § 13.]

§ 2001. Construction of Act—Method of Handling Children.

This act shall be liberally construed to the end that its purpose may be carried out, to wit: That the care, custody and discipline of a child shall approximate as nearly as may be that which should be provided by its parents, and that as far as practicable any neglected or delinquent child shall be treated, not as a criminal, but as misdirected and misguided, and needing aid, encouragement, help and assistance. [L. '05, p. 38, § 12; L. '09, p. 675, § 14.]

§ 2002. Officer not Entitled to Fees.

No fees shall be charged or collected by any officer for any proceedings under this act. [L. '05, p. 39, § 13; L. '09, p. 675, § 15.]

§ 2003. Board of Visitation—Appointment, Expenses, and Duties.

In each county the judge presiding over the juvenile court session, as defined in this act, may appoint a board of four reputable citizens, who shall serve without compensation, to constitute a board of visitation, whose duty it shall be to visit as often as once a year all institutions, societies and associations within the county receiving children under this act. Also to visit other institutions, societies and associations within the state receiving or caring for children whenever requested so to do by the judge of the juvenile court: Provided, the actual expenses of such board may be paid by the county commissioners when members thereof are requested to visit institutions outside of the county seat, and no member of the board shall be required to visit any institution outside of the county unless his actual traveling expenses shall be paid as aforesaid. Said visits shall be made by not less than two of the members of the board, who shall go together, or make a joint report; the board of visitors shall report to the court from time to time the condition of children received by or in charge of such associations or institutions. It shall be the duty of every institution, society and association receiving or caring for children to permit any member, or members, of the board of visitation to visit and inspect such institution in all its departments, so that a full report may be made to the court. [L. '09, p. 675, § 16; L. '09, p. 676, § 17.]

§ 2004. Parents Criminally Liable—Responsibility for Children's Delinquency.

In all cases where any child shall be a delinquent or neglected child, as defined by the statutes of this state, the parent or parents or persons having custody of such child, or any other person, responsible for, or by any act encouraging, causing or contributing to, the delinquency or neglect of such child, shall be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars ($1,000), or imprisoned in the county jail for a period not exceeding one (1) year, or punished by both such fine and imprisonment. The court may impose conditions upon any person found guilty under this act, and so long as such person shall comply therewith to the satisfaction of the court the sentence may be suspended: Provided, that no such sentence or execution thereof shall be stayed to exceed a period of two (2) years, and if at the expiration of the stay of such sentence or at such time prior thereto as the court may deem proper, it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court that such person has complied faithfully with the conditions of his probation, or such suspended sentence, the court may suspend such sentence absolutely, in which case such person shall be released therefrom. If, at any time during the stay of execution of any sentence, it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the court that the sentence ought to be enforced, the court shall have the power to revoke the stay of such sentence and execution, and enforce the same, and the term of such sentence shall commence from the date upon which the same is ordered to be enforced. [L. '09, p. 595, § 1. Cf. L. '07, p. 16, § 1.]

CHAPTER VIII.

LIMITATION OF CRIMINAL ACTIONS AND REPEALS.

§ 2005. (6780.) Limitation on Criminal Actions Other than Murder.

Prosecutions for the offenses of murder and arson, where death ensues, may be commenced at any period after the commission of the offense; for offenses the punishment of which may be imprisonment in the penitentiary, within three years after their commission; and for all other offenses, within one year after their commission: Provided, that any length of time during which the party charged was not usually and publicly resident within this state shall not be reckoned within the one and three years respectively: And further provided, that where an indictment has been found, or an information filed, within the time limited for the commencement of a criminal action, if the indictment or information be set aside, the time of limitation shall be computed from the setting aside of such indictment or information. [Cf. L. '54, p. 77, § 10; Cd. '81, § 779; L. '91, p. 46, § 2; 2 H. C., § 1188.]

Cited in 19 Wash. 436.

Under this section, the term "murder" includes both degrees of that offense and manslaughter: State v. Erving, 19 Wash. 435.

A preliminary examination before a committing magistrate constitutes the commencement of a prosecution within the meaning of this section: Id.

§ 2006. Repeal and Amendment of Criminal Statutes—Saving Clause Presumed.

No offense committed and no penalty or forfeiture incurred previous to the time when any statutory provision shall be repealed, whether such repeal be express or implied, shall be affected by such repeal, unless a contrary intention is expressly declared in the repealing act, and no prosecution for any offense, or for the recovery of any penalty or forfeiture, pending at the time any statutory provision shall be repealed, whether such repeal be express or implied, shall be affected by such repeal, but the same shall proceed in all respects, as if such provision had not been repealed, unless a contrary intention is expressly declared in the repealing act. Whenever any criminal or penal statute shall be amended or repealed, all offenses, committed or penalties or forfeitures incurred while it was in force shall be punished or enforced as if it were in force, notwithstanding such amendment or repeal, unless a contrary intention is expressly declared in the amendatory or repealing act, and every such amendatory or repealing statute shall be so construed as to save all criminal and penal proceedings, and proceedings to recover forfeitures, pending at the time of its enactment, unless a contrary intention is expressly declared therein. [L. '01, Ex. Ses., p. 13, § 1.]

See infra, § 2294, saving clause in act of 1909.

CHAPTER IX.

PARTIES TO CRIMINAL ACTIONS.

§ 2007. (6782.) Distinctions Relating to Accessory Abolished.

No distinction shall exist between an accessory before the fact and a principal, or between principals in the first and second degree, and all persons concerned in the commission of an offense, whether they directly counsel the act constituting the offense, or counsel, aid and abet in its commission, though not present, shall hereafter be indicted, tried, and punished as principals. [L. '54, p. 98, § 125; Cd. '81, § 956; 2 H. C., § 1189.]

See infra, § 2260, principal defined.

See infra, § 2787, accessories in arson.

Parties to offenses: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 758, §§ 17-22; State v. Webb, 20 Wash. 500; State v. Duncan, 7 Wash. 336, overruled in State v. Gifford, 19 Wash. 464; State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563;

State v. Nugent, 20 Wash. 522; State v. Boysen, 30 Wash. 338.

This section, in connection with the two following sections, have the effect to do away with the crime of accessory before the fact, but that of accessory after the fact remains in full force, and is specially provided for therein: State v. Jones, 3 Wash. 175, 179.

One charged with murder in the first degree as an accessory before the fact cannot be properly convicted of manslaughter, when the evidence shows that he was not present at the commission of the homicide, and that, if guilty at all, it was in conspiring with others to procure the murder of deceased: State v. Robinson, 12 Wash. 349.

Although a defendant may have entered into a conspiracy to kill, yet where the proof shows that he was also present aiding and abetting whatever was done at the time of the homicide, a conviction of murder in the second degree will not warrant a reversal of the case: State v. Robinson, 12 Wash. 491; State v. Robinson, 12 Wash. 349, distinguished.

An information charging the commission of a crime by an accessory as though he were a principal is proper: State v. White, 10 Wash. 611.

Under this section, a person counseling and abetting a manslaughter may be indicted and punished as a principal: State v. McFadden, 48 Wash. 259.

§ 2008. (6783.) Accessory After the Fact—Who may be.

Every person not standing in the relation of husband or wife, parent or grandparent, child or grandchild, brother or sister, by consanguinity or affinity, to the offender, who, after the commission of any felony, shall harbor, conceal, or maintain, or assist any principal felon or accessory before the fact, or shall give the offender any other aid, knowing that he had committed a felony, or had been accessory thereto before the fact, with intent that he shall avoid or escape from detection, arrest, trial, or punishment, shall be deemed accessory after the fact, and shall, on conviction thereof, be imprisoned in the county jail not more than one year, or be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars. [L. '54, p. 98, § 126; Cd. '81, § 957; 2 H. C., § 1190.]

See notes to § 2007, distinction between accessories abolished.

See infra, § 2261, accessory defined, a later enactment; but see §§ 2304, 2253, and notes.

§ 2009. (6784.) Accessory After Fact Tried Though Principal not.

Every person who shall become an accessory after the fact to any felony may be indicted, convicted, and punished, whether the principal felon shall or shall not have been convicted previously, or shall or shall not be amenable to justice by any court having jurisdiction to try the principal felon. [Cf. L. '54, p. 98, § 127; Cd. '81, § 958; L. '91, p. 65, § 97; 2 H. C., § 1376.]

See notes to § 2007, distinction between accessories abolished.

See infra, § 2017, venue of actions against accessory.

See infra, § 2262, trial of accessories.

§ 2010. (6785.) Who may be Tried and Punished.

Every person, whether an inhabitant of this state, or of any other state, territory, or county, may be tried and punished under the laws of this state for an offense committed by him therein, except when such offense is cognizable exclusively in the courts of the United States. [L. '91, p. 47, § 3; 2 H. C., § 1191.]

See notes to § 2065, sufficiency of information.

See infra, § 2254, persons punishable.

It is no less a crime to murder a foreigner than a citizen at a place within the admiralty jurisdiction of the United States courts: Smith v. United States, 1 W. T. 262.

An Indian who has severed his tribal relations may be prosecuted in the courts of this state, whether the offense was committed within or without the limits of a reservation: State v. Williams, 13 Wash. 335.

An Indian who retains his tribal relations may be prosecuted in the courts of this state for offenses committed at a place not within the limits of an Indian reservation: Id.

A foreign subject accused of murder in the first degree committed within the state jurisdiction is not entitled to a removal of the prosecution to the United States court: State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339.

A territorial district court, in the exercise of its jurisdiction, under the laws of the territory, had jurisdiction to try and punish any person who committed murder on San Juan island: Watts v. Territory, 1 W. T. 288; same, 1 W. T. 411.

A murder, committed on San Juan island in 1869, while the same was in the joint military occupancy of Great Britain and the United States, pursuant to a convention entered into between these powers, pending the final adjustment of the international boundary line, is not an offense committed at a place within the sole and exclusive jurisdiction of the United States, contemplated by the third section of the act of Congress of April 30, 1870: Watts v. Territory, 1 W. T. 288.

§ 2011. (6786.) Term "Person" Defined.

When the term "person" or other word is used to designate the party whose property is the subject of an offense, or against whom any act is done with intent to defraud or injure, the term may be construed to include the United States, this state, or any state or territory, or any public or private corporation, as well as an individual. [L. '54, p. 99, § 134; Cd. '81, § 964.]

See supra, § 146, and notes, term "person" defined.

See infra, § 2063, words and phrases, how construed.

See infra, § 2303, terms, defined.

CHAPTER X.

VENUE OF CRIMINAL ACTIONS.

§ 2012. (6788.) Criminal Actions, Where Commenced.

Except as otherwise specially provided by statute, all criminal actions shall be commenced and tried in the county where the offense was committed. [Cf. L. '79, p. 75, § 10; Cd. '81, § 780; L. '91, p. 47, § 4; 2 H. C., § 1192.]

See infra, notes to § 2055.

See infra, § 2164, venue may be corrected and action certified.

Jurisdiction: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 759, 760, §§ 23-29; State v. Considine, 16 Wash. 358; State v. Cross, 12 Wash. 673; In re Barbee, 19 Wash. 306; In re Nolan, 21 Wash. 395; State v. Melvern, 32 Wash. 7; State v. Gleason, 15 Wash. 509.

Under this section, it is not necessary, in an information charging the commission of murder in a certain county, to also allege the place of death of the deceased, in order to give jurisdiction to the court of the county where the offense was committed: State v. Baldwin, 15 Wash. 15.

Where an information charges the commission of murder in a certain county, but fails to allege where the deceased died as a result of the assault upon him, the introduction of proof showing death in the county in which the assault was made is harmless error: Id.

§ 2013. (6789.) Jurisdiction When Offense Committed in Two or More Counties.

When a public offense has been committed partly in one county and partly in another, or the act or effects constituting or requisite to the consummation of the offense occur in two or more counties, the jurisdiction is in either county. [L. '54, p. 99, § 129; Cd. '81, § 959; 2 H. C., § 1193.]

Cited in 26 Wash. 654.

Place of bringing prosecution: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 761, §§ 30-33; Leschi v. Territory, 1 W. T. 13; McAllister v. Territory, 1 W. T. 360; State v. Hoshor, 26 Wash. 643.

Where there was circumstantial evidence sufficient to justify the jury in finding that the deceased, who was last seen alive in Spokane county, had been killed in that county and his body thrown into a river forming the boundary line and had floated down and lodged on the other side of the river, in Stevens county, the fact that the body was found in Stevens county would not show want of jurisdiction in the superior court of Spokane county, or that the crime had been committed in Stevens county: State v. Fillpot, 51 Wash. 223.

§ 2014. (6790.) Offenses Committed on County Boundaries.

Offenses committed on the boundary line of two counties, or within one hundred rods of the dividing line between them, may be alleged in the indictment or information to have been committed in either of them, and may be prosecuted and punished in either county. [Cf. L. '54, p. 99, § 130; Cd. '81, § 960; L. '91, p. 47, § 5; 2 H. C., § 1194.]

§ 2015. (6791.) Venue of Stolen Property Taken into Another County.

When property taken in one county by burglary, robbery, larceny, or embezzlement has been brought into another county, the jurisdiction is in either county. [L. '54, p. 99, § 131; Cd. '81, § 961; 2 H. C., § 1195.]

See Const., Art. I, § 22, right of accused to trial by jury of county where the offense is alleged to have been committed.

Cited in 14 Wash. 553.

The stealing of neat cattle may be prosecuted either in the county where the property was first taken or in the county into which it was brought by the thief, under this section: State v. Kyle, 14 Wash. 550.

§ 2016. (6792.) Jurisdiction of Homicide in Either County, When.

If any mortal wound is given or poison administered in one county, and death, by means thereof, ensue in another, the jurisdiction is in either. [L. '54, p. 99, § 132; Cd. '81, § 962; 2 H. C., § 1196.]

See notes to § 2015.

§ 2017. (6793.) Venue of Action Against Accessory After the Fact.

An accessory after the fact to a felony may be tried either in the county in which he shall have become an accessory, or in the county in which the felony shall have been committed. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 958; L. '91, p. 47, § 6; 2 H. C., § 1197.]

See supra, § 1940, trial of accessory.

See infra, § 2262, venue and trial of accessories.

§ 2018. (6794.) Change of Venue, Proceedings to Obtain.

The defendant may show to the court, by affidavit, that he believes he cannot receive a fair trial in the county where the action is pending, owing to the prejudice of the judge, or to excitement or prejudice against the defendant in the county, or some part thereof, and may thereupon demand to be tried in another county. The application shall not be granted on the ground of excitement or prejudice other than prejudice of the judge, unless the affidavit of the defendant be supported by other evidence; nor in any case unless the judge is satisfied the ground upon which the application is made does exist. [L. '54, p. 117, § 98; Cd. '81, § 1072; 2 H. C., § 1198.]

See notes to § 209, supra.

Cited in 23 Wash. 291; 40 Wash. 609.

Change of venue: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 761, 762, §§ 34-39; State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 111; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339; State v. Hillman, 42 Wash. 615; State v. Hawkins, 23 Wash. 289; State v. Storemier, 4 Wash. 608; State v. Lyts, 25 Wash. 347.

The allowance or refusal of a motion to change the venue in a criminal case is largely discretionary in the trial court: McAllister v. Territory, 1 W. T. 360. Such motion is addressed to a sound judicial discretion, to be disposed of in furtherance of substantial justice, and an order refusing a change will not be reviewed on appeal, except in cases of gross abuse of discretion: Id.

§ 2019. (6795.) Discretion of Court—Duty of Clerk.

When the affidavit is founded on prejudice of the judge, the court may, in its discretion, grant a change of venue to some other county, or may continue the cause until such time as it can be tried by another judge in the same county; if the affidavit is founded upon excitement or prejudice in the county against the defendant, the court may, in its discretion, grant a change of venue to the most convenient county. The clerk must, upon the granting of a change of the place of trial, make a transcript of the proceedings and order of court, and, having sealed up the same with the original papers, deliver them to the sheriff, who must without delay, deposit them in the clerk's office of the proper county, and make his return accordingly. [Cf. L. '54, p. 117, § 99; Cd. '81, § 1073; L. '91, p. 47, § 8; 2 H. C., § 1199.]

See notes and references to preceding section.

Cited in 23 Wash. 291.

Under this section, vesting the matter of a change of venue in a criminal case entirely in the discretion of the trial court, the supreme court will not reverse a conviction, unless the discretion has been most clearly abused: Edwards v. State, 2 Wash. 291.

§ 2020. (6796.) Change upon Consent of Parties.

The court may, at its discretion, at any time, order a change of venue or place of trial to any county in the state, upon the written consent or agreement of the prosecuting attorney and the defendant. [L. '73, p. 235, § 237; Cd. '81, § 1075; 2 H. C., § 1200.]

§ 2021. (6797.) Recognizance of Defendant and Witnesses on Change.

When a change of venue is ordered, if the offense be bailable, the court shall recognize the defendant, and in all cases the witnesses, to appear at the court to which the change of venue was granted. [Cf. L. '54, p. 117, § 100; Cd. '81, § 1076; L. '91, p. 48, § 9; 2 H. C., § 1201.]

CHAPTER XI.

FORMS OF CRIMINAL ACTIONS.

§ 2022. (6800.) Pleadings—Forms Abolished.

All the forms of pleading in criminal actions heretofore existing are abolished; and hereafter, the forms of pleading, and the rules by which the sufficiency of pleadings is to be determined, are those prescribed herein. [L. '69, p. 240, § 180; Cd. '81, § 1002; 2 H. C., § 1202.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 106; 9 Wash. 97; 11 Wash. 119; 23 Wash. 549, 576; 44 Wash. 208.

The ancient formalities and technicalities of the common law are abolished: State v. Day, 4 Wash. 104, 106; State v. Wright, 9 Wash. 96, 97; State v. Blanchard, 11 Wash. 116, 119; State v. Fillpot, 51 Wash. 226.

In construing an indictment, forms of expression are not to be utterly disregarded, and things are not to be understood as intended to be expressed, for which there appears no adequate or sensible form of expression: Leonard v. Territory, 2 W. T. 381, 393.

§ 2023. (6801.) The Charge must be by Information or Indictment.

No person shall be held to answer in any court for an alleged crime or offense, unless upon information filed by the prosecuting attorney, or upon an indictment by a grand jury, except in cases of misdemeanor before a justice of the peace, or before a court-martial. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 764; L. '91, p. 48, § 10; 2 H. C., § 1203.]

Jurisdiction of justices and other officers: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 760, § 25; State v. Gleason, 15 Wash. 509; State v. Schomber, 23 Wash. 573; State v. Davis, 43 Wash. 116. It is not necessary for the state to avoid by reply any defense set up in a criminal case, as the only pleadings provided by statute on the part of the state are the information or indictment: State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 515.

§ 2024. (6802.*) All Prosecutions may be by Information.

All public offenses may be prosecuted in the superior courts by information. [L. '09, p. 186, § 1. Cf. L. '90, p. 100, § 1; L. '91, p. 214, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1204.]

See notes to Const., Art. I, § 25.

See infra, § 2050, manner of bringing information.

See infra, § 2053, duty of prosecuting attorney.

Filing and formal requisites of information under former laws amended by this section: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1467, §§ 13-25; State v. Melvern, 32 Wash. 7; State v. McGilvery, 20 Wash. 240; State v. De Paoli, 24 Wash. 71; State v. Anderson, 5 Wash. 350; State v. Rose-ner, 8 Wash. 429; State v. Munson, 7 Wash. 239; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514; State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 515; State v. Strange, 50 Wash. 321.

PROSECUTION BY INFORMATION.—The provisions of the law authorizing prosecution of offenses by information are not void, as depriving defendant of his liberty without "due process of law": In re Humason (Wash.), 46 Fed. 388.

Infamous crimes may be prosecuted in this state by information, as the constitution of the United States does not assume to regulate prosecutions under our state laws: State v. Nordstrom, 7 Wash. 506; Lybarger v. State, 2 Wash. 552; see State v. Baldwin, 15 Wash. 15, 18; and a preliminary examination on a charge before one justice of the peace, after the dismissal of a charge before another justice without an examination, is sufficient to found an information upon: State v. Nordstrom, supra.

Where an information is set aside it is proper to permit a new information to be filed without a preliminary examination: State v. Williams, 13 Wash. 335, 337.

Our Constitution, Article I, § 25, unlike that of California and some other states, does not make a preliminary examination necessary: State v. Williams, supra; but see State v. Anderson, 5 Wash. 350.

No affidavit is required as a basis for an information when the information itself recites sufficient facts to bring the case within the provisions of § 1, subdivision 4, Laws of 1890, page 100: Hammond v. State, 3 Wash. 171.

Felonies can only be tried in the superior court and upon indictment or information, and if any act conferred jurisdiction thereof on municipal courts, it would be unconstitutional: In re Barbee, 19 Wash. 306.

Where an information is lost, the substitution of a new information at the trial, which is given a new case number, is not an institution of a new prosecution: State v. McFadden, 42 Wash. 1.

After a mistrial in a criminal case, the court may permit the prosecution to file a new information: State v. Williams, 43 Wash. 505.

Entry of a plea of not guilty waives the right to object to an information on the ground that it was filed while a grand jury was in session: State v. Strange, 50 Wash. 321.

CHAPTER XII.

INDICTMENTS AND PROCEEDINGS BY INFORMATION.

§ 2025. (6805.) Challenge to Panel of Grand Jurors.

Challenges to the panel of grand jurors shall be allowed to any person in custody or held to answer for an offense, when the clerk has not drawn from the jury box the requisite number of ballots to constitute a grand jury, or when the drawing was not done in the presence of the proper officers; and such challenges shall be in writing and verified by affidavit, and proved to the satisfaction of the court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 110, § 45; Cd. '81, § 977; L. '91, p. 48, § 11; 2 H. C., § 1205.]

See supra, § 91, grand jury, defined.

See supra, §§ 90-111, drawing jurors, etc.

See supra, § 104, grand jury, how drawn.

Grand jury: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1325, 1326, §§ 1-8.

It is a mere irregularity, not prejudicial to the rights of the defendant, for the court to order a venire for additional jurors before the regular panel is exhausted, especially when the record shows that none of the existing jurors or talesmen were drawn as trial jurors, until the regular panel is entirely exhausted: Blanton v. State, 1 Wash. 265.

§ 2026. (6806.) Challenge to Individual Grand Juror.

Challenges to individual grand jurors may be made by such person for reason of want of qualification to sit as such juror, and, when, in the opinion of the court, a state of mind exists in the juror, such as would render him unable to act impartially and without prejudice. [L. '54, p. 110, § 46; Cd. '81, § 978; 2 H. C., § 1206.]

See supra, § 94 et seq., qualifications of jurors.

See supra, § 97, effect of disqualification of member.

See infra, § 2373, grand juror acting after challenge allowed.

If objection be not taken to a juror at the time of impaneling the jury, the same is waived: Clarke v. Territory, 1 W. T. 68; Blanton v. State, 1 W. T. 265.

jury, the defendant has no right to raise the objection by motion to quash the indictment, if he is substantially in the position of one contemplated by § 2029: Id.

After waiving his right to object to the § 2027. (6807.) Venire When Panel Discharged.

If a challenge to the panel be allowed, the panel shall be discharged, and the court may order the sheriff to summon from the bystanders and the body of the county a sufficient number of persons to act as grand jurors. [Cf. L. '54, p. 110, § 47; Cd. '81, § 979; L. '91, p. 48, § 12; 2 H. C., § 1207.]

See supra, § 107, when venire set aside.

See infra, § 2041, resummoning from county and from bystanders.

Court should terminate proceedings at any stage of the case when it is discovered that the impaneling of the grand jurors was null and void: Yelm Jim v. Territory, 1 W. T. 63; Clarke v. Territory, 1 W. T. 68.

Order of court to summon from bystanders to fill the panel is good, if the qualifications of those selected are such as the law requires: Yelm Jim v. Territory, supra; Clarke v. Territory, supra. Temporary absence from the state does not disqualify one from acting as a juror: Id.

§ 2028. (6808.) Discharge of Juror—Panel to be Filled.

If a challenge to an individual juror be allowed, he shall be discharged, and the panel filled. [L. '54, p. 110, § 48; Cd. '81, § 980; 2 H. C., § 1208.]

See supra, § 110, venire to fill vacancies and open venire.
